4 So the people ſent to Shiloh, that they might bring from thence the ark of the covenant of the LORD of hoſts, which dwelleth between the cherubims: and the two ſons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were there, with the ark of the covenant of God.

5 And when the ark of the covenant of the LORD came into the camp, all Iſrael ſhouted with a great ſhout, ſo that the earth rang again.

6 And when the Philiſtines heard the noiſe of the ſhout, they ſaid, What meaneth the noiſe of this great ſhout in the camp of the Hebrews? And they underſtood that the ark of the LORD was come into the camp.

7 And the Philiſtines were afraid, for they ſaid, God is come into the camp.

Ver. 18. It is the Lord, &c.] He humbly acknowledged God's juſtice, and ſubmitted to his ſentence (as many of the fathers think) with a truly penitent heart: for this ſentence, pronounced by an artleſs child, who did not know the voice of the Lord, till inſtructed by him, was more terrible to him, than the meſſage before delivered by the prophet, and deeply affected him.

NOTES on Chap. IV.

Ver. 1, Eben-ezer.] This place lay on the north borders of Judah. It is here mentioned prophetically; for it had not this name, till about twenty years after, when Samuel had defeated the Philiſtines here.

Ver. 4. The people ſent to Shiloh, that they might bring from thence the ark.] They ſeem to have done this, in imitation of Joſhua, marching with the ark againſt Jericho; for which he had a divine authority, but they had none.

Ver. 7. God is come into the camp.] Meaning the ark, the ſymbol of God's preſence; which, perhaps, they imagined the Iſraelites worſhipped as their God.

Before Chriſt 1141.

And they ſaid, Wo unto us; for there hath not been ſuch a thing heretofore.

8 Wo unto us: who ſhall deliver us out of the hand of theſe mighty Gods? theſe are the Gods that ſmote the Egyptians with all the plagues in the wilderneſs.

9 Be ſtrong, and quit yourſelves like men, O ye Philiſtines, that ye be not ſervants unto the Hebrews, as they have been to you: quit yourſelves like men, and fight.

10 ¶ And the Philiſtines fought, and Iſrael was ſmitten, and they fled every man into his tent: and there was a very great ſlaughter, for there fell of Iſrael thirty thouſand footmen.

11 And the ark of God was taken; and the two ſons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas were ſlain.

12 ¶ And there ran a man of Benjamin out of the army, and came to Shiloh the ſame day with his clothes rent, and with earth upon his head.

13 And when he came, lo, Eli ſat upon a ſeat by the way-ſide, watching: for his heart trembled for the ark of God. And when the man came into the city and told it, all the city cried out.

14 And when Eli heard the noiſe of the crying, he ſaid, What meaneth the noiſe of this tumult? And the man came in haſtily, and told Eli.

15 Now Eli was ninety and eight years old; and his eyes were dim, that he could not ſee.

16 And the man ſaid unto Eli, I am he that came out of the army, and I fled to day out of the army. And he ſaid, What is there done, my ſon?

Before Chriſt 1141.

17 And the meſſenger anſwered and ſaid, Iſrael is fled before the Philiſtines, and there hath been alſo a great ſlaughter among the people, and thy two ſons alſo, Hopni and Phinehas, are dead, and the ark of God is taken.

18 And it came to paſs when he made mention of the ark of God, that he fell from off the ſeat backward by the ſide of the gate, and his neck brake, and he died: for he was an old man, and heavy. And he had judged Iſrael forty years.

19 ¶ And his daughter in law Phinehas wife was with child near to be delivered: and when ſhe heard the tidings that the ark of God was taken, and that her father in law, and her huſband were dead, ſhe bowed herſelf and travailed; for her pains came upon her.

20 And about the time of her death, the women that ſtood by her, ſaid unto her, Fear not, for thou haſt borne a ſon. But ſhe anſwered not, neither did ſhe regard it.

21 And ſhe named the child I-chabod, ſaying, The glory is departed from Iſrael: (becauſe the ark of God was taken, and becauſe of her father in law and her huſband)

22 And ſhe ſaid, The glory is departed from Iſrael: for the ark of God is taken.

1 The Philiſtines having brought the ark into Aſhdod,

Ver. 8. Who ſhall deliver us out of the hand of thoſe mighty gods.] Theoderet renders theſe words, mighty gods, the ſtrong god; which agrees better with the foregoing exclamation, God is come into the camp.

Ver. 12. With his clothes rent, and with earth upon his head.] According to the cuſtomary manner of expreſſing any great calamity, and uſed by other nations, beſides the Hebrews; thus, Virgil, in his 12th Æneid, repreſents Latinus in diſtreſs;

——— it ſciſſa veſte Latinus,
Canitiem immundo perfuſam pulvere turpans,

For other examples of the like cuſtom, ſee Joſh. vii. 6 Job. ii. 12, and Ezek. xxvii. 30.

Ver. 18. When he made mention of the ark—he fell off, &c.] Eli, though too indulgent a father, was not ſo affected at the death of his ſons, and the ſlaughter of the people, as at hearing that the ark of God was taken; this was a ſtroke too heavy for him to bear, he ſunk under it, dropped from his ſeat, and expired.

Ver. 21. I-chabod,] Inglorious; for the reaſon given in the text, the glory is departed from Iſrael.

Before Christ 1141.

Aſhdod, ſet it in the Houſe of Dagon. 3 Dagon is ſmitten down and cut in pieces, and they of Aſhdod ſmitten with emerods.

AND the Philiſtines took the ark of God, and brought it from Eben-ezer unto Aſhdod.

2 When the Philiſtines took the ark of God, they brought it into the houſe of Dagon, and ſet it by Dagon.

3 ¶ And when they of Aſhdod aroſe early on the morrow, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the earth, before the ark of the LORD: and they took Dagon, and ſet him in his place again.

4 And when they aroſe early on the morrow morning, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the ground, before the ark of the LORD: and the head of Dagon, and both the palms of his hands were cut off upon the threſhold, only the ſtump of Dagon was left to him.

5 Therefore neither the prieſts of Dagon, nor any that come into Dagons houſe, tread on the threſhold of Dagon in Aſhdod unto this day.

6 But the hand of the LORD was heavy upon them of Aſhdod, and he deſtroyed them, and ſmote them with emerods, even Aſhdod and the coaſts thereof.

7 And when the men of Aſhdod ſaw that it was ſo, they ſaid, The ark of the God of Iſrael ſhall not abide with us: for his hand is ſore upon us, and upon Dagon our God.

Before Christ 1141.

8 They ſent therefore, and gathered all the lords of the Philiſtines unto them, and ſaid, What ſhall we do with the ark of the God of Iſrael? And they anſwered, Let the ark of the God of Iſrael be carried about unto Gath. And they carried the ark of the God of Iſrael about thither.

9 And it was ſo, that after they had carried it about, the hand of the LORD was againſt the city with a very great deſtruction: and he ſmote the men of the city both ſmall and great, and they had emerods in their ſecret parts.

10 Therefore they ſent the ark of God to Ekron: and it came to paſs as the ark of God came to Ekron, that the Ekronites cried out, ſaying, They have brought about the ark of the God of Iſrael to us, to ſlay us and our people.

11 So they ſent and gathered together all the lords of the Philiſtines, and ſaid, Send away the ark of the God of Iſrael, and let it go again to his own place, that it ſlay us not, and our people: for there was

Notes on Chap. V.

Ver. 2. The Philiſtines—brought it into the houſe of Dagon.] It was cuſtomary with the heathens, to carry in triumph, the gods of vanquiſhed nations.

Ver. 3. Behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face, &c.] They found him lying proſtrate before the ark, in a poſture of the moſt humble adoration; acknowledging the God of Iſrael to be above all gods.

Ver. 4. The head of Dagon, &c.] Dagon, probably, was placed on ſome pedeſtal or altar, from whence he was now thrown down. Thus Jehovah ſhewed, that there was no God beſides: notwithſtanding the Philiſtines were ſo bigotted to their fooliſh deity, that inſtead of deſpiſing him, for not being able to defend himſelf, they even reverenced his threſhold; conſidering it as conſecrated, by having touched the idol.

Only the ſtump of Dagon was left.] In the Hebrew, it is only Dagon was left to him; that is, ſay interpreters, nothing but the form of a fiſh remained; all that reſembled a man being broken off.

Ver. 5. Neither the prieſts of Dagon, nor any—tread upon the threſhold.] As if the mere touch of their idol, had infuſed a kind of divinity into it. Such was the blindneſs and ſuperſtition of other heathen nations. Among the Romans, the threſhold was conſecrated to the goddeſs Veſta; and thoſe belonging to the temples, were always held ſacred. It is ſaid, that ſome moſques in Perſia, have their threſholds covered with ſilver plates, and that the people are not allowed to tread upon them; for this would be a crime not to be expiated, but by ſevere pains and penalties.

Ver. 6. Emerods.] Some take this for a dyſentery; others, for what is called procidentia ani; ſome for a cancer; and others, for ſomething venereal in that part. It is ſaid, Pſalm lxxviii. 66. God ſmote his enemies in the hinder parts. Our tranſlation, therefore, is not amiſs; which ſuppoſes their malady, to have been ſuch painful tumours in the fundament, as very frequently turn into ulcers. Emerods, is probably a contraction of Hemorrhoides, or piles.

And when they arose early on the morrow morning, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the ground before the ark of the Lord: and the head of Dagon, & both the palms of his hands were cut off upon the threshold, only the stump of Dagon was left to him. I. Sam. Chap. V. Ve. 4.

CHAP. VI.

1 After ſeven months the Philiſtines take counſel how to ſend back the ark. 19 The people are ſmitten for looking into the ark.

AND the ark of the LORD was in the country of the Philiſtines ſeven months.

1140. 2 And the Philiſtines called for the prieſts and the diviners, ſaying, What ſhall we do to the ark of the LORD? tell us wherewith we ſhall ſend it to his place.

3 And they ſaid, If ye ſend away the ark of the God of Iſrael, ſend it not empty; but in any wiſe return him a treſpaſs-offering: then ye ſhall be healed, and it ſhall be known to you, why his hand is not removed from you.

4 Then ſaid they, What ſhall be the treſpaſs-offering which we ſhall return to him? They anſwered, Five golden emerods, and five golden mice, according to the number of the lords of the Philiſtines: for one plague was on you all, and on your lords.

Before Chriſt 1140.

5 Wherefore ye ſhall make images of your emerods, and images of your mice that mar the land, and ye ſhall give glory unto the God of Iſrael: peradventure he will lighten his hand from off you, and from off your gods, and from off your land.

6 Wherefore then do ye harden your hearts as the Egyptians and Pharaoh hardened their hearts? when he had wrought wonderfully among them, did they not let the people go, and they departed?

7 Now therefore make a new cart, and take two milch-kine, on which there hath come no yoke, and tie the kine to the cart, and bring their calves home from them:

8 And take the ark of the LORD, and lay it upon the cart, and put the jewels of gold which ye return him for a treſpaſs-offering, in a coffer by the ſide thereof, and ſend it away that it may go.

9 And ſee, if it goeth up by the way of his own coaſt to Beth-ſhemeſh, then he hath done us this great evil: but if not then we ſhall know that it is not his hand

Ver. 12. The men that died not.] Some were ſtricken with the peſtilence as ſoon as the ark came thither.

The cry of the city went up to heaven.] An hyperbolical expreſſion, ſo great was their pain beyond deſcription: Thus Virgil

Ferit aurea ſidera clamor; and Sublatus ad æthera clamor.

NOTES on Chap. VI.

Ver. 4. Five golden emerods.] It was a cuſtom with the ancient heathens, to conſecrate unto their gods ſuch monuments of their deliverances, as repreſented the evils from which they were freed: thus mariners dedicated to Iſis and Neptune, a Table, which contained the image of the ſhip-wreck they had eſcaped. Slaves and captives, when they had regained their liberty, offered their chains, &c. Travellers tell us, that among the Indians, when any pilgrims go to a pagod, for the cure of any diſeaſe, he brings the figure of the member afflicted, either in gold, ſilver, or copper, according to his quality, and offers it to the idol, in the moſt ſubmiſſive manner.

Five golden mice.] It is neceſſary to remark, that the Philiſtines were alſo plagued with mice, which, in a prodigious manner, infeſted their country, and had eaten up their corn, and other fruits of the earth; therefore they made images of them likewiſe.

Ver. 7. Take two milch kine, on which there hath come no yoke.] By this they would know, whether the hand of God was in what had befallen them. As they were unacquainted with the yoke, it would be a wonder, if they ſhould go jointly together, without running counter to each other; and, as they were milch kine, it would be a wonder too, if they did not return to their calves which were left behind; and a ſtill greater wonder, if, when there were ſo many different ways to take, they ſhould go directly forward without deviation to Judah. It ſeems to have been a received opinion among the heathens, that in the motions of an heifer or cow, that was never yoked, there was ſomething ominous, and declarative of the divine will; on which opinion, is founded the anſwer of the Delphic oracle to Cadmus:

Bos tibi, Phœbus ait, ſolis occurret in agris,
Nullum paſſa jugum, cervique immunis aratri;
Hac duce carpe vias.

that ſmote us; it was a chance that happened to us.

10 ¶ And the men did ſo: and took two milch-kine, and tied them to the cart, and ſhut up their calves at home:

11 And they laid the ark of the LORD upon the cart, and the coffer with the mice of gold, and the images of their emerods.

12 And the kine took the ſtraight way to the way of Beth-ſhemeſh, and went along the high-way, lowing as they went, and turned not aſide to the right hand or to the left; and the lords of the Philiſtines went after them unto the border of Beth-ſhemeſh.

13 And they of Beth-ſhemeſh were reaping their wheat-harveſt in the valley: and they lifted up their eyes, and ſaw the ark, and rejoiced to ſee it.

14 And the cart came into the field of Joſhua a Beth-ſhemite, and ſtood there, where there was a great ſtone: and they clave the wood of the cart, and offered the kine a burnt-offering unto the LORD.

15 And the Levites took down the ark of the LORD, and the coffer that was with it, wherein the jewels of gold were, and put them on the great ſtone: and the men of Beth-ſhemeſh offered burnt-offerings, and ſacrificed ſacrifices the ſame day unto the LORD.

16 And when the five lords of the Philiſtines had ſeen it, they returned to Ekron the ſame day.

17 And theſe are the golden emerods which the Philiſtines returned for a treſpaſs-offering unto the LORD; for Aſhdod one, for Gaza one, for Aſkelon one, for Gath one, for Ekron one.

Before Christ 1140.

18 And the golden mice, according to the number of all the cities of the Philiſtines, belonging to the five lords, both of fenced cities, and of country villages, even unto the great ſtone of Abel, whereon they ſet down the ark of the LORD: which ſtone remaineth unto this day, in the field of Joſhua the Beth-ſhemite.

19 ¶ And he ſmote the men of Beth-ſhemeſh, becauſe they had looked into the ark of the LORD, even he ſmote of the people fifty thouſand and threeſcore and ten men: and the people lamented, becauſe the LORD had ſmitten many of the people with a great ſlaughter.

20 And the men of Beth-ſhemeſh ſaid, Who is able to ſtand before this holy LORD God? and to whom ſhall he go up from us?

Ver. 12. The kine took the ſtraight way to the way of Beth-ſhemeſh.] Though they had no viſible director, they took the direct road to Beth-ſhemeſh, without the leaſt deviation, lowing all the way they went, after their calves that had been taken from them; and to whom they would, no doubt, have returned, had they not been guided by an inviſible power.

Ver. 14. And ſtood there.] This was another miraculous particular, that the kine, as ſoon as they came to Beth-ſhemeſh, which was a city of the prieſts, ſhould ſtop, and refuſe to go any farther; it being their duty to take care of the ark.

Ver. 19. Fifty thouſand and threeſcore and ten men.] The words in Hebrew are, threeſcore and ten men, fifty thouſand men; which Bochart has thus very naturally explained; he ſmote threeſcore and ten men, fifty out of a thouſand.

Ver. 21. Kirjath-jearim.] As this city ſtood upon an hill, and was a ſtrong place, they thought the ark would here be ſecure, in caſe of any new incurſions.

3 ¶ And Samuel ſpake unto all the houſe of Iſrael, ſaying, If ye do return unto the Lord with all your hearts, then put away the ſtrange gods, and Aſhtaroth from among you, and prepare your hearts unto the Lord, and ſerve him only: and he will deliver you out of the hand of the Philiſtines.

4 Then the children of Iſrael did put away Baalim, and Aſhtaroth, and ſerved the Lord only.

5 And Samuel ſaid, Gather all Iſrael to Mizpeh, and I will pray for you unto the Lord.

6 And they gathered together to Mizpeh, and drew water, and poured it out before the Lord, and faſted on that day, and ſaid there, We have ſinned againſt the Lord. And Samuel judged the children of Iſrael in Mizpeh.

7 And when the Philiſtines heard that the children of Iſrael were gathered together to Mizpeh, the lords of the Philiſtines went up againſt Iſrael: and when the children of Iſrael heard it, they were afraid of the Philiſtines.

Before Chriſt 1120.

8 And the children of Iſrael ſaid to Samuel, Ceaſe not to cry unto the Lord our God for us, that he will ſave us out of the hand of the Philiſtines.

9 ¶ And Samuel took a ſucking lamb, and offered it for a burnt-offering wholly unto the Lord; and Samuel cried unto the Lord for Iſrael, and the Lord heard him.

10 And as Samuel was offering up the burnt-offering, the Philiſtines drew near to battel againſt Iſrael: but the Lord thundered with a great thunder on that day upon the Philiſtines, and diſcomfited them, and they were ſmitten before Iſrael.

11 And the men of Iſrael went out of Mizpeh, and purſued the Philiſtines, and ſmote them, until they came under Beth-car.

12 Then Samuel took a ſtone, and ſet it between Mizpeh, and Shen, and called the name of it Eben-ezer, ſaying, Hitherto hath the Lord helped us.

13 ¶ So the Philiſtines were ſubdued, and they came no more into the coaſt of Iſrael:

Notes on Chap. VII.

Ver. 1. And brought it into the houſe of Abinadab.] If it be enquired, why they did not carry the ark to Shiloh, its ancient ſeat; the anſwer is, that the Philiſtines had deſtroyed that place; and the tabernacle, upon the death of Eli, was removed to Nob, where it remained till the death of Samuel.

Ver. 2. It was twenty years, &c.] The ark remained there till David's time, about forty-ſix years; but idolatry had taken ſuch deep root in the hearts of the Iſraelites, that for twenty of thoſe years, they did not regard the loſs of the ark.

Ver. 6. Drew water and poured it out before the Lord.] By way of libation, which was cuſtomary in ancient time, and conſiſted afterwards of honey and wine: but Grotius ſays, the effuſion of water ſignifies tears, and the Chaldee paraphraſe interprets it, They poured out their hearts in penitence, as water before the Lord.

Ver. 9. Offered it for a burnt-offering.] As a prophet, he had authority to build an altar any where, and his offering was accepted; ſo Gideon and Manoah were warranted, to offer extraordinary ſacrifices, in places which God had not before appointed.

Ver. 10. The Lord thundered with a great thunder, &c.] The Philiſtines propoſed to fall upon the Iſraelites, at a time when they were gathered together before the Lord, and probably deſtitute of arms; but God attacked them with artillery from heaven, which they were unable to reſiſt. Joſephus gives us this account of the whole tranſaction.—In ſome places, God ſhook the foundation of the earth, under the feet of the Philiſtines, ſo that they could not ſtand without ſtaggering; in others, it opened and ſwallowed them up alive, while the claps of thunder, and flaſhes of fire, were ſo violent, that their very eyes and limbs were ſo ſcorched, they could neither ſee their way, nor handle their arms. Perhaps the invention of Homer, who repreſents Jupiter terrifying the Grecian army, by thunder and lightning, aroſe from hence.

Ver. 12. Eben-ezer.] The ſtone of help. This total overthrow of the Philiſtines, ended the forty years tyranny, mentioned Judg. xiii. 1.

15 And Samuel judged Iſrael all the days of his life.

16 And he went from year to year in circuit to Beth-el, and Gilgal, and Mizpeh, and judged Iſrael in all thoſe places.

17 And his return was to Ramah; for there was his houſe: and there he judged Iſrael, and there he built an altar unto the LORD.

NOTES on Chap. VIII.

Ver. 3. But turned aſide after lucre, and took bribes, and perverted judgment.] It may be made a queſtion, why God did not puniſh Samuel, as he did Eli, for the wickedneſs of his ſons. But to this, it may be anſwered, that Samuel's ſons were not ſo bad as Eli's; ſince taking bribes privately, was not like openly profaning the tabernacle, and rendering the worſhip of God contemptible.

Ver. 11. This will be the manner of the king, &c.] In the ſubſequent deſcription, Samuel does not define, what are the juſt rights of kings, (for their rights are quite otherwiſe deſcribed, in that part of the Moſaic law which concerns the royal duty, Deut. xvii. 15, 16, &c.) but deſcribes only ſuch practices, as the kings of the eaſt, who were deſpotic princes, and looked upon their ſubjects as ſo many ſlaves, were generally accuſtomed to; and the prophet had ſome reaſon, to draw a king in thoſe black colours, becauſe the Iſraelites deſired ſuch an one as their neighbours had, who were all under the dominion of their princes.

3 And the aſſes of Kiſh, Sauls father, were loſt; and Kiſh ſaid to Saul his ſon, Take now one of the ſervants with thee, and ariſe, go ſeek the aſſes.

4 And he paſſed through mount Ephraim, and paſſed through the land of Shaliſha, but they found them not: then they paſſed through the land of Shalim, and there they were not: and he paſſed through the land of the Benjamites, but they found them not.

5 And when they were come to the land of Zuph, Saul ſaid to his ſervant that was with him, Come, and let us return;

Ver. 19. Nay, but we will have a king over us.] Samuel's deſcription of the government of the eaſtern kings, did not deter them from perſiſting in their deſires; they peremptorily demanded a king, though Samuel told them, that this demand was a rejection of the government of God.

Ver. 20. That we alſo may be like all the nations.] Strange infatuation! They could not diſcern their ſingular felicity, in having God for their king and governor, who never failed to ſuccour them in the time of need. It is plain, their motives for aſking a king, were vanity and ambition; they thought themſelves inferior to other nations, becauſe they were deſtitute of the pageantry of ſtate. Their ſenſual deſires could not be ſatiſfied, unleſs they ſaw a prince ſet over them, ſhining in gold and jewels, living in a ſumptuous palace, attended with guards richly habited, and appearing in great ſtate; in which they ſuppoſed the chief glory of a land to conſiſt.

Ver. 22. Go ye every man unto his city.] He bids them leave the buſineſs unto him; and God, he did not doubt, would ſet a king over them.

NOTES on Chap. IX.

Ver. 1. A mighty man of power.] This is not meant of his wealth, or intereſt in his country, (ſee verſe 21.) but of his great ſtrength, valour, and fortitude.

Ver. 5. The land of Zuph.] A territory in the tribe of Benjamin.

Before Chriſt 1095.

leſt my father leave caring for the aſſes, and take thought for us.

6 And he ſaid unto him, Behold now, there is in this city a man of God, and he is an honourable man; all that he ſaith, cometh ſurely to paſs: now let us go thither; peradventure he can ſhew us our way that we ſhould go.

7 Then ſaid Saul to his ſervant, But behold, if we go, what ſhall we bring the man? for the bread is ſpent in our veſſels, and there is not a preſent to bring to the man of God: what have we?

8 And the ſervant anſwered Saul again, and ſaid, Behold, I have here at hand the fourth part of a ſhekel of ſilver: that will I give to the man of God, to tell us our way.

9 (Beforetime in Iſrael, when a man went to enquire of God, thus he ſpake, Come, and let us go to the ſeer: for he that is now called a Prophet, was beforetime called a Seer.)

10 Then ſaid Saul to his ſervant, Well ſaid; come, let us go: ſo they went unto the city where the man of God was.

11 ¶ And as they went up the hill to the city, they found young maidens going out to draw water, and ſaid unto them, Is the ſeer here?

12 And they anſwered them, and ſaid, He is; behold, he is before you: make haſte now, for he came to day to the city; for there is a ſacrifice of the people to day in the high place.

13 As ſoon as ye be come into the city, ye ſhall ſtraightway find him, before he go up to the high place to eat: for the people will not eat until he come, becauſe he doth bleſs the ſacrifice, and afterwards they eat that be bidden. Now therefore get you up, for about this time ye ſhall find him.

Before Chriſt 1095.

14 And they went up into the city: and when they were come into the city, behold, Samuel came out againſt them, for to go up to the high place.

15 ¶ Now the LORD had told Samuel in his ear a day before Saul came, ſaying,

16 To morrow about this time I will ſend thee a man out of the land of Benjamin, and thou ſhalt anoint him to be captain over my people Iſrael, that he may ſave my people out of the hand of the Philiſtines: for I have looked upon my people, becauſe their cry is come unto me.

17 And when Samuel ſaw Saul, the LORD ſaid unto him, Behold the man whom I ſpake to thee of: this ſame ſhall reign over my people.

18 Then Saul drew near to Samuel in the gate, and ſaid, Tell me, I pray thee, where the ſeers houſe is.

19 And Samuel anſwered Saul, and ſaid, I am the ſeer: go up before me unto the high place, for ye ſhall eat with me to day; and to morrow I will let thee go, and will tell thee all that is in thine heart.

20 And as for thine aſſes that were loſt three days ago, ſet not thy mind on them, for they are found: and on whom is all the deſire of Iſrael? is it not on thee, and on all thy fathers houſe?

21 And Saul anſwered and ſaid, Am not I a Benjamite of the ſmalleſt of the tribes

Ver. 8. The fourth part of a ſhekel of ſilver.] This was about nine-pence. Joſephus here obſerves, that it was their ignorance, to imagine, that a prophet would receive any money for his predictions.

Ver. 9. He that is now called a prophet, was beforetime called a ſeer.] Words, in all languages, are ever going out and coming in; and perhaps, returning into faſhion; and the ſame words receive different acceptations.

Ver. 12. In the high place.] This is the firſt inſtance of ſacrifices being offered to God in high places; and is thought to have given riſe to the ſynagogues and oratories, which were afterwards built in ſo many parts of the kingdom.

Ver. 20. And on whom is all the deſire of Iſrael?] The meaning is, all Iſrael deſire a king; and there is none more fit than thou art, whoſe family God is reſolved to advance.

tribes of Iſrael? and my family the leaſt of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin? wherefore then ſpeakeſt thou ſo to me?

22 And Samuel took Saul, and his ſervant, and brought them into the parlour, and made them ſit in the chiefeſt place among them that were bidden, which were about thirty perſons.

23 And Samuel ſaid unto the cook, Bring the portion which I gave thee, of which I ſaid unto thee, Set it by thee.

24 And the cook took up the ſhoulder, and that which was upon it, and ſet it before Saul: and Samuel ſaid, Behold, that which is left, ſet it before thee, and eat; for unto this time hath it been kept for thee, ſince I ſaid, I have invited the people: ſo Saul did eat with Samuel that day.

25 ¶ And when they were come down from the high place into the city, Samuel communed with Saul upon the top of the houſe.

26 And they aroſe early: and it came to paſs about the ſpring of the day, that Samuel called Saul to the top of the houſe, ſaying, Up, that I may ſend thee away. And Saul aroſe, and they went out both of them, he and Samuel, abroad.

27 And as they were going down to the end of the city, Samuel ſaid to Saul, Bid the ſervant paſs on before us, (and he paſſed on) but ſtand thou ſtill a while, that I may ſhew thee the word of God.

CHAP. X.

1 Samuel anointeth Saul: 2 He confirmeth him by prediction of three ſigns. 9 Sauls heart is changed, and he propheſieth.

Before Christ 1095.

Then Samuel took a vial of oil, and poured it upon his head, and kiſſed him, and ſaid, Is it not becauſe the Lord hath anointed thee to be captain over his inheritance?

2 When thou art departed from me to day, then thou ſhalt find two men by Rachels ſepulcher in the border of Benjamin, at Zelzah: and they will ſay unto thee, The aſſes which thou wenteſt to ſeek are found: and lo, thy father hath left the care of the aſſes, and ſorroweth for you, ſaying, What ſhall I do for my ſon?

3 Then ſhalt thou go on forward from thence, and thou ſhalt come to the plain of Tabor, and there ſhall meet thee three men going up to God to Beth-el, one carrying three kids, and another carrying three loaves of bread, and another carrying a bottle of wine.

4 And they will ſalute thee, and give thee two loaves of bread, which thou ſhalt receive of their hands.

5 After that, thou ſhalt come to the hill of God, where is the garriſon of the Philiſtines: and it ſhall come to paſs when thou

Ver. 24. That which was upon it.] Namely, the breaſt.

For unto this time hath it been kept for thee, ſince I ſaid, I have invited the people.] He told the cook, he had invited ſome other perſons, beſides the inhabitants of the city; and for theſe ſtrange gueſts, he would have this ſhoulder to be reſerved; hence Joſephus calls this part, the royal portion.

Ver. 25. On the top of the houſe.] The tops of their houſes were flat, and covered with a ſtrong plaiſter of terrace, which was guarded with a parapet-wall, battlements, or balluſtrades: here they dried linen and flax, prepared figs and raiſins, &c. here likewiſe they enjoyed the refreſhing breezes of the evening, converſed with their friends, and offered up their devotions.

Ver. 27. Bid the ſervant paſs on before us.] This was with deſign, to let Saul underſtand, that what he was going to do, was by the divine order and appointment.

Notes on Chap. X.

Ver. 1. Took a vial of oil.] Samuel was no prieſt, and therefore could not have acceſs to the tabernacle, which was now likewiſe at a great diſtance from Ramah; ſo that it is reaſonable to think, that he made uſe of no other than common oil.

And poured it upon his head.] Unction was the common method, for ſetting apart for common uſe, even things inanimate, Gen. xxviii. 18.

Ver. 5. The hill of God.] So called, it ſeems, becauſe here was a college of prophets, for the inſtruction of youth in the knowledge of the law, and the precepts of religion; who were thence called the ſons of the prophets. It ſhould be obſerved, that though the Philiſtines had a garriſon there, they ſpared thoſe places ſet apart for the ſtudy of religion.

Before Chriſt 1095. thou art come thither to the city, that thou ſhalt meet a company of prophets coming down from the high place, with a pſaltery, and a tabret, and a pipe, and a harp before them, and they ſhall propheſy.

6 And the ſpirit of the LORD will come upon thee, and thou ſhalt propheſy with them, and ſhalt be turned into another man.

7 And let it be when theſe ſigns are come unto thee, that thou do as occaſion ſhall ſerve thee, for God is with thee.

8 And thou ſhalt go down before me to Gilgal, and behold, I will come down unto thee, to offer burnt-offerings, and to ſacrifice ſacrifices of peace-offerings: ſeven days ſhalt thou tarry, till I come to thee, and ſhew thee what thou ſhalt do.

9 ¶ And it was ſo, that when he had turned his back to go from Samuel, God gave him another heart: and all thoſe ſigns came to paſs that day.

10 And when they came thither to the hill, behold, a company of prophets met him, and the ſpirit of God came upon him, and he propheſied among them.

11 And it came to paſs when all that knew him beforetime, ſaw, that behold, he propheſied among the prophets, then the people ſaid one to another, What is this that is come unto the ſon of Kiſh? Is Saul alſo among the prophets? Before Chriſt 1095.

12 And one of the ſame place anſwered and ſaid, But who is their father? Therefore it became a proverb, Is Saul alſo among the prophets?

13 And when he had made an end of propheſying, he came to the high place.

14 ¶ And Sauls uncle ſaid unto him, and to his ſevant, Whither went ye? And he ſaid, To ſeek the aſſes: and when we ſaw that they were no where, we came to Samuel.

15 And Sauls uncle ſaid, Tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel ſaid unto you.

16 And Saul ſaid unto his uncle, He told us plainly that the aſſes were found. But of the matter of the kingdom, whereof Samuel ſpake, he told him not.

17 ¶ And Samuel called the people together unto the LORD in Mizpeh.

18 And ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, I brought up Iſrael out of Egypt, and delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all kingdoms, and of them that oppreſſed you.

19 And ye have this day rejected your God,

They ſhall propheſy.] Shall ſing the praiſes of God; for ſo the word ſometimes ſignifies, 1 Chron. xxv. 3.

Ver. 6. And thou ſhalt propheſy with them.] Nothing could more fully aſſure Saul, that Samuel had anointed him by God's authority than this; when God vouchſafed ſuddenly to inſpire him; ſo that he was, in an inſtant, capable to compoſe hymns, and to accompany them in their muſic, which he had never learned, not having been bred in their ſchools.

Be turned into another man.] Endued with extraordinary prudence and courage, and ſuch qualities, as fitted him for the conduct and government of God's people.

Ver. 8. Sacrifices of peace-offerings: ſeven days ſhalt thou tarry, &c.] Theſe words ought to have been pointed in the following manner: Behold, I will come unto thee to offer burnt-offerings, and to ſacrifice ſacrifices of peace-offerings, ſeven days. Thou ſhalt tarry till I come unto thee, &c. Hence we ſee, how great a fault Saul afterwards committed, in not ſtaying for Samuel; when the prophet had ſo fully aſſured him, that he would not fail to meet him.

Ver. 9. God gave him another heart.] So great was the goodneſs of God, that he immediately fulfilled the laſt and chief of theſe ſigns; for he was no ſooner gone from Samuel, but he felt another ſpirit come into him, of wiſdom and fortitude, to qualify him for the government of God's people; which God afterwards took away from him for his ſins.

Ver. 10. He propheſied among them.] The Chaldee paraphraſe underſtands, by propheſying, adoring God, and ſinging praiſes to him. See verſe 5.

Ver. 11. Is Saul alſo among the prophets?] They were aſtoniſhed, knowing the manner of his education; for, inſtead of ſtudying in the ſchools of the prophets, his whole attention had been engroſſed by his herds and flocks.

Ver. 12. Who is their father?] One interpretation is, that a prudent perſon among them, bids them conſider who it was that made prophets? Not men, nor merely education, but God only; but the Septuagint reads it, who is his father?

Before Chriſt 1095. God, who himſelf ſaved you out of all your adverſities and your tribulations; and ye have ſaid unto him, Nay, but ſet a king over us. Now therefore preſent yourſelves before the LORD by your tribes, and by your thouſands.

20 And when Samuel had cauſed all the tribes of Iſrael to come near, the tribe of Benjamin was taken.

21 When he had cauſed the tribe of Benjamin to come near by their families, the family of Matri was taken, and Saul the ſon of Kiſh was taken, and when they ſought him, he could not be found.

22 Therefore they enquired of the LORD further, if the man ſhould yet come thither: and the LORD anſwered, Behold, he hath hid himſelf among the ſtuff.

23 And they ran and fetched him thence: and when he ſtood among the people, he was higher than any of the people, from his ſhoulders and upward.

24 And Samuel ſaid to all the people, See ye him whom the LORD hath choſen, that there is none like him among all the people? And all the people ſhouted, and ſaid, God ſave the king.

25 Then Samuel told the people the manner of the kingdom, and wrote it in a book, and laid it up before the LORD: and Samuel ſent all the people away, every man to his houſe. Before Chriſt 1095.

26 ¶ And Saul alſo went home to Gibeah, and there went with him a band of men, whoſe hearts God had touched.

27 But the children of Belial ſaid, How ſhall this man ſave us? And they deſpiſed him, and brought him no preſents: but he held his peace.

CHAP. XI.

1 Nahaſh offereth them of Jabeſh-gilead a reproachful condition. 4 They ſend meſſengers, and are delivered by Saul.

THen Nahaſh the Ammonite came up, and encamped againſt Jabeſh-gilead: and all the men of Jabeſh ſaid unto Nahaſh, Make a covenant with us, and we will ſerve thee.

2 And Nahaſh the Ammonite anſwered them, On this condition will I make a covenant with you, that I may thruſt out all your right eyes, and lay it for a reproach upon all Iſrael.

3 And the elders of Jabeſh ſaid unto him,

Ver. 21. He could not be found.] He had withdrawn himſelf, modeſtly declining ſo great authority.

Ver. 22. Among the ſtuff.] Among the carriages.

Ver. 26. Saul alſo went home to Gibeah.] Returned to his father's houſe, in order to live privately, as it is conjectured, till an opportunity ſhould offer of better eſtabliſhing his authority: and if we ſuppoſe, that during this interval, he betook himſelf to ſome rural employment, this was no diſparagement; ſince perſons of equal rank and quality in other nations, have done the ſame. The Curii, the Attilii, the Cincinnati, and other illuſtrious Romans, left the plough, to aſſume the reins of government; and afterwards left the government to return to the plough.

Ver. 27. Brought him no preſents.] It was a conſtant practice among the eaſterns, whenever they approached the prince, to preſent ſomething, as a token of their benevolence, ſubjection, and joy.

But he held his peace,] As theſe children of Belial were probably perſons of conſequence, and deſpiſed Saul, becauſe he was of a ſmall tribe, and obſcure family; he acted a very prudent part, in holding his peace, being unwilling to create any diſorder in the beginning of his reign.

NOTES on Chap. XI.

Ver. 1. Then Nahaſh the Ammonite came up, &c.] Tho' Nahaſh, the king of the Ammonites, had been for ſome time at war with the Iſraelites, yet this was the moſt conſiderable attempt he had made againſt them: and, as this happened in a very ſhort time after Saul had been made king, it might have been permitted by providence, as an occaſion for him to diſplay his courage and conduct, and to procure to himſelf the love and eſteem of his people.

Ver. 2. On this condition will I make a covenant with you, that I may thruſt out all your right eyes, &c.] Notwithſtanding this condition was extremely cruel, yet it ſeems blended with artful and wiſe policy: the being deprived of their right eye, would effectually have diſabled them ever after from fighting in the war; and the having the other left, would render them in ſome meaſure capable of ſerving him at home.

him, Give us ſeven days reſpite, that we may ſend meſſengers unto all the coaſts of Iſrael: and then if there be no man to ſave us, we will come out to thee.

4 ¶ Then came the meſſengers to Gibeah of Saul, and told the tidings in the ears of the people: and all the people lift up their voices, and wept.

5 And behold, Saul came after the herd out of the field, and Saul ſaid, What aileth the people that they weep? And they told him the tidings of the men of Jabeſh.

6 And the ſpirit of God came upon Saul, when he heard thoſe tidings, and his anger was kindled greatly.

7 And he took a yoke of oxen, and hewed them in pieces, and ſent them throughout all the coaſts of Iſrael by the hands of meſſengers, ſaying, Whoſoever cometh not forth after Saul and after Samuel, ſo ſhall it be done unto his oxen: and the fear of the LORD fell on the people, and they came out with one conſent.

8 And when he numbered them in Bezek, the children of Iſrael were three thouſand, and the men of Judah thirty thouſand.

9 And they ſaid unto the meſſengers that came, Thus ſhall ye ſay unto the men of Jabeſh-gilead, To morrow by that time the ſun be hot, ye ſhall have help. And the meſſengers came and ſhewed it to the men of Jabeſh, and they were glad.

10 Therefore the men of Jabeſh ſaid, To morrow we will come out unto you, and ye ſhall do with us all that ſeemeth good unto you.

Before Chriſt 1095.

11 And it was ſo on the morrow, that Saul put the people in three companies, and they came into the midſt of the hoſt in the morning watch, and ſlew the Ammonites, until the heat of the day: and it came to paſs, that they which remained were ſcattered, ſo that two of them were not left together.

12 ¶ And the people ſaid unto Samuel, Who is he that ſaid, Shall Saul reign over us? bring the men that we may put them to death.

13 And Saul ſaid, There ſhall not a man be put to death this day: for to day the LORD hath wrought ſalvation in Iſrael.

14 Then ſaid Samuel to the people, Come, and let us go to Gilgal and renew the kingdom there.

15 And all the people went to Gilgal, and there they made Saul king before the LORD in Gilgal: and there they ſacrificed ſacrifices of peace-offerings before the LORD: and there Saul and all the men of Iſrael rejoiced greatly.

Ver. 3. Give us ſeven days, &c.] It is very remarkable, that a prince ſo very inhumane, as this Nahaſh ſeems to have been, ſhould yet indulge his impotent enemies with a reſpite of ſeven days; but, not to inſiſt upon the hand of providence herein, it appears plain, that he was greatly defective in his politics, ſeeing he granted their requeſt, not from a motive of indulgence or condeſcenſion, but from a mean and contemptuous opinion of their ſtrength; an oſtentatious aſſurance, that, even at the expiration of the ſeven days, they would be in no better a condition of delivering themſelves from his hands, than they then were.—A notion, which often proves of very fatal conſequence to the ſucceſs of a war, as well as to the reputation of the general.

Ver. 12. And the people ſaid unto Samuel, &c.] The reputation of Saul was raiſed to ſuch a degree, by the victory recorded in the preceding verſes of this chapter, and the deliverance it procured the Jabeſhites, from ſo barbarous an enemy, that ſome remembering the indignities which had been offered him at his coronation, were, in the height of their zeal, for having them puniſhed with death; but Saul, as we read in the next verſe, very prudently oppoſed the motion, and expreſſed his averſion, to have the glories of that day ſullied with the blood of any of his ſubjects.

2 And now behold, the king walketh before you: and I am old, and gray headed, and behold, my ſons are with you: and I have walked before you from my childhood unto this day.

3 Behold, here I am, witneſs againſt me before the LORD, and before his anointed: whoſe ox have I taken? or whoſe aſs have I taken? or whom have I defrauded? whom have I oppreſſed? or of whoſe hand have I received any bribe to blind mine eyes therewith? and I will reſtore it you.

4 And they ſaid, Thou haſt not defrauded us, nor oppreſſed us, neither haſt thou taken ought of any mans hand.

5 And he ſaid unto them, The LORD is witneſs againſt you, and his anointed is witneſs this day, that ye have not found ought in my hand. And they anſwered, He is witneſs.

6 ¶ And Samuel ſaid unto the people, It is the LORD that advanced Moſes and Aaron, and that brought your fathers up out of the land of Egypt.

7 Now therefore ſtand ſtill, that I may reaſon with you before the LORD, of all the righteous acts of the LORD, which he did to you and to your fathers.

8 When Jacob was come into Egypt, and your fathers cried unto the LORD, then the LORD ſent Moſes and Aaron, which brought forth your fathers out of Egypt, and made them dwell in this place.

9 And when they forgat the LORD their God, he ſold them into the hand of Siſera, captain of the hoſt of Hazor, and into the hand of the Philiſtines, and into the hand of the king of Moab, and they fought againſt them.

10 And they cried unto the LORD, and ſaid, We have ſinned, becauſe we have forſaken the LORD, and have ſerved Baalim and Aſhtaroth: but now deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, and we will ſerve thee.

11 And the LORD ſent Jerubbaal, and Bedan, and Jephthah, and Samuel, and delivered you out of the hand of your enemies on every ſide, and ye dwelled ſafe.

12 And when ye ſaw that Nahaſh the king of the children of Ammon came againſt you, ye ſaid unto me, Nay, but a king ſhall reign over us; when the LORD your God was your king.

13 Now therefore, behold the king whom ye have choſen, and whom ye have deſired: and behold, the LORD hath ſet a king over you.

14 If ye will fear the LORD, and ſerve him, and obey his voice, and not rebel againſt the commandment of the LORD, then ſhall both ye and alſo the king that reigneth over you, continue following the LORD your God.

15 But if ye will not obey the voice of the LORD, but rebel againſt the commandment of the LORD, then ſhall the hand of the LORD be againſt you, as it was againſt your fathers.

16 ¶ Now therefore ſtand and ſee this great thing which the LORD will do before your eyes.

muel was about to reſign the government entirely into the hands of Saul, he addreſſes himſelf to the people in a very pathetic ſpeech; wherein he takes occaſion, in the firſt place, to vindicate his own adminiſtration; he then reminds them of the great tranſgreſſions of their forefathers, and ſets before them the conſequence of their obedience, or diſobedience to his laws; he further gives them to underſtand, that they had been very far from doing an acceptable thing to God, in rejecting his government, and deſiring another king; but that, as God had granted them their requeſt, and ſet a king over them, the prophet exhorts them, from the powerful motive of ſelf-intereſt, to fear the Lord, and obey their king; and to convince them, that he ſpake not to them out of any prejudice, or, indeed, without a divine direction, he gave them a miraculous ſign.

19 And all the people ſaid unto Samuel, Pray for thy ſervants unto the LORD thy God, that we die not: for we have added unto all our ſins, this evil, to aſk us a king.

20 ¶ And Samuel ſaid unto the people, Fear not: (ye have done all this wickedneſs: yet turn not aſide from following the LORD, but ſerve the LORD with all your heart;

22 For the LORD will not forſake his people, for his great names ſake: becauſe it hath pleaſed the LORD to make you his people.

23 Moreover, as for me, God forbid that I ſhould ſin againſt the LORD, in ceaſing to pray for you: but I will teach you the good and the right way.

Ver. 17. It is not wheat-harveſt to day? I will call unto the Lord, and he ſhall ſend thunder and rain, &c.] The prophet, by this preamble, ſignifies the greatneſs of the miracle God was going to work, which was really and truly great, ſeeing it was performed at a ſeaſon of the year in which thunder and rain were never known in that country, and therefore had the intended effect, by impreſſing the minds of the people with ſuch a religious awe and veneration for a God who could perform ſuch wonders, that they made a public confeſſion of all their ſins, and particularly of deſiring a king, and beſought Samuel to intercede with the Lord for their pardon and forgiveneſs.

Ver. 20. And Samuel ſaid unto the people, &c] Samuel again reſumes his addreſs; and, after having comforted the people, who were greatly diſmayed at the miraculous ſtorm, which had but juſt ceaſed, he exhorts them to a holy and religious life; and tells them, that ſo long as they adhered to the obſervation of God's laws, he would not only pray for them, but be ready alſo to aſſiſt them with his beſt inſtructions and advice: concluding his ſpeech, with this affecting conſideration, But if ye ſtill do wickedly, ye ſhall be conſumed; both ye and your king.

NOTES on Chap. XIII.

Ver. 5. And the Philiſtines gathered themſelves together, to fight with Iſrael, thirty thouſand chariots, &c.[In the original, and in our tranſlation, the words are thirty thouſand, but the Syriac, and Arabic verſions make them no more than three thouſand: and indeed, whoever conſiders, that Pharaoh, king of Egypt, when he had muſtered all his forces together, could bring no more than ſix hundred of theſe chariots into the field, and that all the other princes, whoſe equipages are related in ſcripture, were not able to bring near ſo many as ſix hundred; I ſay, whoever conſiders this, muſt needs think it a thing incredible, that the Philiſtines, out of their ſmall territories, thouſand chariots, and ſix thouſand horſemen, and people as the ſand which is on the ſea-ſhore in multitude: and they came up, and pitched in Michmaſh, eaſtward from Beth-aven.

6 When the men of Iſrael ſaw that they were in a ſtrait (for the people were diſtreſſed) then the people did hide themſelves in caves, and in thickets, and in rocks, and in high places, and in pits.

7 And ſome of the Hebrews went over Jordan to the land of Gad and Gilead: as for Saul, he was yet in Gilgal, and all the people followed him trembling.

8 ¶ And he tarried ſeven days, according to the ſet time that Samuel had appointed: but Samuel came not to Gilgal, and the people were ſcattered from him.

9 And Saul ſaid, Bring hither a burnt-offering to me, and peace-offerings. And he offered the burnt-offering.

10 And it came to paſs, that as ſoon as he had made an end of offering the burnt-offering, behold, Samuel came, and Saul went out to meet him, that he might ſalute him.

11 ¶ And Samuel ſaid, What haſt thou done? And Saul ſaid, Becauſe I ſaw that the people were ſcattered from me, and that thou cameſt not within the days appointed, and that the Philiſtines gathered themſelves together to Michmaſh:

Before Christ 1093.

12 Therefore ſaid I, the Philiſtines will come down upon me to Gilgal, and I have not made ſuplication unto the LORD: I forced myſelf therefore, and offered a burnt-offering.

13 And Samuel ſaid to Saul, Thou haſt done fooliſhly: thou haſt not kept the commandment of the LORD thy God, which he commanded thee: for now would the LORD have eſtabliſhed thy kingdom upon Iſrael for ever.

14 But now thy kingdom ſhall not continue: the LORD hath ſought him a man after his own heart, and the LORD hath commanded him to be captain over his people, becauſe thou haſt not kept that which the LORD commanded thee.

15 And Samuel aroſe, and gat him up from Gilgal, unto Gibeah of Benjamin: and Saul numbered the people that were preſent with him, about ſix hundred men.

16 And Saul and Jonathan his ſon, and the people that were preſent with them, abode in Gibeah of Benjamin: but the Philiſtines encamped in Michmaſh.

ries, which extended no farther than the two tribes of Simeon and Dan, along the coaſts of the Mediterranean ſea, could ever, be able to raiſe ſo vaſt an armament, even with the aſſiſtance of all the nations they could poſſibly call in. For, beſides, that in the account of all armies, the cavalry is always more numerous than the chariots of war, which is different here; the largeſt armies we read of, were able to compaſs but a very few of theſe chariots; in compariſon of the number here mentioned: Mithridates in his vaſt army, had but an hundred; Darius but two hundred; and Antiochus Epiphanes but three hundred. We are therefore under a neceſſity of ſaying, either that the tranſcribers made a miſtake in the Hebrew copy, or of ſuppoſing, (with ſeveral other commentators) that theſe thirty thouſand chariots, were not all chariots of war, but moſt of them carriages only, for the conveyance of the baggage belonging to ſuch a vaſt multitude of men, or, perhaps, for carrying away the ſpoils and plunder which the Philiſtines, preſuming on their ſuperior numbers, ſeemed ſure of taking.

Ver. 13. And Samuel ſaid to Saul, thou haſt done fooliſhly, &c.] That is, thou haſt done wickedly, the word folly, being often uſed in ſcripture, to ſignify ſin or wickedneſs: for Saul could not ſtand charged with folly, in a ſtrict and literal ſenſe, ſeeing the neceſſity of the caſe, and policy of the action, were ſufficient to clear him from ſuch an imputation: but he acted wickedly, becauſe his impatience prompted him, not only to diſtruſt God's providence, but to uſurp the prieſts office. And, had not this been the caſe, we can ſcarcely conceive, that God would have denounced ſo ſevere a doom upon him, as the ſubſequent verſe informs us of, for committing an action, which the principles of human policy, and the emergency of the occaſion ſeemed in a great meaſure to juſtify.

VER. 19. Now there was no ſmith found throughout all the land of Iſrael, &c.] The precaution which the Philiſtines took to prevent the Iſraelites from having any weapons, is no more than what other conquerors have done to the nations they have vanquiſhed. For, Porſenna, when he made peace with the Romans, prohibited them the uſe of all iron, except what was neceſſary in the tillage of their ground: in like manner Cyrus, when he ſubdued the Lydians, took from them the uſe of arms; and inſtead of a laborious life ſpent in war, ſuffered them to ſink into luxury and effeminacy, whereby they ſoon loſt their ancient valour, and were in no condition of revolting againſt their conqueror: and, to mention but one more inſtance, Nebuchadnezzar, when he had made himſelf maſter of Judea, took along with him into Babylon, all the craftſmen and ſmiths, to prevent the people whom he had left behind from riſing in rebellion againſt him. The only wonder is, why the Iſraelites, after they had regained their liberty under the government of Samuel, and given the Philiſtines ſo fatal an overthrow at Ebenezer, ſhould neglect to furniſh themſelves with proper arms againſt any future occaſion! But, beſides the extreme ſloth and negligence which appears in their whole conduct during this period, it ſhould be remembered, that to recover an art once loſt, is a work of time and difficulty, eſpecially by a people, who were not only deſtitute of proper materials, to be worked up into offenſive weapons, but ſtrangers likewiſe to the cultivation of that, or any other neceſſary art, minding little or nothing but the rural employment of feeding their flocks.

VER. 22. There was neither ſword nor ſpear found in the hand of any of the people, &c.] Notwithſtanding which, the Iſraelites might, upon this occaſion, convert their inſtruments of huſbandry, ſuch as their hatchets, ſpades, forks, mattocks, &c. into weapons of war: a much better ſhift than what we read of ſome, who had no other arms than clubs, and ſharpened ſtakes, hardened in the fire.

7 And his armour-bearer ſaid unto him, Do all that is in thine heart: turn thee, behold, I am with thee according to thy heart.

8 Then ſaid Jonathan, Behold, we will paſs over unto theſe men, and we will diſcover ourſelves unto them.

9 If they ſay thus unto us, Tarry until we come to you: then we will ſtand ſtill in our place, and will not go up unto them.

13 And Jonathan climbed up upon his hands, and upon his feet, and his armour-bearer after him: and they fell before Jonathan; and his armour-bearer ſlew after him.

Notes on Chap. XIV.

Ver. 15. And there was trembling in the hoſt, &c.] How Jonathan and his armour-bearer only, could put the whole army of the Philiſtines into ſo univerſal a conſternation, appears, at firſt ſight, very extraordinary; but when we conſider, that they climbed up a way never before attempted;—that they ſurpriſed the enemy unawares, and perhaps, when the greateſt part of them were aſleep;—that this army, being compoſed of different nations, might entertain jealouſies and ſuſpicions of each other;—and that the darkneſs of the night, might make them apprehend, the whole body of the Iſraelites was come upon them alone, the fright of the Philiſtines is not ſo very ſurpriſing: and when we add to all this, what is not indeed improbable, that God might, at this inſtant, infuſe a panic fear into the whole hoſt, our wonder will be turned into praiſe and adoration, of that powerful Being, who, when he ſees fit, can make the greateſt heroes tremble, and put to flight the moſt formidable army.

And the earth quaked, &c.] This is a further and more alarming declaration of the terror of God's anger and judgments. The inſenſible creatures, the earth which we ſtand on trembles under us, and by that ſudden and dreadful phænomena, called an earthquake, ſinners have been reminded of their abuſe of the world, and its many comforts and conveniences, which overturns the beauteous frame of nature; ſhe ſeems convulſed and agonized for the wickedneſs of her inhabitants. If, therefore, provoking the great God of nature has ſuch an effect upon inanimate beings, what muſt his enemies, to whom he has given reaſon and reflection, expect from his vengeance, both here and hereafter? Sinners, by their daring and preſumptuous crimes, take up arms againſt God, and I will viſit, ſays he, their iniquities: and what Being can abide his viſit for iniquity? The earth trembled and ſhook, ſays the Pſalmiſt: trees firmly rooted in the ground are torn up; all things muſt yield to ſtorms and tempeſts, which are part of the armies of the living God. What aileth thee, O thou Jordan, that thou waſt driven back? rivers cannot maintain their courſe; all the wheels of life drag heavily, when God is angry. How full is the ſcripture of ſtriking images and metaphors, to expreſs the power of divine providence, and the fatal conſequences of his wrath, with whom bold offenders take ſuch liberties; and, becauſe ſentence againſt an evil work is not executed ſpeedily, ſet themſelves to do evil.

18 And Saul ſaid unto Ahiah, Bring hither the ark of God: (for the ark of God was at that time with the children of Iſrael.)

19 ¶ And it came to paſs while Saul talked unto the prieſt, that the noiſe that was in the hoſt of the Philiſtines went on, and increaſed: and Saul ſaid unto the prieſt, Withdraw thine hand.

20 And Saul and all the people that were with him, aſſembled themſelves, and they came to the battel: and behold, every mans ſword was againſt his fellow, and there was a very great diſcomfiture.

21 Moreover, the Hebrews that were with the Philiſtines before that time, which went up with them into the camp from the country round about, even they alſo turned to be with the Iſraelites that were with Saul and Jonathan.

22 Likewiſe all the men of Iſrael which had hid themſelves in mount Ephraim, when they heard that the Philiſtines fled, even they alſo followed hard after them in the battel.

23 So the LORD ſaved Iſrael that day: and the battel paſſed over unto Beth-aven.

24 ¶ And the men of Iſrael were diſtreſſed that day: for Saul had adjured the people, ſaying, Curſed be the man that eateth any food until evening, that I may be avenged on mine enemies: ſo none of the people taſted any food.

25 And all they of the land came to a wood, and there was hony upon the ground.

26 And when the people were come into the wood, behold, the hony dropped, but no man put his hand to his motuh: for the people feared the oath.

27 But Jonathan heard not when his father charged the people with the oath: wherefore he put forth the end of the rod that was in his hand, and dipt it in an hony-comb, and put his hand to his mouth; and his eyes were enlightened.

Before Christ 1087.

28 Then anſwered one of the people, and ſaid, Thy father ſtraitly charged the people with an oath, ſaying, Curſed be the man that eateth any food this day. And the people were faint.

29 Then ſaid Jonathan, My father hath troubled the land: ſee, I pray you, how mine eyes have been enlightened, becauſe I taſted a little of this hony:

30 How much more, if haply the people had eaten freely to day of the ſpoil of their enemies which they found? for had there not been now a much greater ſlaughter among the Philiſtines:

31 And they ſmote the Philiſtines that day from Michmaſh to Aijalon: and the people were very faint.

32 And the people flew upon the ſpoil, and took ſheep, and oxen, and calves, and ſlew them on the ground: and the people did eat them with the blood.

33 ¶ Then they told Saul, ſaying, Behold, the people ſin againſt the LORD, in that they eat with the blood. And he ſaid, Ye have tranſgreſſed: roll a great ſtone unto me this day.

34 And Saul ſaid, Diſperſe yourſelves among the people, and ſay unto them, Bring me hither every man his ox, and every man his ſheep, and ſlay them here, and eat: and ſin not againſt the LORD in eating with the blood. And all the people brought every man his ox with him that night, and ſlew them there.

35 And Saul built an altar unto the LORD: the ſame was the firſt altar that he built unto the LORD.

36 ¶ And Saul ſaid, let us go down after the Philiſtines by night, and ſpoil them until the morning light, and let us not leave

Before Christ 1087. leave a man of them. And they ſaid, Do whatſoever ſeemeth good unto thee. Then ſaid the prieſt, Let us draw near hither unto God.

37 And Saul aſked counſel of God, Shall I go down after the Philiſtines? wilt thou deliver them into the hand of Iſrael? But he anſwered him not that day.

38 And Saul ſaid, Draw ye near hither all the chief of the people: and know and ſee wherein this ſin hath been this day.

39 For as the Lord liveth, which ſaveth Iſrael, though it be in Jonathan my ſon, he ſhall ſurely die. But there was not a man among all the people that anſwered him.

40 Then ſaid he unto all Iſrael, Be ye on one ſide, and I and Jonathan my ſon will be on the other ſide. And the people ſaid unto Saul, Do what ſeemeth good unto thee.

41 Therefore Saul ſaid unto the Lord God of Iſrael, Give a perfect lot. And Saul and Jonathan were taken: but the people eſcaped.

42 And Saul ſaid, caſt lots between me and Jonathan my ſon. And Jonathan was taken.

43 Then Saul ſaid to Jonathan, Tell me what thou haſt done. And Jonathan told him, and ſaid, I did but taſte a little hony with the end of the rod that was in mine hand, and lo, I muſt die.

44 And Saul anſwered, God do ſo, and more alſo: for thou ſhalt ſurely die, Jonathan.

45 And the people ſaid unto Saul, Shall Jonathan die, who hath wrought this great ſalvation in Iſrael? God forbid: as the Lord liveth, there ſhall not one hair of his head fall to the ground; for he hath wrought with God this day. So the people reſcued Jonathan, that he died not. Before Christ 1087.

46 Then Saul went up from following the Philiſtines: and the Philiſtines went to their own place.

47 ¶ So Saul took the kingdom over Iſrael, and fought againſt all his enemies on every ſide, againſt Moab, and againſt the children of Ammon, and againſt Edom, and againſt the kings of Zobah, and againſt the Philiſtines: and whitherſoever he turned himſelf, he vexed them.

48 And he gathered an hoſt, and ſmote the Amalekites, and delivered Iſrael out of the hands of them that ſpoiled them.

49 Now the ſons of Saul were Jonathan, and Iſhui, and Melchi-ſhua: and the names of his two daughters were theſe; the name of the firſt-born Merab, and the name of the younger Michael.

50 And the name of Sauls wife was Ahinoam, the daughter of Ahimaaz: and the name of the captain of his hoſt was Abner the ſon of Ner, Sauls uncle.

51 And Kiſh was the father of Saul; and Ner the father of Abner, was the ſon of Abiel.

52 And there was ſore war againſt the Philiſtines all the days of Saul: and when Saul ſaw any ſtrong man, or any valiant man, he took him unto him.

NOTES on Chap. XV.

Ver. 3. Now go and ſmite Amalek.] This heavy ſentence, which was pronounced againſt them long ago, Exod. xvii. 14. was renewed at the entrance of the Iſraelites into Canaan, Deut. xxv. 19. and now ordered to be put in execution. It may be aſked, why the Amalekites ſhould be puniſhed for the offences of their forefathers, committed ſo many years before? To this, it is anſwered, when any particular people committed the ſame crimes that their anceſtors did, and approved of them, and imitated them, they are juſtly puniſhable, in virtue of the ſentence which paſſed upon their anceſtors.

Ver. 6. The Kenites.] The poſterity of Jethro, Moſes' father-in-law: they dwelt among the Amalekites, in the rocky part of the country.

Ver. 7. From Havilah, until thou comeſt from Shur.] The whole country: Havilah lay at one extremity, in the north-eaſt; and Shur at the other, in the ſouth-weſt.

Ver. 9. Saul—ſpared Agag.] Joſephus ſeems to hint, that Saul was taken with the majeſty and comelineſs of his perſon; but others think, that he intended him to deſcribe his triumph.

Ver. 13. I have performed the covenant of the Lord.] So inſenſible was he, of any fault committed by him, that he boaſts of his performance.

Before Christ 1079. God, and the reſt we have utterly deſtroyed.

16 Then Samuel ſaid unto Saul, Stay, and I will tell thee what the LORD hath ſaid to me this night. And he ſaid unto him, Say on.

17 And Samuel ſaid, When thou waſt little in thine own ſight, waſt thou not made the head of the tribes of Iſrael, and the LORD anointed thee king over Iſrael?

18 And the LORD ſent thee on a journey, and ſaid, Go, and utterly deſtroy the ſinners the Amalekites, and fight againſt them until they be conſumed.

19 Wherefore then didſt thou not obey the voice of the LORD, but didſt fly upon the ſpoil, and didſt evil in the ſight of the LORD?

20 And Saul ſaid unto Samuel, Yea, I have obeyed the voice of the LORD, and have gone the way which the LORD ſent me, and have brought Agag the king of Amalek, and have utterly deſtroyed the Amalekites.

21 But the people took of the ſpoil, ſheep and oxen, the chief of the things which ſhould have been utterly deſtroyed, to ſacrifice unto the LORD thy God in Gilgal.

22 And Samuel ſaid, Hath the LORD as great delight in burnt-offerings and ſacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the LORD? Behold, to obey is better than ſacrifice, and to hearken, than the fat of rams.

23 For rebellion is as the ſin of witchcraft, and ſtubborneſs is as iniquity and idolatry: becauſe thou haſt rejected the word of the LORD, he hath alſo rejected thee from being king. Before Christ 1079.

24 ¶ And Saul ſaid unto Samuel, I have ſinned: for I have tranſgreſſed the commandment of the LORD, and thy words: becauſe I feared the people, and obeyed their voice.

25 Now therefore, I pray thee, pardon my ſin, and turn again with me, that I may worſhip the LORD.

26 And Samuel ſaid unto Saul, I will not return with thee: for thou haſt rejected the word of the LORD, and the LORD hath rejected thee from being king over Iſrael.

27 And as Samuel turned about to go away, he laid hold upon the ſkirt of his mantle, and it rent.

28 And Samuel ſaid unto him, The LORD hath rent the kingdom of Iſrael from thee this day, and hath given it to a neighbour of thine, that is better than thou.

29 And alſo the ſtrength of Iſrael will not lie, nor repent: for he is not a man that he ſhould repent.

30 Then he ſaid, I have ſinned; yet honour me now, I pray thee, before the elders of my people, and before Iſrael, and turn again with me, that I may worſhip the LORD thy God.

31 So Samuel turned again after Saul, and Saul worſhiped the LORD.

32 ¶ Then ſaid Samuel, Bring you hither to me Agag the king of the Amalekites: and Agag came unto him delicately. And Agag ſaid, ſurely the bitterneſs of death is paſt.

Ver. 20. I have obeyed the voice of the Lord.] This was ſurely an egregious miſtake in Saul, to imagine, that a partial obedience, when an entire one was in his power, could be pleaſing to God.

Ver. 29. The ſtrength of Iſrael.] The original, tranſlated ſtrength, imports victory; ſo that the words ought to have been rendered, he that giveth victory, or the triumphant king of Iſrael.

Ver. 32. Agag came unto him delicately.] He came walking in a ſoft, affected, and delicate manner.

Before Christ 1079. 33 And Samuel ſaid, As thy ſword hath made women childleſs, ſo ſhall thy mother be childleſs among women. And Samuel hewed Agag in pieces before the Lord in Gilgal.

34 ¶ Then Samuel went to Ramah, and Saul went up to his houſe to Gibeah of Saul.

35 And Samuel came no more to ſee Saul until the day of his death: nevertheleſs, Samuel mourned for Saul: and the Lord repented that he had made Saul king over Iſrael.

1063. AND the Lord ſaid unto Samuel, How long wilt thou mourn for Saul, ſeeing I have rejected him from reigning over Iſrael? fill thine horn with oil, and go, I will ſend thee to Jeſſe the Beth-lehemite: for I have provided me a king among his ſons.

2 And Samuel ſaid, How can I go? If Saul hear it, he will kill me. And the Lord ſaid, Take an heifer with thee, and ſay, I am come to ſacrifice to the Lord.

3 And call Jeſſe to the ſacrifice, and I will ſhew thee what thou ſhalt do: and thou ſhalt anoint unto me him whom I name unto thee.

4 And Samuel did that which the Lord ſpake, and came to Beth-lehem: and the elders of the town trembled at his coming, and ſaid, Comeſt thou peaceably? Before Christ 1063.

5 And he ſaid, Peaceably: I am come to ſacrifice to the Lord: ſanctify yourſelves, and come with me to the ſacrifice. And he ſanctified Jeſſe and his ſons, and called them to the ſacrifice.

6 ¶ And it came to paſs when they were come, that he looked on Eliab, and ſaid, Surely the Lords anointed is before him.

7 But the Lord ſaid unto Samuel, Look not on his countenance, or on the height of his ſtature; becauſe I have refuſed him: for the LORD ſeeth not as man ſeeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart.

8 Then Jeſſe called Abinadab, and made him paſs before Samuel: and he ſaid, Neither hath the Lord choſen this.

9 Then Jeſſe made Shammah to paſs by: and he ſaid, Neither hath the Lord choſen this.

10 Again, Jeſſe made ſeven of his ſons to paſs before Samuel: and Samuel ſaid unto Jeſſe, The Lord hath not choſen theſe.

11 And Samuel ſaid unto Jeſſe, Are here all thy children? And he ſaid, There remaineth yet the youngeſt, and behold, he keepeth the ſheep. And Samuel ſaid unto Jeſſe, Send and fetch him: for we will not ſit down till he come hither.

Ver. 33. Samuel hewed Agag in pieces.] Many have wondered, how Samuel could thus ſlay a captive prince, in the preſence of Saul, who, out of his clemency, had ſpared him; but it is to be remembered, that the death of this prince had been predicted 400 years before, by the prophet Balaam; (ſee Numb. xxiv. 7.) that he had been a very bloody tyrant, and therefore was cut off for his own merciléſs cruelties; and that it does not follow, that Samuel ſlew Agag himſelf, becauſe, what he commanded, might be called his own act, though it were done by the public executioner.

Ver. 35. Samuel mourned for Saul.] He had ſo much value, either for Saul, or for his country, or for both, that he could not forbear lamenting the ſad condition into which the king had fallen.

13 Then Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed him in the midſt of his brethren: and the ſpirit of the Lord came upon David, from that day forward: ſo Samuel roſe up and went to Ramah.

14 ¶ But the ſpirit of the Lord departed from Saul, and an evil ſpirit from the Lord troubled him.

15 And Sauls ſervants ſaid unto him, Behold now, an evil ſpirit from God troubleth thee.

16 Let our lord now command thy ſervants which are before thee, to ſeek out a man, who is a cunning player on an harp: and it ſhall come to paſs when the evil ſpirit from God is upon thee, that he ſhall play with his hand, and thou ſhalt be well.

17 And Saul ſaid unto his ſervants, Provide me now a man that can play well, and bring him to me.

18 Then anſwered one of the ſervants, and ſaid, Behold, I have ſeen a ſon of Jeſſe the Beth-lehemite, that is cunning in playing, and a mighty valiant man, and a man of war, and prudent in matters, and a comely perſon, and the Lord is with him.

21 And David came to Saul, and ſtood before him: and he loved him greatly, and he became his armour-bearer.

22 And Saul ſent to Jeſſe, ſaying, Let David, I pray thee, ſtand before me: for he hath found favour in my ſight.

23 And it came to paſs, when the evil ſpirit from God was upon Saul, that David took an harp, and played with his hand: ſo Saul was refreſhed, and was well, and the evil ſpirit departed from him.

1 The armies of the Iſraelites and Philiſtines being ready to battel, 4 Goliath cometh proudly forth to challenge a combat. 12 David ſent by his father to viſit his brethren, taketh the challenge. 28 Eliab chideth him: 30 He is brought to Saul:

Ver. 13. Anointed him in the midſt of his brethren.] It ſhould have been, from the midſt of his brethren; that is, he ſingled him out from the reſt, and privately anointed him; it is not to be ſuppoſed, that Samuel did then explain the whole myſtery of his anointing David, which might have proved fatal in its conſequences, had it come to Saul's ears; but, as it was uſual to anoint men to the office of prophet, as well as to that of king, it is moſt likely, that he left them to ſuppoſe the former; as David was not much above fifteen, therefore too young to be taken for a warrior. Had his brethren ſuſpected, that he had been anointed to the regal dignity, it is not credible, they would have uſed him with ſuch roughneſs as they did, when their father ſent him to them to Saul's camp.

The ſpirit of the Lord came upon David.] Here we ſee the power of the Almighty, who, by the wonderful efficacy of his ſpirit, raiſed an obſcure youth, uneducated, and without the advantages of either inſtruction or example, into the greateſt muſician, the ſublimeſt poet, and the moſt conſummate hero of antiquity.

Ver. 14. An evil ſpirit from the Lord troubled him.] He grew melancholy, timorous, and ſuſpicious; indiſpoſed and unfit for buſineſs; he ſtarted where there was no danger, as the Hebrew ſeems to import; ſometimes was furious and diſtracted, full of anxiety and ſolicitude, ſighing, and trembling, his blood and ſpirits thick and heavy.

Ver. 23. David took an harp, and played.] It is allowed, by the teſtimony of the graveſt authors, that there is a certain charm in muſic to revive the ſpirits, mellow the humours, allay the paſſions, and diſſipate rage and melancholy. The Pythagoreans, in order to aſſwage paſſion, had recourſe to their flute or guittar. Theophraſtus declares muſic to be an excellent remedy againſt ſeveral diſtempers of body and mind. Athenæus praiſes it for the virtue it has, with regard to regulating mens manners, and ſoftening the mind. We read, that Aſclepiades uſed to cure madneſs by the power of ſymphony; and that the moſt violent poiſon, the ſting of the Tarantula, has been frequently expelled by this means. But, beſides the natural effects of muſic, the cure of Saul, muſt doubtleſs be attributed to God, who certainly bleſſed the means which was uſed to effect it.

Saul: 32 He ſheweth the reaſon of his confidence. 38 Without armour, armed by faith, he ſlayeth the giant. 55 Saul taketh notice of David.

NOW the Philiſtines gathered together their armies to battel, and were gathered together at Shochoh, which belongeth to Judah, and pitched between Shochoh and Azekah, in Ephes-dammim.

2 And Saul and the men of Iſrael were gathered together, and pitched by the valley of Elah, and ſet the battel in aray againſt the Philiſtines.

3 And the Philiſtines ſtood on a mountain on the one ſide, and Iſrael ſtood on a mountain on the other ſide: and there was a valley between them.

4 ¶ And there went out a champion out of the camp of the Philiſtines, named Goliath of Gath, whoſe height was ſix cubits and a ſpan.

5 And he had an helmet of braſs upon his head, and he was armed with a coat of mail: and the weight of the coat was five thouſand ſhekels of braſs.

6 And he had greaves of braſs upon his legs, and a target of braſs between his ſhoulders.

7 And the ſtaff of his ſpear was like a weavers beam, and his ſpears head weighed ſix hundred ſhekels of iron: and one bearing a ſhield, went before him.

Before Christ 1063.

8 And he ſtood and cried unto the armies of Iſrael, and ſaid unto them, Why are ye come out to ſet your battel in aray? am not I a Philiſtine, and you ſervants to Saul? chooſe you a man for you, and let him come down to me.

9 If he be able to fight with me, and to kill me, then will we be your ſervants: but if I prevail againſt him, and kill him, then ſhall ye be our ſervants, and ſerve us.

10 And the Philiſtine ſaid, I defy the armies of Iſrael this day; give me a man, that we may fight together.

11 When Saul and all Iſrael heard thoſe words of the Philiſtine, they were diſmayed, and greatly afraid.

12 ¶ Now David was the ſon of that Ephrathite of Beth-lehem-judah, whoſe name was Jeſſe, and he had eight ſons: and the man went among men for an old man in the days of Saul.

13 And the three eldeſt ſons of Jeſſe went, and followed Saul to the battel: and the names of his three ſons that went to the battel, were Eliab the firſt-born, and next unto him, Abinadab, and the third, Shammah.

14 And David was the youngeſt: and the three eldeſt followed Saul.

NOTES on Chap. XVI.

Ver. 4. Goliath of Gath.] When the Anakims were driven out of Canaan by Joſhua, they fled to Gath, and propagated a race of giants.

Whoſe height was ſix cubits and a ſpan.] So then, the height of this champion, according to the Engliſh ſtandard, will be twelve feet eight inches. The Septuagint, indeed, and Joſephus, have reduced it to little more than eight feet, which but badly comports with the weight and vaſtneſs of his armour.

Ver. 5. Five thouſand ſhekels.] Upwards of one hundred and eighty-nine pounds; though ſome commentators are of opinion, that this was not the weight of his coat, which would have been inſupportable, even to this enormous giant; but that it coſt ſo much, or was valued at five thouſand ſhekels of braſs.

Ver. 8. Chooſe you a man for you, and let him come down, &c.] He propoſes the deciding the quarrel by a ſingle combat. Antiquity furniſhes us with ſeveral ſuch: that between the Horatii and Curiatii; and Strabo mentions the ſingle combat, as an ancient cuſtom among the Greeks. This challenge of Goliath's, however, was a mere bravado, proceeding from an high opinion he had of his own matchleſs ſtrength. It is evident, from the ſequel, that he had no authority from the Philiſtine army to offer ſuch propoſals; ſince, after he was ſlain, they did not ſubmit to be ſervants to the Iſraelites, as he had declared they would, in caſe he was vanqniſhed.

Ver. 12. Now David, &c.] This 12th verſe, to the 31 incluſive, and ſeveral others in this 17th and 18th chapters, will require no notes, they being ſuppoſed, on good authority, to be interpolated, or foiſted in where they have no buſineſs. See the concluſion of the next chapter.

Before Chriſt 1063.

15 But David went, and returned from Saul, to feed his fathers ſheep at Beth-lehem.

16 And the Philiſtine drew near, morning and evening, and preſented himſelf forty days.

17 And Jeſſe ſaid unto David his ſon, Take now for thy brethren an ephah of this parched corn, and theſe ten loaves, and run to the camp to thy brethren.

18 And carry theſe ten cheeſes unto the captain of their thouſand, and look how thy brethren fare, and take their pledge.

19 Now Saul, and they, and all the men of Iſrael were in the valley of Elah, fighting with the Philiſtines.

20 ¶ And David roſe up early in the morning, and left the ſheep with a keeper, and took, and went, as Jeſſe had commanded him; and he came to the trench, as the hoſt was going forth to the fight, and ſhouted for the battel.

21 For Iſrael and the Philiſtines had put the battel in aray, army againſt army.

22 And David left his carriage in the hand of the keeper of the carriage, and ran into the army, and came and ſaluted his brethren.

23 And as he talked with them, behold, there came up the champion (the Philiſtine of Gath, Goliath by name) out of the armies of the Philiſtines, and ſpake according to the ſame words: and David heard them.

24 And all the men of Iſrael, when they ſaw the man, fled from him, and were ſore afraid.

25 And the men of Iſrael ſaid, Have ye ſeen this man that is come up? ſurely to defy Iſrael is he come up: and it ſhall be that the man who killeth him, the king will enrich him with great riches, and will give him his daughter, and make his fathers houſe free in Iſrael.

Before Chriſt 1063.

26 And David ſpake to the men that ſtood by him, ſaying, What ſhall be done to the man that killeth this Philiſtine, and taketh away the reproach from Iſrael? for who is this uncircumciſed Philiſtine, that he ſhould defy the armies of the living God?

27 And the people anſwered him after this manner, ſaying, So ſhall it be done to the man that killeth him.

28 ¶ And Eliab his eldeſt brother heard when he ſpake unto the men; and Eliabs anger was kindled againſt David, and he ſaid, Why cameſt thou down hither? and with whom haſt thou left thoſe few ſheep in the wilderneſs? I know thy pride, and the naughtineſs of thine heart; for thou art come down, that thou mighteſt ſee the battel, 29 And David ſaid, What have I now done? Is there not a cauſe?

30 ¶ And he turned from him towards another, and ſpake after the ſame manner: and the people anſwered him again after the former manner.

31 And when the words were heard which David ſpake, they rehearſed them before Saul: and he ſent for him.

32 ¶ And David ſaid to Saul, Let no mans heart fail becauſe of him; thy ſervant will go and fight with this Philiſtine.

33 And Saul ſaid to David, Thou art not able to go againſt this Philiſtine, to fight with him: for thou art but a youth, and he a man of war from his youth.

34 And David ſaid unto Saul, Thy ſervant kept his fathers ſheep, and there came a lion, and a bear, and took a lamb out of the flock:

35 And I went out after him, and ſmote him, and delivered it out of his mouth: and when he aroſe againſt me, I caught him by his beard, and ſmote him, and ſlew him.

36 Thy ſervant ſlew both the lion and

Before Christ 1063. the bear: and this uncircumciſed Philiſtine ſhall be as one of them, ſeeing he hath defied the armies of the living God.

37 David ſaid moreover, The LORD that delivered me out of the paw of the lion, and out of the paw of the bear, he will deliver me out of the hand of this Philiſtine. And Saul ſaid unto David, Go, and the LORD be with thee.

38 ¶ And Saul armed David with his armour, and he put an helmet of braſs upon his head, alſo he armed him with a coat of mail.

39 And David girded his ſword upon his armour, and he aſſayed to go, for he had not proved it: and David ſaid unto Saul, I cannot go with theſe: for I have not proved them. And David put them off him.

40 And he took his ſtaff in his hand, and choſe him five ſmooth ſtones out of the brook, and put them in a ſhepherds bag which he had, even in a ſcrip, and his ſling was in his hand, and he drew near to the Philiſtine.

41 And the Philiſtine came on, and drew near unto David, and the man that bare the ſhield went before him.

42 And when the Philiſtine looked about and ſaw David, he diſdained him: for he was but a youth, and ruddy, and of a fair countenance.

43 And the Philiſtine ſaid unto David, Am I a dog that thou comeſt to me with ſtaves? and the Philiſtine curſed David by his gods.

44 And the Philiſtine ſaid to David, Come to me, and I will give thy fleſh unto the fowls of the air, and to the beaſts of the field.

Before Christ 1063.

45 Then ſaid David to the Philiſtine, Thou comeſt to me with a ſword, and with a ſpear, and with a ſhield: but I come to thee in the name of the LORD of hoſts, the God of the armies of Iſrael, whom thou haſt defied.

46 This day will the LORD deliver thee into mine hand, and I will ſmite thee, and take thine head from thee, and I will give the carcaſes of the hoſt of the Philiſtines this day unto the fowls of the air, and to the wild beaſts of the earth; that all the earth may know that there is a God in Iſrael.

47 And all this aſſembly ſhall know that the LORD ſaveth not with ſword and ſpear: (for the battel is the LORDS) and he will give you into our hands.

48 And it came to paſs when the Philiſtine aroſe, and came and drew nigh to meet David, that David haſted, and ran toward the army to meet the Philiſtine.

49 And David put his hand in his bag, and took thence a ſtone, and ſlang it, and ſmote the Philiſtine in his forehead, that the ſtone ſunk into his forehead; and he fell upon his face to the earth.

50 So David prevailed over the Philiſtine with a ſling, and with a ſtone, and ſmote the Philiſtine, and ſlew him; but there was no ſword in the hand of David.

51 Therefore David ran, and ſtood upon the Philiſtine, and took his ſword, and drew it out of the ſheath thereof, and ſlew him, and cut off his head therewith.

And

Ver. 37. He will deliver me out of the hand of the Philiſtine.] To ſilence all objections, he declares he was poſſeſſed with a full perſuaſion, that God would deliver Goliath into his hand, as he had done the lion and the bear; for he felt himſelf animated by that ſpirit which then aſſiſted him.

Ver. 49. Smote the Philiſtine in his forehead.] Which either was bare, this arrogant champion advancing in diſdain with his helmet turned back; or elſe, if his face was covered, David levelled the ſtone ſo right, as to hit the very place left open for his eyes; ſince we muſt acknowledge, it was directed by the unerring hand of God. The Septuagint reads, the ſtone broke through his helmet into his forehead.

53 And the children of Iſrael returned from chaſing after the Philiſtines, and they ſpoiled their tents.

54 And David took the head of the Philiſtine, and brought it to Jeruſalem; but he put his armour in his tent.

56 And the king ſaid, Enquire thou whoſe ſon the ſtripling is.

57 And as David returned from the ſlaughter of the Philiſtine, Abner took him and brought him before Saul, with the head of the Philiſtine in his hand.

6 And it came to paſs as they came when David was returned from the ſlaughter of the Philiſtine, that the women came out of all the cities of Iſrael, ſinging and dancing, to meet king Saul with tabrets, with joy, and with inſtruments of muſick.

7 And the women anſwered one another as they played, and ſaid, Saul hath ſlain his thouſands, and David his ten thouſands.

8 And Saul was very wroth, and the ſaying diſpleaſed him; and he ſaid, They have aſcribed unto David ten thouſands, and to me they have aſcribed but thouſands: and what can he have more but the kingdom?

14 And David behaved himſelf wiſely in all his ways; and the LORD was with him.

15 Wherefore when Saul ſaw that he behaved himſelf very wiſely, he was afraid of him.

16 But all Iſrael and Judah loved David, becauſe he went out and came in before them.

17 ¶ And Saul ſaid to David, Behold, my elder daughter Merab, her will I give thee to wife: only be thou valiant for me, and fight the LORDS battels: for Saul ſaid, Let not mine hand be upon him, but let the hand of the Philiſtines be upon him.

22 ¶ And Saul commanded his ſervants, ſaying, Commune with David ſecretly, and ſay, Behold, the king hath delight in thee, and all his ſervants love thee: now therefore be the kings ſon in law.

23 And Sauls ſervants ſpake thoſe words in the ears of David: and David ſaid, Seemeth it to you a light thing to be a kings ſon in law, ſeeing that I am a poor man, and lightly eſteemed?

24 And the ſervants of Saul told him ſaying, On this manner ſpake David.

25 And Saul ſaid, Thus ſhall ye ſay to David, The king deſireth not any dowry; but an hundred foreſkins of the Philiſtines, to be avenged of the kings enemies. But Saul thought to make David fall by the hand of the Philiſtines.

26 And when his ſervants told David theſe words, it pleaſed David well to be the kings ſon in law: and the days were not expired.

9 And the evil ſpirit from the Lord was upon Saul, as he ſat in his houſe with his javelin in his hand: and David played with his hand.

Ver. 29. Saul was yet more afraid.] When he found no hope of bringing his deſigns to paſs againſt him, his fears increaſed daily, as he ſaw David ſtill more prudent, and that no exception could be taken to his behaviour.

Some interpreters are of opinion, that ſeveral verſes in this, and the preceding chapter, are interpolated, and not genuine, grounding their opinion on an antient verſion, viz. the Vatican, in which thoſe verſes are omitted. The firſt paſſage, which is not tranſlated in the Vatican copy, is no leſs than twenty verſes, viz. from the 11th to the 32d verſe of the 17th chapter, containing an account, which, if ſeriouſly examined, will not carry much probability along with it: without theſe verſes, the connection ſtand thus: Ver. 11. When Saul and all Iſrael heard theſe words of the Philiſtines, they were diſmayed and greatly afraid. Ver. 32. Then David ſaid unto Saul, Let no mans heart fail becauſe of him, &c. Here the connection is cloſe and proper: the next paſſage omitted, in the Vatican copy, is the 4th verſe; and then the 50th, which ſeems to be a needleſs recapitulation. The next interpolation is nine verſes, viz. the four laſt of the 17th chapter, and the five firſt of the 18th: leave theſe out, and the connection is entire, and the whole account conſiſtent; chap. xvii. 54. David took the head of the Philiſtine, and brought it to Jeruſalem: and he put his armour in his tent. Chap. xviii. 6. And as they came when David was returned from the ſlaughter of the Philiſtine, the women came out, &c. The other verſes of the 18th chapter, which are ſuppoſed not to be genuine, are the 9th, 10th, 17th, 18th, 19th, and 30th. On the whole, the Vatican copy is looked upon as the genuine tranſlation of this part of David's hiſtory; however, whether this be univerſally allowed or not, it is very remarkable, that the omiſſions and alterations therein, are ſuch as fully clear the whole paſſage from all manner of inconſiſtencies, improbabilties, difficulties, and obſcurities.

Notes on Chap. XIX.

Ver. 5. He did put his life in his hand.] Expoſed himſelf to very great danger.

Before Christ 1062.

10 And Saul ſought to ſmite David even to the wall with the javelin; but he ſlipt away out of Sauls preſence, and he ſmote the javelin into the wall: and David fled, and eſcaped that night.

11 Saul alſo ſent meſſengers unto Davids houſe, to watch him, and to ſlay him in the morning: and Michal Davids wife told him, ſaying, If thou ſave not thy life to night, to morrow thou ſhalt be ſlain.

12 So Michal let David down through a window: and he went and fled, and eſcaped.

13 And Michal took an image, and laid it in the bed, and put a pillow of goats hair for his bolſter, and covered it with a cloth.

14 And when Saul ſent meſſengers to take David, ſhe ſaid, He is ſick.

15 And Saul ſent the meſſengers again to ſee David, ſaying, Bring him up to me in the bed, that I may ſlay him.

16 And when the meſſengers were come in, behold, there was an image in the bed, with a pillow of goats hair for his bolſter.

17 And Saul ſaid unto Michal, Why haſt thou deceived me ſo, and ſent away mine enemy, that he is eſcaped? And Michal anſwered Saul, He ſaid unto me, Let me go; why ſhould I kill thee?

18 ¶ So David fled, and eſcaped, and came to Samuel to Ramah, and told him all that Saul had done to him: and he and Samuel went and dwelt in Naioth.

Before Christ 1062.

19 And it was told Saul, ſaying, Behold, David is at Naioth in Ramah.

20 And Saul ſent meſſengers to take David: and when they ſaw the company of the prophets propheſying, and Samuel ſtanding as appointed over them, the ſpirit of God was upon the meſſengers of Saul, and they alſo propheſied.

21 And when it was told Saul, he ſent other meſſengers, and they propheſied likewiſe: and Saul ſent meſſengers again the third time, and they propheſied alſo.

22 Then went he alſo to Ramah, and came to a great well that is in Sechu: and he aſked and ſaid, Where are Samuel and David? And one ſaid, Behold, they be at Naioth in Ramah.

23 And he went thither to Naioth in Ramah: and the ſpirit of God was upon him alſo, and he went on and propheſied, until he came to Naioth in Ramah:

24 And he ſtript off his clothes alſo, and propheſied before Samuel in like manner, and lay down naked all that day, and all that night. Wherefore they ſay, Is Saul alſo among the prophets?

CHAP. XX.

1 David conſulteth with Jonathan for his ſafety. 18 Jonathans token to David. 24 Saul

Ver. 13. Took an image.] Some commentators have imagined, that the women, in thoſe days, uſed to have figures in the likeneſs of their huſbands, for the ſame uſe as our modern portraits, to preſerve in the mind a ſtronger and plainer idea of an object when abſent, whom we eſteem and value.

Put a pillow of goats hair for a bolſter.] The moſt natural ſenſe is, that Michal put the ſkin of a goat, with its long hair upon it, about the head of this image.

Ver. 19. Naioth in Ramah.] Ramah ſeems to be the birth-place of Samuel, called, chap. i. 1. Ramathaim-Zophim, and Naioth, a ſchool or college of the prophets in that city.

Ver. 20. Saul ſent meſſengers to take David.] Such was his implacable hatred to David, as not only to obliterate all reſpect and reverence for Samuel, under whoſe protection David now was; and for the college of the prophets, which was conſidered as a kind of aſylum for thoſe who fled to it.

They alſo propheſied.] They praiſed God in hymns, which the prophets compoſed, and ſang to them.

Ver. 21. When it was told Saul, he ſent other meſſengers, &c.] This was a ſtrange obſtinacy, to contend ſo long with the ſpirit of God, who had diverted the minds of the meſſengers from their errand, by inſpiring them with divine thoughts.

Ver. 24. He ſtript off his cloaths.] That is, he caſt off that looſe upper garment, which was thrown over them, when they went abroad.

Lay down naked.] Had nothing on but the tunic, which was next his ſkin.

Before Chriſt 1062.

24 Saul miſſing David, ſeeketh to kill Jonathan.

AND David fled from Naioth in Ramah, and came and ſaid before Jonathan, What have I done? what is mine iniquity? and what is my ſin before thy father, that he ſeeketh my life?

2 And he ſaid unto him, God forbid; thou ſhalt not die: behold, my father will do nothing either great or ſmall, but that he will ſhew it me: and why ſhould my father hide this thing from me? it is not ſo.

3 And David ſware moreover, and ſaid, Thy father certainly knoweth that I have found grace in thine eyes; and he ſaith, Let not Jonathan know this, leſt he be grieved: but truly as the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, there is but a ſtep between me and death.

4 Then ſaid Jonathan unto David, Whatſoever thy ſoul deſireth, I will even do it for thee.

5 And David ſaid unto Jonathan, Behold, to morrow is the new-moon, and I ſhould not fail to ſit with the king at meat: but let me go, that I may hide myſelf in the field unto the third day at even.

6 If thy father at all miſs me, then ſay, David earneſtly aſked leave of me, that he might run to Beth-lehem his city: for there is a yearly ſacrifice there for all the family.

7 If he ſay thus, It is well; thy ſervant ſhall have peace; but if he be very wroth, then be ſure that evil is determined by him.

8 Therefore thou ſhalt deal kindly with thy ſervant; for thou haſt brought thy ſervant into a covenant of the LORD with thee: notwithſtanding, if there be in me iniquity, ſlay me thyſelf; for why ſhouldeſt thou bring me to thy father?

9 And Jonathan ſaid, Far be it from thee: for if I knew certainly, that evil were determined by my father, to come upon thee, then would not I tell it thee?

10 Then ſaid David to Jonathan, Who ſhall tell me? or what if thy father anſwer thee roughly?

11 ¶ And Jonathan ſaid unto David, Come, and let us go out into the field. And they went out both of them into the field.

12 And Jonathan ſaid unto David, O LORD God of Iſrael, when I have ſounded my father, about to morrow any time, or the third day, and behold, if there be good toward David, and I then ſend not unto thee, and ſhew it thee;

13 The LORD do ſo and much more to Jonathan: but if it pleaſe my father to do thee evil, then I will ſhew it thee, and ſend thee away, that thou mayeſt go in peace: and the LORD be with thee, as he hath been with my father.

14 And thou ſhalt not only while yet I live, ſhew me the kindneſs of the LORD, that I die not:

15 But alſo thou ſhalt not cut off thy kindneſs from my houſe for ever: no not when the LORD hath cut off the enemies of David, every one from the face of the earth.

NOTES on Chap. XX.

Ver. 5. To morrow is the new-moon, &c.] Every new-moon, the Iſraelites performed ſolemn ſacrifices, and, after the ſacrifices, feaſted together; and David being one of the king's family, by marrying his daughter, uſed to eat with him on theſe occaſions; and he thought that Saul, by being inſpired with the ſpirit of God at Naioth, might probably have forgot his anger, and make a favourable enquiry after him.

To ſit with the king at meat.] From this paſſage, it is plain, that ſitting at table was a more ancient cuſtom, than either lying or leaning at meat. The Egyptians and Hebrews ſat at table at Joſeph's entertainment, Geneſis xliii. 33.

Ver. 12. Jonathan ſaid—O Lord God of Iſrael, &c.] The firſt words of Jonathan ſeems to be an exclamation; after which he recovers himſelf, and proceeds to declare his ſincerity in the moſt affectionate manner.

Before Christ 1062.

16 So Jonathan made a covenant with the houſe of David, ſaying, Let the LORD even require it at the hand of Davids enemies.

17 And Jonathan cauſed David to ſwear again, becauſe he loved him: for he loved him as he loved his own ſoul.

18 Then Jonathan ſaid to David, To morrow is the new-moon: and thou ſhalt be miſſed, becauſe thy ſeat will be empty.

19 And when thou haſt ſtayed three days, then thou ſhalt go down quickly, and come to the place where thou didſt hide thyſelf, when the buſineſs was in hand, and ſhalt remain by the ſtone Ezel.

20 And I will ſhoot three arrows on the ſide thereof, as though I ſhot at a mark.

21 And behold, I will ſend a lad, ſaying, Go, find out the arrows. If I expreſly ſay unto the lad, Behold, the arrows are on this ſide of thee, take them; then come thou; for there is peace to thee, and no hurt; as the LORD liveth.

22 But if I ſay thus unto the young man, Behold, the arrows are beyond thee: go thy way, for the LORD hath ſent thee away.

23 And as touching the matter which thou and I have ſpoken of, behold, the LORD be between thee and me for ever.

24 ¶ So David hid himſelf in the field: and when the new-moon was come, the king ſat him down to eat meat.

25 And the king ſat upon his ſeat, as at other times, even upon a ſeat by the wall: and Jonathan aroſe, and Abner ſat by Sauls ſide, and Davids place was empty.

Before Christ 1062.

26 Nevertheleſs, Saul ſpake not any thing that day: for he thought, Some thing hath befallen him, he is not clean; ſurely he is not clean.

27 And it came to paſs on the morrow, which was the ſecond day of the month, that Davids place was empty: and Saul ſaid unto Jonathan his ſon, Wherefore cometh not the ſon of Jeſſe to meat, neither yeſterday nor to day?

28 And Jonathan anſwered Saul, David earneſtly aſked leave of me, to go to Bethlehem:

29 And he ſaid, Let me go, I pray thee, for our family hath a ſacrifice in the city, and my brother, he hath commanded me to be there; and now if I have found favour in thine eyes, let me get away, I pray thee, and ſee my brethren: Therefore he cometh not unto the kings table.

30 Then Sauls anger was kindled againſt Jonathan, and he ſaid unto him, Thou ſon of the perverſe rebellious woman, do not I know that thou haſt choſen the ſon of Jeſſe to thine own confuſion, and unto the confuſion of thy mothers nakedneſs?

31 For as long as the ſon of Jeſſe liveth upon the ground, thou ſhalt not be eſtabliſhed, nor thy kingdom: wherefore now ſend and fetch him unto me, for he ſhall ſurely die.

32 And Jonathan anſwered Saul his father, and ſaid unto him, Wherefore ſhall he be ſlain? what hath he done?

33 And

Ver. 27. Wherefore cometh not the ſon of Jeſſe to meat, neither yeſterday nor to day.] The Jewiſh months were lunar, and never began till the moon appeared above the horizon; for which purpoſe, there were certain perſons placed on the mountains, to give notice by the ſound of an horn, when the new moon firſt appeared, that the news might be immediately carried to all parts of the kingdom: but leſt there ſhould be any miſtake in this method of making their obſervations, they celebrated this feſtival two days together. Whether the heathens had this rite from the Jews or no, it is certain, that other nations had feaſts at the beginning of every month; and that with the Romans, and the Calends in particular, were feſtival days, conſecrated to Juno; to whom ſacrifices at this time were offered.

Ver. 30. Thou ſon of the perverſe rebellious woman.] Or, as in the Hebrew, Thou ſon of perverſe rebellion; i. e. Thou perverſe rebel.

Before Christ 1062.

33 And Saul caſt a javelin at him to ſmite him: whereby Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father to ſlay David.

34 So Jonathan aroſe from the table in fierce anger, and did eat no meat the ſecond day of the month: for he was grieved for David, becauſe his father had done him ſhame.

35 ¶ And it came to paſs in the morning, that Jonathan went out into the field at the time appointed with David, and a little lad with him.

36 And he ſaid unto his lad, Run, find out now the arrows which I ſhoot. And as the lad ran, he ſhot an arrow beyond him.

37 And when the lad was come to the place of the arrow which Jonathan had ſhot, Jonathan cried after the lad, and ſaid, Is not the arrow beyond thee?

38 And Jonathan cried after the lad, Make ſpeed, haſte, ſtay not. And Jonathans lad gathered up the arrows, and came to his maſter.

39 But the lad knew not any thing: only Jonathan and David knew the matter.

40 And Jonathan gave his artillery unto his lad, and ſaid unto him, Go, carry them to the city.

41 ¶ And as ſoon as the lad was gone, David aroſe out of a place toward the ſouth, and fell on his face to the ground, and bowed himſelf three times: and they kiſſed one another, and wept one with another, until David exceeded.

Before Christ 1062.

42 And Jonathan ſaid to David, Go in peace, foraſmuch as we have ſworn both of us in the name of the Lord, ſaying, The Lord be between me and thee, and between my ſeed and thy ſeed for ever. And he aroſe and departed: and Jonathan went into the city.

THen came David to Nob, to Ahimelech the prieſt: and Ahimelech was afraid at the meeting of David, and ſaid unto him, Why art thou alone, and no man with thee?

2 And David ſaid unto Ahimelech the prieſt, The king hath commanded me a buſineſs, and hath ſaid unto me, Let no man know any thing of the buſineſs whereabout I ſend thee, and what I have commanded thee: and I have appointed my ſervants to ſuch and ſuch a place.

3 Now therefore what is under thine hand? give me five loaves of bread in mine hand, or what there is preſent.

Ver. 33. Saul caſt a javelin at him.] In his fury, not regarding what he did: kings, in thoſe days, always carried ſceptres in their hands; which ſceptres were ſpears, as is evident from Juſtin, lib. 23. chap. iii. where, ſpeaking of the firſt age of the Romans, (which, biſhop Patrick thinks, was about the time of Saul) he tells us, that as yet, in theſe times, kings had ſpears as enſigns of royalty, which the Greeks called ſceptres.

Ver. 34. He was grieved for David, becauſe his father had done him ſhame]. Or, he was grieved for David, and becauſe his father had done him (Jonathan) wrong.

Ver. 40. His artillery.] That is, his bow, arrow, and quiver.

Ver. 41. Fell on his face to the ground, and bowed himſelf three times.] Out of reverence to him, as his great friend, he bowed himſelf three times, and then fell on his face.

Notes on Chap. XXI.

Ver. 1. Nob.] This was a ſacerdotal city, as is evident, from chap. xxii. 19. and is ſuppoſed to have ſtood about four leagues from Gibeah.

Ver. 2. The king hath commanded me a buſineſs, &c.] The wickedneſs of the world is much to be deplored, which ſometimes puts, even excellent men, upon the neceſſity of lying, to preſerve their lives, which cannot be ſafe without it; but we are not from hence to take an example of ſpeaking untruths.

Ver. 3. What is under thine hand?] What food haſt thou in readineſs to be eaten.

mine hand, but there is hallowed bread; if the young men have kept themſelves at leaſt from women,

5 And David anſwered the prieſt, and ſaid unto him, Of a truth, women have been kept from us about theſe three days, ſince I came out, and the veſſels of the young men are holy, and the bread is in a manner common, yea, though it were ſanctified this day in the veſſel.

6 So the prieſt gave him hallowed bread; for there was no bread there, but the ſhew-bread that was taken from before Lord, to put hot bread in the day when it was taken away.

7 Now a certain man of the ſervants of Saul, was there that day, detained before the Lord; and his name was Doeg an Edomite, the chiefeſt of the herd-men that belonged to Saul.

8 ¶ And David ſaid unto Ahimelech, And is there not here under thine hand ſpear or ſword? for I have neither brought my ſword, nor my weapons with me, becauſe the kings buſineſs required haſte.

9 And the prieſt ſaid, The ſword of Goliath the Philiſtine, whom thou ſleweſt in the valley of Elah, behold, it is here wrapt in a cloth behind the ephod: if thou wilt take that, take it: for there is no other ſave that, here. And David ſaid, There is none like that, give it me.

10 ¶ And David aroſe, and fled that day for fear of Saul, and went to Achiſh the king of Gath.

Before Christ 1062.

11 And the ſervant of Achiſh ſaid unto him, Is not this David the king of the land? did they not ſing one to another of him in dances, ſaying, Saul hath ſlain his thouſands, and David his ten thouſands?

12 And David laid up theſe words in his heart, and was ſore afraid of Achiſh the king of Gath.

13 And he changed his behaviour before them, and feigned himſelf mad in their hands, and ſcrabbled on the doors of the gate, and let his ſpittle fall down upon his beard.

14 Then ſaid Achiſh unto his ſervants, Lo, you ſee the man is mad: wherefore then have ye brought him to me?

15 Have I need of madmen, that ye have brought this fellow to play the madman in my preſence? ſhall this fellow come into my houſe?

Ver. 7. Detained before the Lord.] By reaſon of ſome vow, or religious performance, to which he had obliged himſelf.

Ver. 8. I have neither brought my ſword, &c.] It muſt be owned, that here again David did not abſolutely ſpeak the truth.

Ver. 9. The ſword of Goliath—is here, &c] It was uſual, not only among the Jews, but the heathens likewiſe, to hang up the arms taken from their enemies, in their temples, as trophies of victory; and it was no unuſual thing, to take them down, and uſe them again, when any preſſing occaſion required it: hence that ſaying of Seneca, pro republica plerumque templa nudant.

NOTES on Chap. XXII.

Ver. 1. The cave of Adullam.] This was a town in the tribe of Judah, where there was a rock of the ſame name, in which was a cave, naturally ſtrong and well fortified. Moſt of the mountains of Paleſtine were full of caverns, whither the country people generally retired in time of war.

when his brethren, and all his fathers houſe heard it, they went down thither to him.

2 And every one that was in diſtreſs, and every one that was in debt, and every one that was diſcontented, gathered themſelves unto him, and he became a captain over them: and there were with him about four hundred men.

3 ¶ And David went thence to Mizpeh of Moab: and he ſaid unto the king of Moab, Let my father and my mother, I pray thee, come forth, and be with you, till I know what God will do for me.

4 And he brought them before the king of Moab: and they dwelt with him all the while that David was in the hold.

5 ¶ And the prophet Gad ſaid unto David, Abide not in the hold, depart, and get thee into the land of Judah. Then David departed, and came into the foreſt of Hareth.

6 ¶ When Saul heard that David was diſcovered, and the men that were with him, (now Saul abode in Gibeah under a tree in Ramah, having his ſpear in his hand, and all his ſervants were ſtanding about him)

10 And he enquired of the LORD for him: and gave him victuals, and gave him the ſword of Goliath the Philiſtine.

11 Then the king ſent to call Ahimelech the prieſt, the ſon of Ahitub, and all his fathers houſe, the prieſts that were in Nob: and they came all of them to the king.

12 And Saul ſaid, Hear now, thou ſon of Ahitub: And he anſwered, Here I am, my lord.

13 And Saul ſaid unto him, Why have ye conſpired againſt me, thou and the ſon of Jeſſe, in that thou haſt given him bread, and a ſword, and haſt enquired of God for him, that he ſhould riſe againſt me, to lie in wait, as at this day?

14 Then Ahimelech anſwered the king, and ſaid, And who is ſo faithful among all thy ſervants, as David, which is the kings ſon in law, and goeth at thy bidding, and is honourable in thine houſe?

Ver. 2. Every one that was in diſtreſs.] It is to be preſumed, that he took no refugees under his protection, but ſuch as were forced to fly from Saul's injuſtice or oppreſſion, and ſuch debtors only, as were under a real inability to ſatisfy their creditors; becauſe, it is plain, he meditated no defection or revolt. Cæſar tells us, that among the Gauls, thoſe who were in debt, &c. betook themſelves to the ſervice of ſome eminent man for protection; (plerique cum aut ære alieno, &c. De Bell. Gall. lib. 6. cap. 13.) by him they were maintained, and devoted themſelves under a ſolemn obligation, to live and die with him. Theſe were called, in the Gallic language, ſoldarii; and from hence the word ſoldier. But the ſervants of the king would not put forth their hand to fall upon the prieſts of the LORD.

2 Therefore David enquired of the LORD, ſaying, Shall I go and ſmite theſe Philiſtines? and the LORD ſaid unto David, Go, and ſmite the Philiſtines, and ſave Keilah.

3 And Davids men ſaid unto him, Behold, we be afraid here in Judah: how much more then if we come to Keilah againſt the armies of the Philiſtines?

4 Then David enquired of the LORD yet again. And the LORD anſwered him and ſaid, Ariſe, go down to Keilah; for I will deliver the Philiſtines into thine hand.

5 So David and his men went to Keilah, and fought with the Philiſtines, and brought away their cattle, and ſmote them with a great ſlaughter: ſo David ſaved the inhabitants of Keilah.

6 And it came to paſs when Abiathar the ſon of Ahimelech, fled to David to Keilah, that he came down with an ephod in his hand.

Ver. 16. Thou ſhalt ſurely die, Ahimelech.] Ahimelech could not be conſidered as guilty, ſince he did not know that David was flying from the king; but imagined, he was ſent on ſome buſineſs of public concern.

Ver. 17. Turn and ſlay the prieſts of the Lord.] A dreadful idea this, of the power of an abſolute monarch!

Ver. 18. And Doeg—turned, &c.] It is frequent, for ſuch favourites of princes, not only to accuſe the innocent and deſerving, but likewiſe to execute the moſt ſevere and unjuſt commands.

Slew fourſcore and five perſons.] An act of abominable cruelty in Saul, yet ſerved to fulfil a purpoſe of God againſt Eli's houſe, as Joſephus applies it. The Septuagint makes the number ſlain 305, and Joſephus 385.

NOTES on Chap. XXIII.

Ver. 1. They told David.] They had told David.

Ver. 6. With an ephod.] With the ephod, to which the Urim and Thummim is annexed.

Before Christ 1061.

7 ¶ And it was told Saul that David was come to Keilah: and Saul ſaid, God hath delivered him into mine hand; for he is ſhut in, by entering into a town that hath gates and bars.

8 And Saul called all the people together to war, to go down to Keilah, to beſiege David and his men.

9 ¶ And David knew that Saul ſecretly practiſed miſchief againſt him; and he ſaid to Abiathar the prieſt, Bring hither the ephod.

10 Then ſaid David, O LORD God of Iſrael, thy ſervant hath certainly heard that Saul ſeeketh to come to Keilah, to deſtroy the city for my ſake.

11 Will the men of Keilah deliver me up into his hand? will Saul come down as thy ſervant hath heard? O LORD God of Iſrael, I beſeech thee, tell thy ſervant. And the LORD ſaid, He will come down.

12 Then ſaid David, will the men of Keilah deliver me and my men into the hand of Saul? And the LORD ſaid, They will deliver thee up.

13 ¶ Then David and his men, which were about ſix hundred, aroſe and departed out of Keilah, and went whitherſoever they could go: and it was told Saul that David was eſcaped from Keilah, and he forbare to go forth.

14 And David abode in the wilderneſs, in ſtrong holds, and remained in a mountain, in the wilderneſs of Ziph: And Saul ſought him every day, but God delivered him not into his hand.

15 And David ſaw that Saul was come out to ſeek his life: and David was in the wilderneſs of Ziph in a wood.

16 And Jonathan Sauls ſon aroſe, and went to David into the wood, and ſtrengthened his hand in God.

Before Christ 1061.

17 And he ſaid unto him, Fear not: for the hand of Saul my father ſhall not find thee, and thou ſhalt be king over Iſrael, and I ſhall be next unto thee; and that alſo Saul my father knoweth.

18 And they two made a covenant before the LORD: and David abode in the wood, and Jonathan went to his houſe.

19 ¶ Then came up the Ziphites to Saul to Gibeah, ſaying, Doth not David hide himſelf with us in ſtrong holds in the wood, in the hill of Hachilah, which is on the ſouth of Jeſhimon?

20 Now therefore, O king, come down according to all the deſire of thy ſoul to come down, and our part ſhall be to deliver him into the kings hand.

21 And Saul ſaid, Bleſſed be ye of the LORD; for ye have compaſſion on me.

22 Go, I pray you, prepare yet, and know, and ſee his place where his haunt is, and who hath ſeen him there: for it is told me that he dealeth very ſubtilly.

23 See therefore, and take knowledge of all the lurking-places where he hideth himſelf, and come ye again to me with the certainty, and I will go with you: and it ſhall come to paſs, if he be in the land, that I will ſearch him out throughout all the thouſands of Judah.

24 And they aroſe, and went to Ziph before Saul: but David and his men were in the wilderneſs of Maon, in the plain on the ſouth of Jeſhimon.

25 Saul alſo and his men went to ſeek him; and they told David: wherefore he came down into a rock, and abode in the wil-

Ver. 16. ſtrengthened his hand in God.] That is, he encouraged him by the renewal of his promiſe to him, and of the ſolemn covenant they had formerly made.

Ver. 19. Then came up the Ziphites to Saul.] According to Jerom, the city of Ziph lay in the ſouthern part of the tribe of Judah, about eight miles eaſt of Hebron. Theſe people were of the tribe of Judah, and therefore David might think himſelf more ſecure among them, being of the ſame tribe.

Ver. 24. Were in the wilderneſs of Maon.] Having notice of the intended treachery of the Ziphites, he diſappointed their deſign, by retiring into this deſert.

wilderneſs of Maon: and when Saul heard that, he purſued after David in the wilderneſs of Maon.

26 And Saul went on this ſide of the mountain, and David and his men on that ſide of the mountain: And David made haſte to get away for fear of Saul; for Saul and his men compaſſed David and his men round about to take them.

27 ¶ But there came a meſſenger unto Saul, ſaying, Haſte thee, and come; for the Philiſtines have invaded the land.

28 Wherefore Saul returned from purſuing after David, and went againſt the Philiſtines: therefore they called that place Sela-hammah-lekoth.

29 ¶ And David went up from thence, and dwelt in ſtrongs holds at En-gedi.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 David in a cave at En-gedi, having cut off Sauls ſkirt, ſpareth his life: 8 He ſheweth thereby his innocency. 16 Saul acknowledging his fault, taketh an oath of David, and departeth.

AND it came to paſs when Saul was returned from following the Philiſtines, that it was told him, ſaying, Behold, David is in the wilderneſs of En-gedi.

2 Then Saul took three thouſand choſen men out of all Iſrael, and went to ſeek David and his men upon the rocks of the wild goats.

Before Christ 1061.

3 And he came to the ſheep-cotes, by the way, where was a cave, and Saul went in to cover his feet: and David and his men remained in the ſides of the cave.

4 And the men of David ſaid unto him, Behold, the day of which the LORD ſaid unto thee, Behold, I will deliver thine enemy into thine hand, that thou mayeſt do to him as it ſhall ſeem good unto thee. Then David aroſe, and cut off the ſkirt of Sauls robe privily.

5 And it came to paſs afterward, that Davids heart ſmote him, becauſe he had cut off Sauls ſkirt.

6 And he ſaid unto his men, The LORD forbid, that I ſhould do this thing unto my maſter the LORDS anointed, to ſtretch forth mine hand againſt him, ſeeing he is the anointed of the LORD.

7 So David ſtayed his ſervants with theſe words, and ſuffered them not to riſe againſt Saul: but Saul roſe up out of the cave, and went on his way.

8 David alſo aroſe afterward, and went out of the cave, and cried after Saul, ſaying, My lord the king. And when Saul looked behind him, David ſtooped with his face to the earth, and bowed himſelf.

9 ¶ And

Ver. 27. There came a meſſenger unto Saul, &c.] A remarkable inſtance of the interpoſition of the divine providence, which at this juncture ſtirred up the Philiſtines to make an irruption into the territories of Iſrael, in order to preſerve David.

Ver. 28. Sela-hammah-lekoth.] That is, the rock of diviſions.

Ver. 29. Dwelt in ſtrong holds at En-gedi.] Now called Anguedi. It was formerly a large village, ſituate in the deſerts that lay on the weſtern coaſt of the Dead-ſea, not far from Jericho. The country abounded with mountains and caves. Solomon celebrates it in his ſong, for vineyards.

Notes on Chap. XXIV.

Ver. 3. To cover his feet.] This, we may underſtand, of his lying down to ſleep.

David and his men remained in the ſides of the cave.] Some of theſe caves were exceeding large. Dr. Pocock tells us, that he viſited one, in which David and his men might eaſily be hid, and conjectures from hence, that this is one of the ſtrong holds of En-gedi, and poſſibly the ſame mentioned by the ſacred writer. Strabo mentions one that would contain 4000 perſons.

Ver. 4. David aroſe, and cut off the ſkirt of Sauls robe privily.] This he might eaſily do while he was aſleep; for ſo the words, to cover his feet, ſeem to imply. See the note on Judges iii. 24. Some think rather, that it was an upper looſe garment, which he had laid aſide on this occaſion.

Ver. 5. Davids heart ſmote him, becauſe he had cut off Saul's ſkirt.] Becauſe he had offered ſuch an indignity to his prince; from which example of David, under all the provocations he had received, we may learn, that the perſons of kings are ſacred and inviolable.

Ver. 8. Went out of the cave, and cried after Saul.] A bold attempt, to venture to come into the preſence of ſuch an enraged enemy! But his innocence and confidence in God emboldened him, eſpecially having ſo ſtrong an evidence to give him of his integrity.

Before Christ 1061. 9 ¶ And David ſaid to Saul, Wherefore heareſt thou mens words, ſaying, Behold, David ſeeketh thy hurt?

10 Behold, this day thine eyes have ſeen, how that the LORD had delivered thee to day into mine hand in the cave: and ſome bade me kill thee, but mine eye ſpared thee, and I ſaid, I will not put forth mine hand againſt my lord; for he is the LORDS anointed.

11 Moreover, my father, ſee, yea, ſee the ſkirt of thy robe in my hand: for in that I cut off the ſkirt of thy robe, and killed thee not; know thou and ſee, that there is neither evil nor tranſgreſſion in mine hand, and I have not ſinned againſt thee; yet thou hunteſt my ſoul, to take it.

12 The LORD judge between me and thee, and the LORD avenge me of thee: but mine hand ſhall not be upon thee.

13 As ſaith the proverb of the ancients, Wickedneſs proceedeth from the wicked: but mine hand ſhall not be upon thee.

14 After whom is the king of Iſrael come out? after whom doſt thou purſue? after a dead dog, after a flea.

15 The LORD therefore be judge, and judge between me and thee, and ſee, and plead my cauſe, and deliver me out of thine hand.

16 ¶ And it came to paſs when David had made an end of ſpeaking theſe words unto Saul, that Saul ſaid, Is this thy voice, my ſon David? And Saul lift up his voice and wept.

17 And he ſaid to David, Thou art more righteous than I: for thou haſt rewarded me good, whereas I have rewarded thee evil. Before Christ 1061.

18 And thou haſt ſhewed this day how that thou haſt dealt well with me: foraſmuch as when the LORD had delivered me into thine hand, thou killedſt me not.

19 For if a man find his enemy, will he let him go well away? wherefore the LORD reward thee good, for that thou haſt done unto me this day.

20 And now behold, I know well that thou ſhalt ſurely be king, and that the kingdom of Iſrael ſhall be eſtabliſhed in thine hand.

21 Swear now therefore unto me by the LORD, that thou wilt not cut off my ſeed after me, and that thou wilt not deſtroy my name out of my fathers houſe.

22 And David ſware unto Saul: and Saul went home; but David and his men gat them up unto the hold.

CHAP. XXV.

1 Samuel dieth. 2 David in Paran ſendeth to Nabal. 10 Provoked by Nabals churliſhneſs, he mindeth to deſtroy him. 14 Abigail underſtanding thereof, 18 taketh a preſent, 23 and by her wiſdom, 32 pacifieth David. 36 Nabal hearing thereof, dieth.

AND Samuel died, and all the Iſraelites were gathered together, and 1060.

Ver. 14. Doſt thou purſue a dead dog, or a flea?] He repreſents himſelf as contemptible as poſſible, to convince Saul, that it was not for his honour, to take ſo much pains to kill him. Shall a king triumph over a dog, or a lion hunt a flea?

Ver. 22. David ſware unto Saul.] It has been aſked how David, after this ſolemn promiſe, could ſlay ſo many of his ſons, as mentioned 2 Samuel xxi. 8. To this, it may be anſwered, that the promiſe or oath made by David to Saul, could only be conditional; for, if any of Saul's family had joined in rebellion, they would, notwithſtanding this oath, have become obnoxious to the ſword of juſtice. Beſides, this execution was done at the deſire of the Gibeonites, to whom God himſelf had promiſed, that ſatisfaction ſhould be made for Saul's bloody endeavours to deſtroy them.

Gat them up into the hold.] For, knowing the inconſtancy of Saul's temper, he feared to truſt him. Says the ſon of Sirach, Never truſt thine enemy, though he humbleth himſelf, yet take good heed, and beware of him.

NOTES on Chap. XXV.

Ver. 1. Samuel died.] By the generality of chronologers, Samuel is ſuppoſed to have died about two years before

Before Christ 1060. lamented him, and buried him in his houſe at Ramah. And David aroſe and went down to the wilderneſs of Paran.

2 And there was a man in Maon, whoſe poſſeſſions were in Carmel, and the man was very great, and he had three thouſand ſheep, and a thouſand goats: and he was ſhearing his ſheep in Carmel.

3 Now the name of the man was Nabal, and the name of his wife, Abigail: and ſhe was a woman of good underſtanding, and of a beautiful countenance; but the man was churliſh, and evil in his doings, and he was of the houſe of Caleb.

4 ¶ And David heard in the wilderneſs, that Nabal did ſhear his ſheep.

5 And David ſent out ten young men, and David ſaid unto the young men, Get you up to Carmel, and go to Nabal, and greet him in my name.

6 And thus ſhall ye ſay to him that liveth in proſperity, Peace be both to thee, and peace be to thine houſe, and peace be unto all that thou haſt.

7 And now I have heard that thou haſt ſhearers: now thy ſhepherds which were with us, we hurt them not, neither was there ought miſſing unto them, all the while they were in Carmel.

8 Aſk thy young men, and they will ſhew thee: wherefore let the young men find favour in thine eyes: (for we come in a good day) give, I pray thee, whatſoever cometh to thine hand, unto thy ſervants, and to thy ſon David. Before Christ 1060.

9 And when Davids young men came, they ſpake to Nabal according to all thoſe words in the name of David, and ceaſed.

10 ¶ And Nabal anſwered Davids ſervants, and ſaid, Who is David? and who is the ſon of Jeſſe? there be many ſervants now a days that break away every man from his maſter.

11 Shall I then take my bread and my water, and my fleſh that I have killed for my ſhearers, and give it unto men, whom I know not whence they be?

12 So Davids young men turned their way, and went again, and came and told him all thoſe ſayings.

13 And David ſaid unto his men, Gird you on every man his ſword. And they girded on every man his ſword, and David alſo girded on his ſword: and there went up after David about four hundred men, and two hundred abode by the ſtuff.

14 ¶ But one of the young men told Abigail Nabals wife, ſaying, Behold, David ſent meſſengers out of the wilderneſs to ſalute our maſter; and he railed on them.

15 But the men were very good unto us, and we were not hurt, neither miſſed we any thing as long as we were converſant before Saul, and in the 98th year of his age; twenty of which had been ſpent in the government of Iſrael, before Saul's inauguration; after which, he lived about eighteen-years. As to his charracter, he was an excellent governor, and through his whole adminiſtration, above vanity, corruption, or any private views. He was modeſt without meanneſs, mild without weakneſs, firm without obſtinacy, and ſevere without harſhneſs.

Buried him at his houſe in Ramah.] Here he was born, and had ſpent many years of his life. In the time, of the emperor Arcadius, his body was tranſported from Paleſtine to Conſtantinople; and as Jerom informs us, was received by the clergy and laity with a joy unſpeakable, and honours almoſt infinite.

The wilderneſs of Paran.] Lying on the ſouth ſide of the wilderneſs of Judea, bordering upon Arabia. Some make it to be a part of Arabia Deſerta; ſo that now it was David dwelt in the tents of Kedar, (which was another name for Paran) Pſalm cxx. 5.

Ver. 2. Carmel.] There were two Carmels; one on the confines of Aſhur and Zebulun, and the other near Hebron, in the tribe of Judah, and which is here meant. See Joſhua xv. 55.

Ver. 3. The houſe of Caleb.] Deſcended, but degenerated from a worthy anceſtor. The word Caleb ſignifies a dog; ſome ancient interpreters, therefore, underſtand it here, as if the ſacred writer inſinuated, that he was of a dog-like diſpoſition and manners. Accordingly the Septuagint tranſlate it, O ANTHROPOS KUNIKOS, a dogged man, or a Cynic.

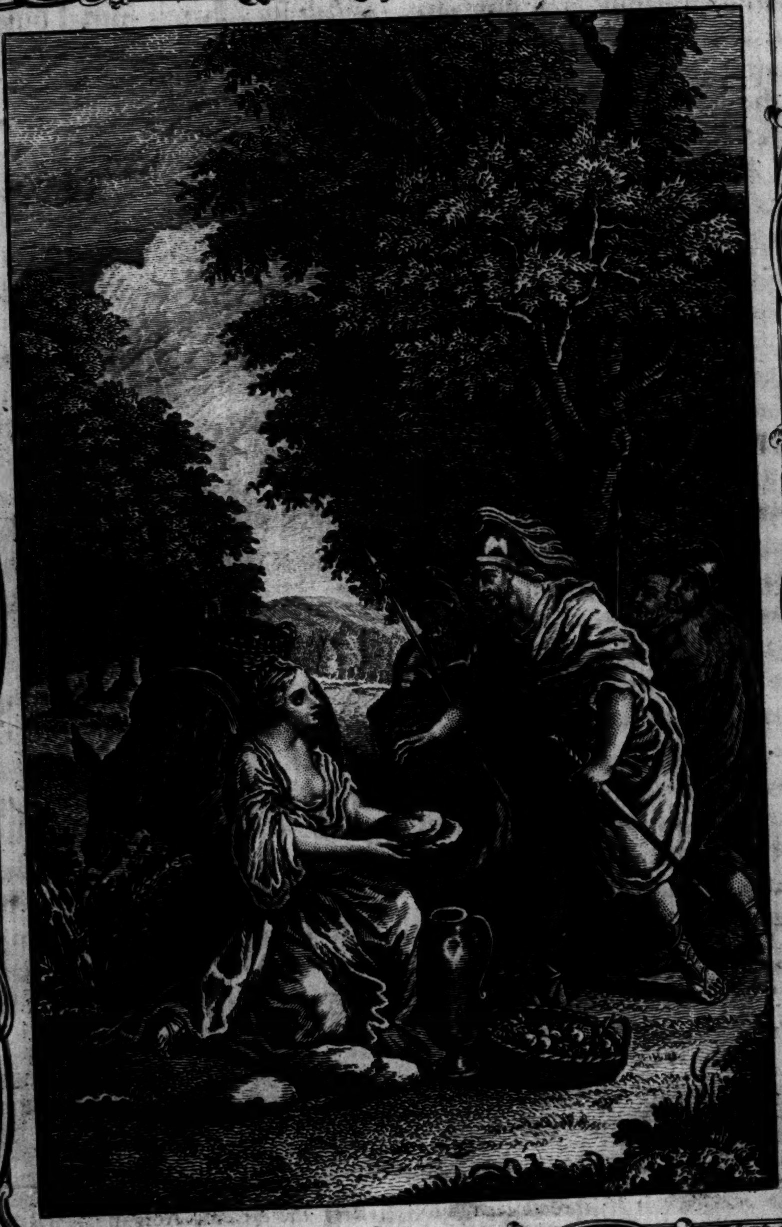
Abigail bringeth Preſents to David



And when Abigail saw David, she hasted, & lighted off the Aſs, & fell before David on her Face, & bowed herſelf to the Ground. I. Sam XXV. 23.

Before Christ 1060.

ſant with them, when we were in the fields.

16 They were a wall unto us both by night and day, all the while we were with them keeping the ſheep.

17 Now therefore know and conſider what thou wilt do: for evil is determined againſt our maſter, and againſt all his houſhold: for he is ſuch a ſon of Belial, that a man cannot ſpeak to him.

18 ¶ Then Abigail made haſte, and took two hundred loaves, and two bottles of wine, and five ſheep ready dreſſed, and five meaſures of parched corn, and an hundred cluſters of raiſins, and two hundred cakes of figs, and laid them on aſſes.

19 And ſhe ſaid unto her ſervants, Go on before me, behold, I come after you: but ſhe told not her huſband Nabal.

20 And it was ſo, as ſhe rode on the aſs, that ſhe came down by the covert of the hill, and behold, David and his men came down againſt her, and ſhe met them.

21 (Now David had ſaid, Surely in vain have I kept all that this fellow hath in the wilderneſs, ſo that nothing was miſſed of all that pertained unto him: and he hath requited me evil for good.

22 So and more alſo do God unto the enemies of David, if I leave of all that pertain to him by the morning light, any that piſſeth againſt the wall.)

23 And when Abigail ſaw David, ſhe haſted, and lighted off the aſs, and fell before David on her face, and bowed herſelf to the ground,

24 And fell at his feet, and ſaid, Upon me, my lord, upon me, let this iniquity be, and let thine handmaid, I pray thee, ſpeak in thine audience, and hear the words of thine handmaid.

Before Christ 1060.

25 Let not my lord, I pray thee, regard this man of Belial, even Nabal: for as his name is ſo is he; Nabal is his name, and folly is with him: but I thine handmaid ſaw not the young men of my lord, whom thou didſt ſend.

26 Now therefore, my lord, as the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, ſeeing the LORD hath withholden thee from coming to ſhed blood, and from avenging thyſelf with thine own hand: now let thine enemies, and they that ſeek evil to my lord, be as Nabal.

27 And now this bleſſing which thine handmaid hath brought unto my lord, let it even be given unto the young men that follow my lord.

28 I pray thee, forgive the treſpaſs of thine handmaid: for the LORD will certainly make my lord a ſure houſe: becauſe my lord fighteth the battels of the LORD, and evil hath not been found in thee all thy days.

29 Yet a man is riſen to purſue thee, and to ſeek thy ſoul: but the ſoul of my lord ſhall be bound in the bundle of life with the LORD thy God; and the ſouls of thine enemies, them ſhall he ſling out, as out of the middle of a ſling.

30 And it ſhall come to paſs, when the LORD ſhall have done to my lord according to all the good that he hath ſpoken concerning thee, and ſhall have appointed thee ruler over Iſrael;

31 That this ſhall be no grief unto thee, nor offence of heart unto my lord, either

Ver. 18. Two bottles of wine.] It has been already obſerved, that in thoſe eaſtern countries, they carried and kept their wine in goat-ſkins, or leather bags made on purpoſe, which we tranſlate bottles. In the marginal note of our old bible, Matthew ix. 19. bottles are explained by bags of leather, two ſkins or borachios, in which wine was carried on aſſes or camels. Two ſuch veſſels would, no doubt, hold a quantity of wine, proportionate to the reſt of the preſents Abigail carried with her. See note on Joſhua ix. 4.

Ver. 26. Be as Nabal.] No worſe an enemy than he is; or, may thine enemies have no more power to hurt thee than Nabal hath.

Ver. 27. Let it be given unto the young men.] This was modeſt and genteel; intimating, that ſhe thought the preſent unworthy the acceptance of David.

Before Chriſt 1060.

either that thou haſt ſhed blood cauſeleſs, or that my lord hath avenged himſelf: but when the LORD ſhall have dealt well with my lord, then remember thine handmaid.

32 ¶ And David ſaid to Abigail, Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael, which ſent thee this day to meet me;

33 And bleſſed be thy advice, and bleſſed be thou, which haſt kept me this day from coming to ſhed blood, and from avenging myſelf with mine own hand.

34 For in very deed, as the LORD God of Iſrael liveth, which hath kept me back from hurting thee, except thou hadſt haſted and come to meet me, ſurely there had not been left unto Nabal, by the morning light, any that piſſeth againſt the wall.

35 So David received of her hand that which ſhe had brought him, and ſaid unto her, Go up in peace to thine houſe; ſee, I have hearkened to thy voice, and have accepted thy perſon.

36 ¶ And Abigail came to Nabal; and behold, he held a feaſt in his houſe, like the feaſt of a king; and Nabals heart was merry within him, for he was very drunken: wherefore ſhe told him nothing, leſs or more, until the morning light.

37 But it came to paſs in the morning, when the wine was gone out of Nabal, and his wife had told him theſe things, that his heart died within him, and he became as a ſtone.

38 And it came to paſs about ten days after, that the LORD ſmote Nabal, that he died.

Before Chriſt 1060.

39 ¶ And when David heard that Nabal was dead, he ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD that hath pleaded the cauſe of my reproach from the hand of Nabal, and hath kept his ſervant from evil: for the LORD hath returned the wickedneſs of Nabal upon his own head. And David ſent and communed with Abigail, to take her to him to wife.

40 And when the ſervants of David were come to Abigail to Carmel, they ſpake unto her, ſaying, David ſent us unto thee, to take thee to him to wife.

41 And ſhe aroſe, and bowed herſelf on her face to the earth, and ſaid, Behold, let thine handmaid be a ſervant to waſh the feet of the ſervants of my lord.

42 And Abigail haſted, and aroſe, and rode upon an aſs, with five damſels of hers that went after her; and ſhe went after the meſſengers of David, and became his wife.

43 David alſo took Ahinoam of Jezreel, and they were alſo both of them his wives.

44 But Saul had given Michal his daughter, Davids wife, to Phalti the ſon of Laiſh, which was of Gallim.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 Saul by the diſcovery of the Ziphites, cometh to Hachilah againſt David. 4 David coming into the trench, ſtayeth Abiſhai from killing Saul, but taketh his ſpear

Ver. 31. Then remember thine hand-maid.] Then thou wilt thank me for my advice. This whole ſpeech, is certainly an artful piece of eloquence, and full of fine turns and informations: nor is that of Joſephus much amiſs; "Be pleaſed, Sir, I beſeech you, to accept of the goodwill of your poor ſervant, in theſe ſmall preſents, and upon my humble requeſt, to paſs over the offence of my huſband, who has ſo juſtly incurred your diſpleaſure; for there is nothing ſo well becoming the character of a perſon, whom providence deſigns for a crown, as clemency and compaſſion."

Ver. 37. His heart died within him, and he became as a ſtone.] He was ſo aſtoniſhed at the danger he had eſcaped, that he was ſeized with a numbneſs or palſy, and in ten days after expired.

Ver. 44. But Saul had given Michal, Davids wife, to Phalti.] The particle, rendered but, ſhould have been tranſlated for; this being the cauſe why David took another wife. The reaſon why Saul put this indignity upon David, was to extinguiſh, as far as in his power, all relation and kindred, and to cut off his hopes and pretenſions to the crown on that account.

ſpear and cruſe. 21 Saul acknowledgeth his ſin.

AND the Ziphites came unto Saul to Gibeah, ſaying, Doth not David hide himſelf in the hill of Hachilah which is before Jeſhimon?

2 Then Saul aroſe, and went down to the wilderneſs of Ziph, having three thouſand choſen men of Iſrael with him, to ſeek David in the wilderneſs of Ziph.

3 And Saul pitched in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeſhimon by the way: but David abode in the wilderneſs, and he ſaw that Saul came after him into the wilderneſs.

4 David therefore ſent out ſpies, and underſtood that Saul was come in very deed.

5 ¶ And David aroſe, and came to the place where Saul had pitched: and David beheld the place where Saul lay, and Abner the ſon of Ner, the captain of his hoſt: and Saul lay in the trench, and the people pitched round about him.

6 Then anſwered David and ſaid to Ahimelech the Hittite, and to Abiſhai the ſon of Zeruiah brother to Joab, ſaying, Who will go down with me to Saul to the camp? And Abiſhai ſaid, I will go down with thee.

7 So David and Abiſhai came to the people by night, and behold, Saul lay ſleeping within the trench, and his ſpear ſtuck in the ground at his bolſter: but Abner and the people lay round about him.

8 Then ſaid Abiſhai to David, God hath delivered thine enemy into thine hand this day: now therefore let me ſmite him, I pray thee, with the ſpear, even to the earth at once, and I will not ſmite him the ſecond time.

Before Chriſt 1060.

9 And David ſaid to Abiſhai, Deſtroy him not: for who can ſtretch forth his hand againſt the LORDS anointed, and be guiltleſs?

10 David ſaid furthermore, As the LORD liveth, the LORD ſhall ſmite him, or his day ſhall come to die, or he ſhall deſcend into battel, and periſh.

11 The LORD forbid that I ſhould ſtretch forth mine hand againſt the LORDS anointed: but I pray thee, take thou now the ſpear that is at his bolſter, and the cruſe of water, and let us go.

12 So David took the ſpear and the cruſe of water from Sauls bolſter, and they gat them away, and no man ſaw it, nor knew it, neither awaked, for they were all aſleep, becauſe a deep ſleep from the LORD was fallen upon them.

13 ¶ Then David went over to the other ſide, and ſtood on the top of an hill afar off, (a great ſpace being between them)

14 And David cried to the people, and to Abner the ſon of Ner, ſaying, Anſwereſt thou not, Abner? Then Abner anſwered and ſaid, Who art thou that crieſt to the king?

15 And David ſaid to Abner, Art not thou a valiant man? and who is like to thee in Iſrael? wherefore then haſt thou not kept thy lord the king? for there came 16 This thing is not good that thou haſt done: as the Lord liveth, ye are worthy to die, becauſe ye have not kept your maſter the Lords anointed: and now ſee where the kings ſpear is, and the cruſe of water, that was at his bolſter.

17 And Saul knew Davids voice, and ſaid, Is this thy voice, my ſon David? And David ſaid, It is my voice, my lord, O king.

18 And he ſaid, Wherefore doth my lord thus purſue after his ſervant? for what have I done? or what evil is in mine hand?

19 Now therefore, I pray thee, let my lord the king hear the words of his ſervant: If the Lord have ſtirred thee up againſt me, let him accept an offering: but if they be the children of men, curſed be they before the Lord; for they have driven me out this day from abiding in the inheritance of the Lord, ſaying, Go ſerve other gods.

20 Now therefore, let not my blood fall to the earth before the face of the Lord: for the king of Iſrael is come out to ſeek a flea, as when one doth hunt a partridge in the mountains.

21 ¶ Then ſaid Saul, I have ſinned: return, my ſon David, for I will no more do thee harm, becauſe my ſoul was precious in thine eyes this day: behold, I have played the fool, and have erred exceedingly.

22 And David anſwered and ſaid, Behold, the kings ſpear, and let one of the young men come over and fetch it. Before Christ 1060.

23 The Lord render to every man his righteouſneſs, and his faithfulneſs: for the Lord delivered thee into my hand to day, but I would not ſtretch forth mine hand againſt the Lords anointed.

24 And behold, as thy life was much ſet by this day in mine eyes; ſo let my life be much ſet by in the eyes of the Lord, and let him deliver me out of all tribulation.

25 Then Saul ſaid to David, Bleſſed be thou, my ſon David: thou ſhalt both do great things, and alſo ſhalt ſtill prevail. So David went on his way, and Saul returned to his place.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Saul hearing David to be in Gath, ſeeketh no more for him. 5 David beggeth Ziklag of Achiſh: 8 He invading other countries, perſuading Achiſh he fought againſt Judah.

1058. AND David ſaid in his heart, I ſhall now periſh one day by the hand of Saul: there is nothing better for me, than that I ſhould ſpeedily eſcape into the land of the Philiſtines; and Saul ſhall deſpair of me, to ſeek me any more in any coaſt of Iſrael: ſo ſhall I eſcape out of his hand.

2 And David aroſe, and he paſſed over with the ſix hundred men that were with him, unto Achiſh the ſon of Maoch king of Gath.

3 And David dwelt with Achiſh at Gath,

Ver. 20. A partridge in the mountains.] Bochart, Lamy, and Pool, ſay, the word which we tranſlate partridge, ought to be rendered a woodcock. The word occurs again in Jeremiah xvii. 11.

Notes on Chap. XXVII.

Ver. 1. I ſhall now periſh one day by the hand of Saul.] David knew the inſtability of Saul's temper: but ſince he had the promiſe of God to the contrary, he had not the leaſt reaſon to think he ſhould periſh by his hands; theſe words therefore, were certainly ſpoken in a melancholy, and under ſome great depreſſion of ſpirits.

Before Chriſt 1058. Gath, he and his men, every man with his houſhold, even David with his two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreeliteſs, and Abigail the Carmeliteſs Nabals wife.

4 And it was told Saul that David was fled to Gath: and he ſought no more again for him.

5 ¶ And David ſaid unto Achiſh, If I have now found grace in thine eyes, let them give me a place in ſome town in the country, that I may dwell there: for why ſhould thy ſervant dwell in the royal city with thee?

6 Then Achiſh gave him Ziklag that day: wherefore Ziklag pertaineth unto the kings of Judah unto this day.

7 And the time that David dwelt in the country of the Philiſtines, was a full year and four months.

8 ¶ And David and his men went up and invaded the Geſhurites, and the Gezrites, and the Amalekites: for thoſe nations were of old the inhabitants of the land, as thou goeſt to Shur, even unto the land of Egypt.

9 And David ſmote the land, and left neither man nor woman alive, and took away the ſheep, and the oxen, and the aſſes, and the camels, and the apparel, and returned, and came to Achiſh.

10 And Achiſh ſaid, Whither have ye made a rode to day? And David ſaid, Againſt the ſouth of Judah, and againſt the ſouth of the Jerahmeelites, and againſt the ſouth of the Kenites.

11 And David ſaved neither man nor woman alive, to bring tidings to Gath, ſaying, Leſt they ſhould tell on us, ſaying, So did David, and ſo will be his manner, all the while he dwelleth in the country of the Philiſtines. Before Chriſt 1058.

12 And Achiſh believed David, ſaying, He hath made his people Iſrael utterly to abhor him; therefore he ſhall be my ſervant for ever.

2 And David ſaid to Achiſh, Surely thou ſhalt know what thy ſervant can do. And Achiſh ſaid to David, Therefore will I make thee keeper of mine head for ever.

3 ¶ Now Samuel was dead, and all Iſrael had lamented him, and buried him in Ramah, even in his own city: and Saul had put away thoſe that had familiar ſpirits, and the wizards, out of the land.

Ver. 6. Ziglag.] This place was ſituated in the extreme parts of the tribe of Judah, near Hormah, where the Iſraelites were defeated, while they ſojourned in the wilderneſs.

Ver. 8. Geſhurites—Gezrites—Amalekites.] None of theſe three nations were Philiſtines.

Ver. 10. Againſt the ſouth of Judah.] By which nations, David in reality meant, the Geſhurites, and the Gezrites, relicts of the Canaanites, whom God ordered to be extirpated, and who, in truth, did live to the ſouth of Judah; but Achiſh underſtood him in a quite different ſenſe, viz. that he had fallen on his own countrymen. This, it muſt be confeſſed, though not an abſolute falſhood, was an equivocation, and intended to deceive; and did but ill comport with that honeſty and ſimplicity which became David, both as a prince, and a profeſſor of the true religion; wherein he is no way to be excuſed, much leſs imitated. We ſee, however, the impartiality of the ſacred writings, in ſetting forth the frailties and infirmities of holy men, no doubt, that we may guard againſt thoſe errors which the beſt are liable to; and which we cannot eſcape, without great care and circumſpection.

6 And when Saul enquired of the LORD, the LORD anſwered him not, neither by dreams, nor by Urim, nor by prophets.

7 ¶ Then ſaid Saul unto his ſervants, Seek me a woman that hath a familiar ſpirit, that I may go to her, and enquire of her. And his ſervants ſaid to him, Behold, there is a woman that hath a familiar ſpirit at En-dor.

8 And Saul diſguiſed himſelf, and put on other raiment, and he went, and two men with him, and they came to the woman by night; and he ſaid, I pray thee, divine unto me, by the familiar ſpirit, and bring me him up whom I ſhall name unto thee.

12 And when the woman ſaw Samuel, ſhe cried with a loud voice: and the woman ſpake to Saul, ſaying, Why haſt thou deceived me? for thou art Saul.

13 And the king ſaid unto her, Be not afraid: for what ſaweſt thou? And the woman ſaid unto Saul, I ſaw gods aſcending out of the earth.

> Or learn the waſteful vengeance to remove

Ver. 7. Seek me a woman that hath a familiar ſpirit.] This was a ſtrange infatuation in Saul, to put his confidence in ſorcerers, whom he had baniſhed, as thoſe who profeſſed unwarrantable arts; and as if a witch, by her incantations, was capable of allaying the uneaſineſs of his mind, or of ſecuring him from the apprehenſions of danger.

Endor.] Endor was a town, ſituated in the valley of Jezreel, at the foot of mount Gilboa.

Ver. 8. They came to the woman by night.] That they might not be diſcovered by the Philiſtine army. Beſides, this was the moſt proper time, to conſult thoſe who pretended to magical incantations; it being a common opinion among the Greeks, and perhaps among the Hebrews too, that none of the terreſtrial dæmons appeared in the day.

Ver. 13. I ſaw gods.] It ought to have been rendered, in the ſingular number, God, or a great perſon, which the word God often ſignifies in the ſacred language. Joſephus ſays, the woman anſwered, I ſee a man that reſembles God.

Ver. 14. Saul perceived that it was Samuel.] Concerning this ſo much controverted paſſage, the principal opinions are theſe three—That there was no real apparition; but the whole was a cheat of the ſorcereſs—That it was the devil, who, on this occaſion, perſonated Samuel—That it was really Samuel himſelf who appeared to Saul. With regard to the firſt notion, that it was an artifice; beſides, that it puts too great violence upon the text, it would have been highly imprudent for the woman, to give Saul ſo dreadful an anſwer, even though we ſhould grant, ſhe was ſo well acquainted with the affairs of that prince, that ſhe might eaſily foreſee what, in all probability, would be the caſe. It is more natural to think, that ſhe would have flattered the monarch, by giving him comfort, and promiſing him ſucceſs; than that ſhe would provoke him by ſuch a terrible denunciation.—That it was the devil who perſonated Samuel, is equally incredible; for, can it be ſuppoſed, that a wicked ſpirit, from the regions of perdition, would have upbraided Saul with thoſe very crimes he had himſelf tempted him to commit? or, that the father of lies, could pry into the womb of futurity, and determine the moſt caſual events, poſitively and preciſely? It muſt be granted, that only God himſelf, could reveal the preciſe time of the two armies engaging, the ſucceſs and conſequence of the victory, and the very names of the perſons who were to fall in Before Christ 1056. and he ſtooped with his face to the ground, and bowed himſelf.

15 ¶ And Samuel ſaid to Saul, Why haſt thou diſquieted me, to bring me up? And Saul anſwered, I am ſore diſtreſſed; for the Philiſtines make war againſt me, and God is departed from me, and anſwereth me no more, neither by prophets, nor by dreams: therefore I have called thee, that thou mayeſt make known unto me, what I ſhall do.

16 Then ſaid Samuel, Wherefore then doſt thou aſk of me, ſeeing the LORD is departed from thee, and is become thine enemy?

17 And the LORD hath done to him, as he ſpake by me: for the LORD hath rent the kingdom out of thine hand, and given it to thy neighbour, even to David:

18 Becauſe thou obeyedſt not the voice of the LORD nor executedſt his fierce wrath upon Amalek, therefore hath the LORD done this thing unto thee this day.

19 Morever, the LORD will alſo deliver Iſrael with thee, into the hand of the Philiſtines: and to morrow ſhalt thou and thy ſons be with me: the LORD alſo ſhall deliver the hoſt of Iſrael into the hand of the Philiſtines.

20 Then Saul fell ſtraightway all along on the earth, and was ſore afraid, becauſe of the words of Samuel, and there was no ſtrength in him: for he had eaten no bread all the day, nor all the night. Before Christ 1056.

21 ¶ And the woman came unto Saul, and ſaw that he was ſore troubled, and ſaid unto him, Behold, thine handmaid hath obeyed thy voice, and I have put my life in my hand, and have hearkened unto thy words which thou ſpakeſt unto me.

22 Now therefore, I pray thee, hearken thou alſo unto the voice of thine handmaid, and let me ſet a morſel of bread before thee; and eat, that thou mayeſt have ſtrength, when thou goeſt on thy way.

23 But he refuſed, and ſaid, I will not eat: but his ſervants, together with the woman, compelled him, and he hearkened unto their voice: ſo he aroſe from the earth, and ſat upon the bed.

24 And the woman had a fat calf in the houſe, and ſhe haſted, and killed it, and took flour, and kneaded it, and did bake unleavened bread thereof.

25 And ſhe brought it before Saul, and before his ſervants, and they did eat: then they roſe up, and went away that night.

in the battle. All theſe tranſactions were told to Saul, in the very manner they afterwards happened; conſequently the apparition muſt have received theſe informations from God himſelf, and therefore could not be an apoſtate ſpirit. The ſon of Sirach expreſsly tells us, that Samuel, after his death, propheſyed, and ſhewed the king his end, Ecclus. xlvi. 20. and therefore, we may conclude, that it was the real ſoul of Samuel, cloathed in a viſible form, that appeared to Saul. It muſt not be ſuppoſed, however, that it was ever in the power of any diabolical incantations, to call the ſouls of ſaints from the happy manſions of heaven; and therefore this apparition of Samuel, was not effected by the magical enchantments of the ſorcereſs, but performed by the ſole power and appointment of God, who is the ſovereign Lord of the living and the dead. Accordingly, we may obſerve, from the ſurprize which the woman diſcovered, upon Samuel's ſudden appearance, that her magic had no ſhare therein; but that it was the effect of ſome ſuperior hand. She ſaw an object ſo terrible, ſo majeſtic; in ſhort, ſo contrary to any thing ſhe had ever ſeen, and which was even viſible, before ſhe began her incantations; that ſhe could not forbear being terrified, well knowing, that the apparition came from God.

Ver. 15. Why haſt thou diſquieted me, to bring me up?] This is expreſſed ſuitable to the prejudice of the vulgar, among whom, it was a common notion, that theſe incantations gave trouble to the ſouls that were at reſt.

Ver. 17. To him.] Viz. to David.

Ver. 19. To morrow.] This is not to be taken in a ſtrict ſenſe; but means very ſhortly.

Shalt thou and thy ſons be with me.] That is, thou ſhalt be dead, or, in the other world; for we cannot imagine, that Saul, who died like a reprobate, and in the guilt of ſuicide, would be where Samuel was, in the manſions of the bleſſed.

3 Then ſaid the princes of the Philiſtines, What do theſe Hebrews here? And Achiſh ſaid unto the princes of the Philiſtines, Is not this David the ſervant of Saul the king of Iſrael, which hath been with me theſe days or theſe years, and I have found no fault in him ſince he fell unto me, unto this day?

4 And the princes of the Philiſtines were wroth with him, and the princes of the Philiſtines ſaid unto him, Make this fellow return, that he may go again to his place which thou haſt appointed him, and let him not go down with us to battel, leſt in the battel he be an adverſary to us: for wherewith ſhould he reconcile himſelf unto his maſter? ſhould it not be with the heads of theſe men?

5 Is not this David of whom they ſang one to another in dances, ſaying, Saul ſlew his thouſands, and David his ten thouſands?

6 ¶ Then Achiſh called David, and ſaid unto him, Surely as the LORD liveth, thou haſt been upright, and thy going out and thy coming in with me in the hoſt, is good in my ſight: for I have not found evil in thee, ſince the day of thy coming unto me unto this day: nevertheleſs, the lords favour thee not.

7 Wherefore now return, and go in peace, that thou diſpleaſe not the lords of the Philiſtines.

8 ¶ And David ſaid unto Achiſh, But what have I done? and what haſt thou found in thy ſervant, ſo long as I have been with thee unto this day, that I may not go fight againſt the enemies of my lord the king?

9 And Achiſh anſwered and ſaid to David, I know that thou art good in my ſight, as an angel of God: notwithſtanding, the princes of the Philiſtines have ſaid, He ſhall not go up with us to the battel.

10 Wherefore now riſe up early in the morning, with thy maſters ſervants that are come with thee: and as ſoon as ye be up early in the morning, and have light, depart.

Ver. 4. Wherewith ſhould he reconcile himſelf unto his maſter? ſhould it not be with the heads of theſe men?] To wit, of the Philiſtines. That theſe lords of the Philiſtines were ſo great politicians, happened well for David; for, by means of this their prudent conduct, he was extricated out of a very great ſtraight, either of being an enemy to his country; or falſe to his friends, and to his truſt.

Ver. 8. That I may not go fight againſt the enemies of my lord the king.] It muſt be owned, that this conduct cannot be reconciled, with the idea we form, of a man after Gods own heart; for, whether his intentions were to ſtand neuter, or to turn againſt the Philiſtines in the enſuing battle; his perfidy and ingratitude to Achiſh, will appear equally conſpicuous. How well ſoever we may wiſh to his character, we cannot vindicate him in this particular. All that can be ſaid is, he was ſo unhappily ſituated, that what party ſoever he had joined, he muſt have been culpable; and one party he muſt have joined, had not providence ſo critically interpoſed, to preſerve his honour, without injuring his conſcience.

2 And the Philiſtines followed hard upon Saul, and upon his ſons; and the Philiſtines ſlew Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Malchi-ſhua, Sauls ſons.

3 And the battel went ſore againſt Saul, and the archers hit him, and he was ſore wounded of the archers.

4 Then ſaid Saul unto his armour-bearer, Draw thy ſword, and thruſt me through therewith; leſt theſe uncircumciſed come and thruſt me through, and abuſe me. But his armour-bearer would not; for he was ſore afraid: therefore Saul took a ſword, and fell upon it.

Before Chriſt 1056.

5 And when his armour-bearer ſaw that Saul was dead, he fell likewiſe upon his ſword, and died with him.

6 So Saul died, and his three ſons, and his armour-bearer, and all his men that ſame day together.

7 And when the men of Iſrael that were on the other ſide of the valley, and they that were on the other ſide Jordan, ſaw that the men of Iſrael fled, and that Saul and his ſons were dead, they forſook the cities, and fled; and the Philiſtines came and dwelt in them.

8 And it came to paſs on the morrow, when the Philiſtines came to ſtrip the ſlain, that they found Saul and his three ſons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And they cut off his head, and ſtripped off his armour, and ſent into the land

NOTES on Chap. XXXI.

Ver. 2. The Philiſtines ſlew Jonathan, &c.] Even as Samuel had foretold. Jonathan ſeems to have deſerved a better fate; but providence permitted it to be thus, that David might more eaſily aſcend the throne; for though Jonathan ſhould have made a voluntary dedition of it, yet, he being the people's great favourite, a civil war might have aroſe concerning the ſucceſſor, which was now prevented by his death.

Ver. 3. The archers hit him.] There is no mention of archers in the Philiſtine armies before this. The aſſault, by which kind of weapon, was new and ſurpriſing, and therefore (as it generally happens) ſucceſsful; the arrows deſtroying the Iſraelites at a diſtance, naturally threw them into terror and confuſion.

He was ſore wounded.] The Hebrew word, which we tranſlate ſore wounded, more properly ſignifies, to be in dread, alluding to the travail of a woman; and it does not appear, that Saul was at all wounded, but only in the extremity of fear, when he ſaw himſelf ſo beſet with enemies, that there was no way of eſcaping. Accordingly, the Septuagint reads, he was wounded in the hypocondria, that is, he was depreſſed with melancholy.

Ver. 4. Saul took a ſword and fell upon it.] The wiſeſt of the heathen world, would not allow ſuicide to be an act of magnanimity; but looked upon it rather as an inſtance of madneſs and brutality; concluding, that ſuch an action, is ſo far from ſavouring of true courage and generoſity, that it is the ſure effect of a weak and puſillanimous temper. Saul feared to be abuſed by the Philiſtines, which is the reaſon he aſſigns for this requeſt; but true greatneſs of ſoul, conſiſts in ſupporting under the evils of adverſity, and not ſhifting them off, which is the mark of a poor and mean ſpirit.

When all the blandiſhments of life are gone,
The coward creeps to death, the brave lives on.

Ver. 5. When his armour-bearer ſaw that Saul was dead, he fell—upon his ſword.] It is the tradition of the Jewiſh church, that this armour-bearer was Doeg the Edomite, who ſlew ſuch a number of prieſts in one day, by the command of Saul, chap. xxii. 18. and, it is ſuppoſed, that both Saul and he died by the ſame ſword, and fell upon the ſame weapon, with which they had before maſſacred the ſervants of the Lord. So Brutus and Caſſius killed themſelves with the ſame ſword with which they had murdered Cæſar.

Ver. 6. So Saul died.] Hiſtory ſcarce affords a character ſo inconſiſtent, various, and widely different from itſelf, as this of Saul. His modeſty was ſuch, that he declined the offers of a kingdom when elected, paſſed over indignities, and returned to private life. When called out to action, he muſtered his forces, led out his armies, vanquiſhed his enemies, relieved his friends; and when ſettled in peace, forgave injuries, and conferred benefits; and yet we find the ſame Saul, ſullen and diſcontented with himſelf, falſe to his promiſes, jealous of his friends, liſtening to ſycophants, quarrelling with his relations, attempting the life of his own ſon, murdering an whole city of God's prieſts, and, inſtead of conſulting the divine oracle, flying to the devil for advice in his diſtreſs; therefore we need the leſs wonder, that we find the beginning of his reign ſo proſperous, and the latter part ending in ſo ſad a cataſtrophe.

of the Philiſtines round about, to publiſh it in the houſe of their idols, and among the people.

10 And they put his armour in the houſe of Aſhtaroth: and they faſtened his body to the wall of Beth-ſhan.

11 ¶ And when the inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead heard of that which the Philiſtines had done to Saul:

12 All the valiant men aroſe, and went all night, and took the body of Saul, and the bodies of his ſons from the wall of Beth-ſhan, and came to Jabeſh, and burnt them there.

13 And they took their bones, and buried them under a tree at Jabeſh, and faſted ſeven days.

Ver. 10. They faſtened his body to the wall of Beth-ſhan.] Probably they hung it on ſuch hooks, as were there placed for the execution of criminals.

Ver. 11. And when the inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead, &c.] They ſent a party of ſoldiers by night to take down their bodies; retaining a grateful ſenſe of the ſervices Saul had done them in the beginning of his reign.

Ver. 12. Burnt them there.] As it was not the cuſtom of the Jews to burn, but to embalm the bodies of their dead with Aromatic ſpices; therefore, what is here ſaid of burning the bodies of Saul and his ſons, muſt be underſtood of the perfumes which were burnt at their funerals, before their interment.

The Second Book of KINGS.

The ARGUMENT.

This book contains the hiſtory of David*'s reign, ſhewing the ſeveral degrees by which he aſcended the throne, and obtained the government over* Iſrael; his adminiſtration, together with an impartial account of the failings and miſcarriages of this great prince, and the many diſtreſſes and judgments he ſuffered in conſequence of them. It comprizes about forty years, viz. from the year of the Julian period, 3659 to 3699.

CHAP. I.

1 The Amalekite, who brought tidings of the overthrow, and accuſed himſelf of Sauls death, is ſlain.

Before Chriſt 1056.

NOW it came to paſs after the death of Saul, when David was returned from the ſlaughter of the Amalekites, and David had abode two days in Ziklag:

2 It came even to paſs on the third day, that behold, a man came out of the camp from Saul, with his clothes rent, and earth upon his head: and ſo it was, when he came to David, that he fell to the earth, and did obeiſance.

Before Chriſt 1056.

3 And David ſaid unto him, From whence comeſt thou? and he ſaid unto him, out of the camp of Iſrael am I eſcaped.

4 And David ſaid unto him, How went the matter? I pray thee, tell me. And he anſwered, That the people are fled from the battel, and many of the people alſo are fallen and dead, and Saul and Jonathan his ſon are dead alſo.

5 And David ſaid unto the young man that told him, How knoweſt thou that Saul and Jonathan his ſon be dead?

NOTES on Chap. I.

Ver. 1. When David was returned from the ſlaughter of the Amalekites.] The engagement between Saul and the Philiſtines, happened juſt at the time when David was purſuing the Amalekites. See 1 Sam. xxx. 9.

Before Chriſt 1056.

6 And the young man that told him, ſaid, As I happened by chance upon mount Gilboa, behold, Saul leaned upon his ſpear: and lo, the chariots and horſemen followed hard after him.

7 And when he looked behind him, he ſaw me, and called unto me: and I anſwered, Here am I.

8 And he ſaid unto me, Who art thou? And I anſwered him, I am an Amalekite.

9 He ſaid unto me again, Stand, I pray thee, upon me, and ſlay me: for anguiſh is come upon me, becauſe my life is yet whole in me.

10 So I ſtood upon him, and ſlew him, becauſe I was ſure that he could not live after that he was fallen: and I took the crown that was upon his head, and the bracelet that was on his arm, and have brought them hither unto my lord.

11 Then David took hold on his clothes, and rent them, and likewiſe all the men that were with him.

12 And they mourned and wept, and faſted until even, for Saul and for Jonathan his ſon, and for the people of the LORD, and for the houſe of Iſrael; becauſe they were fallen by the ſword.

Before Chriſt 1056.

13 ¶ And David ſaid unto the young man that told him, Whence art thou? And he anſwered, I am the ſon of a ſtranger, an Amalekite.

14 And David ſaid unto him, How waſt thou not afraid to ſtretch forth thine hand, to deſtroy the LORDS anointed?

15 And David called one of the young men, and ſaid, Go near, and fall upon him. And he ſmote him that he died.

16 And David ſaid unto him, Thy blood be upon thy head: for thy mouth hath teſtified againſt thee, ſaying, I have ſlain the LORDS anointed.

17 ¶ And David lamented with this lamentation over Saul, and over Jonathan his ſon,

18 (Alſo he bade them teach the children of Judah the uſe of the bow: behold, it is written in the book of Jaſher.)

19 The beauty of Iſrael is ſlain upon thy high places: how are the mighty fallen!

20 Tell

Ver. 6. As I happened by chance, &c.] By the account we have of Saul's death, in the concluſion of the preceding book, chap. xxxi. 4. It appears very evident, that the whole ſtory of this Amalekite was a fiction of his own invention, on purpoſe to ingratiate himſelf with David, the preſumptive ſucceſſor to the throne.

Ver. 10. I took the crown, &c.] How he came by Saul's crown and bracelet, is a queſtion; for, it is incongruous to ſuppoſe he wore them in time of action, and thereby expoſe himſelf as a public mark. It is preſumed, that they were carried into the field of battle by ſome of his attendants, in order to put on, in caſe he had come off victorious. The Jews conceit, that Doeg was Saul's armour-bearer, and had theſe regalia in his poſſeſſion, and that this Amalekite was his ſon, to whom, before he killed himſelf, he gave them, with an expreſs order to carry them to David.

Ver. 15. Go near, and fall upon him.] Conſidering that he was ſhortly to aſcend the throne himſelf, he would ſhew the people, that to ſlay the Lord's anointed, upon any account whatever, was an execrable crime. In this, it may be ſaid, he acted the part of a good politician, if not of a righteous judge.

Ver. 18. He bade them teach the children of Judah the uſe of the bow.] Some interpreters have underſtood this, of inſtructing them in the uſe of bows and arrows; induced thereto, on account of the advantage the Philiſtines had over the Iſraelites, in the day of battle, from theſe weapons. But the ſenſe of this paſſage ſeems entirely miſtaken. In the original, it is not the uſe of the bow, but only the bow; a term appropriated by David, to ſignify the threnodia, or mourning ſong, which he had compoſed upon the death of Saul and Jonathan, and which he thus named, from one particular paſſage in it, verſe 22. "Without the blood of the ſoldiers, without "the fat of the mighty, the bow of Jonathan that re-"turned not back" A copy of the whole was written in the book of Jaſher, Joſhua x. 13. and this he commanded to be taught to the children of Judah. The Septuagint read, David ſung this mourning ſong—alſo, he bad them teach it to the children of Judah. The Alexandrian copy, and the vulgate read, He bade them teach the children of Judah the bow.

Ver. 19. The beauty of Iſrael is ſlain.] The flower of the nation, their choice young men, together with Saul and his ſons. This lamentation has ever been juſtly admired as a picture of diſtreſs, the moſt tender and ſtriking, unequally divided by grief into longer and ſhorter breaks, as nature could pour them forth from a mind greatly interrupted, and filled with the moſt lively images of love and greatneſs.

Before Chriſt 1056. 20 Tell it not in Gath, publiſh it not in the ſtreets of Aſkelon: leſt the daughters of the Philiſtines rejoice, leſt the daughters of the uncircumciſed triumph.

21 Ye mountains of Gilboa, let there be no dew, neither let there be rain upon you, nor fields of offerings: for there the ſhield of the mighty is vilely caſt away, the ſhield of Saul, as though he had not been anointed with oil.

22 From the blood of the ſlain, from the fat of the mighty, the bow of Jonathan turned not back, and the ſword of Saul returned not empty.

23 Saul and Jonathan were lovely and pleaſant in their lives, and in their death they were not divided: they were ſwifter than eagles, they were ſtronger than lions.

24 Ye daughters of Iſrael, weep over Saul, who clothed you in ſcarlet, with other delights, who put on ornaments of gold upon your apparel.

26 How are the mighty fallen in the midſt of the battel! O Jonathan, thou waſt ſlain in thine high places.

26 I am diſtreſſed for thee, my brother Jonathan: very pleaſant haſt thou been unto me: thy love to me was wonderful, paſſing the love of women.

27 How are the mighty fallen, and the weapons of war periſhed!

CHAP. II.

Before Chriſt 1056.

1 David by Gods direction, with his company, goeth up to Hebron, where he is made king of Judah: 8 Abner maketh Iſh-boſheth king of Iſrael.

AND it came to paſs after this, that David enquired of the LORD, ſaying, Shall I go up into any of the cities of Judah? And the LORD ſaid unto him, Go up. And David ſaid, Whither ſhall I go up? And he ſaid, Unto Hebron.

2 So David went up thither, and his two wives alſo, Ahinoam the Jezreeliteſs, and Abigail Nabals wife the Carmelite.

3 And his men that were with him, did David bring up, every man with his houſhold: and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron.

4 And the men of Judah came, and 1055. there they anointed David king over the houſe of Judah: and they told David, ſaying, That the men of Jabeſh-gilead were they that buried Saul.

5 ¶ And David ſent meſſengers unto the men of Jabeſh-gilead, and ſaid unto them, Bleſſed be ye of the LORD, that ye have ſhewed this kindneſs unto your lord, even unto Saul, and have buried him.

Ver. 20. Tell it not in Gath, &c.] Expreſſions of the deepeſt ſorrow; though it was impoſſible, but this event muſt be known in the principal cities of the Philiſtines; yet the ſacred poet wiſhes, that it might not be heard of by the enemy.

Ver. 21. Ye mountains of Gilboa, let there be no dew, neither rain, nor fields of offerings.] Let not heaven, with fertilizing dews and rains, nouriſh thy paſtures, from whence offerings are brought to the houſe of God.

The ſhield of the mighty is vilely caſt away.] They were obliged to throw away their ſhields, that they might fly with greater ſwiftneſs from the victors. This was eſteemed a great diſgrace in a warrior.

As though he had not been anointed with oil.] Though he was the Lord's anointed, he fell like a common ſoldier.

Ver. 22. From the blood of the ſlain, from the fat, &c.] Without the blood of the ſlain, without the fat, &c.

Ver. 23. Saul and Jonathan were lovely and pleaſant in their lives.] Courteous and kind to their people, which is a great virtue in princes. That he would ſpeak ſo highly in commendation of his bittereſt enemy, very much raiſes the glory of David, and argues true greatneſs of ſoul.

Swifter than eagles—ſtronger than lions.] This is a noble hyperbole! Swifter than eagles to purſue, ſtronger than lions to conquer.

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 1. Hebron.] This city ſtood in the midſt of the tribe of Judah; and being the metropolis of the whole tribe, it was a commodious city for him to make the place of his reſidence at this juncture, as not being inſenſible, that the determination of the metropolis in his favour, would be of the greateſt weight to influence the whole tribe.

Before Christ 1055. quite you this kindneſs, becauſe ye have done this thing.

7 Therefore now let your hands be ſtrengthened, and be ye valiant: for your maſter Saul is dead, and alſo the houſe of Judah have anointed me king over them.

8 But Abner the ſon of Ner, captain of Sauls hoſt, took Iſh-boſheth the ſon of Saul, and brought him over to Mahanaim.

9 And he made him king over Gilead, and over the Aſhurites, and over Jezreel, and over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over all Iſrael.

10 Iſh-boſheth Sauls ſon was forty years old when he began to reign over Iſrael, and reigned two years: but the houſe of Judah followed David.

11 (And the time that David was king in Hebron over the houſe of Judah, was ſeven years, and ſix months.)

12 And Abner the ſon of Ner, and the ſervants of Iſh-boſheth the ſon of Saul, went out from Mahanaim, to Gibeon.

13 And Joab the ſon of Zeruiah, and 1053. the ſervants of David went out, and met together by the pool of Gibeon: and they ſat down, the one on the one ſide of the pool, and the other on the other ſide of the pool.

14 And Abner ſaid to Joab, Let the young men now ariſe, and play before us. And Joab ſaid, Let them ariſe. Before Christ 1053.

15 Then there aroſe and went over by number twelve of Benjamin, which pertained to Iſh-boſheth the ſon of Saul, and twelve of the ſervants of David.

16 And they caught every one his fellow by the head, and thruſt his ſword in his fellows ſide; ſo they fell down together: wherefore that place was called Helkath-hazzurim, which is in Gibeon.

17 And there was a very ſore battel that day: and Abner was beaten, and the men of Iſrael, before the ſervants of David.

18 ¶ And there were three ſons of Zeruiah there, Joab, and Abiſhai, and Aſahel: and Aſahel was as light of foot as a wild roe.

19 And Aſahel purſued after Abner, and in going he turned not to the right hand nor to the left, from following Abner.

20 Then Abner looked behind him, and ſaid, Art thou Aſahel? And he anſwered, I am.

21 And Abner ſaid to him, Turn thee aſide to thy right hand or to thy left, and lay thee hold on one of the young men, and

Ver. 8. Brought him over to Mahanaim.] This place was in the tribe of Gad, and took its name from the appearance of an hoſt of angels to Jacob, as he came with his family from Padan-aran, Geneſis xxxii. 1. The reaſons for Abner's retreating hither, in the beginning of Iſhboſheth's reign, were, that he might ſecure the people on that ſide Jordan, eſpecially the gallant inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead, who were firmly attached to the houſe of Saul; and chiefly, that he might be at a greater diſtance from David; have the new king more abſolutely under his command, and a better opportunity of recruiting his army, among a people, not only very courageous, but well affected to the cauſe he had eſpouſed.

Ver. 10. Iſhboſheth reigned two years.] That is, he reigned two years before there was any war between him and David; but being an inactive prince, it is ſuppoſed that Abner, when the war broke out with Judah, took the government upon himſelf; ſo the other five years, which paſſed before David aſcended the throne, are not reckoned as part of Iſhboſheth's reign, becauſe he was only a nominal king, without the leaſt authority.

Ver. 14. Let the young men now ariſe, and play before us.] By this, Abner ſeems to have meant, not that they ſhould fall upon and deſtroy one another, but merely, that they ſhould perform their military exerciſes, as the gladiators at Rome uſed to divert the ſpectators.

Ver. 16. They caught, &c.] That is, the ſervants of David caught.

Ver. 18. A wild roe.] Dr. Shaw ſays, it ſhould be rendered the Antelope, which few creatures exceed in ſwiftneſs.

Ver. 21. Lay thee hold on one of the young men, and take thee his armour.] Either, that he might not return without ſome ſpoil, Abner bids him take one of his attendants, arms and all, and be content with this glory, of carrying away ſuch a priſoner; or elſe, he bids him try his valour upon one of his ſervants, and diſarm him, and not venture to encounter him who was an old ſoldier.

Before Christ 1053. and take thee his armour. But Aſahel would not turn aſide from following of him.

22 And Abner ſaid again to Aſahel, Turn thee aſide from following me: wherefore ſhould I ſmite thee to the ground? how then ſhould I hold up my face to Joab thy brother?

23 Howbeit he refuſed to turn aſide: wherefore Abner with the hinder end of the ſpear ſmote him under the fifth rib, that the ſpear came out behind him; and he fell down there, and died in the ſame place: and it came to paſs, that as many as came to the place where Aſahel fell down and died, ſtood ſtill.

24 Joab alſo and Abiſhai purſued after Abner: and the ſun went down when they were come to the hill of Ammah, that lieth before Giah by the way of the wilderneſs of Gibeon.

25 ¶ And the children of Benjamin gathered themſelves together after Abner, and became one troop, and ſtood on the top of an hill.

26 Then Abner called to Joab, and ſaid, Shall the ſword devour for ever? knoweſt thou not that it will be bitterneſs in the latter end? how long ſhall it be then ere thou bid the people return from following their brethren?

27 And Joab ſaid, As God liveth, unleſs thou hadſt ſpoken, ſurely then in the morning the people had gone up every one from following his brother.

28 So Joab blew a trumpet, and all the people ſtood ſtill, and purſued after Iſrael no more, neither fought they any more.

29 And Abner and his men walked all that night through the plain, and paſſed over Jordan, and went through all Bithron, and they came to Mahanaim. Before Christ 1053.

30 And Joab returned from following Abner: and when he had gathered all the people together, there lacked of Davids ſervants nineteen men, and Aſahel.

31 But the ſervants of David had ſmitten of Benjamin and of Abners men, ſo that three hundred and threeſcore men died.

32 ¶ And they took up Aſahel, and buried him in the ſepulcher of his father, which was in Beth-lehem: and Joab and his men went all night, and they came to Hebron at break of day.

CHAP. III.

NOW there was long war between the houſe of Saul, and the houſe of David: but David waxed ſtronger and ſtronger, and the houſe of Saul waxed weaker and weaker.

2 ¶ And unto David were ſons born in Hebron: and his firſt-born was Amnon, of Ahinoam the Jeezreeliteſs.

Ver. 27. Joab ſaid, &c.] He here wiſhes, that Abner had been of this mind in the morning, for then there would have been no fighting at all, if Abner had not deſired it. Before Chriſt 1053. Davids wife: theſe were born to David in Hebron.

6 ¶ And it came to paſs while there was war between the houſe of Saul and the houſe of David, that Abner made himſelf ſtrong for the houſe of Saul.

7 And Saul had a concubine, whoſe name was Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah: and Iſh-boſheth ſaid to Abner, Wherefore haſt thou gone in unto my fathers concubine?

8 Then was Abner very wroth for the words of Iſh-boſheth, and ſaid, Am I a dogs head, which againſt Judah do ſhew kindneſs this day unto the houſe of Saul thy father, to his brethren, and to his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David, that thou chargeſt me to day with a fault concerning this woman?

9 So do God to Abner, and more alſo, except as the Lord hath ſworn to David, even ſo I do to him:

10 To tranſlate the kingdom from the houſe of Saul, and to ſet up the throne of David over Iſrael, and over Judah, from Dan even to Beer-ſheba.

11 And he could not anſwer Abner a word again, becauſe he feared him.

13 ¶ And he ſaid, Well, I will make a league with thee: but one thing I require of thee, that is, Thou ſhalt not ſee my face, except thou firſt bring Michal Sauls daughter, when thou comeſt to ſee my face.

Before Chriſt 1048.

14 And David ſent meſſengers to Iſh-boſheth Sauls ſon, ſaying, Deliver me my wife Michal, which I eſpouſed to me for an hundred foreſkins of the Philiſtines.

15 And Iſh-boſheth ſent, and took her from her huſband, even from Phaltiel the ſon of Laiſh.

16 And her huſband went with her along weeping behind her to Bahurim: then ſaid Abner unto him, Go, return. And he returned.

17 ¶ And Abner had communication with the elders of Iſrael, ſaying, Ye ſought for David in times paſt to be king over you.

18 Now then do it; for the Lord hath ſpoken of David, ſaying, By the hand of my ſervant David I will ſave my people Iſrael out of the hand of the Philiſtines, and out of the hand of all their enemies.

19 And Abner alſo ſpake in the ears of Benjamin: and Abner went alſo to ſpeak in the ears of David in Hebron, all that ſeemed good to Iſrael, and that ſeemed good to the whole houſe of Benjamin.

20 So Abner came to David to Hebron, and twenty men with him: and David made Abner, and the men that were with him, a feaſt.

Notes on Chap. III.

Ver. 7. Wherefore haſt thou gone in unto my fathers concubine?] It was a general rule, not among the Jews only, but among other nations, that no private perſon ſhould preſume to marry the king's widow, becauſe this made him appear as a rival and competitor for the crown.

Ver. 8. Am I a dog's head?] As though he had ſaid, "I "am a leader of all Iſrael, and, notwithſtanding I am "treated like one ſet over a pack of dogs." It might be better rendered, am I a keeper of dogs?

Ver. 12. Make thy league with me, &c.] Abner is an inſtance, of what a ſtrange alteration the ſtudy of revenge will work in a man. It was but a little while ſince he went about to confirm the Iſraelites in their attachment to the houſe of Saul; but now, upon a ſlight diſguſt, he is not only for deſerting himſelf, but for carrying all his intereſt over to the oppoſite party.

unto my lord the king, that they may make a league with thee, and that thou mayeſt reign over all that thine heart deſireth. And David ſent Abner away; and he went in peace.

22 ¶ And behold, the ſervants of David and Joab came from purſuing a troop, and brought in a great ſpoil with them: (but Abner was not with David in Hebron, for he had ſent him away, and he was gone in peace.)

23 When Joab and all the hoſt that was with him, were come, they told Joab, ſaying, Abner the ſon of Ner came to the king, and he hath ſent him away, and he is gone in peace.

24 Then Joab came to the king, and ſaid, What haſt thou done? behold, Abner came unto thee, why is it that thou haſt ſent him away, and he is quite gone?

25 Thou knoweſt Abner the ſon of Ner, that he came to deceive thee, and to know thy going out, and thy coming in, and to know all that thou doeſt.

26 And when Joab was come out from David, he ſent meſſengers after Abner, which brought him again from the well of Sirah; but David knew it not.

27 And when Abner was returned to Hebron, Joab took him aſide in the gate to ſpeak with him quietly: and ſmote him there under the fifth rib, that he died, for the blood of Aſahel his brother.

28 ¶ And afterward when David heard it, he ſaid, I and my kingdom are guiltleſs before the LORD for ever, from the blood of Abner the ſon of Ner:

Before Chriſt 1048.

29 Let it reſt on the head of Joab, and on all his fathers houſe, and let there not fail from the houſe of Joab one that hath an iſſue, or that is a leper, or that leaneth on a ſtaff, or that falleth on the ſword, or that lacketh bread.

30 So Joab and Abiſhai his brother ſlew Abner, becauſe he had ſlain their brother Aſahel at Gibeon in the battel.

31 ¶ And David ſaid to Joab, and to all the people that were with him, Rent your clothes, and gird you with ſackcloth, and mourn before Abner. And king David himſelf followed the bier.

32 And they buried Abner in Hebron: and the king lift up his voice, and wept at the grave of Abner; and all the people wept.

33 And the king lamented over Abner, and ſaid, Died Abner as a fool dieth?

34 Thy hands were not bound, nor thy feet put into fetters: as a man falleth before wicked men, ſo felleſt thou. And all the people wept again over him.

35 And when all the people came to cauſe David to eat meat while it was yet day, David ſware, ſaying, So do God to me, and more alſo, if I taſte bread or ought elſe, till the ſun be down.

36 And all the people took notice of it, and it pleaſed them: as whatſoever the king did, pleaſed all the people.

37 For all the people, and all Iſrael underſtood that day, that it was not of the king to ſlay Abner the ſon of Ner.

Ver. 27. Smote him there under the fifth rib.] It ſhould be rendered, into the groin, as in chap. ii. 23. Joab had reaſon to ſuſpect, that if he once got into David's favour, he would ſoon gain a ſuperior aſcendent; therefore he took this wicked method to prevent him.

For the blood of Aſahel.] This was his pretended reaſon.

Ver. 29. Let it reſt on the head of Joab, &c.] This ſpeech may be conſidered as a prophetical prediction, rather than a private imprecation. David had indeed the greateſt reaſon for expreſſing his indignation for ſo foul a fact. Abner was a man of great power, and, at that time, head of the oppoſite party; and therefore rendered it ſuſpicious, that David had ſome concern in the murder. Beſides, as Abner had been reconciled to David, the breach of faith and hoſpitality was added to the crime of murder, which was ſufficient to alienate the minds of the Iſraelites from him for ever.

Ver. 33. Died Abner as a fool dieth?] As a cowardly ſpiritleſs fellow? No, he was not through cowardice, or defect of valour, taken priſoner, bound, and ſo put to death; but was ſlain by the vileſt treachery.

Before Christ 1048.

38 And the king ſaid unto his ſervants, Know ye not that there is a prince, and a great man fallen this day in Iſrael?

39 And I am this day weak, though anointed king; and theſe men the ſons of Zeruiah be too hard for me: the LORD ſhall reward the doer of evil according to his wickedneſs.

CHAP. IV.

1 The Iſraelites being troubled at the death of Abner, 2 Paanah and Rechab ſlay Iſh-boſheth, and bring his head to Hebron. 9 David cauſeth them to be ſlain, and Iſh-boſheths head to be buried.

AND when Sauls ſon heard that Abner was dead in Hebron, his hands were feeble, and all the Iſraelites were troubled.

2 And Sauls ſon had two men that were captains of bands: the name of the one was Baanah, and the name of the other Rechab, the ſons of Rimmon a Beerothite, of the children of Benjamin: (for Beeroth alſo was reckoned to Benjamin;

3 And the Beerothites fled to Gittaim, and were ſojourners there until this day)

4 And Jonathan, Sauls ſon, had a ſon that was lame of his feet, and was five years old when the tidings came of Saul and Jonathan out of Jezreel, and his nurſe took him up, and fled: and it came to paſs as ſhe made haſt to flee, that he fell, and became lame; and his name was Mephiboſheth.

Before Christ 1048.

5 And the ſons of Rimmon the Beerothite, Rechab and Baanah, went, and came about the heat of the day to the houſe of Iſh-boſheth, who lay on a bed at noon.

6 And they came thither into the midſt of the houſe, as though they would have fetched wheat: and they ſmote him under the fifth rib; and Rechab and Baanah his brother eſcaped.

7 For when they came into the houſe, he lay on his bed in his bed-chamber, and they ſmote him and ſlew him, and beheaded him, and took his head, and gat them away through the plain all night.

8 And they brought the head of Iſh-boſheth unto David to Hebron, and ſaid to the king, Behold the head of Iſh-boſheth the ſon of Saul, thine enemy, which ſought thy life; and the LORD hath avenged my LORD the king this day of Saul, and of his ſeed.

9 ¶ And David anſwered Rechab and Baanah

Ver. 39. The ſons of Zeruiah be too hard for me.] Such was Abner's intereſt among the ſoldiery, that, had David called him to juſtice, he would perhaps have cauſed a revolt; for ſo powerful and perilous a man was he, that in compariſon, ſays David, I am this day weak, though anointed king. Therefore, in point of prudence, he delayed his puniſhment until a more convenient ſeaſon.

NOTES on Chap. IV.

Ver. 2. Of the children of Benjamin.] That they were of the children of Benjamin, is very juſtly added to the names of Rechab and Baanah, to ſhew their vileneſs and ingratitude, and how juſtly deſerving they were of the puniſhment inflicted on them by David.

Ver. 4. He fell, and became lame.] This is related, as it ſeems, to ſhew what it was emboldened theſe captains to do what follows; becauſe, he who was the next avenger of blood, was very young, lame, and unable to purſue them.

Ver. 6. They came thither—as though they would have fetched wheat.] There is a very remarkable alteration in the Septuagint; She that kept the door had been cleaning wheat, and was drowſy and ſlept, and the brothers Rechab and Baanab came privily into the houſe, and Iſhboſheth was aſleep on his bed—and they ſmote him, and killed him, and took off his head.

Ver. 9. David anſwered, &c.] Joſephus introduces David ſpeaking to them as follows: "Wicked wretches, "prepare yourſelves immediately to receive the juſt re- "ward of your villainy. You cannot be ignorant, that "I requited the murder of Saul, and am not I ſtill the "ſame perſon? Do you think, that I can countenance "the moſt profligate actions, or that I conſider myſelf "under the leaſt obligation to you, for embruing your "hands in the blood of your maſter? for baſely aſſaſſi- "nating a perſon ſo juſt, that he never did any man "wrong, and ſo generous a benefactor to your ungrate- "ful ſelves, that every thing you enjoyed in this world, "was owing to his bounty? You ſhall, therefore, now ſe- "verely pay, both for the breach of faith to your lord, "and 11 How much more, when wicked men have ſlain a righteous perſon in his own houſe, upon his bed? ſhall I not therefore now require his blood of your hand, and take you away from the earth?

12 And David commanded his young men, and they ſlew them, and cut off their hands and their feet, and hanged them up over the pool in Hebron: but they took the head of Iſh-boſheth, and buried it in the ſepulcher of Abner, in Hebron.

CHAP. V.

1 The tribes come to Hebron to anoint David over Iſrael. 4 Davids age: 6 He taketh Zion from the Jebuſites: 13 Eleven ſons are born to him in Jeruſalem.

THen came all the tribes of Iſrael to David unto Hebron, and ſpake, ſaying, Behold, we are thy bone and thy fleſh.

2 Alſo in time paſt when Saul was king over us, thou waſt he that leddeſt out and broughteſt in Iſrael: and the LORD ſaid to thee, Thou ſhalt feed my people Iſrael, and thou ſhalt be a captain over Iſrael.

Before Christ 1048.

3 So all the elders of Iſrael came to the king to Hebron, and king David made a league with them in Hebron before the LORD: and they anointed David king over Iſrael.

4 ¶ David was thirty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years.

5 In Hebron he reigned over Judah ſeven years, and ſix months: and in Jeruſalem he reigned thirty and three years over all Iſrael and Judah.

6 ¶ And the king and his men went to Jeruſalem, unto the Jebuſites, the inhabitants of the land: which ſpake unto David, ſaying, Except thou take away the blind, and the lame, thou ſhalt not come in hither: thinking David cannot come in hither.

7 Nevertheleſs, David took the ſtrong hold of Zion: the ſame is the city of David.

NOTES on Chap. V.

Ver. 1. All the tribes.] That is to ſay, ambaſſadors were ſent from every tribe.

Ver. 2. Thou ſhalt feed my people.] This expreſſion is uſed, to put David in mind, that he was created a king, not ſo much for the advancement of his own honour and intereſt, as the benefit of the community; he was to have the ſame care over his people, as a ſhepherd has over his flock. Kings ought not to look upon their ſubjects as their own peculium, but as committed to them by the Lord of all, to whom they are accountable for their adminiſtration. This elegant metaphor occurs here the firſt time; though it is afterwards uſed in ſacred writ. Our great Redeemer is called the good ſhepherd, and the great ſhepherd.

Ver. 6. Except ye take away the blind, and the lame.] Luther, upon this place, ſays, the blind and the lame were the idols of the Jebuſites, which they ſet upon their wall (to intimidate David) as their protectors; calling them blind and lame ſarcaſtically, and with reſpect to David's opinion of them. But this interpretation is too forced and metaphorical, and Joſephus's conſtruction is rather to be choſen, viz. that they imagined their fortreſs to be ſo impregnable, that by way of contempt, they told David, that their very blind and lame would be able to defend it againſt him and his forces; a ſenſe ſo plain and obvious, that the learned Bochart wonders, why any man ſhould ſeek for any other.

Ver. 8. Whoſo getteth up to the gutter.] By the gutter, is meant the ſubterraneous paſſage, or hollow way, through which

Before Christ 1048. the Jebuſites, and the lame, and the blind, that are hated of Davids ſoul, he ſhall be chief and captain: wherefore they ſaid, The blind and the lame ſhall not come into the houſe.

9 So David dwelt in the fort, and called it, The city of David; and David built round about, from Millo and inward.

10 And David went on, and grew great, and the LORD God of hoſts was with him.

11 ¶ And Hiram king of Tyre ſent meſſengers to David, and cedar-trees, and carpenters, and maſons: and they built David an houſe.

12 And David perceived that the LORD had eſtabliſhed him king over Iſrael, and that he had exalted his kingdom for his people Iſraels ſake.

13 ¶ And David took him more concubines and wives out of Jeruſalem, after he was come from Hebron: and there were yet ſons and daughters born to David.

14 And theſe be the names of thoſe that were born unto him in Jeruſalem; Shammuah, and Shobab, and Nathan, and Solomon.

15 Ibhar alſo, and Eliſhua, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

16 And Eliſhama, and Eliada, and Eliphalet.

17 ¶ But when the Philiſtines heard that they had anointed David king over Iſrael, all the Philiſtines came up to ſeek David; and David heard of it, and went down to the hold. Before Chriſt 1047.

18 The Philiſtines alſo came and ſpread themſelves in the valley of Rephaim.

19 And David enquired of the LORD, ſaying, Shall I go up to the Philiſtines? wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the LORD ſaid unto David, Go up: for I will doubtleſs deliver the Philiſtines into thine hand.

20 And David came to Baal-perazim, and David ſmote them there, and ſaid, The LORD hath broken forth upon mine enemies before me, as the breach of waters. Therefore he called the name of that place, Baal-perazim.

21 And there they left their images, and David and his men burnt them.

22 ¶ And the Philiſtines came up yet again, and ſpread themſelves in the valley of Rephaim. 1043.

23 And when David enquired of the LORD, he ſaid, Thou ſhalt not go up: but fetch a compaſs behind them, and come upon them over againſt the mulberry-trees.

24 And let it be when thou heareſt the ſound of a going in the tops of the mulberry-trees, that then thou ſhalt beſtir thyſelf: for then ſhall the LORD go out before thee, to ſmite the hoſt of the Philiſtines.

25 And David did ſo, as the LORD had commanded him; and ſmote the Philiſtines which men could paſs and repaſs for water. The learned Mr. Kennicot, in a diſſertation on part of this chapter, compared with 1 Chron. chap xi. has given a very rational and authentic verſion of this paſſage; the moſt material part of which is as follows: “ 6. And they ſpake “ unto David, ſaying, Thou ſhalt not come hither; for “ the blind and the lame ſhall keep thee off, by ſaying, “ David ſhall not come hither. 7. But David took the “ ſtrong hold of Sion, which is the city of David. 8. “ And David ſaid, on that day, whoever (firſt) ſmiteth the “ Jebuſites, and thro' the ſubterraneous paſſage, reacheth the blind and the lame, which are hated of David's ſoul, becauſe the blind and the lame continued “ to ſay, he ſhall not come into this houſe—ſhall be head “ and captain; ſo Joab, the ſon of Zeruiah, went up “ firſt, and was chief captain. 9. And David dwelt in “ the ſtrong hold:—and he built a circuit from Millo, “ and round to the houſe of Millo. 10. So David waxed “ greater and greater, &c.”

Ver. 11. Hiram] Hiram ſignifies, let him live who is exalted. It was the general name for the kings of Tyre.

CHAP. VI.

1 David fetcheth the ark from Kirjath-jearim on a new cart. 6 Uzzah is ſmitten at Perez-uzzah. 11 God bleſſeth Obed-edom for the ark. 12 David bringing the ark into Zion with ſacrifices, danceth before it, for which Michal deſpiſeth him.

1042. AGain, David gathered together all the choſen men of Iſrael, thirty thouſand.

2 And David aroſe, and went with all the people that were with him, from Baale of Judah, to bring up from thence the ark of God, whoſe name is called by the name of the LORD of hoſts, that dwelleth between the cherubims.

3 And they ſet the ark of God upon a new cart, and brought it out of the houſe of Abinadab that was in Gibeah: and Uzzah and Ahio the ſons of Abinadab, drave the new cart.

4 And they brought it out of the houſe of Abinadab which was at Gibeah, accompanying the ark of God; and Ahio went before the ark.

5 And David, and all the houſe of Iſrael played before the LORD on all manner of inſtruments made of fir-wood, even on harps, and on pſalteries, and on timbrels, and on cornets, and on cymbals.

6 ¶ And when they came to Nachons threſhing-floor, Uzzah put forth his hand to the ark of God, and took hold of it, for the oxen ſhook it. Before Christ 1042.

7 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Uzzah, and God ſmote him there for his error, and there he died by the ark of God.

8 And David was diſpleaſed, becauſe the LORD had made a breach upon Uzzah: and he called the name of the place Perez-uzzah to this day.

9 And David was afraid of the LORD that day, and ſaid, How ſhall the ark of the LORD come to me?

10 So David would not remove the ark of the LORD unto him into the city of David: but David carried it aſide into the houſe of Obed-edom the Gittite.

11 And the ark of the LORD continued in the houſe of Obed-edom the Gittite, three months: and the LORD bleſſed Obed-edom, and all his houſhold.

12 ¶ And it was told king David, ſaying, the LORD hath bleſſed the houſe of Obed-edom, and all that pertaineth unto him, becauſe of the ark of God. So David went and brought up the ark of God from the houſe of Obed-edom, into the city of David, with gladneſs.

13 And it was ſo, that when they that bare the ark of the LORD, had gone ſix paces, he ſacrificed oxen and fatlings.

Ver. 25. To Gazer.[To the very confines of their own land.

NOTES on Chap. VI.

Ver. 2. Baale of Judah.] Called before Kirjath-jearim, and Baalah, Joſhua xv. 9.

Ver. 7. The anger of the Lord was kindled againſt Uzzah.] In the conduct of Uzzah, there ſeems to be a threefold tranſgreſſion of the divine will. 1. The ark was placed (as ſome ſay) by the direction of Uzzah, in a cart, which was irregular; for it ought to have been carried on the ſhoulders of the Kohathites. 2. He ventured to attend it without any proper deſignation; for it does not appear that he was a Levite, at leaſt, not of the houſe of Kohath, and therefore had no right to attend upon the ark. 3. He laid hold on it, (whereas the Kohathites themſelves, were prohibited from touching it with their hands on pain of death) in an officious manner, when he thought it in danger of falling, which looked like a diffidence in providence, and as if God was unable to preſerve it from falling.

God ſmote him there.] The ark had continued ſo long in obſcurity, that the people had, in a manner, loſt all ſenſe of a divine power reſiding in it; and therefore approached it without reverence. It is no wonder then, that God teſtified his immediate preſence, by ſuch an example of terror, that he might inſpire both prieſts and people with a ſacred dread of his majeſty, and a profound veneration for his myſteries!

Ver. 13. When they that bare the ark of the Lord had gone ſix paces, he ſacrificed, &c.] Thoſe who carried the ark, having advanced ſix paces, without any ſuch tokens of the divine wrath, as Uzzah had experienced, then David offered a ſacrifice of thankſgiving to God.

Before Chriſt 1042. 14 And David danced before the Lord with all his might, and David was girded with a linen ephod.

15 So David and all the houſe of Iſrael brought up the ark of the Lord with ſhouting, and with the ſound of the trumpet.

16 And as the ark of the Lord came into the city of David, Michal Sauls daughter looked through a window, and ſaw king David leaping and dancing before the Lord; and ſhe deſpiſed him in her heart.

17 ¶ And they brought in the ark of the Lord, and ſet it in his place, in the midſt of the tabernacle that David had pitched for it: and David offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings before the Lord.

18 And as ſoon as David had made an end of offering burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings, he bleſſed the people in the name of the Lord of hoſts.

19 And he dealt among all the people, even among the whole multitude of Iſrael, as well to the women as men, to every one a cake of bread, and a good piece of fleſh, and a flagon of wine: ſo all the people departed every one to his houſe.

20 Then David returned to bleſs his houſhold: and Michal the daughter of Saul came out to meet David, and ſaid, How glorious was the king of Iſrael to day, who uncovered himſelf to day in the eyes of the handmaids of his ſervants, as one of the vain fellows ſhameleſly uncovereth himſelf! Before Chriſt 1042.

21 And David ſaid unto Michal, It was before the Lord, which choſe me before thy father, and before all his houſe, to appoint me ruler over the people of the Lord, over Iſrael: therefore will I play before the Lord.

22 And I will yet be more vile than thus, and will be baſe in mine own ſight: and of the maid-ſervants which thou haſt ſpoken of, of them ſhall I be had in honour.

23 Therefore Michal the daughter of Saul had no child until the day of her death.

CHAP. VII.

1 Nathan firſt approving the purpoſe of David to build God an houſe, 4 after by the word of God forbiddeth him: 12 He promiſeth him benefits and bleſſings in his ſeed. 18 Davids prayer and thankſgiving.

AND it came to paſs, when the king ſat in his houſe, and the Lord had given him reſt round about from all his enemies;

2 That the king ſaid unto Nathan the prophet,

Ver. 14. David danced before the Lord.] Strabo tells us, that it was cuſtomary among the Greeks, as well as other nations, to uſe muſic and dancing in the proceſſions before their gods; and Lucian expreſsly ſays, that among the ancients, no ceremonial of religion, no expiation, no atonement was accounted rightly accompliſhed, without dancing; ſo that David was far from being ſingular on this occaſion. His moving in certain ſerious and ſolemn meaſures, ſuited to muſic of the ſame character and tendency, was an exerciſe highly conducive to the purpoſes of piety. Policy taught Auguſtus to put himſelf upon a level with his ſubjects, in their public rejoicings; and piety taught David, that all men are upon a level in the ſolemnities of religion.

David was girded with a linen ephod.] He laid aſide his royal ornaments, and was girded only with a ſimple ephod; which was an honorary kind of garment, uſed by thoſe who were no prieſts.

Ver. 20. Who uncovered himſelf to day.] David had an ephod on, and was cloathed in a robe of fine linen, beſides his uſual under garments; ſo that this expreſſion of David's uncovering himſelf, is only an opprobrious term, proceeding from nothing but the overflowing ſpleen of a proud paſſionate woman; or, it may mean no more, than his having ſtripped himſelf of his royal robes, and put on a linen ephod.

Notes on Chap. VII.

Ver. 2. The king ſaid unto Nathan.] This is the firſt time Nathan is mentioned: he was well qualified to deliver the divine will to a prince, being maſter of great temper, prudence, and fine addreſs; and knew how to mitigate the rigour of his reproofs with great ſweetneſs and wiſdom.

prophet, See now, I dwell in an houſe of cedar, but the ark of God dwelleth within curtains.

3 And Nathan ſaid to the king, Go, do all that is in thine heart: for the LORD is with thee.

4 ¶ And it came to paſs that night, that the word of the LORD came unto Nathan, ſaying,

5 Go and tell my ſervant David, Thus ſaith the LORD, Shalt thou build me an houſe for me to dwell in?

6 Whereas I have not dwelt in any houſe, ſince the time that I brought up the children of Iſrael out of Egypt, even to this day, but have walked in a tent, and in a tabernacle.

7 In all the places wherein I have walked with all the children of Iſrael, ſpake I a word with any of the tribes of Iſrael, whom I commanded to feed my people Iſrael, ſaying, Why build ye not me an houſe of cedar?

8 Now therefore, ſo ſhalt thou ſay unto my ſervant David, Thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts, I took thee from the ſheep-cote, from following the ſheep, to be ruler over my people, over Iſrael.

9 And I was with thee whitherſoever thou wenteſt, and have cut off all thine enemies out of thy ſight, and have made thee a great name, like unto the name of the great men that are in the earth.

10 (Moreover, I will appoint a place for my people Iſrael, and will plant them, that they may dwell in a place of their own, and move no more: neither ſhall the children of wickedneſs afflict them any more, as beforetime, 11 And as ſince the time that I commanded judges to be over my people Iſrael, and have cauſed thee to reſt from all thine enemies.) Alſo the LORD telleth thee, that he will make thee an houſe.

12 ¶ And when thy days be fulfilled, and thou ſhalt ſleep with thy fathers, I will ſet up thy ſeed after thee, which ſhall proceed out of thy bowels, and I will eſtabliſh his kingdom.

13 He ſhall build an houſe for my name, and I will eſtabliſh the throne of his kingdom for ever.

14 I will be his father, and he ſhall be my ſon: if he commit iniquity, I will chaſten him with the rod of men, and with the ſtripes of the children of men:

15 But my mercy ſhall not depart away from him, as I took it from Saul, whom I put away before thee.

16 And thine houſe, and thy kingdom ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever before thee: thy throne ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever.

17 According to all theſe words, and according to all this viſion, ſo did Nathan ſpeak unto David.

18 ¶ Then went king David in, and ſat before the LORD, and he ſaid, Who am I, O LORD God? and what is my houſe, that thou haſt brought me hitherto?

Ver. 14. I will chaſten him with the rod of men.] In the original, it is, old men; that is to ſay, with the gentleneſs of men to the children of their old age.

24 For thou haſt confirmed to thyſelf thy people Iſrael to be a people unto thee for ever: and thou, LORD, art become their God.

27 For thou, O LORD of hoſts, God of Iſrael, haſt revealed to thy ſervant, ſaying, I will build thee an houſe: therefore hath thy ſervant found in his heart to pray this prayer unto thee. Before Chriſt 1042.

28 And now, O LORD God, thou art that God, and thy words be true, and thou haſt promiſed this goodneſs unto thy ſervant.

29 Therefore now let it pleaſe thee to bleſs the houſe of thy ſervant, that it may continue for ever before thee: for thou, O LORD God, haſt ſpoken it, and with thy bleſſing let the houſe of thy ſervant be bleſſed for ever.

NOTES on Chap. VIII.

Ver. 1. Metheg-ammah.] This is the famous city of Gath and its territories. It is called by this name, becauſe it ſtood upon mount Ammah, and was a bridle to the whole country.

Ver. 2. He ſmote Moab, and meaſured them with a line.] The words ſeem to allude to a cuſtom among the eaſtern kings, when they were thoroughly incenſed againſt any nation; namely, to make all the captives aſſemble in one place, and proſtrate themſelves upon the ground; that ſo being divided, into two parts, as it were with a line, their conqueror might appoint which part he pleaſed, either for life or death, which was ſometimes determined by caſting of lots.

4 And David took from him a thouſand chariots, and ſeven hundred horſemen, and twenty thouſand footmen: and David houghed all the chariot-horſes, but reſerved of them for an hundred chariots.

5 And when the Syrians of Damaſcus came to ſuccour Hadadezer king of Zobah, David ſlew of the Syrians two and twenty thouſand men.

6 Then David put garriſons in Syria of Damaſcus: and the Syrians became ſervants to David, and brought gifts: and the LORD preſerved David whitherſoever he went.

7 And David took the ſhields of gold that were on the ſervants of Hadadezer, and brought them to Jeruſalem.

8 And from Betah, and from Berothai, cities of Hadadezer, king David, took exceeding much braſs.

9 ¶ When Toi king of Hamath heard that David had ſmitten all the hoſt of Hadadezer,

10 Then Toi ſent Joram his ſon unto king David to ſalute him, and to bleſs him, becauſe he had fought againſt Hadadezer, and ſmitten him: (for Hadadezer had wars with Toi) and Joram brought with him veſſels of ſilver, and veſſels of gold, and veſſels of braſs;

13 And David gat him a name when he returned from ſmiting the Syrians in the valley of Salt, being eighteen thouſand men.

14 And he put garriſons in Edom; throughout all Edom put he garriſons, and all they of Edom became Davids ſervants: and the LORD preſerved David whitherſoever he went.

15 And David reigned over all Iſrael, and David executed judgment and juſtice unto all his people.

16 And Joab the ſon of Zeruiah was over the hoſt; and Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Ahilud was recorder;

As he went to recover his border at the river Euphrates.] As he went to extend the limits of his kingdom, (according to the prophecy, Gen. xv. 15, 18.) towards the river Euphrates.

Ver. 4. Seven hundred horſemen.] In 1 Chron. xviii. 4. it is ſeven thouſand horſemen, which is moſt probable; and with this reading agrees the Septuagint.

Ver. 6. In Syria of Damaſcus.] This was that part of Syria that lay between Libanus and Anti-libanus, whoſe chief city was Damaſcus. It was watered by five rivers; the two principal of which, Abana and Pharphar, deſcended from mount Hermon; the eaſt of which ran by the walls of Damaſcus; the other ran through it, dividing the city into two parts.

Ver. 8. Betah and Berothai.] Which cities are called Tibbath and Chun, in 1 Chron. xviii. 8.

Ver. 9. Hamath.] This city was likewiſe in Syria, and, according to Jerom, was afterwards called Epiphania; it lay north of Judea.

Ver. 13. David gat him a name.] Erected a trophy as a monument of the victory.

The valley of Salt.] The valley of Salt lay near the Dead or Salt-ſea; but, as the country of the Edomites muſt lie on the coaſt of Canaan; it muſt be therefore ſome other valley in the confines of that country. In ſhort, the readings are ſo different, 1 Chron. xviii. 12, 13. and the ſixtieth Pſalm, which refer to the ſame battle, that, till the text is ſettled, it will be in vain to look for the valley of Salt.

Ver. 17. Abimelech the ſon of Abiathar.] This ſeems to be a miſtake of the ſcribes; for Ahimelech was not the ſon of Abiathar, but, on the contrary, Abiathar of Ahimelech.

Before Chriſt 1040. 18 And Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada was over both the Cherethites and the Pelethites; and Davids ſons were chief rulers.

CHAP. IX.

1 David by Ziba ſendeth for Mephiboſheth. 7 For Jonathans ſake he entertaineth him at his table, and reſtoreth him all that was Sauls.

AND David ſaid, Is there yet any that is left of the houſe of Saul, that I may ſhew him kindneſs for Jonathans ſake?

2 And there was of the houſe of Saul, a ſervant whoſe name was Ziba: and when they had called him unto David, the king ſaid unto him, Art thou Ziba? And he ſaid, Thy ſervant is he.

3 And the king ſaid, Is there not yet any of the houſe of Saul, that I may ſhew the kindneſs of God unto him? And Ziba ſaid unto the king, Jonathan hath yet a ſon, which is lame on his feet.

4 And the king ſaid unto him, Where is he? and Ziba ſaid unto the king, Behold, he is in the houſe of Machir, the ſon of Ammiel, in Lo-debar.

5 Then king David ſent, and fet him out of the houſe of Machir, the ſon of Ammiel, from Lo-debar.

6 Now when Mephiboſheth the ſon of Jonathan the ſon of Saul, was come unto David, he fell on his face, and did reverence. And David ſaid, Mephiboſheth. And he anſwered, Behold thy ſervant. Before Chriſt 1040.

7 ¶ And David ſaid unto him, Fear not; for I will ſurely ſhew thee kindneſs, for Jonathan thy fathers ſake, and will reſtore thee all the land of Saul thy father, and thou ſhalt eat bread at my table continually.

8 And he bowed himſelf, and ſaid, What is thy ſervant, that thou ſhouldeſt look upon ſuch a dead dog as I am?

9 ¶ Then the king called to Ziba Sauls ſervant, and ſaid unto him, I have given unto thy maſters ſon all that pertained to Saul, and to all his houſe.

10 Thou therefore and thy ſons, and thy ſervants ſhall till the land for him, and thou ſhalt bring in the fruits, that thy maſters ſon may have food to eat: but Mephiboſheth thy maſters ſon ſhall eat bread alway at my table. Now Ziba had fifteen ſons, and twenty ſervants.

11 Then ſaid Ziba unto the king, According to all that my lord the king hath commanded his ſervant, ſo ſhall thy ſervant do. As for Mephiboſheth, ſaid the king, he ſhall eat at my table as one of the kings ſons.

12 And Mephiboſheth had a young ſon, whoſe

Ver. 18. The Cherethites and the Pelethites.] The Cherethites and the Pelethites, ſays Dr. Pearce, were not, as ſome have thought, Philiſtines, but men of David's own tribe of Judah, whom he had cauſed to be trained as archers and ſhield-bearers, after the manner of the Cherethites and Pelethites, who were originally Philiſtines, inhabitants of Phœnicia; probably they derived their name, which may be rendered Chretites or Cretites, from ſome town, where the uſe of bows and arrows firſt began; or from ſome Phœnician word, now unknown, which had relation to bows and arrows: the Pelethites or Pelites, might derive their name from ſome Phœnician word, ſignifying a buckler or ſhield; and from them the Greeks, borrowing the thing, borrowed the name alſo, calling it Pelte, a buckler; and the men ſo armed Peltaſtai. The reaſons on which theſe conjectures are founded, is, that we are told, 2 Sam. xxiii. 20. that Jehoiada, the father of Benaiah, who commanded theſe troops, was of Kabzeel, which was one of the cities of Judah, Joſh. xv. 21.—Joſephus calls them Somatophulakes or body guards.

NOTES on Chap. IX.

CHAP. X.

1 Davids meſſengers ſent to comfort Hanun the ſon of Nahaſh, are villanouſly intreated. 6 The Ammonites ſtrenghthened by the Syrians are overcome by Joab and Abiſhai.

1037. AND it came to paſs after this, that the king of the children of Ammon died, and Hanun his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

2 Then ſaid David, I will ſhew kindneſs unto Hanun the ſon of Nahaſh, as his father ſhewed kindneſs unto me. And David ſent to comfort him by the hand of his ſervants, for his father. And Davids ſervants came into the land of the children of Ammon.

3 And the princes of the children of Ammon ſaid unto Hanun their lord, Thinkeſt thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath ſent comforters unto thee? hath not David rather ſent his ſervants unto thee, to ſearch the city, and to ſpy it out, and to overthrow it? Before Chriſt 1037.

4 Wherefore Hanun took Davids ſervants, and ſhaved off the one half of their beards, and cut off their garments in the middle, even to their buttocks, and ſent them away.

5 When they told it unto David, he ſent to meet them, becauſe the men were greatly aſhamed: and the king ſaid, Tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown, and then return.

6 ¶ And when the children of Ammon ſaw that they ſtank before David, the children of Ammon ſent and hired the Syrians of Beth-rehob, and the Syrians of Zoba, twenty thouſand footmen, and of king Maacah a thouſand men, and of Iſh-tob, twelve thouſand men.

7 And when David heard of it, he ſent Joab, and all the hoſt of the mighty men.

8 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battel in aray at the entering in of the gate: and the Syrians of Zoba, and of Rehob, and Iſh-tob, and Maacah were by themſelves in the field.

9 When Joab ſaw that the front of the battel was againſt him before and behind, he

Notes on Chap. X.

Ver. 2. As his father ſhewed kindneſs unto me.] It is likely, that as Nahaſh was a bitter enemy to Saul, who had given him a great overthrow, and, for that reaſon, became David's friend, when he perceived how Saul perſecuted him, ſending him relief and aſſiſtance, and perhaps offered him protection, which kindneſs, David, who was always remarkable for his gratitude, now purpoſed to requite.

Ver. 4. Shaved off the one half of their beards.] This was one of the greateſt indignities that could be, in countries where all people thought their hair ſo great an ornament; and even ſome would ſubmit to die, rather than part with it. Among the Lacedæmonians, whenever a ſoldier was convicted of cowardice, he was obliged to go with one part of his upper-lip ſhaved; and, at this day, no greater affront can be offered to a Perſian, than to cauſe his beard to be ſhaven.

And cut of their garments.] This, where long habits down to their heels were worn, (eſpecially by perſons of diſtinction) without any breeches or drawers, was ſuch a brutal and ſhameleſs inſult, expoſing their nakedneſs, that it would have badly become a man of David's martial ſpirit, and juſt ſentiments of honour, to have paſſed it by tamely.

Ver. 6. Hired the Syrians of Beth-rehob.] This was a city belonging to the Canaanites, though it ſtood in the tribe of Aſher: they hired theſe auxiliaries, juſtly fearing David's reſentment.

Maacah.] This was a city of Paleſtine, beyond Jordan, in the tribe of Manaſſeh. The inhabitants of which, as alſo thoſe of Beth-rehob, were called Syrians, becauſe they imitated their manners.

Iſh-tob.] Tob, rather; the country whither Jephthah fled from the cruelty of his brethren, Judges xi. 3.

he choſe of all the choice men of Iſrael, and put them in aray againſt the Syrians.

10 And the reſt of the people he delivered into the hand of Abiſhai his brother, that he might put them in aray againſt the children of Ammon.

11 And he ſaid, If the Syrians be too ſtrong for me, then thou ſhalt help me: but if the children of Ammon be too ſtrong for thee, then I will come and help thee.

12 Be of good courage, and let us play the men for our people, and for the cities of our God: and the LORD do that which ſeemeth him good.

13 And Joab drew nigh, and the people that were with him, unto the battel againſt the Syrians: and they fled before him.

14 And when the children of Ammon ſaw that the Syrians were fled, then fled they alſo before Abiſhai, and entered into the city: ſo Joab returned from the children of Ammon, and came to Jeruſalem.

15 ¶ And when the Syrians ſaw that they were ſmitten before Iſrael, they gathered themſelves together.

16 And Hadarezer ſent, and brought out the Syrians that were beyond the river: and they came to Helam; and Shobach the captain of the hoſt of Hadarezer went before them.

17 And when it was told David, he gathered all Iſrael together, and paſſed over Jordan, and came to Helam: and the Syrians ſet themſelves in aray againſt David, and fought with him.

Before Christ 1037.

18 And the Syrians fled before Iſrael, and David ſlew the men of ſeven hundred chariots of the Syrians, and forty thouſand horſemen, and ſmote Shobach the captain of their hoſt, who died there.

19 And when all the kings that were ſervants to Hadarezer ſaw that they were ſmitten before Iſrael, they made peace with Iſrael, and ſerved them. So the Syrians feared to help the children of Ammon any more.

CHAP. XI.

1 While Joab beſieged Rabbah, David committeth adultery with Bath-ſheba. 6 Uriah ſent for by David to cover the adultery, would not go home neither ſober nor drunken: 14 He carrieth to Joab the letter of his death. 18 Joab ſendeth the news thereof to David. 26 David taketh Bath-ſheba to wife.

AND it came to paſs that after the year was expired, at the time when kings go forth to battel, that David ſent Joab and his ſervants with him, and all Iſrael; and they deſtroyed the children of Ammon, and beſieged Rabbah: but David tarried ſtill at Jeruſalem.

2 ¶ And it came to paſs in an eveningtide, that David aroſe from off his bed, and walked upon the roof of the kings houſe: and from the roof he ſaw a woman waſhing herſelf, and the woman was very beautiful to look upon.

3 And David ſent and enquired after the woman: and one ſaid, Is not this Bathſhe-

Ver. 2. The roof,] See note on 1 Samuel ix. 25.

He ſaw a woman waſhing herſelf.] Joſephus tells us, ſhe was in her own houſe; nor can it be doubted, but that the declining rays of the ſun, ſhooting into the inmoſt receſſes of her chamber, and throwing a great luſtre around her, might diſcover her very clearly to a diſtant eye, without the leaſt ſuſpicion on her part, of any poſſibility of being ſeen; and conſequently with all the reſerve of modeſty proper to her ſex.

Ver. 3. Is not this Bath-ſheba.] Theſe words ſeem to have been ſpoken by the meſſenger who was ſent to enquire after her; that he need not trouble himſelf any farther, ſhe being another man's wife.

ba the daughter of Eliam, the wife of Uriah the Hittite?

4 And David ſent meſſengers, and took her; and ſhe came in unto him, and he lay with her, (for ſhe was purified from her uncleanneſs) and ſhe returned unto her houſe.

5 And the woman conceived, and ſent and told David, and ſaid, I am with child.

6 ¶ And David ſent to Joab, ſaying, Send me Uriah the Hittite. And Joab ſent Uriah to David.

7 And when Uriah was come unto him, David demanded of him how Joab did, and how the people did, and how the war proſpered.

8 And David ſaid to Uriah, Go down to thy houſe, and waſh thy feet. And Uriah departed out of the kings houſe, and there followed him a meſs of meat from the king.

9 But Uriah ſlept at the door of the kings houſe, with all the ſervants of his lord, and went not down to his houſe.

10 And when they had told David, ſaying, Uriah went not down unto his houſe, David ſaid unto Uriah, Cameſt thou not from thy journey? why then didſt thou not go down unto thine houſe?

11 And Uriah ſaid unto David, The ark, and Iſrael, and Judah abide in tents; and my lord Joab, and the ſervants of my lord are encamped in the open fields, ſhall I then go into mine houſe, to eat and to drink, and to lie with my wife? as thou liveſt, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not do this thing.

Before Chriſt 1035.

12 And David ſaid to Uriah, Tarry here to day alſo, and to morrow I will let thee depart. So Uriah abode in Jeruſalem, that day and the morrow.

13 And when David had called him, he did eat and drink before him, and he made him drunk: and at even he went out to lie on his bed with the ſervants of his lord, but went not down to his houſe.

14 ¶ And it came to paſs in the morning, that David wrote a letter to Joab, and ſent it by the hand of Uriah.

15 And he wrote in the letter, ſaying, Set ye Uriah in the forefront of the hotteſt battel, and retire ye from him, that he may be ſmitten, and die.

16 And it came to paſs when Joab obſerved the city, that he aſſigned Uriah unto a place where he knew that valiant men were.

17 And the men of the city went out, and fought with Joab: and there fell ſome of the people of the ſervants of David, and Uriah the Hittite died alſo.

Uriah the Hittite.] He was called an Hittite, either becauſe he was of that nation, and a proſelyte, or elſe for ſome gallant exploit he had performed againſt the Hittites.

Ver. 5. And ſent and told David.] Fearful leſt ſhe ſhould be branded with infamy; and perhaps too of her huſband, who might cauſe her to be ſtoned; ſhe therefore requeſts of David to conſult her honour and ſafety.

Ver. 8. Go down to thy houſe, and waſh thy feet.] In thoſe countries, where only ſandals were worn, it was a great refreſhment to waſh the feet after a journey, and a common compliment, which the maſter of the houſe uſually made to a ſtranger at his firſt entrance. David means, that Uriah ſhould go feaſt with his wife, (for which purpoſe, he ſent a collation to his houſe) and indulge himſelf in her company, after ſo long an abſence. For David's intention hitherto, was neither to murder Uriah, nor marry his wife; but only to ſcreen her honour, and his own crime.

Ver. 9. Went not down to his houſe.] Suſpecting ſomething of his wife's crime perhaps, and reſolving that it ſhould be diſcovered, would not go down to his houſe; if he did, he certainly acted the part of a truſty ſervant, when he would not open the kings letter, which, if he really ſuſpected the criminal commerce with his wife, he muſt needs conclude, could portend no good to himſelf.

Ver. 13. He made him drunk.] This was another artful expedient, to inflame his appetite with liquor, in order to make him go home to his wife.

Ver. 17. Uriah the Hittite died alſo.] The caſe of Uriah, naturally brings to mind the ſtory of Bellerophon's carrying letters from Prætus to Jobates, with an order to kill him. The circumſtances in the fate of Uriah and Bellerophon are ſo much alike, that the fable of the latter, ſeems to be founded on the ſtory of the former; and the ſimilitude of Jobates, and Joab's name, is very remarkable; and the variation in the whole, lies wholly in ſome poetical embelliſhments.

Before Christ 1035.

18 ¶ Then Joab ſent, and told David all the things concerning the war:

19 And charged the meſſenger, ſaying, When thou haſt made an end of telling the matters of the war unto the king,

20 And if ſo be that the kings wrath ariſe, and he ſay unto thee, Wherefore approached ye ſo nigh unto the city when ye did fight? knew ye not that they would ſhoot from the wall?

21 Who ſmote Abimelech the ſon of Jerubbeſheth? did not a woman caſt a piece of a milſtone upon him from the wall that he died in Thebez? why went ye nigh the wall? then ſay thou, Thy ſervant Uriah the Hittite is dead alſo.

22 ¶ So the meſſenger went, and came and ſhewed David all that Joab had ſent him for.

23 And the meſſenger ſaid unto David, Surely the men prevailed againſt us, and came out unto us into the field, and we were upon them even unto the entering of the gate.

24 And the ſhooters ſhot from off the wall upon thy ſervants, and ſome of the kings ſervants be dead, and thy ſervant Uriah the Hittite is dead alſo.

25 Then David ſaid unto the meſſenger, Thus ſhalt thou ſay unto Joab, Let not this thing diſpleaſe thee: for the ſword devoureth one as well as another: make thy battel more ſtrong againſt the city, and overthrow it; and encourage thou him.

26 ¶ And when the wife of Uriah heard that Uriah her huſband was dead, ſhe mourned for her huſband.

27 And when the mourning was paſt, David ſent and fet her to his houſe, and ſhe became his wife, and bare him a ſon: but the thing that David had done, diſpleaſed the LORD.

CHAP. XII.

1 Nathans parable of the ew-lamb, cauſeth David to be his own judge. 7 David, reproved by Nathan, confeſſeth his ſin, and is pardoned. 24 Solomon is born, and named Jedidiah.

AND the LORD ſent Nathan unto David: and he came unto him, and ſaid unto him, There were two men in one city; the one rich, and the other poor. 1034.

2 The rich man had exceeding many flocks and herds:

Ver. 21. Who ſmote Abimelech.] See Judges ix. 52, 53.

Ver. 27. When the mourning was paſt.] How long widows were to mourn for their huſbands, there is no expreſs precept in the law; the uſual time was but ſeven days; and we cannot ſuppoſe that Bath-ſheba mourned much longer.

She became his wife.] According to the Jewiſh doctors, it was abſolutely unlawful for any to marry another man's wife, in caſe he had defiled her before. The canonical law declares ſuch marriages null and void: therefore ſome have thought this marriage invalid; but others, upon better grounds, ſuppoſe, that notwithſtanding there were many criminal circumſtances attending it, and tho' it ought not to have been done; that yet being done, the marriage was good, and conſequently, the children afterwards born, legitimate.

The thing that David had done diſpleaſed the Lord.] There are ſome of the aggravations, obſervable in David's crime, which (beſides his luſt and cruelty) is loaded with too juſt an imputation of perfidy, of ingratitude, of hypocriſy, of deliberation, of obſtinacy, of ſhameleſneſs in ſin: it is no wonder, therefore, that the thing that David had done diſpleaſed the Lord.

Theſe things are recorded, to teach us the frailty of human nature, and how liable the beſt of men are, in ſome inſtances of their lives, to be overtaken with very groſs faults; to ſhew us the natural gradation of one ſin to another; and that, if we once ſuffer our appetites to gain the aſcendent, it will be quickly out of our power to preſcribe them any bounds; to caution us againſt ſloth and idleneſs, againſt indulging any inordinate paſſion, or gazing upon objects that may endanger our innocence; to remind us all, how we ſtand in continual need of divine aſſiſtance; and therefore how much we are concerned to pray, and to watch as well as pray, that we do not fall into any temptation.

NOTES on Chap. XII.

Ver. 1. There were two men in one city, &c.] The prophet makes uſe of an appoſite parable, which was a prudent and reſpectful method of awakening David's conſcience; and which he managed ſo well, that he did not condemn David, but made him condemn himſelf.

Ver. 2. The rich man had many flocks and herds] David had many wives and concubines, and ſhould have been ſatisfied without violating another man's bed.

Before Chriſt 1034.

3 But the poor man had nothing ſave one little ew-lamb, which he had bought and nouriſhed up: and it grew up together with him, and with his children; it did eat of his own meat, and drank of his own cup, and lay in his boſom, and was unto him as a daughter.

4 And there came a traveller unto the rich man, and he ſpared to take of his own flock, and of his own herd, to dreſs for the way-faring man that was come unto him, but took the poor mans lamb, and dreſſed it for the man that was come to him.

5 And Davids anger was greatly kindled againſt the man, and he ſaid to Nathan, As the Lord liveth, the man that hath done this thing, ſhall ſurely die.

6 And he ſhall reſtore the lamb fourfold, becauſe he did this thing, and becauſe he had no pity.

7 ¶ And Nathan ſaid to David, Thou art the man. Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, I anointed thee king over Iſrael, and I delivered the out of the hand of Saul:

8 And I gave thee thy maſters houſe, and thy maſters wives into thy boſom, and gave thee the houſe of Iſrael and of Judah; and if that had been too little, I would moreover have given unto thee ſuch and ſuch things.

Before Chriſt 1034.

9 Wherefore haſt thou deſpiſed the commandment of the Lord, to do evil in his ſight? thou haſt killed Uriah the Hittite with the ſword, and haſt taken his wife to be thy wife, and haſt ſlain him with the ſword of the children of Ammon.

10 Now therefore the ſword ſhall never depart from thine houſe; becauſe thou haſt deſpiſed me, and haſt taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be thy wife.

11 Thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, I will raiſe up evil againſt thee out of thine own houſe, and I will take thy wives before thine eyes, and give them unto thy neighbour, and he ſhall lie with thy wives in the ſight of this ſun.

12 For thou didſt it ſecretly: but I will do this thing before all Iſrael, and before the ſun.

13 And David ſaid unto Nathan, I have ſinned againſt the Lord. And Nathan ſaid unto David, The Lord alſo hath put away thy ſin; thou ſhalt not die.

14 Howbeit,

Ver. 3. The poor man had nothing but one ew-lamb.] Bath-ſheba was the only wife Uriah had, with whom he was entirely happy; and probably ſhe with him, till David's temptation had perverted her mind.

It grew up together with him and with his children.] Many perſons were anciently ſo fond, not only of lambs, but other creatures, that they ſuffered them to feed at their tables, and even lie with them in their beds; and, at this day, it is a cuſtom in Arabia, (which is contiguous to Judea) to have one of the fineſt lambs in the flock, brought up in the houſe, and fed with the children.

Ver. 4. There came a traveller unto the rich man.] This denoted David's ſtraggling affection, which ſuffered him to wander from his own home, and to covet another man's wife; of which affection, the Jewiſh doctors have this judicious obſervation; that, "In the beginning, it is "but a traveller, but in time it becomes a gueſt, and in "concluſion is the maſter of the houſe."

Ver. 5. Shall ſurely die.] Puniſhments are ſometimes for the attrocioushneſs of the crime, extended beyond the law. David condemned the perſon who took away the lamb, to pay four-fold, according to the law; and denounced ſentence of death againſt him, becauſe he had no pity.

Ver. 6. He ſhall reſtore fourfold.] The Jews take notice, that this ſentence was ominous; the ſame number of David's children periſhing, as the rich man was ordered to reſtore lambs, viz. the child he had by Bath-ſheba, alſo Amnon, Abſalom, and Adonijah.

Ver. 7. Thou art the man.] Thou art the criminal; thou art the judge; and haſt pronounced a moſt terrible ſentence againſt thyſelf.

Ver. 8. Such and ſuch things.] Any thing whatever, that he could reaſonably deſire.

Ver. 10. The ſword ſhall never depart from thine houſe.] There ſhall be ſlaughters in thy family, as long as thou liveſt.

Ver. 11. Out of thine own houſe.] Fulfilled in Abſalom's conſpiracy.

Ver. 13. I have ſinned againſt the Lord.] This confeſſion, though made in few words, was attended with great contrition, David humbled himſelf, wept, and lamented for his ſin; and of his penitence, has left a perpetual monument in the fifty-firſt Pſalm.

Thou ſhalt not die.] He was guilty of death, both as an adulterer, and as a murderer; but upon his ſincere repentance, the prophet ſo far abſolves him, that he ſhould not eternally periſh; nor here ſuffer the death he ſo juſtly deſerved.

Before Christ 1034.

14 Howbeit, becauſe by this deed thou haſt given great occaſion to the enemies of the LORD to blaſpheme, the child alſo that is born unto thee, ſhall ſurely die.

15 ¶ And Nathan departed unto his houſe: and the LORD ſtruck the child that Uriahs wife bare unto David, and it was very ſick.

16 David therefore beſought God for the child, and David faſted, and went in, and lay all night upon the earth.

17 And the elders of his houſe aroſe, and went to him, to raiſe him up from the earth: but he would not, neither did he eat bread with them.

18 And it came to paſs on the ſeventh day, that the child died: and the ſervants of David feared to tell him that the child was dead: for they ſaid, Behold, while the child was yet alive, we ſpake unto him, and he would not hearken unto our voice: how will he then vex himſelf, if we tell him that the child is dead?

19 But when David ſaw that his ſervants whiſpered, David perceived that the child was dead: therefore David ſaid unto his ſervants, Is the child dead? And they ſaid, He is dead.

20 Then David aroſe from the earth, and waſhed, and anointed himſelf, and changed his apparel, and came into the houſe of the LORD, and worſhipped: then he came to his own houſe, and when he required, they ſat bread before him, and he did eat.

Before Christ 1034.

21 Then ſaid his ſervants unto him, What thing is this that thou haſt done? thou didſt faſt and weep for the child while it was alive, but when the child was dead, thou didſt riſe and eat bread.

22 And he ſaid, While the child was yet alive, I faſted and wept: for I ſaid, Who can tell whether God will be gracious to me, that the child may live?

23 But now he is dead, wherefore ſhould I faſt? can I bring him back again? I ſhall go to him, but he ſhall not return to me.

24 ¶ And David comforted Bath-ſheba his wife, and went in unto her, and lay with her: and ſhe bare a ſon, and he called his name Solomon; and the LORD loved him.

25 And he ſent by the hand of Nathan the prophet; and he called his name Jedidiah, becauſe of the LORD.

26 ¶ And Joab fought againſt Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and took the royal city.

27 And Joab ſent meſſengers to David, and ſaid, I have fought againſt Rabbah, and have taken the city of waters.

28 Now therefore gather the reſt of the people together, and encamp againſt the city, and take it: leſt I take the city, and it be called after my name.

29 And

Ver. 14. The child—ſhall ſurely die.] So bewitching are ſenſual pleaſures! David remained many months inſenſible of his guilt; for the child begotten in adultery, was born before Nathan came to rouſe him from his lethargy.

Ver. 16. David faſted, and went in, and lay all night upon the earth.] And yet, with all this humiliation and compunction, he could not obtain a revocation of the ſentence. It may be aſked, why the death of this child (who, had he lived, had been only a monument of infamy to its parents) ſhould be accounted by David ſo great a puniſhment; and this muſt be aſcribed to his exceſſive paſſion for Bath-ſheba, which ſo ſtrongly attached him to her offspring, and made him forget every thing in this child, but that motive of endearment. Beſides, there is ſomething in human nature, which prompts us to rate things after a manner ſeemingly unaccountable, and to eſtimate them, not according to their value, but according to the expence or trouble, or even the diſtreſs they coſt us. However, it is not to be thought, that this exceſſive mourning did proceed ſo much from the fear of loſing the child, as from a deep ſenſe of his ſin, and of God's diſpleaſure manifeſted in the child's ſickneſs.

Ver. 23. Wherefore ſhould I faſt?] Both reaſon and religion conſpire to arm us againſt theſe trying conflicts. To bear with patience, what we cannot remedy, is the voice of reaſon; and to ſubmit with reverence, to the diſpenſations of providence, is the command of religion.

Ver. 24. Solomon.] This word is properly derived from Schlalom, which ſignifies peace; intimating, that his reign ſhould be peaceable.

Before Chriſt 1033. 29 And David gathered all the people together, and went to Rabbah, and fought againſt it, and took it.

30 And he took their kings crown from off his head, (the weight whereof was a talent of gold with the precious ſtones) and it was ſet on Davids head: and he brought forth the ſpoil of the city in great abundance.

31 And he brought forth the people that were therein, and put them under ſaws, and under harrows of iron, and under axes of iron, and made them paſs throught the brick-kiln: and thus did he unto all the cities of the children of Ammon. So David and all the people returned unto Jeruſalem.

C H A P. XIII.

1 Amnon loving Tamar, by Jonadabs counſel feigning himſelf ſick, raviſheth her: 15 He hateth her, and ſhamefully turneth her away. 19 Abſalom entertaineth her, and concealeth his purpoſe. 23 At a ſheep-ſhearing, among all the kings ſons, he killeth Amnon.

1032. AND it came to paſs after this, that Abſalom the ſon of David had a fair ſiſter, whoſe name was Tamar, and Amnon the ſon of David loved her.

2 And Amnon was ſo vexed, that he fell ſick for his ſiſter Tamar; for ſhe was a virgin: And Amnon thought it hard for him to do any thing to her.

3 But Amnon had a friend, whoſe name was Jonadab, the ſon of Shimeah, Davids brother: and Jonadab was a very ſubtil man. Before Chriſt 1032.

4 And he ſaid unto him, Why art thou, being the kings ſon, lean from day to day? wilt thou not tell me? And Amnon ſaid unto him, I love Tamar, my brother Abſaloms ſiſter.

5 And Jonadab ſaid unto him, Lay thee down on thy bed, and make thyſelf ſick: and when thy father cometh to ſee thee, ſay unto him, I pray thee, let my ſiſter Tamar come, and give me meat, and dreſs the meat in my ſight, that I may ſee it, and eat it at her hand.

6 ¶ So Amnon lay down, and made himſelf ſick: and when the king was come to ſee him, Amnon ſaid unto the king, I pray thee, let Tamar my ſiſter come, and make me a couple of cakes in my ſight, that I may eat at her hand.

7 Then David ſent home to Tamar, ſaying, Go now to thy brother Amnons houſe, and dreſs him meat.

8 So Tamar went to her brother Amnons houſe, (and he was laid down) and ſhe took flour, and kneaded it, and made cakes in his ſight, and did bake the cakes.

9 And ſhe took a pan, and poured them out before him, but he refuſed to eat. And Amnon ſaid, Have out all men from me: and they went out every man from him.

10 And Amnon ſaid unto Tamar, Bring the meat into the chamber, that I may eat of thine hand. And Tamar took the cakes

Ver. 30. A talent of gold.] But no perſon was able to wear a crown of a talent weight, which was equal to 125 pounds. It ſhould be tranſlated, therefore, the value of the crown, with the precious ſtones, amounted to a talent of gold; which, according to Dr. Arbuthnot, was worth, of our money, 5475 pounds ſterling.

Ver. 31. Put them under ſaws, &c.] Theſe puniſhments the Ammonites inflicted upon the Hebrews, and therefore David uſed them in the ſame manner: for an inſtance of the barbarity of the Ammonites. See 1 Samuel xi. 2.

NOTES on Chap. XIII.

Ver. 1. Had a fair ſiſter.] This princeſs's mother, was the daughter of the king of Geſhur, who was taken captive by David, and whom he afterwards married.

Ver. 2. Thought it hard for him to do any thing to her.] That is, he thought it difficult to compaſs his ends. Virgins of the blood-royal being kept in private apartments, ſeparate from the commerce of men; and therefore, conſidering their cloſe confinement, it was ſcarce poſſible for Ammon, to find an opportunity of declaring, much leſs of gratifying his paſſion.

Before Christ 1032.

which ſhe had made, and brought them into the chamber to Amnon her brother.

11 And when ſhe had brought them unto him to eat, he took hold of her, and ſaid unto her, Come lie with me, my ſiſter.

12 And ſhe anſwered him, Nay, my brother, do not force me: for no ſuch thing ought to be done in Iſrael; do not thou this folly.

13 And I, whither ſhall I cauſe my ſhame to go? and as for thee, thou ſhalt be as one of the fools in Iſrael: now therefore, I pray thee, ſpeak unto the king; for he will not withhold me from thee.

14 Howbeit, he would not hearken unto her voice: but being ſtronger than ſhe, forced her, and lay with her.

15 ¶ Then Amnon hated her exceedingly, ſo that the hatred wherewith he hated her, was greater than the love wherewith he had loved her: and Amnon ſaid unto her, Ariſe, be gone.

16 And ſhe ſaid unto him, There is no cauſe; this evil in ſending me away, is greater than the other that thou didſt unto me: but he would not hearken unto her.

Before Christ 1032.

17 Then he called his ſervant that miniſtered unto him, and ſaid, Put now this woman out from me, and bolt the door after her.

18 And ſhe had a garment of divers colours upon her: for with ſuch robes were the kings daughters that were virgins, apparelled. Then his ſervant brought her out, and bolted the door after her.

19 ¶ And Tamar put aſhes on her head, and rent her garment of divers colours that was on her, and laid her hand on her head, and went on crying.

20 And Abſalom her brother ſaid unto her, Hath Amnon thy brother been with thee? but hold now thy peace, my ſiſter; he is thy brother, regard not this thing. So Tamar remained deſolate in her brother Abſaloms houſe.

21 ¶ But when king David heard of all theſe things, he was very wroth.

22 And Abſalom ſpake unto his brother Amnon, neither good nor bad: for Abſalom hated Amnon, becauſe he had forced his ſiſter Tamar.

23 ¶ And

Ver. 12. Nay, my brother, do not force me.] This ſpeech of Tamars is very pathetic; Nay, my brother, &c. She reminds him of his relation to her, for which ſhe hoped he would have ſuch a reverence, as not to meddle with her, much leſs to offer violence to her, which was abominable even to a ſtranger. Do not this folly: She prays him to recollect the heinouſneſs of the crime, and how highly offenſive it would be to God: Whither ſhall I go? Beſides the ſin againſt God, ſhe begs he would conſider what a diſgrace it would be to her: Thou ſhalt be as one of the fools in Iſrael. She concludes, with reminding him of his own reputation, which ſuch an action would tarniſh for ever, and make him be looked upon as a man void of all ſenſe, religion, honour, and even humanity.

Ver. 13. He will not withhold me from thee.] Tamar was not ignorant, that the Jewiſh law prohibited ſuch inceſtuous marriages; nor did ſhe think her father's power ſo great that he might diſpenſe with the law upon this occaſion; but ſaid any thing ſhe thought would pleaſe him, in order to eſcape for the preſent out of his hands.

Ver. 15. Amnon hated her exceedingly.] The ſhame which accompanies every unlawful action, and the remorſe, repentance, and many bad conſequences that immediately purſue it, make a recoil in every man's temper; and it is no wonder, if after fruition, he was ſeized with a contrary paſſion, and hated the object he loved ſo much before; when he came cooly to compare the pleaſure and the ſin together. But he hated his ſiſter, when he ſhould have hated himſelf; and as this outragious treatment of her, made it impoſſible for his guilt to be concealed, ſo God ſeems to have abandoned him to the tumult of his intemperate mind, on purpoſe to make this puniſhment of David's adultery more flagrant, and the prophets prediction of raiſing up evil out of his own houſe, the more conſpicuous.

Ver. 16. This evil is greater.] It was not a greater ſin; but it did her the greater miſchief, by publiſhing her ſhame.

Ver. 19. Tamar put aſhes on her head, &c.] See the note on 1 Sam. iv. 12.

Ver. 21. He was very wroth,] The reaſon why David did not chaſtiſe Amnon for his inceſtuous rape, probably was, becauſe the caſe was intricate and perplexed, and ſuch as the law had made no proviſion for. Had he puniſhed his crime with death, Tamar, though innocent, muſt have ſuffered too, Deut. 22. 23. and though ſhe was not a betrothed damſel (as the caſe is put in the other law Deut. xxii. 28.) yet David could not compel Amnon to marry her, becauſe ſuch a marriage would have been inceſtuous, and it is a rule of equity, rather to let the guilty eſcape, than that the innocent and injured ſhould be deſtroyed.

Before Christ 1030.

23 ¶ And it came to paſs after two full years, that Abſalom had ſheepſhearers in Baal-hazor, which is beſide Ephraim: and Abſalom invited all the kings ſons.

24 And Abſalom came to the king, and ſaid, Behold now, thy ſervant hath ſheepſhearers, let the king, I beſeech thee, and his ſervants, go with thy ſervant.

25 And the king ſaid to Abſalom, Nay, my ſon, let us not all now go, leſt we be chargeable unto thee. And he preſſed him: howbeit he would not go, but bleſſed him.

26 Then ſaid Abſalom, If not, I pray thee, let my brother Amnon go with us. And the king ſaid unto him, Why ſhould he go with thee?

27 But Abſalom preſſed him, that he let Amnon and all the kings ſons go with him.

28 ¶ Now Abſalom had commanded his ſervants, ſaying, Mark ye now when Amnons heart is merry with wine, and when I ſay unto you, Smite Amnon, then kill him, fear not: have not I commanded you? be couragious, and be valiant.

29 And the ſervants of Abſalom did unto Amnon, as Abſalom had commanded: then all the kings ſons aroſe, and every man gat him up upon his mule, and fled.

30 ¶ And it came to paſs while they were in the way, that tidings came to David, ſaying, Abſalom hath ſlain all the kings ſons, and there is not one of them left.

31 Then the king aroſe, and tare his garments, and lay on the earth; and all his ſervants ſtood by with their clothes rent.

32 And Jonadab the ſon of Shimeah Davids brother, anſwered and ſaid, Let not my lord ſuppoſe that they have ſlain all the young men the kings ſons; for Amnon only is dead: for by the appointment of Abſalom this hath been determined, from the day that he forced his ſiſter Tamar.

Before Christ 1030.

33 Now therefore let not my lord the king take the thing to his heart, to think that all the kings ſons are dead: for Amnon only is dead

34 But Abſalom fled. And the young man that kept the watch, lift up his eyes, and looked, and behold, there came much people by the way of the hill-ſide behind him.

35 And Jonadab ſaid unto the king, Behold, the kings ſons come: as thy ſervant ſaid, ſo it is.

36 And it came to paſs as ſoon as he had made an end of ſpeaking, that behold, the kings ſons came, and lift up their voice and wept: and the king alſo and all his ſervants wept very ſore.

37 ¶ But Abſalom fled, and went to Talmai the ſon of Ammihud king of Geſhur: and David mourned for his ſon every day.

38 So Abſalom fled, and went to Geſhur, and was there three years.

39 And the ſoul of king David longed to go forth unto Abſalom: for he was comforted concerning Amnon, ſeeing he was dead.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Joab, ſuborning a widow of Tekoah, by a parable to incline the kings heart to fetch home Abſalom, bringeth him to Jeruſalem. 25 Abſaloms beauty, hair, and children.

NOW Joab the ſon of Zeruiah perceived that the kings heart was toward Abſalom. 1027.

Ver. 23. Abſalom invited all the king's ſons.] Sheep-ſhearing was uſually attended with mirth and feaſting.

Ver. 37. Abſalom fled, and went to Talmai.] He could have no city of refuge in his own country, being a wilful murderer; and therefore he fled out of the kingdom to his mother's father.

Before Chriſt 1027.

2 And Joab ſent to Tekoah, and fetched thence a wiſe woman, and ſaid unto her, I pray thee feign thyſelf to be a mourner, and put on now mourning-apparel, and anoint not thyſelf with oil, but be as a woman that had a long time mourned for the dead:

3 And come to the king, and ſpeak on this manner unto him: ſo Joab put the words in her mouth.

4 ¶ And when the woman of Tekoah ſpake to the king, ſhe fell on her face to the ground, and did obeiſance, and ſaid, Help, O king.

5 And the king ſaid unto her, What aileth thee? And ſhe anſwered I am indeed a widow woman, and mine huſband is dead.

6 And thy handmaid had two ſons, and they two ſtrove together in the field, and there was none to part them, but the one ſmote the other, and ſlew him.

7 And behold, the whole family is riſen againſt thine handmaid, and they ſaid, Deliver him that ſmote his brother, that we may kill him, for the life of his brother whom he ſlew, and we will deſtroy the heir alſo: and ſo they ſhall quench my coal which is left, and ſhall not leave to my huſband neither name nor remainder upon the earth.

8 And the king ſaid unto the woman, Go to thine houſe, and I will give charge concerning thee.

Before Chriſt 1027.

9 And the woman of Tekoah ſaid unto the king, My lord, O king, the iniquity be on me, and on my fathers houſe: and the king and his throne be guiltleſs.

10 And the king ſaid, Whoſoever ſaith ought unto thee, bring him to me, and he ſhall not touch thee any more.

11 Then ſaid ſhe, I pray thee, let the king remember the LORD thy God, that thou wouldeſt not ſuffer the revengers of blood to deſtroy any more, leſt they deſtroy my ſon. And he ſaid As the LORD liveth, there ſhall not one hair of thy ſon fall to the earth.

12 Then the woman ſaid, Let thine handmaid, I pray thee, ſpeak one word unto my lord the king. And he ſaid, Say on.

13 And the woman ſaid, Wherefore then haſt thou thought ſuch a thing againſt the people of God? for the king doth ſpeak this thing, as one which is faulty, in that the king doth not fetch home again his baniſhed.

14 For we muſt needs die, and are as water ſpilt on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again: neither doth God reſpect any perſon, yet doth he deviſe means, that his baniſhed be not expelled from him.

15 Now therefore that I am come to ſpeak of this thing unto my lord the king,

NOTES on Chap. XIV.

Ver. 2. Tekoah.] This city was ſituated in the tribe of Judah, and about two miles ſouth of Jeruſalem.

And fetched thence a wiſe woman.] Joſephus calls her a grave woman, Joab's conduct in this affair was remarkably uſeful; he choſe a widow, becauſe her condition of life was more proper to move compaſſion; and one who lived at a diſtance, that ſo her caſe might not be ſo readily enquired into.

Ver. 7. They ſhall quench my coal, &c.] Deprive me of the little comfort of my life which remains, and is, as it were, a coal buried in the aſhes.

The whole intention of her ſpeech was to frame a caſe ſimilar to that of David, in order by prevailing with him to determine in her favour, that he might be convinced how much more reaſonable it was to preſerve Abſalom. There was great art in not making the ſimilitude too plain. leſt the king ſhould perceive the intention of the woman's petition, before ſhe had obtained a grant of pardon for her ſon, and came to make the application to the king.

Ver. 13. The king doth ſpeak this thing, as one that is faulty.] He had condemned himſelf, in the ſentence he had pronounced for her; this looks like too bold a ſpeech; but the ſenſe is no more than this, "Do not judge otherwiſe in thy own caſe, than thou haſt done in mine."

Before Christ 1027.

king, it is becauſe the people have made me afraid: and thy handmaid ſaid, I will now ſpeak unto the king; it may be that the king will perform the requeſt of his handmaid.

16 For the king will hear, to deliver his handmaid out of the hand of the man that would deſtroy me and my ſon together out of the inheritance of God:

17 Then thine handmaid ſaid, The word of my lord the king ſhall now be comfortable: for as an angel of God, ſo is my lord the king to diſcern good and bad: therefore the Lord thy God will be with thee.

18 Then the king anſwered and ſaid unto the woman, Hide not from me, I pray thee, the thing that I ſhall aſk thee. And the woman ſaid, Let my lord the king now ſpeak.

19 And the king ſaid, Is not the hand of Joab with thee in all this? And the woman anſwered and ſaid, As thy ſoul liveth, my lord the king, none can turn to the right hand or to the left from ought that my lord the king hath ſpoken: for thy ſervant Joab he bade me, and he put all theſe words in the mouth of thine handmaid:

20 To fetch about this form of ſpeech hath thy ſervant Joab done this thing: and my lord is wiſe, according to the wiſdom of an angel of God, to know all things that are in the earth.

21 ¶ And the king ſaid unto Joab, Behold, now, I have done this thing: go therefore, bring the young man Abſalom again.

Before Christ 1027.

22 And Joab fell to the ground on his face, and bowed himſelf, and thanked the king: and Joab ſaid, To day thy ſervant knoweth that I have found grace in thy ſight, my lord, O king, in that the king hath fulfilled the requeſt of his ſervant.

23 So Joab aroſe and went to Geſhur, and brought Abſalom to Jeruſalem.

24 And the king ſaid, Let him turn to his own houſe, and let him not ſee my face. So Abſalom returned to his own houſe, and ſaw not the kings face.

25 ¶ But in all Iſrael there was none to be ſo much praiſed as Abſalom, for his beauty: from the ſole of his foot even to the crown of his head, there was no blemiſh in him.

26 And when he polled his head, (for it was at every years end that he polled it: becauſe the hair was heavy on him, therefore he polled it) he weighed the hair of his head at two hundred ſhekels after the kings weight.

27 And unto Abſalom there were born three ſons and one daughter, whoſe name was Tamar: ſhe was a woman of a fair countenance.

28 ¶ So Abſalom dwelt two full years in Jeruſalem, and ſaw not the kings face.

29 Therefore Abſalom ſent for Joab, to have ſent him to the king, but he would not come to him: and when he

Ver. 15. It is becauſe the people have made me afraid.] Biſhop Patrick thinks this ſhould be tranſlated, though the people have made me afraid.

Ver. 26. He weighed the hair of his head at two hundred ſhekels after the king's weight.] The weight of his hair was about 3 lb. 2 oz. of our weight. It is the opinion of ſome interpreters, there is a manifeſt miſtake crept into the text, occaſioned by ſome tranſlator's inſerting one numeral letter inſtead of another, viz. Reſch inſtead of Dalith, i. e. two hundred inſtead of four. But it may be obſerved, that when the books of Samuel were reviſed, after the Babyloniſh captivity, ſuch weights were mentioned as were then known to them: therefore, when he mentions this weight of Abſalom's hair, he adds, by way of explanation, that it was after the kings weight, i. e. the king of Babylon, whoſe ſhekel was only one third of that of the jews; therefore this large quantity of hair, which has given occaſion to the enemies of revelation, to ridicule the ſacred text, is reduced ſo far, as not to ſeem improbable. According to this hypotheſis, Abſalom's hair, which weighed two hundred Babyloniſh ſhekels, came but, in our weight, to about 1lb. eleven or twelve drams.

Before Christ 1027. ſent again the ſecond time, he would not come.

30 Therefore he ſaid unto his ſervants, See, Joabs field is near mine, and he hath barley there; go and ſet it on fire: and Abſaloms ſervants ſet the field on fire:

31 Then Joab aroſe and came to Abſalom unto his houſe, and ſaid unto him, Wherefore have thy ſervants ſet my field on fire?

32 And Abſalom anſwered Joab, Behold, I ſent unto thee, ſaying, Come hither, that I may ſend thee to the king, to ſay, Wherefore am I come from Geſhur? it had been good for me to have been there ſtill: now therefore let me ſee the kings face; and if there be any iniquity in me, let him kill me.

33 So Joab came to the king, and told him: and when he had called for Abſalom, he came to the king, and before the king: and the king kiſſed Abſalom.

1024. AND it came to paſs after this, that Abſalom prepared him chariots, and horſes, and fifty men to run before him.

2 And Abſalom roſe up early, and ſtood beſide the way of the gate: and it was ſo, that when any man that had a controverſy came to the king for judgment, then Abſalom called unto him, and ſaid,
Before Christ 1024. Of what city art thou? And he ſaid, Thy ſervant is of one of the tribes of Iſrael.

3 And Abſalom ſaid unto him, See, thy matters are good and right, but there is no man deputed of the king to hear thee.

4 Abſalom ſaid moreover, Oh that I were made judge in the land, that every man which hath any ſuit or cauſe, might come unto me, and I would do him juſtice.

5 And it was ſo, that when any man came nigh to him to do him obeiſance, he put forth his hand, and took him, and kiſſed him.

6 And on this manner did Abſalom to all Iſrael that came to the king for judgment: ſo Abſalom ſtole the hearts of the men of Iſrael.

7 ¶ And it came to paſs after forty years, that Abſalom ſaid unto the king, 1023.
I pray thee let me go and pay my vow, which I have vowed unto the LORD, in Hebron.

8 For thy ſervant vowed a vow while I abode at Geſhur in Syria, ſaying, If the LORD ſhall bring me again indeed to Jeruſalem, then I will ſerve the LORD.

9 And the king ſaid unto him, Go in peace. So he aroſe and went to Hebron.

10 ¶ But Abſalom ſent ſpies throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, ſaying, As ſoon as ye hear the ſound of the trumpet, then ye ſhall ſay, Abſalom reigneth in Hebron.

11 And with Abſalom went two hundred men out of Jeruſalem, that were called, and they went in their ſimplicity, and they knew not any thing.

NOTES on Chap. XV.

Ver. 1. Abſalom prepared him chariots and horſes.] Being now reſtored to favour, he prepared a ſplendid equipage, that ſo he might attract the eyes of the people, and pave his way to the unjuſt uſurpation of his father's throne.

Ver. 7. After forty years.] It ſhould be read four years. This is confirmed by the Syriac and Arabic verſions, and the teſtimony of Joſephus, who ſays, that four years after his father was reconciled to him, this conſpiracy broke out.

Ver. 11. They went in ſimplicity.] Being invited to feaſt with Abſalom upon his ſacrifice.

Before Christ 1023.

12 And Abſalom ſent for Ahithophel the Gilonite, Davids counſellor, from his city, even from Giloh, while he offered ſacrifices: and the conſpiracy was ſtrong; for the people increaſed continually with Abſalom.

13 ¶ And there came a meſſenger to David, ſaying, The hearts of the men of Iſrael are after Abſalom.

14 And David ſaid unto all his ſervants that were with him at Jeruſalem, Ariſe, and let us flee; for we ſhall not elſe eſcape from Abſalom: make ſpeed to depart, leſt he overtake us ſuddenly, and bring evil upon us, and ſmite the city with the edge of the ſword.

15 And the kings ſervants ſaid unto the king, Behold, thy ſervants are ready to do whatſoever my lord the king ſhall appoint.

16 And the king went forth, and all his houſhold after him: and the king left ten women which were concubines, to keep the houſe.

17 And the king went forth, and all the people after him, and tarried in a place that was far off.

18 And all his ſervants paſſed on beſide him; and all the Cherethites, and all the Pelethites, and all the Gittites, ſix hundred men which came after him from Gath, paſſed on before the king.

19 ¶ Then ſaid the king to Ittai the Gittite, Wherefore goeſt thou alſo with us? return to thy place, and abide with the king; for thou art a ſtranger, and alſo an exile.

Before Christ 1023.

20 Whereas thou cameſt but yeſterday, ſhould I this day make thee go up and down with us? ſeeing I go whither I may, return thou, and take back thy brethren: mercy and truth be with thee.

21 And Ittai anſwered the king, and ſaid, As the LORD liveth, and as my lord the king liveth, ſurely in what place my lord the king ſhall be, whether in death or life, even there alſo will thy ſervant be.

22 And David ſaid to Ittai, Go, and paſs over. And Ittai the Gittite paſſed over, and all his men, and all the little ones that were with him.

23 And all the country wept with a loud voice, and all the people paſſed over: the king alſo himſelf paſſed over the brook Kidron, and all the people paſſed over, toward the way of the wilderneſs.

24 ¶ And lo, Zadok alſo, and all the Levites were with him bearing the ark of the covenant of God, and they ſet down the ark of God; and Abiathar went up, until all the people had done paſſing out of the city.

25 And the king ſaid unto Zadok, Carry back the ark of God into the city: if I ſhall

Ver. 12. The conſpiracy was ſtrong.] It is to be wondered at, how any people could abandon a prince, ſo brave and ſucceſsful as David had been. But, in every nation, there are always turbulent and diſcontented ſpirits, who, uneaſy at the preſent ſtate of things, promiſe themſelves benefit from a change. Saul's party was not yet extinct, and Joab, who was David's prime miniſter, behaved with inſufferable pride and inſolence. His crimes, which were very black, and which David was afraid to puniſh, reflected npon him; and the king himſelf, had given his enemies umbrage enough againſt him, by living with Bath-ſheba; after he had murdered her huſband. But what gave the faireſt pretence of all, was the obſtruction of the civil adminiſtration of juſtice; for, had there not been ſomething of this, Abſalom could have had no grounds for making ſuch loud complaints.

Ver. 18. The Gittites.] It is not eaſy to tell who theſe Gittites were, for they are not mentioned before. Joſephus thinks, they were the ſix hundred men which had been with him in his exile at Gath, and accompanied him ever after; not only in the time of Saul's perſecution, but after he came to the crown of Judah and Iſrael.

Ver. 19. Ittai the Gittite.] He ſeems to have been the commander of the Gittites before-mentioned.

Ver. 20. Thy brethren.] Thoſe perſons are probably meant, which were of Ittai's family, and came to ſojourn with him in Judea.

Ver. 22. All the little ones.] It is not likely they ſhould attend an army; nor has the Septuagint or Vulgate any thing of little ones.

Ver. 25. Carry back the ark, &c.] This order was given for ſeveral reaſons; either he might think it not decent to ſhall find favour in the eyes of the Lord, he will bring me again, and ſhew me both it, and his habitation.

26 But if he thus ſay, I have no delight in thee: behold, here am I, let him do to me as ſeemeth good unto him.

27 The king ſaid alſo unto Zadok the prieſt, Art not thou a ſeer? return into the city in peace, and your two ſons with you, Ahimaaz thy ſon, and Jonathan the ſon of Abiathar.

28 See, I will tarry in the plain of the wilderneſs, until there come word from you to certify me.

29 Zadok therefore and Abiathar carried the ark of God again to Jeruſalem; and they tarried there.

30 ¶ And David went up by the aſcent of mount Olivet, and wept as he went up, and had his head covered, and he went bare-foot: and all the people that was with him, covered every man his head, and they went up, weeping as they went up.

31 ¶ And one told David, ſaying, Ahithophel is among the conſpirators with Abſalom. And David ſaid, O Lord, I pray thee, turn the counſel of Ahithophel into fooliſhneſs.

32 ¶ And it came to paſs, that when David was come to the top of the mount, where he worſhipped God, behold, Huſhai the Archite came to meet him, with his coat rent, and earth upon his head:

33 Unto whom David ſaid, If thou paſſeſt on with me, then thou ſhalt be a burden unto me.

Before Christ 1023.

34 But if thou return to the city, and ſay unto Abſalom, I will be thy ſervant, O king; as I have been thy fathers ſervant hitherto, ſo will I now alſo be thy ſervant: then mayeſt thou for me defeat the counſel of Ahithophel.

35 And haſt thou not there with thee Zadok and Abiathar the prieſts? therefore it ſhall be, that what thing ſoever thou ſhalt hear out of the kings houſe, thou ſhalt tell it to Zadok and Abiathar the prieſts.

36 Behold, they have there with them their two ſons, Ahimaaz Zadoks ſon, and Jonathan Abiathars ſon: and by them ye ſhall ſend unto me every thing that ye can hear.

37 So Huſhai Davids friend came into the city, and Abſalom came into Jeruſalem.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Zibah by preſents and falſe ſuggeſtions, obtaineth his maſters inheritance. 5 At Bahurim Shimei curſeth David. 9 David with patience abſtaineth and reſtraineth others from revenge.

AND when David was a little paſt the top of the hill, behold, Ziba the ſervant of Mephiboſheth met him with a couple of aſſes ſadled, and upon them two hundred loaves of bread, and an hundred bunches of raiſins, and an hundred of ſummer-fruits, and a bottle of wine.

to have the ark wander about with him, he knew not whither; or it might look, as if he placed more confidence in the token of God's preſence, than he did in God himſelf, who had ſo wonderfully preſerved him during the long perſecution of Saul, when he had no ark with him. But his principal reaſon ſeems to have been, that the prieſts and Levites, whoſe fidelity he well knew, by giving him intelligence of his enemies, might do him more ſervice in Jeruſalem, than they could in the camp.

Ver. 27. Art not thou a ſeer? return, &c.] The Septugint reads ſee, or look ye, return into the city. A prieſt is not called a ſeer.

Ver. 32. Huſhai the Archite.] He might be of the ancient race of the Archites, deſcendants from Canaan, of whom Moſes ſpeaks, Gen. x. 17. but ſeeing the name of theſe ancient people is differently written, it is rather thought, that this additional name was given him from the place of his nativity, viz. Archi, a town ſituated on the frontiers of Benjamin and Ephraim, weſt of Bethel.

Notes on Chap. XVI.

Ver. 1. A bottle of wine.] That is, a large ſkin or leathern veſſel, capable of containing a great quantity; for the liquor muſt be ſuppoſed to be proportionable to the reſt of the preſent. See note, Joſhua ix. 4.

Before Christ 1023.

2 And the king ſaid unto Ziba, What meaneſt thou by theſe? And Ziba ſaid, The aſſes be for the kings houſhold to ride on, and the bread and ſummer-fruit for the young men to eat, and the wine, that ſuch as be faint in the wilderneſs may drink.

3 And the king ſaid, And where is thy maſters ſon? And Ziba ſaid unto the king, Behold, he abideth at Jeruſalem: for he ſaid, To day ſhall the houſe of Iſrael reſtore me the kingdom of my father.

4 Then ſaid the king to Ziba, Behold, thine are all that pertained unto Mephiboſheth. And Ziba ſaid, I humbly beſeech thee that I may find grace in thy ſight, my lord, O king.

5 ¶ And when king David came to Bahurim, behold, thence came out a man of the family of the houſe of Saul, whoſe name was Shimei the ſon of Gera: he came forth, and curſed ſtill as he came.

6 And he caſt ſtones at David, and at all the ſervants of king David: and all the people, and all the mighty men were on his right hand, and on his left.

7 And thus ſaid Shimei when he curſed, Come out, come out thou bloody man, and thou man of Belial:

8 The Lord hath returned upon thee all the blood of the houſe of Saul, in whoſe ſtead thou haſt reigned, and the Lord hath delivered the kingdom into the hand of Abſalom thy ſon: and behold, thou art taken in thy miſchief, becauſe thou art a bloody man.

9 ¶ Then ſaid Abiſhai the ſon of Zeruiah unto the king, Why ſhould this dead dog curſe my lord the king? let me go over, I pray thee, and take off his head.

Before Christ 1023.

10 And the king ſaid, What have I to do with you, ye ſons of Zeruiah? ſo let him curſe, becauſe the Lord hath ſaid unto him, Curſe David. Who ſhall then ſay, Wherefore haſt thou done ſo?

11 And David ſaid to Abiſhai, and to all his ſervants, Behold, my ſon, which came forth of my bowels, ſeeketh my life: how much more now may this Benjamite do it? let him alone, and let him curſe: for the Lord hath bidden him.

12 It may be that the Lord will look on mine affliction, and that the Lord will requite me good for his curſing this day.

13 And as David and his men went by the way, Shimei went along on the hills ſide over againſt him, and curſed as he went, and threw ſtones at him, and caſt duſt.

14 And the king, and all the people that were with him, came weary, and refreſhed themſelves there.

15 ¶ And Abſalom and all the people the men of Iſrael, came to Jeruſalem, and Ahithophel with him.

16 And it came to paſs when Huſhai the Archite, Davids friend, was come unto Abſalom, that Huſhai ſaid unto Abſalom, God ſave the king, God ſave the king.

17 And Abſalom ſaid to Huſhai, Is this

Ver. 4. Thine are all that pertained unto Mephiboſheth.] David was too credulous in believing Ziba, who, by a falſe and artful tale, had impoſed upon him, at a time when he was in the greateſt diſtreſs, and could not weigh the reaſons on which it was founded.

Ver. 5. He curſed ſtill as he came.] It looks as if the king was fallen into the utmoſt contempt, when one private man, durſt vent his malice againſt him in ſo groſs a manner, with impunity.

Ver. 6. The mighty men were on his right hand, and on his left.] Shimei's rage, therefore, was little leſs than madneſs; for he could not hurt David, but might have been immediately killed himſelf.

Ver. 10. Let him curſe, becauſe the Lord hath ſaid unto him, curſe David.] God did not command it by his word, for that he ſeverely forbids curſing; but the true meaning is, that David conſidered Shimei as an inſtrument in the hand of God, and therefore took all his abuſes patiently, being conſcious, that his crimes deſerved the inſults of this vile Benjamite.

thy kindneſs to thy friend? why wenteſt thou not with thy friend?

18 And Huſhai ſaid unto Abſalom, Nay, but whom the Lord, and this people, and all the men of Iſrael chooſe, his will I be, and with him will I abide.

19 And again, whom ſhould I ſerve? ſhould I not ſerve in the preſence of his ſon? as I have ſerved in thy fathers preſence, ſo will I be in thy preſence.

20 ¶ Then ſaid Abſalom to Ahithophel, Give counſel among you what we ſhall do.

21 And Ahithophel ſaid unto Abſalom, Go in unto thy fathers concubines, which he hath left to keep the houſe, and all Iſrael ſhall hear that thou art abhorred of thy father, then ſhall the hands of all that are with thee be ſtrong.

22 So they ſpread Abſalom a tent upon the top of the houſe, and Abſalom went in unto his fathers concubines, in the ſight of all Iſrael.

23 And the counſel of Ahithophel which he counſelled in thoſe days, was as if a man had enquired at the oracle of God: ſo was all the counſel of Ahithophel, both with David, and with Abſalom.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Ahithophels counſel is overthrown by Huſhai's according to Gods appointment. 15 Secret intelligence is ſent unto David. 23 Ahithophel hangeth himſelf.

Before Chriſt 1023.

Moreover, Ahithophel ſaid unto Abſalom, Let me now chooſe out twelve thouſand men, and I will ariſe and purſue after David this night.

2 And I will come upon him while he is weary and weak-handed, and will make him afraid: and all the people that are with him ſhall flee, and I will ſmite the king only.

3 And I will bring back all the people unto thee: the man whom thou ſeekeſt, is as if all returned: ſo all the people ſhall be in peace.

4 And the ſaying pleaſed Abſalom well, and all the elders of Iſrael.

5 Then ſaid Abſalom, Call now Huſhai the Archite alſo, and let us hear likewiſe what he ſaith.

6 And when Huſhai was come to Abſalom, Abſalom ſpake unto him, ſaying, Ahithophel hath ſpoken after this manner: ſhall we do after his ſaying? if not; ſpeak thou.

7 And Huſhai ſaid unto Abſalom, The counſel that Ahithophel hath given, is not good at this time.

8 For (ſaid Huſhai) thou knoweſt thy father and his men, that they be mighty men, and they be chafed in their minds, as Ver. 23. The counſel of Ahithophel—was as if a man had enquired at the oracle of God.] It was ſo ſure and ſafe, that it was generally followed, without ever doubting of its ſucceſs. The counſel, which Ahithophel gave Abſalom, was the ſame that the mother of Phœnix gave to her ſon. Iliad 9.

Notes on Chap. XVII.

Ver. 1. Let me chooſe out, &c.] Ahithophel thought it requiſite, to make diſpatch, well knowing, that if the people, who had revolted from their allegiance, had leiſure to reflect on what they were doing againſt their lawful prince, many of them would refuſe to go; and it would give that prince time to raiſe regular troops, and thoſe about him time to recover from their fright; the conſequence of which would be, Abſalom's party would dwindle into nothing, and David's grow ſtronger and ſtronger.

Ver. 5. Then ſaid Abſalom, call now Huſhai.] The providence of God is here to be remarked, who made Abſalom irreſolute and doubtful, even in that counſel, which was approved by all the elders of Iſrael, and was evidently the wiſeſt that could be given.

Ver. 8. Thou knoweſt thy father, &c.] There is ſomething very plauſible and elegant in Huſhai's advice. A bear is a very fierce creature; but, according to naturaliſts, the females are more fierce than the males, eſpecially when they are deprived of their whelps, Hoſea xiii. 8. The purport of Huſhai's advice is founded on this maxim, "That we ſhould not drive an enemy to deſpair, nor "attack thoſe who are reſolved to ſell their lives as dear "as poſſible."

as a bear robbed of her whelps in the field: and thy father is a man of war, and will not lodge with the people.

9 Behold, he is hid now in ſome pit, or in ſome other place: and it will come to paſs, when ſome of them be overthrown at the firſt, that whoſoever heareth it, will ſay, There is a ſlaughter among the people that follow Abſalom.

10 And he alſo that is valiant, whoſe heart is as the heart of a lion, ſhall utterly melt; for all Iſrael knoweth that thy father is a mighty man, and they which be with him are valiant men.

11 Therefore I counſel, that all Iſrael be generally gathered unto thee, from Dan even to Beer-ſheba, as the ſand that is by the ſea for multitude, and that thou go to battel in thine own perſon.

12 So ſhall we come upon him in ſome place where he ſhall be found, and we will light upon him as the dew falleth on the ground: and of him, and of all the men that are with him, there ſhall not be left ſo much as one.

13 Moreover, if he be gotten into a city, then ſhall all Iſrael bring ropes to that city, and we will draw it into the river, until there be not one ſmall ſtone found there.

14 And Abſalom and all the men of Iſrael ſaid, The counſel of Huſhai the Archite is better than the counſel of Ahithophel: for the LORD had appointed to defeat the good counſel of Ahithophel, to the intent that the LORD might bring evil upon Abſalom.

15 ¶ Then ſaid Huſhai unto Zadok and to Abiathar the prieſts, Thus and thus did Ahithophel counſel Abſalom and the elders of Iſrael: and thus and thus have I counſelled.

Before Chriſt 1023.

16 Now therefore ſend quickly, and tell David, ſaying, Lodge not this night in the plains of the wilderneſs, but ſpeedily paſs over; leſt the king be ſwallowed up, and all the people that are with him.

17 Now Jonathan and Ahimaaz ſtayed by En-rogel, (for they might not be ſeen to come into the city) and a wench went and told them: and they went and told king David.

18 Nevertheleſs, a lad ſaw them, and told Abſalom: but they went both of them away quickly, and came to a mans houſe in Bahurim, which had a well in his court, whither they went down.

19 And the woman took and ſpread a covering over the wells mouth, and ſpread ground corn thereon; and the thing was not known.

20 And when Abſaloms ſervants came to the woman to the houſe, they ſaid, Where is Ahimaaz, and Jonathan? And the woman ſaid unto them, They be gone over the brook of water. And when they had ſought and could not find them, they returned to Jeruſalem.

21 And it came to paſs after they were departed, that they came up out of the well, and went and told king David, and ſaid unto David, Ariſe, and paſs quickly over the water: for thus hath Ahithophel counſelled againſt you.

22 Then David aroſe, and all the people that were with him, and they paſſed over Jordan: by the morning light, there lacked not one of them that was not gone over Jordan.

23 ¶ And

Ver. 13. Then ſhall all Iſrael bring ropes to that city, and we will draw it, &c.] The meaning is, ſhould David betake himſelf to the ſtrongeſt of the cities; ſuch a numerous army would be ſufficient to compaſs it round about, and by ropes put round the walls, to draw them down, with all the houſes of the city; not that ſuch practices were ever uſed in war, the expreſſion being hyperbolical, and calculated to pleaſe Abſalom.

Ver. 16. Paſs over.] Namely, over Jordan.

Ver. 17. En-rogel.] The father's well, a place near Jeruſalem.

Ver. 18. Whither they went down.] Their wells either were dry, or elſe had but little water in them, at that time of the year, in many places.

Before Chriſt 1023.

23 ¶ And when Ahithophel ſaw that his counſel was not followed, he ſaddled his aſs, and aroſe, and gat him home to his houſe, to his city, and put his houſhold in order, and hanged himſelf, and died, and was buried in the ſepulchre of his father.

24 Then David came to Mahanaim: and Abſalom paſſed over Jordan, he and all the men of Iſrael with him.

25 ¶ And Abſalom made Amaſa captain of the hoſt in ſtead of Joab: which Amaſa was a mans ſon, whoſe name was Ithra an Iſraelite, that went in to Abigail the daughter of Nahaſh, ſiſter to Zeruiah, Joabs mother.

26 So Iſrael and Abſalom pitched in the land of Gilead.

27 ¶ And it came to paſs when David was come to Mahanaim, that Shobi the ſon of Nahaſh of Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and Machir the ſon of Ammiel of Lo-debar, and Barzilai the Gileadite of Rogelim,

28 Brought beds, and baſons, and earthen veſſels, and wheat, and barley, and flour, and parched corn, and beans, and lentiles, and parched pulſe,

29 And hony, and butter, and ſheep, and cheeſe of kine for David, and for the people that were with him, to eat: for they ſaid, The people is hungry, and weary, and thirſty in the wilderneſs.

AND David numbered the people that were with him, and ſet captains of thouſands, and captains of hundreds over them.

2 And David ſent forth a third part of the people under the hand of Joab, and a third part under the hand of Abiſhai the the ſon of Zeruiah Joabs brother, and a third part under the hand of Ittai the Gittite: and the king ſaid unto the people, I will ſurely go forth with you myſelf alſo.

3 But the people anſwered, Thou ſhalt not go forth: for if we flee away, they will not care for us; neither if half of us die, will they care for us: but now thou art worth ten thouſand of us: therefore now it is better that thou ſuccour us out of the city.

4 And the king ſaid unto them, What ſeemeth you beſt, I will do. And the king ſtood by the gate-ſide, and all the people came out by hundreds, and by thouſands.

5 And the king commanded Joab, and Abiſhai, and Ittai, ſaying, Deal gently for my ſake with the young man, even with Abſalom. And all the people heard when the king gave all the captains charge concerning Abſalom.

6 ¶ So the people went out into the field againſt Iſrael: and the battel was in the wood of Ephraim;

7 Where the people of Iſrael were ſlain before the ſervants of David, and there was there a great ſlaughter that day of twenty thouſand men.

Ver. 23. Hanged himſelf.] Convinced, from the weak conduct of Abſalom, that David would get the better, and that he ſhould be put to death for his treaſon, he choſe to be his own executioner. However, the Septuagint ſays, he was ſuffocated with grief; and ſo the Hebrew ſignifies.

wood devoured more people that day, than the ſword devoured.

9 ¶ And Abſalom met the ſervants of David; and Abſalom rode upon a mule, and the mule went under the thick boughs of a great oak, and his head caught hold of the oak, and he was taken up between the heaven and the earth, and the mule that was under him went away.

10 And a certain man ſaw it, and told Joab, and ſaid, Behold, I ſaw Abſalom hanged in an oak.

11 And Joab ſaid unto the man that told him, And behold, thou ſaweſt him, and why didſt thou not ſmite him there to the ground, and I would have given thee ten ſhekels of ſilver, and a girdle?

12 And the man ſaid unto Joab, Though I ſhould receive a thouſand ſhekels of ſilver in mine hand, yet would I not put forth mine hand againſt the kings ſon: for in our hearing the king charged thee, and Abiſhai, and Ittai, ſaying, Beware that none touch the young man Abſalom.

13 Otherwiſe, I ſhould have wrought falſhood againſt mine own life: for there is no matter hid from the king, and thou thyſelf wouldeſt have ſet thyſelf againſt me.

14 Then ſaid Joab, I may not tarry thus with thee. And he took three darts in his hand, and thruſt them through the heart of Abſalom, while he was yet alive in the midſt of the oak.

15 And ten young men that bare Joabs armour, compaſſed about, and ſmote Abſalom, and ſlew him.

16 And Joab blew the trumpet, and the people returned from purſuing after Iſrael: for Joab held back the people.

17 And they took Abſalom, and caſt him into a great pit in the wood, and laid a very great heap of ſtones upon him: and all Iſrael fled every one to his tent.

18 ¶ Now Abſalom in his life-time had taken and reared up for himſelf a pillar, which is in the kings dale: for he ſaid, I have no ſon to keep my name in remembrance: and he called the pillar after his own name, and it is called unto this day, Abſaloms place.

19 ¶ Then ſaid Ahimaaz the ſon of Zadok, Let me now run, and bear the king tidings, how that the Lord hath avenged him of his enemies.

20 And Joab ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt not bear tidings this day, but thou ſhalt bear tidings another day: but this day thou ſhalt bear no tidings, becauſe the kings ſon is dead.

21 Then ſaid Joab to Cuſhi, Go, tell the king what thou haſt ſeen. And Cuſhi bowed himſelf unto Joab, and ran.

22 Then ſaid Ahimaaz the ſon of Zadok yet again to Joab, But howſoever, let me, I pray thee, alſo run after Cuſhi. And Joab ſaid, Wherefore wilt thou run, my ſon, ſeeing that thou haſt no tidings ready?

Ver. 8. The wood devoured more people that day than the ſword.] There were more ſlain in the wood, than in the field of battle, i. e. more in the purſuit than in the fight; for they could not run away ſo faſt as they might have done, had it not been for the wood: it is likely too, that many getting into lurking places, were deſtroyed by wild-beaſts.

Ver. 9. His head caught hold of the oak.] Moſt think, that Abſalom was not hung by his hair, but rather, that his neck was ſo wedged between the boughs, by the ſwift motion of the mule, that he was not able to diſengage himſelf.

Ver. 18. Abſalom in his life time had—reared up for himſelf a pillar, which is in the kings dale.] This dale is mentioned, Gen. xiv. 17. and was not far from Jeruſalem, near which, there is to this day, a monument ſhewn to travellers, called Abſalom's pillar. It is a chamber, cut with a chiſſel, out of a rock, but it is evident, that this is a more modern ſtructure; for, in the days of Joſephus, the monument, then ſaid to be Abſalom's, was nothing more than a ſingle marble pillar.

He ſaid, I have no ſon.] Either therefore this pillar was erected, before they were born, or elſe, after his ſons were dead, he reared it for a remembrance; for he had three ſons and a daughter, chap. xiv. 27.

23 But howſoever (ſaid he) let me run. And he ſaid unto him, run. Then Ahimaaz ran by the way of the plain, and over-ran Cuſhi.

24 And David ſat between the two gates: and the watchman went up to the roof over the gate unto the wall, and lift up his eyes, and looked, and behold, a man running alone.

25 And the watchman cried, and told the king. And the king ſaid, If he be alone, there is tidings in his mouth. And he came a pace, and drew near.

26 And the watchman ſaw another man running, and the watchman called unto the porter, and ſaid, Behold, another man running alone. And the king ſaid, He alſo bringeth tidings.

27 And the watchman ſaid, Me thinketh the running of the foremoſt is like the running of Ahimaaz the ſon of Zadok. And the king ſaid, He is a good man, and cometh with good tidings.

28 And Ahimaaz called, and ſaid unto the king, All is well. And he fell down to the earth upon his face before the king, and ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD thy God, which hath delivered up the men that lift up their hand againſt my lord the king.

29 And the king ſaid, Is the young man Abſalom ſafe? And Ahimaaz anſwered, When Joab ſent the kings ſervant, and me thy ſervant, I ſaw a great tumult, but I knew not what it was.

30 And the king ſaid unto him, Turn aſide, and ſtand here. And he turned aſide, and ſtood ſtill.

31 And behold, Cuſhi came, and Cuſhi ſaid, Tidings, my lord the king: for the LORD hath avenged thee this day of all them that roſe up againſt thee.

32 And the king ſaid unto Cuſhi, Is the young man Abſalom ſafe? And Cuſhi anſwered, The enemies of my lord the king, and all that riſe againſt thee to do thee hurt, be as that young man is.

33 ¶ And the king was much moved, and went up to the chamber over the gate, and wept: and as he went, thus he ſaid, O my ſon Abſalom, my ſon, my ſon Abſalom: would God I had died for thee, O Abſalom, my ſon, my ſon.

AND it was told Joab, Behold, the king weepeth and mourneth for Abſalom.

2 And the victory that day was turned into mourning unto all the people: for the people heard ſay that day, how the king was grieved for his ſon.

3 And the people gat them by ſtealth that day into the city, as people being aſhamed ſteal away when they flee in battel.

4 But the king covered his face, and the king cried with a loud voice, O my ſon Abſalom, O Abſalom, my ſon, my ſon.

5 And Joab came into the houſe to the king,

Ver. 33. O my ſon Abſalom, &c.] Nothing certainly, can be more moving and pathetic, than the words uttered by David on this ſolemn occaſion; but whether it was David's deliberate wiſh, that he had died in Abſalom's ſtead, or only the effect of his expreſſive love and grief for him, is not ſo eaſy to determine; however, his grief was doubtleſs increaſed, from reflecting, that himſelf, by his own ſin, in the caſe of Uriah, had been the unhappy inſtrument and occaſion of his ſon's death.

NOTES on Chap. XIX.

Ver. 4. The king cried with a loud voice.] It has been obſerved, that the orientals expreſſed their paſſions with a far greater vehemence, than the inhabitants of colder climates. See Geneſis xlv. 2 Sam. iii. 32. Ezra iii. 12, 13.

Before Chriſt 1023. king, and ſaid, Thou haſt ſhamed this day the faces of all thy ſervants, which this day have ſaved thy life, and the lives of thy ſons, and of thy daughters, and the lives of thy wives, and the lives of thy concubines:

6 In that thou loveſt thine enemies, and hateſt thy friends; for thou haſt declared this day, that thou regardeſt neither princes, nor ſervants: for this day I perceive, that if Abſalom had lived, and all we had died this day, then it had pleaſed thee well.

7 Now therefore ariſe, go forth, and ſpeak comfortably unto thy ſervants: for I ſwear by the Lord, if thou go not forth, there will not tarry one with thee this night; and that will be worſe unto thee than all the evil that befel thee from thy youth until now.

8 Then the king roſe, and ſat in the gate: and they told unto all the people, ſaying, Behold, the king doth ſit in the gate: and all the people came before the king: for Iſrael had fled every man to his tent.

9 ¶ And all the people were at ſtrife throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, ſaying, The king ſaved us out of the hand of our enemies, and he delivered us out of the hand of the Philiſtines, and now he is fled out of the land for Abſalom.

10 And Abſalom whom we anointed over us, is dead in battel: now therefore why ſpeak ye not a word of bringing the king back?

11 ¶ And king David ſent to Zadok and to Abiathar the prieſts, ſaying, Speak unto the elders of Judah, ſaying, Why are ye the laſt to bring the king back to his houſe? (ſeeing the ſpeech of all Iſrael is come to the king, even to his houſe) Before Chriſt 1023.

12 Ye are my brethren, ye are my bones and my fleſh: wherefore then are ye the laſt to bring back the king?

13 And ſay ye to Amaſa, Art thou not of my bone, and of my fleſh? God do ſo to me and more alſo, if thou be not captain of the hoſt before me continually in the room of Joab.

14 And he bowed the heart of all the men of Judah, even as the heart of one man, ſo that they ſent this word unto the king, Return thou and all thy ſervants.

15 So the king returned, and came to Jordan: and Judah came to Gilgal, to go to meet the king, to conduct the king over Jordan.

16 ¶ And Shimei the ſon of Gera, a Benjamite, which was of Bahurim, haſted and came down with the men of Judah, to meet king David.

17 And there were a thouſand men of Benjamin with him, and Ziba the ſervant of the houſe of Saul, and his fifteen ſons and his twenty ſervants with him, and they went over Jordan before the king.

18 And there went over a ferry-boat to carry over the kings houſhold, and to do what he thought good: and Shimei the ſon of Gera fell down before the king as he was come over Jordan;

19 And ſaid unto the king, Let not my lord impute iniquity unto me, neither do thou remember that which thy ſervant did perverſly the day that my lord the king went out of Jeruſalem, that the king ſhould take it to his heart.

Ver. 8. The gate.] The gate was a ſpacious place, and the ſame with the exchange or forum among the Romans. The market for commodities was held here, 2 Kings vii. 1. It was a large place; for here Ahab aſſembled four hundred falſe prophets, 1 Kings xxii. 10. Here was likewiſe ſome building, in which were ſeats for the elders or judges.

Ver. 17. There were a thouſand men of Benjamin with him.] Shimei came with ſo large a retinue, to let David ſee that he was a man of ſome conſequence, and capable of doing him great ſervice among the people, which might be an inducement to the king to grant him his pardon.

have ſinned: therefore behold, I am come the firſt this day of all the houſe of Joſeph, to go down to meet my lord the king.

21 But Abiſhai the ſon of Zeruiah anſwered and ſaid, Shall not Shimei be put to death for this, becauſe he curſed the LORDS anointed?

22 And David ſaid, What have I to do with you, ye ſons of Zeruiah, that ye ſhould this day be adverſaries unto me? ſhall there any man be put to death this day in Iſrael? for do not I know, that I am this day king over Iſrael?

23 Therefore the king ſaid unto Shimei, Thou ſhalt not die: and the king ſware unto him.

24 ¶ And Mephiboſheth the ſon of Saul came down to meet the king, and had neither dreſſed his feet, nor trimmed his beard, nor waſhed his clothes, from the day the king departed, until the day he came again in peace.

25 And it came to paſs when he was come to Jeruſalem to meet the king, that the king ſaid unto him, Wherefore wenteſt not thou with me, Mephiboſheth?

26 And he anſwered, My lord, O king, my ſervant deceived me; for thy ſervant ſaid, I will ſaddle me an aſs, that I may ride thereon, and go to the king, becauſe thy ſervant is lame.

27 And he hath ſlandered thy ſervant unto my lord the king; but my lord the king is as an angel of God: do therefore what is good in thine eyes.

28 For all of my fathers houſe, were but dead men before my lord the king: yet didſt thou ſet thy ſervant among them that did eat at thine own table: what right therefore have I yet to cry any more unto the king?

Before Christ 1023.

29 And the king ſaid unto him, Why ſpeakeſt thou any more of thy matters? I have ſaid, Thou and Ziba divide the land.

30 And Mephiboſheth ſaid unto the king, Yea, let him take all, foraſmuch as my lord the king is come again in peace unto his own houſe.

31 ¶ And Barzillai the Gileadite came down from Rogelim, and went over Jordan with the king, to conduct him over Jordan.

32 Now Barzillai was a very aged man, even fourſcore years old, and he had provided the king of ſuſtenance while he lay at Mahanaim: for he was a very great man.

33 And the king ſaid unto Barzillai, Come thou over with me, and I will feed thee with me in Jeruſalem.

34 And Barzillai ſaid unto the king, How long have I to live, that I ſhould go up with the king unto Jeruſalem?

35 I am this day fourſcore years old: and can I diſcern between good and evil? can thy ſervant taſte what I eat or what I drink? can I hear any more the voice of ſinging-men and ſinging-women? wherefore then ſhould thy ſervant be yet a burden unto my lord the king?

36 Thy ſervant will go a little way over Jordan with the king: and why ſhould the king recompenſe it me with ſuch a reward?

Be put to death.] It was accounted an ill omen among other nations, if any man was put to death on the king's birth-day; and this was a ſecond natalis imperii, birth-day of David's empire; and therefore he would not have it ſullied with any cloud of ſorrow.

Ver. 24. Neither dreſſed his feet, &c.] Theſe are ſome of the inſtances, wherein the Jews were wont to expreſs their mourning. They are here mentioned as evidences of the falſhood of Ziba's information; ſince no one, who neglected himſelf to this degree, could be ſuppoſed ambitious of a crown.

Ver. 29. Thou and Ziba divide the land.] As if he had ſaid, My firſt grant ſhall ſtand; thou ſhalt be owner of the land, and Ziba ſhall manage it for thee.

Before Chriſt 1023.

37 Let thy ſervant, I pray thee, turn back again, that I may die in mine own city, and be buried by the grave of my father, and of my mother: but behold thy ſervant Chimham, let him go over with my lord the king, and do to him what ſhall ſeem good unto thee.

38 And the king anſwered, Chimham ſhall go over with me, and I will do to him that which ſhall ſeem good unto thee: and whatſoever thou ſhalt require of me, that will I do for thee.

39 And all the people went over Jordan: and when the king was come over, the king kiſſed Barzillai, and bleſſed him; and he returned unto his own place.

40 Then the king went on to Gilgal, and Chimham went on with him: and all the people of Judah conducted the king, and alſo half the people of Iſrael.

41 ¶ And behold, all the men of Iſrael came to the king, and ſaid unto the king, Why have our brethren the men of Judah, ſtolen thee away, and have brought the king and his houſhold, and all Davids men with him over Jordan?

42 And all the men of Judah anſwered the men of Iſrael, Becauſe the king is near of kin to us: wherefore then be ye angry for this matter? have we eaten at all of the kings coſt? or hath he given us any gift?

Before Chriſt 1023.

43 And the men of Iſrael anſwered the men of Judah, and ſaid, we have ten parts in the king, and we have alſo more right in David than ye: why then did ye deſpiſe us, that our advice ſhould not be firſt had in bringing back our king? And the words of the men of Judah were fiercer than the words of the men of Iſrael.

CHAP. XX.

1 By occaſion of the quarrel, Sheba maketh a party in Iſrael. 3 Davids ten concubines are ſhut up in perpetual priſon. 4 Amaſa made captain over Judah, is ſlain by Joab.

AND there happened to be there a man of Belial, whoſe name was Sheba the ſon of Bichri, a Benjamite, and he blew a trumpet, and ſaid, We have no part in David, neither have we inheritance in the ſon of Jeſſe: Every man to his tents, O Iſrael. 1022.

2 So every man of Iſrael went up from after David, and followed Sheba the ſon of Bichri: but the men of Judah clave unto their king, from Jordan even to Jeruſalem.

3 ¶ And David came to his houſe at Jeruſalem, and the king took the ten women his concubines, whom he had left to keep the houſe, and put them in ward, and fed them, but went not in unto them: ſo they were ſhut up unto the day of their death, living in widowhood.

4 ¶ Then ſaid the king to Amaſa, Aſſemble me the men of Judah within three days, and be thou here preſent.

Ver. 37. That I may die in mine own city, &c.] This little epiſode is very beautiful: Barzillai finiſhes his addreſs to the king with this requeſt, that he might ſuffer him to enjoy, what is natural for old men to deſire; "to "die in the place where they had lived, and to be buried "with their anceſtors"

Ver. 38. Chimham ſhall go over with me, and I will do to him, &c.] It is uncertain what David did for Chimham; but, as he had a patrimony in Beth-lehem, the place of his nativity, it is not improbable, that he gave great part of it to Chimham, and his heirs for ever; and that this was afterwards called the habitation of Chimham, in the days of Jeremiah, Jer. xli. 17.

Ver. 43. We have ten parts in the king.] That is, in the kingdom; ten parts of which, they ſay, were theirs, becauſe Simeon, being intermixed with Judah, probably now came along with them.

NOTES on Chap. XX.

Ver. 1. Happened to be there.] When the contention was between Judah and the other tribes of Iſrael.

We have no part in David.] This quarrel was not properly againſt David, but the quarrel of the other tribes againſt that of Judah.

Ver. 3. They were ſhut up unto the day of their death.] It would have been imprudent to let them have been ſeen abroad, which would only have renewed the remembrance of Abſalom's inceſt.

Before Christ 1022.

5 So Amaſa went to aſſemble the men of Judah; but he tarried longer than the ſet time which he had appointed him.

6 And David ſaid to Abiſhai, Now ſhall Sheba the ſon of Bichri do us more harm than did Abſalom: take thou thy lords ſervants, and purſue after him, leſt he get him fenced cities, and eſcape us.

7 And there went out after him Joabs men, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, and all the mighty men: and they went out of Jeruſalem, to purſue after Sheba the ſon of Bichri.

8 When they were at the great ſtone which is in Gibeon, Amaſa went before them: and Joabs garment that he had put on, was girded unto him, and upon it a girdle with a ſword faſtened upon his loins in the ſheath thereof, and as he went forth it fell out.

9 And Joab ſaid to Amaſa, Art thou in health, my brother? And Joab took Amaſa by the beard with the right hand to kiſs him.

10 But Amaſa took no heed to the ſword that was in Joabs hand: ſo he ſmote him therewith in the fifth rib, and ſhed out his bowels to the ground, and ſtruck him not again, and he died: ſo Joab and Abiſhai his brother purſued after Sheba the ſon of Bichri.

11 And one of Joabs men ſtood by him, and ſaid, He that favoureth Joab, and he that is for David, let him go after Joab.

Before Christ 1022.

12 And Amaſa wallowed in blood in the mids of the high-way: and when the man ſaw that all the people ſtood ſtill, he removed Amaſa out of the high-way into the field, and caſt a cloth upon him, when he ſaw that every one that came by him, ſtood ſtill.

13 When he was removed out of the high-way, all the people went on after Joab, to purſue after Sheba the ſon of Bichri.

14 ¶ And he went through all the tribes of Iſrael unto Abel, and to Beth-maachah, and all the Berites: and they were gathered together, and went alſo after him.

15 And they came and beſieged him in Abel of Beth-maachah, and they caſt up a bank againſt the city, and it ſtood in the trench: and all the people that were with Joab, battered the wall, to throw it down.

16 ¶ Then cried a wiſe woman out of the city, Hear, hear; ſay, I pray you, unto Joab, Come near hither, that I may ſpeak with thee.

17 And when he was come near unto her, the woman ſaid, Art thou Joab? And he anſwered, I am he. Then ſhe ſaid unto him, Hear the words of thine handmaid. And he anſwered, I do hear.

18 Then ſhe ſpake, ſaying, They were wont to ſpeak in old time, ſaying, They ſhall ſurely aſk counſel at Abel: and ſo they ended the matter.

Ver. 14. Unto Abel, and unto Beth-maachah.] Or rather, unto Abel Beth-maachah, they being one and the ſame place.

Ver. 15. They caſt up a bank againſt the city.] Mr. Pilkington thinks, the word tranſlated bank, ſignifies an engine of war, to fling ſtones, or any heavy body againſt a city; then the tranſlation will be, "They beſieged Sheba "in Abel, and they played an engine againſt the city; "and it ſtood in the trench, and all the people that were "with Joab, battered the wall to throw it down." The vulgate reads, the city was beſieged, or ſurrounded with a bank.

Ver. 16. Then cried a wiſe woman out of the city.] It appears not unlikely, that this woman was a governeſs in the city; for though that office was moſtly occupied by men, yet there want not inſtances of women, who have been employed in the adminiſtration of civil affairs, as Deborah, Judges xliv. and queen Athaliah, 2 Kings xi.

Ver. 18. They ſhall ſurely aſk counſel at Abel.] There is another tranſlation, in the margin of our bibles, which ſeems

Before Christ 1022. 19 I am one of them that are peaceable and faithful in Iſrael: thou ſeekeſt to deſtroy a city, and a mother in Iſrael: why wilt thou ſwallow up the inheritance of the LORD?

20 And Joab anſwered and ſaid, Far be it, far be it from me, that I ſhould ſwallow up or deſtroy.

21 The matter is not ſo: but a man of mount Ephraim (Sheba the ſon of Bichri by name) hath lift up his hand againſt the king, even againſt David: deliver him only, and I will depart from the city. And the woman ſaid unto Joab, Behold, his head ſhall be thrown to thee over the wall.

22 Then the woman went unto all the people in her wiſdom, and they cut off the head of Sheba the ſon of Bichri, and caſt it out to Joab: and he blew a trumpet, and they retired from the city, every man to his tent: and Joab returned to Jeruſalem unto the king.

23 ¶ Now Joab was over all the hoſt of Iſrael: and Benaiah the ſon of Johoiada was over the Cherethites, and over the Pelethites:

So that, according to this interpretation, the woman both modeſtly reproved Joab, for the neglect of his duty, and artfully engaged him in the performance of it.

NOTES on Chap. XXI.

Ver. 1. It is for Saul, and his bloody houſe, &c.] Why this judgment was ſo long delayed, eſpecially as Saul and his ſons had before felt the weight of divine vengeance, may ſeem ſtrange: but it ſhould be remembered, that the counſels of God are paſt finding out; that he has excellent reaſons why he puniſheth ſinners, not now, but hereafter; and the longer he defers the ſtroke, the more evident it is, that he doth not forget the evil men have done, though he doth not preſently make his anger conſpicuous to the eyes of mortals.

Ver. 3. What ſhall I do for you?] This may ſame ſtrange, unleſs we ſuppoſe with Joſephus, that when David conſulted God, he told him not only for what crime it was, that he ſent this puniſhment, but that he ſhould take ſuch a revenge for it, as the Gibeonites ſhould deſire.

Ver. 8. The five ſons of Michal.] Michal was not the mother of thoſe children, but had brought them up; whence they are called her children. They were the ſons of Merab, her eldeſt ſiſter, who was married to Adriel. The Jews obſerve, that whoever brings up a pupil in his houſe, is, in ſcripture, ſaid to have begotten him; which form of expreſſion, we alſo find in heathen authors: thus, Agamemnon and Menelaus, are called the ſons of Atreus, becauſe (Pliſthenes their father being dead) Atreus, took care to bring them up.

Ver. 9. He delivered them into the hands of the Gibeonites.] This he did, purely in obedience to the will of God, who had both directed and warranted him ſo to do; he was not at liberty to do what he pleaſed, but rather compelled to give up the children as victims, notwithſtanding his promiſe and oath to their father; becauſe a ſuperior power interpoſed, and ſo cancelled the prior obligation.

Ver. 10. From the beginning of harveſt, until the water dropped.] So that the bodies hung, from the beginning of harveſt, till God was intreated for the land, and was pleaſed to ſend them rain. The Iſraelites had a poſitive law, (Deut. xxi. 23.) that if any man was hanged, he ſhould be buried before night; but the Gibeonites did not think themſelves obliged by that law.

18 And it came to paſs after this, that there was again a battel with the Philiſtines at Gob: then Sibbechai the Huſhathite ſlew Saph, which was of the ſons of the giant.

19 And there was again a battel in Gob with the Philiſtines, where Elhanan the ſon of Jaare-oregim a Beth-lehemite, ſlew the brother of Goliath the Gittite, the ſtaff of whoſe ſpear was like a weavers beam.

20 And there was yet a battel in Gath, where was a man of great ſtature, that had on every hand ſix fingers, and on every foot ſix toes, four and twenty in number; and he alſo was born to the giant.

21 And when he defied Iſrael, Jonathan the ſon of Shimea the brother of David ſlew him.

22 Theſe four were born to the giant in Gath, and fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his ſervants.

CHAP. XXII.

A pſalm of thankſgiving for Gods powerful deliverance, and manifold bleſſings.

AND David ſpake unto the LORD the words of this ſong, in the day that the LORD had delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul.

2 And he ſaid, the LORD is my rock and my fortreſs, and my deliverer,

3 The God of my rock, in him will I truſt: he is my ſhield, and the horn of my ſalvation, my high tower, and my refuge, my ſaviour; thou ſaveſt me from violence.

4 I will call on the LORD, who is worthy to be praiſed: ſo ſhall I be ſaved from mine enemies.

5 When the waves of death compaſſed me: the floods of ungodly men made me afraid.

6 The ſorrows of hell compaſſed me about: the ſnares of death prevented me.

7 In my diſtreſs I called upon the LORD, and cried to my God, and he did hear my voice out of his temple, and my cry did enter into his ears.

Ver. 16. A new ſword.] This, according to the beſt interpretation, was a ſword made on purpoſe for him, and ſuited to his ſtrength, which greatly ſurpaſſed that of an ordinary man.

Ver. 17. That thou quench not the light of Iſrael.] This expreſſion is very beautiful and ſignificant; for good kings are, in ſcripture, juſtly ſtiled the light of the people, 1 Kings xi. 36. becauſe the conduct and direction, the comfort and welfare of a people depend upon them.

Ver. 19. Elhanan the ſon of Jaare-oregim, &c.] It is in 1 Chron. xx. 5. Elhanan the ſon of Jair, ſlew Lahmi, the brother of Goliath the Gittite, which is plain and conſiſtent.

NOTES on Chap. XXII.

Ver. 1. David ſpake—the words of this ſong.] It is very uncertain at what time of life David compoſed this moſt ſublime ſong; he ſeems to have written it, at firſt, for his own private uſe, but near the cloſe of his life, he thought fit to communicate it to others; and therefore placed it in the book of Pſalms, that it might ſerve for the uſe of thoſe who ſhould be encompaſſed with the ſame difficulties, and receive the like mercies from the God of their ſalvation.—The reader will obſerve, it is nearly the ſame with the 18th Pſalm. This divine ode, contains the nobleſt image that was ever expreſſed in words. David, overflowing with gratitude to God for delivering him from his numerous and powerful enemies, pours forth his ſoul in the ſtrongeſt expreſſions of his own miſery, and God's majeſty.—Diſtreſs, danger, death, had every way ſurrounded him:—he ſupplicated God, and that ſo earneſtly, that his voice aſcended to heaven, and his cry entered the ears of the Almighty—then—the earth ſhook, the foundations of the hills trembled; for God was wroth.—He bowed the heavens; he came down; darkneſs was under his feet;—he rode; he flew upon the cherubim;—darkneſs was as yet his pavilion; waters ſurrounded, and clouds concealed his glory! but——the brightneſs of his preſence ſoon ſcattered the clouds; they removed; they kindled into coals of fire! the blaze of glory burſt forth, and the whole univerſe was in flames.

Before Chriſt 1018.

8 Then the earth ſhook and trembled: the foundations of heaven moved and ſhook becauſe he was wroth.

9 There went up a ſmoke out of his noſtrils, and fire out of his mouth devoured: coals were kindled by it.

10 He bowed the heavens alſo and came down: and darkneſs was under his feet.

11 And he rode upon a cherub, and did fly: and he was ſeen upon the wings of the wind.

12 And he made darkneſs pavilions round about him, dark waters, and thick clouds of the ſkies.

13 Through the brightneſs before him were coals of fire kindled.

14 The LORD thundered from heaven, and the moſt High uttered his voice.

15 And he ſent out arrows and ſcattered them; lightening, and diſcomfited them.

16 And the channels of the ſea appeared, the foundations of the world were diſcovered, at the rebuking of the LORD, at the blaſt of the breath of his noſtrils.

17 He ſent from above, he took me: he drew me out of many waters.

18 He delivered me from my ſtrong enemy, and from them that hated me: for they were too ſtrong for me.

Before Chriſt 1018.

19 They prevented me in the day of my calamity: but the LORD was my ſtay.

20 He brought me forth alſo into a large place: he delivered me, becauſe he delighted in me.

21 The LORD rewarded me according to my righteouſneſs: according to the cleanneſs of my hands hath he recompenſed me.

22 For I have kept the ways of the LORD, and have not wickedly departed from my God.

23 For all his judgments were before me: and as for his ſtatutes, I did not depart from them.

24 I was alſo upright before him, and have kept myſelf from mine iniquity.

25 Therefore the LORD hath recompenſed me according to my righteouſneſs: according to my cleanneſs in his eyeſight.

26 With the merciful thou wilt ſhew thyſelf merciful, and with the upright man thou wilt ſhew thyſelf upright.

27 With the pure thou wilt ſhew thyſelf pure: and with the froward thou wilt ſhew thyſelf unſavoury.

28 And

Ver. 8. The foundations of the earth moved] The roots and foundations of the mountains. In Pſalm xviii. it is the foundation of the hills. By heaven is meant, mountains lifted up to heaven.

Becauſe he was wroth.] That is, he was highly diſpleaſed at their enmity with David.

Ver. 9. A ſmoke out of his noſtrils, and fire.] Theſe are very bold metaphors, and expreſs the moſt flaming degree of anger, and its dreadful effects.

Ver. 10. He bowed the heavens and came down; and darkneſs was under his feet.] A beautiful and noble image this, of the divine majeſty, as deſcending from heaven in a glorious cloud, which, at the bottom, was all dark, but above, bright and ſhining, with an amazing ſplendor.

Ver. 11. He rode upon a cherub.] To ride, in the Hebrew language, ſignifies to rule or govern with an abſolute authority, that on which the perſon is ſaid to ride; to ride upon a cherub, therefore, or to make the clouds his chariot (which is the ſame, becauſe angels appeared in bright clouds) is to ſend his heavenly miniſters whither he pleaſes, to execute his pleaſure.

Ver. 12. He made darkneſs pavilions round about him, &c.] This is likewiſe a deſcription of the angelic powers which ſurrounded him on all ſides.

Ver. 13. Through the brightneſs before him were coals of fire kindled.] Thoſe heavenly miniſters, going forth from his glorious preſence, ſent hailſtones and lightnings in the face of his enemies; as in Joſh. x. 11. Hail and fire are called the inſtruments and weapons of God. Job xxxviii. 22. Ezek. x. 2. &c.

Ver. 16. The channels of the ſea appeared, &c.] A deſcription of an earthquake, rending and making ſuch breaches, that the very bottom of it was diſcovered.

Ver. 17. Many waters.] Innumerable dangers, which poured in like a flood upon him.

Ver. 24. I was alſo upright before him.] This is ſpoken in reſpect to Saul; for though he afterwards ſinned grievouſly againſt God, yet he choſe rather to ſuffer any thing than injure Saul.

Ver. 27. Thou wilt ſhew thyſelf unſavory.] The reading in the Pſalms is better; With the froward thou wilt ſhew thyſelf froward.

Before Chriſt 1018.

28 And the afflicted people thou wilt ſave: but thine eyes are upon the haughty, that thou mayeſt bring them down.

29 For thou art my lamp, O LORD: and the LORD will lighten my darkneſs.

30 For by thee I have run through a troop: by my God have I leaped over a wall.

31 As for God, his way is perfect; the the word of the LORD is tried: he is a buckler to all them that truſt in him.

32 For who is God, ſave the LORD? and who is a rock, ſave our God?

33 God is my ſtrength and power: and he maketh my way perfect.

34 He maketh my feet like hinds feet: and ſetteth me upon my high places.

35 He teacheth my hands to war: ſo that a bow of ſteel is broken by mine arms.

36 Thou haſt alſo given me the ſhield of thy ſalvation: and thy gentleneſs hath made me great.

37 Thou haſt enlarged my ſteps under me: ſo that my feet did not ſlip.

38 I have purſued mine enemies, and deſtroyed them: and turned not again until I had conſumed them.

39 And I have conſumed them, and wounded them, that they could not ariſe: yea, they are fallen under my feet.

40 For thou haſt girded me with ſtrength to battel: them that roſe up againſt me, haſt thou ſubdued under me.

Before Chriſt 1018.

41 Thou haſt alſo given me the necks of mine enemies, that I might deſtroy them that hate me.

42 They looked, but there was none to ſave: even unto the LORD, but he anſwered them not.

43 Then did I beat them as ſmall as the duſt of the earth, I did ſtamp them as the mire of the ſtreet, and did ſpread them abroad.

44 Thou alſo haſt delivered me from the ſtrivings of my people, thou haſt kept me to be head of the heathen: a people which I knew not, ſhall ſerve me.

45 Strangers ſhall ſubmit themſelves unto me: as ſoon as they hear, they ſhall be obedient unto me.

46 Strangers ſhall fade away, and they ſhall be afraid out of their cloſe places.

47 The LORD liveth, and bleſſed be my rock: and exalted be the God of the rock of my ſalvation.

48 It is God that avengeth me, and that bringeth down the people under me,

49 And that bringeth me forth from mine enemies: thou alſo haſt lifted me up on high above them that roſe up againſt me: thou haſt delivered me from the violent man.

50 Therefore I will give thanks unto thee, O LORD, among the heathen, and I will ſing praiſes unto thy name.

Ver. 29. Thou art my lamp.] The reading of the ſimilar place in the Pſalms is preferable; Thou ſhalt light my candle.

Ver. 30. I have run through a troop.] I have ſubdued foes. Leaped over a wall.] Eſcaped dangers.

Ver. 31. Is tried.] The experience of all good men teaches, that God never fails to be true to his word.

Ver. 34. Like hinds feet.] Some refer this to the ſwiftneſs of the hind; and ſome to the firmneſs of his treading, which is very remarkable.

Ver. 44. The ſtrivings of the people.] Alluding to the union of the people of Iſrael and Judah, under his government.

A people which I knew not ſhall ſerve me.] Viz. the Syrians of Zobah, Rehob, Iſh-tob, and Maacah, of whom, it is likely, David had no knowledge, till they came to ſuccour the Ammonites.

Ver. 49. The violent man.] That is, Saul.

Ver. 50. Therefore will I give thanks unto thee, O Lord, &c.] He was reſolved, upon all occaſions, to praiſe God for his goodneſs, but eſpecially among the heathens, whom he had ſubdued, that they might know all his victories were wrought by the hands of omnipotence, and thence be inſpired to worſhip the great Jehovah, and put their truſt under the ſhadow of his wings.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 David in his laſt words profeſſeth his faith in Gods promiſes, to be beyond ſenſe or experience. 6 The different ſtate of the wicked.

NOW theſe be the laſt words of David: David the ſon of Jeſſe ſaid, and the man who was raiſed up on high, the anointed of the God of Jacob, and the ſweet pſalmiſt of Iſrael, ſaid,

2 The ſpirit of the LORD ſpake by me, and his word was in my tongue.

NOTES on Chap. XXIII.

Ver. 1. The laſt words.] That is, the laſt he ſpake by inſpiration. The Chaldee paraphraſe takes theſe words as a prophecy of the Meſſiah; and ſo it expounds them: "Theſe are the words of the prophecy of David, which "he prophecied of the conſummation of all things, in "the day of conſolation which is to come."

Ver. 3. He that ruleth over men muſt be juſt, ruling in the fear of God.] This relates primarily to David, as the type of Chriſt; and the Chaldee paraphraſe applies it likewiſe to the Meſſiah: "The faithful God ſaid, I will "conſtitute to me a king, the Meſſiah, who ſhall ariſe, "and reign in the fear of the Lord."

Ver. 4. He ſhall be as the light of the morning.] In an old manuſcript, which ſeems to determine this hymn to have been a prophecy of the Meſſiah, there is a remarkable difference—"And as the morning light ſhall Jehovah "the ſun ariſe."

Ver. 5. Although my houſe be not ſo with God; yet he hath made with me an everlaſting covenant.] Here (according to Lud. de Dieu) he amplifies the ſtability and perpetuity of his kingdom, by comparing it to three natural things that are grateful to man, but not remarkable for their conſtancy; for the ſun ariſes, but it likewiſe ſets; the morning may be clear, but may quickly be overcaſt; the tender graſs ſprings up, but again withers away. "Not "ſo, ſays the Pſalmiſt, is my kingdom before the Almighty; it flouriſhes like theſe, but is at the ſame time "perpetual; for the holy one of Iſrael hath made an "everlaſting covenant with me; and though ſome afflictions have befallen me, and all my deſires have not "flouriſhed, yet he hath not taken his mercies, nor his "favours from me."

Ver. 8. Theſe be the names of the mighty men, &c.] There is likewiſe a liſt of David's worthies in 1 Chron. xi. which originally contained the ſame ſenſe, where it is now contradictory; one of the two places muſt have been corrupted. The reader is to obſerve, that this liſt conſiſts of 37 warriors; the firſt of which is Joab, who, though not expreſsly mentioned here (becauſe he has been celebrated through this whole book of Samuel) yet he muſt be here included, to complete the number ſpecified, verſe 39. The author of the Chronicles commemorates Joab at the beginning of his catalogue; he therefore is to be reckoned the captain-general; next comes a double ſeries of three generals, (the three moſt honourable next to Joab, making the firſt ſeries, viz. Jaſhobeam, Eleazar, and Shammah; and the three more honourable than the thirty, but leſs honourable than the firſt three, making the ſecond ſeries, viz. Abiſhai, Benaiah, and Aſahel) and then the body of thirty. This verſe is miſerably corrupted; but Mr. Kennicot has, with great ingenuity and induſtry, corrected the original, and given us this tranſlation. "Theſe are the names of the mighty men, "whom David had, Jaſhobeam the Hachmonite, chief "of three; he lifted up his ſpear againſt three hundred "ſoldiers at one time." This is nearly correſpondent to Chron. xi. 11. The emendations in this chapter are ſo numerous, that I ſhall tranſcribe only the moſt material, and refer the learned reader to Mr. Kennicot's excellent diſſertation, from page 64, to 258.

Before Chriſt 1018. of Dodo the Ahohite, one of the three mighty men with David, when they defied the Philiſtines that were there gathered together to battel, and the men of Iſrael were gone away.

10 He aroſe, and ſmote the Philiſtines until his hand was weary, and his hand clave unto the ſword: and the LORD wrought a great victory that day; and the people returned after him only to ſpoil.

11 And after him was Shammah the ſon of Agee the Hararite: and the Philiſtines were gathered together into a troop, where was a piece of ground full of lentiles: and the people fled from the Philiſtines.

12 But he ſtood in the midſt of the ground, and defended it, and ſlew the Philiſtines: and the LORD wrought a great victory.

13 And three of the thirty chief went down and came to David in the harveſt time, unto the cave of Adullam: and the troop of the Philiſtines pitched in the valley of Rephaim.

14 And David was then in an hold, and the garriſon of the Philiſtines was then in Beth-lehem.

15 And David longed, and ſaid, Oh that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, which is by the gate! Before Chriſt 1018.

16 And the three mighty men brake through the hoſt of the Philiſtines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David: nevertheleſs he would not drink thereof, but poured it out unto the LORD.

17 And he ſaid, Be it far from me, O LORD, that I ſhould do this: is not this the blood of the men that went in jeopardy of their lives? therefore he would not drink it. Theſe things did theſe three mighty men.

18 And Abiſhai the brother of Joab, the ſon of Zeruiah, was chief among three; and he lift up his ſpear againſt three hundred, and ſlew them, and had the name among three.

19 Was he not moſt honourable of three? therefore he was their captain: howbeit, he attained not unto the firſt three.

20 And Benaiah the ſon of Jehoida, the ſon of a valiant man, of Kabzeel, who had done many acts, he ſlew two lionlike men of Moab: he went down alſo and ſlew a lion in the midſt of a pit in time of ſnow.

Ver. 9. Dodo.] Read Dodi; and after the three mighty men, read he was with David at Paſdammim. 10. And the Philiſtines were there gathered together to battle, and the men of Iſrael fled, &c. and inſtead of victory, read a great deliverance. 11. Inſtead of a troop, read the Philiſtines were gathered together at Lehi; where there was a piece of ground full of barley, &c. 13. Read—now theſe three, who were head men ſuperior to the thirty, went down, and came over the rock to David, &c.

Ver. 15. O that one would give me drink of the waters of the well of Beth-lehem.] David was exceeding thirſty, the weather being very hot; and he coveted the water of Bethlehem rather than any other, becauſe this was the place of his nativity, and he knew how pleaſant and refreſhing its waters were; however, he did not ſpeak this, to the end that any ſhould venture their lives to fetch it him.

Ver. 16. Three mighty men brake through the hoſt.] It is very remarkable, that they ſhould break through the hoſt, ſtay to draw water out of the well, and carry it away with an high hand through the hoſt to David.

Ver. 17. Is not this the blood of theſe men?] He did no longer look upon it as water, but as the blood of thoſe men, who fetched it at the hazard of their lives.

Ver. 20. For Benaiah, read Benaihu; and for lion like, read men who were ſtouter than lions. 21. Read he ſlew an Egyptian, a man wonderful to behold; and in the hand of the Egyptian was a ſpear, like a weavers beam, &c. 22. Read theſe things did Benaihu, &c. 24. Read Aſahel, the brother of Joab, was alſo above the thirty. 25. Shamhoth the Harodite. 26. Heletz the Pelenite, 27. For Mebunnai, read Sibbecai. 28. For Zalmon, read Ilai. 29. Read Heled; and for Ittai, read Ithai. 30. For Hiddai, read Hurai. 31. For Barhumite, read Baburimite. 32. Read Gonni, of the ſons of Haſhem. 33. Jonathan, the ſon of Shammah, the Hararite, Ahiam, the ſon of Shacar, &c. 35 Naarai, the ſon of Azbai. 36. Joel the brother of Nathan.

NOTES on Chap. XXIV.

Ver. 1. The anger of the Lord was kindled.] Becauſe they had followed Abſalom, and afterwards Sheba; as well as on account of their luxury and eaſe.

He moved David againſt them, to ſay, Go number Iſrael and Judah.] It ought rather to be tranſlated with Caſtallio; David was moved to ſay; for God is not the author of evil.

Before Christ 1017. preſence of the king, to number the people of Iſrael.

5 ¶ And they paſſed over Jordan, and pitched in Aroer, on the right ſide of the city that lieth in the midſt of the river of Gad, and toward Jazer.

6 Then they came to Gilead, and to the land of Tahtim-hodſhi; and they came to Dan-jaan, and about to Zidon,

7 And came to the ſtrong hold of Tyre, and to all the cities of the Hivites, and of the Canaanites: and they went out to the ſouth of Judah even to Beer-ſheba.

8 So when they had gone through all the land, they came to Jeruſalem at the end of nine months and twenty days.

9 And Joab gave up the ſum of the number of the people unto the king: and there were in Iſrael eight hundred thouſand valiant men that drew the ſword; and the men of Judah were five hundred thouſand men.

10 ¶ And Davids heart ſmote him after that he had numbered the people: and David ſaid unto the LORD, I have ſinned greatly in that I have done: and now I beſeech thee, O LORD, take away the iniquity of thy ſervant; for I have done very fooliſhly. Before Christ 1017.

11 For when David was up in the morning, the word of the LORD came unto the prophet Gad, Davids ſeer, ſaying, 12 Go and ſay unto David, Thus ſaith the LORD, I offer thee three things; chooſe thee one of them, that I may do it unto thee.

13 So Gad came to David, and told him, and ſaid unto him, Shall ſeven years of famine come unto thee in thy land? or wilt thou flee three months before thine enemies, while they purſue thee? or that there be three days peſtilence in thy land? now adviſe, and ſee what anſwer I ſhall return to him that ſent me.

14 And David ſaid unto Gad, I am in a great ſtraight: let us fall now into the hand of the LORD, (for his mercies are great) and let me not fall into the hand of man.

15 So the LORD ſent a peſtilence upon Iſrael, from the morning even to the time appointed;

Ver. 9. The ſum of the number.] If we compare this account, with what we meet with in 1 Chron. xxi. 5. we ſhall find a great difference; for there the men of Iſrael are ſaid to be 300,000 more than here; and, on the other hand, the men of Judah are ſaid to be 30,000 leſs. The ſcribes are apt to write their numbers wrong; the leſſer number is more likely to be the true one; for, if there were ſo many fighting men, the additional number of the aged, women, and children, muſt fill ſo ſmall a country very full.

Ver. 10. I have ſinned greatly.] Interpreters are not agreed in what David's ſin here conſiſted. Some think it was, in forgetting the half ſhekel, due upon ſuch occaſions, by the appointment of the law. Exod. xxx. 12. Others think, it was in numbering thoſe under twenty years of age, contrary to the law. Exod. xxx. 14. and xxxviii. 26. Some fancy, that through a motive of avarice, he laid a capitation tax upon every poll throughout the kingdom; and others, that the numbering of the people became ſinful, becauſe it was a thing contrary to the fundamental promiſe by God to Abraham; that his ſeed ſhould be as the ſtars for multitude, and that this act ſeemed to ſavour of infidelity: but the moſt probable opinion is, that David, being the anointed of the Lord, and and one who had been favoured of the Almighty, in a moſt remarkable manner, ſhould not have gloried in the multitude of his forces, nor have made fleſh his arm; for he well knew, that there is no reſtraint to the Lord, to ſave by many or by few.

Ver. 11. For when David was up in the morning.] Here is an egregious error in the tranſlation, which gives us to apprehend, that David's penitence was the effect of God's threat; for when David was up in the morning, &c. whereas it ſhould not be tranſlated for, but and; being a connective, and not a caſual particle.

Ver. 13. Shall ſeven years of famine, &c.] In 1 Chron. xxi. 12. the propoſal runs regularly (not ſeven, but) three years famine, three months flight, three days peſtilence. The Septuagint alſo read three years famine; therefore, there is no doubt, but this is a miſtake of the tranſcriber, who has corrupted three into ſeven.

Ver. 15. So the Lord ſent a peſtilence—from the morning even to the time appointed.] The time appointed, was the ſpace of three days; and therefore ſome are of opinion, that the plague laſted ſo long; but then this does not agree with what follows, viz. that the Lord repented him of the evil. We may therefore conclude, that as the word MOED, ſignifies an aſſembly, the time MOED muſt be, when the people met together at the time of the evening ſacrifice, i. e. about the ninth hour of the day; and conſequently, appointed: and there died of the people from Dan even to Beer-ſheba, ſeventy thouſand men.

Before Christ 1017.

16 And when the angel ſtretched out his hand upon Jeruſalem to deſtroy it, the LORD repented him of the evil, and ſaid to the angel that deſtroyed the people, It is enough: ſtay now thine hand. And the angel of the LORD was by the threſhing-place of Araunah the Jebuſite.

17 And David ſpake unto the LORD when he ſaw the angel that ſmote the people, and ſaid, Lo, I have ſinned, and I have done wickedly: but theſe ſheep, what have they done? let thine hand, I pray thee, be againſt me, and againſt my fathers houſe.

18 ¶ And Gad came that day to David, and ſaid unto him, Go up, rear an altar unto the LORD, in the threſhing-floor of Araunah the Jebuſite.

19 And David, according to the ſaying of Gad, went up as the LORD commanded.

20 And Araunah looked, and ſaw the king and his ſervants coming on toward him: and Araunah went out and bowed himſelf before the king on his face upon the ground.

Before Christ 1017.

21 And Araunah ſaid, Wherefore is my lord the king come to his ſervant? And David ſaid, To buy the threſhing-floor of thee to build an altar unto the LORD, that the plague may be ſtayed from the people.

22 And Araunah ſaid unto David, Let my lord the king take and offer up what ſeemeth good unto him: behold, here be oxen for burnt ſacrifice, and threſhing-inſtruments, and other inſtruments of the oxen for wood.

23 All theſe things did Araunah, as a king, give unto the king: and Araunah ſaid unto the king, The LORD thy God accept thee.

24 And the king ſaid unto Araunah, Nay; but I will ſurely buy it of thee at a price: neither will I offer burnt offerings unto the LORD my God, of that which doth coſt me nothing. So David bought the threſhing-floor and the oxen, for fifty ſhekels of ſilver.

25 And David built there an altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings: ſo the LORD was intreated for the land, and the plague was ſtayed from Iſrael.

quently, that the plague continued from the morning to this time, which is about nine hours, or the eighth part of three days; God, in his mercy, having been pleaſed to mitigate the rigour of his judgment, upon the ſincere repentance of his people.

Ver. 17. Lo, I have ſinned, but theſe ſheep, what have they done?] Like a good man, he reflected only on his own ſin, in numbering the people; but forgot their crimes in depoſing him, and ſetting Abſalom on the throne of Iſraeſ.

Ver. 28. In the threſhing-floor of Araunah.] This threſhing-floor was in the mount Moriah, the place where Abraham offered up his ſon, and where Solomon afterwards built the temple.

Ver. 24. For fifty ſhekels of ſilver.] In Chronicles, it is ſaid, that David bought the threſhing-floor, &c. for ſix hundred ſhekels of gold. Now, a ſhekel of gold, being of twelve times more value than a ſhekel of ſilver, it makes the diſparity very large; therefore, it is generally ſuppoſed, that David made two purchaſes. He firſt bought the threſhing-floor and oxen, for fifty ſhekels of ſilver, and afterwards all the adjacent ground, occupied by the courts of the temple, for ſix hundred ſhekels of gold.

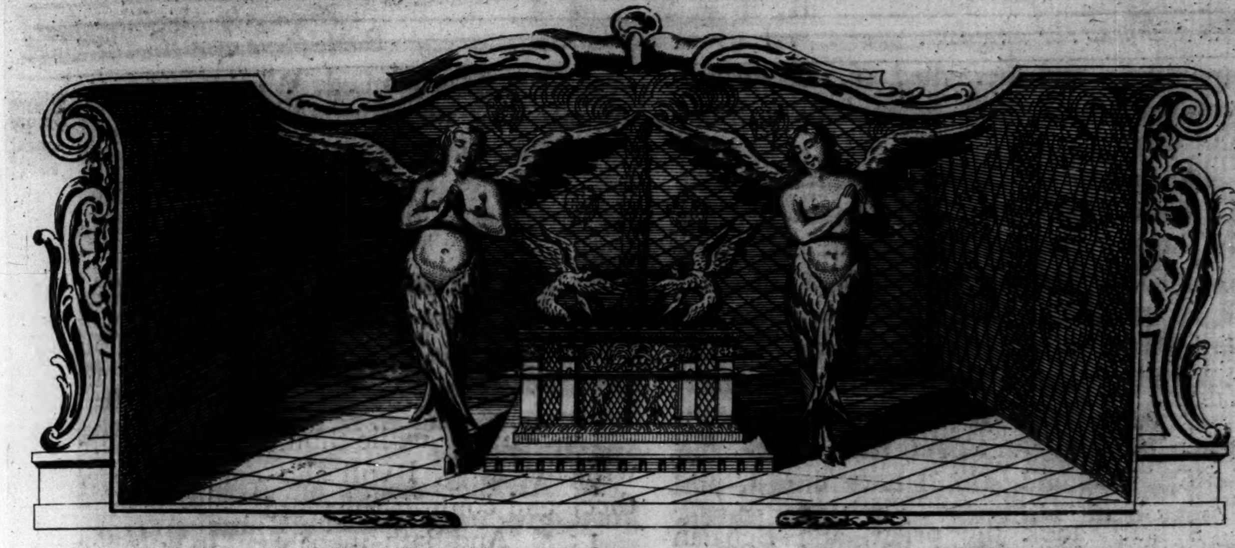
The End of the Second Book of SAMUEL.



THE

Firſt Book of the KINGS,

COMMONLY CALLED,

The Third Book of the KINGS.

The ARGUMENT.

Theſe books are called Kings, becauſe they contain the hiſtory of the kings of Iſrael and Judah, from the beginning of Solomon's reign, down to the captivity of Babylon. Here we have an account of the building of the Temple, Solomons defection, and the diviſion of the nation into two kingdoms, &c. They are thought to have been compoſed by Ezra, who extracted them from the public records, and (taking into the account the hiſtory of the two preceeding books) comprehend the ſpace of near 600 years.

CHAP. I.

1 Abiſhag cheriſheth David in his extreme age.

Before Chriſt 1015. NOW king David was old, and ſtricken in years; and they covered him with clothes, but he gat no heat.

2 Wherefore his ſervants ſaid unto him, Let there be ſought for my lord the king a young virgin, and let her ſtand before the king, and let her cheriſh him, and let her lie in thy boſom, that my lord the king may get heat. Before Chriſt 1015.

3 So they ſought for a fair damſel throughout all the coaſts of Iſrael, and found Abiſhag a Shunammite, and brought her to the king.

4 And the damſel was very fair, and cheriſhed the king, and miniſtered to him: but the king knew her not.

NOTES on Chap. I.

Ver. 1. They covered him with clothes, but he gat him no heat.] It ſeems that David was ſtricken with a palſy, or with ſome other diſtemper that chilled his blood, ſo that he could find no warmth in his bed.

Ver. 2. His ſervants.] By theſe, we are to underſtand, his phyſicians.

Before Chriſt 1015.

5 ¶ Then Adonijah the ſon of Haggith exalted himſelf, ſaying, I will be king: and he prepared him chariots and horſemen, and fifty men to run before him.

6 And his father had not diſpleaſed him at any time, in ſaying, Why haſt thou done ſo? and he alſo was a very goodly man; and his mother bare him after Abſalom.

7 And he conferred with Joab the ſon of Zeruiah, and with Abiathar the prieſt: and they following Adonijah, helped him.

8 But Zadok the prieſt, and Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, and Nathan the prophet, and Shimei, and Rei, and the mighty men which belonged to David, were not with Adonijah.

9 And Adonijah ſlew ſheep and oxen and fat cattle by the ſtone of Zoheleth, which is by En-rogel, and called all his brethren the kings ſons, and all the men of Judah the kings ſervants.

10 But Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, and the mighty men, and Solomon his brother called he not.

11 ¶ Wherefore Nathan ſpake unto Bath-ſheba the mother of Solomon, ſaying, Haſt thou not heard that Adonijah the ſon of Haggith doth reign, and David our lord knoweth it not?

12 Now therefore come, let me, I pray thee, give thee counſel, that thou mayeſt ſave thine own life, and the life of thy ſon Solomon.

Before Chriſt 1015.

13 Go, and get thee in unto king David, and ſay unto him, Didſt not thou, my lord, O king, ſwear unto thine handmaid, ſaying, Aſſuredly Solomon thy ſon ſhall reign after me, and he ſhall ſit upon my throne? why then doth Adonijah reign?

14 Behold, while thou yet talkeſt there with the king, I will alſo come in after thee, and confirm thy words.

15 ¶ And Bath-ſheba went in unto the king, into the chamber: and the king was very old; and Abiſhag the Shunammite miniſtered unto the king.

16 And Bath-ſheba bowed, and did obeiſance unto the king: and the king ſaid, What wouldeſt thou?

17 And ſhe ſaid unto him, My lord, thou ſwareſt by the LORD thy God unto thine handmaid, ſaying, Aſſuredly Solomon thy ſon ſhall reign after me, and he ſhall ſit upon my throne:

18 And now behold, Adonijah reigneth; and now my lord the king, thou knoweſt it not.

19 And he hath ſlain oxen, and fat cattle, and ſheep in abundance, and hath called all the ſons of the king, and Abiathar the prieſt, and Joab the captain of the hoſt:

Let there be ſought for my lord the king a young virgin, &c.] David's conduct here has been much cenſured, but without reaſon; for, it is evident, there was nothing criminal in the caſe; but that it was a preſcription merely medicinal, (there being a briſk and lively motion in the blood of young people, which imparts an heat and warmth) and not applied to any laſcivious or wanton ends. When the hiſtorian tells us, that the king knew her not; it was not with an intent to remove any imputation of ſin or ſcandal in David, (there being no poſſibility of his committing the one, or incurring the other, becauſe ſhe was his concubinary wife, and ſuch in thoſe days were allowable) but only to define the extent of the application, and its real uſe. This paſſage, therefore, ought to be conſidered in a ſerious light, and deſerves not to be treated either with contempt or ridicule.

Ver. 6. His father had not diſpleaſed him at any time.] It is remarked of David, that one of his greateſt faults was, his extraordinary indulgence to his children, of whom he was ſo fond, that he ſeems to have overlooked their errors, and not reproved them, though he was bound to do ſo, by a poſitive law, Levit. xix. 17. and could not but know, that the high-prieſt Eli, was ſeverely puniſhed for this neglect.

Ver. 17. Thou ſwareſt — ſaying aſſuredly Solomon—ſhall reign after me.] We no where read of this oath, though there is no donbt of its having been made, God himſelf having deſigned him that honour, as appears from 2 Sam. vii. 12. where he promiſes by Nathan, to ſet upon his throne a ſon that ſhould proceed from him; which plainly ſignified, none of his ſons already born, were to be the perſon; but more plainly, in 1 Chron. xxii. 9, 10. he declares, that God told him, Solomon ſhould reign after him, and build him an houſe.

Before Christ 1015. hoſt: but Solomon thy ſervant hath he not called.

20 And thou, my lord, O king, the eyes of all Iſrael are upon thee, that thou ſhouldeſt tell them who ſhall ſit on the throne of my lord the king after him.

21 Otherwiſe it ſhall come to paſs, when my lord the king ſhall ſleep with his fathers, that I and my ſon Solomon ſhall be counted offenders.

22 ¶ And lo, while ſhe yet talked with the king, Nathan the prophet alſo came in.

23 And they told the king, ſaying, Behold, Nathan the prophet. And when he was come in before the king, he bowed himſelf before the king with his face to the ground.

24 And Nathan ſaid, My lord, O king, haſt thou ſaid, Adonijah ſhall reign after me, and he ſhall ſit upon my throne?

25 For he is gone down this day, and hath ſlain oxen, and fat cattle, and ſheep in abundance, and hath called all the kings ſons, and the captains of the hoſt, and Abiathar the prieſt; and behold, they eat and drink before him, and ſay, God ſave king Adonijah.

26 But me, even me thy ſervant, and Zadok the prieſt, and Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, and thy ſervant Solomon hath he not called.

27 Is this thing done by my lord the king, and thou haſt not ſhewed it unto thy ſervant, who ſhould ſit on the throne of my lord the king after him?

28 ¶ Then king David anſwered and ſaid, Call me Bath-ſheba: and ſhe came into the kings preſence, and ſtood before the king. Before Christ 1015.

29 And the king ſware, and ſaid, As the LORD liveth, that hath redeemed my ſoul out of all diſtreſs,

30 Even as I ſware unto thee by the LORD God of Iſrael, ſaying, Aſſuredly Solomon thy ſon ſhall reign after me, and he ſhall ſit upon my throne in my ſtead; even ſo will I certainly do this day.

31 Then Bath-ſheba bowed with her face to the earth, and did reverence to the king, and ſaid, Let my lord king David live for ever.

32 ¶ And king David ſaid, Call me Zadok the prieſt, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada. And they came before the king.

33 The king alſo ſaid unto them, Take with you the ſervants of your lord, and cauſe Solomon my ſon to ride upon mine own mule, and bring him down to Gihon.

34 And let Zadok the prieſt, and Nathan the prophet, anoint him there king over Iſrael: and blow ye with the trumpet, and ſay, God ſave king Solomon.

35 Then ye ſhall come up after him, that he may come and ſit upon my throne; for he ſhall be king in my ſtead: and I have appointed him to be ruler over Iſrael, and over Judah.

36 And

Ver. 30. He ſhall ſit upon my throne.] The power of naming a ſucceſſor, was firſt aſſumed by David; and, in after ages, granted to ſeveral good princes, but did not prevail long among the Iſraelites, becauſe the conſtitution of other nations, to which the Iſraelites affected to conform themſelves, was different.

Ver. 33. Cauſe Solomon my ſon to ride upon mine own mule.] All the reſt of David's ſons rode upon mules when they went abroad; (2 Sam. xiii. 19.) but David had a mule peculiar to himſelf, and the mounting Solomon upon it, was a ſufficient declaration in his favour; for, as it was capital (according to Maimonides) to ride upon the king's mule, or ſit on his throne, or handle his ſceptre, without his order; ſo, on the contrary, to have the honour to ride upon the king's horſe, by his appointment, was accounted the higheſt dignity among the Perſians, as appears by the ſtory of Mordecai, in the book of Eſther.

Bring him down to Gihon.] Not Siloam, as ſome have thought, which was to the eaſt of Jeruſalem, whereas Gihon was a fountain or brook to the weſt; as great numbers of people uſed to reſort to theſe places, this was therefore a proper ſcene for ſuch a ceremony.

Before Chriſt 1015.

36 And Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada anſwered the king, and ſaid, Amen: the Lord God of my lord the king ſay ſo too.

37 As the Lord hath been with my lord the king, even ſo be he with Solomon, and make his throne greater than the throne of my lord king David.

38 So Zadok the prieſt, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, went down, and cauſed Solomon to ride upon king Davids mule, and brought him to Gihon.

39 And Zadok the prieſt took an horn of oil out of the tabernacle, and anointed Solomon: and they blew the trumpet, and all the people ſaid, God ſave king Solomon.

40 And all the people came up after him, and the people piped with pipes, and rejoiced with great joy, ſo that the earth rent with the ſound of them.

41 ¶ And Adonijah and all the gueſts that were with him, heard it as they had made an end of eating: and when Joab heard the ſound of the trumpet, he ſaid, Wherefore is this noiſe of the city being in an uproar?

42 And while he yet ſpake, behold, Jonathan the ſon of Abiathar the prieſt came, and Adonijah ſaid unto him, Come in, for thou art a valiant man, and bringeſt good tidings.

43 And Jonathan anſwered and ſaid to Adonijah, Verily our lord king David hath made Solomon king.

44 And the king hath ſent with him Zadok the prieſt, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, and they have cauſed him to ride upon the kings mule.

Before Chriſt 1015.

45 And Zadok the prieſt, and Nathan the prophet have anointed him king in Gihon: and they are come up from thence rejoicing, ſo that the city rang again: this is the noiſe that ye have heard.

46 And alſo Solomon ſitteth on the throne of the kingdom.

47 And moreover, the kings ſervants came to bleſs our lord king David, ſaying, God make the name of Solomon better than thy name, and make his throne greater than thy throne: and the king bowed himſelf upon the bed.

48 And alſo thus ſaid the king, Bleſſed be the Lord God of Iſrael, which hath given one to ſit on my throne this day, mine eyes even ſeeing it.

49 And all the gueſts that were with Adonijah, were afraid, and roſe up, and went every man his way.

50 ¶ And Adonijah feared because of Solomon, and aroſe, and went, and caught hold on the horns of the altar.

51 And it was told Solomon, ſaying, Behold, Adonijah feareth king Solomon: for lo, he hath caught hold on the horns of the altar, ſaying, Let king Solomon ſwear unto me to day, that he will not ſlay his ſervant with the ſword.

52 And Solomon ſaid, If he will ſhew himſelf a worthy man, there ſhall not an hair of him fall to the earth: but if wickedneſs ſhall be found in him, he ſhall die.

53 So

Ver. 42. Thou art a valiant man.] Or rather, a virtuous man.

Ver. 47. Bowed himſelf upon the bed.] See note on Gen. xlvii. 31.

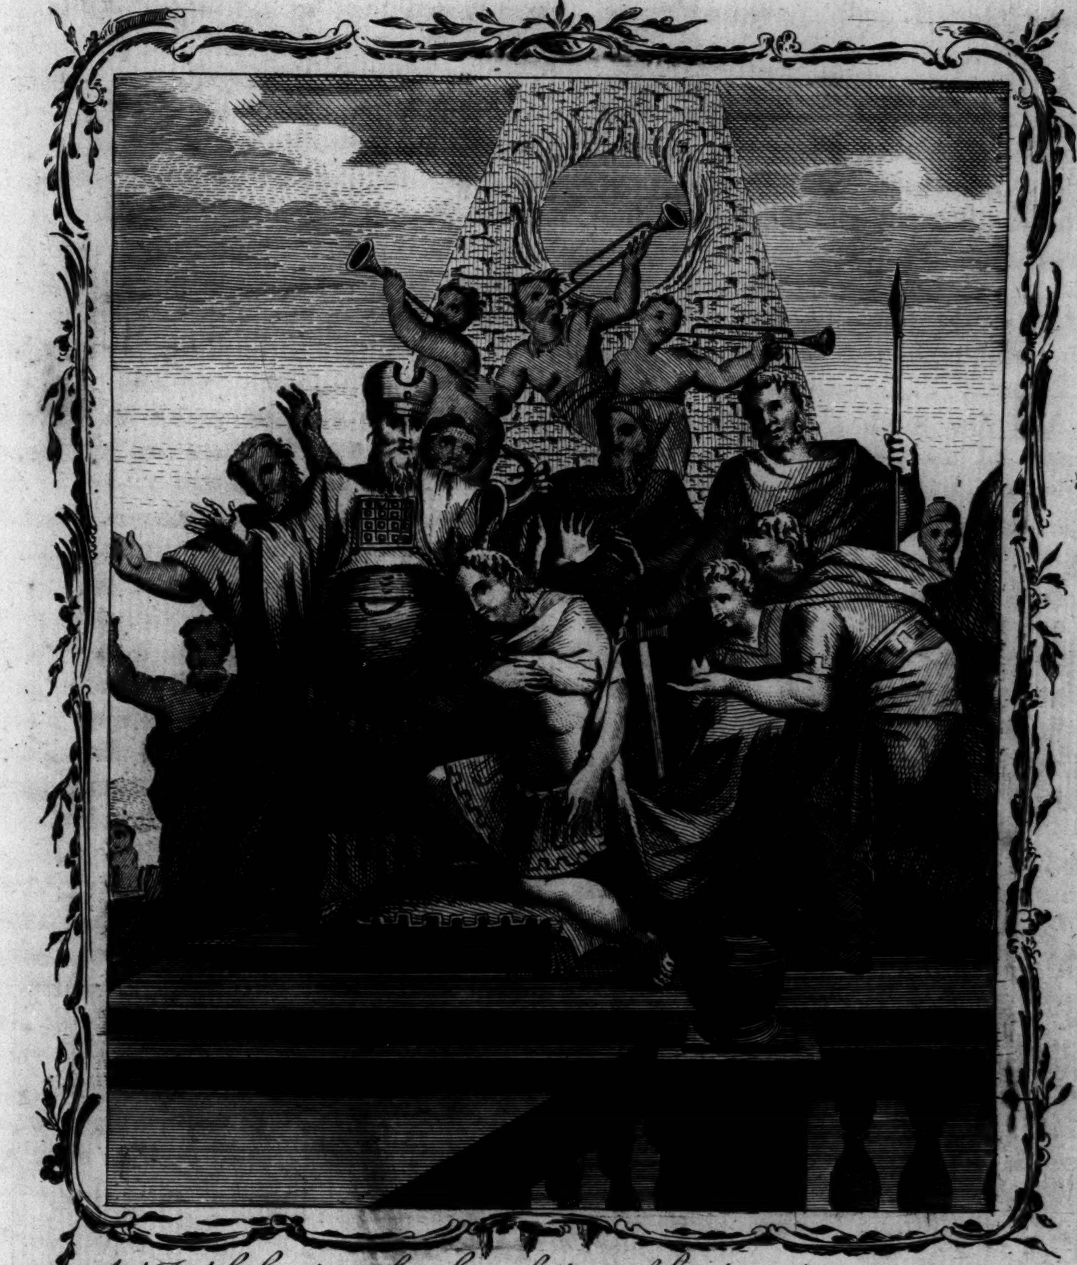
Ver. 50. And caught hold on the horns of the altar.] There is no precept in the law to make the altar a privileged place; but in conformity to the cuſtoms of other nations, the Jews ſeem to have done it. That theſe had ſuch cuſtoms, appears from that paſſage in Virgil:

Talibus orabat dictis, araſque tenebit. Æneid. 6.

but it is a queſtion to what altar he fled, whether to that at the tabernacle in Gibeon, or to that newly built in the threſhing-floor of Araunah the Jebuſite; it is moſt likely it was the laſt, becauſe it was neareſt.



And Zadok the priest took an horn of oil out of the tabernacle & anointed Solomon:
& they blew the trumpet, & all the people said, God save king Solomon.

Before Chriſt 1015.

53 So king Solomon ſent, and they brought him down from the altar; and he came and bowed himſelf to king Solomon: and Solomon ſaid unto him, go to thine houſe.

CHAP. II.

1 David having given a charge to Solomon, 3 of religiouſneſs, 5 of Joab, 7 of Barzillai, 8 of Shimei, 10 dieth. 12 Solomon ſucceedeth.

NOW the days of David drew nigh, that he ſhould die; and he charged Solomon his ſon, ſaying,

2 I go the way of all the earth: be thou ſtrong therefore, and ſhew thyſelf a man.

3 And keep the charge of the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, to keep his ſtatutes and his commandments, and his judgments, and his teſtimonies, as it is written in the law of Moſes, that thou mayeſt proſper in all that thou doeſt, and whitherſoever thou turneſt thyſelf:

4 That the LORD may continue his word which he ſpake concerning me, ſaying, if thy children take heed to their way, to walk before me in truth, with all their heart and with all their ſoul, there ſhall not fail thee (ſaid he) a man on the throne of Iſrael.

Before Chriſt 1015.

5 Moreover, thou knoweſt alſo what Joab the ſon of Zeruiah did to me, and what he did to the two captains of the hoſts of Iſrael, unto Abner the ſon of Ner, and unto Amaſa the ſon of Jether, whom he ſlew, and ſhed the blood of war in peace, and put the blood of war upon his girdle that was about his loins, and in his ſhoes that were on his feet.

6 Do therefore according to thy wiſdom, and let not his hoary head go down to the grave in peace.

7 But ſhew kindneſs unto the ſons of Barzillai the Gileadite, and let them be of thoſe that eat at thy table: for ſo they came to me, when I fled becauſe of Abſalom thy brother.

8 And behold, thou haſt with thee Shimei the ſon of Gera, a Benjamite of Bahurim, which curſed me with a grievous curſe, in the day when I went to Mahanaim: but he came down to meet me at Jordan, and I ſware to him by the LORD, ſaying, I will not put thee to death with the ſword.

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 3. To keep his ſtatutes.] By ſtatutes are meant, ſuch conſtitutions as had their foundation, not in reaſon, but in the will and pleaſure of God; ſuch was the prohibition of ſowing ſeeds of different kinds together, &c.

Commandments.] Theſe are to be underſtood of moral duties, that were founded in the nature of things, and carried their reaſon along with them; as not to ſteal, or murder, &c.

Judgments.] Theſe were laws belonging to civil government, and the dealings of one man with another; ſuch as are recorded in the 21ſt, and following chapters of Exodus.

Teſtimonies.] Such laws as preſerved the remembrance of ſome great events; the Sabbath, paſſover, &c.

Ver. 6. Let not his hoary head go down to the grave in peace.] David's character has been greatly impeached, by this laſt dying charge to his ſon, in regard to Joab and Shimei; on both whom he deſired vengeance ſhould be taken, for thoſe crimes which he ſeemed to have forgiven in the one, by permitting them to go ſo long unpuniſhed, and which he expreſsly forgave in the other, and confirmed that forgiveneſs by an oath, that he ſhould not die. To the firſt of theſe, it may be anſwered, that Joab's murders, were crimes which David never did forgive, and probably thought he could not, in contradiction to the expreſs commands of God; and therefore that guilt, which he himſelf wanted power to puniſh, and which for that reaſon only he forbore to puniſh, he wiſely and religiouſly recommended to his ſon, to expiate by the blood of the offender, that his family and kingdom might be clear of it. See the ſpeech which David made on Joab's murder of Abner, 2 Sam. iii. 28, 29, 39. beſides, it was for the public good, that ſuch a bloody wretch as Joab ſhould ſuffer at a proper time, and as providence ſhould direct; and, as the reaſons of ſtate might defer the puniſhment both of Joab and Shimei, during his own life time, he thought it derogatory to the glory of his ſons reign, to ſuffer ſuch notorious offenders to go unpuniſhed. As to his charge concerning Shimei, it is plain, that if David had been actuated by a ſpirit of revenge, he would not have ſpared him in the very inſtant of paſſion and provocation, and when he was ſo earneſtly importuned for leave to puniſh him. And as to David's oath to Shimei, it muſt be remembered, it was only perſonal; and Solomon was at full liberty to vindicate the majeſty of kings, in chaſtiſing this high inſult upon his father, after ſuch a manner as he thought fit.

Before Christ 1015. 9 Now therefore hold him not guiltleſs: for thou art a wiſe man, and knoweſt what thou oughteſt to do unto him; but his hoary head bring thou down to the grave with blood.

10 So David ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David.

11 And the days that David reigned over Iſrael, were forty years: ſeven years reigned he in Hebron, and thirty and three years reigned he in Jeruſalem.

12 ¶ Then ſat Solomon upon the throne of David his father, and his kingdom was eſtabliſhed greatly.

Before Christ 1014. 13 ¶ And Adonijah the ſon of Haggith came to Bath-ſheba the mother of Solomon, and ſhe ſaid, Comeſt thou peaceably? And he ſaid, Peaceably.

14 He ſaid moreover, I have ſomewhat to ſay unto thee. And ſhe ſaid, Say on.

15 And he ſaid, Thou knoweſt that the kingdom was mine, and that all Iſrael ſet their faces on me, that I ſhould reign: howbeit the kingdom is turned about, and is

Ver. 9. Now therefore hold him not guiltleſs, &c.] The particle VAU (as Dr. Delany obſerves) ſhould be rendered as in ſimilar caſes, not connectively, but diſjunctively: for inſtance, Agur (Prov. xxx.) beſeeches God to keep him from the extremes, both of poverty and wealth: if the VAU was to be rendered connectively, the petition would run thus: Give me not poverty and riches—which is abſurd: in the ſame analogy, this verſe, rightly tranſlated, will ſtand thus: Now therefore, neither hold him guiltleſs (for thou art a wiſe man, &c.) nor his hoary head bring thou down to the grave with blood. In this ſenſe, the advice is full of humanity, as well as wiſdom; and Solomon underſtood and obſerved it in this ſenſe, and no other.

Ver. 10. So David ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David.] David was buried in the chief city of David, (Jeruſalem) which himſelf had founded, and where the throne of the houſe of David was. His ſepulchre was in being in St. Peter's time, Acts ii. 29. Dio (in Adriani vita) informs us, that part of it was fallen down in the emperor Adrian's reign. St. Jerom relates, that he himſelf uſed frequently to go and pray at it; and modern travellers deſcribe ſome magnificent monuments, hewed in a rock, not far from Jeruſalem, which are, undoubtedly, very antient; but they themſelves do not agree, that they were the ſepulchres of the kings of Judah: it is ſomewhat unaccountable, however, that the place of this prince's ſepulchre, which both the Chaldeans and the Romans, when they took Jeruſalem, thought proper to ſpare, ſhould now be ſo entirely loſt, that we cannot find the leaſt remains of it: but though providence has ſo ordered it, that the place of David's ſepulchre ſhould not at preſent be known, yet there does not want an eternal monument of his excellent genius; the book of Pſalms, which, for the moſt part, was compoſed by him, publiſhes the glory of its author, more than the moſt pompous elogies; and the author of Eccleſiaſticus, chap. xlvii. has conſecrated this epitaph to his memory, which is more durable than either marble or braſs: " As is the " fat taken away from the peace offering, ſo was David " choſen out of the children of Iſrael. He played with " lions as with kids, and with bears as with lambs. Slew " he not a giant, when he was yet but young? And did " he not take away reproach from the people, when he " lifted up his hand with the ſtone in the ſling, and beat " down the boaſting of Goliath? for he called upon the " moſt high Lord, and he gave him ſtrength in his right " hand, to ſlay that mighty warrior, and ſet up the horn of " his people. So the people honoured him with ten thou- " ſands, and praiſed him in the bleſſings of the Lord, in " that he gave him a crown of glory: for he deſtroyed " the enemies on every ſide, and brought to nought the " Philiſtines, his adverſaries. In all his works, he praiſ- " ed the holy one moſt high, with words of glory; with " his whole heart he ſung ſongs, and loved him that " made him. He ſet ſingers alſo before the altar, that, " by their voices, they might make ſweet melody, and " daily ſing praiſes in their ſongs. He beautified their " feaſts, and ſet in order the ſolemn times, until the end, " that they might praiſe his holy name, and that the " temple might ſound from morning. The Lord took " away his ſins, and exalted his horn for ever; he gave " him a covenant of kings, and a throne of glory in Iſ- " rael."

It may ſeem ſtrange, perhaps, that David, who was, in ſeveral inſtances, highly culpable in the ſight of God, ſhould, nevertheleſs, be called the man after God's own heart; but, whoever obſerves the occaſion of that expreſſion, will find, that it ought to be taken in a comparative ſenſe only; and in derogation indeed to Saul, whoſe tranſgreſſion in ſparing Amelek, the prophet Samuel was then reproving; that in executing his decrees upon the idolatrous nations round about him, David would be more punctual, and not ſo remiſs as Saul had been; and, in this reſpect, would conform to the divine will, or be the man after God's own heart. This ſeems to be the primary ſenſe of the words: but, beſides, though David was a great and grievous ſinner, yet the ſincerity of his repentance cleared him in the ſight of God, and made an amends for the enormity of his tranſgreſſions.

Ver. 11. Seven years reigned he in Hebron, and thirty and three years in Jeruſalem.] In 2 Sam. v. 5. it is ſaid, that in Hebron he reigned over Judah ſeven years and ſix months, and in Jeruſalem he reigned thirty and three years, over all Iſrael and Judah; which, together, make his reign forty years and ſix months; to reconcile this difference, we muſt take notice, that it is uſual, in ſcripture computation, to omit ſmaller ſums, and only reckon by a round number; for which reaſons, theſe ſix months, which were but part of a year, are not taken notice of, either here, or in 1 Chron. xxix. 27.

Before Chriſt 1014.

20 Then ſhe ſaid, I deſire one ſmall petition of thee, I pray thee ſay me not nay. And the king ſaid unto her, Aſk on, my mother, for I will not ſay thee nay.

21 And ſhe ſaid, Let Abiſhag the Shunammite be given to Adonijah thy brother to wife.

22 And king Solomon anſwered and ſaid unto his mother, And why doſt thou aſk Abiſhag the Shunammite for Adonijah? aſk for him the kingdom alſo; (for he is mine elder brother) even for him, and for Abiathar the prieſt, and for Joab the ſon of Zeruiah.

23 Then king Solomon ſware by the LORD, ſaying, God do ſo to me, and more, alſo if Adonijah have not ſpoken this word againſt his own life.

24 Now therefore, as the LORD liveth, which hath eſtabliſhed me, and ſet me on the throne of David my father, and who hath made me an houſe, as he promiſed, Adonijah ſhall be put to death this day.

Before Chriſt 1014.

25 And king Solomon ſent by the hand of Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, and he fell upon him that he died.

26 ¶ And unto Abiathar the prieſt ſaid the king, Get thee to Anathoth, unto thine own fields, for thou art worthy of death: but I will not at this time put thee to death, becauſe thou bareſt the ark of the LORD GOD before David my father, and becauſe thou haſt been afflicted in all wherein my father was afflicted.

27 So Solomon thruſt out Abiathar from being prieſt unto the LORD; that he might fulfil the word of the LORD, which he ſpake concerning the houſe of Eli in Shiloh.

28 ¶ Then tidings came to Joab, (for Joab had turned after Adonijah, though he turned not after Abſalom) and Joab fled unto the tabernacle of the LORD, and caught hold on the horns of the altar.

29 And it was told king Solomon that Joab was fled unto the tabernacle of the LORD, and behold, he is by the altar: then Solomon ſent Benaiah the ſon of Jehoida, ſaying, Go fall upon him.

30 And Benaiah came to the tabernacle of the LORD, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the king, Come forth. And he ſaid, Nay, but I will die here. And Benaiah brought the king word again, ſaying, Thus ſaid Joab, and thus he anſwered me.

31 And the king ſaid unto him, Do as he hath ſaid, and fall upon him, and bury him; that thou mayeſt take away the

Ver. 22. Aſk for him the kingdom alſo.] Solomon here gently reproves his mother for aſking a favour, which, if granted, muſt prove of the moſt fatal conſequence. Adonijah, by aſking Abiſhag, David's wife, did, in fact, aſk the kingdom alſo; ſince the wives of the deceaſed monarch, could only belong to the perſon who ſucceeded to the throne.

Ver. 25. By the hand of Benaiah.] Among the Romans, the ſoldiers were the perſons who carried to priſon, to torture, or to execution; and in Dan. ii. 24. we read, that Nebuchadnezzar ſent Arioch, his chief commander, to deſtroy the wiſe men of Babylon.

Ver. 28. He turned not after Abſalom.] But what has Abſalom to do here? The Vatican copy, and moſt of the ancient verſions read Solomon; which ſeems to be the genuine reading.

32 And the LORD ſhall return his blood upon his own head, who fell upon two men more righteous and better than he, and ſlew them with the ſword, my father David not knowing thereof, to wit, Abner the ſon of Ner, captain of the hoſt of Iſrael, and Amaſa the ſon of Jether, captain of the hoſt of Judah.

33 Their blood ſhall therefore return upon the head of Joab, and upon the head of his ſeed for ever: but upon David, and upon his ſeed, and upon his houſe, and upon his throne ſhall there be peace for ever from the LORD.

34 So Benaiah the ſon of Jehoida went up, and fell upon him, and ſlew him; and he was buried in his own houſe in the wilderneſs.

35 ¶ And the king put Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada in his room over the hoſt; and Zadok the prieſt did the king put in the room of Abiathar.

36 ¶ And the king ſent and called for Shimei, and ſaid unto him, Build thee an houſe in Jeruſalem, and dwell there, and go not forth thence any whither.

37 For it ſhall be, that on the day thou goeſt out, and paſſeſt over the brook Kidron, thou ſhalt know for certain, that thou ſhalt ſurely die: thy blood ſhall be upon thine own head.

38 And Shimei ſaid unto the king, The ſaying is good; as my lord the king hath ſaid, ſo will thy ſervant do. And Shimei dwelt in Jeruſalem many days.

39 And it came to paſs at the end of three years, that two of the ſervants of 1011. Shimei ran away unto Achiſh ſon of Maachah king of Gath: and they told Shimei, ſaying, Behold, thy ſervants be in Gath.

40 And Shimei aroſe aud ſaddled his aſs, and went to Gath to Achiſh to ſeek his ſervants: and Shimei went and brought his ſervants from Gath. Before Christ 1011.

41 And it was told Solomon that Shimei had gone from Jeruſalem to Gath, and was come again.

42 And the king ſent and called for Shimei, and ſaid unto him, Did I not make thee to ſwear by the LORD, and proteſted unto thee, ſaying, Know for a certain, that on the day thou goeſt out, and walkeſt abroad any whither, that thou ſhalt ſurely die? and thou ſaidſt unto me, The word that I have heard, is good.

43 Why then haſt thou not kept the oath of the LORD, and the commandment that I have charged thee with?

44 The king ſaid moreover to Shimei, Thou knoweſt all the wickedneſs which thine heart is privy to, that thou didſt to David my father: therefore the LORD ſhall return thy wickedneſs upon thine own head;

45 And king Solomon ſhall be bleſſed, and the throne of David ſhall be eſtabliſh- before the LORD for ever.

46 So the king commanded Benaiah the ſon of Jehoida, which went out and fell upon him, that he died: and the kingdom was eſtabliſhed in the hand of Solomon.

CHAP. III.

1 Solomon marrieth Pharaohs daughter. 2 High places being in uſe, Solomon ſacrificeth at Gibeon. 5 Solomon at Gibeon, in the choice which God gave him, prefereth wiſdom.

AND Solomon made affinity with Pharaoh king of Egypt, and took Pharaohs daughter and brought her into the city of David, until he had made an end 1014.

NOTES on Chap. III.

Ver. 1. Solomon made affinity with Pharaoh king of Egypt.] It may appear ſomewhat ſtrange, that in all the hiſtory of the Jews, from Moſes to Solomon, no mention ſhould be made of the kings of Egypt; but their own hiſtorians tell us, that, during this time, they did nothing worth recording. Alexandrinus ſays, that this king's name, with whom Solomon made an affinity, was Vaphres.

end of building his own houſe, and the houſe of the LORD, and the wall of Jeruſalem round about.

2 Only the people ſacrificed in high places, becauſe there was no houſe built unto the name of the LORD, until thoſe days.

3 And Solomon loved the LORD, walking in the ſtatutes of David his father: only he ſacrificed and burnt incenſe in high places.

4 And the king went to Gibeon to ſacrifice there; for that was the great high place: a thouſand burnt-offerings did Solomon offer upon that altar.

5 ¶ In Gibeon the LORD appeared to Solomon in a dream by night: and God ſaid, Aſk what I ſhall give thee.

6 And Solomon ſaid, Thou haſt ſhewed unto thy ſervant David my father great mercy, according as he walked before thee in truth and in righteouſneſs, and in uprightneſs of heart with thee, and thou haſt kept for him this great kindneſs, that thou haſt given him a ſon to ſit on his throne, as it is this day.

7 And now, O LORD my God, thou haſt made thy ſervant king in ſtead of David my father: and I am but a little child: I know not how to go out or come in.

8 And thy ſervant is in the midſt of thy people which thou haſt choſen, a great people, that cannot be numbered nor counted for multitude.

Before Christ 1014.

9 Give therefore thy ſervant an underſtanding heart, to judge thy people, that I may diſcern between good and bad: for who is able to judge this thy ſo great a people?

10 And the ſpeech pleaſed the LORD, that Solomon had aſked this thing.

11 And God ſaid unto him, Becauſe thou haſt aſked this thing, and haſt not aſked for thyſelf long life, neither haſt aſked riches for thyſelf, nor haſt aſked the life of thine enemies, but haſt aſked for thyſelf underſtanding to diſcern judgment;

12 Behold, I have done according to thy words: lo, I have given thee a wiſe and an underſtanding heart, ſo that there was none like thee before thee, neither after thee ſhall any ariſe like unto thee.

13 And I have alſo given thee that which thou haſt not aſked, both riches, and honour: ſo that there ſhall not be any among the kings like unto thee, all thy days.

14 And if thou wilt walk in my ways, to keep my ſtatutes, and my commandments, as thy father David did walk, then I will lengthen thy days.

15 And Solomon awoke, and behold, it was a dream: and he came to Jeruſalem, and ſtood before the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and offered up burnt offerings, and offered peace-offerings, and made a feaſt to all his ſervants.

Ver. 2. Only the people ſacrificed in high places.] Theſe were the original places, where divine worſhip was performed by the ancient patriarchs, and ſeems to have been imitated both by Gentiles and Jews; ſo that the whole fault conſiſted in the place, not in the worſhip itſelf; and the ſacred hiſtorian tells us, that the reaſon why the people took this liberty was, becauſe there was no houſe built for a ſettled place of worſhip.

Ver. 4. For that was the great high place.] Becauſe the tabernacle was at Gibeon, and the great brazen altar which Moſes made; for after Shiloh was deſtroyed, it was carried to Nob, and the prieſts being there ſlain by Saul, it was from thence carried to Gibeon. 2 Chron. i. 3.

A thouſand burnt offerings.] Each of the great feſtivals laſted for ſeven days; but Solomon might ſtay much longer at Gibeon, until by the daily oblations, a thouſand burnt-offerings were conſumed.

Ver. 7. I am but a little child.] Incapable of governing ſo great a people for want of experience. This was a modeſt expreſſion in Solomon.

Ver. 12. I have given thee a wiſe, and an underſtanding heart.] Whereas others, accumulate knowledge by ſtudy and obſervation, and find the common road to wiſdom, full of difficulties; Solomon had his by inſpiration, he laid down on his bed covered with the veil of human ignorance, but awoke in the morning like an angel of God.

Before Christ 1014.

16 ¶ Then came there two women that were harlots, unto the king, and ſtood before him.

17 And the one woman ſaid, O my lord, I and this woman dwell in one houſe, and I was delivered of a child, with her in the houſe.

18 And it came to paſs the third day after that I was delivered, that this woman was delivered alſo: and we were together; there was no ſtranger with us in the houſe, ſave we two in the houſe.

19 And this womans child died in the night; becauſe ſhe overlaid it.

20 And ſhe aroſe at midnight, and took my ſon from beſide me, while thine handmaid ſlept, and laid it in her boſom, and laid her dead child in my boſom.

21 And when I roſe in the morning to give my child ſuck, behold, it was dead: but when I had conſidered it in the morning, behold, it was not my ſon, which I did bear.

22 And the other woman ſaid, Nay; but the living is my ſon, and the dead is thy ſon: and this ſaid, No; but the dead is thy ſon, and the living is my ſon. Thus they ſpake before the king.

23 Then ſaid the king, The one ſaith, This is my ſon that liveth, and thy ſon is the dead: and the other ſaith, Nay; but thy ſon is the dead, and my ſon is the living.

24 And the king ſaid, Bring me a ſword. And they brought a ſword before the king.

Before Chriſt 1014.

25 And the king ſaid, Divide the living child in two, and give half to the one, and half to the other.

26 Then ſpake the woman whoſe the living child was, unto the king, (for her bowels yearned upon her ſon) and ſhe ſaid, O my lord, give her the living child, and in no wiſe ſlay it: but the other ſaid, Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it.

27 Then the king anſwered and ſaid, Give her the living child, and in no wiſe ſlay it: ſhe is the mother thereof.

28 And all Iſrael heard of the judgment which the king had judged, and they feared the king: for they ſaw that the wiſdom of God was in him, to do judgment.

SO king Solomon was king over all Iſrael.

2 And theſe were the princes which he had, Azariah the ſon of Zadok, the prieſt:

Ver. 16. Two women that were harlots.] The Hebrew word which we render Harlot, ſignifies alſo an Hoſteſs, or one who keeps an houſe of public entertainment. Indeed one would imagine, that if they had been women of an infamous character, they durſt not have preſented themſelves before ſo juſt and wiſe a king; for public proſtitution was ſeverely forbidden by the law; and as they are ſeldom mothers of children, ſo when they are, they rather rejoice to get rid of them, than become ſolicitous for their preſervation. Some think they were unmarried perſons, and guilty of fornication.

Ver. 25 The king ſaid, divide the living child in two.] Solomon was convinced, that the only method of diſcovering the truth would be by the affection, compaſſion, and tenderneſs the real mother would naturally ſhew for her infant. There are a few inſtances in profane hiſtory, of a ſingular addreſs (though they are much inferior to this) in diſcovering ſuch ſecrets as ſeemed to be paſt finding out. Suetonius in his life of Claudian tells us, how that emperor diſcovered a woman to be the mother of a young man whom ſhe would not own for her ſon, by commanding her to be married to him; for the horror of committing inceſt, obliged her to declare the truth. Diodorus Siculus relates, how Ariopharnes, king of the Thracians, being appointed to arbitrate between three men, who all pretended to be ſons of the king of the Cimmerians, and claimed the ſucceſſion, found out the true ſon and heir, by ordering them to ſhoot, each man his arrow into the deceaſed king's body; which one refuſing to do, was deemed the true claimant.

28 Barley alſo and ſtraw for the horſes and dromedaries brought they unto the place where the officers were, every man according to his charge.

29 ¶ And God gave Solomon wiſdom and underſtanding, exceeding much, and largeneſs of heart, even as the ſand that is on the ſea-ſhore.

30 And Solomons wiſdom excelled the wiſdom of all the children of the eaſt-country, and all the wiſdom of Egypt.

2 And Solomon ſent to Hiram, ſaying,

3 Thou knoweſt how that David my father could not build an houſe unto the name of the LORD his God, for the wars which were about him on every ſide, until the LORD put them under the ſoles of his feet.

4 But now the LORD my God hath given me reſt on every ſide, ſo that there is neither adverſary, nor evil occurrent.

Ver. 25. Every man under his vine, and under his fig-tree.] This is expreſſive of great plenty of all neceſſaries of life.

Ver. 26. Forty thouſand ſtalls of horſes.] In 2. Chron. ix. 25. it is ſaid he had but four thouſand, which is thought to be the more conſiſtent account, and that in this place, a fault is crept into the original by the negligence of tranſcribers.

Ver. 30 Excelled the wiſdom of all the children of the eaſt-country.] There were three oriental nations famous for their wiſdom and erudition; the Chaldeans beyond the Euphrates, the Perſians beyond the Tigris, and the Arabians ſouth of the Euphrates.

NOTES on Chap. V.

Ver. 1. Hiram—ſent his ſervants to Solomon.] He ſent ambaſſadors to condole with king Solomon the loſs of his father, and to congratulate him on his ſucceſſion to the throne.

Before Chriſt 1014.

5 And behold, I purpoſe to build an houſe unto the name of the LORD my God, as the LORD ſpake unto David my father, ſaying, Thy ſon, whom I will ſet upon thy throne in thy room, he ſhall build an houſe unto my name.

6 Now therefore command thou, that they hew me cedar-trees out of Lebanon, and my ſervants ſhall be with thy ſervants: and unto thee will I give hire for thy ſervants, according to all that thou ſhalt appoint: for thou knoweſt that there is not among us any that can ſkill to hew timber, like unto the Sidonians.

7 ¶ And it came to paſs, when Hiram heard the words of Solomon, that he rejoiced greatly, and ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD this day, which hath given unto David a wiſe ſon over this great people.

8 And Hiram ſent to Solomon, ſaying, I have conſidered the things which thou ſenteſt to me for: and I will do all thy deſire concerning timber of cedar, and concerning timber of fir.

9 My ſervants ſhall bring them down from Lebanon unto the ſea: and I will convey them by ſea in flotes, unto the place that thou ſhalt appoint me, and will cauſe them to he diſcharged there, and thou ſhalt receive them: and thou ſhalt accompliſh my deſire, in giving food for my houſhold.

10 So Hiram gave Solomon cedar-trees, and fir-trees, according to all his deſire.

11 And Solomon gave Hiram twenty thouſand meaſures of wheat for food to his houſhold, and twenty meaſures of pure oil: thus gave Solomon to Hiram year by year.

Before Chriſt 1014.

12 And the LORD gave Solomon wiſdom, as he promiſed him: and there was peace between Hiram and Solomon, and they two made a league together.

13 ¶ And king Solomon raiſed a levy out of all Iſrael; and the levy was thirty thouſand men.

14 And he ſent them to Lebanon, ten thouſand a month by courſes: a month they were in Lebanon, and two months at home: and Adoniram was over the levy.

15 And Solomon had threeſcore and ten thouſand that bare burdens, and fourſcore thouſand hewers in the mountains:

16 Beſides the chief of Solomons officers which were over the work, three thouſand and three hundred, which ruled over the people that wrought in the work.

17 And the king commanded, and they brought great ſtones, coſtly ſtones, and hewed ſtones, to lay the foundation of the houſe.

18 And Solomons builders, and Hirams builders did hew them, and the ſtone-ſquarers: ſo they prepared timber and ſtones to build the houſe.

Ver. 6. Lebanon.] Lebanon if not all, yet a great part of it was in the dominion of Solomon. They were therefore his own trees, but he only requeſted of Hiram, that his ſervants might fell and prepare them; which they underſtood better than the Iſraelites.

Ver. 11. Twenty thouſand meaſures of wheat, &c.] Dr. Shaw obſerves, that the holy land is ſtill, in general, very fruitful, and, were it well ſtocked with inhabitants, would ſtill be capable of affording the like ſupplies of corn and oil.

Ver. 15. Fourſcore thouſand hewers.] That is, hewers of ſtone; Hiram's ſervants hewing the timber. The reaſon why ſuch a number of workmen were required, was, becauſe there was many other works, which Solomon finiſhed, beſides the temple; (chap. ix. 15.) the materials of which were prepared here.

Ver. 18. The ſtone ſquarers.] The Hebrew word is GIBLIM, or the Giblites, who are mentioned, Joſhua xiii. 5. being Phœnicians, inhabitants of Gabala, (a promontory mentioned by Pliny) and who were the moſt excellent artiſts in thoſe parts. The country is now called Gibyle. The Septuagint call it Bybli or Byblus.

Before Chriſt 1012. AND it came to paſs in the four hundred and fourſcore year after the children of Iſrael were come out of the land of Egypt, in the fourth year of Solomons reign over Iſrael, in the month Zif, which is the ſecond month, that he began to build the houſe of the LORD.

2 And the houſe which king Solomon built for the LORD, the length thereof was threeſcore cubits, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits, and the height thereof thirty cubits.

3 And the porch before the temple of the houſe, twenty cubits was the length thereof, according to the breadth of the houſe; and ten cubits was the breadth thereof, before the houſe.

4 And for the houſe he made windows of narrow lights.

5 ¶ And againſt the wall of the houſe he built chambers round about, againſt the walls of the houſe round about, both of the temple, and of the oracle: and he made chambers round about.

6 The nethermoſt chamber was five cubits broad, and the middle was ſix cubits broad, and the third was ſeven cubits broad: for without in the wall of the houſe he made narrowed reſts round about, that the beams ſhould not be faſtened in the walls of the houſe. Before Chriſt 1012.

7 And the houſe when it was in building, was built of ſtone, made ready before it was brought thither: ſo that there was neither hammer, nor ax, nor any tool of iron heard in the houſe, while it was in building.

8 The door for the middle chamber was in the right ſide of the houſe: and they went up with winding ſtairs into the middle chamber, and out of the middle into the third.

9 So he built the houſe and finiſhed it; 1005.
and covered the houſe with beams and boards of cedar.

10 And then he built chambers againſt all the houſe, five cubits high: and they reſted on the houſe with timber of cedar.

11 ¶ And the word of the LORD came to Solomon, ſaying,

12 Concerning this houſe which thou art in building, if thou wilt walk in my ſtatutes, and execute my judgments, and keep all my commandments to walk in them: then will I perform my word with thee,

NOTES on Chap. VI.

Ver. 1. In the fourth year, &c] It may be aſked, why Solomon did not begin to build the temple ſooner, his father having left him a plan, and all things neceſſary for the undertaking; but it is to be conſidered, that the materials his father provided, lay rude and unfaſhioned, and at a conſiderable diſtance; this time therefore was requiſite, to form them into the exact ſymmetry and order in which the ſcripture repreſents them; eſpecially, as the very ſtones, which made the foundation, were probably vaſt blocks of marble or porphyry, and all poliſhed in the moſt exquiſite manner; nor can four years be accounted an unreaſonable time, to gather gold and ſilver enough to defray ſo vaſt an expence.

Ver. 2. Threeſcore cubits.] The cubit was about twenty-two inches. See note on Geneſis vi. 13.

Ver. 4. Windows of narrow lights.] In the margin, it is, broad within and narrow without, by which means, the houſe was both ſecured from the weather, and yet had light ſufficient.

Ver. 5. Againſt the walls of the houſe.] Or joining to it, as in the margin, the beams being not faſtened in the walls of the houſe; (as we read in the following verſe) but a wooden wall ſeems to have been built contiguous to the inner ſurface of the wall, in which the beams, ſupporting the chambers, were faſtened.

Chambers.] Here the prieſts laid up their garments, took their reſt, and eat the ſacrifices.

Ver. 6. The nethermoſt chamber was five cubits, &c.] It appears from ver. 10. that they were only five cubits, and built over one another three ſtories, increaſing one cubit in breadth every ſtory, by the following contrivance; the wall of the temple was not of the ſame thickneſs at the top, as near the foundation, but narrowed in a gradual manner; and by that means, rendered the chambers larger.

Ver. 7. There was neither hammer nor ax, &c.] Since the ſtones were all before prepared, to fit their reſpective ſituations, nothing was wanting but to fix them in their places; which, as it needed none of theſe inſtruments, was done without noiſe, difficulty, or confuſion.

Ver. 8. In the right ſide.] In the ſouth-ſide. In the Hebrew, the ſouth-ſide is termed the right-ſide; becauſe, when men look toward the eaſt, the ſouth is on their right hand.

Before Christ 1005.

thee, which I ſpake unto David thy father.

13 And I will dwell among the children of Iſrael, and will not forſake my people Iſrael.

14 So Solomon built the houſe, and finiſhed it.

15 And he built the walls of the houſe within with boards of cedar, both the floor of the houſe, and the walls of the cieling: and he coverd them on the inſide with wood, and covered the floor of the houſe with planks of fir.

16 And he built twenty cubits on the ſides of the houſe, both the floor, and the walls with boards of cedar: he even built them for it within, even for the oracle, even for the moſt holy place.

17 And the houſe, that is, the temple before it, was forty cubits long.

18 And the cedar of the houſe within was carved with knops, and open flowers: all was cedar, there was no ſtone ſeen.

19 And the oracle he prepared in the houſe within, to ſet there the ark of the covenant of the Lord.

20 And the oracle in the forepart was twenty cubits in length, and twenty cubits in breadth, and twenty cubits in the height thereof: and he overlaid it with pure gold, and ſo covered the altar which was of cedar.

21 So Solomon overlaid the houſe within with pure gold: and he made a partition, by the chains of gold before the oracle, and he overlaid it with gold.

Before Christ 1005.

22 And the whole houſe he overlaid with gold, until he had finiſhed all the houſe: alſo the whole altar that was by the oracle he overlaid with gold.

23 ¶ And within the oracle he made two cherubims of olive-tree, each ten cubits high.

24 And five cubits was the one wing of the cherub, and five cubits the other wing of the cherub: from the uttermoſt part of the one wing unto the uttermoſt part of the other, were ten cubits.

25 And the other cherub was ten cubits: both the cherubims were of one meaſure, and one ſize.

26 The height of the one cherub was ten cubits, and ſo was it of the other cherub.

27 And he ſet the cherubims within the inner houſe; and they ſtretched forth the wings of the cherubims, ſo that the wing of the one touched the one wall, and the wing of the other cherub touched the other wall: and their wings touched one another in the midſt of the houſe.

28 And he overlaid the cherubims with gold.

29 And he carved all the walls of the houſe round about with carved figures of cherubims,

---

Ver. 16. On the ſides of the houſe.] The houſe here meant, is the moſt holy place; for he had ſpoken of the other part of the houſe, called the ſanctuary, in the foregoing words.

Ver. 20. The oracle in the fore-part.] The moſt holy place was twenty cubits every way; it ſeems to be called the fore-part, becauſe it was before any one that entered into the houſe.

The altar.] Of incenſe.

Ver. 21. He made a partition by the chains of gold.] The moſt holy place was ſeparated from the ſanctuary by a partition, before which there was a vail alſo, which hung upon golden chains; thus, this paſſage is to be underſtood; for the partition itſelf did not depend upon chains.

Ver. 22. The whole houſe.] This is meant of the ſanctuary, which was overlaid with gold, as well as the oracle.

Ver. 28. He overlaid the cherubims with gold.] There is a difference between theſe cherubims, and thoſe made by Moſes; thoſe were made of ſolid gold, and theſe of olive wood (Hebrew tree of oil; and there were ſuch ſorts of wood beſides the olive, as the pine, and cedar) and overlaid with gold: thoſe made by Moſes were part of the mercy-ſeat, and inſeparable from it: theſe of Solomon ſeem to have been larger, and to ſpread their wings over it, being added only for the greater ornament and glory of God's houſe. It has been obſerved, that Solomon did not make a new ark, which was the only thing made by Moſes, which Solomon did not imitate, and make more glorious: this he durſt not preſume to open, and take out the book of the law; it was unlawful for him to touch it, and therefore he let it remain, with its cover, the mercy-ſeat, and the cherubims belonging to it; and only placed theſe new cherubims over it, as a covering to it, and for the greater beauty of the houſe.

Before Christ 1005. cherubims, and palm-trees, and open flowers within and without.

30 And the floor of the houſe he overlaid with gold, within and without.

31 ¶ And for the entering of the oracle he made doors of olive-tree: the lintel and ſide-poſts were a fifth part of the wall.

32 The two doors alſo were of olive-trees; and he carved upon them carvings of cherubims, and palm-trees, and open flowers, and overlaid them with gold, and ſpread gold upon the cherubims, and upon the palm-trees.

33 So alſo made he for the door of the temple, poſts of olive-tree a fourth part of the wall.

34 And the two doors were of fir-tree: the two leaves of the one door were folding, and the two leaves of the other door were folding.

35 And he carved thereon cherubims, and palm-trees, and open flowers: and covered them with gold, fitted upon the carved work.

Before Christ 1005. 36 ¶ And he built the inner court with three rows of hewed ſtone, and a row of cedar-beams.

37 ¶ In the fourth year was the foundation of the houſe of the LORD laid, in the month Zif.

38 And in the eleventh year, in the month Bul, (which is the eighth month) was the houſe finiſhed throughout all the parts thereof, and according to all the faſhion of it: So was he ſeven years in building it.

CHAP. VII.

1 The building of Solomons houſe, 2 of the houſe of Lebanon, 6 of the porch of pillars, 7 of the porch of judgment, 8 of the houſe for Pharaohs daughter.

BUT Solomon was building his own houſe thirteen years, and he finiſhed all his houſe.

2 ¶ He built alſo the houſe of the foreſt of Lebanon; the length thereof was a hundred cubits, and the breadth thereof fifty cubits, and the height thereof thirty cubits,

Ver. 31. The lintel and ſide poſts were a fifth part of the wall.] Theſe words are very obſcure, for the words of the wall are not in the Hebrew, but only a fifth; which may be underſtood to ſignify, that they held the proportion of a fifth part to the doors; but there are thoſe who take the meaning to be, that this gate was the fifth in number belonging to the houſe; the firſt was that which let into the court of the people; the ſecond into the court of the prieſts; the third was the door of the porch; the fourth of the holy place; and this fifth of the oracle.

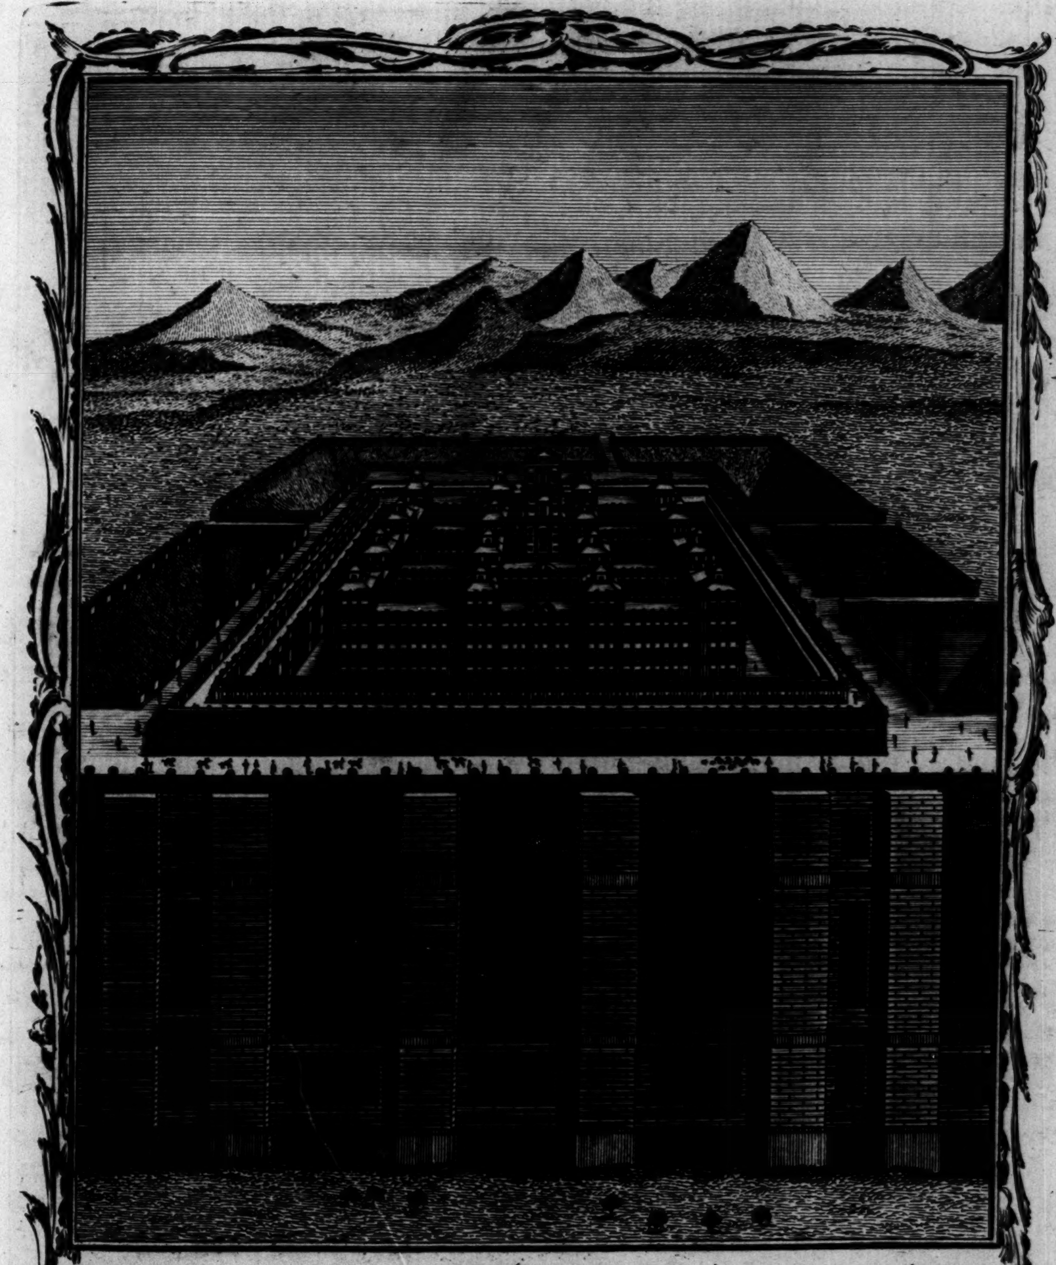
Ver. 38. Was the houſe finiſhed, &c.] The glory of this temple did not conſiſt in the bulk or largeneſs of it (for in itſelf it was but a ſmall pile of building, no more than 150 feet in length, in breadth 105, taking the whole from out to out) but its principal grandeur and excellency lay in its out-buildings and ornaments, in its workmanſhip, which was every way curious, and its overlayings, which were vaſt and prodigious; for the overlaying of the holy of holies only, which was a room but 30 feet ſquare, and 20 high, amounted to 600 talents of gold, which comes to four millions, three hundred and twenty thouſand pounds of our ſterling money. The whole frame, ſays the Jewiſh hiſtorian, was raiſed upon ſtones, poliſhed to the higheſt degree of perfection, and ſo artificially put together, that there was no joint to be diſcerned, no ſign of any working-tools being upon them, but the whole looked more like the work of providence and nature, than the product of art and human invention; and as for the inſide, whatever carving, gilding, embroidery, rich ſilks, and fine linnen could do, of theſe there was the greateſt profuſion. The very floor of the temple was overlaid with beaten gold, the doors were large, and proportioned to the height of the walls, twenty cubits broad, and ſtill gold upon gold. In a word, it was gold all over; and nothing was wanting either within or without, that might contribute to the glory and magnificence of the work.

So was he ſeven years in building it.] Though the temple itſelf was but a ſmall edifice, yet the ſeveral adjoining offices rendered the whole a vaſt pile of building; and therefore Solomon made quick diſpatch. The Temple of Diana at Epheſus, is ſaid to have employed all Aſia two hundred years; and Pliny affirms, that one of the Egyptian Pyramids, employed three hundred and ſixty thouſand men for the ſpace of twenty years.

NOTES on Chap. VII.

Ver. 1. Thirteen years.] From chap ix. 10. where it is ſaid, he was twenty years in finiſhing both theſe ſtructures: it appears, he did not begin to build his own houſe, till he had finiſhed the temple.

Ver. 2. The houſe of the foreſt of Lebanon.] It was ſituated near Jeruſalem, but being in a lofty place like Lebanon, it was called by this name. The trees, which grew around it, made it cool and ſhady, and conſequently proper for Solomon's reſidence during the ſummer, as his palace at Jeruſalem was in the winter.



And in the eleventh year, in the month Bul, which is the eight month, was the House finished throughout all the parts thereof, & according to all the fashion of it: so was he seven years in building it. I Kings Chap. VI. ver. 38.

cubits, upon four rows of cedar-pillars, with cedar-beams upon the pillars.

3 And it was covered with cedar above upon the beams, that lay on forty five pillars, fifteen in a row.

4 And there were windows in three rows, and light was againſt light in three ranks.

5 And all the doors and poſts were ſquare, with the windows: and light was againſt light in three ranks.

6 ¶ And he made a porch of pillars; the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth thereof thirty cubits: and the porch was before them: and the other pillars and the thick beam were before them.

7 ¶ Then he made a porch for the throne where he might judge, even the porch of judgment: and it was covered with cedar from one ſide of the floor to the other.

8 ¶ And his houſe where he dwelt, had another court within the porch, which was of the like work. Solomon made alſo an houſe for Pharoahs daughter, (whom he had taken to wife) like unto this porch.

9 All theſe were of coſtly ſtones, according to the meaſures of hewed ſtones, ſawed with ſaws, within and without, even from the foundation unto the coping, and ſo on the outſide toward the great court.

10 And the foundation was of coſtly ſtones, even great ſtones; ſtones of ten cubits, and ſtones of eight cubits.

11 And above were coſtly ſtones (after the meaſures of hewed ſtones,) and cedars.

12 And the great court round about, was with three rows of hewed ſtones, and a row of cedar-beams, both for the inner court of the houſe of the LORD, and for the porch of the houſe.

13 ¶ And king Solomon ſent and fet Hiram out of Tyre.

14 He was a widows ſon of the tribe of Naphtali, and his father was a man of Tyre, a worker in braſs: and he was filled with wiſdom and underſtanding, and cunning to work all works in braſs; and he came to king Solomon, and wrought all his work.

15 For he caſt two pillars of braſs, of eighteen cubits high apiece: and a line of twelve cubits did compaſs either of them about.

16 And he made two chapiters of molten braſs, to ſet upon the tops of the pillars: the height of the one chapiter was five cubits, and the height of the other chapiter was five cubits:

17 And nets of checker-work, and wreaths of chain-work, for the chapiters which were upon the top of the pillars: ſeven for the one chapiter, and ſeven for the other chapiter.

18 And he made the pillars, and two rows round about upon the one net-work, to cover the chapiters that were upon the top, with pomegranates: and ſo did he for the other chapiter.

19 And the chapiters that were upon the top of the pillars, were of lily-work in the porch, four cubits.

20 And the chapiters upon the two pillars had pomegranates alſo above, over againſt the belly which was by the net-work: and the pomegranates were two hundred, in rows round about upon the other chapiter.

Ver. 15. Eighteen cubits high.] It is ſaid, in Chronicles, that theſe pillars were thirty-five cubits high; but this relates to the height of both of them together, without their pedeſtals; whereas the height of each is given here, with its pedeſtal.

Before Chriſt 1005.

21 And he ſet up the pillars in the porch of the temple: and he ſet up the right pillar, and called the name thereof Jachin: and he ſet up the left pillar, and called the name thereof Boaz.

22 And upon the top of the pillars was lily-work: ſo was the work of the pillars finiſhed.

23 And he made a molten ſea, ten cubits from the one brim to the other: it was round all about, and his height was five cubits: and a line of thirty cubits did compaſs it round about.

24 And under the brim of it round about there were knops compaſſing it, ten in a cubit, compaſſing the ſea round about: the knops were caſt in two rows, when it was caſt.

25 It ſtood upon twelve oxen, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the weſt, and three looking toward the ſouth, and three looking toward the eaſt: and the ſea was ſet above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

26 And it was an hand breadth thick, and the brim thereof was wrought like the brim of a cup, with flowers of lilies: it contained two thouſand baths.

27 ¶ And he made ten baſes of braſs; four cubits was the length of one baſe, and four cubits the breadth thereof, and three cubits the height of it.

28 And the work of the baſes was on this manner: They had borders, and the borders were between the ledges:

29 And on the borders that were between the ledges were lions, oxen and cherubims: and upon the ledges there was a baſe above: and beneath the lions and oxen were certain additions made of thin work.

Before Chriſt 1005.

30 And every baſe had four brazen wheels, and plates of braſs: and the four corners thereof had underſetters: under the laver were underſetters molten, at the ſide of every addition.

31 And the mouth of it within the chapiter and above was a cubit: but the mouth thereof was round after the work of the baſe, a cubit and an half: and alſo upon the mouth of it were gravings with their borders, four-ſquare, not round.

32 And under the borders were four wheels: and the axle-trees of the wheels were joined to the baſe, and the height of a wheel was a cubit and half a cubit.

33 And the work of the wheels was like the work of a chariot-wheel: their axle-trees, and their naves, and their felloes, and their ſpokes were all molten.

34 And there were four underſetters to the four corners of one baſe: and the underſetters were of the very baſe itſelf.

35 And in the top of the baſe was there a round compaſs of half a cubit high: and on the top of the baſe, the ledges thereof, and the borders thereof, were of the ſame.

36 For on the plates of the ledges thereof, and on the borders thereof, he graved cherubims, lions, and palm-trees, according to the proportion of every one, and additions round about.

37 After this manner he made the ten baſes: all of them had one caſting, one meaſure, and one ſize.

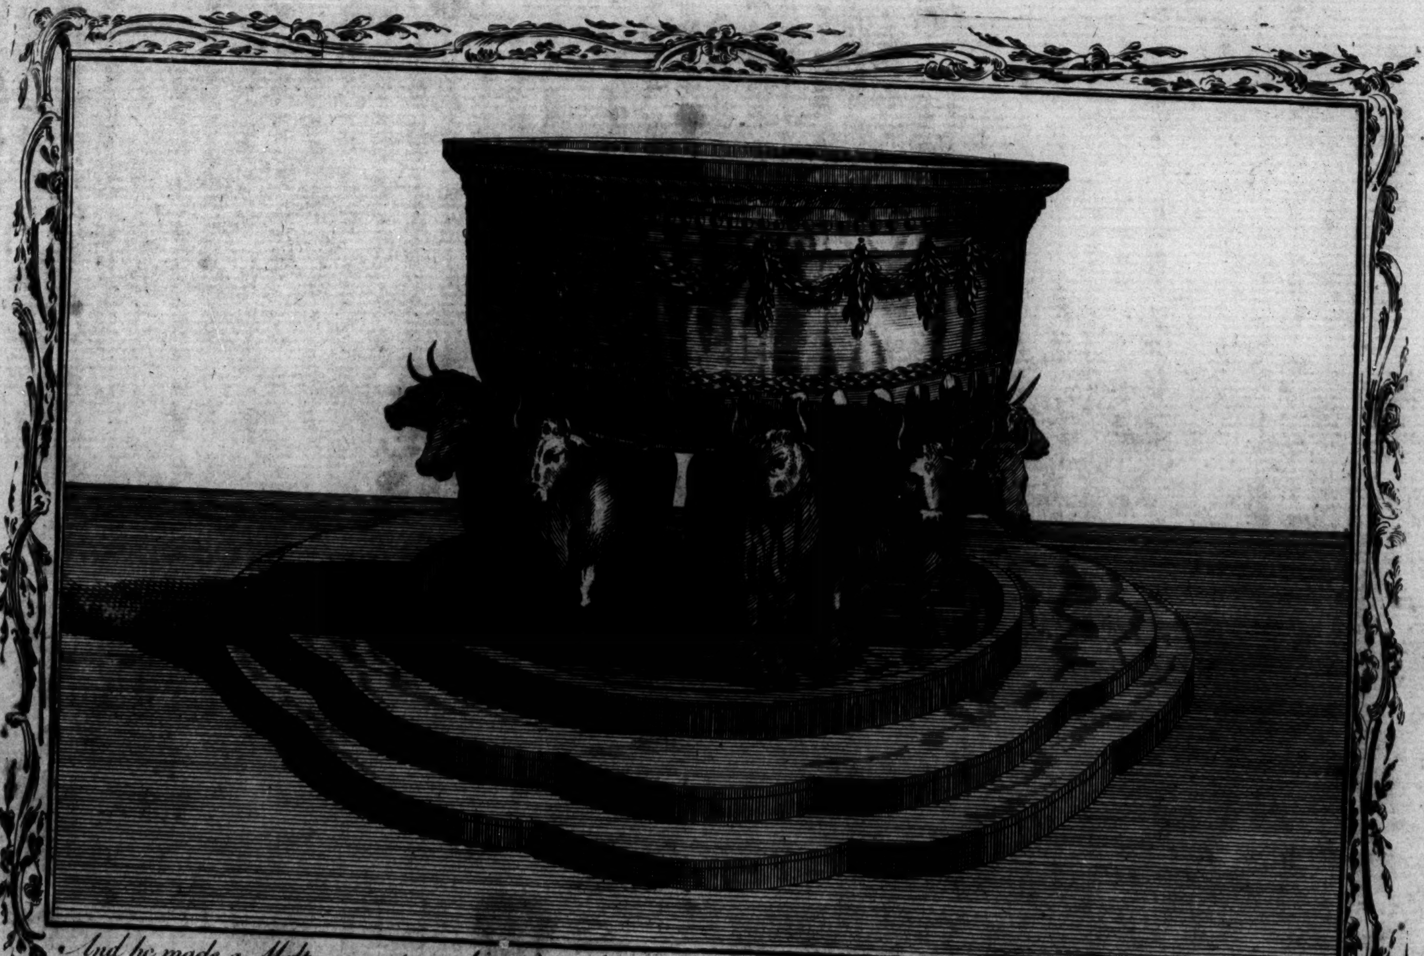
38 ¶ Then made he ten lavers of braſs: one laver contained forty baths: and every laver was four cubits: and upon every one of the ten baſes, one laver.

39 And

Ver. 21. He ſet up the pillars in the porch of the temple.] It is generally thought, that as theſe pillars ſupported no building, they were erected for ornament only; but Abarbinel is of opinion, that Solomon placed them here as ſymbols of the pillar of the cloud, and of fire, that conducted the Iſraelites through the wilderneſs; Jachin repreſenting the pillar of the cloud, and Boaz the pillar of fire.

Ver. 26. Two thouſand baths.] A bath was the ſame with the ephah, and contained eight gallons; ſo that this molten ſea held five hundred barrels.



And he made a Molten sea, ten cubits from the one brim to the other: it was round all about, and his height was five cubits: and a line of thirty cubits did compaſs it round about. — I. Kings Chap: VII, Ve. 23. —

Before Chriſt 1005.

39 And he put five baſes on the right ſide of the houſe, and five on the left ſide of the houſe: and he ſet the ſea on the right ſide of the houſe eaſtward over againſt the ſouth.

40 ¶ And Hiram made the lavers and the ſhovels, and the baſons: ſo Hiram made an end of doing all the work that he made king Solomon for the houſe of the LORD.

41 The two pillars, and the two bowls of the chapiters that were on the top of the two pillars: and the two net-works, to cover the two bowls of the chapiters which were upon the top of the pillars:

42 And four hundred pomegranates for the two net-works, even two rows of pomegranates for one net-work, to cover the two bowls of the chapiters that were upon the pillars:

43 And the ten baſes, and ten lavers on the baſes:

44 And one ſea, and twelve oxen under the ſea:

45 And the pots, and the ſhovels, and the baſons: and all theſe veſſels which Hiram made to king Solomon, for the houſe of the LORD, were of bright braſs.

46 In the plain of Jordan did the king caſt them in the clay-ground, between Succoth and Zarthan.

47 And Solomon left all the veſſels unweighed, becauſe they were exceeding many: neither was the weight of the braſs found out.

48 And Solomon made all the veſſels that pertained unto the houſe of the LORD: the altar of gold, and the table of gold, whereupon the ſhew-bread was,

Before Chriſt 1005.

49 And the candleſticks of pure gold, five on the right ſide, and five on the left, before the oracle, with the flowers, and the lamps, and the tongs of gold,

50 And the bowls, and the ſnuffers, and the baſons, and the ſpoons, and the cenſers of pure gold: and the hinges of gold, both for the doors of the inner houſe, the moſt holy place, and for the doors of the houſe, to wit, of the temple.

51 So was ended all the work that king Solomon made for the houſe of the LORD: and Solomon brought in the things, which David his father had dedicated; even the ſilver, and the gold, and the veſſels did he put among the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The feaſt of the dedication of the temple. 12, 54 Solomons bleſſing. 22 Solomons prayer. 62 His ſacrifice of peace offerings.

THen Solomon aſſembled the elders of Iſrael, and all the heads of the tribes, the chief of the fathers of the children of Iſrael, unto king Solomon, in Jeruſalem, that they might bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD, out of the city of David, which is Zion. 100

2 And all the men of Iſrael aſſembled themſelves unto king Solomon, at the feaſt in the month Ethanim, which is the ſeventh month.

3 And all the elders of Iſrael came, and the prieſt took up the ark.

4 And they brought up the ark of the LORD, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and all the holy veſſels that were in

---

NOTES on Chap. VIII.

Ver. 2. In the month Ethanim.] This happened at the feaſt of tabernacles, which was appointed in commemoration of the Iſraelites dwelling in tents in the wilderneſs, and of the tabernacle, which at that time was built; and therefore was thought a very proper ſeaſon for the dedication of the temple, which was to ſucceed the tabernacle.

Ver. 4. They brought up the ark of the Lord, and the tabernacle of the congregation.] The Moſaic tabernacle is moſt probably here intended, which was now taken down, and depoſited in the treaſury, where it continued, till Jeruſalem was taken by the Chaldeans, when Jeremiah (as Joſephus informs us) was admoniſhed by God, to take it, together, with the ark, and the altar of incenſe, and hide them in ſome ſecret place, for fear of profanation; and, it is doubted, whether they have ever yet been removed.

Before Chriſt 1004.

in the tabernacle, even thoſe did the prieſts and the Levites bring up.

5 And king Solomon, and all the congregation of Iſrael, that were aſſembled unto him, were with him before the ark, ſacrificing ſheep, and oxen that could not be told nor numbered for multitude.

6 And the prieſts brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto his place, into the oracle of the houſe to the moſt holy place, even under the wings of the cherubims.

7 For the cherubims ſpread forth their two wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark, and the ſtaves thereof above.

8 And they drew out the ſtaves, that the ends of the ſtaves were ſeen out in the holy place before the oracle, and they were not ſeen without: and there they are unto this day.

9 There was nothing in the ark ſave the two tables of ſtone, which Moſes put there at Horeb, when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Iſrael, when they came out of the land of Egypt.

10 And it came to paſs when the prieſts were come out of the holy place, that the cloud filled the houſe of the LORD,

11 So that the prieſts could not ſtand to miniſter, becauſe of the cloud: for the glory of the LORD had filled the houſe of the LORD.

12 ¶ Then ſpake Solomon, The LORD ſaid that he would dwell in the thick darkneſs.

Before Chriſt 1004.

13 I have ſurely built thee an houſe to dwell in, a ſettled place for thee to abide in for ever.

14 And the king turned his face about, and bleſſed all the congregation of Iſrael: (and all the congregation of Iſrael ſtood)

15 And he ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael, which ſpake with his mouth unto David my father, and hath with his hand fulfilled it, ſaying,

16 Since the day that I brought forth my people Iſrael out of Egypt, I choſe no city out of all the tribes of Iſrael to build an houſe, that my name might be therein; but I choſe David to be over my people Iſrael.

17 And it was in the heart of David my father, to build an houſe for the name of the LORD God of Iſrael.

18 And the LORD ſaid unto David my father, Whereas it was in thine heart to build an houſe unto my name, thou didſt well that it was in thine heart:

12 Nevertheleſs, thou ſhalt not build the houſe, but thy ſon that ſhall come forth out of thy loins, he ſhall build the houſe unto my name.

20 And the LORD hath performed his word that he ſpake, and I am riſen up in the room of David my father, and ſit on the throne of Iſrael, as the LORD promiſed, and have built an houſe for the name of he LORD God of Iſrael.

Ver. 9. There was nothing in the ark ſave the two tables of ſtone.] But the author of the Hebrews ſays, (ſpeaking of the ark) Wherein was the golden pot that had the manna, and Aaron's rod that budded, as well as the tables of the covenant, Hebrews ix. 4. To reconcile which, we are to obſerve, that the prepoſition en, does not always ſignify in, but by; the interpretation then will be, that the golden pot, and the rod, were depoſited by, or beſide the ark, as it is ſaid, before the Lord, and before the teſtimony.

Ver. 10. The cloud filled the houſe of the Lord.] This cloud was dark and luminous at the ſame time; its darkneſs was awful and majeſtic; its internal part was bright and refulgent, darting its rays through its obſcurity; ſo that, according to its different poſition, it became a pillar of cloud by day, and a pillar of fire by night, to direct them in their journey, and enlighten their paths. Its appearance was conſidered as a ſymbol of the divine preſence; for the holy Pſalmiſt informs us, that he who dwelleth in light that is inacceſſible, made darkneſs his ſecret place, his pavilion round about him with dark water and thick clouds to cover him. Pſalm xviii. 11.

Ver. 12. That he would dwell in the thick darkneſs] As though he had ſaid, Be not afraid, but look upon this cloud as a token of God's preſence and protection, that he owns this for his houſe, the place of his reſidence, where he will vouchſafe to dwell.

Before Christ 1004.

21 And I have ſet there a place for the ark, wherein is the covenant of the LORD, which he made with our fathers, when he brought them out of the land of Egypt.

22 ¶ And Solomon ſtood before the altar of the LORD, in the preſence of all the congregation of Iſrael, and ſpread forth his hands toward heaven:

23 And he ſaid, LORD God of Iſrael, there is no God like thee, in heaven above, or on earth beneath, who keepeſt covenant and mercy with thy ſervants, that walk before thee with all their heart:

24 Who hath kept with thy ſervant David my father that thou promiſedſt him: thou ſpakeſt alſo with thy mouth, and hath fulfilled it with thine hand, as it is this day.

25 Therefore now, LORD God of Iſrael, keep with thy ſervant David my father that thou promiſedſt him, ſaying, There ſhall not fail thee a man in my ſight to ſit on the throne of Iſrael; ſo that thy children take heed to their way, that they walk before me as thou haſt walked before me:

26 And now, O God of Iſrael, let thy word, I pray thee, be verified, which thou ſpakeſt unto thy ſervant David my father.

27 But will God indeed dwell on the earth? behold, the heaven, and heaven of heavens cannot contain thee, how much leſs this houſe that I have builded?

28 Yet have thou reſpect unto the prayer of thy ſervant and to his ſupplication, O LORD my God, to hearken unto the cry, and to the prayer, which thy ſervant prayeth before thee to day:

Before Christ 1004.

29 That thine eyes may be open toward this houſe night and day, even toward the place of which thou haſt ſaid, My name ſhall be there: that thou mayeſt hearken unto the prayer which thy ſervant ſhall make towards this place.

30 And hearken thou to the ſupplication of thy ſervant, and of thy people Iſrael, when they ſhall pray towards this place: and hear thou in heaven thy dwelling place, and when thou heareſt, forgive.

31 ¶ If any man treſpaſs againſt his neighbour, and an oath be laid upon him to cauſe him to ſwear, and the oath come before thine altar in this houſe:

32 Then hear thou in heaven, and do, and judge thy ſervants, condemning the wicked, to bring his way upon his head, and juſtifying the righteous, to give him according to his righteouſneſs.

33 When thy people Iſrael be ſmitten down before the enemy, becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee, and ſhall turn again to thee, and confeſs thy name, and pray, and make ſupplication unto thee in this houſe:

34 Then hear thou in heaven, and forgive the ſin of thy people Iſrael, and bring them again unto the land, which thou gaveſt unto their fathers.

But from verſe 54. it is evident, that when he had ſtood ſome time with his face towards the altar, he fell on his knees, and ſpread forth his hands towards heaven.

Ver. 31. And the oath come before thine altar.] It was the cuſtom of all nations, to touch the altar when they made a ſolemn oath, calling the deity to witneſs the truth of what they ſaid, and to puniſh them if they did not ſpeak true.

36 Then hear thou in heaven, and forgive the ſin of thy ſervants, and of thy people Iſrael, that thou teach them the good way wherein they ſhould walk, and give rain upon thy land which thou haſt given to thy people for an inheritance.

37 ¶ If there be in the land famine, if there be peſtilence, blaſting, mildew, locuſt, or if there be caterpillar; if their enemy beſiege them in the land of their cities, whatſoever plague, whatsoever ſickneſs there be;

43 Hear thou in heaven thy dwelling-place, and do according to all that the ſtranger calleth to thee for: that all people of the earth may know thy name, to fear thee, as do thy people Iſrael, and that they may know that this houſe which I have builded, is called by thy name.

44 ¶ If thy people go out to battel againſt their enemy, whitherſoever thou ſhalt ſend them, and ſhall pray unto the LORD toward the city which thou haſt choſen, and toward the houſe that I have built for thy name:

45 Then hear thou in heaven their prayer and their ſupplication, and maintain their cauſe.

46 If they ſin againſt thee, (for there is no man that ſinneth not) and thou be angry with them, and deliver them to the enemy, ſo that they carry them away captives, unto the land of the enemy, far or near;

47 Yet if they ſhall bethink themſelves, in the land whither they were carried captives, and repent, and make ſupplication unto thee, in the land of them that carried them captives, ſaying, We have ſinned, and have done perverſly, we have committed wickedneſs;

Ver. 37. Mildew.] The heathens themſelves were ſenſible, that this was a puniſhment ſent from heaven. thee, and give them compaſſion before them who carried them captive, that they may have compaſſion on them:

51 For they be thy people and thine inheritance, which thou broughteſt forth out of Egypt, from the mids of the furnace of iron:

52 That thine eyes may be open unto the ſupplication of thy ſervant, and unto the ſupplication of thy people Iſrael, to hearken unto them in all that they call for unto thee.

53 For thou didſt ſeparate them from among all the people of the earth, to be thine inheritance, as thou ſpakeſt by the hand of Moſes thy ſervant, when thou broughteſt our fathers out of Egypt, O LORD GOD.

54 And it was ſo, that when Solomon had made an end of praying all this prayer and ſupplication unto the LORD, he aroſe from before the altar of the LORD, from kneeling on his knees, with his hands ſpread up to heaven.

55 And he ſtood, and bleſſed all the congregation of Iſrael, with a loud voice, ſaying, 56 Bleſſed be the LORD, that hath given reſt unto his people Iſrael, according to all that he promiſed: there hath not failed one word of all his good promiſe, which he promiſed by the hand of Moſes his ſervant.

57 The LORD our God be with us, as he was with our fathers: let him not leave us, nor forſake us:

58 That he may incline our hearts unto him, to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and his ſtatutes, and his judgments, which he commanded our fathers.

60 That all the people of the earth may know that the LORD is God, and that there is none elſe.

61 Let your heart therefore be perfect with the LORD our God, to walk in his ſtatutes, and to keep his commandments, as at this day.

62 ¶ And the king, and all Iſrael with him, offered ſacrifice before the LORD.

63 And Solomon offered a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, which he offered unto the LORD, two and twenty thouſand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thouſand ſheep: ſo the king and all the children of Iſrael, dedicated the houſe of the LORD.

64 The ſame day did the king hallow the middle of the court that was before the houſe of the LORD: for there he offered burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings: becauſe the brazen altar that was before the LORD was too little to receive the burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings.

Ver. 63. Two and twenty thouſand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thouſand ſheep.] We are not to ſuppoſe that theſe were offered all on one day, much leſs on one altar. The continuance of this meeting was for fourteen days, ſeven in the feaſt of tabernacles, and ſeven in that of the dedication; and becauſe the brazen altar before the door of the temple, was not ſufficient to receive all theſe ſacrifices, Solomon, by a ſpecial licence from God, ordered other altars to be erected in the court of the prieſts, and perhaps in other places, which were to ſerve only during this preſent ſolemnity, when ſuch a vaſt number of ſacrifices were to be offered; for, at other times, no other altar was allowed, but this brazen one, which Moſes had made. It is no bad obſervation of Joſephus, that, during the oblation of ſo many ſacrifices, the Levites took care to perfume the air with the fragrancy of incenſe and odours, to ſuch a degree, that the people were ſenſible of it at a diſtance; otherwiſe, the burning of ſo many beaſts at one time, muſt have occaſioned an offenſive ſmell.

9 And they ſhall anſwer, Becauſe they forſook the LORD their God, who brought forth their fathers out of the land of Egypt, and have taken hold upon other gods, and have worſhipped them, and ſerved them: therefore hath the LORD brought upon them all this evil.

13 And he ſaid, What cities are theſe which thou haſt given me, my brother? And he called them the land of Cabul unto this day.

14 And Hiram ſent to the king ſixſcore talents of gold.

15 ¶ And this is the reaſon of the levy which king Solomon raiſed, for to build the houſe of the LORD, and his own houſe, and Millo, and the wall of Jeruſalem, and Hazor, and Megiddo, and Gezer.

16 For Pharoah king of Egypt had gone up, and taken Gezer, and burnt it with fire, and ſlain the Canaanites that dwelt in the city, and given it for a preſent unto his daughter, Solomons wife.

21 Their children that were left after them in the land, whom the children of Iſrael alſo were not able utterly to deſtroy, upon thoſe did Solomon levy a tribute of bond-ſervice unto this day.

22 But of the children of Iſrael did Solomon make no bond-men: but they were men of war, and his ſervants, and his princes, and his captains, and rulers of his chariots, and his horſemen.

Ver. 11. Solomon gave Hiram twenty cities in the land of Galilee.] We are expreſly told, 2 Chron. viii. 2. that theſe cities were not in the territories of Iſrael, nor at that time inhabited by the Iſraelites. They were ſome of them conquered by the king of Egypt, who gave them to Solomon as a portion for his daughter; and others by Solomon himſelf; and certainly he had a right to diſpoſe of them as he pleaſed.

Ver. 12. They pleaſed him not.] Were not ſuitable to his deſire, and the genius of his people: (the Tyrians being very commodiouſly ſituated for that purpoſe, were wholly addicted to merchandiſe) for the ſoil being fat, and very deep, it required great labour to till it, and was unpleaſant to dwell in. However, the friendſhip ſubſiſting between Hiram and Solomon, was not impaired by this means; for, without doubt, he ſatisfied him ſome other way.

Ver. 13. The land of Cabul.] He called it ſo by way of contempt (as it is thought) the word ſignifying a dirty country; or, as Joſephus has it, and as it is tranſlated in the margin, diſpleaſing.

Ver. 15. Millo.] Mount Moriah was divided from Sion by a valley, which was guarded on both ſides by banks and buttreſſes, works of immenſe labour and infinite expence; and theſe, as may be apprehended, were called Millo. The Chaldee paraphraſe interprets it, a bank, wall, or buttreſs; and the Hebrew word ſignifies fullneſs; whence it is infered, that this Millo was made to ſerve both as a parliament-houſe and an arſenal.

Ver. 18. Tadmor in the wilderneſs.] This city was called by the Greeks Palmyra; it ſtood in the wilderneſs of Syria, upon the borders of Arabia Deſerta, inclining towards the Euphrates. Joſephus places it two days journey from upper Syria, one from the Euphrates, and ſix from Babylon. The ruins of this city, which ſtill remain, demonſtrate, that it was one of the moſt magnificent in the eaſt; and, it is ſomething ſurpriſing, that hiſtory ſhould give us no account, either when, or by whom it was reduced to that deplorable condition in which it lies at this day; for it is a melancholy ſpectacle to behold, being inhabited only by thirty or forty miſerable families, who have built poor huts of mud within a ſpacious court, which once encloſed a magnificent temple. It is thought Solomon built a city in this place, becauſe, in all the country round about, there was no ſuch thing as a well or fountain to be found, but in this ſpot only. The reader will find an account of the ſtate of this ruinated city, in the philoſophical tranſactions for October 1695; or in Wells's geography of the Old Teſtament, vol. 3. Meſſrs. Dawkins and Wood, have lately publiſhed the ruins of Palmyra, in a manner well worth the obſervation of the curious.

NOTES on Chap. X.

Ver. 1. The queen of Sheba.] She is ſuppoſed to come from Aljemin, which lay on the borders of the Red-ſea, in the ſouthern part of Arabia Felix. Hence our Saviour calls her the queen of the South; and this ſeems more probable, becauſe it abounded in precious ſtones, ſpices, and gold, the preſents ſhe brought to Solomon. This place likewiſe agrees with what our Saviour ſays, that ſhe came from the ends of the earth: as there is no land beyond the Sabæans in Arabia, their country being bounded by the Indian ocean, the Perſian Gulph, and the Red-ſea. The Chriſtians of Abyſſinia, however, are confident, that the queen of Sheba came from their country; where it was a conſtant tradition, that ſhe had a ſon by Solomon, and from him their kings are deſcended.

Ver. 5. There was no more ſpirit in her.] She was ſtruck with wonder and amazement.

10 And ſhe gave the king an hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of ſpices very great ſtore, and precious ſtones: there came no more ſuch abundance of ſpices, as theſe, which the queen of Sheba gave to king Solomon.

11 And the navy alſo of Hiram that brought gold from Ophir, brought in from Ophir great plenty of almug-trees, and precious ſtones.

12 And the king made of the almug-trees, pillars for the houſe of the LORD, and for the kings houſe, harps alſo and pſalteries for ſingers: there came no ſuch almug-trees, nor were ſeen unto this day.

13 And king Solomon gave unto the queen of Sheba all her deſire whatſoever ſhe aſked, beſides that which Solomon gave her of his royal bounty: ſo ſhe turned and went to her own country, ſhe and her ſervants.

14 ¶ Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year, was ſix hundred threeſcore and ſix talents of gold,

16 ¶ And king Solomon made two hundred targets of beaten gold: ſix hundred ſhekels of gold went to one target.

17 And he made three hundred ſhields of beaten gold; three pound of gold went to one ſhield: and the king put them in the houſe of the foreſt of Lebanon.

18 ¶ Moreover, the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with the beſt gold.

19 The throne had ſix ſteps, and the top of the throne was round behind: and there were ſtays on either ſide on the place of the ſeat, and two lions ſtood beſide the ſtays.

20 And twelve lions ſtood there on the one ſide and on the other upon the ſix ſteps: there was not the like made in any kingdom.

21 ¶ And all king Solomons drinking-veſſels were of gold, and all the veſſels of the houſe of the foreſt of Lebanon were of pure gold, none were of ſilver; it was nothing accounted of in the days of Solomon.

Ver. 10. Spices very great ſtore, and precious ſtones.] The country of the Sabæans was famous for myrrh, frankincenſe, and cinnamon, and (as Joſephus adds) for balſam. Their very fires were made of caſſia and cinnamon. Precious ſtones, were alſo ſo common in this country, that they adorned their cups, beds, ſtools, &c. with them.

Ver. 11. Almug-trees.] Dr. Shaw ſays, we may take it for the cypreſs, which Diodorus Siculus and Bochart acquaint us, was equally known and flouriſhing in thoſe parts. This wood is of the cloſeſt grain, and conſequently fitteſt for making harps and pſalteries. This is the uſe which is ſtill made of it in Italy, where it is preferred to all others, for violins, harpſicords, and other ſtringed inſtruments. In 2 Chron. ix. 10. by a tranſpoſition of the letters, the word is wrote algum-trees; but it is as uncertain, which is the right reading, as what the particular ſort of wood meant by it, is.

Ver. 16. Two hundred targets of beaten gold.] Theſe ſeem to have been made for ſtate and pomp, to be carried before him on ſpecial occaſions.

Ver. 18. A great throne of ivory.] We never read of ivory till about Solomon's days, who perhaps brought elephants out of India, or, at leaſt, imported great quantities of ivory from thence; for, in after ages, we read of ivory beds, palaces, &c. At this time, however, it was precious as gold.

Overlaid it with the beſt gold.] Not entirely covered with gold, but ſtudded in particular places; that ſo the mixture of gold and ivory, which gave a luſtre to each other, might make the throne appear more beautiful.

Ver. 20. There was not the like made in any kingdom.] That is, not in the days of Solomon; but in after ages, we read, that the throne of the Parthian kings was of gold, encompaſſed with four golden pillars, beſet with precious ſtones; and that the kings of Perſia ſat in judgment under a golden vine, (and other trees of gold) whoſe bunches of grapes were made of various ſorts of precious ſtones.

Ver. 22. A navy of Tharſhiſh.] In this fleet, Solomon trafficked for gold, &c. as well as in that which went to Ophir; and it was fitted out at Hiram's port of Tyre, Solomon trading in it to Tharſhiſh.

Before Christ 992. in three years came the navy of Tharſhiſh, bringing gold and ſilver, ivory, and apes, and peacocks.*

23 So king Solomon exceeded all the kings of the earth, for riches and for wiſdom.

24 ¶ And all the earth ſought to Solomon, to hear his wiſdom, which God had put in his heart.

25 And they brought every man his preſent, veſſels of ſilver, and veſſels of gold, and garments, and armour, and ſpices, horſes, and mules, a rate year by year.

26 ¶ And ſolomon gathered together chariots, and horſemen and he had a thouſand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thouſand horſemen: whom he beſtowed in the cities for chariots, and with the king at Jeruſalem.

27 And the king made ſilver to be in Jeruſalem as ſtones, and cedars made he to be as the ſycamore-trees, that are in the vale, for abundance.

28 ¶ And Solomon had horſes brought out of Egypt, and linen yarn: the kings merchants received the linen yarn at a price.

29 And a chariot came up and went out of Egypt for ſix hundred ſhekels of ſilver, and an horſe for an hundred and fifty: and ſo for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria, did they bring them out by their means.

Ver. 27. As the ſycamore trees.] Theſe trees were as common, both in Egypt and the Holy-land, as willows among us. The mummy cheſts, and ſacred boxes, were made of it.

Ver. 29. A chariot came up, &c.] In order to underſtand the ſenſe of this verſe, it is to be obſerved, that a toll or cuſtom was anciently paid to the kings of Egypt, for all horſes and chariots that were brought out of that kingdom, viz. ſix hundred ſhekels of ſilver for a chariot, and an hundred and fifty for an horſe. But Solomon prevailed on his father-in-law, the king of Egypt, not to demand this tribute of the Iſraelites, and to accept an annual tax inſtead of it: by this means, they were enabled to ſell the horſes and chariots they brought out of Egypt, to the Hittites and Syrians, much cheaper than they could purchaſe them in Egypt.

NOTES on Chap. XI.

Ver. 1. King Solomon loved many ſtrange women.] We have hitherto ſeen nothing in Solomon but what was truly great; but the latter actions of his life ſadly tarniſh his character; for he gave himſelf up to the love of women, who were deſcended from idolatrous nations, and not proſelyted to the Jewiſh religion. By this means, Solomon committed two ſins againſt the law; one in multiplying wives, the other, in marrying thoſe who were of ſtrange nations, Moabites, Ammonites, Hittites, Idumeans, and Sidonians, and who ſtill retained their idolatry.

Ver. 3. He had ſeven hundred wives, &c.] It is probable that he kept ſo many women, merely for ſtate and pomp, after the manner of eaſtern princes, as we are told, is the cuſtom at this day in China, where the emperor has a great multitude of wives, choſen out of the prime beauties of the country; many of whom he never ſaw. It is alſo affirmed of the Great Mogul, that he keeps about one thouſand women.

Ver. 3. His wives turned away his heart.] It is the opinion of commentators, that he did not forſake the Lord; but that theſe women prevailed with him for a public toleration of their religion; that they obtained money of him for making their idols, the ſupport of their prieſts, and expence of their ſacrifices; and that he might

Before Chriſt 984.

4 For it came to paſs when Solomon was old, that his wives turned away his heart after other gods: and his heart was not perfect with the LORD his God, as was the heart of David his father.

5 For Solomon went after Aſhtoreth the goddeſs of the Zidonians, and after Milcom the abomination of the Ammonites.

6 And Solomon did evil in the ſight of the LORD, and went not fully after the LORD, as did David his father.

7 Then did Solomon build an high place for Chemoſh, the abomination of Moab, in the hill that is before Jeruſalem; and for Molech, the abomination of the children of Ammon.

8 And likewiſe did he for all his ſtrange wives, which burnt incenſe, and ſacrificed unto their gods.

9 ¶ And the LORD was angry with Solomon, becauſe his heart was turned from the LORD God of Iſrael, which had appeared unto him twice,

10 And had commanded him concerning this thing, that he ſhould not go after other gods: but he kept not that which the LORD commanded.

11 Wherefore the LORD ſaid unto Solomon, Foraſmuch as this is done of thee, and thou haſt not kept my covenant and my ſtatutes, which I have commanded thee, I will ſurely rend the kingdom from thee, and will give it to thy ſervant.

12 Notwithſtanding in thy days I will not do it, for David thy fathers ſake: but I will rend it out of the hand of thy ſon.

13 Howbeit, I will not rend away all the kingdom: but will give one tribe to thy ſon, for David my ſervants ſake, and for Jeruſalems ſake which I have choſen.

Before Chriſt 984.

14 ¶ And the LORD ſtirred up an adverſary unto Solomon, Hadad the Edomite; he was of the kings ſeed in Edom.

15 For it came to paſs when David was in Edom, and Joab the captain of the hoſt was gone up to bury the ſlain, after he had ſmitten every male in Edom:

16 (For ſix months did Joab remain there with all Iſrael, until he had cut off every male in Edom)

17 That Hadad fled, he and certain Edomites of his fathers ſervants with him, to go into Egypt; Hadad being yet a little child.

18 And they aroſe out of Midian, and cameto Paran, and they took men with them out of Paran, and they came to Egypt, unto Pharoah king of Egypt, which gave him an houſe, and appointed him victuals, and gave him land.

19 And Hadad found great favour in the ſight of Pharoah, ſo that he gave him to wife the ſiſter of his own wife, the ſiſter of Tahpenes the queen.

20 And the ſiſter of Tahpenes bare him Genubath his ſon, whom Tahpenes weaned in Pharoahs houſe: and Genubath was in Pharoahs houſhold among the ſons of Pharaoh.

21 And when Hadad heard in Egypt that David ſlept with his fathers, and that Joab the captain of the hoſt was dead, Hadad ſaid to Pharaoh, Let me depart, that I may go to mine own country.

22 Then Pharaoh ſaid unto him, But what ſometimes be perſuaded, out of complaiſance, to go with them to their worſhip. But that his wives and concubines, ſhould ever be able to alter his notions concerning the true God, or prevail with him to believe, that their images were informed with any kind of divinity, is a thing incredible. This is implied in the expreſſions, verſe 4. His heart was not perfect with the Lord; and verſe 6. He went not fully after the Lord: ſo much was the underſtanding of this wiſe man darkened by ſenſual pleaſures.

Ver. 11. The Lord ſaid unto Solomon, &c.] He either appeared to him in a terrifying and threatening manner; or, as is more probable, ſpake to him by ſome prophet.

Ver. 14. Hadad the Edomite.] He bore an implacable hatred to Solomon ever ſince the death of David, who had attempted to deſtroy him, and every male in the country.

Before Christ 984.

what haſt thou lacked with me, that, behold, thou ſeekeſt to go to thine own country? And he anſwered, Nothing: howbeit, let me go in any wiſe.

23 ¶ And God ſtirred him up another adverſary, Rezon, the ſon of Eliadah, which fled from his lord Hadadezer king of Zobah.

24 And he gathered men unto him, and became captain over a band, when David ſlew them of Zobah: and they went to Damaſcus and dwelt therein, and reigned in Damaſcus.

25 And he was an adverſary to Iſrael all the days of Solomon, beſides the miſchief that Hadad did: and he abhorred Iſrael, and reigned over Syria.

26 ¶ And Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, an Ephrathite of Zereda, Solomons ſervant, (whoſe mothers name was Zeruah, a widow woman) even he lift up his hand againſt the king.

27 And this was the cauſe that he lift up his hand againſt the king: Solomon built Millo, and repaired the breaches of the city of David his father.

28 And the man Jeroboam was a mighty man of valour: and Solomon ſeeing the young man that he was induſtrious, he made him ruler over all the charge of the houſe of Joſeph.

29 And it came to paſs at that time when Jeroboam went out of Jeruſalem, that the prophet Ahijah the Shilonite found him in the way: and he had clad himſelf with a new garment; and they two were alone in the field.

Before Christ 980.

30 And Ahijah caught the new garment that was on him, and rent it in twelve pieces.

31 And he ſaid to Jeroboam, Take thee ten pieces: for thus ſaith the LORD, the God of Iſrael, Behold, I will rend the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, and will give ten tribes to thee:

32 (But he ſhall have one tribe for my ſervant Davids ſake, and for Jeruſalems ſake, the city which I have choſen out of all the tribes of Iſrael)

33 Becauſe that they have forſaken me, and have worſhipped Aſhtoreth the goddeſs of the Zidonians, Chemoſh the god of the Moabites, and Milcom the god of the children of Ammon, and have not walked in my ways to do that which is right in mine eyes, and to keep my ſtatutes and my judgments, as did David his father.

34 Howbeit, I will not take the whole kingdom out of his hand: but I will make him prince all the days of his life, for Davids my ſervants ſake, whom I choſe, becauſe he kept my commandments and my ſtatutes:

35 But I will take the kingdom out of his

Ver. 25. All the days of Solomon.] That is to ſay, all the days remaining of his life, after his wives publicly exerciſed their idolatry.

Ver. 27. Solomon built Millo.] Had laid very heavy taxes upon the people, to enable him to defray the expences of his great works, and of this Millo among the reſt, (chap. ix. 15.) which is ſaid to be one reaſon, why the Iſraelites revolted from his ſon Jeroboam.

Ver. 29. The prophet Abijah.] He was a native of Shiloh, and one of thoſe who wrote the annals of king Solomon's reign. See 2 Chron. ix. 29.

Ver. 30. Abijah caught the new garment, and rent it in twelve pieces.] This is the firſt ſymbolical action we meet with in any prophet; but afterwards, inſtances of this nature became frequent. Thus Jeremiah made himſelf bonds and yokes, and put them upon his neck, to ſignify the approaching captivity of Jeruſalem, Jer. xxvii. 2. Iſaiah, to denote the captivity of Egypt and Ethiopia, walked naked for three years in the ſtreets, i. e. without his upper garment, and bare foot, Iſaiah xx. 2, 3. The falſe prophet Zedekiah, made himſelf horns of iron, and ſaid to Ahab, With theſe ſhalt thou puſh the Syrians until thou haſt conſumed them, 1 Kings xxii. 11. The ſame practice continued under the goſpel, for Agabus, having bound his hands and feet with Paul's girdle, told the company, ſo ſhall the Jews at Jeruſalem bind the man that owneth this girdle, Acts xxi. 11.

Ver. 33. The goddeſs of the Zidonians.] The diſtinction of ſex among the pagan gods, could not be introduced, till the deification of mortals. It was therefore wrong, to bring into the tranſlation of the bible, a notion, which was at that time a ſtranger to paganiſm itſelf; and for which there is no foundation in the Hebrew text.

Before Chriſt 980. his ſons hand, and will give it unto thee, even ten tribes.

36 And unto his ſon will I give one tribe, that David my ſervant may have a light alway before me in Jeruſalem, the city which I have choſen me to put my name there.

37 And I will take thee, and thou ſhalt reign according to all that thy ſoul deſireth, and ſhalt be king over Iſrael.

38 And it ſhall be, if thou wilt hearken unto all that I command thee, and wilt walk in my ways, and do that is right in my ſight, to keep my ſtatutes and my commandments, as David my ſervant did; that I will be with thee, and build thee a ſure houſe, as I built for David, and will give Iſrael unto thee.

39 And I will for this afflict the ſeed of David, but not for ever.

Ver. 39. I will for this afflict the ſeed of David, but not for ever.] For, in the days of the Meſſiah, (ſays Raſi) the kingdom ſhall be reſtored to the houſe of David. Accordingly, it is obſervable, that few returned from their captivity, except the houſe of Judah, who were delivered from Babylon in a wonderful manner.

Ver. 40. Solomon ſought to kill Jeroboam.] This was a ſign of his dotage, in that he endeavoured to defeat the purpoſe of the Almighty.

Unto Shiſhak.] This was the famous Seſoſtris, mentioned by Herodotus, as moſt men think.

Ver. 41. The book of the acts of Solomon.] Aberbinel is of opinion, that the kings of Iſrael and Judah, maintained proper perſons to write the ſeveral tranſactions of their reigns.

Ver. 43. Solomon ſlept with his fathers.] Thus concludes the hiſtory of this great man, without any mention of his repentance, though he ſaw terrible puniſhments coming upon his family, which ſhould have moved him, one would think, to deſtroy the high places he had built for idolatrous worſhip, and abandon his wives, and do ſome remarkable honour to the Lord God of Iſrael; which, if he did, the divine writer has not thought fit to record it, but has left an eternal blot on his memory, that all poſterity may have a frightful example of human weakneſs, and learn thereby to watch and pray, leſt they enter into temptation. The ſon of Sirach, amidſt all the encomiums that he heaps upon him, could not forget that grievous flaw in his character, "Thou didſt bow thy loins unto "women, and by thy body thou waſt brought into ſub-"jection. Thou didſt ſtain thine honour, and pollute "thy ſeed, ſo that thou broughteſt wrath upon thy chil-"dren, and waſt grieved for thy folly, Ecclus. xlvii. 19." The fall of Solomon ſeems to be the moſt lamentable that ever happened, except that of the fallen angels, and ſhould be a warning and admonition to all men, that however they may think of doing whatever their hearts deſire, and of not with-holding their hearts from any joy, yet, in the end, they will find what experience taught Solomon at laſt, that all is vanity and vexation of ſpirit, and that there is no profit in any kind of wickedneſs under the ſun; but that to fear God, and keep his commandments, is the whole duty of man—Solomon died in the 58th year of his age, and the 40th of his reign.

NOTES on Chap. XII.

Ver. 1. Rehoboam.] Solomon, if he had any more children beſides this ſon, and two daughters, (ſee chap. iv. 11, 15.) the ſacred hiſtorian does not mention them: in the concluſion of his reign, he tells us, that his mother's name was Naamah, and that ſhe was an Ammoniteſs.

Come to Shechem to make him king.] This city, not only ſtood in the center of the kingdom of Iſrael, but in the middle of the tribe of Ephraim; and they made choice of this place, probably, as where they could ſpeak with greater freedom than at Jeruſalem; and this ſeems the more likely, by their ſending for Jeroboam to meet them there, as he would not venture to come to Jeruſalem.

heard of it, (for he was fled from the preſence of king Solomon, and Jeroboam dwelt in Egypt)

3 That they ſent and called him: and Jeroboam, and all the congregation of Iſrael came, and ſpake unto Rehoboam, ſaying,

4 Thy father made our yoke grievous: now therefore make thou the grievous ſervice of thy father, and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, lighter, and we will ſerve thee.

5 And he ſaid unto them, Depart yet for three days, then come again to me. And the people departed.

6 ¶ And king Rehoboam conſulted with the old men that ſtood before Solomon his father, while he yet lived, and ſaid, How do you adviſe, that I may anſwer this people?

7 And they ſpake unto him, ſaying, If thou wilt be a ſervant unto this people this day, and wilt ſerve them, and anſwer them, and ſpeak good words to them, then they will be thy ſervants for ever.

8 But he forſook the counſel of the old men, which they had given him, and conſulted with the young men that were grown up with him, and which ſtood before him:

9 And he ſaid unto them, What counſel give ye, that we may anſwer this people, who have ſpoken to me, ſaying, Make the yoke which thy father did put upon us lighter?

10 And the young men that were grown up with him, ſpake unto him, ſaying, Thus ſhalt thou ſpeak unto this people that ſpake unto thee, ſaying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it lighter unto us; thus ſhalt thou ſay unto them, My little finger ſhall be thicker than my fathers loins.

11 And now whereas my father did lade you with a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke: my father hath chaſtiſed you with whips, but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions.

12 ¶ So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the king had appointed, ſaying, Come to me again the third day.

13 And the king anſwered the people roughly, and forſook the old mens counſel that they gave him;

Ver. 2. Jeroboam dwelt in Egypt.] Some read, returned out of Egypt; and the context lays a good foundation for their opinion.

Ver. 4. Thy father made our yoke grievous.] The grievances here ſpoken of, were the tribute which Solomon exacted for his buildings, the expences of his family, and the maintenance of his chariots and horſes; all which were for the honour of the nation, and ought to have been borne more contentedly, by a people enjoying ſuch a large ſhare of peace and plenty, and from a prince who had ſo vaſtly enriched his ſubjects. It may be obſerved, they take no notice of his introducing of ſtrange worſhip, which ſhould have been reckoned the greateſt grievance of all.

Ver. 6. The old men that ſtood before Solomon.] Solomon, though wiſe, did not depend altogether on his own wiſdom, but had his ſage counſellors, with whom he adviſed in matters of moment.

Ver. 8. The young men that were grown up with him.] It was cuſtomary with the eaſtern kings, to have their ſons educated among other young lords of the ſame age; which, as it created a generous ſpirit of emulation, and both endeared the prince to the nobles, and the nobles to the prince, could not but tend greatly to the benefit of the public. Seſoſtris, the moſt famous prince that ever Egypt produced, is ſaid to have been educated this way. This cuſtom was uſed among the Perſians, as we learn from the life of Cyrus; and we are told of Alexander the Great, that his father Philip had him trained up, in his youth, among theſe young noblemen, who became his great captains in the conqueſt of Aſia. Therefore, Solomon's method and deſign, in the education of his ſon, was wiſe and well concerted, though it failed of ſucceſs.

Ver. 10. The young men.] Rehoboam was forty one years old when he entered upon his kingdom, and conſequently, thoſe gentlemen who were brought up with him, muſt have been about the ſame age; ſo that it is meant here, they were young in experience, but old enough, (one would think) to have adviſed better.

My little finger ſhall be thicker than my fathers loins.] As much as the loins are thicker than the little finger, ſo much ſhall the burden, which I lay upon you, exceed that impoſed on you by my father.

Ver. 11. My father chaſtiſed you with whips, but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions.] My father chaſtiſed you with whips, like beaſts of burden; but inſtead of common whips, I will make uſe of ſuch as are full of thorns, and rowels of iron, which will tear your very fleſh in pieces.

Before Chriſt 975.

14 And ſpake to them after the counſel of the young men, ſaying, My father made your yoke heavy, and I will add to your yoke; my father alſo chaſtiſed you with whips, but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions.

15 Wherefore the king hearkened not unto the people; for the cauſe was from the LORD, that he might perform his ſaying, which the LORD ſpake by Ahijah the Shilonite unto Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat.

16 ¶ So when all Iſrael ſaw that the king hearkened not unto them, the people anſwered the king, ſaying, What portion have we in David? neither have we inheritance in the ſon of Jeſſe: to your tents, O Iſrael: now ſee to thine own houſe, David. So Iſrael departed unto their tents.

17 But as for the children of Iſrael which dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them.

18 Then king Rehoboam ſent Adoram, who was over the tribute; and all Iſrael ſtoned him with ſtones that he died: therefore king Rehoboam made ſpeed to get him up to his chariot, to flee to Jeruſalem.

19 So Iſrael rebelled againſt the houſe of David unto this day.

20 And it came to paſs when all Iſrael heard that Jeroboam was come again, that they ſent and called him unto the congregation, and made him king over all Iſrael: there was none that followed the houſe of David, but the tribe of Judah only.

Before Chriſt 975.

21 ¶ And when Rehoboam was come to Jeruſalem, he aſſembled all the houſe of Judah, with the tribe of Benjamin, an hundred and fourſcore thouſand choſen men, which were warriors, to fight againſt the houſe of Iſrael, to bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon.

22 But the word of God came unto Shemaiah the man of God, ſaying,

23 Speak unto Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon king of Judah, and unto all the houſe of Judah and Benjamin, and to the remnant of the people, ſaying,

24 Thus ſaith the LORD, Ye ſhall not go up, nor fight againſt your brethren the children of Iſrael: return every man to his houſe, for this thing is from me. They hearkened therefore to the word of the LORD, and returned to depart, according to the word of the LORD.

25 ¶ Then Jeroboam built Shechem in mount Ephraim, and dwelt therein, and went out from thence, and built Penuel.

26 And Jeroboam ſaid in his heart, Now ſhall the kingdom return to the houſe of David:

27 If this people go up to do ſacrifice in the houſe of the LORD at Jeruſalem, then ſhall the heart of this people turn a-

Ver. 16. What portion have we in David?] What ingratitude is here! Sure, if ever people were obliged to their prince, the Iſraelites were to David, who freed them from their moſt cruel enemies, and cauſed every man to live happily under his vine, and under his fig-tree.

Ver. 18. Rehoboam ſent Adoram who was over the tribute.] This was the greateſt imprudence, and downright infatuation, to ſend an obnoxious man, as this was, who had the principal care of the very tribute they complained of.

To get him up to his chariot.] This is the firſt time we read of a king riding in a chariot. Saul, David, and Solomon, rode upon mules; but after the diviſion of the kingdom, chariots were uſed both by the kings of Judah and Iſrael.

Ver. 19. Iſrael rebelled againſt the houſe of David unto this day.] Thus was this great and goodly kingdom, almoſt in its infancy, ſplit into two parts, and for ever afterwards went under different denominations, viz. the the kingdom of Judah, and the kingdom of Iſrael; whereas the latter included the whole before.

Ver. 22. Shemaiah.] Shemaiah was a prophet well known in the days of Rehoboam, and is ſuppoſed to have wrote the annals of that prince: of what authority he was in Judah, we may gather from his having ſo much influence, as to prevail with the king, and 180,000 men, to lay down their arms, and return home.

Before Christ 975. gain unto their lord, even unto Rehoboam king of Judah, and they ſhall kill me, and go again to Rehoboam king of Judah.

28 Whereupon the king took counſel, and made two calves of gold, and ſaid unto them, It is too much for you to go up to Jeruſalem: behold thy gods, O Iſrael, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

29 And he ſet the one in Beth-el, and the other put he in Dan.

30 And this thing became a ſin: for the people went to worſhip before the one, even unto Dan.

31 And he made an houſe of high places, and made prieſts of the loweſt of the people, which were not of the ſons of Levi.

32 And Jeroboam ordained a feaſt in the eighth month, on the fifteenth day of the month, like unto the feaſt that is in Judah, and he offered upon the altar, (ſo did he in Beth-el) ſacrificing unto the calves that he had made: and he placed in Beth-el the prieſts of the high places which he had made. Before Christ 975.

33 So he offered upon the altar which he had made in Beth-el, the fifteenth day of the eighth month, even in the month which he had deviſed of his own heart: and ordained a feaſt unto the children of Iſrael, and he offered upon the altar, and burnt incenſe.

CHAP. XIII.

AND behold, there came a man of God out of Judah, by the word of the LORD unto Beth-el: and Jeroboam ſtood by the altar to burn incenſe.

2 And he cried againſt the altar in the word of the LORD, and ſaid, O altar, altar, thus ſaith the LORD, Behold, a child ſhall be born unto the houſe of David,

Ver. 28. Made two calves of gold.] It is difficult to conceive, how Jeroboam came to pitch upon the figure of a calf, as a ſymbol of the deity; the beſt reaſon given is, that he had lived ſometime in the land of Egypt, and finding himſelf neceſſitated to make an alteration in the eſtabliſhed religion, he thought it better to do it after the Egyptian model, that ſo, by endearing himſelf to that nation (among the people of which he had in all likelihood formed an intereſt) he might hope for their aſſiſtance. The Egyptians had two oxen which they worſhipped, Apis at Memphis, the metropolis of the upper Egypt, and Mnevis at Hierapolis, a chief city of the lower.

Behold thy gods, O Iſrael, &c.] Aaron ſpake the ſame words on a like occaſion. See Exodus xxxii. 4.

Ver. 29. Beth-el.] This, in the univerſal opinion, was a ſacred place, having been conſecrated by Jacob, when God appeared to him there more than once.

Dan.] Dan had been famous for the teraphim of Micah, to which there had been, for a long time, a great reſort. He made choice of Beth-el and Dan for places of worſhip, thinking that their reputed ſacredneſs might commute for the want of a temple.

Ver. 31. Made prieſts of the loweſt of the people, which were not of the ſons of Levi.] The words rendered, the loweſt of the people, properly ſignify, out of all the people, that is, he made all who were willing to be prieſts, let their tribe and family be what it would: indeed this ſeemed to be a caſe of neceſſity, for the Levites refuſed to act in theſe idolatrous practices, as we learn from 2 Chron. xi. 14. and therefore he expelled them his kingdom, and ſeized on their cities and lands. Thus he eaſed his people from paying tythes (there being none to demand them) and not only transferred the kingdom from the houſe of David; but likewiſe the prieſthood from the houſe of Aaron.

Ver. 32. Jeroboam ordained a feaſt in the eighth month, &c.] The Jews held their feaſt of tabernacles on the fifteenth day of the ſeventh month; ſo that this feaſt was entirely of his own appointment; his chief intention being to alienate the minds of the people from the worſhip of the true God performed at Jeruſalem.

NOTES on Chap. XIII.

Ver. 1. A man of God.] That is, a prophet.

Ver. 2. A child ſhall be born unto the houſe of David, Joſiah by name.] This is a remarkable prophecy; it fortells an action that exactly came to paſs, above three hundred and forty years afterwards, deſcribing the circumſtances of the action, and even ſpecifying the very name of the perſon concerned in it.

Before Chriſt 975.

vid, Joſiah by name, and upon thee ſhall he offer the prieſts of the high places that burn incenſe upon thee, and mens bones ſhall be burnt upon thee.

3 And he gave a ſign the ſame day, ſaying, This is the ſign which the LORD hath ſpoken; Behold, the altar ſhall be rent, and the aſhes that are upon it ſhall be poured out.

4 And it came to paſs when king Jeroboam heard the ſaying of the man of God, which had cried againſt the altar in Beth-el, that he put forth his hand from the altar, ſaying, Lay hold on him. And his hand which he put forth againſt him, dried up, ſo that he could not pull it in again to him.

5 The altar alſo was rent, and the aſhes poured out from the altar, according to the ſign which the man of God had given by the word of the LORD.

6 And the king anſwered and ſaid unto the man of God, Intreat now the face of the LORD thy God, and pray for me, that my hand may be reſtored me again. And the man of God beſought the LORD, and the kings hand was reſtored him again, and became as it was before.

7 And the king ſaid unto the man of God, Come home with me, and refreſh thyſelf, and I will give thee a reward.

8 And the man of God ſaid unto the king, If thou wilt give me half thine houſe, I will not go in with thee, neither will I eat bread, nor drink water in this place:

Before Chriſt 975.

9 For ſo it was charged me by the word of the LORD, ſaying, Eat no bread, nor drink water, nor turn again by the ſame way that thou cameſt.

10 So he went another way, and returned not by the way that he came to Beth-el.

11 ¶ Now there dwelt an old prophet in Beth-el, and his ſons came and told him all the works that the man of God had done that day in Beth-el: the words which he had ſpoken unto the king, t[illegible]m they told alſo to their father.

12 And their father ſaid unto them, What way went he? for his ſons had ſeen what way the man of God went, which came from Judah.

13 And he ſaid unto his ſons, Saddle me the aſs. So they ſaddled him the aſs, and he rode thereon,

14 And went after the man of God, and found him ſitting under an oak; and he ſaid unto him, Art thou the man of God, that cameſt from Judah? And he ſaid, I am.

15 Then he ſaid unto him, Come home with me, and eat bread.

16 And

Upon thee ſhall he offer the prieſts, &c.] Shall ſlay the prieſts of the high places, and then burn their bones, as he did the bones of thoſe which had been buried, and conſequently defile the altar.

Ver. 6. Intreat now the face of the Lord.] A moſt ſurpriſing change! He who had juſt now threatened the man of God, now deſires him to pray to that Being for aſſiſtance, whoſe worſhip he had deſtroyed; and was alſo, at the very inſtant, offering incenſe to idols.

Ver. 7. I will give thee a reward.] This ſtrange inſenſibility of the favour God had beſtowed on him, ſhews, that though his hand was reſtored, his mind remained corrupted as before.

Ver. 9. Eat no bread, nor drink water.] The reaſon of this prohibition is obvious, becauſe he was to have no familiarity with idolaters.

Nor turn again by the ſame way.] Some take this for a proverbial ſpeech; for he that doth any thing without ſucceſs, is ſaid to return by the way that he went (Iſaiah xxxvii. 29, 34.) and therefore not to return by the way that he went, is to do his buſineſs effectually. Others underſtand the expreſſion literally, and ſay, that God enjoined the prophet this, leſt Jeroboam, or any of the inhabitants of Beth-el ſhould, for his ſincere denunciations, do him ſome miſchief, and lay wait for him on the road, had he taken that way by which he came.

Ver. 11. An old prophet.] The learned are divided in their ſentiments concerning this prophet; ſome think he was a falſe prophet, and others a true; ſome think him a wicked one, who, like Balaam, would ſacrifice every thing to his intereſt; and others, that he was weak, and thought he might innocently employ an officious lie, to bring the prophet of Judah back, who was under a prohibition indeed, but ſuch an one (as he thought) related only to the houſe of Jeroboam, and thoſe of an idolatrous religion.

Before Christ 975.

16 And he ſaid, I may not return with thee, nor go in with thee: neither will I eat bread, nor drink water with thee in this place.

17 For it was ſaid to me by the word of the Lord, Thou ſhalt eat no bread, nor drink water there, nor turn again to go by the way that thou cameſt.

18 He ſaid unto him, I am a prophet alſo as thou art, and an angel ſpake unto me by the word of the Lord, ſaying, Bring him back with thee into thine houſe, that he may eat bread, and drink water. But he lied unto him.

19 So he went back with him, and did eat bread in his houſe, and drank water.

20 ¶ And it came to paſs as they ſat at the table, that the word of the Lord came unto the prophet that brought him back:

21 And he cried unto the man of God that came from Judah, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord, Foraſmuch as thou haſt diſobeyed the mouth of the Lord, and haſt not kept the commandment which the Lord thy God commanded thee,

22 But cameſt back, and haſt eaten bread, and drunk water in the place of the which the LORD did ſay to thee, Eat no bread, and drink no water; thy carcaſe ſhall not come unto the ſepulcher of thy fathers.

Before Christ 975.

23 ¶ And it came to paſs after he had eaten bread, and after he had drunk, that he ſaddled for him the aſs, to wit, for the prophet whom he had brought back.

24 And when he was gone, a lion met him by the way, and ſlew him: and his carcaſe was caſt in the way, and the aſs ſtood by it, the lion alſo ſtood by the carcaſe:

25 And behold, men paſſed by, and ſaw the carcaſe caſt in the way, and the lion ſtanding by the carcaſe: and they came and told it in the city where the old prophet dwelt.

26 And when the prophet that brought him back from the way, heard thereof, he ſaid, It is the man of God, who was diſobedient unto the word of the Lord: therefore the Lord hath delivered him unto the lion, which hath torn him, and ſlain him according to the word of the Lord, which he ſpake unto him.

27 And he ſpake to his ſons, ſaying, Saddle me the aſs. And they ſaddled him.

Ver. 20. It came to paſs as they ſat at table, that the word of the Lord, &c.] A word is here wanting in the Hebrew, which the Arabic verſion only ſupplies; and reads thus: as they ſat at table, and did eat, that the word of the Lord, &c.

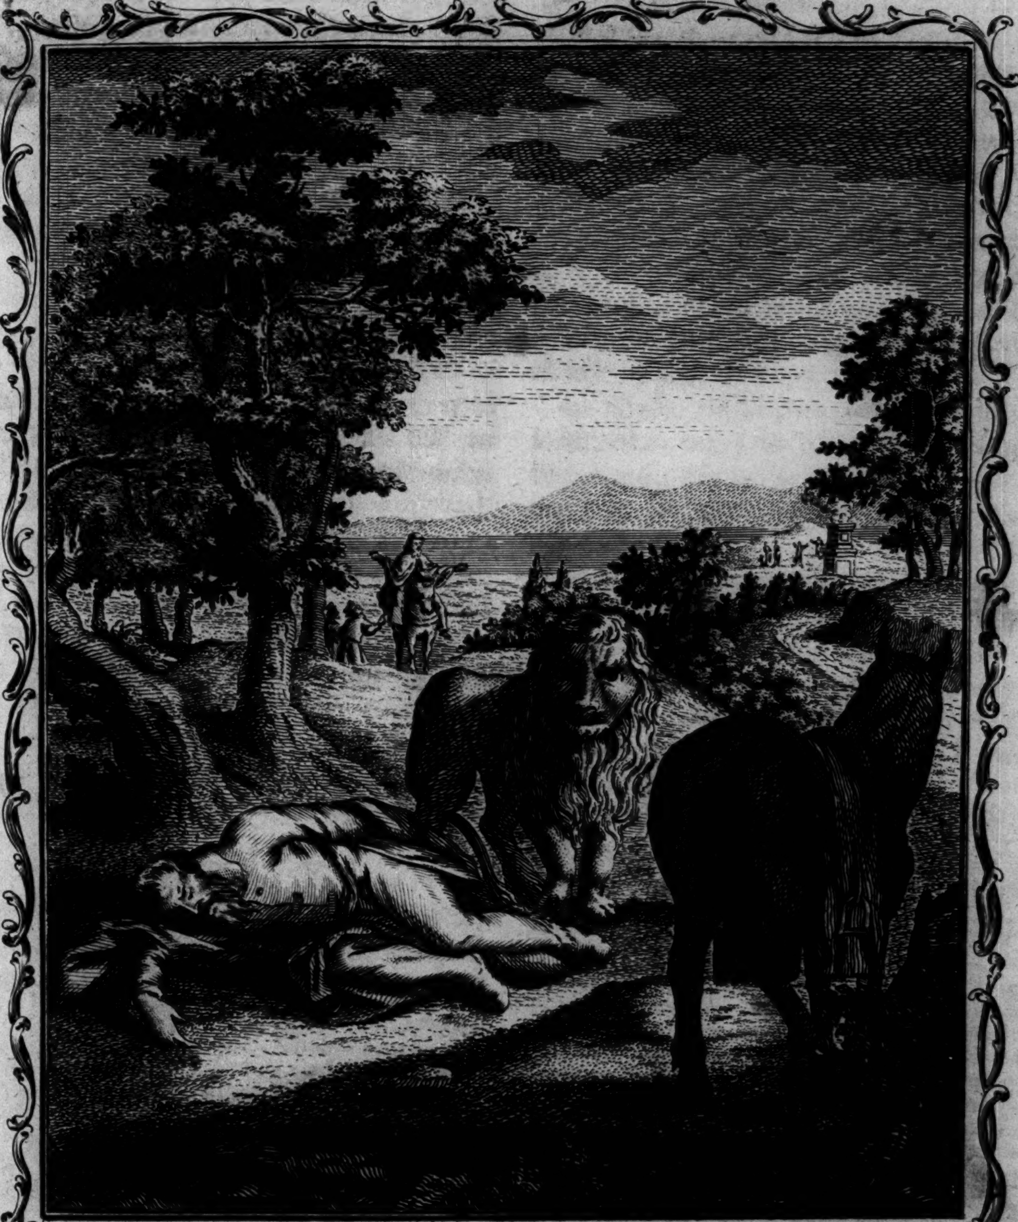
Ver. 24. A lion met him by the way and ſlew him.] Many have thought the fate of this prophet too ſevere; but they ought to conſider, that whenever God, in an extraordinary manner, communicates his will to a prophet, he always makes ſuch a ſenſible impreſſion upon his mind, that he cannot but perceive himſelf actuated by a divine ſpirit, and conſequently muſt be aſſured of the evidence of his own revelation. This evidence, the prophet that was ſent to Beth-el had, the conſideration of this circumſtance ſhould have made him diffident of what the other told him, at leaſt till he had ſhewn him ſome divine teſtimony to convince him, had he acted as he ought to have done herein; having received the command of God, he ſhould not have looked upon himſelf as diſcharged from it, by any authority inferior to that which enjoined it. God enjoined the command, but a falſe prophet, an inhabitant of a place notorious for idolatry, perſuades him to an act of diſobedience, contrary to his own inclination, and the duty he owed to a far ſuperior command. Let us not ſay then his crime was ſmall, and his puniſhment too ſevere; but let us learn from hence, to hold faſt our faith without wavering, and continue to walk ſtedfaſtly in the way which the Lord hath commanded us, neither turning aſide to the right hand, nor to the left; ever remembering that we cannot err, when we do the will of our father who is in heaven.

Ver. 28. He went and found his carcaſe caſt in the way, and the aſs and the lion ſtanding by the carcaſe, &c.] We have here a cluſter of miracles! The lion, contrary to his nature, neither eats the carcaſe, tears the aſs, meddles with the travellers that paſs by, nor hurts the old prophet, nor his aſs. All this was done, to convince the people that the man of God was not ſlain by accident, but that the lion had been directed by a ſupernatural power.



And when he was gone a Lion met him in the way, and slew him: and his Carcase was cast in the way, and the Aſs stood by it, the Lion also stood by the Carcase.

29 And the prophet took up the carcaſe of the man of God, and laid it upon the aſs, and brought it back: and the old prophet came to the city, to mourn, and to bury him.

30 And he laid his carcaſe in his own grave, and they mourned over him, ſaying, Alas, my brother.

31 And it came to paſs after he had buried him, that he ſpake to his ſons, ſaying, When I am dead, then bury me in the ſepulcher wherein the man of God is buried, lay my bones beſide his bones.

32 For the ſaying which he cried by the word of the LORD againſt the altar in Beth-el, and againſt all the houſes of the high places which are in the cities of Samaria, ſhall ſurely come to paſs.

974. 33 ¶ After this thing, Jeroboam returned not from his evil way, but made again of the loweſt of the people, prieſts of the high places: whoſoever would, he conſecrated him, and he became one of the prieſts of the high places.

34 And this thing became ſin unto the houſe of Jeroboam, even to cut it off, and to deſtroy it from off the face of the earth.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Abijah being ſick, Jeroboam ſendeth his wife diſguiſed with preſents to the prophet Ahijah at Shiloh. 5 Abijah forewarned by God, denounceth Gods judgment. 17 Abijah dieth, and is buried. 20 Nadab ſucceedeth Jeroboam.

Before Christ 974.

AT that time Abijah the ſon of Jeroboam fell ſick.

2 And Jeroboam ſaid to his wife, Ariſe, I pray thee, and diſguiſe thyſelf, that thou be not known to be the wife of Jeroboam: and get thee to Shiloh; behold, there is Ahijah the prophet, which told me that I ſhould be king over this people.

3 And take with thee ten loaves, and cracknels, and a cruſe of hony, and go to him: he ſhall tell thee what ſhall become of the child.

4 And Jeroboams wife did ſo, and aroſe, and went to Shiloh, and came to the houſe of Ahijah: but Ahijah could not ſee, for his eyes were ſet by reaſon of his age.

5 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Ahijah, Behold, the wife of Jeroboam cometh to aſk a thing of thee for her ſon, for he is ſick: thus and thus ſhalt thou ſay unto her: for it ſhall be when ſhe cometh in, that ſhe ſhall feign herſelf to be another woman.

6 And it was ſo, when Ahijah heard the ſound of her feet, as ſhe came in at the door, that he ſaid, Come in, thou wife of Jeroboam, why feigneſt thou thyſelf to

Ver. 31. Lay my bones beſide his bones.] The reaſon of this requeſt of the prophet ſeems to be, that hearing what the prophet from Judah had foretold againſt the altar of Beth-el, viz. that mens bones ſhould be burnt upon it, he was deſirous that his bones ſhould be unmoleſted; and therefore requeſted to be buried in the ſame ſepulchre; accordingly we read, 2 Kings xxiii. 16, 17. that Joſiah burnt the bones out of the ſepulchres; but when he came to the grave of the man of God from Judah, he ſaid, let him alone, let no man move his bones—ſo they let him alone, &c. And thus the Septuagint underſtood it; for they had, at the end of the verſe, That my bones may be ſafe with his bones.

Ver. 32. In the cities of Samaria.] It may be aſked, how they can be called the cities of Samaria, when it was fifty years after Jeroboam, that Samaria was built by Omri. This ſhews, that the compiler of theſe books, (whether Ezra or Jeremiah) lived long after the time of Jeroboam, and wrote of things and places, as they were in his own days, that ſo he might render himſelf intelligible. For the ſame reaſon, no doubt it is, that in 2 Kings xxiii. 18. the falſe prophet of Beth-el, is ſaid to have come from Samaria, though there was no city of that name at the time.

NOTES on Chap. XIV.

Ver. 3. Take with thee ten loaves, &c.] It was uſual for thoſe who went to enquire of a prophet, to make him a ſmall preſent, as a token of reſpect.

Ver. 6. Why feigneſt thou thyſelf to be another?] The reaſon why Jeroboam ſent his wife to conſult the prophet at Shiloh was, to keep the tranſaction an inviolable ſecret;

Before Christ 974. be another? for I am ſent to thee with heavy tidings.

7 Go, tell Jeroboam, thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Foraſmuch as I exalted thee from among the people, and made thee prince over my people Iſrael,

8 And rent the kingdom away from the houſe of David, and gave it thee; and yet thou haſt not been as my ſervant David, who kept my commandments, and who followed me with all his heart, to do that only which was right in mine eyes,

9 But haſt done evil above all that were before thee: for thou haſt gone and made thee other gods, and molten images, to provoke me to anger, and haſt caſt me behind thy back:

10 Therefore behold, I will bring evil upon the houſe of Jeroboam and will cut off from Jeroboam, him that piſſeth againſt the wall, and him that is ſhut up and left in Iſrael, and will take away the remnant of the houſe of Jeroboam, as a man taketh away dung, till it be all gone.

11 Him that dieth of Jeroboam in the city, ſhall the dogs eat: and him that dieth in the field, ſhall the fowls of the air eat: for the LORD hath ſpoken it.

12 Ariſe thou therefore, get thee to thine own houſe: and when thy feet enter into the city, the child ſhall die.

Before Christ 974. 13 And all Iſrael ſhall mourn for him, and bury him: for he only of Jeroboam ſhall come to the grave, becauſe in him there is found ſome good thing toward the LORD God of Iſrael, in the houſe of Jeroboam.

14 Moreover, the LORD ſhall raiſe him up a king over Iſrael, who ſhall cut off the houſe of Jeroboam that day: but what? even now.

15 For the LORD ſhall ſmite Iſrael, as a reed is ſhaken in the water, and he ſhall root up Iſrael out of this good land, which he gave to their fathers, and ſhall ſcatter them beyond the river, becauſe they have made their groves, provoking the LORD to anger.

16 And he ſhall give Iſrael up, becauſe of the ſins of Jeroboam, who did ſin, and who made Iſrael to ſin.

17 ¶ And Jeroboams wife aroſe, and departed, and came to Tirzah: and when ſhe came to the threſhold of the door, the child died, 18 And they buried him, and all Iſrael mourned for him, according to the word of the LORD, which he ſpake by the hand of his ſervant Ahijah the prophet.

cret; for, if it had been divulged, his whole government might have been in danger; becauſe, it is natural to think, if his ſubjects came to underſtand that he put no confidence in the golden calves he had ſet up, but on the contrary, had recourſe to the worſhippers of Jehovah, they would forſake thoſe ſenſeleſs idols, and return to the ſervice of the God of Iſrael. The queen then, was the only perſon he could truſt; and he thought it proper ſhe ſhould go diſguiſed, that the prophet might be more open in what he ſhould foretell. But how groſsly was he miſtaken! It is ſurpriſing, that he ſhould be ſo infatuated as to think, that the perſon who was capable of foretelling the fate of his ſon, ſhould not, at the ſame time, be able to ſee through this fraud and diſguiſe. The prophet does not wait for her to deliver her meſſage, but cries out, on her entering the houſe, Come in, thou wife of Jeroboam; why feigneſt thou thyſelf to be another?

Ver. 10. Will cut off from Jeroboam, him, &c.] I will cut off every male. The preſent tranſlation is ambiguous, and, as it might offend a modeſt ear, it might be better rendered by men; which, as ſeveral learned perſons have obſerved, is the true meaning.

Ver. 14. But what? even now.] But when? even now. What did I ſay? it ſhall happen even now. Kimchi, by putting no ſtop in the paſſage, reads it thus: "But what "is this which ſhall now happen, to that which ſhall "come hereafter?" That is, the preſent calamities ſhall be nothing to the future.

Ver. 15. As a reed is ſhaken in the water.] They ſhall be in perpetual commotions by civil wars, having no quiet; but be continually changing their kings.

972. 22 And Judah did evil in the ſight of the Lord, and they provoked him to jealouſy with their ſins which they had committed, above all that their fathers had done.

Ver. 20. He ſlept with his fathers.] This phraſe ſignifies only, that he died.

Ver. 24. Sodomites.] Some think this ought rather to be rendered whore-maſters.

Ver. 25. Shiſhak king of Egypt came up againſt Jeruſalem.] It may ſeem ſtrange, that Shiſhak, who was ſo nearly allied to Rehoboam, ſhould come up againſt him, and take his royal city; but Rehoboam, we muſt remember, was not the ſon of Pharaoh's daughter, and therefore no relation to Shiſhak.

Ver. 26. He even took away all.] Rehoboam ſerved God three years, was corrupted in the fourth, and in the fifth was puniſhed; ſo that all thoſe prodigious treaſures, which David and Solomon had amaſſed, were, in five years after Solomon's death, carried into Egypt; ſo true is it, that riches take to themſelves wings and flee away! and conſequently little dependance can be laid upon them.

Ver. 30. There was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all their days.] In chap. xii. 24. it is ſaid, that God commanded Rehoboam and his people, not to fight againſt the Iſraelites, and they obeyed; but though the Jews were not to make war upon the Iſraelites, they had liberty to defend themſelves if attacked; and, as they were now two rival nations, it is natural to think, that there were frequent acts of hoſtility committed on the borders, tho' they never engaged in a pitched battle.

Notes on Chap. XV.

Ver. 1. In the eighteenth year.] This ſeems to diſagree with what is ſaid, verſe 9. concerning Aſa, that he began-

Before Christ 958. 2 Three years reigned he in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Maachah, the daughter of Abiſhalom.

3 And he walked in all the ſins of his father, which he had done before him: and his heart was not perfect with the Lord his God, as the heart of David his father.

4 Nevertheleſs, for Davids ſake did the Lord his God give him a lamp in Jeruſalem, to ſet up his ſon after him, and to eſtabliſh Jeruſalem:

5 Becauſe David did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord, and turned not aſide from any thing that he commanded him all the days of his life, ſave only in the matter of Uriah the Hittite.

6 And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all the days of his life.

10 And forty and one years reigned he in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Maachah, the daughter of Abiſhalom. Before Christ 955.

11 And Aſa did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord, as did David his father.

951. 12 And he took away the ſodomites out of the land, and removed all the idols that his fathers had made.

13 And alſo Maachah his mother, even her he removed from being queen, becauſe ſhe had made an idol in a grove; and Aſa deſtroyed her idol, and burnt it by the brook Kidron.

14 But the high places were not removed: nevertheleſs, Aſa his heart was perfect with the Lord all his days.

to reign in the twentieth year of Jeroboam, and Abijam reigned three years; but it is uſual, both in ſcripture and other authors, to reckon part of a year for a whole one: Abijam began to reign in ſome part of Jeroboam's eighteenth year, and continued his reign the whole nineteenth, and died in the twentieth; thus he was reckoned to have reigned three years.

Ver. 12. The Sodomites.] The whore-maſters rather. There is no grounds for charging the Iſraelites with being ſo frequently, and ſo notoriouſly guilty of thoſe abominable practices; neither do the ancient verſions give any countenance to our calling this a Sodomite. See chap. xiv. 24.

Ver. 13. Even her he removed from being queen.] The word being is not in the Hebrew; and therefore ſome have have tranſlated it, even her he removed from the queen, to wit, from his wife, that ſhe might not be infected with her idolatry; and from the court, to prevent the dangerous influence of her bad example.

Ver. 14. The high places were not removed.] This ſeems to contradict what we read in 2 Chron. xix. 5. where we are told, that Aſa took away the high places; but we are to underſtand it, of all the high places where they ſacrificed to ſtrange gods, but not thoſe wherein God alone was worſhipped. His authority, probably, was not great enough for this, the people having been ſo long indulged in this licence, till Hezekiah aroſe, who had courage to effect a thorough reformation.

Ver. 17. Built Ramah.] This was a city in the tribe of Benjamin, which either belonged to the kingdom of Iſrael, or he had taken it from Judah, and fortified it; for that is meant by building it.

That he might not ſuffer any to go out, &c.] That he might hinder all communication between the people of Iſrael, and the people of Judah: this place being ſituated on the confines of both kingdoms.

28 Even in the third year of Aſa king of Judah, did Baaſha ſlay him, and reigned in his ſtead. 953.

11 ¶ And it came to paſs when he began to reign, as ſoon as he ſat on his throne, that he ſlew all the houſe of Baaſha: he left him not one that piſſeth againſt a wall, neither of his kinsfolks, nor of his friends.

12 Thus did Zimri deſtroy all the houſe of Baaſha, according to the word of the LORD, which he ſpake againſt Baaſha by Jehu the prophet;

13 For all the ſins of Baaſha, and the ſins of Elah his ſon, by which they ſinned, and by which they made Iſrael to ſin, in provoking the LORD God of Iſrael to anger with their vanities.

NOTES on Chap. XVI.

Ver. 1. Jehu the ſon of Hanani.] This prophet lived to the end of the reign of Jehoſhaphat, and his father was a prophet before him. Abarbinel has obſerved, there was a ſucceſſion of prophets during the kingdoms of Iſrael and Judah.

Ver. 2. Foraſmuch as I exalted thee, &c.] Though the form and manner of Baaſha's ſucceſſion to the throne, was from his own ambition and covetouſneſs, yet the tranſlation of the kingdom from Nadab to him (ſimply conſidered) was from God, who, by his decree and providence, ordered it, and diſpoſed of on all occaſions, the hearts of all the ſoldiers and people, ſo that Baaſha ſhould have an opportunity of exerciſing his judgments upon Nadab.

Ver. 10. Zimri went in and ſmote him.] Thus was his houſe, according to the word of the Lord, ſoon made like the houſe of Jeroboam: as Nadab the ſon of Jeroboam reigned only two years, ſo Elah, the ſon of Baaſha reigned no more; and as Nadab was killed with the ſword, ſo alſo was Elah. Thus was there a remarkable ſimilarity between Jeroboam and Baaſha in their lives, and in their deaths; in their ſons, and in their family.

Ver. 11. He left him not one, &c.] See note on chap. xiv. 10.

Before Chriſt 929. and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

15 ¶ In the twenty and ſeventh year of Aſa king of Judah, did Zimri reign ſeven days in Tirzah: and the people were encamped againſt Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philiſtines.

16 And the people that were encamped heard ſay, Zimri hath conſpired, and hath alſo ſlain the king: wherefore all Iſrael made Omri the captain of the hoſt, king over Iſrael that day in the camp.

17 And Omri went up from Gibbethon, and all Iſrael with him, and they beſieged Tirzah.

18 And it came to paſs when Zimri ſaw that the city was taken, that he went into the palace of the kings houſe, and burnt the kings houſe over him with fire, and died;

19 For his ſins which he ſinned in doing evil in the ſight of the LORD, in walking in the way of Jeroboam, and in his ſin which he did, to make Iſrael ſin.

20 Now the reſt of the acts of Zimri, and his treaſon that he wrought, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

21 ¶ Then were the people of Iſrael divided into two parts: half of the people followed Tibni the ſon of Ginath, to make him king; and half followed Omri.

22 But the people that followed Omri prevailed againſt the people that followed Tibni the ſon of Ginath: ſo Tibni died, and Omri reigned.

23 ¶ In the thirty and one year of Aſa king of Judah, began Omri to reign over Iſrael twelve years: ſix years reigned he in Tirzah. Before Chriſt 925.

24 And he bought the hill Samaria of Shemer, for two ſhekels of ſilver, and built on the hill, and called the name of the city which he had built, after the name of Shemer, owner of the hill Samaria.

25 ¶ But Omri wrought evil in the eyes of the LORD, and did worſe than all that were before him.

26 For he walked in all the way of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, and in his ſin wherewith he made Iſrael to ſin, to provoke the LORD God of Iſrael to anger with their vanities.

27 Now the reſt of the acts of Omri, which he did, and his might that he ſhewed, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

28 So Omri ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria, and Ahab his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

29 ¶ And in the thirty and eighth year 918. of Aſa king of Judah, began Ahab the ſon of Omri to reign over Iſrael; and Ahab the ſon of Omri reigned over Iſrael in Samaria, twenty and two years.

30 And Ahab the ſon of Omri did evil in the ſight of the LORD, above all that were before him.

31 And it came to paſs, as if it had been a light thing for him to walk in the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat; that he took to wife Jezebel the daughter of Ethbaal

Ver. 18. Zimri burnt the kings houſe over him.] Profane hiſtory, likewiſe, has preſerved the memory of ſome princes, who have choſen to die in this manner, rather than fall by the ſword; whereof Sardanapalus is one of the moſt ancient, and moſt notorious examples.

Ver. 24. Called the name of the city Samaria.] Samaria was ſituated in the midſt of the tribe of Ephraim, on a fruitful and pleaſant hill; it ſoon became the regal and capital city; nor did its king omit any thing to make it as ſtrong, as fine, and as rich as poſſible. It underwent ſeveral fates, by Benhadad king of Syria, by Salmanaſſer king of Aſſyria, and by one of the Maccabean family; by Herod the great, who rebuilt and beautified it; by Auguſtus Cæſar, and by the emperor Adrian, under whom it finally fell. It is conjectured by Bochart, (who traced the ruins of it) to have been once larger than Jeruſalem; but now, it conſiſts of nothing but a few cottages and convents, inhabited by ſome Greek monks.

Before Chriſt 918. Ethbaal king of the Zidonians, and went and ſerved Baal, and worſhipped him.

32 And he reared up an altar for Baal, in the houſe of Baal, which he had built in Samaria.

33 And Ahab made a grove; and Ahab did more to provoke the LORD God of Iſrael to anger, than all the kings of Iſrael that were before him.

34 ¶ In his days did Hiel the Beth-elite build Jericho: he laid the foundation thereof in Abiram his firſt-born, and ſet up the gates thereof in his youngeſt ſon Segub, according to the word of the LORD, which he ſpake to Joſhua the ſon of Nun.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Elijah having propheſied againſt Ahab is ſent to Cherith, where the ravens feed him: 8 He is ſent to the widow of Zarephath: 17 He raiſeth the widows ſon. 21 The woman believeth him.

910. AND Elijah the Tiſhbite, who was of the inhabitants of Gilead, ſaid unto Ahab, As the LORD God of Iſrael liveth, before whom I ſtand, there ſhall not be dew nor rain theſe years, but according to my word. Before Chriſt 910.

2 And the word of the LORD came unto him, ſaying,

3 Get thee hence, and turn thee eaſtward, and hide thyſelf by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan.

4 And it ſhall be, that thou ſhalt drink of the brook, and I have commanded the ravens to feed thee there.

5 So he went, and did according unto the word of the LORD: for he went and dwelt by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan.

6 And the ravens brought him bread and fleſh in the morning, and bread and fleſh in the evening: and he drank of the brook.

7 And it came to paſs after a while, that the brook dried up, becauſe there had been no rain in the land.

8 ¶ And

Ver. 31. Served Baal.] Baal, in the Hebrew, ſignifies Lord, and, as Selden obſerves, was anciently the name of the true God, until the world grew wicked, and began to apply it to the ſun. In after ages, it was applied to other ſtars; and, in proceſs of time, to any of their kings, whoſe memory was dear to them.

Ver. 34. He laid the foundation thereof in Abiram, &c.] He was either ignorant that Jericho was devoted to God, as the firſt-fruits of the conqueſt of Canaan, and therefore never to be rebuilt; or ſo impious, as not to regard the words of Joſhua; however, he found them too true to his coſt, for his eldeſt ſon died when he laid the firſt ſtone, and ſo the reſt, one after another, as the building advanced; and, at laſt, when it was finiſhed, his youngeſt died; ſuch are the certainty of divine threats.

NOTES on Chap. XVII.

Ver. 1. Elijah the Tiſhbite.] He is called the Tiſhbite from Thiſbe, a town on the other ſide Jordan, in the tribe of Gad, where he was born.

There ſhall not be dew nor rain theſe years.] The apoſtle acquaints us, that that it rained not by the ſpace of the three years, and ſix months, which agrees with what is ſaid in the firſt verſe of the next chapter, viz, That the word of the Lord came unto Elijah the third year. The land of Canaan had generally no rain, but twice a year; that called the early rain, in the month Niſan, which anſwers to our March; and that in the month Marcheſhvan, which anſwers to our October. At the beginning of the drought, Ahab might, very properly, impute the want of rain to natural cauſes; but when, after ſix months, neither former nor latter rain fell in their ſeaſon, he then was convinced it was preternatural, and began to be enraged at Elijah, as the cauſe of the national judgment.

Ver. 3. The brook Cherith.] It is generally agreed, that this brook was near the river Jordan, and on the weſt ſide.

Ver. 6. The ravens brought him bread and fleſh in the morning, &c.] A learned German has proved from many authors, that there was in the country of Bethſchan, in Decapolis, a little town by the brook Cherith, called Oreb, or Orbo; he therefore explains the word Orbim, which we tranſlate ravens, of the inhabitants of this little town; ſome of whom, he contends, daily carried bread and fleſh to Elijah, who was hid in a cave near this little town; and he ſupports this interpretation by the opinions of Chaldee, Arabic, and Jewiſh writers. See Memoirs of Literature, number 7. April 1710. Orbim, accolæ villæ inſinibus Arabum, Elia dederunt. Jerom iii. 19. However, it muſt not be denied, but that God is able to make the meaneſt of his creatures ſubſervient to his purpoſes; nor will the inconſiderableneſs of an inſtrument leſſen, but rather inhance the miracle. The heathens thought events of this nature not incredible; for they tell us, that Jupiter was fed in his cradle with bees; Janus, the ſon of Apollo and Evadne, by dragons; that Midas, when an infant, had corn put into his mouth, as he lay aſleep, by ants; and that Eſculapius was nouriſhed by a goat, &c.

Before Christ 910.

8 ¶ And the word of the Lord came unto him, ſaying,

9 Ariſe, get thee to Zarephath, which belongeth to Zidon, and dwell there: behold, I have commanded a widow woman there to ſuſtain thee.

10 So he aroſe, and went to Zarephath: and when he came to the gate of the city, behold, the widow woman was there gathering of ſticks: and he called to her, and ſaid, Fetch me, I pray thee, a little water in a veſſel, that I may drink.

11 And as ſhe was going to fetch it, he called to her, and ſaid, Bring me, I pray thee, a morſel of bread in thine hand.

12 And ſhe ſaid, As the Lord thy God liveth, I have not a cake, but an handful of meal in a barrel, and a little oil in a cruſe: and behold, I am gathering two ſticks, that I may go in, and dreſs it for me and my ſon, that we may eat it, and die.

13 And Elijah ſaid unto her, Fear not; go and do as thou haſt ſaid: but make me thereof a little cake firſt, and bring it unto me, and after make for thee and for thy ſon.

14 For thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, The barrel of meal ſhall not waſte, neither ſhall the cruſe of oil fail, until the day that the Lord ſendeth rain upon the earth.

15 And ſhe went, and did according to the ſaying of Elijah: and ſhe, and he, and her houſe did eat many days.

Before Christ 910.

16 And the barrel of meal waſted not, neither did the cruſe of oil fail, according to the word of the Lord, which he ſpake by Elijah.

17 ¶ And it came to paſs after theſe things, that the ſon of the woman, the miſtreſs of the houſe, fell ſick, and his ſickneſs was ſo ſore, that there was no breath left in him.

18 And ſhe ſaid unto Elijah, What have I to do with thee, O thou man of God? art thou come unto me to call my ſin to remembrance, and to ſlay my ſon?

19 And he ſaid unto her, Give me thy ſon. And he took him out of her boſom, and carried him up into a loft, where he abode, and laid him upon his own bed.

20 And he cried unto the Lord, and ſaid, O Lord my God, haſt thou alſo brought evil upon the widow, with whom I ſojourn by ſlaying her ſon?

21 And he ſtretched himſelf upon the child three times, and cried unto the Lord, and ſaid, O Lord my God, I pray thee, let this childs ſoul come into him again.

22 And the Lord heard the voice of Elijah, and the ſoul of the child came into him again, and he revived.

23 And Elijah took the child, and brought him down out of the chamber into the houſe, and delivered him unto his mother: and Elijah ſaid, See, thy ſon liveth.

24 ¶ And the woman ſaid to Elijah,

Ver. 9. Zarephath, which belongeth to Zidon, &c.] Zarephath, or, as it is called in the New Teſtament, Sarepta, was a town which lay between Tyre and Sidon, but ſomewhat nearer to the latter. Mr. Maundrell, in his journey from Aleppo to Jeruſalem, obſerves, that it is the ſame with what is now called Sarphan, diſtant about three hours travel in the way to Tyre. Whatever it was formerly, the ſame author tells us, that at preſent, it conſiſts of no more than a few houſes on the tops of the mountains, about half a mile from the ſea; though there is reaſon to believe, that the principal part of the city ſtood below, in a ſpace between the hills and the ſea, becauſe there are ſtill ruins to be ſeen there of a very conſiderable extent.

Ver. 12. That we may eat it, and die.] Becauſe, when that was gone, they had nothing elſe left to ſupport them.

Ver. 15. Did eat many days.] That is, two years; one year of the famine being paſt before he came to Zarephath, and he dwelt here till the end of the famine, which continued another year.

Ver. 18. What have I to do with thee?] Some take the meaning of this to be, wherein have I offended thee?

Before Chriſt 910.

Now by this I know that thou art a man of God, and that the word of the LORD in thy mouth, is truth.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 In the extremity of famine Elijah ſent to Ahab, meeteth good Obadiah. 9 Obadiah bringeth Ahab to Elijah. 17 Elijah reproving Ahab, by fire from heaven convinceth Baals prophets. 41 Elijah by prayer obtaining rain, followeth Ahab to Jezreel.

906. AND it came to paſs after many days, that the word of the LORD came to Elijah in the third year, ſaying, Go ſhew thyſelf unto Ahab; and I will ſend rain upon the earth.

2 And Elijah went to ſhew himſelf unto Ahab: and there was a ſore famine in Samaria.

3 And Ahab called Obadiah which was the governor of his houſe: (now Obadiah feared the LORD greatly:

4 For it was ſo, when Jezebel cut off the prophets of the LORD, that Obadiah took an hundred prophets, and hid them by fifty in a cave, and fed them with bread and water.)

5 And Ahab ſaid unto Obadiah, Go into the land, unto all fountains of water, and unto all brooks: peradventure we may find graſs to ſave the horſes and mules alive, that we loſe not all the beaſts.

6 So they divided the land between them to paſs throughout it: Ahab went one way by himſelf, and Obadiah went another way by himſelf.

Before Chriſt 906.

7 ¶ And as Obadiah was in the way, behold, Elijah met him: and he knew him, and fell on his face, and ſaid, Art thou that my lord Elijah?

8 And he anſwered him, I am: go tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here.

9 And he ſaid, What have I ſinned, that thou wouldeſt deliver thy ſervant into the hand of Ahab, to ſlay me?

10 As the LORD thy God liveth, there is no nation or kingdom, whither my lord hath not ſent to ſeek thee: and when they ſaid, He is not there; he took an oath of the kingdom and nation, that they found thee not.

11 And now thou ſayeſt, Go tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here.

12 And it ſhall come to paſs, as ſoon as I am gone from thee, that the ſpirit of the LORD ſhall carry thee whither I know not; and ſo when I come and tell Ahab, and he cannot find thee, he ſhall ſlay me: but I thy ſervant fear the LORD from my youth.

13 Was it not told my lord, what I did when Jezebel ſlew the prophets of the LORD? how I hid an hundred men of the LORDS prophets, by fifty in a cave, and fed them with bread and water?

14 And now thou ſayeſt, Go tell thy lord,

Ver. 24. By this I know that thou art a man of God.] The woman had before ſufficient reaſon to believe that Elijah was a prophet of the Lord, by the miraculous increaſe of the meal and oil; though, upon his not curing her ſon, when he lay ſick, but rather ſuffering him to die, her faith began to fail; whereas, upon ſeeing him raiſed from the dead, her faith revived with her ſon; and through the joy of having him reſtored, ſhe conſidered this laſt miracle as much greater than the former.

NOTES on Chap. XVIII.

Ver. 4. When Jezebel cut off the prophets of the Lord.]. It is likely, there were ſchools of the prophets remaining in Iſrael till her time, which ſhe endeavoured to deſtroy, together with thoſe who were bred up in them, that there might be none left capable of inſtructing the people in the true religion; ſuch, it is thought, are the prophets here meant, and not ſuch as were endowed with the extraordinary gift of prophecy.

Ver. 12. The ſpirit ſhall carry thee whither I know not.] Shall ſnatch thee away from hence; as ſometimes the prophets were ſuddenly tranſported by an inviſible power, to very diſtant places.

Ver. 13. I hid an hundred men of the Lord's prophets, &c.] Elijah, in his appeal to the people, tells them, I, even I only remain a prophet of the Lord, verſe 22. and therefore, we can ſcarce imagine, that the hundred preſerved by Obadiah, were men actually inſpired, and inveſted with a prophetic character; but ſuch only as were the diſciples of the prophets.

Before Christ 906.

lord, Behold, Elijah is here: and he ſhall ſlay me.

15 And Elijah ſaid, As the Lord of hoſts liveth, before whom I ſtand, I will ſurely ſhew myſelf unto him to day.

16 So Obadiah went to meet Ahab, and told him: and Ahab went to meet Elijah.

17 ¶ And it came to paſs when Ahab ſaw Elijah, that Ahab ſaid unto him, Art thou he that troubleth Iſrael?

18 And he anſwered, I have not troubled Iſrael, but thou and thy fathers houſe, in that ye have forſaken the commandments of the Lord, and thou haſt followed Baalim.

19 Now therefore ſend, and gather to me all Iſrael unto mount Carmel, and the prophets of Baal four hundred and fifty, and the prophets of the groves four hundred, which eat at Jezebels table.

20 So Ahab ſent unto all the children of Iſrael, and gathered the prophets together unto mount Carmel.

21 And Elijah came unto all the people, and ſaid, How long halt ye between two opinions? if the Lord be God, follow him: but if Baal, then follow him. And the people anſwered him not a word.

22 Then ſaid Elijah unto the people, I, even I only remain a prophet of the Lord; but Baals prophets are four hundred and fifty men.

Before Christ 906.

23 Let them therefore give us two bullocks, and let them chooſe one bullock for themſelves, and cut it in pieces, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under: and I will dreſs the other bullock, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under:

24 And call ye on the name of your gods, and I will call on the name of the Lord: and the God that anſwereth by fire, let him be God. And all the people anſwered and ſaid, It is well ſpoken.

25 And Elijah ſaid unto the prophets of Baal, Chooſe you one bullock for yourſelves, and dreſs it firſt; for ye are many: and call on the name of your gods, but put no fire under.

26 And they took the bullock which was given them, and they dreſſed it, and called on the name of Baal from morning even until noon, ſaying, O Baal, hear us. But there was no voice, nor any that anſwered. And they leapt upon the altar which was made.

27 And it came to paſs at noon, that Elijah mocked them, and ſaid, Cry aloud: for he is a god, either he is talking, or he is purſuing, or he is in a journey, or peradventure he ſleepeth, and muſt be awaked.

28 And they cried aloud, and cut themſelves after their manner with knives and

---

Ver. 18. Thou haſt followed Baalim.] The heathens worſhipped more Baals than one; and, it is likely, Ahab not only worſhipped the ſun, but all the hoſt of heaven.

Ver. 19. The prophets of the groves.] By the prophets of the groves, (as it is here tranſlated) are underſtood the prophets of Aſtarte, the great goddeſs of the Zidonians.

Ver. 24. It is well ſpoken.] Whatever their notions were concerning the power of this deity, they thought it the wiſeſt method to accept the prophets challenge; for, as it was propoſed in fair terms, they muſt, if they had refuſed it, have forfeited all their credit with the people.

Ver. 26. They leaped upon the altar.] Danced about it after the manner of the ancient Salii; or, as ſome interpret it, they ran about as men in an extaſy with a prophetic fury. Abarbinel thinks, this leaping and dancing was a rite uſed in the worſhip of the ſun, which puts all things in motion.

Ver. 27. Cry aloud: for he is a god, either he is talking, &c.] There is ſomething very keen and ſarcaſtical in theſe expreſſions of the prophet, which could not fail of highly provoking the idolatrous prieſts, at a time when they began to deſpair of any anſwer from their god, and conſequently to be expoſed as the propagators of a falſe religion.

Ver. 28. Cut themſelves after their manner.] Among the ancient Romans, the prieſts of Bellona, when they ſacrificed to that goddeſs, uſed to beſmear the victim with their own blood. The Perſian Magi uſed to appeaſe tempeſts, and allay the winds, by making inciſions in their fleſh. They who carried about the Syrian goddeſs, among other mad pranks, were every now and then cutting and ſlaſhing themſelves with knives, till the blood guſhed out. And modern travellers tell us, that even to this day, in Turkey, Perſia, and ſeveral parts of the Indies, there are a kind of fanatics, who think they do a very meritorious thing, and what is highly acceptable to the deity, in cutting and mangling their own fleſh.

Before Chriſt 906.

and lancets, till the blood guſhed out upon them.

29 And it came to paſs, when mid-day was paſt, and they propheſied until the time of the offering of the evening ſacrifice; that there was neither voice, nor any to anſwer, nor any that regarded.

30 And Elijah ſaid unto all the people, Come near unto me. And all the people came near unto him: and he repaired the altar of the LORD that was broken down.

31 And Elijah took twelve ſtones, according to the number of the tribes of the ſons of Jacob, unto whom the word of the LORD came, ſaying, Iſrael ſhall be thy name.

32 And with the ſtones he built an altar in the name of the LORD: and he made a trench about the altar, as great as would contain two meaſures of ſeed.

33 And he put the wood in order, and cut the bullock in pieces, and laid him on the wood, and ſaid, Fill four barrels with water, and pour it on the burnt-ſacrifice, and on the wood.

34 And he ſaid, Do it the ſecond time: and they did it the ſecond time. And he ſaid, Do it the third time: And they did it the third time.

35 And the water ran round about the altar, and he filled the trench alſo with water.

Before Chriſt 906.

36 And it came to paſs at the time of the offering of the evening ſacrifice, that Elijah the prophet came near and ſaid, LORD God of Abraham, Iſaac, and of Iſrael, let it be known this day, that thou art God in Iſrael, and that I am thy ſervant, and that I have done all theſe things at thy word.

37 Hear me, O LORD, hear me, that this people may know that thou art the LORD God, and that thou haſt turned their heart back again.

38 Then the fire of the LORD fell, and conſumed the burnt-ſacrifice, and the wood, and the ſtones, and the duſt, and licked up the water that was in the trench.

39 And when all the people ſaw it, they fell on their faces: and they ſaid, The LORD, he is the God; the LORD, he is the God.

40 And Elijah ſaid unto them, Take the prophets of Baal, let not one of them eſcape: and they took them, and Elijah brought them down to the brook Kiſhon, and ſlew them there.

41 ¶ And Elijah ſaid unto Ahab, Get thee up, eat and drink, for there is a ſound of abundance of rain.

42 So Ahab went up to eat and to drink, and Elijah went up to the top of Carmel;

Ver. 29. Propheſied] That is, ſung hymns and praiſes to Baal.

Ver. 30. He repaired the altar of the Lord that was broken down.] This altar was certainly one of thoſe which were built in the time of the judges, and the firſt kings of Iſrael, when, for want of a fixed place of worſhip, ſuch ſtructures were permitted. Both Tacitus and Suetonius ſpeak of the god of Carmel, whom Veſpaſian went to conſult when he was in Judea, and that his prieſt Baſilides promiſed him all manner of proſperity and ſucceſs in his undertakings; but the hiſtorian tells us, there was neither temple nor ſtatue upon the mountains; but one altar only, plain, but very venerable for its antiquity. This altar of Carmel, ſeems to have had its original from the true God, which the ancient Hebrews firſt erected, and Elijah afterwards repaired; which even the heathens held in ſuch veneration, that when they came to be maſters of the country, they would not ſo much as place an image by it.

Ver. 33. Fill four barrels of water and pour it on, &c.] This the prophet did, to make the miracle the more conſpicuous and convincing; to ſhew that there was no fallacy in it; no fire concealed in or about the altar; but the lightening, which was to conſume the ſacrifice, came from heaven, and at his invocation.

Ver. 38. The fire of the Lord fell.] God had before declared his approbation of his worſhippers, by ſending down fire to conſume their ſacrifices, Lev. ix. 24. Judges vi. 21. And though, perhaps, it may be poſſible for evil ſpirits to make fire deſcend from the clouds; yet, ſince they can do nothing but by divine permiſſion, it is abſurd to think they ſhould attain it, in a matter of competition between the true and falſe religion.

Carmel; and he caſt himſelf down upon the earth, and put his face between his knees, 43 And ſaid to his ſervant, Go up now, look toward the ſea. And he went up, and looked, and ſaid, There is nothing. And he ſaid, Go again ſeven times.

44 And it came to paſs at the ſeventh time, that he ſaid, Behold, there ariſeth a little cloud out of the ſea, like a mans hand. And he ſaid, Go up, ſay unto Ahab, Prepare thy chariot, and get thee down, that the rain ſtop thee not.

45 And it came to paſs in the mean while, that the heaven was black with clouds and wind, and there was a great rain. And Ahab rode and went to Jezreel.

46 And the hand of the LORD was on Elijah; and he girded up his loins, and ran before Ahab, to the entrance of Jezreel.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Elijah threatened by Jezebel, fleeth to Beer-ſheba. 4 In the wilderneſs being weary of his life, he is comforted by an angel. 9 At Horeb God appeareth unto him, ſending him to anoint Hazael, Jehu, and Eliſha. 19 Eliſha taking leave of his friends, followeth Elijah.

AND Ahab told Jezebel all that Elijah had done, and withal, how he had ſlain all the prophets with the ſword.

2 Then Jezebel ſent a meſſenger unto Elijah, ſaying, So let the gods do to me, and more alſo, if I make not thy life as the life of one of them, by to morrow about this time.

3 And when he ſaw that, he aroſe, and went for his life, and came to Beer-ſheba, which belongeth to Judah, and left his ſervant there.

Before Chriſt 906.

4 ¶ But he himſelf went a days journey into the wilderneſs, and came and ſat down under a juniper-tree: and he requeſted for himſelf that he might die, and ſaid, It is enough, now, O LORD, take away my life: for I am not better than my fathers.

5 And as he lay and ſlept under a juniper-tree, behold then, an angel touched him, and ſaid unto him, Ariſe and eat.

6 And he looked, and behold, there was a cake baken on the coals, and a cruſe of water at his head: and he did eat and drink, and laid him down again.

7 And the angel of the LORD came again the ſecond time, and touched him, and ſaid, Ariſe and eat, becauſe the journey is too great for thee.

8 And he aroſe, and did eat and drink, and went in the ſtrength of that meat forty days and forty nights, unto Horeb the mount of God.

9 ¶ And he came thither unto a cave, and lodged there; and behold, the word of the LORD came to him, and he ſaid unto him, What doeſt thou here, Elijah?

10 And he ſaid, I have been very jealous for the LORD God of hoſts: for the children of Iſrael have forſaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and ſlain thy prophets with the ſword; and I, even I only am left, and they ſeek my life, to take it away.

Ver. 46. He girded up his loins.] They wore long and looſe garments in this country; and therefore girded them up when they had occaſion to make expedition.

NOTES on Chap. XIX.

Ver. 2. If I make not thy life as the life of one of them.] This was certainly the effect of her blind rage, and not of prudence, which would have adviſed to conceal her deſigns, till they were ripe for execution; whereas, by ſending him word, ſhe gave him notice of his danger, and admoniſhed him to eſcape by flight.

Ver. 3. When he ſaw that, he aroſe, &c.] In the ancient verſions, this paſſage is rendered, He was afraid, and aroſe and went away.

Ver. 6. On the coals.] It ought to be tranſlated, on hot ſtones.

Ver. 8. Unto Horeb the mount of God.] It was not above four or five days journey, if ſo much, being diſtant from Beer-ſheba, not above 150 miles.

Before Christ 906. 11 And he ſaid, Go forth, and ſtand upon the mount before the LORD. And behold, the LORD paſſed by, and a great and ſtrong wind rent the mountains, and brake in pieces the rocks before the LORD; but the LORD was not in the wind: and after the wind an earthquake; but the LORD was not in the earthquake:

12 And after the earthquake a fire; but the LORD was not in the fire: and after the fire a ſtill ſmall voice.

13 And it was ſo, when Elijah heard it, that he wrapped his face in his mantle, and went out, and ſtood in the entering in of the cave: and behold, there came a voice unto him, and ſaid, What doeſt thou here, Elijah?

14 And he ſaid, I have been very jealous for the LORD God of hoſts: becauſe the children of Iſrael have forſaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and ſlain thy prophets with the ſword; and I, even I only am left, and they ſeek my life, to take it away.

15 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Go, return on thy way to the wilderneſs of Damaſcus: and when thou comeſt, anoint Hazael to be king over Syria.

16 And Jehu the ſon of Nimſhi ſhalt thou anoint to be king over Iſrael: and Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat of Abel-meholah, ſhalt thou anoint to be prophet in thy room.

17 And it ſhall come to paſs, that him that eſcapeth the ſword of Hazael, ſhall Jehu ſlay: and him that eſcapeth from the ſword of Jehu, ſhall Eliſha ſlay. Before Chriſt 906.

18 Yet I have left me ſeven thouſand in Iſrael, all the knees which have not bowed unto Baal, and every mouth which hath not kiſſed him.

19 ¶ So he departed thence, and found Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat, who was plowing with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and he with the twelfth: and Elijah paſſed by him, and caſt his mantle upon him.

20 And he left the oxen, and ran after Elijah, and ſaid, Let me, I pray thee, kiſs my father and my mother, and then I will follow thee. And he ſaid unto him, Go back again; for what have I done to thee?

21 And he returned back from him, and took a yoke of oxen, and ſlew them, and boiled their fleſh with the inſtruments of the oxen, and gave unto the people, and they did eat: then he aroſe, and went after Elijah, and miniſtered unto him.

CHAP. XX.

1 Ben-hadad not content with Ahabs homage, beſiegeth Samaria. 31 The Syrians ſubmitting themſelves, Ahab ſendeth Ben-hadad away with a covenant. 35 The prophet under the parable of a priſoner, maketh Ahab to judge himſelf.

AND Ben-hadad the king of Syria gathered all his hoſt together, and there were 901.

Ver. 12. After the fire a ſtill ſmall voice.] The generality of interpreters have conſidered this paſſage, as a figurative deſcription of the goſpel-diſpenſation, which came not in ſuch a manner as the law, with ſtorms, thunders, lightnings, and earthquakes, but with great lenity and ſweetneſs; wherein God ſpeaks to us by his ſon, uſing only gentle arguments and ſoft perſuaſions.

Ver. 17. Him that eſcapeth the ſword of Hazael.] God, in his providence, appointed three perſons to puniſh the Iſraelites according to their deſerts; and one or other of theſe, was infallibly to execute his judgments upon them.

Shall Eliſha ſlay.] He deſtroyed the two and forty children; and by Gods appointment, ſent a ſore famine upon the Iſraelites, 2 Kings vi. 25.

Ver. 18. I have left me ſeven thouſand in Iſrael, &c.] This ſeems to have been added, to correct Elijah's miſtake, who imagined, that he alone remained a worſhipper of the true God in Iſrael.

Ver. 19. Was plowing with twelve yoke of oxen.] This was an indication of his riches and wealth, that he could keep twelve yoke of oxen at plough; he, according to the manner of thoſe early times, looking to his buſineſs himſelf.

Caſt his mantle upon him.] This mantle was the proper habit of prophets; therefore, Elijah's caſting it upon him, was the ceremony here uſed for his inauguration.

NOTES on Chap. XX.

Ver. 1. And Benhadad, &c.] That is, the ſon of Hadad, of the ſeed royal of Edom. The Septuagint place this chapter after chap. xxi. as does alſo Joſephus; and this method ſeems more natural.

Before Chriſt 901.

were thirty and two kings with him, and horſes, and chariots: and he went up and beſieged Samaria, and warred againſt it.

2 And he ſent meſſengers to Ahab king of Iſrael into the city, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Ben-hadad,

3 Thy ſilver and thy gold is mine, thy wives alſo and thy children, even the goodlieſt, are mine.

4 And the king of Iſrael anſwered and ſaid, My lord, O king, according to thy ſaying, I am thine, and all that I have.

5 And the meſſengers came again, and ſaid, Thus ſpeaketh Ben-hadad, ſaying, Although I have ſent unto thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt deliver me thy ſilver and thy gold, and thy wives and thy children:

6 Yet I will ſend my ſervants unto thee to morrow about this time, and they ſhall ſearch thine houſe, and the houſes of thy ſervants; and it ſhall be, that whatſoever is pleaſant in thine eyes, they ſhall put it in their hand, and take it away.

7 Then the king of Iſrael called all the elders of the land, and ſaid, Mark, I pray you, and ſee how this man ſeeketh miſchief: for he ſent unto me for my wives, and for my children, and for my ſilver, and for my gold, and I denied him not.

8 And all the elders, and all the people ſaid unto him, Hearken not unto him, nor conſent.

9 Wherefore he ſaid unto the meſſengers of Ben-hadad, Tell my lord the king, All that thou didſt ſend for to thy ſervant at the firſt, I will do: but this thing I may not do. And the meſſengers departed, and brought him word again.

Before Chriſt 901.

10 And Ben-hadad ſent unto him, and ſaid, The gods do ſo unto me and more alſo, if the duſt of Samaria ſhall ſuffice for handfuls for all the people that follow me.

11 And the king of Iſrael anſwered and ſaid, Tell him, Let not him that girdeth on his harneſs, boaſt himſelf, as he that putteth it off.

12 And it came to paſs, when Ben-hadad heard this meſſage (as he was drinking, he and the kings in the pavilions) that he ſaid unto his ſervants, Set yourſelves in aray: And they ſet themſelves in aray againſt the city.

13 ¶ And behold, there came a prophet unto Ahab king of Iſrael, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord, Haſt thou ſeen all this great multitude? behold, I will deliver it into thine hand this day, and thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord.

14 And Ahab ſaid, By whom? And he ſaid, Thus ſaith the Lord, Even by the young men of the princes of the provinces. Then he ſaid, Who ſhall order the battel? And he anſwered, Thou.

15 Then he numbered the young men of the princes of the provinces, and they were two hundred and thirty two: and after them he numbered all the people, even all the children of Iſrael, being ſeven thouſand.

16 And they went out at noon: but Ben-hadad was drinking himſelf drunk in the pavilions, he and the kings, the thirty and two kings that helped him.

17 And the young men of the princes of the

Went up and beſieged Samaria.] He went with that deſign, but did not actually beſiege it; his army being defeated before he reached the city.

Ver. 13. There came a prophet.] Who the prophet was, that upon this, and another meſſage afterwards, was ſent to Ahab, the ſcripture does not inform us; it is not improbable, that he was one of thoſe who had been hid by Obadiah, but was now commanded by God to appear.

Ver. 14. The young men of the princes of the provinces.] The Hebrew word may ſignify, either the ſons, or the ſervants of the princes; either young noblemen themſelves, or their father's pages, who were equally brought up tenderly, and quite unaccuſtomed to war; it was by theſe young men, and not by experienced officers, that this battle was to be gained; that it might appear, that the victory was entirely owing to the aſſiſtance of God, and not to the valour of the troops.

Before Christ 901. the provinces, went out firſt, and Ben-hadad ſent out, and they told him, ſaying, There are men come out of Samaria.

18 And he ſaid, Whether they be come out for peace, take them alive; or whether they be come out for war, take them alive.

19 So theſe young men of the princes of the provinces, came out of the city, and the army which followed them.

20 And they ſlew every one his man: and the Syrians fled, and Iſrael purſued them: and Ben-hadad the king of Syria eſcaped on an horſe, with the horſemen.

21 And the king of Iſrael went out, and ſmote the horſes and chariots, and ſlew the Syrians with a great ſlaughter.

22 ¶ And the prophet came to the king of Iſrael, and ſaid unto him, Go ſtrengthen thyſelf, and mark and ſee what thou doeſt: for at the return of the year, the king of Syria will come up againſt thee.

23 And the ſervants of the king of Syria ſaid unto him, Their Gods are gods of the hills, therefore they were ſtronger than we: but let us fight againſt them in the plain, and ſurely we ſhall be ſtronger than they.

24 And do this thing, take the kings away, every man out of his place, and put captains in their rooms.

25 And number thee an army, like the army that thou haſt loſt, horſe for horſe, and chariot for chariot: and we will fight againſt them in the plain, and ſurely we ſhall be ſtronger than they. And he hearkened unto their voice, and did ſo. Before Christ 901.

900. 26 And it came to paſs at the return of the year, that Ben-hadad numbered the Syrians, and went up to Aphek, to fight againſt Iſrael.

27 And the children of Iſrael were numbered, and were all preſent, and went againſt them: and the children of Iſrael pitched before them, like two little flocks of kids; but the Syrians filled the country.

28 ¶ And there came a man of God, and ſpake unto the king of Iſrael, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, Becauſe the Syrians have ſaid, The LORD is God of the hills, but he is not God of the valleys: therefore will I deliver all this great multitude into thine hand, and ye ſhall know that I am the LORD.

29 And they pitched one over againſt the other ſeven days; and ſo it was, that in the ſeventh day the battel was joined: and the children of Iſrael ſlew of the Syrians an hundred thouſand footmen in one day.

30 But the reſt fled to Aphek, into the city; and there a wall fell upon twenty and ſeven thouſand of the men that were left: and Ben-hadad fled, and came into the city, into an inner chamber.

31 ¶ And his ſervants ſaid unto him, behold

Ver. 23. Their gods are gods of the hills, &c.] According to the heathen mythology, there was a great variety of gods, each of which had their particular juriſdiction; ſome preſided over whole countries; others had only particular places under their care; ſome were gods of woods, ſome of rivers, and others of mountains: Pan, for inſtance, was reckoned the god of the mountains. And probably, the Syrians imagined, that the God of Iſrael was a god of the mountains, becauſe they ſaw that the land of Canaan was a mountainous country, and that the Iſraelites delighted to worſhip in high places. They might alſo have heard, that their law was given on the top of a mountain; they knew that their celebrated temple ſtood on a famous eminence; and that Samaria was alſo built on the top of an hill, near which they received ſo ſignal a defeat.

Ver. 26. Went up to Aphek.] Aphek, or Aphaca, was ſituated in Libanus, upon the river Adonis, between Heliopolis and Biblos, and, in all probability, is the ſame that Paul Lucas, in his voyage to the Levant, (vol. I. chap. xx.) ſpeaks of, as ſwallowed up in a lake of mount Libanus, about nine miles in circumference, where there are ſeveral houſes all entire to be ſeen under water; the ſoil about this place (as the antients tell us) was very bituminous, which ſeems to confirm their opinion, who think that ſubterraneous fires conſumed the ſolid ſubſtance of the earth whereon their city ſtood; ſo that it ſubſided, and ſunk at once, and a lake was ſoon formed in its place.

Ver. 30. A wall fell upon twenty and ſeven thouſand, &c.] Probably there were many towers built upon this wall, into which the vanquiſhed fled.

Before Christ 900.

Behold now, we have heard that the kings of the houſe of Iſrael are merciful kings: let us, I pray thee, put ſackcloth on our loins, and ropes upon our heads, and go out to the king of Iſrael; peradventure he will ſave thy life.

32 So they girded ſackcloth on their loins, and put ropes on their heads, and came to the king of Iſrael, and ſaid, Thy ſervant Ben-hadad ſaith, I pray thee, let me live. And he ſaid, Is he yet alive? he is my brother.

33 Now the men did diligently obſerve whether any thing would come from him, and did haſtily catch it: and they ſaid, Thy brother Ben-hadad. Then he ſaid, Go ye, bring him. Then Ben-hadad came forth to him; and he cauſed him to come up into the chariot.

34 And Ben-hadad ſaid unto him, The cities which my father took from thy father, I will reſtore, and thou ſhalt make ſtreets for thee in Damaſcus, as my father made in Samaria. Then ſaid Ahab, I will ſend thee away with this covenant. So he made a covenant with him, and ſent him away.

35 ¶ And a certain man of the ſons of the prophets, ſaid unto his neighbour, in the word of the Lord, Smite me, I pray thee. And the man refuſed to ſmite him.

Before Christ 900.

36 Then ſaid he unto him, Becauſe thou haſt not obeyed the voice of the Lord, behold, as ſoon as thou art departed from me, a lion ſhall ſlay thee. And as ſoon as he was departed from him, a lion found him, and ſlew him.

37 Then he found another man, and ſaid, Smite me, I pray thee. And the man ſmote him, ſo that in ſmiting he wounded him.

38 So the prophet departed, and waited for the king by the way, and diſguiſed himſelf with aſhes upon his face.

39 And as the king paſſed by, he cried unto the king: and he ſaid, Thy ſervant went out into the midſt of the battel, and behold, a man turned aſide, and brought a man unto me, and ſaid, Keep this man: if by any means he be miſſing, then ſhall thy life be for his life, or elſe thou ſhalt pay a talent of ſilver.

40 And as thy ſervant was buſy here and there, he was gone. And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto him, So ſhall thy judgment be, thyſelf haſt decided it.

41 And he haſted, and took the aſhes away from his face, and the king of Iſrael diſcerned him that he was of the prophets.

42 And he ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the Lord, Becauſe thou haſt let go out

Ver. 32. They girded ſackloth on their loins, and put ropes on their heads.] This was the dreſs of humble ſupplicants in thoſe times; the ſackcloth on their loins, was a token of great ſorrow for what they had done; and the ropes on their heads, or round their necks, a token of ſubjection, to whatever puniſhment Ahab ſhould think proper to lay upon them.

Ver. 34. Thou ſhalt make ſtreets for thee in Damaſcus, &c.] By ſtreets here, it is generally thought, are meant citadels, or fortifications, to be a bridle and reſtraint upon the metropolis of the Syrians, that they might not make any new incurſions into the land of Iſrael.

Ver. 36. A lion found him, and ſlew him] Herein ſeems to lay the crime of the prophet, who was ſlain, for not ſmiting his brother prophet, though he knew the authority of God's commands, and that this was the very thing he enjoined; yet, out of an indiſcreet pity and compaſſion to his brother, he refuſed to comply. Had he been a ſtranger to the ſeveral methods of divine providence, he might have excuſed himſelf with a better grace; but as he was equally a prophet, bred up in the ſame ſchool with the other, had been informed by the other of his whole deſign, and well underſtood the weight of, I command thee in the word of the Lord, he was utterly inexcuſable; becauſe diſobedience to a divine command, and eſpecially when delivered by a prophet, was, by the conſtruction of the law, held capital.

Ver. 42. Becauſe thou haſt let go out of thine hand, &c.] God had delivered Ben-hadad into Ahab's hands for his blaſphemies, as he had promiſed, 1 Kings xx. 28. and therefore this act of providence, compared with the law, Lev. xxiv. 16. did plainly intimate, that he was appointed by God for deſtruction; but ſo far was Ahab from puniſhing him as he deſerved, that he treats him like a friend and a brother, diſmiſſes him on eaſy terms, and takes his bare word for the performance, without the leaſt care for the reparation of God's honour.

Before Christ 900. of thy hand, a man whom I appointed to utter deſtruction, therefore thy life ſhall go for his life, and thy people for his people.

43 And the king of Iſrael went to his houſe, heavy and diſpleaſed, and came to Samaria.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Ahab being denied Naboths vineyard, is grieved. 5 Jezebel writing letters againſt Naboth, he is condemned of blaſphemy. 15 Ahab taketh poſſeſſion of the vineyard. 17 Elijah denounceth judgments againſt Ahab and Jezebel. 25 Wicked Ahab repenting, God deferreth the judgment.

AND it came to paſs after theſe things, that Naboth the Jezreelite had a vineyard, which was in Jezreel, hard by the palace of Ahab king of Samaria.

899. 2 And Ahab ſpake unto Naboth, ſaying, Give me thy vineyard, that I may have it for a garden of herbs, becauſe it is near unto my houſe, and I will give thee for it a better vineyard than it: or if it ſeem good to thee, I will give thee the worth of it in money.

3 And Naboth ſaid to Ahab, The LORD forbid it me, that I ſhould give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee.

4 And Ahab came into his houſe, heavy and diſpleaſed, becauſe of the word which Naboth the Jezreelite had ſpoken to him: for he had ſaid, I will not give thee the inheritance of my fathers: and he laid him down upon his bed, and turned away his face, and would eat no bread. Before Christ 899.

5 ¶ But Jezebel his wife came to him, and ſaid unto him, Why is thy ſpirit ſo ſad, that thou eateſt no bread?

6 And he ſaid unto her, Becauſe I ſpake unto Naboth the Jezreelite, and ſaid unto him, Give me thy vineyard for money; or elſe if it pleaſe thee, I will give thee another vineyard for it: and he anſwered, I will not give thee my vineyard.

7 And Jezebel his wife ſaid unto him, Doſt thou now govern the kingdom of Iſrael? ariſe, and eat bread, and let thine heart be merry: I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.

8 So ſhe wrote letters in Ahabs name, and ſealed them with his ſeal, and ſent the letters unto the elders, and to the nobles that were in his city dwelling with Naboth.

9 And ſhe wrote in the letters, ſaying, Proclaim a faſt, and ſet Naboth on high among the people:

NOTES on Chap. XXI.

Ver. 1. And it came to paſs after theſe things, &c.] Naboth dwelt in Jezreel, and his vineyard was in Samaria, near the palace of Ahab; it ſhould therefore be tranſlated, And it came to paſs after theſe things, that Naboth the Jezreelite, who dwelt in Jezreel, had a vineyard in Samaria, hard by the palace of king Ahab.

Ver. 2. A garden of herbs.] Some underſtand this for a flower-garden.

Ver. 3. The Lord forbid it me, that I ſhould give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee.] The law of Moſes prohibited the alienation of lands, unleſs a man was reduced to poverty; in which caſe, he might ſell them till the jubilee, when they were to revert to him again. But as Naboth had no occaſion to ſell his vineyard, ſo he conſidered, that if he ſhould part with it, purely to pleaſe the king, it would be annexed to the palace, and neither he nor his children ſhould ever be able to recover it; ſo, by this act, he ſhould both offend God, and injure his poſterity, which he, being a religious man, would not venture to do.

Ver. 9. Proclaim a faſt.] Which was uſual, upon the apprehenſion of any approaching judgment or calamity. Jezebel ordered a faſt to be proclaimed, the better to conceal her deſign againſt Naboth, intimating, that they had ſome accurſed thing among them; and that it was therefore the Jezreelites buſineſs, to enquire into thoſe ſins which provoked God, and to purge them out effectually.

Set Naboth on high, &c.] Joſephus tells us, that Naboth, being a perſon of an illuſtrious houſe, was ordered to be ſet in an honourable place, that it might not be thought they condemned him out of hatred, but with grief and reſpect to his perſon, conſtrained to it, merely by the evidence given againſt him. But others think it only means, to bring him to his trial in the uſual way; in which caſe the priſoner was ſet up on high, to be eaſily ſeen by the judges and court.

Before Chriſt 899. before him, to bear witneſs againſt him, ſaying, Thou didſt blaſpheme God and the king: and then carry him out, and ſtone him that he may die.

11 And the men of his city, even the elders and the nobles who were the inhabitants in his city, did as Jezebel had ſent unto them, and as it was written in the letters which ſhe had ſent unto them.

12 They proclaimed a faſt, and ſet Naboth on high among the people.

13 And there came in two men, children of Belial, and ſat before him: and the men of Belial witneſſed againſt him, even againſt Naboth, in the preſence of the people, ſaying, Naboth did blaſpheme God and the king. Then they carried him forth out of the city, and ſtoned him with ſtones, that he died.

14 Then they ſent to Jezebel, ſaying, Naboth is ſtoned, and is dead.

15 ¶ And it came to paſs when Jezebel heard that Naboth was ſtoned, and was dead, that Jezebel ſaid to Ahab, Ariſe, take poſſeſſion of the vineyard of Naboth the Jeezreelite, which he refuſed to give thee for money: for Naboth is not alive, but dead.

16 And it came to paſs when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, that Ahab roſe up to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, to take poſſeſſion of it.

17 ¶ And the word of the Lord came to Elijah the Tiſhbite, ſaying, 18 Ariſe, go down to meet Ahab king of Iſrael, which is in Samaria: behold, he is in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he is gone down to poſſeſs it.

19 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto him, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord, Haſt thou killed, and alſo taken poſſeſſion? And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto him, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord, In the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth, ſhall dogs lick thy blood, even thine. Before Chriſt 899.

20 And Ahab ſaid to Elijah, Haſt thou found me, O mine enemy? And he anſwered, I have found thee: becauſe thou haſt ſold thyſelf to work evil in the ſight of the Lord.

21 Behold, I will bring evil upon thee, and will take away thy poſterity, and will cut off from Ahab him that piſſeth againſt the wall, and him that is ſhut up, and left in Iſrael,

22 And will make thine houſe like the houſe of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, and like the houſe of Baaſha the ſon of Ahijah, for the provocation wherewith thou haſt provoked me to anger, and made Iſrael to ſin.

23 And of Jezebel alſo ſpake the Lord, ſaying, The dogs ſhall eat Jezebel by the wall of Jezreel.

24 Him that dieth of Ahab in the city, the dogs ſhall eat: and him that dieth in the field, ſhall the fowls of the air eat.

25 ¶ But there was none like unto Ahab, which did ſell himſelf to work wickedneſs in the ſight of the Lord, whom Jezebel his wife ſtirred up.

26 And he did very abominably in following idols, according to all things as did the Ammorites, whom the Lord caſt out before the children of Iſrael.

27 And it came to paſs when Ahab heard thoſe words, that he rent his clothes, and

Ver. 19. In the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth, &c.] This prophecy was at firſt, doubtleſs, intended to be literally fulfilled; but upon Ahab's repentance, the puniſhment was transferred from him to his ſon Jehoram, in whom it was actually accompliſhed; for his dead body was caſt into the portion of the field of Naboth the Jezreelite, for the dogs to devour, 2 Kings ix. 25.

5 And Jehoſhaphat ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, Enquire, I pray thee, at the word of the LORD to day.

6 Then the king of Iſrael gathered the prophets together about four hundred men, and ſaid unto them, Shall I go againſt Ramoth-gilead to battel, or ſhall I forbear? And they ſaid, Go up; for the LORD ſhall deliver it into the hand of the king. Before Christ 897.

7 And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD beſides, that we might enquire of him?

8 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, There is yet one man (Micaiah the ſon of Imlah) by whom we may enquire of the LORD; but I hate him, for he doth not propheſy good concerning me, but evil. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Let not the king ſay ſo.

9 Then the king of Iſrael called an officer, and ſaid, Haſten hither Micaiah the ſon of Imlah.

10 And the king of Iſrael, and Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah ſat each on his throne, having put on their robes, in a void place, in the entrance of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets propheſied before them.

11 And Zedekiah the ſon of Chenaanah made him horns of iron: and he ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, With theſe ſhalt thou puſh the Syrians, until thou have conſumed them.

12 And all the prophets propheſied ſo, ſaying, Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and proſper: for the LORD ſhall deliver it into the kings hand.

13 And the meſſenger that was gone to call Micaiah, ſpake unto him, ſaying, Behold now, the words of the prophets declare good unto the king with one mouth:

Ver. 29. Becauſe he humbleth himſelf before me.] In conſideration of Ahab's repentance, God revoked, at leaſt in part, the ſentence he had denounced againſt him, and transferred it to his poſterity; and yet we do not find that he brought forth fruits meet for repentance, neither renouncing his ſuperſtitions, nor deſtroying his idols, nor reſtoring Naboth's vineyard, nor re-eſtabliſhing the true worſhip of God: probably his repentance was true, though imperfect; and his ſorrow ſincere, tho' of no long duration; in the mean time, this inſtance of divine lenity, is left upon record, to encourage the firſt dawnings of our repentance, and to aſſure us, that our good and gracious God, who keepeth mercy for thouſands, and forgiveth iniquity; will not break the bruiſed reed, nor quench the ſmoaking flax, but bring forth judgment unto truth.

14 And Micaiah ſaid, As the LORD liveth, what the LORD ſaith unto me, that will I ſpeak.

16 And the king ſaid unto him, How many times ſhall I adjure thee, that thou tell me nothing but that which is true in the name of the LORD?

17 And he ſaid, I ſaw all Iſrael ſcattered upon the hills, as ſheep that have not a ſhepherd: and the LORD ſaid, Theſe have no maſter, let them return every man to his houſe in peace.

18 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, Did I not tell thee, that he would propheſy no good concerning me, but evil?

19 And he ſaid, Hear thou therefore the word of the LORD: I ſaw the LORD ſitting on his throne, and all the hoſt of heaven ſtanding by him, on his right hand and on his left.

23 Now therefore behold, the LORD hath put a lying ſpirit in the mouth of all theſe thy prophets, and the LORD hath ſpoken evil concerning thee.

Ver. 15. Go up and proſper: for the Lord ſhall deliver it into the hand of the king.] This anſwer to Ahab's queſtion, was doubtleſs ſpoken ironically, and in mockery to the promiſes which the other prophets had made him. The true purport is this: "Since thou art more deſirous of pleaſing thyſelf, than of knowing the truth, purſue the advice of thy prophets, expect the ſucceſs they promiſe thee, and prove the truth of their predictions by dear bought experience."

Ver. 19. I ſaw the Lord ſitting on his throne, &c.] It is not to be thought there was any ſuch conſultation before the divine majeſty, who ſhould be employed to perſuade him to undo himſelf; but theſe repreſentations are contrived, to bring down inviſible things to the meaneſt capacities of men. It is plain, that the ſpeech of Micaiah, was no more than a parabolical repreſentation of a certain event, which not long after came to paſs; that ſeveral of the circumſtances which are thrown into it, are in a great meaſure ornamental, and intended only to illuſtrate the narration; and conſequently are not to be taken in a literal ſenſe, but in the manner of other parables, where the end and deſign of the ſpeaker is chiefly to be conſidered; which, in Micaiah's caſe, was to ſhew the reaſon, why ſo many prophets declared what was falſe upon this occaſion; namely, becauſe they were moved, not by the ſpirit of truth, but by that of adulation.

Ver. 24. Which way went the ſpirit of the Lord from me to ſpeak unto thee.] Zedekiah was confident he had the ſpirit, and could not imagine how it ſhould depart from him, and enter into Micaiah, bidding him contradict all that he and his brethren had propheſied.

31 But the king of Syria commanded his thirty and two captains that had rule over his chariots, ſaying, Fight neither with ſmall nor great, ſave only with the king of Iſrael.

32 And it came to paſs, when the captains of the chariots ſaw Jehoſhaphat, that they ſaid, Surely, it is the king of Iſrael. And they turned aſide to fight againſt him: and Jehoſhaphat cried out.

33 And it came to paſs, when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Iſrael, that they turned back from purſuing him.

34 And a certain man drew a bow at a venture, and ſmote the king of Iſrael between the joints of the harneſs: wherefore he ſaid unto the driver of his chariot, Turn thine hand, and carry me out of the hoſt, for I am wounded.

35 And the battel increaſed that day: and the king was ſtayed up in his chariot againſt the Syrians, and died at even: and the blood ran out of the wound, into the midſt of the chariot. Before Chriſt 897.

38 And one waſhed the chariot in the pool of Samaria, and the dogs licked up his blood, and they waſhed his armour, according unto the word of the LORD which he ſpake.

Ver. 30. I will diſguiſe myſelf, &c.] Ahab thought, by this ſtratagem, to evade the force of Micaiah's prophecy.

Ver. 31. Fight—only with the king of Iſrael.] Benhadad gave this order, either out of policy, as the ſhorteſt way to put an end to the war; or, with a deſign to take him priſoner, in order to wipe out the ſtain of his own captivity, and recover the honour and advantage he had loſt.

Ver. 38. The dogs licked up his blood.] They licked up the blood mixed with water, wherewith his chariot and armour was waſhed. Thus the prophecy of Elijah was partly fulfilled, even in the common acceptation.

THE
Second Book of the KINGS,
COMMONLY CALLED,
The Fourth Book of the KINGS.

The ARGUMENT.

This Book is a continuation of the hiſtory of the kings of Judah and Iſrael; to the diſſolution of both kingdoms, when the ten tribes were carried captive into Aſſyria by Shalmanezer, and the other two to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar. It comprehends the ſpace of about one hundred and ſixty eight years.

CHAP. I.

1 Moab rebelleth. 2 Ahaziah ſending to Baal-zebub, hath his judgment by Elijah.

Before Chriſt 896.

THEN Moab rebelled againſt Iſrael, after the death of Ahab.

2 And Ahaziah fell down through a latteſs in his upper chamber that was in Samaria, and was ſick: and he ſent meſſengers, and ſaid unto them, Go, enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron, whether I ſhall recover of this diſeaſe.

Before Chriſt 896.

3 But the angel of the LORD ſaid to Elijah the Tiſhbite, Ariſe, go up to meet the meſſengers of the king of Samaria, and ſay unto them, Is it not becauſe there is not a God in Iſrael, that ye go to enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron?

4 Now therefore thus ſaith the LORD, Thou ſhalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up, but ſhalt ſurely die. And Elijah departed.

NOTES on Chap. I.

Ver. 2. Ahaziah fell down through a latteſs in his upper chamber.] The roofs of the houſes in the eaſtern countries were flat, and ſurrounded with a battlement, or balluſtrade; which being rotten, Ahaziah leaning careleſsly over it, it gave way, and he fell into the court. See note on 1 Sam. ix. 25.

Baal-zebub.] The word ſignifies the god of flies; but how this idol obtained the appellation, is difficult to determine. Pliny tells us, that when there was a terrible plague in Africa, occaſioned by vaſt quantities of flies, they ſacrificed to the god Achore, (the god of Ekron) and the flies all died, and the diſtemper ceaſed: hence this idol ſeems to have its name.

Ekron.] Ekron was a city ſituated near the Mediterranean ſea, between Aſhdod and Jamnia, in a moiſt and hot ſoil, and was therefore much infeſted with flies.

Ver. 4. Thou ſhalt not come down from thy bed.] At the end of each chamber, in theſe ancient buildings, there was a little gallery raiſed, three, four, or five feet above the floor, with a balluſtrade in the front of it, with a few ſteps likewiſe leading up to it; here they placed their beds; a ſituation frequently alluded to in the ſcriptures.

Before Chriſt 896.

5 ¶ And when the meſſengers turned back unto him, he ſaid unto them, Why are ye now turned back?

6 And they ſaid unto him, There came a man up to meet us, and ſaid unto us, Go, turn again unto the king that ſent you, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the Lord, Is it not becauſe there is not a God in Iſrael, that thou ſendeſt to enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron? therefore thou ſhalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up, but ſhalt ſurely die.

7 And he ſaid unto them, What manner of man was he which came up to meet you, and told you theſe words?

8 And they anſwered him, He was an hairy man, and girt with a girdle of leather about his loins. And he ſaid, It is Elijah the Tiſhbite.

9 Then the king ſent unto him a captain of fifty with his fifty: and he went up to him, (and behold he ſat on the top of an hill) and he ſpake unto him, Thou man of God, the king hath ſaid, Come down.

10 And Elijah anſwered and ſaid to the captain of fifty, If I be a man of God, then let fire come down from heaven, and conſume thee and thy fifty. And there came down fire from heaven, and conſumed him and his fifty.

11 Again alſo he ſent unto him another captain of fifty, with his fifty: and he anſwered, and ſaid unto him, O man of God, thus hath the king ſaid, Come down quickly.

Before Chriſt 896.

12 And Elijah anſwered and ſaid unto them, If I be a man of God, let fire come down from heaven, and conſume thee and thy fifty. And the fire of God came down from heaven, and conſumed him and his fifty.

13 ¶ And he ſent again a captain of the third fifty, with his fifty: and the third captain of fifty went up, and came and fell on his knees before Elijah, and beſought him, and ſaid unto him, O man of God, I pray thee, let my life, and the life of theſe fifty thy ſervants be precious in thy ſight.

14 Behold, there came fire down from heaven, and burnt up the two captains of the former fifties, with their fifties: therefore let my life now be precious in thy ſight.

15 And the angel of the Lord ſaid unto Elijah, Go down with him, be not afraid of him. And he aroſe, and went down with him unto the king.

16 And he ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the Lord, Foraſmuch as thou haſt ſent meſſengers to enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron (is it not becauſe there is no God in Iſrael to enquire of his word?) therefore thou ſhalt not come down off that bed on which thou art gone up, but ſhalt ſurely die.

17 ¶ So he died, according to the word of the Lord which Elijah had ſpoken: and Jehoram reigned in his ſtead, in the

Ver. 8. He was an hairy man.] Either the hair of his head and beard was long, like the Greek philoſophers, or his habit was made of ſkins with the hair on, ſuch as prophets uſually wore. See Iſaiah xx. 2. Zech. xiii. 4. Matth. iii. 4. This was the ſimpleſt and moſt ancient garment; and therefore the old heroes are ſaid to have been cloathed in the ſkins of lions, tigers, bears, &c.

Ver. 10. Let fire come down from heaven, &c.] In the Greek verſion, Fire will deſcend from heaven; and the Hebrew may properly be rendered, Fire will come, &c. Had this rendering been obſerved by our tranſlators, in this and many other places, theſe words of Elijah, and ſeveral other paſſages, would have been better underſtood; particularly ſeveral in the Pſalms, which now ſeems to be revengeful wiſhes and imprecations, would have plainly appeared to be what they really are, prophetical denunciations and predictions.

Ver. 17. Jehoram reigned in his ſtead, in the ſecond year of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah.] This paſſage appears a little difficult; but it is to be remembered, that the kings of Judah and Iſrael appointed their ſucceſſors, and even in their life time, gave them a ſhare in the adminiſtration, as is plain from ſeveral inſtances. And we read, 2 Chron. xxi. 3. that Jehoſhaphat gave the kingdom to Jehoram, becauſe he was his firſt-born, and gave gifts to the reſt

Before Christ 896. ſecond year of Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah; becauſe he had no ſon.

CHAP. II.

1 Elijah, taking his leave of Eliſha, with his mantle divideth Jordan, 9 and granting Eliſha his requeſt, is taken up by a fiery chariot into heaven. 12 Eliſha dividing Jordan with Elijahs mantle, is acknowledged his ſucceſſor.

AND it came to paſs when the LORD would take up Elijah into heaven by a whirlwind, that Elijah went with Eliſha from Gilgal.

2 And Elijah ſaid unto Eliſha, Tarry here, I pray thee: for the LORD hath ſent me to Beth-el. And Eliſha ſaid unto him, As the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they went down to Beth-el.

3 And the ſons of the prophets that were at Beth-el, came forth to Eliſha, and ſaid unto him, Knoweſt thou that the LORD will take away thy maſter from thy head to day? And he ſaid, Yea, I know it, hold you your peace.

Before Christ 896. 4 And Elijah ſaid unto him, Eliſha, tarry here, I pray thee: for the LORD hath ſent me to Jericho. And he ſaid, As the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they came to Jericho.

5 And the ſons of the prophets that were at Jericho, came to Eliſha, and ſaid unto him, Knoweſt thou that the LORD will take away thy maſter from thy head to day? And he anſwered, Yea, I know it, hold you your peace.

6 And Elijah ſaid unto him, Tarry, I pray thee, here: for the LORD hath ſent me to Jordan. And he ſaid, As the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee. And they two went on.

7 And fifty men of the ſons of the prophets went, and ſtood to view afar off: and they two ſtood by Jordan.

8 And Elijah took his mantle, and wrapt it together, and ſmote the waters, and they were divided hither and thither, ſo that they two went over on dry ground.

9 ¶ And it came to paſs when they were gone over, that Elijah ſaid unto Eliſha, Aſk what I ſhall do for thee, before I be taken away from thee. And Eliſha ſaid, of his ſons. It is therefore natural to ſuppoſe, that Jehoram reigned ſome time with his father, in order to prevent his brethren from forming parties againſt him with regard to the ſucceſſion. Now, if we grant that Jehoſhaphat declared his ſon Jehoram his partner in the kingdom, ſeveral years before his death, the whole difficulty will be removed; for then Jehoram, the ſon of Ahab, might begin his reign in the ſecond year of Jehoram, the ſon of Jehoſhaphat; i. e. in the ſecond year that he reigned with his father, who was then alive; and Jehoram, the ſon of Jehoſhaphat, may be ſaid to have began his reign in the fifth year of Jehoram, the ſon of Ahab; meaning the time when, after his father's death, he began to reign alone.

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 3. The ſons of the prophets that were at Beth-el.] That is, the diſciples or ſcholars of the prophets; ſuch as were educated at that place, and trained up in religion and virtue, on whom God, by degrees, beſtowed his ſpirit, and whom the ſuperior prophets employed in the ſame capacity, as the apoſtles did the evangeliſts; namely, to publiſh their prophecies and inſtructions to the people, in ſuch places as they themſelves could not viſit. Surely this is a remarkable inſtance of God's love to an apoſtate people, that in thoſe corrupt times, and in the very place where the golden calves were worſhipped, he ſtill continued the ſchools of the prophets, in order to recover them from idolatry.

Knoweſt thou that the Lord will take away thy maſter from thy head to day?] To be at the head, is to be as the maſter; and to be at the feet, as the ſcholar. This expreſſion alludes to the manner of the prophets ſitting in their ſchools; the ſcholars below their maſters feet, and the maſters above over their heads. The ſenſe of the words therefore is, that God would deprive Eliſha of his maſter Elijah's inſtructions.

Ver. 8. Elijah took his mantle.] This mantle is called adareth, which ſignifies a royal, as well as prophetical robe. The Septuagint tranſlate it melote, which properly ſignifies the prophetical mantle, to be made of lamb ſkin, being an upper garment thrown over the ſhoulders, and (as ſome think) coming down to the heels.

Before Christ 896. said, I pray thee, let a double portion of thy ſpirit be upon me.

10 And he ſaid, Thou haſt aſked a hard thing: nevertheleſs, if thou ſee me when I am taken from thee, it ſhall be ſo unto thee; but if not, it ſhall not be ſo.

11 And it came to paſs as they ſtill went on, and talked, that behold, there appeared a chariot of fire, and horſes of fire, and parted them both aſunder, and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven.

12 ¶ And Eliſha ſaw it, and he cried, My father, my father, the chariot of Iſrael, and the horſemen thereof. And he ſaw him no more: and he took hold of his own clothes, and rent them in two pieces.

13 He took up alſo the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, and went back, and ſtood by the bank of Jordan;

14 And he took the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, and ſmote the waters, and ſaid, Where is the LORD God of Elijah? and when he alſo had ſmitten the waters, they parted hither and thither: and Eliſha went over.

15 And when the ſons of the prophets which were to view at Jericho, ſaw him, they ſaid, The ſpirit of Elijah doth reſt on Eliſha. And they came to meet him, and bowed themſelves to the ground before him:

16 ¶ And they ſaid unto him, Behold, now, there be with thy ſervants fifty ſtrong men, let them go, we pray thee, and ſeek thy maſter: leſt peradventure the ſpirit of the LORD hath taken him up, and caſt him upon ſome mountain, or into ſome valley. And he ſaid, Ye ſhall not ſend.

17 And when they urged him till he was aſhamed, he ſaid, Send. They ſent therefore fifty men; and they ſought three days, but found him not.

18 And when they came again to him, (for he tarried at Jericho) he ſaid unto them, Did I not ſay unto you, Go not?

19 ¶ And the men of the city ſaid unto Eliſha, Behold, I pray thee, the ſituation of this city is pleaſant, as my lord ſeeth: but the water is naught, and the ground barren.

20 And he ſaid, Bring me a new cruſe, and

Ver. 9. Let a double portion of thy ſpirit be upon me.] Biſhop Patrick thinks, he did not deſire as much more ſpirit as Elijah had, for that would have been arrogant; but that he only deſired to excel his brethren, the ſons of the prophets. Our bleſſed Saviour himſelf, granted to his diſciples, the power of working greater miracles than himſelf had done.

Ver. 11. Behold, there appeared a chariot of fire, and horſes of fire.] This account of Elijah's aſcenſion, is not to be taken in a literal ſenſe, ſince a fiery chariot and horſes would not have been a proper vehicle, for a body as yet not impregnated with immortality. As fleſh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, we muſt ſuppoſe, that the ſame Almighty power, which at the laſt trump, will make our corruptible nature put on incorruption, and our mortal put on immortality, changed Elijah's terreſtrial, into a celeſtial body, and endowed it with ſuch faculties, as were neceſſary for the enjoyment of thoſe paradiſaical manſions in the great Jehovah's kingdom, to which it was paſſing. The notion of thoſe, who, upon this occaſion, make angels aſſume the likeneſs of the chariots and horſes, is not in the leaſt incongruous; becauſe, there is no doubt to be made, but that, by the divine permiſſion, they can transform themſelves into any ſhape. This inſtance, was a type of the aſcenſion of the Redeemer of mankind, who was to deſtroy death, and open the kingdom of heaven to all believers. And thus has God given us a teſtimony of our reſurrection, and a convincing proof of a future life, in Enoch, before the law; in Elijah, under the law; and in Chriſt, under the goſpel.

Ver. 12. The chariot of Iſrael and the horſemen thereof.] This expreſſion alludes to the form of the chariot and horſes that he had juſt then beheld, and ſeems to imply, that Elijah, by his example, and counſel, and prayers, and power with God, did more for the defence and preſervation of Iſrael, than all their chariots and horſes, and other warlike proviſions. There are ſome who ſuppoſe this was only an abrupt ſpeech, which Eliſha, in the conſternation he was in, left unfiniſhed, and in the ſame manner the hiſtorian has recorded it.

Ver. 15. Saw him.] It ſhould be rendered, ſaw it, namely, the miracle.

Ver. 16. Peradventure the ſpirit of the Lord, &c.] That is, the power of God, which frequently carried the prophets through the air, and removed them to very diſtant places with an amazing celerity, 1 Kings xviii. 12. Acts viii. 39.

22 So the waters were healed unto this day, according to the ſaying of Eliſha which he ſpake.

23 ¶ And he went up from thence unto Beth-el: and as he was going up by the way, there came forth little children out of the city, and mocked him, and ſaid unto him, Go up, thou bald-head, go up, thou bald-head.

24 And he turned back, and looked on them, and curſed them in the name of the LORD: and there came forth two ſhe-bears out of the wood, and tare forty and two children of them.

Before Christ 896.

1 Jehorams reign. 4 Meſha rebelleth. 6 Jehoram, with Jehoſhaphat, and the king of Edom, being diſtreſſed for want of water, by Eliſha obtaineth water, and promiſe of victory. 21 The Moabites deceived by the colour of the water, coming to ſpoil, are overcome.

NOW Jehoram the ſon of Ahab began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, the eighteenth year of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah, and reigned twelve years.

2 And he wrought evil in the ſight of the LORD, but not like his father, and like his mother; for he put away the image of Baal that his father had made.

3 Nevertheleſs, he cleaved unto the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, which made Iſrael to ſin; he departed not therefrom.

4 ¶ And Meſha king of Moab was a ſheep-maſter, and rendered unto the king of Iſrael an hundred thouſand lambs, and an hundred thouſand rams, with the wool.

5 But

Ver. 21. Caſt the ſalt in.] The unlikelineſs of the means inhances, or is rather an additional miracle; for ſalt naturally renders water leſs potable.

Ver. 23. There came forth little children out of the city, and mocked him, &c.] Beth-el, where Jeroboam had erected a golden calf, was a place ſtrangely addicted to idolatry, whoſe inhabitants had no ſmall averſion to Eliſha, as being the ſucceſſor of one, who had been a profeſſed enemy to their wicked worſhip. It is therefore reaſonable to ſuppoſe, that thoſe children, (if indeed they were children, for the word ſignifies alſo grown youths) who mocked Eliſha, were excited to it by their parents; therefore the judgment was juſt, in God's puniſhing the wickedneſs of thoſe parents, by the death of their children; who, tho' they ſuffered in this life, were reſcued from the danger of an idolatrous education, which might have been of fatal tendency, both to their preſent and future ſtate. In the mean time, it muſt be acknowledged, that the inſolence of theſe mockers was very provoking; the honour of God himſelf was ſtruck at, in the reproaches thrown upon his ſervant, and in one of his moſt glorious and miraculous works, the aſſumption of Elijah into heaven; God therefore, as a terror to other idolaters, as well as for the honour and authority of his prophets, thought proper to puniſh them in this remarkable manner, and confirm the word which had gone out of his ſervant's mouth.

Ver. 24. Two ſhe-bears.] Perhaps they had been robbed of their whelps, and, for that reaſon, were the more outrageous.

NOTES on Chap. III.

Ver. 2. The image of Baal.] That is, the pillar or column of Baal.

Ver. 3. The ſins of Jeroboam.] Namely, idolatry.

Ver. 4. Meſha king of Moab was a ſheep maſter.] The riches, not only of private perſons, but of princes likewiſe, in ancient times, conſiſted much in ſheep and cattle, which they looked after themſelves; and thus the greateſt part of the world lived, during the ſpace of near four thouſand years. The Romans, who were thus bred, made themſelves maſters of the world; and this kind of life and employ, hindered them not, at the ſame time, from being a brave and warlike people; but rather, it is the cauſe of ſtrength, renders the body robuſt, inured to labour, and accuſtomed to ſevere diſcipline.

An hundred thouſand lambs, and an hundred thouſand rams.] This was a prodigious number. But it is obſerved, that their ſheep frequently brought forth two at a time, and ſometimes twice a year. Solomon offered an hundred and twenty thouſand at the dedication of the temple, 2 Chron. vii. 5. The Reubenites, drove from the Hagarites, two hundred and fifty thouſand, 1 Chron. v. 21. In ancient times, when people's riches conſiſted in cattle, this was the only way of paying tribute. Pliny.

Before Chriſt 896. 5 But it came to paſs when Ahab was dead, that the king of Moab rebelled againſt the king of Iſrael.

6 ¶ And king Jehoram went out of Samaria the ſame time, and numbered all Iſrael.

895. 7 And he went and ſent to Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah, ſaying, The king of Moab hath rebelled againſt me: wilt thou go with me againſt Moab to battel? And he ſaid, I will go up: I am as thou art, my people as thy people, and my horſes as thy horſes.

8 And he ſaid, Which way ſhall we go up? And he anſwered, The way through the wilderneſs of Edom.

9 So the king of Iſrael went, and the king of Judah, and the king of Edom: and they fetcht a compaſs of ſeven days journey: and there was no water for the hoſt, and for the cattle that followed them.

10 And the king of Iſrael ſaid, Alas, that the LORD hath called theſe three kings together, to deliver them into the hand of Moab.

11 But Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD, that we may enquire of the LORD by him? And one of the king of Iſraels ſervants anſwered and ſaid, Here is Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat, which poured water on the hands of Elijah.

12 And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, The word of the LORD is with him. So the king of Iſrael, and Jehoſhaphat, and the king of Edom went down to him. Before Chriſt 895.

13 And Eliſha ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, What have I to do with thee? get thee to the prophets of thy father, and to the prophets of thy mother. And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto him, Nay: for the LORD hath called theſe three kings together, to deliver them into the hand of Moab.

14 And Eliſha ſaid, As the LORD of hoſts liveth, before whom I ſtand, ſurely, were it not that I regard the preſence of Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah, I would not look toward thee, nor ſee thee.

15 But now bring me a minſtrel. And it came to paſs when the minſtrel played, that the hand of the LORD came upon him.

16 And he ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, Make this valley full of ditches.

17 For thus ſaith the LORD, Ye ſhall not ſee wind, neither ſhall ye ſee rain; yet that valley ſhall be filled with water, that ye may drink, both ye, and your cattle, and your beaſts.

18 And this is but a light thing in the ſight of the LORD: he will deliver the Moabites alſo into your hand.

19 And ye ſhall ſmite every fenced city, and every choice city, and ſhall fell every good tree, and ſtop all wells of water, and mar every good piece of land with ſtones.

20 And it came to paſs in the morning, when the meat-offering was offered, that behold, there came water by the way

Ver. 11. Which poured water on the hands of Elijah.] That is, he miniſtered to, or attended upon Elijah.

Ver. 15. It came to paſs, when the minſtrel played, that the hand of the Lord came upon him.] There is in muſic, a wonderful power of quieting and compoſing the ſpirits when diſordered, and of raiſing them when flat and heavy. See note on 1 Sam. xvi. 23. Holy men, therefore, did not neglect ſuch helps, to render them ſedate and chearful, (not ſullen and melancholy) that they might be the better diſpoſed to receive divine inſpiration; perhaps the minſtrel ſung, at the ſame time, ſome hymn in the praiſes of God, by which the ſpirit of the prophet was greatly compoſed, that had been diſturbed, it may be, by his indignation at the king of Iſrael.

Ver. 20. There came water by the way, &c.] Which water was, doubtleſs, produced in a miraculous manner; and ſurely this muſt affect the idolatrous king of Iſrael, to ſee that the God, whoſe worſhip he had deſpiſed, and whoſe altars he had thrown down, was ſo benevolent, as to ſupply the neceſſity of thoſe who had abandoned his laws, and worſhipped other gods.

of Edom, and the country was filled with water.

21 ¶ And when all the Moabites heard that the kings were come up to fight againſt them, they gathered all that were able to put on armour, and upward, and ſtood in the border.

22 And they roſe up early in the morning, and the ſun ſhone upon the water, and the Moabites ſaw the water on the other ſide as red as blood:

23 And they ſaid, This is blood: the kings are ſurely ſlain, and they have ſmitten one another: now therefore, Moab, to the ſpoil.

24 And when they came to the camp of Iſrael, the Iſraelites roſe up and ſmote the Moabites, ſo that they fled before them: but they went forward ſmiting the Moabites, even in their country.

25 And they beat down the cities, and on every good piece of land caſt every man his ſtone, and filled it, and they ſtopped all the wells of water, and felled all the good trees: only in Kir-haraſeth left they the ſtones thereof: howbeit the ſlingers went about it, and ſmote it.

26 ¶ And when the king of Moab ſaw that the battel was too ſore for him, he took with him ſeven hundred men that drew ſwords, to break through even unto the king of Edom: but they could not.

27 Then he took his eldeſt ſon that ſhould have reigned in his ſtead, and offered him for a burnt-offering upon the wall: and there was great indignation againſt Iſrael: and they departed from him, and returned to their own land.

NOW there cried a certain woman of the wives of the ſons of the prophets unto Eliſha, ſaying, Thy ſervant my huſband is dead, and thou knoweſt that thy ſervant did fear the LORD: and the creditor is come to take unto him my two ſons to be bondmen.

2 And Eliſha ſaid unto her, What ſhall I do for thee? tell me, what haſt thou in the houſe? And ſhe ſaid, Thine handmaid hath not any thing in the houſe, ſave a pot of oil.

3 Then he ſaid, Go borrow thee veſſels abroad of all thy neighbours, even empty veſſels, borrow not a few.

4 And when thou art come in, thou ſhalt ſhut the door upon thee, and upon thy ſons, and ſhalt pour out into all thoſe veſſels, and thou ſhalt ſet aſide that which is full.

5 So ſhe went from him, and ſhut the door upon her, and upon her ſons, who brought the veſſels to her, and ſhe poured out.

6 And it came to paſs when the veſſels were full, that ſhe ſaid unto her ſon, Bring me yet a veſſel. And he ſaid unto her,

Ver. 23. This is blood, the kings are ſurely ſlain, &c.] The Moabites knew there were no ſprings in the valley; they knew likewiſe there had been no rain, and therefore they concluded it muſt be blood; which the reflexion of the rays of the ſun ſeemed to confirm. Hence, they naturally imagined, the armies had ſlain one another.

Ver. 27. There was great indignation againſt Iſrael.] Or, as it may be tranſlated, great repentance in Iſrael; they were exceedingly ſorry and troubled at this inhuman ſacrifice, and wiſhed they had not puſhed the war to ſuch extremity, as it had produced ſo barbarous an action.

NOTES on Chap. IV.

Ver. 1. The creditor is come to take unto him my two ſons to be bondmen.] The Jewiſh law conſidered children as the proper goods of their parents, who were empowered to ſell them for ſeven years; as their creditors were to compel them to do it, in order to diſcharge their debts. From the Jews, this cuſtom was propagated to the Athenians, and from them to the Romans; and is now obſerved in the Mogul's country.

Before Christ 895. her, There is not a veſſel more. And the oil ſtayed.

7 Then ſhe came and told the man of God: and he ſaid, Go, ſell the oil, and pay thy debt, and live thou and thy children of the reſt.

8 ¶ And it fell on a day, that Eliſha paſſed to Shunem, where was a great woman; and ſhe conſtrained him to eat bread. And ſo it was, that as oft as he paſſed by, he turned in thither to eat bread.

9 And ſhe ſaid unto her huſband, Behold now, I perceive that this is an holy man of God, which paſſeth by us continually.

10 Let us make a little chamber, I pray thee, on the wall, and let us ſet for him there a bed, and a table, and a ſtool, and a candleſtick: and it ſhall be when he cometh to us, that he ſhall turn in thither.

11 And it fell on a day that he came thither, and he turned into the chamber, and lay there.

12 And he ſaid to Gehazi his ſervant, Call this Shunammite. And when he had called her, ſhe ſtood before him.

13 And he ſaid unto him, Say now unto her, Behold, thou haſt been careful for us with all this care; what is to be done for thee? wouldeſt thou be ſpoken for to the king, or to the captain of the hoſt? And ſhe anſwered, I dwell among mine own people.

14 And he ſaid, What then is to be done for her? And Gehazi anſwered, Verily ſhe hath no child, and her huſband is old. Before Christ 895.

15 And he ſaid, Call her. And when he had called her, ſhe ſtood in the door.

16 And he ſaid, About this ſeaſon, according to the time of life, thou ſhalt embrace a ſon. And ſhe ſaid, Nay, my lord, thou man of God, do not lie unto thine handmaid.

17 And the woman conceived, and bare a ſon at that ſeaſon that Eliſha had ſaid unto her, according to the time of life.

18 ¶ And when the child was grown, it fell on a day, that he went out to his father to the reapers.

19 And he ſaid unto his father, My head, my head. And he ſaid to a lad, Carry him to his mother.

20 And when he had taken him, and brought him to his mother, he ſat on her knees till noon, and then died.

21 And ſhe went up, and laid him on the bed of the man of God, and ſhut the door upon him, and went out.

22 And ſhe called unto her huſband, and ſaid, Send me, I pray thee, one of the young men, and one of the aſſes, that I may run to the man of God, and come again.

23 And he ſaid, Wherefore wilt thou go to him to day? it is neither new-moon, nor

Ver. 8. A great woman.] A rich woman, one of a great eſtate,

Ver. 9. Which paſſeth by us continually.] Shunem was in the way as he went from Carmel (and not far from thence) to Beth-el and Jericho, and other places, where were the ſettled ſchools of the prophets.

Ver. 10. Let us make a little chamber—on the wall.] Dr. Shaw obſerves, that the houſes of the orientals, have commonly a ſmaller one annexed, which ſometimes riſes one ſtory higher than the houſe; ſometimes it is built over the porch or gateway, and has a door of communication into the gallery of the houſe; beſides another door, which opens immediately from a privy ſtair, down into the porch or ſtreet, without giving the leaſt diſturbance to the family; in theſe back-houſes, as they are called, ſtrangers are uſually lodged: of this nature was the little chamber built by the Shunammite for Eliſha.

Ver. 13. I dwell among mine own people.] That is to ſay, my huſband and I live privately, and are at peace with all men; we have no buſineſs at court, want no favour to be granted, no grievance to be redreſſed.

Ver. 16. Do not lie.] Feed me not with vain hopes.

Ver. 21. Shut the door upon him and went out.] She kept the death of the child ſecret from her huſband, leſt it ſhould too deeply affect him; this appears from his queſtion, verſe 23. Wherefore wilt thou go to him to day?

Ver. 23. It is neither new-moon, nor ſabbath.] Hence it appears, that the prophets were the public inſtructors of the people, and their houſes a kind of ſchool or ſynagogue, to which they reſorted on theſe days, to be taught their duty out of the law of God, and to be reſolved in their doubts.

Before Chriſt 895. nor ſabbath. And ſhe ſaid, It ſhall be well.

24 Then ſhe ſaddled an aſs, and ſaid to her ſervant, Drive, and go forward; ſlack not thy riding for me, except I bid thee.

25 So ſhe went and came unto the man of God to mount Carmel: and it came to paſs when the man of God ſaw her afar off, that he ſaid to Gehazi his ſervant, Behold, yonder is that Shunammite:

26 Run now, I pray thee, to meet her, and ſay unto her, Is it well with thee? is it well with thy huſband? is it well with the child? And ſhe anſwered, It is well.

27 And when ſhe came to the man of God to the hill, ſhe caught him by the feet: But Gehazi came near to thruſt her away. And the man of God ſaid, Let her alone, for her ſoul is vexed within her: and the LORD hath hid it from me, and hath not told me.

28 Then ſhe ſaid, did I deſire a ſon of my lord? did I not ſay, Do not deceive me?

29 Then he ſaid to Gehazi, Gird up thy loins, and take my ſtaff in thine hand, and go thy way: if thou meet any man, ſalute him not; and if any ſalute thee, anſwer him not again: and lay my ſtaff upon the face of the child.

30 And the mother of the child ſaid, As the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee. And he aroſe, and followed her.

31 And Gehazi paſſed on before them, and laid the ſtaff upon the face of the child, but there was neither voice, nor hearing: wherefore he went again to meet him, and told him, ſaying, The child is not awaked. Before Chriſt 895.

32 And when Eliſha was come into the houſe, behold, the child was dead, and laid upon his bed.

33 He went in therefore, and ſhut the door upon them twain, and prayed unto the LORD.

34 And he went up, and lay upon the child, and put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands, and he ſtretched himſelf upon the child, and the fleſh of the child waxed warm.

35 Then he returned, and walked in the houſe to and fro, and went up, and ſtretched himſelf upon him: and the child neeſed ſeven times, and the child opened his eyes.

36 And he called Gehazi, and ſaid, Call this Shunammite. So he called her: and when ſhe was come in unto him, he ſaid, Take up thy ſon.

37 Then ſhe went in, and fell at his feet, and bowed herſelf to the ground, and took up her ſon, and went out.

38 ¶ And Eliſha came again to Gilgal, and there was a dearth in the land, and the ſons of the prophets were ſitting before him: and he ſaid unto his ſervant, Set on the great pot, and ſeethe pottage for the ſons of the prophets. 891.

39 And one went out into the field to gather herbs, and found a wild vine, and gathered thereof wild gourds his lap-full, and came and ſhred them into the pot of pottage: for they knew them not.

40 So they poured out for the men to eat: and it came to paſs as they were eating of the pottage, that they cried out, and ſaid,

Ver. 26. She anſwered, it is well.] She did not think fit to tell Gehazi all the truth; but to deliver it to the prophet himſelf.

Ver. 38. Seethe the pottage for the ſons of the prophets.] So that they lived in ſociety, and after their lectures, eat together with their maſter.

Ver. 39. A wild vine.] This was probably the Coloquintida, which hath a leaf ſomewhat like that of a vine, is intolerably bitter, and purges exceſſively. Some, from its bitterneſs, have called it, the gall of the whole earth.

Before Christ 891. ſaid, O thou man of God, there is death in the pot: and they could not eat thereof.

41 But he ſaid, Then bring meal: and he caſt it into the pot; and he ſaid, Pour out for the people, that they may eat: and there was no harm in the pot.

42 ¶ And there came a man from Baal-ſhaliſha, and brought the man of God bread of the firſt-fruits, twenty loaves of barley, and full ears of corn in the huſk thereof: and he ſaid, Give unto the people, that they may eat.

43 And his ſervitor ſaid, What, ſhould I ſet this before an hundred men? He ſaid again, Give the people, that they may eat: for thus ſaith the Lord, They ſhall eat, and ſhall leave thereof.

44 So he ſet it before them, and they did eat, and left thereof, according to the word of the Lord.

CHAP. V.

1 Naaman by the report of a captive maid, is ſent to Samaria to be cured of his leproſy. 8 Eliſha ſending him to Jordan, cureth him: 15 He refuſeth Naamans gifts. 20 Gehazi ſmitten with the leproſy.

894. NOW Naaman captain of the hoſt of the king of Syria, was a great man with his maſter, and honourable, becauſe by him the Lord had given deliverance unto Syria: he was alſo a mighty man in valour, but he was a leper.

2 And the Syrians had gone out by companies, and had brought away captive out of the land of Iſrael a little maid, and ſhe waited on Naamans wife.

3 And ſhe ſaid unto her miſtreſs, Would God my lord were with the prophet that is in Samaria: for he would recover him of his leproſy. Before Christ 894.

4 And one went in, and told his lord, ſaying, Thus and thus ſaid the maid that is of the land of Iſrael.

5 And the king of Syria ſaid, Go to, go, and I will ſend a letter unto the king of Iſrael. And he departed, and took with him ten talents of ſilver, and ſix thouſand pieces of gold, and ten changes of raiment.

6 And he brought the letter to the king of Iſrael, ſaying, Now when this letter is come unto thee, Behold, I have therewith ſent Naaman my ſervant to thee, that thou mayeſt recover him of his leproſy.

7 And it came to paſs when the king of Iſrael had read the letter, that he rent his clothes, and ſaid, Am I God, to kill and to make alive, that this man doth ſend unto me, to recover a man of his leproſy? wherefore conſider, I pray you, and ſee how he ſeeketh a quarrel againſt me.

8 ¶ And it was ſo, when Eliſha the man of God had heard that the king of Iſrael had rent his clothes, that he ſent to the king, ſaying, Wherefore haſt thou rent thy clothes? let him come now to me, and he ſhall know that there is a prophet in Iſrael.

9 So Naaman came with his horſes, and with his chariot, and ſtood at the door of the houſe of Eliſha.

10 And Eliſha ſent a meſſenger unto him, ſaying, Go and waſh in Jordan ſe-

Ver. 41. Bring meal: and he caſt it into the pot—and there was no harm.] This alteration was not owing to any virtue in the meal, but entirely to the power of God.

Notes on Chap. V.

Ver. 4. One went in, and told his Lord.] The Vulgate reads, Naaman went in and told his Lord, that is, the king; which ſeems, according to the context, to be the true reading.

Ver. 10. Go and waſh in Jordan ſeven times.] The law required, that lepers, in order to their cleanſing, ſhould be ſprinkled ſeven times, Lev. xiv. 7. therefore the prophet ordered Naaman to dip himſelf as often; not that Jordan (as the Syrian argued) had any more virtue in it than other rivers; nor could cold water of any kind, be proper for the cure of this diſtemper; the root of which is, a white wateriſh humour, that would increaſe, rather than be diminiſhed by any ſuch application.

Before Christ 894.

ven times, and thy fleſh ſhall come again unto thee, and thou ſhalt be clean.

11 But Naaman was wroth, and went away, and ſaid, Behold, I thought, He will ſurely come out to me, and ſtand, and call on the name of the LORD his God, and ſtrike his hand over the place, and recover the leper.

12 Are not Abana and Pharpar, rivers of Damaſcus, better than all the waters of Iſrael? may I not waſh in them and be clean? So he turned, and went away in a rage.

13 And his ſervants came near, and ſpake unto him, and ſaid, My father, if the prophet had bid thee do ſome great thing, wouldeſt thou not have done it? how much rather then, when he ſaith to thee, Waſh and be clean?

14 Then went he down and dipped himſelf ſeven times in Jordan, according to the ſaying of the man of God: and his fleſh came again like unto the fleſh of a little child, and he was clean.

Before Christ 894.

15 ¶ And he returned to the man of God, he and all his company, and came and ſtood before him: and he ſaid, Behold, now I know that there is no God in all the earth, but in Iſrael: now therefore, I pray thee, take a bleſſing of thy ſervant.

16 But he ſaid, As the LORD liveth, before whom I ſtand, I will receive none. And he urged him to take it, but he refuſed.

17 And Naaman ſaid, Shall there not then, I pray thee, be given to thy ſervant two mules burden of earth? for thy ſervant will henceforth offer neither burnt-offering, nor ſacrifice unto other gods, but unto the LORD.

18 In this thing the LORD pardon thy ſervant, that when my maſter goeth into the houſe of Rimmon to worſhip there, and he leaneth on my hand, and I bow myſelf in the houſe of Rimmon: when I bow down myſelf in the houſe of Rimmon, the LORD pardon thy ſervant in this thing.

19 And he ſaid unto him, Go in peace. So he departed from him a little way.

20 ¶ But

Ver. 13. If the prophet had bid thee do ſome great thing, wouldeſt thou not have done it? &c.] Men too frequently ſlight things that are common and eaſy, and admire thoſe that are rare and difficult: in their paſſion, they reject what God himſelf propounds, if it is not agreeable to their fond humour.

Ver. 14. And he was clean.] This was the only cure of a leproſy that we read of, till Chriſt the great prophet appeared.

Ver. 17. Two mules burden of earth.] He thought the earth of the land would be more acceptable to God; or, becauſe he would declare his conjunction with the people of God in the true worſhip, and conſtantly put himſelf in mind of his great obligation to the Lord Jehovah; and perhaps thought, that he who put ſuch virtue into the waters of Iſrael, would do the ſame by the earth; which thoughts, though groundleſs and extravagant, were yet excuſable in an heathen and a novice, who was not yet ſufficiently inſtructed in the true religion.

Ver. 18. Rimmon.] The generality of interpreters think, that as the Syrians were great worſhippers of the ſun, this god is the ſame; and that the name Rimmon, or high, is given him by reaſon of his elevation. Grotius takes it for Saturn, that planet being the higheſt of all; and Seldon will have it to be the ſame with Elion, or the moſt high god of the Phœnicians. It is certain, that the word Rimmon, is the name that the Syrians give to pomegranates; and therefore, as their country was full of pomegranate-trees, whoſe fruit is not only of a delicious taſte, but of great uſe on account of the excellent liquor which it produces; they gave, perhaps, the name of pomegranate to their god, in the ſame manner that the Greeks and Latins gave that of Ceres, to the goddeſs of corn.

When I bow down myſelf in the houſe of Rimmon, the Lord pardon thy ſervant in this thing.] Some interpreters make the Syrian ſpeak in the preter tenſe, thus: The Lord pardon thy ſervant, that when my maſter went into the houſe of Rimmon, and he leaned on my hand, and I bowed myſelf in the houſe of Rimmon, the Lord pardon thy ſervant in this thing; and ſuppoſe that he here aſks pardon for what he had done amiſs, and diſcovering a mind ſenſible of his former tranſgreſſions, reſolved to avoid it for the future; but the far greater number of commentators (the oriental verſions, as well as the Greek and Vulgar, and the Hebrew doctors generally) underſtand it, that he ſpeaks of the future act of bowing. It is known, that ſtrangers and aliens, who were admitted proſelytes of the gate, were confined only to the worſhip of the true God, and the practice of moral and ſocial duties; and therefore, when Naaman declared himſelf a true worſhipper, and that his attending his maſter into the temple of Rimmon, was not with any religious purpoſe, but purely in performance of the duty of his office, the prophet had good reaſon to bid him go in peace.

Before Chriſt 894.

20 ¶ But Gehazi the ſervant of Eliſha the man of God ſaid, Behold, my maſter hath ſpared Naaman this Syrian, in not receiving at his hands that which he brought: but as the Lord liveth, I will run after him, and take ſomewhat of him.

21 So Gehazi followed after Naaman: and when Naaman ſaw him running after him, he lighted down from the chariot to meet him, and ſaid, Is all well?

22 And he ſaid, All is well: my maſter hath ſent me, ſaying, Behold, even now there be come to me from mount Ephraim two young men of the ſons of the prophets: give them, I pray thee, a talent of ſilver, and two changes of garments.

23 And Naaman ſaid, Be content, take two talents. And he urged him, and bound two talents of ſilver in two bags, with two changes of garments, and laid them upon two of his ſervants, and they bare them before him.

24 And when he came to the tower, he took them from their hand, and beſtowed them in the houſe; and he let the men go, and they departed.

25 But he went in, and ſtood before his maſter: and Eliſha ſaid unto him, Whence comeſt thou, Gehazi? And he ſaid, Thy ſervant went no whither.

26 And he ſaid unto him, Went not mine heart with thee, when the man turned again from his chariot to meet thee? is it a time to receive money, and to receive garments, and olive-yards, and vineyards, and ſheep, and oxen, and men-ſervants, and maid-ſervants?

27 The leproſy therefore of Naaman ſhall cleave unto thee, and unto thy ſeed for ever. And he went out from his preſence a leper as white as ſnow.

1 Eliſha giving leave to the young prophets, to enlarge their dwellings, cauſeth iron to ſwim. 13 The army which was ſent to Dothan to apprehend Eliſha, is ſmitten with blindneſs. 24 The famine in Samaria cauſeth women to eat their own children. 30 The king ſendeth to ſlay Eliſha.

AND the ſons of the prophets ſaid unto Eliſha, Behold now, the place where we dwell with thee is too ſtrait for us.

2 Let us go, we pray thee, unto Jordan, and take thence every man a beam, and let us make us a place there where we may dwell. And he anſwered, go ye.

3 And one ſaid, Be content, I pray thee, and go with thy ſervants. And he anſwered, I will go.

4 So he went with them. And when they came to Jordan, they cut down wood.

5 But as one was felling a beam, the ax-head fell into the water: and he cried, and ſaid, Alas, maſter, for it was borrowed.

6 And the man of God ſaid, Where fell it? And he ſhewed him the place. And he cut down a ſtick, and caſt it in thither, and the iron did ſwim.

7 Therefore ſaid he, Take it up to thee.

For ever.] Unto many generations; thus the words for ever frequently ſignify.

thee. And he put out his hand, and took it.

8 ¶ Then the king of Syria warred againſt Iſrael, and took counſel with his ſervants, ſaying, In ſuch and ſuch a place ſhall be my camp.

9 And the man of God ſent unto the king of Iſrael, ſaying, Beware that thou paſs not ſuch a place; for thither the Syrians are come down.

10 And the king of Iſrael ſent to the place which the man of God told him, and warned him of, and ſaved himſelf there, not once nor twice.

11 Therefore the heart of the king of Syria was ſore troubled for this thing, and he called his ſervants, and ſaid unto them, Will ye not ſhew me which of us is for the king of Iſrael?

12 And one of his ſervants ſaid, None my lord, O king: but Eliſha the prophet, that is in Iſrael, telleth the king of Iſrael the words that thou ſpeakeſt in thy bedchamber,

13 ¶ And he ſaid, Go, and ſpy where he is, that I may ſend and fetch him. And it was told him, ſaying, Behold, he is in Dothan.

14 Therefore ſent he thither horſes, and chariots, and a great hoſt: and they came by night, and compaſſed the city about.

15 And when the ſervant of the man of God was riſen early and gone forth, behold, an hoſt compaſſed the city, both horſes and chariots: and his ſervant ſaid unto him, Alas, my maſter, how ſhall we do?

Before Christ 893.

16 And he anſwered, Fear not: for they that be with us, are more than they that be with them.

17 And Eliſha prayed, and ſaid, Lord, I pray thee, open his eyes that he may ſee. And the Lord opened the eyes of the young man, and he ſaw: and behold, the mountain was full of horſes, and chariots of fire round about Eliſha.

18 And when they came down to him, Eliſha prayed unto the Lord, and ſaid, Smite this people, I pray thee, with blindneſs. And he ſmote them with blindneſs, according to the word of Eliſha.

19 ¶ And Eliſha ſaid unto them, This is not the way, neither is this the city: follow me, and I will bring you to the man whom ye ſeek. But he led them to Samaria.

20 And it came to paſs when they were come into Samaria, that Eliſha ſaid, Lord, open the eyes of theſe men that they may ſee. And the Lord opened their eyes, and they ſaw, and behold, they were in the mids of Samaria.

21 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Eliſha, when he ſaw them, My father, ſhall I ſmite them? ſhall I ſmite them?

22 And he anſwered, Thou ſhalt not ſmite them: wouldeſt thou ſmite thoſe whom thou haſt taken captive with thy ſword, and with thy bow? ſet bread and water before them, that they may eat and drink, and go to their maſter.

23 And

Ver. 10. Not once nor twice.] That is, frequently.

Ver. 13. Dothan.] This was a ſmall city in the half tribe of Manaſſeh, and not far from Samaria.

Ver. 17. The mountain was full of horſes and chariots of fire.] It muſt be allowed, that angels, whether they be purely ſpiritual, or (as others think) cloathed with ſome material form, cannot be ſeen with mortal eyes; and therefore, as Eliſha himſelf, without a peculiar vouchſafement of God, could not diſcern the heavenly hoſt, which at this time encamped about him; ſo he requeſts of God, that for the removal of his fears, and the confirmation of his faith, his ſervant might be indulged with the ſame privilege. Perhaps that notion, which prevailed among the Greeks, of a certain miſt which intercepts the ſight of their gods from the ken of human ſight, borrowed its original from ſuch hiſtorical facts as theſe. See note on Numb. xxii. 31.

Ver. 22. Wouldeſt thou ſmite theſe whom thou haſt taken captive with thy ſword, and with thy bow?] As if he had ſaid, it is humanity to ſpare thoſe whom thou haſt taken captive with thy ſword, and with thy bow; and ſurely it is more ſo, to ſpare theſe Syrians whom thou haſt not ſo taken. The law of humanity and compaſſion, ſhould always reſtrain us from treating with the utmoſt ſeverity, ſuch as ſurrender themſelves, and implore our mercy.

Before Chriſt 893. 23 And he prepared great proviſion for them: and when they had eaten and drunk, he ſent them away, and they went to their maſter. So the bands of Syria came no more into the land of Iſrael.

892. 24 ¶ And it came to paſs after this, that Ben-hadad king of Syria gathered all his hoſt, and went up, and beſieged Samaria.

25 And there was a great famine in Samaria: and behold, they beſieged it, until an aſſes head was ſold for fourſcore pieces of ſilver, and the fourth part of a cab of doves dung for five pieces of ſilver.

26 And as the king of Iſrael was paſſing by upon the wall, there cried a woman unto him, ſaying, Help, my lord, O king.

27 And he ſaid, If the LORD do not help thee, whence ſhall I help thee? out of the barn-floor, or out of the wine-preſs?

28 And the king ſaid unto her, What aileth thee? And ſhe anſwered, This woman ſaid unto me, Give thy ſon, that we may eat him to day, and we will eat my ſon to morrow.

29 So we boiled my ſon, and did eat him: and I ſaid unto her on the next day, Give thy ſon, that we may eat him: and ſhe hath hid her ſon.

Before Chriſt 892. 30 And it came to paſs when the king heard the words of the woman, that he rent his clothes, and he paſſed by upon the wall, and the people looked, and behold, he had ſackcloth within, upon his fleſh.

31 Then he ſaid, God do ſo and more alſo to me, if the head of Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat ſhall ſtand on him this day.

32 But Eliſha ſat in his houſe, (and the elders ſat with him) and the king ſent a man from before him: but ere the meſſenger came to him, he ſaid to the elders, See ye how this ſon of a murderer hath ſent to take away mine head? look when the meſſenger cometh, ſhut the door, and hold him faſt at the door: is not the ſound of his maſters feet behind him?

33 And while he yet talked with them, behold, the meſſenger came down unto him: and he ſaid, Behold, this evil is of the LORD, what ſhould I wait for the LORD any longer.

1 Eliſha propheſieth incredible plenty in Samaria. 3 Four lepers venturing on the hoſt of the Syrians, bring tidings of their flight. 12 The king ſpoileth the tents of the Syrians.

Ver. 23. The bands of Syria came no more into the land of Iſrael.] They made no more incurſions in ſmall parties, but determined to fall upon the Iſraelites at once, with a regular army.

Ver. 25. An aſs's head was ſold for fourſcore pieces of ſilver.] That is, for about five pounds ſterling, computing each piece or ſhekel at fifteen-pence. A prodigious price for what had ſo little on it; and that too, according to the law, unclean. But in time of famine, the Jews themſelves were abſolved from the obſervation of the law.

The fourth part of a cab.] A cab was a ſmall meaſure of corn, containing, as the Jews ſay, as much as twenty four eggs would hold; ſo that the fourth part is about three quarters of a pint. It is no where elſe mentioned in ſcripture.

Doves dung.] The original word ſignifies vetches, or pulſe; and ſhould have been ſo rendered. Travellers tell us, that at Grand Cairo and Damaſcus, there are magazines, where they conſtantly fry this ſort of grain, which the pilgrims buy, and take with them as part of the proviſion for their journey.

Ver. 29. So we boiled my ſon, and did eat him.] This whole relation is very affecting and ſhocking, and a terrible effect of divine vengeance, which Moſes had long before told the Iſraelites ſhould fall upon them, Deut. xxviii. 53, &c.

Ver. 31. If the head of Eliſha—ſhall ſtand on him this day.] The king's furious rage was, either on account, that Eliſha had diſſuaded him from ſmiting the Aſſyrians, when he had them laſt in his power, ver. 22. or elſe, becauſe he did not employ his intereſt in God, as he expected, to bring them deliverance.

Ver. 32. This ſon of a murderer.] His father, Ahab, had murdered the prophets, and Naboth.

Hold him faſt at the door, &c.] He foreſaw, by the ſpirit of prophecy, that the king repented of what he had decreed, and was coming to revoke it; therefore he only required the elders to do, what he knew the king would do himſelf, viz. ſtop the meſſenger at the door, and ſuffer him to proceed no further.

Ver. 33. What ſhould I wait for the Lord any longer.] Theſe words ſeem to have been ſpoken in a fit of deſpair. The king could not but acknowledge, that the evil was from the Lord; but declared he had ho hopes of redreſs, ſince they were driven to ſuch extremities, that women eat their own children.

Before Christ 892.

THen Eliſha ſaid, Hear ye the word of the LORD, Thus ſaith the LORD, To morrow about this time ſhall a meaſure of fine flour be ſold for a ſhekel, and two meaſures of barley for a ſhekel, in the gate of Samaria.

2 Then a lord on whoſe hand the king leaned, anſwered the man of God, and ſaid, Behold, if the LORD would make windows in heaven, might this thing be? And he ſaid, Behold, thou ſhalt ſee it with thine eyes, but ſhalt not eat thereof.

3 ¶ And there were four leprous men at the entering of the gate: and they ſaid one to another, Why ſit we here until we die?

4 If we ſay we will enter into the city, then the famine is in the city, and we ſhall die there: and if we ſit ſtill here, we die alſo. Now therefore come, and let us fall unto the hoſt of the Syrians: if they ſave us alive, we ſhall live; and if they kill us, we ſhall but die.

5 And they roſe up in the twilight, to go unto the camp of the Syrians: and when they were come to the uttermoſt part of the camp of Syria, behold, there was no man there.

6 For the LORD had made the hoſt of the Syrians to hear a noiſe of chariots, and a noiſe of horſes, even the noiſe of a great hoſt: and they ſaid one to another, Lo, the king of Iſrael hath hired againſt us the kings of the Hittites, and the kings of the Egyptians, to come upon us.

7 Wherefore they aroſe and fled in the twilight, and left their tents, and their horſes, and their aſſes, even the camp as it was, and fled for their life.

Before Christ 892.

8 And when theſe lepers came to the uttermoſt part of the camp, they went into one tent, and did eat and drink, and carried thence ſilver and gold, and raiment, and went and hid it; and came again, and entered into another tent, and carried thence alſo, and went and hid it.

9 Then they ſaid one to another, We do not well: this day is a day of good tidings, and we hold our peace: if we tarry till the morning light, ſome miſchief will come upon us: now therefore come, that we may go and tell the kings houſhold.

10 So they came, and called unto the porter of the city: and they told them, ſaying, We came to the camp of the Syrians, and behold, there was no man there, neither voice of man, but horſes tied, and aſſes tied, and the tents as they were.

11 And he called the porters, and they told it to the kings houſe within.

12 ¶ And the king aroſe in the night, and ſaid unto his ſervants, I will now ſhew you what the Syrians have done to us: they know that we be hungry, therefore are they gone out of the camp, to hide themſelves in the field, ſaying, When they come out of the city, we ſhall catch them alive, and get into the city.

13 And one of his ſervants anſwered and ſaid, Let ſome take, I pray thee, five of the horſes that remain, which are left in the city, (behold, they are as all the multitude of Iſrael that are left in it: behold,

Ver. 13. Let ſome take, I pray thee, five of the horſes that remain, &c.] The ſenſe of this paſſage ſeems to be this; that they were almoſt conſumed with hunger, and muſt ſhortly die, as well as the horſes and the Iſraelites had done, whom the famine had killed; therefore, if theſe horſes and men ſhould be taken by the Syrians, there would be no great loſs of them, for they would be loſt if they remained in Samaria.

Before Christ 892. hold, I ſay, they are even as all the multitude of the Iſraelites that are conſumed) and let us ſend and ſee.

14 They took therefore two chariot-horſes, and the king ſent after the hoſt of the Syrians, ſaying, Go and ſee.

15 And they went after them unto Jordan, and lo, all the way was full of garments and veſſels, which the Syrians had caſt away in their haſte: and the meſſengers returned and told the king.

16 And the people went out, and ſpoiled the tents of the Syrians. So a meaſure of fine flour was ſold for a ſhekel, and two meaſures of barley for a ſhekel, according to the word of the LORD.

17 ¶ And the king appointed the lord on whoſe hand he leaned, to have the charge of the gate: and the people trode upon him in the gate, and he died, as the man of God had ſaid, who ſpake when the king came down to him.

18 And it came to paſs as the man of God had ſpoken to the king, ſaying, Two meaſures of barley for a ſhekel, and a meaſure of fine flour for a ſhekel, ſhall be to morrow about this time in the gate of Samaria:

19 And that lord anſwered the man of God, and ſaid, Now behold, if the LORD ſhould make windows in heaven, might ſuch a thing be? And he ſaid, Behold, thou ſhalt ſee it with thine eyes, but ſhalt not eat thereof.

20 And ſo fell it out unto him: for the people trode upon him in the gate, and he died.

5 And it came to paſs as he was telling the king how he had reſtored a dead body to life, that behold, the woman whoſe ſon he had reſtored to life, cried to the king for her houſe, and for her land. And Gehazi ſaid, My lord, O king, this is the woman, and this is her ſon, whom Eliſha reſtored to life.

Ver. 1. A famine—ſhall come upon the land ſeven years.] Their puniſhments increaſed, in proportion to their ſins. The Jews ſay this was the terrible famine mentioned by the prophet Joel, four years of which were cauſed by noxious creatures devouring all the fruits of the earth, and the other three, by a want of rain.

Before Christ 885. and it was told him, ſaying, The man of God is come hither.

8 And the king ſaid unto Hazael, Take a preſent in thine hand, and go meet the man of God, and enquire of the LORD by him, ſaying, Shall I recover of this diſeaſe?

9 So Hazael went to meet him, and took a preſent with him, even of every good thing of Damaſcus, forty camels burden, and came and ſtood before him, and ſaid, Thy ſon Ben-hadad king of Syria hath ſent me to thee, ſaying, Shall I recover of this diſeaſe?

10 And Eliſha ſaid unto him, Go, ſay unto him, Thou mayeſt certainly recover: Howbeit, the LORD hath ſhewed me, that he ſhall ſurely die.

11 And he ſettled his countenance ſtedfaſtly, until he was aſhamed: and the man of God wept.

12 And Hazael ſaid, Why weepeth my lord? And he anſwered, Becauſe I know the evil that thou wilt do unto the children of Iſrael: their ſtrong holds wilt thou ſet on fire, and their young men wilt thou ſlay with the ſword, and wilt daſh their children, and rip up their women with child.

13 And Hazael ſaid, But what, is thy ſervant a dog that he ſhould do this great thing? And Eliſha anſwered, The LORD hath ſhewed me that thou ſhalt be king over Syria. Before Christ 885.

14 So he departed from Eliſha, and came to his maſter, who ſaid to him, What ſaid Eliſha to thee? And he anſwered, He told me that thou ſhouldeſt ſurely recover.

15 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that he took a thick cloth, and dipt it in water, and ſpread it on his face, ſo that he died: and Hazael reigned in his ſtead.

16 ¶ And in the fifth year of Joram the ſon of Ahab king of Iſrael, Jehoſhaphat being then king of Judah, Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah began to reign. 892.

17 Thirty and two years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jeruſalem.

18 And he walked in the way of the kings of Iſrael, as did the houſe of Ahab: for the daughter of Ahab was his wife; and he did evil in the ſight of the LORD.

19 Yet the LORD would not deſtroy Judah, for David his ſervants ſake, as he promiſed him to give him alway a light, and to his children.

20 ¶ In

Ver. 10. Go ſay unto him, thou mayeſt recover, &c.] His diſeaſe was not of ſuch a nature as to endanger his life, and the prophet therefore told him he might recover; but foreſaw he would have foul play.

Ver. 11. He ſettled his countenance ſtedfaſtly, until he was aſhamed.] He looked upon Hazael ſo long with a ſettled countenance, that Hazael was aſhamed. This is the moſt plain ſenſe.

Ver. 12. Wilt daſh their children.] This piece of barbarous cruelty the people of the eaſt were apt to run into, in the proſecution of their wars, as is intimated by the pſalmiſt, Pſalm cxxxvii. 8, 9. This inhuman practice, was not quite out of uſe among nations that pretended to more politeneſs. The Grecians (according to the remains of ancient fame) when they became maſters of Troy, were ſo cruel as to throw Aſtyanax, Hector's ſon, a child in his mother's arms* (as Homer repreſents him) headlong from one of the towers of the city.

And rip up their women with child.] There is reaſon to believe that Hazael, in his war with the Gileadites, chap. x. 32, 33. verified this part of the prophet's prediction concerning him; for what Amos, complaining of his cruelty to theſe people, calls threſhing Gilead with threſhing inſtruments of iron, both the Septuagint and Arabic verſions read, he ſawed the big-bellied women of Gilead with iron ſaws.

Ver. 15. He took a thick cloth, and dipt it in water.] He ſuffocated him with the cloth, which he pretended to lay on his face to cool him. So the emperor Tiberius, (according to Suetonius) was in his laſt ſickneſs, choaked in his bed, by a pillow crammed into his mouth; or as Tacitus, was ſmothered under a vaſt load of bed-clothes; and that king Demetrius, the ſon of Philip (as well as the emperor Frederic II.) was hurried out of the world the ſame way.

Ver. 19. To give him alway a light, and to his children.] That is, a ſucceſſion of princes, not to be completed till the appearance of the Meſſiah, whoſe kingdom will continue to all eternity.

Before Chriſt 892. 20 ¶ In his days Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah, and made a king over themſelves.

21 So Joram went over to Zair, and all the chariots with him, and he roſe by night and ſmote the Edomites which compaſſed him about: and the captains of the chariots, and the people fled into their tents.

22 Yet Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah unto this day. Then Libnah revolted at the ſame time.

23 And the reſt of the acts of Joram, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

885. 24 And Joram ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Ahaziah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

25 ¶ In the twelfth year of Joram the ſon of Ahab king of Iſrael, did Ahaziah the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah begin to reign.

26 Two and twenty years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jeruſalem; and his mothers name was Athaliah, the daughter of Omri king of Iſrael.

27 And he walked in the way of the houſe of Ahab, and did evil in the ſight of the Lord, as did the houſe of Ahab; for he was the ſon in law of the houſe of Ahab.

884. 28 ¶ And he went with Joram the ſon of Ahab, to the war againſt Hazael king of Syria in Ramoth-gilead, and the Syrians wounded Joram.

Before Chriſt 884. 29 And king Joram went back to be healed in Jezreel, of the wounds which the Syrians had given him at Ramah, when he fought againſt Hazael king of Syria: and Ahaziah the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah, went down to ſee Joram the ſon of Ahab in Jezreel, becauſe he was ſick.

CHAP. IX.

1 Eliſha ſendeth a young prophet with inſtructions to anoint Jehu at Ramoth-gilead. 4 The prophet having done his meſſage, fleeth. 11 Jehu being made king by the ſoldiers, killeth Joram in the field of Naboth.

AND Eliſha the prophet called one of the children of the prophets, and ſaid unto him, Gird up thy loins, and take this box of oil in thine hand, and go to Ramoth-gilead.

2 And when thou comeſt thither, look out there Jehu the ſon of Jehoſhaphat, the ſon of Nimſhi, and go in, and make him ariſe up from among his brethren, and carry him to an inner chamber.

3 Then take the box of oil, and pour it on his head, and ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord, I have anointed thee king over Iſrael: then open the door, and flee, and tarry not.

4 ¶ So the young man, even the young man the prophet, went to Ramoth-gilead.

5 And when he came, behold, the captains of the hoſts were ſitting; and he ſaid, I have an errand to thee, O captain. And Jehu ſaid, Unto which of us all? And he ſaid, To thee, O captain.

Ver. 22. Libnah revolted at the ſame time.] Libnah was a conſiderable city in the tribe of Judah, and belonged to the prieſts. The reaſon of this revolt ſeems to have been, becauſe he endeavoured to ſet up his idolatrous worſhip among them, contrary to the laws of God.

Ver. 26. Athaliah daughter of Omri.] She was the daughter of Ahab, but brought up and educated by Omri her grandfather, and thence called his daughter.

Notes on Chap. IX.

Ver. 1. Eliſha the prophet called one of the children of the prophets.] Elijah was commanded to anoint Jehu, but Ahab's humiliation, had moved God to defer the judgment pronounced upon him and his family; ſo that the execution of it was left to Eliſha.

Ver. 2. From among his brethren.] From the other officers of the army.

Before Christ 884.

6 And he aroſe, and went into the houſe, and he poured the oil on his head, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, I have anointed thee king over the people of the LORD, even over Iſrael.

7 And thou ſhalt ſmite the houſe of Ahab thy maſter, that I may avenge the blood of my ſervants the prophets, and the blood of all the ſervants of the LORD, at the hand of Jezebel.

8 For the whole houſe of Ahab ſhall periſh, and I will cut off from Ahab, him that piſſeth againſt the wall, and him that is ſhut up, and left in Iſrael.

9 And I will make the houſe of Ahab, like the houſe of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, and like the houſe of Baaſha the ſon of Ahijah.

10 And the dogs ſhall eat Jezebel in the portion of Jezreel, and there ſhall be none to bury her. And he opened the door, and fled.

11 ¶ Then Jehu came forth to the ſervants of his lord, and one ſaid unto him, Is all well? wherefore came this mad fellow to thee? And he ſaid unto them, Ye know the man, and his communication.

12 And they ſaid, It is falſe, tell us now. And he ſaid, Thus and thus ſpake he to me, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, I have anointed thee king over Iſrael.

13 Then they haſted, and took every man his garment, and put it under him on the top of the ſtairs, and blew with trumpets, ſaying, Jehu is king.

Before Christ 884.

14 So Jehu the ſon of Jehoſhaphat, the ſon of Nimſhi, conſpired againſt Joram: (Now Joram had kept Ramoth-gilead, he and all Iſrael, becauſe of Hazael king of Syria:

15 But king Joram was returned to be healed in Jezreel, of the wounds which the Syrians had given him, when he fought with Hazael king of Syria.) And Jehu ſaid, If it be your minds, then let none go forth nor eſcape out of the city, to go to tell it in Jezreel.

16 So Jehu rode in a chariot, and went to Jezreel, (for Joram lay there) and Ahaziah king of Judah was come down to ſee Joram.

17 And there ſtood a watchman on the tower in Jezreel, and he ſpied the company of Jehu as he came, and ſaid, I ſee a company. And Joram ſaid, Take an horſeman, and ſend to meet them, and let him ſay, Is it peace?

18 So there went one on horſeback to meet him, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu ſaid, What haſt thou to do with peace? turn thee behind me. And the watchman told, ſaying, The meſſenger came to them, but he cometh not again.

19 Then he ſent out a ſecond on horſeback, which came to them, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu

Ver. 11. Wherefore came this mad fellow to thee?] There were ſeveral reaſons, which induced Jehu's officers to have a contemptible opinion of the prophets. The Jews obſerve, there was ſomething in their looks and geſtures, which made them paſs for madmen, among thoſe who did not know them; which is agreeable to what we read of Saul, who lay uncovered a whole day and night, while the ſpirit was upon him, 1 Sam. xix. 24. We read likewiſe, that the leading men of the tribe of Judah, treated the prophets of the Lord as fools and madmen, Jer. xxix. 26. What may ſtill add to the uncommonneſs of their figure and behaviour, was the oddneſs of their dreſs, their living by themſelves, and ſeldom appearing in public, but on ſome extraordinary errand, which often proved of a dangerous nature, and put them in fear whilſt they went about it.

Ver. 17. There ſtood a watchman on the tower in Jezreel.] In time of peace, as well as war, it was cuſtomary to place watchmen on high places, wherever the king was, to prevent his being ſurpriſed; and, it is natural to think, that Joram would keep a watchful eye upon every company that appeared, eſpecially from the quarter of Ramoth-gilead, where his army lay.

Ver. 18. What haſt thou to do with peace? &c.] What concern is it of yours, whether it is peace or war? Follow me.

Before Chriſt 884.

Jehu anſwered, What haſt thou to do with peace? turn thee behind me.

20 And the watchman told, ſaying, He came even unto them, and cometh not again: and the driving is like the driving of Jehu the ſon of Nimſhi; for he driveth furiouſly.

21 And Joram ſaid, Make ready. And his chariot was made ready. And Joram king of Iſrael, and Ahaziah king of Judah went out, each in his chariot, and they went out againſt Jehu, and met him in the portion of Naboth the Jezreelite.

22 And it came to paſs when Joram ſaw Jehu, that he ſaid, Is it peace, Jehu? And he anſwered, What peace, ſo long as the whoredoms of thy mother Jezebel, and her witchcrafts are ſo many?

23 And Joram turned his hands, and fled, and ſaid to Ahaziah, There is treachery, O Ahaziah.

24 And Jehu drew a bow with his full ſtrength, and ſmote Jehoram between his arms, and the arrow went out at his heart, and he ſunk down in his chariot.

25 Then ſaid Jehu to Bidkar his captain, Take up, and caſt him in the portion of the field of Naboth the Jezreelite: for remember, how that when I and thou rode together after Ahab his father, the LORD laid this burden upon him.

26 Surely, I have ſeen yeſterday the blood of Naboth, and the blood of his ſons, ſaid the LORD, and I will requite thee in this plat, ſaith the LORD. Now therefore take and caſt him into the plat of ground, according to the word of the LORD.

27 ¶ But when Ahaziah the king of Judah ſaw this, he fled by the way of the garden-houſe: and Jehu followed after him, and ſaid, Smite him alſo in the chariot: and they did ſo, at the going up to Gur, which is by Ibleam: and he fled to Megiddo, and died there.

28 And his ſervants carried him in a chariot to Jeruſalem, and buried him in his ſepulcher with his fathers in the city of David.

29 And in the eleventh year of Joram the ſon of Ahab, began Ahaziah to reign over Judah.

30 ¶ And when Jehu was come to Jezreel, Jezebel heard of it, and ſhe painted her face, and tired her head, and looked out at a window. 886.

31 And as Jehu entered in at the gate, ſhe

Ver. 22. So long as the whoredoms of thy mother Jezebel, and her witchcrafts are ſo many.] That is, whilſt her idolatries, with which ſhe bewitches the people, are ſtill continued, and even multiplied: he upbraids him with his mother's ſins, becauſe far more notorious than his own.

Ver. 24. Between his arms.] That is, between his ſhoulders.

The arrow went out at his heart.] The Septuagint reads, went through his heart.

Ver. 25. Caſt him in the portion of the field of Naboth.] Part of which Ahab had made a garden; but the reſt remained a field.

Ver. 26. The blood of his ſons.] We do not find, in all the hiſtory of Naboth, (1 Kings xxi.) any mention of the death of his ſons. It is not improbable, that as Naboth had been accuſed of high treaſon, all his family were involved in his ruin: what ſeems to confirm this opinion is, that we do not find Elijah, ever putting the king in mind of reſtoring the vineyard to Naboth's children; probably becauſe there were no heirs left.

Ver. 30. She painted her face, and tired her hair.] The Hebrews ſay, ſhe put her eyes in paint, i. e. ſhe uſed ſtibium or antimony pulverized, to make her eyes and eye-brows look black and large, which was reckoned a great ornament. Dr. Shaw ſays, the Mooriſh ladies tinge their eyelids with the powder of lead ore; the ſooty colour, which is thus communicated to the eyes, is thought to add a great degree of gracefulneſs to perſons of all complexions. The uſe of paint is of ancient date, and the art of colouring the hair, and beautifying the face, may be indulged to the vanity of the female ſex: but it raiſes one's indignation, to read of a Sardanapalus painting his eyes and eye-brows, of the ancient Greeks running into the ſame practice, and much more of the martial Romans: but there were fops and coxcombs in all nations then, as well as now.

Looked out at a window.] Dr. Shaw obſerves, there was generally but one window, or balcony towards the ſtreet, in the houſes of the orientals, (the reſt opening towards the quadrangle or court) which was never opened, but on great ſolemnities; ſuch was this window.

Before Christ 884.

ſhe ſaid, Had Zimri peace, who ſlew his maſter?

32 And he lift up his face to the window, and ſaid, Who is on my ſide, who? And there looked out to him two or three eunuchs.

33 And he ſaid, Throw her down. So they threw her down; and ſome of her blood was ſprinkled on the wall, and on the horſes: and he trode her under foot.

34 And when he was come in, he did eat and drink, and ſaid, Go ſee now this curſed woman, and bury her: for ſhe is a kings daughter.

35 And they went to bury her, but they found no more of her than the ſcull, and the feet, and the palms of her hands.

36 Wherefore they came again, and told him: and he ſaid, This is the word of the LORD, which he ſpake by his ſervant Elijah the Tiſhbite, ſaying, In the portion of Jezreel ſhall dogs eat the fleſh of Jezebel:

37 And the carcaſe of Jezebel ſhall be as dung upon the face of the field, in the portion of Jezreel, ſo that they ſhall not ſay, This is Jezebel.

CHAP. X.

1 Jehu by his letters cauſeth ſeventy of Ahabs children to be beheaded: 8 He excuſeth the fact by the prophecy of Elijah. 12 At the ſhearing houſe he ſlayeth two and forty of Ahaziahs brethren.

AND Ahab had ſeventy ſons in Samaria: and Jehu wrote letters, and ſent to Samaria, unto the rulers of Jezreel, to the elders, and to them that brought up Ahabs children, ſaying,

Before Christ 884.

2 Now as ſoon as this letter cometh to you, ſeeing your maſters ſons are with you, and there are with you chariots and horſes, a fenced city alſo, and armour:

3 Look even out the beſt and meeteſt of your maſters ſons, and ſet him on his fathers throne, and fight for your maſters houſe.

4 But they were exceedingly afraid, and ſaid, Behold, two kings ſtood not before him: how then ſhall we ſtand?

5 And he that was over the houſe, and he that was over the city, the elders alſo, and the bringers up of the children, ſent to Jehu, ſaying, We are thy ſervants, and will do all that thou ſhalt bid us; we will not make any king: do thou that which is good in thine eyes.

6 Then he wrote a letter the ſecond time to them, ſaying, If ye be mine, and if ye will hearken unto my voice, take ye the heads of the men your maſters ſons, and come to me to Jezreel by to morrow this time: (now the kings ſons being ſeventy perſons, were with the great men of the city, which brought them up)

7 And it came to paſs when the letter came to them, that they took the kings ſons, and ſlew ſeventy perſons, and put their heads in baſkets, and ſent him them to Jezreel.

8 ¶ And there came a meſſenger, and told him, ſaying, They have brought the heads of the kings ſons. And he ſaid, Lay ye them in two heaps at the entering in of the gate, until the morning.

9 And it came to paſs in the morning, that

NOTES on Chap. X.

Ver. 1. Ahab had ſeventy ſons.] In all probability, grandſons are here comprehended under the name of ſons, as is uſual in ſcripture.

that he went out, and ſtood, and ſaid to all the people, Ye be righteous: behold, I conſpired againſt my maſter, and ſlew him: but who ſlew all theſe?

10 Know now, that there ſhall fall unto the earth, nothing of the word of the LORD, which the LORD ſpake concerning the houſe of Ahab: for the LORD hath done that which he ſpake by his ſervant Elijah.

11 So Jehu ſlew all that remained of the houſe of Ahab in Jezreel, and all his great men, and his kinſfolks, and his prieſts, until he left him none remaining.

12 ¶ And he aroſe, and departed, and came to Samaria: and as he was at the ſhearing houſe in the way,

13 Jehu met with the brethren of Ahaziah king of Judah, and ſaid, Who are ye? And they anſwered, We are the brethren of Ahaziah, and we go down to ſalute the children of the king, and the children of the queen.

14 And he ſaid, Take them alive. And they took them alive, and ſlew them at the pit of the ſhearing-houſe, even two and forty men; neither left he any of them.

15 ¶ And when he was departed thence, he lighted on Jehonadab the ſon of Rechab, coming to meet him, and he ſaluted him, and ſaid to him, Is thine heart right, as my heart is with thy heart? And Jehonadab anſwered, It is. If it be, give me thine hand: and he gave him his hand, and he took him up to him into the chariot.

Before Christ 884.

16 And he ſaid, Come with me, and ſee my zeal for the LORD: So they made him ride in his chariot.

17 And when he came to Samaria, he ſlew all that remained unto Ahab in Samaria, till he had deſtroyed him, according to the ſaying of the LORD, which he ſpake to Elijah.

18 ¶ And Jehu gathered all the people together, and ſaid unto them, Ahab ſerved Baal a little, but Jehu ſhall ſerve him much.

19 Now therefore call unto me all the prophets of Baal, all his ſervants, and all his prieſts, let none be wanting: for I have a great ſacrifice to do to Baal; whoſoever ſhall be wanting, he ſhall not live. But Jehu did it in ſubtilty, to the intent that he might deſtroy the worſhippers of Baal.

20 And Jehu ſaid, Proclaim a ſolemn aſſembly for Baal. And they proclaimed it.

21 And Jehu ſent through all Iſrael, and all the worſhippers of Baal came, ſo that there was not a man left that came not: and they came into the houſe of Baal; and the houſe of Baal was full from one end to another.

22 And he ſaid unto them that was over the veſtry, Bring forth veſtments for all

Ver. 9. I conſpired againſt my maſter, and ſlew him: but who ſlew all theſe?] Beſides the accompliſhment of the divine decree, Jehu's further deſign, in requeſting this cruel ſervice of the nation was, that he might thereby engage them in the ſame crime with himſelf; beſides, by the murder of Ahab's kinſmen, they were deprived of any perſon of diſtinction to head them; and by this expedient, Jehu thought he ſhould, in ſome meaſure, leſſen the odium of his own barbarous and perfidious conduct; for this is the ſenſe of his appeal to the people.

Ver. 13. The brethren of Ahaziah.] That is, his brother's ſons. See 2 Chron. xxii. 8.

Ver. 18. Ahab ſerved Baal a little, but Jehu ſhall ſerve him much.] Jehu's diſſimulation is ſurely not to be excuſed, though it was for the ſervice of God; for the Almighty ſtands not in need of any man's ſins to compaſs his ends.

23 And Jehu went, and Jehonadab the ſon of Rechab into the houſe of Baal, and ſaid unto the worſhippers of Baal, Search, and look that there be here with you none of the ſervants of the LORD, but the worſhippers of Baal only.

24 And when they went in to offer ſacrifices, and burnt-offerings, Jehu appointed fourſcore men without, and ſaid, If any of the men whom I have brought into your hands, eſcape, he that letteth him go, his life ſhall be for the life of him.

25 And it came to paſs as ſoon as he had made an end of offering the burnt-offering, that Jehu ſaid to the guard, and to the captains, Go in, and ſlay them, let none come forth. And they ſmote them with the edge of the ſword, and the guard and the captains caſt them out, and went to the city of the houſe of Baal.

26 And they brought forth the images out of the houſe of Baal, and burnt them.

27 And they brake down the image of Baal, and brake down the houſe of Baal, and made it a draught-houſe unto this day.

28 Thus Jehu deſtroyed Baal out of Iſrael.

29 ¶ Howbeit, from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin, Jehu departed not from after them, to wit, the golden calves that were in Beth-el, and that were in Dan.

30 And the LORD ſaid unto Jehu, Becauſe thou haſt done well in executing that which is right in mine eyes, and haſt done unto the houſe of Ahab according to all that was in mine heart, thy children of the fourth generation ſhall ſit on the throne of Iſrael. Before Chriſt 884.

31 But Jehu took no heed to walk in the law of the LORD God of Iſrael, with all his heart: for he departed not from the ſins of Jeroboam, which made Iſrael to ſin.

32 ¶ In thoſe days the LORD began to cut Iſrael ſhort: and Hazael ſmote them in all the coaſts of Iſrael; 860.

33 From Jordan eaſtward, all the land of Gilead, the Gadites, and the Reubenites, and the Manaſſites, from Aroer, (which is by the river Arnon) even Gilead and Baſhan.

34 Now the reſt of the acts of Jehu, and all that he did, and all his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

35 And Jehu ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria, and Jehoahaz his ſon reigned in his ſtead. 856.

36 And the time that Jehu reigned over Iſrael in Samaria, was twenty and eight years.

Ver. 25. The city of the houſe of Baal.] There were great buildings adjoining to the temple of Baal in Samaria, where the prophets and prieſts lived; which were called a city, becauſe they were ſo ſpacious.

Ver. 29. Jehu departed not from after them.] Jehu, like his predeceſſors, apprehended, that if he ſhould deſtroy the golden calves, as he had done Baal, the people would return to the houſe of David; for which reaſon, all the following kings of Iſrael continued this falſe worſhip of the Lord, by the golden calves, till their captivity.

NOTES on Chap. XI.

Ver. 1. Deſtroyed all the ſeed royal.] The terrible fate of theſe royal families, cannot be read without horror, and is ſufficient to make any one bleſs providence, for having been born of meaner parentage. The whole offſpring of Jeroboam, Baaſha, and Ahab, kings of Iſrael, were cut off for their idolatry, ſo that there was none left;

Before Christ 884. 2 But Jehoſheba the daughter of king Joram, ſiſter of Ahaziah, took Joaſh the ſon of Ahaziah, and ſtole him from among the kings ſons which were ſlain; and they hid him, even him and his nurſe in the bed-chamber, from Athaliah, ſo that he was not ſlain.

3 And he was with her hid in the houſe of the LORD, ſix years: and Athaliah did reign over the land.

878. 4 ¶ And the ſeventh year Jehoiada ſent and fetched the rulers over hundreds, with the captains and the guard, and brought them to him into the houſe of the LORD, and made a covenant with them, and took an oath of them in the houſe of the LORD, and ſhewed them the kings ſon.

5 And he commanded them, ſaying, This is the thing that ye ſhall do; A third part of you that enter in on the ſabbath, ſhall even be keepers of the watch of the kings houſe:

6 And a third part ſhall be at the gate of Sur: and a third part at the gate behind the guard: ſo ſhall ye keep the watch of the houſe that it be not broken down.

7 And two parts of all you that go forth on the ſabbath, even they ſhall keep the watch of the houſe of the LORD about the king. Before Christ 878.

8 And ye ſhall compaſs the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand: and he that cometh within the ranges, let him be ſlain; and be ye with the king as he goeth out, and as he cometh in.

9 And the captains over the hundreds did according to all things that Jehoiada the prieſt commanded: and they took every man his men that were to come in on the ſabbath, with them that ſhould go out on the ſabbath, and came to Jehoiada the prieſt.

10 And to the captains over hundreds, did the prieſts give king Davids ſpears and ſhields that were in the temple of the LORD.

11 And the guard ſtood, every man with his weapons in his hand, round about the king, from the right corner of the temple, to the left corner of the temple, along by the altar and the temple.

12 And he brought forth the kings ſon, and left; and the kings of Judah, having contracted an affinity with the houſe of Ahab, were ſo deſtroyed, by three ſucceſſive maſſacres, that there was but one left. For, firſt, Jehoram ſlew all his brethren; then Jehu ſlew all his brother's children; and now Athaliah deſtroyed all that her executioners could meet with. Enraged to ſee Ahab's family cut off, ſhe determined to do the ſame by the houſe of David. And being of the houſe of Ahab, ſhe had reaſon to apprehend, that Jehu would not long ſuffer her to live, her only ſafe way, therefore, was to uſurp the throne; but this ſhe well knew would be impoſſible, without deſtroying all the royal progeny, who were no friends to the worſhip of Baal, which ſhe was determined to maintain.

Ver. 2. Stole him from among the kings ſons which were ſlain.] Joſephus relates it thus:—" Jehoſheba, the ſiſter " of Ahaziah, and wife to Jehoiada the prieſt, coming " into the palace, found a male child of about a year " old, whoſe name was Joaſh, among the dead bodies of " the ſons of Ahaziah, whom the nurſe, it ſeems, had " laid there on purpoſe to ſave its life. She therefore " conveyed it away to her own lodgings, and thence to " the temple, where ſhe took care of it, through the " whole ſix years of Athaliah's reign, without making " any one privy to the ſecret, except her own huſband."

Ver. 5. A third part of you that enter in on the ſabbath, &c.] Of you prieſts and Levites, who now enter in upon your week of attendance at the temple.

Keepers of the watch of the kings houſe.] The Septuagint reads, Shall keep the watch of the kings houſe at the gate; meaning the gate of the temple, that led to the king's houſe: the three parties were to keep the three gates; this firſt party the gate of the kings houſe, that no body ſhould break through.

Ver. 6. The gate of Sur.] The eaſt-gate of the temple, towards the city, and the principal entrance.

The gate behind the guard.] The ſouth-gate, looking towards the royal palace.

Ver. 10. To the captains over hundreds, did the prieſts give king Davids ſpears and ſhields, &c.] The officers who were admitted to the knowledge of Jehoiada's deſigns, came into the temple unarmed, for fear of giving ſuſpicion. But as David had erected a kind of ſacred armoury in one of the apartments, wherein the weapons, and other trophies, taken from their enemies, (and as monuments of their victories, dedicated to the Lord) were depoſited, Jehoida took care, upon this occaſion, to have this magazine of military ſtores opened; ſo that there was no want of any ſort of arms.

and put the crown upon him, and gave him the teſtimony, and they made him king, and anointed him, and they clapt their hands, and ſaid, God ſave the king.

13 ¶ And when Athaliah heard the noiſe of the guard, and of the people, ſhe came to the people, into the temple of the LORD.

14 And when ſhe looked, behold, the king ſtood by a pillar, as the manner was, and the princes, and the trumpeters by the king, and all the people of the land rejoiced, and blew with trumpets: and Athaliah rent her clothes, and cried, Treaſon, treaſon.

15 But Jehoiada the prieſt commanded the captains of the hundreds, the officers of the hoſt, and ſaid unto them, Have her forth without the ranges; and him that followeth her, kill with the ſword. For the prieſt had ſaid, Let her not be ſlain in the houſe of the LORD.

16 And they laid hands on her, and ſhe went by the way by the which the horſes came into the kings houſe, and there was ſhe ſlain.

17 ¶ And Jehoiada made a covenant between the LORD, and the king and the people, that they ſhould be the LORDS people, between the king alſo and the people.

18 And all the people of the land went into the houſe of Baal, and brake it down, his altars and his images brake they in pieces throughly, and ſlew Mattan the prieſt of Baal before the altars: and the prieſt appointed officers over the houſe of the LORD.

20 And all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was in quiet; and they ſlew Athaliah with the ſword beſide the kings houſe.

CHAP. XII.

1 Jehoaſh reigneth well all the days of Jehoiada: 4 He giveth order for the repair of the temple. Hazael is diverted from Jeruſalem by a preſent of the hallowed treaſures. 19 Jehoaſh being ſlain by his ſervants, Amaziah ſucceedeth him.

IN the ſeventh year of Jehu, Jehoaſh began to reign; and forty years reigned he in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Zibiah of Beer-ſheba.

2 And Jehoaſh did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD all his days, wherein Jehoiada the prieſt inſtructed him.

3 But the high places were not taken away: the people ſtill ſacrificed, and burnt incenſe in the high places.

NOTES on Chap. XII.

Ver. 2. Jehoaſh did that which was right in the ſight of the Lord, &c.] Of ſuch great uſe is a worthy counſellor to a king: after the death of this good man, he fell into idolatry, and even ſlew the ſon of Jehoiada for reproving him, 2 Chron. xxiv. 21.

Ver. 4. The money of every one that paſſeth the account.] This money, the prieſts and Levites were commanded to go through the kingdom and collect, for repairing the temple.

The money that every one is ſet at.] The money every man, who had vowed to God, was to pay, by the eſtimation

Before Christ 878. at, and all the money that cometh into any mans heart to bring into the houſe of the LORD.

5 Let the prieſt take it to them, every man of his acquaintance, and let them repair the breaches of the houſe, whereſoever any breach ſhall be found.

856. 6 But it was ſo, that in the three and twentieth year of king Jehoaſh, the prieſts had not repaired the breaches of the houſe.

7 Then king Jehoaſh called for Jehoiada the prieſt and the other prieſts, and ſaid unto them, Why repair ye not the breaches of the houſe? now therefore receive no more money of your acquaintance, but deliver it for the breaches of the houſe.

8 And the prieſts conſented to receive no more money of the people, neither to repair the breaches of the houſe.

9 But Jehoiada the prieſt took a cheſt, and bored a hole in the lid of it, and ſet it beſide the altar, on the right ſide, as one cometh into the houſe of the LORD: and the prieſts that kept the door, put therein all the money that was brought into the houſe of the LORD.

10 And it was ſo, when they ſaw that there was much money in the cheſt, that the kings ſcribe, and the high prieſt came up, and they put up in bags, and told the money, that was found in the houſe of the LORD.

11 And they gave the money, being told, into the hands of them that did the work, that had the overſight of the houſe of the LORD: and they laid it out to the carpenters and builders, that wrought upon the houſe of the LORD,

12 And to maſons, and hewers of ſtone, and to buy timber, and hewed ſtone to repair the breaches of the houſe of the LORD, and for all that was laid out for the houſe to repair it. Before Christ 856.

13 Howbeit, there were not made for the houſe of the LORD, bowls of ſilver, ſnuffers, baſons, trumpets, any veſſels of gold, or veſſels of ſilver, of the money that was brought into the houſe of the LORD.

14 But they gave that to the workmen, and repaired therewith the houſe of the LORD.

15 Moreover, they reckoned not with the men, into whoſe hand they delivered the money to be beſtowed on workmen: for they dealt faithfully.

16 The treſpaſs-money, and ſin-money was not brought into the houſe of the LORD: it was the prieſts.

17 ¶ Then Hazael king of Syria went up, and fought againſt Gath, and took it: and Hazael ſet his face to go up to Jeruſalem. 840.

18 And Jehoaſh king of Judah took all the hallowed things that Jehoſhaphat, and Jehoram, and Ahaziah his fathers, kings of Judah had dedicate, and his own hallowed things, and all the gold that was found in the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD, and in the kings houſe, and ſent it to Hazael king of Syria, and he went away from Jeruſalem.

19 ¶ And the reſt of the acts of Joaſh, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

20 And his ſervants aroſe, and made a conſpiracy, and ſlew Joaſh in the houſe of Millo, which goeth down to Silla. 893.

NOTES on Chap. XIII.

Ver. 5. The Lord gave Iſrael a Saviour.] There is no particular perſon mentioned. The Septuagint reads, The Lord gave Iſrael a deliverance.

Ver. 10. In the thirty and ſeventh year of Joaſh—began Jehoaſh—to reign.] He reigned with his father three years; for otherwiſe, he muſt have begun his reign in the thirty-ninth or fortieth year of Joaſh king of Judah.

Ver. 14. The chariot of Iſrael and the horſemen thereof.] By this, ſignifying the many glorious victories he had obtained for them, by the efficacy of his counſels and prayers.

Before Christ 839. 15 And Eliſha ſaid unto him, Take bow and arrows: and he took unto him bow and arrows.

16 And he ſaid to the king of Iſrael, Put thine hand upon the bow: and he put his hand upon it: and Eliſha put his hands upon the kings hands.

17 And he ſaid, Open the window eaſtward: and he opened it. Then Eliſha ſaid, Shoot: and he ſhot. And he ſaid, The arrow of the LORDS deliverance, and the arrow of deliverance from Syria: for thou ſhalt ſmite the Syrians in Aphek, till thou have conſumed them.

18 And he ſaid, Take the arrows: and he took them. And he ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, Smite upon the ground: and he ſmote thrice, and ſtayed.

19 And the man of God was wroth with him, and ſaid, Thou ſhouldeſt have ſmitten five or ſix times, then hadſt thou ſmitten Syria till thou hadſt conſumed it: whereas now thou ſhalt ſmite Syria but thrice.

838. 20 ¶ And Eliſha died, and they buried him: and the bands of the Moabites invaded the land at the coming in of the year.

21 And it came to paſs as they were burying a man, that behold, they ſpied a band of men, and they caſt the man into the ſepulcher of Eliſha: and when the man was let down, and touched the bones of Eliſha, he revived, and ſtood up on his feet.

Before Christ 838. 22 ¶ But Hazael king of Syria oppreſſed Iſrael all the days of Jehoahaz.

23 And the LORD was gracious unto them, and had compaſſion on them, and had reſpect unto them, becauſe of his covenant with Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, and would not deſtroy them, neither caſt he them from his preſence as yet.

24 So Hazael king of Syria died, and Ben-hadad his ſon reigned in his ſtead. 839.

25 And Jehoaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz took again out of the hand of Ben-hadad the ſon of Hazael, the cities which he had 836.
taken out of the hand of Jehoahaz his father by war: three times did Joaſh beat him, and recovered the cities of Iſrael.

1 Amaziah his good reign: 5 His juſtice on the murderers of his father: 7 His victory over Edom. 8 Amaziah provoking Jehoaſh, is overcome and ſpoiled. 16 Jeroboam ſucceedeth Jehoaſh. 17 Amaziah ſlain by a conſpiracy.

IN the ſecond year of Joaſh ſon of Jehoahaz king of Iſrael, reigned Amaziah the ſon of Joaſh king of Judah. 839.

2 He was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and reigned twenty and nine years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Jehoaddan of Jeruſalem.

3 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, yet not like David his father: he did according to all things as Joaſh his father did.

4 Howbeit,

Ver. 15. Take bow and arrows.] This was a ſymbolical action, whereby the prophet intended, to repreſent the victory which he had promiſed the king of Iſrael againſt the Syrians, more plainly to him. His ſhooting the arrow eaſtward, or to that part of the country which the Syrians had taken from his anceſtors, was a declaration of war againſt them; and ſtriking the other arrows againſt the ground, was an indication how many victories he was to obtain; but his ſtopping his hand too ſoon, denoted the imperfection of his conqueſts, which diſpleaſed the prophet.

Ver. 19. The man of God was wroth with him.] The prophet had juſt reaſon for being offended, for his not believing God, who had wrought ſo many ſignal miracles in favour of the Iſraelites; for not relying on the prediction of him, who, according to his own acknowledgment, had been a conſtant defender of the ſtate; and now, even in his dying moments, was full of good wiſhes and intentions for his country.

Ver. 21. They caſt the man into the ſepulchre of Eliſha.] The common places of burial among the Hebrews, were in the fields or caverns, dug in a rock, with niches to place the corps in; and at the entrance, there was a hewn ſtone, which might be removed at pleaſure.

He revived, and ſtood up on his feet.] This ſtupendous miracle, ſufficiently confirmed both the ſucceſs he had promiſed the king, and the belief of a future life. See what is ſaid, Eccluſ. xlviii. 12, &c.

Before Chriſt 839. 4 Howbeit, the high places were not taken away: as yet the people did ſacrifice, and burnt incenſe on the high places.

5 ¶ And it came to paſs as ſoon as the kingdom was confirmed in his hand, that he ſlew his ſervants which had ſlain the king his father.

6 But the children of the murderers he ſlew not: according unto that which is written in the book of the law of Moſes, wherein the Lord commanded, ſaying, The fathers ſhall not be put to death for the children, nor the children be put to death for the fathers; but every man ſhall be put to death for his own ſin.

827. 7 He ſlew of Edom in the valley of ſalt, ten thouſand, and took Selah by war, and called the name of it Joktheel, unto this day.

8 ¶ Then Amaziah ſent meſſengers to
826. Jehoaſh the ſon Jehoahaz, ſon of Jehu king of Iſrael, ſaying, Come, let us look one another in the face.

9 And Jehoaſh the king of Iſrael ſent to Amaziah king of Judah, ſaying, The thiſtle that was in Lebanon, ſent to the cedar that was in Lebanon, ſaying, Give thy daughter to my ſon to wife: and there paſſed by a wild beaſt that was in Lebanon, and trode down the thiſtle.

10 Thou haſt indeed ſmitten Edom, and thine heart hath lifted thee up: glory of this, and tarry at home: for why ſhouldeſt thou meddle to thy hurt, that thou ſhouldeſt fall, even thou, and Judah with thee? Before Chriſt 826.

11 But Amaziah would not hear: therefore Jehoaſh king of Iſrael went up, and he and Amaziah king of Judah looked one another in the face at Beth-ſhemeſh, which belongeth to Judah.

12 And Judah was put to the worſe before Iſrael, and they fled every man to their tents.

13 And Jehoaſh king of Iſrael took Amaziah king of Judah, the ſon of Jehoaſh the ſon of Ahaziah, at Beth-ſhemeſh, and came to Jeruſalem, and brake down the wall of Jeruſalem, from the gate of Ephraim, unto the corner-gate, four hundred cubits.

14 And he took all the gold and ſilver, and all the veſſels that were found in the houſe of the Lord, and in the treaſures of the kings houſe, and hoſtages, and returned to Samaria.

15 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoaſh which he did, and his might, and how he fought with Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael? 825.

16 And Jehoaſh ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Iſrael, and Jeroboam his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

17 ¶ And Amaziah the ſon of Joaſh king of Judah, lived after the death of Jehoaſh

Selah.] Selah ſignifies a rock, anſwering to the Greek word petra; moſt commentators, from hence, think this city had its name from its ſituation on a rock, and that the adjacent track was called Arabia Petrea, from its being full of rocks.

Joktheel.] That is, obedience to God; ſo called, as it is thought, from his having obliged the inhabitants to obſerve the law of Moſes.

Ver. 8. Come, let us look one another in the face.] Amaziah, encouraged by his late victory, was determined to be revenged for the ſlaughter of his anceſtors by Jehu; and therefore ſent this open declaration of war, conceived in the mildeſt terms poſſible.

Ver. 9. The thiſtle that was in Lebanon, &c.] It was a cuſtom among the eaſtern people, to deliver their ſentiments in parables. Conſidering the circumſtances of the perſon this apologue was addreſſed to, who was a petty prince, fluſhed with a little ſucceſs, and thence impatient of enlarging his kingdom, no ſimilitude could be better adapted than that of a thiſtle, a low contemptible weed; but upon its having drawn blood from ſome traveller, it grows proud, and affects an equality with the cedar, the pride and ornament of the foreſt; till, in the midſt of all its arrogance, a wild beaſt treads it under foot, which Joaſh intimates, would be the fate of Amaziah, if he continued to provoke a prince of his ſtrength and power.

Before Christ 825. Jehoaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz king of Iſrael, fifteen years.

18 And the reſt of the acts of Amaziah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

19 Now they made a conſpiracy againſt him in Jeruſalem: and he fled to Lachiſh, but they ſent after him to Lachiſh, and ſlew him there.

810. 20 And they brought him on horſes; and he was buried at Jeruſalem with his fathers in the city of David.

21 ¶ And all the people of Judah took Azariah, (which was ſixteen years old) and made him king inſtead of his father Amaziah.

22 He built Elath, and reſtored it to Judah, after that the king ſlept with his fathers.

825. 23 ¶ In the fifteenth year of Amaziah, the ſon of Joaſh king of Judah, Jeroboam the ſon of Joaſh king of Iſrael began to reign in Samaria, and reigned forty and one years.

24 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the Lord: he departed not from all the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

25 He reſtored the coaſt of Iſrael from the entering of Hamath, unto the ſea of the plain, according to the word of the Lord God of Iſrael, which he ſpake by the hand of his ſervant Jonah, the ſon of Amittai, the prophet, which was of Gath-hepher.

26 For the Lord ſaw the affliction of Iſrael, that it was very bitter: for there was not any ſhut up, nor any left, nor any helper for Iſrael. Before Christ 842.

27 And the Lord ſaid not that he would blot out the name of Iſrael from under heaven: but he ſaved them by the hand of Jeroboam the ſon of Joaſh.

28 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Jeroboam, and all that he did, and his might, how he warred, and how he recovered Damaſcus, and Hamath, which belonged to Judah, for Iſrael, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael? 784.

29 And Jeroboam ſlept with his fathers, even with the kings of Iſrael; and Zachariah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

Ver. 21. Azariah.] In 2 Chron. xxvi. he is called Uzziah, but the proper name is Ozihu: the tranſcribers have confounded the name of the king Ozihu, with the name of his prieſt Ozrihu, who is mentioned in Chronicles.

Ver. 25. By the hand of his ſervant Jonah, &c.] The only mention we have of this prophet, is in this paſſage; and the account of his famous miſſion to Nineveh.

Notes on Chap. XV.

Ver. 1. In the twenty and ſeventh year of Jeroboam, &c.] Commentators have taken a great deal of pains to reconcile a ſeeming contradiction in this computation: for, if Amaziah, the father of Azariah, or Ozihu, lived no more than fifteen years after the beginning of Jeroboam's reign, then Ozihu muſt begin his, not in the twenty-ſeventh, but in the ſixteenth of Jeroboam: it is therefore ſuppoſed, that there was an interregnum of eleven or twelve years, between the death of Amaziah, and the inauguration of his ſon, who being left an infant of four years old when his father died, was committed to the guardianſhip of the grandees of the nation, till he was ſixteen, when they placed him on the throne of his anceſtors, in the twenty-ſeventh year of Jeroboam.

5 ¶ And the Lord ſmote the king, ſo that he was a leper unto the day of his death, and dwelt in a ſeveral houſe: and Jotham the kings ſon was over the houſe, judging the people of the land.

6 And the reſt of the acts of Azariah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

758. 7 So Azariah ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David; and Jotham his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

773. 8 ¶ In the thirty and eighth year of Azariah king of Judah, did Zachariah the ſon of Jeroboam reign over Iſrael in Samaria ſix months.

9 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the Lord, as his fathers had done: he departed not from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

772. 10 And Shallum the ſon of Jabeſh conſpired againſt him, and ſmote him before the people, and ſlew him, and reigned in his ſtead.

12 This was the word of the Lord which he ſpake unto Jehu, ſaying, Thy ſons ſhall ſit on the throne of Iſrael, unto the fourth generation. And ſo it came to paſs. Before Christ 772.

13 ¶ Shallum the ſon of Jabeſh began to reign in the nine and thirtieth year of Uzziah king of Judah, and he reigned a full month in Samaria.

14 For Menahem the ſon of Gadi, went up from Tirzah, and came to Samaria, and ſmote Shallum the ſon of Jabeſh in Samaria, and ſlew him, and reigned in his ſtead.

15 And the reſt of the acts of Shallum, and his conſpiracy which he made, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

16 ¶ Then Menahem ſmote Tiphſah, and all that were therein, and the coaſts thereof from Tirzah: becauſe they opened not to him, therefore he ſmote it, and all the women therein that were with child, he ript up.

17 In the nine and thirtieth year of Azariah king of Judah, began Menahem the ſon of Gadi to reign over Iſrael, and reigned ten years in Samaria.

21 ¶ And the reſt of the acts of Menahem, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

26 And the reſt of the acts of Pekahiah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

IN the ſeventeenth year of Pekah the ſon of Remaliah, Ahaz the ſon of Jotham king of Judah began to reign.

2 Twenty years old was Ahaz when he began to reign, and reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem, and did not that which was right in the ſight of the LORD his God, like David his father.

3 But he walked in the way of the kings of Iſrael, yea, and made his ſon to paſs through the fire, according to the abominations of the heathen, whom the LORD caſt out from before the children of Iſrael.

NOTES on Chap. XVI.

Ver. 3. Made his ſon paſs through the fire, &c.] He exceeded all that went before him in wickedneſs; for he even imitated the abominable idolaters, whom God caſt out before the children of Iſrael, by burning his children in the fire to his idols; but whether Ahaz did that, or only made his ſon paſs through the fire by way of luſtration, (as they called it) cannot be determined; for it is agreed by interpreters, that there were two ways of performing this idolatrous rite; either by cauſing the child to paſs between two fires, made near one another, by way of its conſecration to the ſervice of Moloch, or by putting it in the body of the idol made of braſs, and heated exceeding hot, ſo that it was immediately burnt to death.

Ver. 8. Sent it for a preſent.] In the Hebrew, ſent it for a bribe, &c.

Ver. 11. Urijah the prieſt built an altar, &c.] This was directly contrary to the command of God, who had appointed what kind of altar he would have, and no other ſort to be made, Exod. xxvii. 1, 2.

Before Chriſt 740. from Damaſcus: ſo Urijah the prieſt made it, againſt king Ahaz came from Damaſcus.

12 And when the king was come from Damaſcus, the king ſaw the altar: and the king approached to the altar, and offered thereon.

13 And he burnt his burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and poured his drink-offering, and ſprinkled the blood of his peace-offerings upon the altar.

14 And he brought alſo the brazen altar which was before the LORD, from the forefront of the houſe, from between the altar and the houſe of the LORD, and put it on the north ſide of the altar.

15 And king Ahaz commanded Urijah the prieſt, ſaying, Upon the great altar burn the morning burnt-offering, and the evening meat-offering, and the kings burnt-ſacrifice, and his meat-offering, with the burnt offering of all the people of the land, and their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, and ſprinkle upon it all the blood of the burnt-offering, and all the blood of the ſacrifice: and the brazen altar ſhall be for me to enquire by.

16 Thus did Urijah the prieſt, according to all that king Ahaz commanded.

739. 17 ¶ And king Ahaz cut off the borders of the baſes, and removed the laver from off them, and took down the ſea from off the brazen oxen that were under it, and put it upon a pavement of ſtones.

Before Chriſt 739. 18 And the covert for the ſabbath that they had built in the houſe, and the kings entry without, turned he from the houſe of the LORD, for the king of Aſſyria.

19 ¶ Now the reſt of the Acts of Ahaz, which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

20 And Ahaz ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David, and Hezekiah his ſon reigned in his ſtead. 726.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Hoſhea his wicked reign. 3 Being ſubdued by Shalmaneſer, he conſpireth againſt him with So king of Egypt. 5 Samaria for their ſins, is captivated.

IN the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah, began Hoſhea the ſon of Elah to reign in Samaria, over Iſrael nine years. 730.

2 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, but not as the kings of Iſrael that were before him.

3 ¶ Againſt him came up Shalmaneſer king of Aſſyria, and Hoſhea became his ſervant, and gave him preſents.

4 And the king of Aſſyria found conſpiracy in Hoſhea: for he had ſent meſſengers to So king of Egypt, and brought no preſent to the king of Aſſyria, as he had 725.

Ver. 15. The brazen altar ſhall be for me to enquire by.] It ought to be rendered, for me to worſhip at. He pretended to have ſome regard for this altar, and therefore ordered it to be ſet aſide for his own uſe.

Ver. 18. The covert for the ſabbath that they had built in the houſe, and the kings entry without.] Commentators are much at a loſs, to know what we are to underſtand by the word which we tranſlate covert. The prophet Ezekiel tells us expreſsly, that the gate of the inner court, which looked towards the eaſt, was opened only on the Sabbath, and on the day of the new-moon; and that in theſe days, the king was to enter into the temple at this gate, and continue at the entrance of the prieſts court (where was the brazen ſcaffold which Solomon erected, 2 Chron. vi. 13. a place for the king to pay his devotions on) until his ſacrifices were offered; and if ſo, what we tranſlate covert, might be a kind of canopy, or other covered place, under which the king ſat when he came to the ſervice of the temple on the Sabbath-day, or on other great ſolemnities, which was therefore called the covert for the Sabbath. The reaſon why the king ordered this to be taken away was, becauſe he intended to trouble himſelf no more with coming to the temple; and by this action, to expreſs his hatred likewiſe, and contempt of the Sabbath.

NOTES on Chap. XVII.

Ver. 2. He did that which was evil, but not as the kings of Iſrael that were before him.] Though he kept not the law of Moſes himſelf, he ſuffered others to do it, and even to go up to Jeruſalem to worſhip the Lord.

Ver. 4. So king of Egypt.] This So, with whom Hoſea entered into confederacy, is, in profane authors, called Sabacon, the famous Ethiopian mentioned by Herodotus and Diodorus Siculus, who, in the beginning of Hezekiah's reign, invaded Egypt; and having taken Boccaris the king priſoner, cauſed him to be burnt alive, and then ſeized on his kingdom.

Before Chriſt 725. done year by year: therefore the king of Aſſyria ſhut him up, and bound him in priſon.

724. 5 ¶ Then the king of Aſſyria came up throughout all the land, and went up to Samaria, and beſieged it three years.

721. 6 ¶ In the ninth year of Hoſhea, the king of Aſſyria took Samaria, and carried Iſrael away into Aſſyria, and placed them in Halah and in Habor by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes.

7 For ſo it was, that the children of Iſrael had ſinned againſt the LORD their God, which had brought them up out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharoah king of Egypt, and had feared other gods,

8 And walked in the ſtatutes of the heathen (whom the LORD caſt out from before the children of Iſrael) and of the kings of Iſrael, which they had made.

9 And the children of Iſrael did ſecretly thoſe things that were not right, againſt the LORD their God, and they built them high places in all their cities, from the tower of the watchmen, to the fenced city.

10 And they ſet them up images and groves in every high hill, and under every green tree:

11 And there they burnt incenſe in all the high places, as did the heathen whom the LORD carried away before them; and wrought wicked things to provoke the LORD to anger.

12 For they ſerved idols, whereof the LORD had ſaid unto them, Ye ſhall not do this thing.

Before Chriſt 721. 13 Yet the LORD teſtified againſt Iſrael, and againſt Judah, by all the prophets, and by all the ſeers, ſaying, Turn ye from your evil ways, and keep my commandments and my ſtatutes, according to all the law which I commanded your fathers, and which I ſent to you by my ſervants the prophets.

14 Notwithſtanding, they would not hear, but hardened their necks, like to the neck of their fathers, that did not believe in the LORD their God.

15 And they rejected his ſtatutes, and his covenant that he made with their fathers, and his teſtimonies which he teſtified againſt them, and they followed vanity, and became vain, and went after the heathen that were round about them, concerning whom the LORD had charged them, that they ſhould not do like them.

16 And they left all the commandments of the LORD their God, and made them molten images, even two calves, and made a grove, and worſhipped all the hoſt of heaven, and ſerved Baal.

17 And they cauſed their ſons and their daughters to paſs through the fire, and uſed divination and enchantments, and ſold themſelves to do evil in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

18 Therefore the LORD was very angry with Iſrael, and removed them out of his ſight: there was none left but the tribe of Judah only.

19 Alſo Judah kept not the commandments of the LORD their God, but walked

Ver. 9. The children of Iſrael did ſecretly, &c.] The context informs us, that the crimes of the Iſraelites were of a public nature; neither the Hebrew, nor the ancient verſions juſtify the preſent tranſlation.

Ver. 10. Under every green tree.] The Hebrew, which we tranſlate groves, ſignifies the idols placed in groves, and ſhould have been ſo rendered: for how could groves be ſet under every green tree?

Ver. 13. By all the prophets, &c.] There was one or more prophets in every kings reign, from Saul to Zedekiah, who conſtantly admoniſhed the Iſraelites of their duty. In the days of this very king, when Iſrael was carried away captive, they had the prophets Hoſea, Amos, Iſaiah, and Micah; and in the days of the laſt king, when Judah was carried captive, Jeremiah and Ezekiel.

Ver. 14. They bardened their necks.] That is, they were obſtinate.

Ver. 18. Removed them out of his ſight.] That is, removed them from the holy land, where his temple was.

Before Christ 721.

walked in the ſtatutes of Iſrael which they made.

20 And the LORD rejected all the ſeed of Iſrael, and afflicted them, and delivered them into the hand of ſpoilers, until he had caſt them out of his ſight.

21 For he rent Iſrael from the houſe of David, and they made Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat king, and Jeroboam drave Iſrael from following the LORD, and made them ſin a great ſin.

22 For the children of Iſrael walked in all the ſins of Jeroboam which he did, they departed not from them:

23 Until the LORD removed Iſrael out of his ſight, as he had ſaid by all his ſervants the prophets. So was Iſrael carried away out of their own land to Aſſyria, unto this day.

678. 24 ¶ And the king of Aſſyria brought men from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from Ava, and from Hamath, and from Sepharvaim, and placed them in the cities of Samaria, in ſtead of the children of Iſrael; and they poſſeſſed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof.

25 And ſo it was at the beginning of their dwelling there, that they feared not the LORD; therefore the LORD ſent lions among them, which ſlew ſome of them.

Before Christ 678.

26 Wherefore they ſpake to the king of Aſſyria, ſaying, The nations which thou haſt removed, and placed in the cities of Samaria, know not the manner of the God of the land: therefore he hath ſent lions among them, and behold, they ſlay them, becauſe they know not the manner of the God of the land.

27 Then the king of Aſſyria commanded, ſaying, Carry thither one of the prieſts whom ye brought from thence, and let them go and dwell there, and let him teach them the manner of the God of the land.

28 Then one of the prieſts whom they had carried away from Samaria, came and dwelt in Beth-el, and taught them how they ſhould fear the LORD.

29 Howbeit, every nation made gods of their own, and put them in the houſes of the high places which the Samaritans had made, every nation in their cities wherein they dwelt.

30 And the men of Babylon made Succoth-benoth, and the men of Cuth made Nergal, and the men of Hamath made Aſhima,

31 And

Ver. 25. The Lord ſent lions among them, &c.] Inſtead of lions, Joſephus ſays, they were infected with a dreadful plague, ſo that the place was in a manner depopulated: but allowing it to be lions, why ſhould theſe new inhabitants be more afflicted than the Iſraelites, who feared the Lord as little as they? but it ſhould be remembered, that though the Iſraelites were addicted to idolatry, yet they did not deny the divine power and providence; they only imagined, that their idols were the intermediate cauſes, whereby the bleſſings of the ſupreme God might be conveyed to them; whereas theſe new comers, believed the idols they worſhipped to be true gods, and had no conceptions of an almighty Being, who made and governed the world.

Ver. 30. Succoth-benoth.] Which words ſignify, the tabernacle of daughters, or young maidens. It refers to thoſe infamous places, where all the young women were obliged to proſtitute themſelves, in honour of the goddeſs Milytta, in other nations called Venus. Herodotus gives us an account of that abominable cuſtom at large; and, it is not improbable, that theſe Babylonians might bring it along with them into the country of Samaria.

Nergal.] The moſt probable opinion is, that nergal ſignified fire; for theſe Cuthites, afterwards called Perſians, adored fire; and in honour of the ſun, kept a perpetual flame burning on their altars.

Aſhima.] Some of the Rabbins tell us, that this deity was worſhipped under the ſhape of a goat; others of a ſatyr; and ſome commentators take it to be the ſame with Mars, becauſe as ſignified the ſame among the ancients, with ares among the Greeks, and ſchemah, is as much as hearing, or obedient; but the moſt probable conjecture is, that as aſuman, or ſuman, in the Perſian language ſignifies heaven, the Syrians might from hence derive the name of their god, who was repreſented by a large ſtone pillar, terminated in a conic or pyramidal figure, by which they denoted fire.

Before Chriſt 678.

31 And the Avites made Nibhaz and Tartak, and the Sepharvites burnt their children in fire to Adrammelech and Anammelech the gods of Sepharvaim.

32 So they feared the LORD, and made unto themſelves of the loweſt of them prieſts of the high places, which ſacrificed for them in the houſes of the high places.

33 They feared the LORD, and ſerved their own gods, after the manner of the nations, whom they carried away from thence.

34 Unto this day they do after the former manners: they fear not the LORD, neither do they after their ſtatutes, or after their ordinances, or after the law and commandment which the LORD commanded the children of Jacob, whom he named Iſrael;

35 With whom the LORD had made a covenant, and charged them, ſaying, Ye ſhall not fear other gods, nor bow yourſelves to them, nor ſerve them, nor ſacrifice to them:

36 But the LORD, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt, with great power, and a ſtretched out arm, him ſhall ye fear, and him ſhall ye worſhip, and to him ſhall ye do ſacrifice.

37 And the ſtatutes, and the ordinances, and the law, and the commandment which he wrote for you, ye ſhall obſerve to do for evermore, and ye ſhall not fear other gods. Before Chriſt 678.

38 And the covenant that I have made with you, ye ſhall not forget, neither ſhall ye fear other gods.

39 But the LORD your God ye ſhall fear, and he ſhall deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies.

40 Howbeit, they did not hearken, but they did after their former manner.

41 So theſe nations feared the LORD, and ſerved their graven images, both their children, and their childrens children: as did their fathers, ſo do they unto this day.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 Hezekiah his good reign: 4 He deſtroyeth idolatry, and proſpereth. 9 Samaria is carried captive for their ſins. 13 Sennacherib invading Judah, is pacified by a tribute. 726.

NOW it came to paſs in the third year of Hoſhea ſon of Elah king of Iſrael, that Hezekiah the ſon of Ahaz king of Judah began to reign.

2 Twenty and five years old was he when

Ver. 31. Nibhaz and Tartak.] It is uncertain what theſe were, but it is conjectured, that one of theſe ſignifies the ſun, and the other a chariot; and hence theſe two idols may, both together, denominate the ſun mounted on his car, as the fictions of the poets, and the notions of the heathen theologiſts, uſed to repreſent that bright luminary.

Adrammelech and Anammelech.] Moloch, Milcom, and Melech, in the languages of different nations, do all ſignify a king, and are put for the ſun, which is called the king, as the moon, the queen of heaven; and therefore, the addition of addir, to the one, which denotes powerful, and of ana, to the other, which ſignifies to anſwer, means no more than the mighty, or the oracular Moloch; as the children which were offered to him in ſacrifice, ſhew that he was the ſame with the Moloch of the Ammonites, or the Satach of the Phœnicians.

Ver. 41. So theſe nations feared the Lord, and ſerved the graven images.] They joined the worſhip of their own idols with that of God; in the ſame manner as the Iſraelites before them, had blended the worſhip of the golden calves, with that of the holy one of Iſrael.

NOTES on Chap. XVIII.

Ver. 2. Twenty and five years old was he when he began to reign.] It is before ſaid of Ahaz, (chap. xvi. 2.) that he was but twenty years old when he began to reign, and that he reigned ſixteen.. Now, if his ſon Hezekiah was twenty-five years of age, at the death of his father, it muſt follow, that his father, when he begat him, was only eleven years old, which ſeems incredible. But it muſt be remembered, that it is very common, both in ſacred and profane authors, in the computation of time, to take no notice whether the year they mention be perfect or imperfect, whether finiſhed, or but newly begun: hence we may very naturally ſuppoſe, that Ahaz was near one and twenty years old when he began to reign, and near ſeven years older when he died; and, on the other hand, that Hezekiah, when he began to reign, was but juſt entered into his five and twentieth year; and by this means, Ahaz might be near fourteen years old when he begat Hezekiah, which is no extraordinary thing, if the nature of the climate be conſidered.

Before Christ 726. when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and nine years in Jeruſalem: his mothers name alſo was Abi, the daughter of Zachariah.

3 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that David his father did.

4 ¶ He removed the high places, and brake the images, and cut down the groves, and brake in pieces the brazen ſerpent that Moſes had made: for unto thoſe days the children of Iſrael did burn incenſe to it: and he called it Nehuſhtan.

5 He truſted in the LORD God of Iſrael, ſo that after him was none like him among all the kings of Judah, nor any that were before him.

6 For he clave to the LORD, and departed not from following him, but kept his commandments, which the LORD commanded Moſes.

725. 7 And the LORD was with him, and he proſpered whitherſoever he went forth: and he rebelled againſt the king of Aſſyria, and ſerved him not.

8 He ſmote the Philiſtines, even unto Gaza, and the borders thereof, from the tower of the watchmen to the fenced city.

723. 9 ¶ And it came to paſs in the fourth year of king Hezekiah, (which was the ſeventh year of Hoſhea ſon of Elah king of Iſrael) that Shalmaneſer king of Aſſyria came up againſt Samaria, and beſieged it.

Before Christ 721. 10 And at the end of three years they took it, even in the ſixth year of Hezekiah (that is the ninth year of Hoſhea king of Iſrael) Samaria was taken.

11 And the king of Aſſyria did carry away Iſrael unto Aſſyria, and put them in Halah and Habor by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes:

12 Becauſe they obeyed not the voice of the LORD their God, but tranſgreſſed his covenant, and all that Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded, and would not hear them, nor do them.

713. 13 ¶ Now in the fourteenth year of king Hezekiah, did Sennacherib king of Aſſyria come up againſt all the fenced cities of Judah, and took them.

14 And Hezekiah king of Judah ſent to the king of Aſſyria to Lachiſh, ſaying, I have offended, return from me: that which thou putteſt on me, I will bear. And the king of Aſſyria appointed unto Hezekiah king of Judah, three hundred talents of ſilver, and thirty talents of gold.

15 And Hezekiah gave him all the ſilver that was found in the houſe of the LORD, and in the treaſures of the kings houſe.

16 At that time did Hezekiah cut off the gold from the doors of the temple of the LORD, and from the pillars which Heze-

Ver. 4. He removed the high places.] That is, the altars which were upon the hills. This none of his predeceſſors had the courage to attempt; but the captivity of the ten tribes, probably had awakened and alarmed the kingdom of Judah, and made it more eaſy for Hezekiah to introduce this reformation.

Brake in pieces the brazen ſerpent that Moſes had made.] It had been kept from the days of Moſes, as a monument of God's mercy to the Iſraelites in the wilderneſs; and Aſa and Jehoſhaphat did not extirpate it when they rooted out idolatry, becauſe, in their reign, they did not obſerve that the people worſhipped this ſerpent, or burnt incenſe to it; and therefore they left it as a memorial. But Hezekiah thought fit to take it quite away when he aboliſhed other idolatries, becauſe, in the time of his father, they worſhipped it as an idol; and though the pious among them, accounted it only to be a memorial of a wonder which God wrought in the wilderneſs, yet he judged it better to aboliſh it, though the memory of the miracle ſhould be loſt together with it, than ſuffer it to remain, and leave the Iſraelites in danger of committing idolatry with it hereafter, and making it the object of their worſhip.

Nehuſhtan.] Which ſignifies a thing of braſs, as if he had ſaid, it is ſurpriſing to think, how any perſon could be ſo ſtupid to worſhip this ſerpent, or flatter himſelf that it had any power to ſave, when it was only common braſs.

Ver. 13. Sennacherib.] He was the ſon of Shalmanezer, and ſucceeded him in the kingdom, as we read, Tobit i. 15.

Ver. 14. Three hundred talents of ſilver, and thirty talents of gold.] Three hundred and fifty one thouſand pounds ſterling.

Before Christ 710. kiah king of Judah had overlaid, and gave it to the king of Aſſyria.

17 ¶ And the king of Aſſyria ſent Tartan, and Rabſaris, and Rab-ſhakeh from Lachiſh, to king Hezekiah with a great hoſt againſt Jeruſalem: and they went up and came to Jeruſalem: and when they were come up, they came and ſtood by the conduit of the upper-pool, which is in the high-way of the fullers field.

18 And when they had called to the king, there came out to them Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, which was over the houſhold, and Shebna the ſcribe, and Joah the ſon of Aſaph the recorder.

19 And Rab-ſhakeh ſaid unto them, Speak ye now to Hezekiah, Thus ſaith the great king, the king of Aſſyria, What confidence is this wherein thou truſteſt?

20 Thou ſayeſt, (but they are but vain words) I have counſel and ſtrength for the war: now on whom doſt thou truſt, that thou rebelleſt againſt me?

21 Now behold, thou truſteſt upon the ſtaff of this bruiſed reed, even upon Egypt, on which if a man lean, it will go into his hand, and pierce it: ſo is Pharaoh king of Egypt unto all that truſt on him.

22 But if ye ſay unto me, We truſt in the LORD our God: is not that he whoſe high places, and whoſe altars Hezekiah hath taken away, and hath ſaid to Judah and Jeruſalem, Ye ſhall worſhip before this altar in Jeruſalem? Before Christ. 710.

23 Now therefore, I pray thee, give pledges to my lord the king of Aſſyria, and I will deliver thee two thouſand horſes, if thou be able on thy part to ſet riders upon them.

24 How then wilt thou turn away the face of one captain of the leaſt of my maſters ſervants, and put thy truſt on Egypt for chariots and for horſemen?

25 Am I now come up without the LORD aginſt this place to deſtroy it? The LORD ſaid to me, Go up againſt this land, and deſtroy it.

26 Then ſaid Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, and Shebna, and Joah, unto Rab-ſhakeh, Speak, I pray thee, to thy ſervants in the Syrian language, (for we underſtand it) and talk not with us in the Jews language, in the ears of the people that are on the wall.

27 But Rab-ſhakeh ſaid unto them, Hath my maſter ſent me to thy maſter, and to thee, to ſpeak theſe words? hath he not ſent me to the men which ſit on the wall, that they may eat their own dung, and drink their own piſs with you?

28 Then Rab-ſhakeh ſtood and cried with a loud voice in the Jews language, and ſpake, ſaying, Hear the word of the great king, the king of Aſſyria.

29 Thus

Ver. 17. Tartan, and Rabſaris, and Rab-ſhakeh.] Theſe are not the proper names of the men, but denote their employment and offices: Tartan ſignifies the preſident of the council; Rabſaris the chief eunuch, and Rab-ſhakeh the principal cup-bearer.

Ver. 19, 20. And Rab-ſhakeh ſaid unto them, &c.] The Jews are of opinion, that Rab-ſhakeh, from his ſpeaking Hebrew ſo fluently, was either an apoſtate Jew, or one of the captivity of Iſrael. It is certain that he was a very eloquent man, and his ſpeech excellently adapted to raiſe ſedition among the beſieged.

Ver. 21. The ſtaff of this bruiſed reed, even upon Egypt.] This compariſon is excellently adapted, to denote an ally, that is not only weak and unable to help, but alſo dangerous to thoſe who rely on him for ſuccour; and his repreſenting the power of Egypt, to be as brittle as the reeds growing on the banks of the Nile (for to theſe, doubtleſs, the Syrian author alludes) is a great beauty in the ſimilitude.

Ver. 23. I will deliver thee two thouſand horſes, &c.] He ſeems to challenge him to come out and fight with his maſter, and if he could give ſecurity, to make that uſe of them, he would furniſh him with two thouſand horſes, provided he was able to find the ſame number of men to mount them. A very inſolent ſpeech.

Ver. 26. Talk not with us in the Jews language in the ears of the people.] Eliakim, perhaps, perceived the people to be terrified with theſe inſolent words; and therefore intreated him, in the name of the other commiſſioners, which were ſent to treat with him, to ſpeak no longer in the Jewiſh language, but his own.

Before Christ 710.

29 Thus ſaith the king, Let not Hezekiah deceive you, for he ſhall not be able to deliver you out of his hand:

30 Neither let Hezekiah make you truſt in the LORD, ſaying, The LORD will ſurely deliver us, and this city ſhall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Aſſyria.

31 Hearken not unto Hezekiah: for thus ſaith the king of Aſſyria, Make an agreement with me by a preſent and come out to me, and then eat ye every man of his own vine, and every one of his fig-tree, and drink ye every one the waters of his own ciſtern:

32 Until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of corn and wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of oil-olive, and of hony, that ye may live and not die: and hearken not unto Hezekiah, when he perſuadeth you, ſaying, The LORD will deliver us.

33 Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered at all his land out of the hand of the king of Aſſyria?

34 Where are the gods of Hamath, and of Arpad? where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Ivah? have they delivered Samaria out of mine hand?

35 Who are they among all the gods of the countries, that have delivered their country out of mine hand, that the LORD ſhould deliver Jeruſalem out of mine hand?

36 But the people held their peace, and anſwered him not a word: for the kings commandment was, ſaying, Anſwer him not.

37 Then came Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, which was over the houſhold, and Shebna the ſcribe, and Joah the ſon of Aſaph the recorder, to Hezekiah with their clothes rent, and told him the words of Rab-ſhakeh.

Before Christ 710.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Hezekiah mourning, ſendeth to Iſaiah to pray for them. 6 Iſaiah comforteth them. 8 Sennacherib going to encounter Tirhakah, ſendeth a blaſphemous letter to Hezekiah. 14 Hezekiah his prayer. 20 Iſaiah his prophecy of the pride and deſtruction of Sennacherib, and the good of Zion.

AND it came to paſs when king Hezekiah heard it, that he rent his clothes, and covered himſelf with ſackcloth, and went into the houſe of the LORD.

2 And he ſent Eliakim, which was over the houſhold, and Shebna the ſcribe, and the elders of the prieſts, covered with ſackcloth, to Iſaiah the prophet the ſon of Amoz.

3 And they ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Hezekiah, This day is a day of trouble, and of rebuke, and blaſphemy: for the children are come to the birth, and there is not ſtrength to bring forth.

4 It may be the LORD thy God will hear all the words of Rab-ſhakeh, whom the king of Aſſyria his maſter hath ſent to reproach the living God; and will reprove the words which the LORD thy God hath heard: wherefore lift up thy prayer for the remnant that are left.

5 So the ſervants of king Hezekiah came to Iſaiah.

6 ¶ And Iſaiah ſaid unto them, Thus ſhall ye ſay to your maſter, Thus ſaith the LORD, Be not afraid of the words which thou haſt heard, with which the ſervants of the king of Aſſyria have blaſphemed me.

Ver. 36. The kings commandment was—anſwer him not.] A judicious, wiſe, and pious order. Hezekiah believed God would anſwer for himſelf, not by words, but in deeds.

NOTES on Chap. XIX.

Ver. 3. The children are come in the birth, &c.] This is a proverbal expreſſion, for a critical time of extremity in any caſe.

Before Christ 710.

7 Behold, I will ſend a blaſt upon him, and he ſhall hear a rumour, and ſhall return to his own land, and I will cauſe him to fall by the ſword in his own land.

8 ¶ So Rab-ſhakeh returned, and found the king of Aſſyria warring againſt Libnah: for he had heard that he was departed from Lachiſh.

9 And when he heard ſay of Tirhakah king of Ethiopia, Behold, he is come out to fight againſt thee: he ſent meſſengers again unto Hezekiah, ſaying,

10 Thus ſhall ye ſpeak to Hezekiah king of Judah, ſaying, Let not the God in whom thou truſteſt, deceive thee, ſaying, Jeruſalem ſhall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Aſſyria.

11 Behold, thou haſt heard what the kings of Aſſyria have done to all lands, by deſtroying them utterly: and ſhalt thou be delivered?

12 Have the gods of the nations delivered them which my fathers have deſtroyed; as Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the children of Eden which were in Thelaſar?

13 Where is the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, of Hena, and Ivah?

14 ¶ And Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the meſſengers, and read it: and Hezekiah went up into the houſe of the LORD, and ſpread it before the LORD.

15 And Hezekiah prayed before the LORD, and ſaid, O LORD God of Iſrael, which dwelleſt between the cherubims, thou art the God, even thou alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth, thou haſt made heaven and earth.

Before Christ 710.

16 LORD, bow down thine ear, and hear: open, LORD, thine eyes, and ſee: and hear the words of Sennacherib, which hath ſent him to reproach the living God.

17 Of a truth, LORD, the kings of Aſſyria have deſtroyed the nations and their lands,

18 And have caſt their gods into the fire: for they were no gods, but the work of mens hands, wood and ſtone: therefore they have deſtroyed them.

19 Now therefore, O LORD our God, I beſeech thee, ſave thou us out of his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou art the LORD God, even thou only.

20 Then Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz ſent to Hezekiah, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, That which thou haſt prayed to me againſt Sennacherib king of Aſſyria, I have heard.

21 This is the word that the LORD hath ſpoken concerning him, The virgin, the daughter of Zion hath deſpiſed thee, and laughed thee to ſcorn, the daughter of Jeruſalem hath ſhaken her head at thee.

22 Whom haſt thou reproached and blaſphemed? and againſt whom haſt thou exalted thy voice, and lift up thine eyes on

---

Ver. 7. A blaſt.] A peſtilence, which deſtroyed a great part of his numerous army in one night's time.

Ver. 8. Found the king of Aſſyria warring againſt Libnah.] Libnah was not far from Lachiſh, both ſituated on the mountains of Judah; it is probable, that Sennacherib, unable to take the latter, had removed the ſiege to Libnah, which he conſidered as a place not ſo well fortified as Lachiſh; and ſo ſituated, that by keeping a ſtrong guard in the paſſes of the mountains, he ſhould be able to carry on the ſiege, notwithſtanding the approach of Tirhakah.

Ver. 9. Ethiopia.] There were two countries called Cuſh, (which we tranſlate Ethiopia) one in Africa beyond Egypt, the other in Arabia, which is that here meant; becauſe that in Africa was at a great diſtance, and Tirhakah muſt have marched through Egypt.

Ver. 21. The virgin, the daughter of Zion—the daughter of Jeruſalem.] By the daughter of Sion, he means the people who inhabited the upper part of the city; and by the daughter of Jeruſalem, the people of the lower part: they ſhaked their heads, i. e. they laughed him to ſcorn—he calls Sion a virgin, becauſe this fortreſs, ſince David conquered it, remained inviolable.

Before Christ 710. on high? even againſt the holy One of Iſrael.

23 By thy meſſengers thou haſt reproached the Lord, and haſt ſaid, With the multitude of my chariots I am come up to the height of the mountains, to the ſides of Lebanon, and will cut down the tall cedar-trees thereof, and the choice fir-trees thereof: and I will enter into the lodgings of his borders, and into the foreſt of his Carmel.

24 I have digged and drunk ſtrange waters, and with the ſole of my feet have I dried up all the rivers of beſieged places.

25 Haſt thou not heard long ago, how I have done it, and of ancient times that I have formed it? now have I brought it to paſs that thou ſhouldeſt be to lay waſte fenced cities into ruinous heaps.

26 Therefore their inhabitants were of ſmall power, they were diſmayed and confounded, they were as the graſs of the field, and as the green herb, as the graſs on the houſe-tops, as corn blaſted before it be grown up.

27 But I know thy abode, and thy going out, and thy coming in, and rage againſt me.

Before Christ 710. 28 Becauſe thy rage againſt me, and thy tumult is come up into mine ears, therefore I will put my hook in thy noſe, and my bridle in thy lips, and I will turn thee back by the way by which thou cameſt.

29 And this ſhall be a ſign unto thee, Ye ſhall eat this year ſuch things as grow of themſelves, and in the ſecond year that which ſpringeth of the ſame, and in the third year ſow ye and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruits thereof.

30 And the remnant that is eſcaped of the houſe of Judah, ſhall yet again take root downward, and bear fruit upward.

31 For out of Jeruſalem ſhall go forth a remnant, and they that eſcape out of mount Zion: the zeal of the Lord of hoſts ſhall do this.

32 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord concerning the king of Aſſyria, He ſhall not come into this city, nor ſhoot an arrow there, nor come before it with ſhield, nor caſt a bank againſt it.

33 By the way that he came, by the ſame ſhall he return, and ſhall not come into this city, ſaith the Lord.

34 For I will defend this city to ſave it,

Ver. 23. With the multitude of my chariots I am come up, &c.] Here the prophet has given us an admirable deſcription of the ridiculous vanity and oſtentation of a king, puffed up with ſucceſs, as if he had ſaid, "What can "reſiſt the force of my victorious arms? Or where is the "the place that is inacceſſible to the ſtrength and activity of theſe troops? I have ſcaled the tops of the "higheſt mountains with my heavy chariots of war; I "have aſcended even Lebanon itſelf, and through the "moſt difficult paſſages, have opened and ſmoothed myſelf a way; Who then ſhall hinder me from taking up "my quarters in what part of Judea I pleaſe? from either climbing up to the top of Carmel, or from coming down into the fruitful vales, by making an entire "conqueſt of the country? At my call fountains, even "in the drieſt places, ariſe; at my beck the hills ſubſide, the rocks divide, and make me a way; and at "my approach, the deepeſt rivers and ditches run dry; "ſo that reſiſtance is unavoidable, and victory muſt attend my ſtandard wherever I go, or whatever enterpriſe I undertake."

Ver. 25. Haſt thou not heard long ago, &c.] Theſe are the words of God, in anſwer to thoſe vain and empty boaſts. Art thou ignorant that I dried up the Red-ſea.

Ver. 28. I will put my hook in thy noſe.] To underſtand this, we muſt know, that the dromedaries of the eaſtern countries, were governed by a bridle, which was faſtened to a ſtring, fixed in the noſtrils of the beaſt.

Ver. 29. This ſhall be a ſign unto thee, &c.] Theſe words are ſpoken to Hezekiah, and not intended as a truth of this prophecy, (becauſe it was not to happen till after that was fulfilled) but as a token of God's peculiar favour and protection, after Sennacherib was departed; for though the Aſſyrians had trodden the corn, and the ſucceeding year was the ſabbatical, or year of reſt to the land, when they were not permitted either to ſow or reap, yet God promiſes, that the earth ſhould, of itſelf, without any labour from them, produce ſufficient for their ſupport.

Ver. 30. Shall yet take root downward, and bear fruit upward.] He purſues the metaphor from corn ſown in the ground, ſignifying, that they ſhould have firm poſſeſſion of their own country, increaſe, multiply, and flouriſh therein.

Before Christ 710. for mine own ſake, and for my ſervant Davids ſake.

35 ¶ And it came to paſs that night, that the angel of the LORD went out, and ſmote in the camp of the Aſſyrians, an hundred fourſcore and five thouſand: and when they aroſe early in the morning, behold, they were all dead corpſes.

36 So Sennacherib king of Aſſyria departed, and went and returned, and dwelt at Nineveh.

709. 37 And it came to paſs as he was worſhipping in the houſe Niſroch his god, that Adrammelech and Sharezer his ſons ſmote him with the ſword: and they eſcaped into the land of Armenia; and Eſar-haddon his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XX.

1 Hezekiah having received a meſſage of death, by prayer hath his life lengthened. 8 The ſun goeth ten degrees backward, for a ſign of that promiſe. 14 Iſaiah foretelleth the Babylonian captivity.

713. IN thoſe days was Hezekiah ſick unto death: and the prophet Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz came to him, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Set thine houſe in order, for thou ſhalt die, and not live.

2 Then he turned his face to the wall, and prayed unto the LORD, ſaying, Before Christ 713.

3 I beſeech thee, O LORD, remember now how I have walked before thee in truth, and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy ſight: and Hezekiah wept ſore.

4 And it came to paſs afore Iſaiah was gone out into the middle court, that the word of the LORD came to him, ſaying,

5 Turn again, and tell Hezekiah the captain of my people, Thus ſaith the LORD, the God of David thy father, I have heard thy prayer, I have ſeen thy tears: behold, I will heal thee; on the third day thou ſhalt go up unto the houſe of the LORD.

6 And I will add unto thy days fifteen years, and I will deliver thee, and this city, out of the hand of the king of Aſſyria, and I will defend this city for mine own ſake, and for my ſervant Davids ſake.

7 And Iſaiah ſaid, Take a lump of figs. And they took and laid it on the boil, and he recovered.

8 ¶ And Hezekiah ſaid unto Iſaiah, What ſhall be the ſign that the LORD will heal

Ver. 35. The angel of the Lord went out, &c.] In what manner this mighty army was deſtroyed, whether by peſtilence, by fire from heaven, by ſcorching winds, or whatever other method, there is no impropriety, according to the Hebrew Idiom, in ſaying it was done by a deſtroying angel; which is a comprehenſive expreſſion, reconciling all the ſcripture phraſes, where this terrible defeat is mentioned, and all the ſentiments of commentators concerning it.

Ver. 37. Niſroch.] The learned Jurieu has made it appear, that this idol was Jupiter Belus, the founder of the Babyloniſh empire, who was worſhipped under the form of an eagle; and he farther obſerves, that as this Belus, in profane hiſtory, was the ſame with the Nimrod of Moſes, it is not improbable, that to perpetuate his honour, his votaries changed his name of Nimrod, which ſignifies a rebel, into that of Niſroch, which denotes a young eagle.

NOTES on Chap. XX.

Ver. 1. In thoſe days was Hezekiah ſick, &c.] Hezekiah reigned in the whole, nine and twenty years, chap. xviii. 2. He had reigned fourteen years when Sennacherib invaded him, chap. xviii. 13. and after his ſickneſs, he reigned fifteen years, ver. 6. conſequently, this ſickneſs happened in the very ſame year that the king of Aſſyria invaded Judea; but the ſacred penman thought fit to defer the account of it, till he had finiſhed the hiſtory of Sennacherib, that he might not break the thread of the narration.

Thou ſhalt die and not live.] That is, his diſeaſe was mortal, and conſequently could not be cured by any human remedy.

Ver. 2. He turned his face towards the wall.] That the fervency of his devotion might be leſs obſerved by his attendants.

Ver. 3. Hezekiah wept ſore.] Being as yet childleſs, he ſaw the royal family of David extinct, and all hopes of the Meſſiah's being born of his race, abortive; he ſaw the impending ſtorm that threatened his country with deſolation; as there was none of his family to ſucceed him, and all things in danger of falling into confuſion; this diſmal proſpect melted him into tears, as it ſeemed to extinguiſh all his hopes, and conſummate all his fears.

Ver. 7. Take a lump of figs.] A roaſted fig, with ſome white ſugar, powdered, is now uſed as a ſuppurative to a plague-boil at Conſtantinople. Philoſ. Tranſ. vol. 47. p. 387.

Before Christ 713. heal me, and that I ſhall go up into the houſe of the LORD the third day?

9 And Iſaiah ſaid, This ſign ſhalt thou have of the LORD, that the LORD will do the thing that he hath ſpoken: ſhall the ſhadow go forward ten degrees, or go back ten degrees?

10 And Hezekiah anſwered, It is a light thing for the ſhadow to go down ten degrees: nay, but let the ſhadow return backward ten degrees.

11 And Iſaiah the prophet cried unto the LORD, and he brought the ſhadow ten degrees backward, by which it had gone down in the dial of Ahaz.

712. 12 ¶ At that time Berodak-baladan the ſon of Baladan, king of Babylon, ſent letters, and a preſent unto Hezekiah: for he had heard that Hezekiah had been ſick.

13 And Hezekiah hearkened unto them, and ſhewed them all the houſe of his precious things, the ſilver, and the gold, and the ſpices, and the precious ointment, and all the houſe of his armour, and all that was found in his treaſures: there was nothing in his houſe, nor in all his dominion, that Hezekiah ſhewed them not.

14 ¶ Then came Iſaiah the prophet unto king Hezekiah, and ſaid unto him, What ſaid theſe men? and from whence came they unto thee? And Hezekiah ſaid, they are come from a far country, even from Babylon. Before Christ 712.

15 And he ſaid, What have they ſeen in thine houſe? And Hezekiah anſwered, All the things that are in mine houſe have they ſeen: there is nothing among my treaſures, that I have not ſhewed them.

16 And Iſaiah ſaid unto Hezekiah, Hear the word of the LORD.

17 Behold the days come, that all that is in thine houſe, and that which thy fathers have laid up in ſtore unto this day, ſhall be carried into Babylon: nothing ſhall be left, ſaith the LORD.

18 And of thy ſons that ſhall iſſue from thee, which thou ſhalt beget, ſhall they take away, and they ſhall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.

19 Then ſaid Hezekiah unto Iſaiah, Good is the word of the LORD which thou haſt ſpoken. And he ſaid, Is it not good, if peace and truth be in my days?

20 ¶ And the reſt of the acts of Hezekiah, and all his might, and how he made a pool, and a conduit, and brought water into the city, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? 710.

21 And Hezekiah ſlept with his fathers: and Manaſſeh his ſon reigned in his ſtead. 698.

CHAP.

Ver. 11. He brought the ſhadow ten degrees backward.] The prophet here, does not mean that the ſun went backward, (for then it had been perceived all over the world, which it certainly was not) but only the rays of the ſun. The words may be thus naturally rendered, The beams of the ſun (being miraculouſly inflected) cauſed the ſhadow to go back, over ten of the degrees, or ſteps, which it paſſed upon Ahaz's dial, or flight of ſteps: for, to ſuppoſe that the whole fabric of the univerſe went back, or that even the earth alone did ſo, is unneceſſary; becauſe the buſineſs was not to lengthen the day, as in Joſhua, but only to put the ſhadow back ſo many degrees. Beſides, the original word does not ſignify a dial, but ſteps, or ſtairs; and ſo the Septuagint render it, agreeably with Joſephus; for the gnomon dial, is not ſuppoſed to have been invented, till about two hundred years after Hezekiah.

Ver. 13. The precious ointment.] This is called by the Hebrew doctors Apharſemon, which, they ſay, was the true balſam, not to be found any where but near to Jericho.

Ver. 16. Hear the word of the Lord.] Hezekiah's offence ſeems to lay, not ſo much in the oſtentation of his military ſtores and treaſures, as in not giving due glory to God for ſo ſignal a miracle, and his recovery thereupon.

Ver. 19. Good is the word of the Lord, &c.] The words in the original are to this effect, what thou haſt told me from God is good, I willingly ſubmit to it: but ſhall peace and truth continue for my time? God is juſt in all his ways; but do theſe threats relate to me, or to my poſterity only? Happy for me, if he will ſuſpend the execution of his wrath, during the ſmall portion of time I have to live.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Manaſſeh his reign: 3 His great idolatry: 27 Amon ſucceedeth him: 23 He being ſlain by his ſervants, and thoſe murderers ſlain by the people, Joſiah is made king

MAnaſſeh was twelve years old when he began to reign, and reigned fifty and five years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Hephzi-bah.

2 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, after the abominations of the heathen, whom the LORD caſt out before the children of Iſrael.

3 For he built up again the high places which Hezekiah his father had deſtroyed, and he reared up altars for Baal, and made a grove, as did Ahab king of Iſrael, and worſhipped all the hoſt of heaven, and ſerved them.

4 And he built altars in the houſe of the LORD, of which the LORD ſaid, In Jeruſalem will I put my name.

5 And he built altars for all the hoſt of heaven, in the two courts of the houſe of the LORD.

6 And he made his ſon paſs through the fire, and obſerved times, and uſed enchantments, and dealt with familiar ſpirits, and wizards: he wrought much wickedneſs in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

7 And he ſet a graven image of the grove that he had made, in the houſe of which the LORD ſaid to David, and to Solomon his ſon, In this houſe, and in Jeruſalem, which I have choſen out of all tribes of Iſrael, will I put my name for ever.

Before Chriſt 698.

8 Neither will I make the feet of Iſrael move any more out of the land which I gave their fathers; only if they will obſerve to do according to all that I have commanded them, and according to all the law that my ſervant Moſes commanded them.

9 But they hearkened not: and Manaſſeh ſeduced them to do more evil than did the nations, whom the LORD deſtroyed before the children of Iſrael.

10 ¶ And the LORD ſpake by his ſervants the prophets, ſaying,

11 Becauſe Manaſſeh king of Judah hath done theſe abominations, and hath done wickedly above all that the Amorites did, which were before him, and hath made Judah alſo to ſin with his idols:

12 Therefore thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Behold, I am bringing ſuch evil upon Jeruſalem and Judah, that whoſoever heareth of it, both his ears ſhall tingle.

13 And I will ſtretch over Jeruſalem the line of Samaria, and the plummet of the houſe of Ahab: and I will wipe Jeruſalem as a man wipeth a diſh, wiping it, and turning it upſide down.

14 And I will forſake the remnant of mine inheritance, and deliver them into the hand of their enemies, and they ſhall become a prey, and a ſpoil to all their enemies;

15 Becauſe they have done that which was

NOTES on Chap. XXI.

Ver. 3. Made a grove.] That is, an oratory.

Ver. 4. He built altars in the houſe of the Lord.] Even in the ſanctuary itſelf, he erected idolatrons altars; for the outward courts are mentioned in the next verſe.

Ver. 13. I will ſtretch over Jeruſalem the line of Samaria.] This metaphor, is taken from thoſe who uſe a line in laying out the lots of ſeveral perſons; and ſignifies, that Jeruſalem ſhould ſuffer the ſame fate as Samaria had done, be viſited with famine, deſtroyed with the ſword, and its inhabitants carried into captivity.

The plummet of the houſe of Ahab.] As they had imitated his ſin, ſo they ſhould ſhare in his puniſhment, whoſe houſe was utterly deſtroyed.

I will wipe Jeruſalem as a man wipeth a diſh.] That is, leave no more people in it, than there are contents in a diſh, after it is emptied and wiped, and turned upſide down.

Before Christ 698. was evil in my ſight, and have provoked me to anger ſince the day their fathers came forth out of Egypt, even unto this day.

16 Moreover, Manaſſeh ſhed innocent blood very much, till he had filled Jeruſalem from one end to another, beſides his ſin wherewith he made Judah to ſin, in doing that which was evil in the ſight of the Lord.

643. 17 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Manaſſeh, and all that he did, and his ſin that he ſinned, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

18 And Manaſſeh ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in the garden of his own houſe, in the garden of Uzza: and Amon his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

19 ¶ Amon was twenty and two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned two years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Meſhullemeth, the daughter of Haruz of Jotbah.

20 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the Lord, as his father Manaſſeh did.

21 And he walked in all the way that his father walked in, and ſerved the idols that his father ſerved, and worſhipped them:

22 And he forſook the Lord God of his fathers, and walked not in the way of the Lord.

641. 23 ¶ And the ſervants of Amon conſpired againſt him, and ſlew the king in his own houſe.

24 And the people of the land ſlew all them that had conſpired againſt king Amon, and the people of the land made Joſiah his ſon king in his ſtead. Before Christ 641.

25 Now the reſt of the acts of Amon which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

26 And he was buried in his ſepulcher, in the garden of Uzza: and Joſiah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Joſiah his good reign: 3 He taketh care for the repair of the temple. 8 Hilkiah having found a book of the law, Joſiah ſendeth to Huldah to enquire of the Lord. 15 Huldah propheſieth the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, but reſpite thereof in Joſiahs time.

JOſiah was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned thirty and one years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Jedidah, the daughter of Adaiah of Boſcath.

2 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the Lord, and walked in all the way of David his father, and turned not aſide to the right hand or to the left.

3 ¶ And it came to paſs in the eighteenth year of king Joſiah, that the king ſent Shaphan the ſon of Azaliah, the ſon of Meſhullam, the ſcribe, to the houſe of the Lord, ſaying, 624.

4 Go up to Hilkiah the high prieſt, that he may ſum the ſilver which is brought into the houſe of the Lord, which the

Ver. 16. Moreover, Manaſſeh ſhed innocent blood.] He put the prophets to death, and all thoſe who oppoſed his impiety; among whom was the prophet Iſaiah, whom he cauſed to be ſawn aſunder with a wooden ſaw, to render his torments the more exquiſite.

Ver. 18. Maneſſeh—was buried in the garden of his own houſe.] It is generally ſuppoſed, that this garden was the place where Azariah, who died a leper, was buried; and that Manaſſeh choſe to be buried there, as unworthy to be laid in the ſepulchres of the kings of Judah. His miſerable captivity, repentance, and reformation, are only mentioned in 2 Chron. xxxiii. 11, &c.

Ver. 22. He forſook the Lord God of his fathers.] The moſt abominable wickedneſs and licentiouſneſs had overſpread the land; among the princes, judges, and magiſtrates, reigned injuſtice, oppreſſion, cruelty, and all manner of debauchery; among the prieſts, pride, avarice, and a ſhameful traffic of religion; among the people, ignorance and impiety; altars reared every where to Baal, and the whole hoſt of heaven, and the very ſanctuary polluted, by the filthy idol of the groves.

keepers of the door have gathered of the people.

5 And let them deliver it into the hand of the doers of the work, that have the overſight of the houſe of the LORD: and let them give it to the doers of the work, which is in the houſe of the LORD, to repair the breeches of the houſe,

6 Unto carpenters, and builders, and maſons, and to buy timber and hewn ſtone to repair the houſe.

7 Howbeit, there was no reckoning made with them of the money that was delivered into their hand, becauſe they dealt faithfully.

8 ¶ And Hilkiah the high prieſt ſaid unto Shaphan the ſcribe, I have found the book of the law in the houſe of the LORD: and Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan, and he read it.

9 And Shaphan the ſcribe came to the king, and brought the king word again, and ſaid, Thy ſervants have gathered the money that was found in the houſe, and have delivered it into the hand of them that do the work, that have the overſight of the houſe of the LORD.

10 And Shaphan the ſcribe ſhewed the king, ſaying, Hilkiah the prieſt hath delivered me a book: and Shaphan read it before the king.

11 And it came to paſs when the king had heard the words of the book of the law, that he rent his clothes.

12 And the king commanded Hilkiah the prieſt, and Ahikam the ſon of Shaphan, and Achbor the ſon of Michaiah, and Shaphan the ſcribe, and Aſahiah a ſervant of the kings, ſaying,

Before Christ 624.

13 Go ye, enquire of the LORD for me, and for the people, and for all Judah, concerning the words of this book that is found: for great is the wrath of the LORD that is kindled againſt us, becauſe our fathers have not hearkened unto the words of this book, to do according unto all that which is written concerning us.

14 So Hilkiah the prieſt, and Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Aſahiah, went unto Huldah the propheteſs, the wife of Shallum the ſon of Tikvah, the ſon of Harhas, keeper of the wardrobe, (now ſhe dwelt in Jeruſalem in the college) and they communed with her.

15 ¶ And ſhe ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Tell the man that ſent you to me,

16 Thus ſaith the LORD, Behold, I will bring evil upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof, even all the words of the book which the king of Judah hath read.

17 Becauſe they have forſaken me, and have burnt incenſe unto other gods, that they might provoke me to anger with all the works of their hands: therefore my wrath ſhall be kindled againſt this place, and ſhall not be quenched.

18 But to the king of Judah which ſent you to enquire of the LORD, thus ſhall ye ſay

NOTES on Chap. XXII.

Ver. 8. I have found the book of the law, &c.] This probably was the original book of the law, written by Moſes himſelf, and by God's command, laid up in the moſt holy place. The Jews ſay, that Maneſſeh had blotted out the name of Jehovah out of all the copies he could find; Helkiah therefore rejoiced that he had found the original, by which all the reſt might be corrected.

Ver. 14. Huldah the propheteſs.] It is certain, that Jeremiah and Zephaniah both prophecied in the reign of Joſiah, but Hilkiah and the reſt applied to Huldah; and ſhe therefore ſeems to have been a propheteſs of ſome note, though probably, at that time, the other two prophets were not near at hand.

In the college.] The word rendered college, ſignifies the ſchool of the prophets. In the margin, it is, the ſecond part; for the right underſtanding of which, it is to be noted, that there were three walls about Jeruſalem; within the firſt, lived the artificers and common people; within the ſecond, the better ſort, the wiſe men, and the prophets; and within the third, was the mount of the Lord.

Before Chriſt 624.

ſay to him, Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, As touching the words which thou haſt heard;

19 Becauſe thine heart was tender, and thou haſt humbled thyſelf before the Lord, when thou heardeſt what I ſpake againſt this place, and againſt the inhabitants thereof, that they ſhould become a deſolation and a curſe, and haſt rent thy clothes, and wept before me: I alſo have heard thee ſaith the Lord.

20 Behold therefore, I will gather thee unto thy fathers, and thou ſhalt be gathered into thy grave in peace, and thine eyes ſhall not ſee all the evil which I will bring upon this place. And they brought the king word again.

C H A P. XXIII.

1 Joſiah cauſeth the book to be read in a ſolemn aſſembly: 3 He reneweth the covenant of the Lord: 4 He deſtroyeth idolatry: 15 He burneth dead mens bones upon the altar of Beth-el, as was forepropheſied: 21 He keepeth a moſt ſolemn paſſover: 24 He putteth away witches, and all the abominations.

AND the king ſent, and they gathered unto him all the elders of Judah, and of Jeruſalem.

2 And the king went up into the houſe of the Lord, and all the men of Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jeruſalem with him, and the prieſts, and the prophets, and all the people both ſmall and great: and he read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant which was found in the houſe of the Lord.

3 ¶ And the king ſtood by a pillar, and made a covenant before the Lord, to walk after the Lord, and to keep his commandments, and his teſtimonies, and his ſtatutes, with all their heart, and all their ſoul, to perform the words of this covenant, that were written in this book: and all the people ſtood to the covenant.

Before Chriſt 624.

4 And the king commanded Hilkiah the high prieſt, and the prieſts of the ſecond order, and the keepers of the door, to bring forth out of the temple of the Lord, all the veſſels that were made for Baal, and for the grove, and for all the hoſt of heaven: and he burnt them without Jeruſalem in the fields of Kidron, and carried the aſhes of them unto Beth-el.

5 And he put down the idolatrous prieſts, whom the kings of Judah had ordained to burn incenſe in the high places, in the cities of Judah, and in the places round about Jeruſalem, them alſo that burnt incenſe unto Baal, to the ſun, and to the moon, and to the planets, and to all the hoſt of heaven.

6 And he brought out the grove from the houſe of the Lord, without Jeruſalem, unto the brook Kidron, and burnt it at the brook Kidron, and ſtampt it ſmall to powder, and caſt the powder thereof upon the graves of the children of the people.

7 And he brake down the houſes of the ſodomites that were by the houſe of the Lord, where the women wove hangings for the grove.

8 And he brought all the prieſts out of the cities of Judah, and defiled the high places where the prieſts had burnt incenſe, from

Ver. 20. I will gather thee unto thy fathers.] This may ſeem a ſtrange promiſe, had it meant no more, but thou ſhalt lie down with thy fathers, or thou ſhalt die; but there was here a twofold bleſſing, viz. that his ſoul ſhould be gathered to the ſouls of his pious anceſtors, and that his earthly part ſhould likewiſe be joined to theirs, and laid in the ſepulchres of the kings of Iſrael.

from Geba to Beer-ſheba, and brake down the high places of the gates that were in the entering in of the gate of Joſhua the governor of the city, which were on a mans left hand at the gate of the city.

9 Nevertheleſs, the prieſts of the high places came not up to the altar of the Lord in Jeruſalem, but they did eat of the unleavened bread among their brethren.

10 And he defiled Topheth, which is in the valley of the children of Hinnom, that no man might make his ſon or his daughter to paſs through the fire to Molech.

11 And he took away the horſes that the kings of Judah had given to the ſun, at the entering in of the houſe of the Lord, by the chamber of Nathan-melech the chamberlain, which was in the ſuburbs, and burnt the chariots of the ſun with fire.

12 And the altars that were on the top of the upper chamber of Ahaz, which the kings of Judah had made, and the altars which Manaſſeh had made in the two courts of the houſe of the Lord, did the king beat down, and brake them down from thence, and caſt the duſt of them into the brook Kidron.

13 And the high places that were before Jeruſalem, which were on the right hand of the mount of corruption, which Solomon the king of Iſrael had builded for Aſhtoreth the abomination of the Zidonians, and for Chemoſh the abomination of the Moabites, and for Milcom the abomination of the children of Ammon, did the king defile.

Beofre Chriſt 624.

14 And he brake in pieces the images, and cut down the groves, and filled their places with the bones of men.

15 ¶ Moreover, the altar that was at Beth-el, and the high place which Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin, had made, both that altar and the high place, he brake down, and burnt the high place, and ſtampt it ſmall to powder, and burnt the grove.

16 And as Joſiah turned himſelf, he ſpied the ſepulchers that were there in the mount, and ſent, and took the bones out of the ſepulchers, and burnt them upon the altar, and polluted it, according to the word of the Lord which the man of God proclaimed, who proclaimed theſe words.

Ver. 8. Brake down the high places of the gates.] Altars probably erected there, to offer incenſe to thoſe titular gods, to whom their idolatrous kings had committed the care of the city.

Ver. 10. Topheth.] The word Topheth, according to the general opinion of the Jews, comes from Thopth, which, in their language, ſignifies a drum; becauſe, in this place, a ſort of drums were uſed, to deaden the cries of thoſe children who were burnt in the fire to their idol Moloch.

Ver. 11. The horſes that the king of Judah had given to the ſun.] All the people of the eaſt worſhipped the ſun, and conſecrated horſes to it, becauſe, like that, they were nimble and ſwift in their courſes, The ancients had a notion, that the ſun itſelf was carried about in a chariot, and therefore chariots, as well as horſes, were dedicated to it; for in them, the king and his great officers, went out every morning at the eaſt-gate of the city, to ſalute and adore the ſun, at his coming above the horizon.

Ver. 13. The mount of corruption.] Viz. Olivet, or the Mount of Olives, called by the prophets the Mount of Corruption, on account of the idols placed there, which corrupted the people from their religion.

Ver. 16. According to the word of the Lord, &c.] Three hundred and ſixty two years before this, it was foretold, that all theſe things ſhould be done, and the very perſon mentioned by name who ſhould do it. See 1 Kings xiii. 2. In the Septuagint, are ſeveral words in this place, which are not in the Hebrew, which ſeem genuine, and probably were in the copy from whence the Septuagint made their verſion. I ſhall here include them in a parentheſis—according to the word of the Lord, which the man of God proclaimed; (when Jeroboam ſtood, in the feaſt, by the altar, and he turned and lifted up his eyes to the ſepulchre of the man of God) who proclaimed theſe words.

18 And he ſaid, Let him alone, let no man move his bones: ſo they let his bones alone, with the bones of the prophet that came out of Samaria.

19 And all the houſes alſo of the high places that were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Iſrael had made to provoke the LORD to anger, Joſiah took away, and did to them according to all the acts that he had done in Beth-el.

20 And he ſlew all the prieſts of the high places that were there, upon the altars, and burnt mens bones upon them, and returned to Jeruſalem.

21 ¶ And the king commanded all the people, ſaying, Keep the paſſover unto the LORD your God, as it is written in the book of this covenant.

22 Surely there was not holden ſuch a paſſover, from the days of the judges that judged Iſrael, nor in all the days of the kings of Iſrael, nor of the kings of Judah:

24 ¶ Moreover, the workers with familiar ſpirits, and the wizards, and the images, and the idols, and all the abominations that were ſpied in the land of Judah, and in Jeruſalem, did Joſiah put away, that he might perform the words of the law, which were written in the book that Hilkiah the prieſt found in the houſe of the LORD. Before Christ 623.

25 And like unto him was there no king before him, that turned to the LORD with all his heart, and with all his ſoul, and with all his might, according to all the law of Moſes; neither after him aroſe there any like him.

26 ¶ Notwithſtanding, the LORD turned not from the fierceneſs of his great wrath, wherewith his anger was kindled againſt Judah, becauſe of all the provocations that Manaſſeh had provoked him withal.

27 And the LORD ſaid, I will remove Judah alſo out of my ſight, as I have removed Iſrael, and will caſt off this city Jeruſalem, which I have choſen, and the houſe of which I ſaid, My name ſhall be there.

28 Now the reſt of the acts of Joſiah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

Ver. 18. Let no man move his bones.] If the pious among the Jews, in thoſe days, had entertained the ſame opinion with regard to relics, as is now held in the church of Rome, the king would not merely have ordered his bones to lie quiet and undiſturbed, but would have preſerved them in golden boxes, and made them the object of a ſuperſtitious and idolatrous worſhip.

Ver. 22. There was not holden ſuch a paſſover, from the days of the judges.] That is to ſay, the ceremonies of this feaſt were more ſtrictly obſerved now, than they had ever been, ſince the days of Samuel; it being held according to the ancient form, preſcribed in the authentic book of the law, lately found by Hilkiah.

Ver. 26. The Lord turned not from the fierceneſs of his great wrath, &c.] Though Joſiah was doubtleſs ſincere in what he did, and omitted nothing to reſtore the purity of God's worſhip, wherever his power extended, yet the people had ſtill an hankering after the corruption of the former part of Manaſſeh's reign; they complied, indeed, with the preſent reformation, but this was only out of fear of incuring the king's diſpleaſure, or of feeling the ſeverity of his juſtice; their hearts were not right towards God, as appears from the writings of the prophets who lived in thoſe times; and therefore, ſeeing no ſign of their repentance, God had no reaſon to reverſe his decree.

Ver. 29. And king Joſiah went againſt him, and he ſlew him.] This is more clearly expreſſed in ſome old tranſlations of the bible; and king Joſiah went againſt him, whom when Pharaoh ſaw, he ſlew him at Megiddo; for it was not Joſiah ſlew Pharaoh, but Pharaoh Joſiah.

33 And Pharaoh-nechoh put him in bands at Riblah, in the land of Hamath that he might not reign in Jeruſalem, and put the land to a tribute of an hundred talents of ſilver, and a talent of gold.

34 And Pharaoh-nechoh made Eliakim the ſon of Joſiah king, in the room of Joſiah his father, and turned his name to Jehoiakim, and took Jehoahaz away: and he came to Egypt, and died there.

35 And Jehoiakim gave the ſilver and the gold to Pharaoh, but he taxed the land to give the money according to the commandment of Pharaoh; he exacted the ſilver and the gold of the people of the land, of every one according to his taxation, to give it unto Pharaoh-nechoh.

36 ¶ Jehoiakim was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Zebuda, the daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah.

8 ¶ Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jeruſalem three months: and his mothers name was Nehuſhta, the daughter of Elnathan of Jeruſalem.

9 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that his father had done.

10 ¶ At that time the ſervants of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up againſt Jeruſalem, and the city was beſieged.

11 And Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came againſt the city, and his ſervants did beſiege it.

12 And Jehoiachin the king of Judah went out to the king of Babylon, he, and his mother, and his ſervants, and his princes, and his officers: and the king of Babylon took him in the eighth year of his reign.

13 And he carried out thence all the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD, and the treaſures of the kings houſe, and cut in pieces all the veſſels of gold which Solomon king of Iſrael had made in the temple of the LORD, as the LORD had ſaid.

14 And he carried away all Jeruſalem, and all the princes, and all the mighty men of valour, even ten thouſand captives, and all the craftſmen, and ſmiths: none remained, ſave the pooreſt ſort of the people of the land.

15 And he carried away Jehoiachin to Babylon, and the kings mother, and the kings wives, and his officers, and the mighty of the land, thoſe carried he into captivity, from Jeruſalem to Babylon. Before Christ 599.

16 And all the men of might, even ſeven thouſand, and craftſmen, and ſmiths a thouſand, all that were ſtrong and apt for war, even them the king of Babylon brought captive to Babylon.

17 ¶ And the king of Babylon made Mattaniah his fathers brother king in his ſtead, and changed his name to Zedekiah:

18 Zedekiah was twenty and one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

19 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that Jehoiakim had done.

20 For through the anger of the LORD 598. it came to paſs in Jeruſalem and Judah, until he had caſt them out from his preſence, that Zedekiah rebelled againſt the king of Babylon.

CHAP. XXV.

1 Jeruſalem is beſieged; 4 Zedekiah taken, his ſons ſlain, his eyes put out. 8 Nebuzar-adan defaceth the city, carrieth the remnant, except a few poor labourers, into captivity, 13 ſpoileth and carrieth away the treaſures.

AND it came to paſs in the ninth year 590. of his reign, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came, he, and all his hoſt, againſt Jeruſalem, and pitched againſt it, and they built forts againſt it round about.

Ver. 8. Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he began to reign.] It is ſaid, 2 Chron. xxxvi. 9. he was only eight years: but if we conſider, that it was common for kings to make their ſons aſſociates in the kingdom, the difference is eaſily reconciled, by ſuppoſing, that when his father had reigned one year, he took him to reign in conjunction with him, when he was only eight years old; ſo that the book of Chronicles computes, from the time he began to reign with his father, and the book of Kings, from the time he began to reign alone: but perhaps, after all, the tranſcriber of the book of Chronicles has committed an error, by writing eight for eighteen years.

Ver. 13. Cut in pieces all the veſſels, &c.] By cutting in pieces here, can only be meant of their being cut off from the temple; for theſe veſſels were preſerved entire, and not cut in pieces, as appears from Dan. v. 2.

Before Chriſt 588.

2 And the city was beſieged unto the eleventh year of king Zedekiah.

3 And on the ninth day of the fourth month, the famine prevailed in the city, and there was no bread for the people of the land.

4 ¶ And the city was broken up, and all the men of war fled by night, by the way of the gate, between two walls, which is by the kings garden, (now the Chaldees were againſt the city round about) and the king went the way toward the plain.

5 And the army of the Chaldees purſued after the king, and overtook him in the plains of Jericho: and all his army were ſcattered from him.

6 So they took the king, and brought him up to the king of Babylon, to Riblah, and they gave judgment upon him.

7 And they ſlew the ſons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him with fetters of braſs, and carried him to Babylon.

8 ¶ And in the fifth month, on the ſeventh day of the month (which is the nineteenth year of king Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon) came Nebuzar-adan captain of the guard, a ſervant of the king of Babylon, unto Jeruſalem:

9 And he burnt the houſe of the Lord, and the kings houſe, and all the houſes of Jeruſalem, and every great mans houſe burnt he with fire.

Before Chriſt 588.

10 And all the army of the Chaldees that were with the captain of the guard, brake down the walls of Jeruſalem round about.

11 Now the reſt of the people that were left in the city, and the fugitives that fell away to the king of Babylon, with the remnant of the multitude, did Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard carry away.

12 But the captain of the guard left of the poor of the land, to be vine-dreſſers, and huſbandmen.

13 And the pillars of braſs that were in the houſe of the Lord, and the baſes, and the brazen ſea that was in the houſe of the Lord, did the Chaldees break in pieces, and carried the braſs of them to Babylon.

14 And the pots, and the ſhovels, and the ſnuffers, and the ſpoons, and all the veſſels of braſs wherewith they miniſtered, took they away.

15 And the fire-pans, and the bowls, and ſuch things as were of gold, in gold, and of ſilver, in ſilver, the captain of the guard took away.

16 The two pillars, one ſea, and the baſes which Solomon had made for the houſe of the Lord, the braſs of all theſe veſſels was without weight.

NOTES on Chap. XXV.

Ver. 4. All the men of war fled by night, by the way of the gate, between two walls.] It is thus expreſſed in Jeremiah, They went by the way of the kings garden, by the gate between the two walls; ſo that, as the king's garden faced the country, probably there was ſome private gate through which they eſcaped.

Ver. 7. And put out the eyes of Zedekiah—and carried him to Babylon.] Thus two remarkable prophecies were fulfilled, which ſeemed to contradict one another, (and that contradiction, perhaps, tempted Zedekiah not to believe them) one of which was that of Jeremiah xxxii. 5. And he ſhall lead Zedekiah to Babylon, and again, xxxiv. 3. Thou ſhalt not eſcape out of his hand, but ſhalt ſurely be taken, and delivered into his hand, and thine eyes ſhall behold the eyes of the king of Babylon, &c. The other is that of Ezekiel xii. 13. I will bring him to Babylon, to the land of the Chaldeans, yet ſhall he not ſee it, though he ſhall die there. The firſt was accompliſhed, when Zedekiah was carried to Riblah, where he ſaw the king of Babylon, and ſpoke to him, and ſaw his children executed; the other, when Zedekiah had afterwards his eyes put out, and was then carried to Babylon, where he was incapable of ſeeing the city.

Ver. 9. He burnt the houſe of the Lord.] Thus the celebrated temple, built by Solomon, was laid in aſhes, after it had ſtood four hundred and twenty-four years, three months, and eight days, according to Uſher's computation.

was braſs: and the height of the chapiter three cubits: and the wreathen-work, and pomegranates upon the chapiter round about, all of braſs: and like unto theſe had the ſecond pillar with wreathen-work.

18 ¶ And the captain of the guard took Seraiah the chief prieſt, and Zephaniah the ſecond prieſt, and the three keepers of the door.

19 And out of the city he took an officer that was ſet over the men of war, and five men of them that were in the kings preſence, which were found in the city, and the principal ſcribe of the hoſt, which muſtered the people of the land, and threeſcore men of the people of the land that were found in the city.

20 And Nebuzar-adan captain of the guard took theſe, and brought them to the king of Babylon, to Riblah.

21 And the king of Babylon ſmote them, and ſlew them at Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Judah was carried away out of their land.

22 ¶ And as for the people that remained in the land of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had left, even over them he made Gedaliah the ſon of Ahikam, the ſon of Shaphan, ruler.

23 And when all the captains of the armies, they, and their men, heard that the king of Babylon had made Gedaliah governor, there came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, even Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, and Johanan the ſon of Careah, and Seraiah the ſon of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah the ſon of a Maachathite, they, and their men.

24 And Gedaliah ſware to them, and to their men, and ſaid unto them, Fear not to be the ſervants of the Chaldees: dwell in the land, and ſerve the king of Babylon, and it ſhall be well with you.

25 But it came to paſs in the ſeventh month, that Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, the ſon of Eliſhama, of the ſeed royal, came, and ten men with him, and ſmote Gedaliah, that he died, and the Jews and the Chaldees that were with him at Mizpah.

26 And all the people both ſmall and great, and the captains of the armies aroſe, and came to Egypt: for they were afraid of the Chaldees.

562.

27 ¶ And it came to paſs in the ſeven and thirtieth year of the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the ſeven and twentieth day of the month, that Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the year that he began to reign, did lift up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah out of priſon.

28 And he ſpake kindly to him, and ſet his throne above the throne of the kings that were with him in Babylon,

29 And changed his priſon-garments: and he did eat bread continually before him all the days of his life.

30 And his allowance was a continual allowance given him of the king, a daily rate for every day, all the days of his life.

Ver. 21. So Judah was carried away.] This happened about 468 years after the beginning of the reign of David, 388 years from the diviſion of the tribes from Judah and Benjamin, and 134 ſince the deſtruction of the ten tribes.

Ver. 27. Did lift up the head of Jehoiachin.] Raiſed him from his dejected condition, preferring him above the other captive kings.

The End of the Second Book of KINGS.

The Firſt Book of the CHRONICLES.

The ARGUMENT.

The two books of Chronicles were written after the Babyloniſh captivity, and in the reign of Cyrus. They are a ſort of abridgment of all the ſacred hiſtory from Adam, to the return of the Jews from captivity, extracted from the books of the Bible ſtill extant, and other annals now loſt. Here are ſeveral tranſactions recorded, that are omitted in the book of Kings. Ezra is ſuppoſed to be the author; becauſe the book of Ezra *begins with the ſame words, with which theſe books end. Ver. 40. The ſons of Ulam were mighty men of valour, archers.] In the Hebrew, the word for archers is, thoſe that tread the bow; becauſe their ſteel bows (which were much in uſe) were ſo ſtrong, that they could not bend them with their arms, but ſat down, and preſſing them with their feet, pulled the arrow with both hands, that it might fly with greater force.

NOTES on Chap. IX.

Ver. 3. In Jeruſalem dwelt of the children of Judah, &c.] Hence we may obſerve, that ſome of the ten tribes returned with thoſe of Judah and Benjamin. Indeed, the proclamation of Cyrus excepted none, but gave all the people of that nation liberty to return to their own country.

Ver. 11. The ruler of the houſe of God.] Or rather, a ruler in the houſe of God; for he was not high-prieſt, that office being filled by Joſhua, as we learn from Ezra iii. 2. and Haggai i. 1. Perhaps he was what they called the ſagan, who was vicar to the high-prieſt, and performed his office when he was ſick, or otherwiſe hindered; or elſe, it may be, was the head of one of the courſes of the prieſts, that attended in their turns at the houſe of God. By the houſe of God here, we are to underſtand the tabernacle; for the temple of Solomon was deſtroyed, and the ſecond temple not yet built.

13 And their brethren, heads of the houſe of their fathers, a thouſand and ſeven hundred and threeſcore; very able men for the work of the ſervice of the houſe of God.

14 And of the Levites; Shemaiah the ſon of Haſhub, the ſon of Azrikam, the ſon of Haſhabiah, of the ſons of Merari,

15 And Bakbakkar, Hereſh, and Galal, and Mattaniah the ſon of Micah, the ſon of Richri, the ſon of Aſaph,

16 And Obadiah the ſon of Shemaiah, the ſon of Galal, the ſon of Jeduthun, and Berechia, the ſon of Aſa, the ſon of Elkanah, that dwelt in the villages of the Netophathites.

17 And the porters were Shallum, and Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman, and their brethren: Shallum was the chief.

18 (Who hitherto waited in the kings gate eaſtward) They were porters in the companies of the children of Levi.

19 And Shallum the ſon of Kore, the ſon of Ebiaſaph, the ſon of Korah, and his brethren: (of the houſe of his father) the Korahites were over the work of the ſervice, keepers of the gates of the tabernacle: and their fathers being over the hoſt of the LORD, were keepers of the entry.

20 And Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar was the ruler over them in time paſt, and the LORD was with him.

21 And Zechariah the ſon of Meſhelemiah, was porter of the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

22 All theſe which were choſen to be porters in the gates, were two hundred and twelve. Theſe were reckoned by their genealogy in their villages: whom David and Samuel the ſeer did ordain in their ſet office.

Before Chriſt 1200.

23 So they and their children had the overſight of the gates of the houſe of the LORD, namely the houſe of the tabernacle, by wards.

24 In four quarters were the porters, toward the eaſt, weſt, north, and ſouth.

25 And their brethren, which were in their villages, were to come after ſeven days from time to time with them.

26 For theſe Levites, the four chief porters, were in their ſet office, and were over the chambers and treaſuries of the houſe of God.

27 ¶ And they lodged round about the houſe of God, becauſe the charge was upon them, and the opening thereof every morning pertained to them.

28 And certain of them had the charge of the miniſtring veſſels, that they ſhould bring them in and out by tale.

29 Some of them alſo were appointed to overſee the veſſels, and all the inſtruments of the ſanctuary, and the fine flour, and the wine, and the oil, and the frankincenſe, and the ſpices.

30 And ſome of the ſons of the prieſts made the ointment of the ſpices.

31 And Mattithiah, one of the Levites (who was the firſt-born of Shallum the Korahite) had the ſet office over the things that were made in the pans.

32 And other of their brethren of the ſons of the Kohathites, were over the ſhew-bread to prepare it every ſabbath.

33 And theſe are the ſingers, chief of the fathers of the Levites, who remaining in the chambers, were free: for they were employed in that work, day and night.

39 And Ner begat Kiſh, and Kiſh begat Saul, and Saul begat Jonathan, and Malchi-ſhua, and Abinadab, and Eſhbaal.

2 Sauls overthrow and death. 8 The Philiſtines triumph over Saul. 11 The kindneſs of Jabeſh-gilead toward Saul and his ſons. 13 Sauls ſin: for which the kingdom was tranſlated from him to David.

Before Chriſt 1056.

NOW the Philiſtines fought againſt Iſrael, and the men of Iſrael fled from before the Philiſtines, and fell down ſlain in mount Gilboa.

2 And the Philiſtines followed hard after Saul, and after his ſons, and the Philiſtines ſlew Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Malchi-ſhua, the ſons of Saul.

3 And the battel went ſore againſt Saul, and the archers hit him, and he was wounded of the archers.

4 Then ſaid Saul to his armour-bearer, Draw thy ſword, and thruſt me through therewith; leſt theſe uncircumciſed come, and abuſe me: But his armour-bearer would not, for he was ſore afraid. So Saul took a ſword, and fell upon it.

5 And when his armour-bearer ſaw that Saul was dead, he fell likewiſe on the ſword, and died.

6 So Saul died, and his three ſons, and all his houſe died together.

7 And when all the men of Iſrael that were in the valley, ſaw that they fled, and that Saul and his ſons were dead; then they forſook their cities, and fled: and the Philiſtines came and dwelt in them.

8 ¶ And it came to paſs on the morrow, when the Philiſtines came to ſtrip the ſlain, that they found Saul and his ſons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And when they had ſtripped him, they took his head, and his armour, and ſent into the land of the Philiſtines round about, to carry tidings unto their idols, and to the people.

10 And

Ver. 35. And in Gibeon dwelt, &c.] From hence, to the end of the chapter, the ſame genealogy is ſet down again, which we had in the preceding chapter, ver. 29, 30, &c. and in the ſame words; which narrative, of the deſcent and family of Saul, is here repeated, the better to connect with it the hiſtory that follows, concerning the death of that king.

NOTES on Chap. X.

Ver. 1. Now the Philiſtines, &c.] This hiſtory has already been related in 1 Sam. xxxi. nearly in the ſame words; but is here repeated to introduce the hiſtory of David.

Ver. 6. Saul died, and his three ſons, and all his houſe.] That is, all the perſons of his houſe that were preſent at this battle; nor did his family ever recover itſelf after this terrible blow.

Ver. 7. In the valley.] That is, the towns in the open country, which were not fortified.

Before Chriſt 1056. 10 And they put his armour in the houſe of their gods, and faſtened his head in the temple of Dagon.

11 ¶ And when all Jabeſh-gilead heard all that the Philiſtines had done to Saul;

12 They aroſe, all the valiant men, and took away the body of Saul, and the bodies of his ſons, and brought them to Jabeſh, and buried their bones under the oak in Jabeſh, and faſted ſeven days.

13 ¶ So Saul died for his tranſgreſſion which he committed againſt the LORD, even againſt the word of the LORD which he kept not, and alſo for aſking counſel of one that had a familiar ſpirit, to enquire of it;

14 And enquired not of the LORD: therefore he ſlew him, and turned the kingdom unto David the ſon of Jeſſe.

CHAP. XI.

1 David by a general conſent is made king at Hebron. 4 He winneth the caſtle of Zion from the Jebuſites, by Joabs valour. 10 A catalogue of Davids mighty men.

1048. THen all Iſrael gathered themſelves to David unto Hebron, ſaying, Behold, we are thy bone and thy fleſh.

2 And moreover, in time paſt, even when Saul was king, thou waſt he that leddeſt out, and broughteſt in Iſrael: and the LORD thy God ſaid unto thee, Thou ſhalt feed my people Iſrael, and thou ſhalt be ruler over my people Iſrael.

3 Therefore came all the elders of Iſrael to the king to Hebron, and David made a covenant with them in Hebron, before the LORD, and they anointed David king over Iſrael, according to the word of the LORD, by Samuel. Before Chriſt 1048.

4 ¶ And David and all Iſrael went to Jeruſalem which is Jebus, where the Jebuſites were, the inhabitants of the land.

5 And the inhabitants of Jebus ſaid to David, Thou ſhalt not come hither. Nevertheleſs, David took the caſtle of Zion, which is the city of David.

6 And David ſaid, Whoſoever ſmiteth the Jebuſites firſt, ſhall be chief and captain. So Joab the ſon of Zeruiah went firſt up, and was chief.

7 And David dwelt in the caſtle, therefore they called it, The city of David.

8 And he built the city round about, even from Millo round about: and Joab repaired the reſt of the city.

9 So David waxed greater and greater: for the LORD of hoſts was with him.

10 ¶ Theſe alſo are the chief of the mighty men whom David had, who ſtrengthened themſelves with him in his kingdom, and with all Iſrael to make him king according to the word of the LORD, concerning Iſrael.

11 And this is the number of the mighty men whom David had; Jaſhobeam an Hachmonite, the chief of the captains: he lift up his ſpear againſt three hundred ſlain by him at one time.

12 And after him was Eleazar the ſon of Dodo, the Ahohite, who was one of the three mighties.

13 He was with David at Paſ-dammim, 1047.

Ver. 13. So Saul died for his tranſgreſſion, &c.] The two principal crimes of this monarch were, his ſparing the Amalekites, and his conſulting the witch of Endor.

NOTES on Chap. XI.

Ver. 1. Then all Iſrael gathered themſelves to David, &c.] This happened after the death of Iſhboſheth; for many things paſſed between the death of Saul, and the tranſaction the ſacred hiſtorian is now going to recite, which are related in the 1ſt, 2d, 3d, and 4th chapters of the ſecond of Samuel. This chapter, being nearly the ſame as the firſt ten verſes of 2 Sam. chap. v. and the 23d chapter of the ſame book, commencing at the eight verſe, the reader is deſired to refer to thoſe paſſages.

Ver. 3. According to the word of the Lord by Samuel.] Theſe words are not found in the book of Samuel, but are here added, to ſhew how the people came to know, that God told David he ſhould govern Iſrael; Samuel declared it to him, and doubtleſs publiſhed it among the people.

Before Chriſt 1047. mim, and there the Philiſtines were gathered together to battel, where was a parcel of ground full of barley, and the people fled from before the Philiſtines.

14 And they ſet themſelves in the midſt of that parcel, and delivered it, and ſlew the Philiſtines; and the LORD ſaved them by a great deliverance.

15 ¶ Now three of the thirty captains went down to the rock to David, into the cave of Adullam, and the hoſt of the Philiſtines encamped in the valley of Rephaim.

16 And David was then in the hold, and the Philiſtines garriſon was then at Beth-lehem.

17 And David longed and ſaid, Oh that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, that is at the gate!

18 And the three brake through the hoſt of the Philiſtines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem, that was by the gate, and took it and brought it to David: but David would not drink of it, but poured it out to the LORD,

19 And ſaid, My God forbid it me, that I ſhould do this thing: ſhall I drink the blood of theſe men that have put their lives in jeopardy? for with the jeopardy of their lives they brought it: therefore he would not drink it. Theſe things did theſe three mightieſt.

20 ¶ And Abiſhai the brother of Joab, he was chief of the three: for lifting up his ſpear againſt three hundred, he ſlew them, and had a name among the three.

21 Of the three, he was more honourable than the two, for he was their captain; howbeit, he attained not unto the firſt three.

22 Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, the ſon of a valiant man of Kabzeel, who had done many acts, he ſlew two lion-like men of Moab; alſo he went down and ſlew a lion in a pit in a ſnowy day. Before Chriſt 1047.

23 And he ſlew an Egyptian, a man of great ſtature, five cubits high, and in the Egyptians hand was a ſpear like a weavers beam, and he went down to him with a ſtaff, and plucked the ſpear out of the Egyptians hand, and ſlew him with his own ſpear.

24 Theſe things did Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, and had the name among the three mighties.

25 Behold, he was honourable among the thirty, but attained not to the firſt three: and David ſet him over his guard.

26 ¶ Alſo the valiant men of the armies were Aſah-el the brother of Joab, Elhanan the ſon of Dodo of Beth-lehem,

27 Shammoth the Harorite, Helez the Pelonite,

28 Ira the ſon of Ikkeſh the Tekoite, Abiezer the Antothite,

29 Sibbecai the Huſhathite, Ilai the Ahohite,

30 Maharai the Netophathite, Heled the ſon of Baanah the Netophathite,

31 Ithai the ſon of Ribai of Gibeah, that pertained to the children of Benjamin, Benaiah the Pirathonite,

32 Hurai of the brooks of Gaaſh, Abiel the Arbathite,

33 Azmaveth the Baharumite, Eliahba the Shaalbonite,

34 The ſons of Haſhem the Gizonite, Jonathan the ſon of Shage the Hararite,

35 Ahiam the ſon of Sacar the Hararite, Eliphal the ſon of Ur,

36 Hepher the Mecherathite, Ahijah the Pelonite,

37 Hezro the Carmelite, Naarai the ſon of Ezbai,

Before Christ 1047. 38 Joel the brother of Nathan, Mibhar, the ſon of Haggeri,

39 Zelek the Ammonite, Naharai the Berothite, the armour-bearer of Joab the ſon of Zeruiah,

40 Ira the Ithrite, Gareb the Ithrite,

41 Uriah the Hittite, Zabad the ſon of Ahlai,

42 Adina the ſon of Shiza the Reubenite, a captain of the Reubenites, and thirty with him,

43 Hanan the ſon of Maachah, and Joſhaphat the Mithnite,

44 Uzzia the Aſhterathite, Shama and Jehiel the ſons of Hothan the Aroerite,

45 Jediael the ſon of Shimri, and Joha his brother the Tizite,

46 Eliel the Mahavite, and Jeribai, and Joſhaviah, the ſons of Elnaam, and Ithmah the Moabite, 47 Eliel, and Obed, and Jaſiel the Meſobaite.

CHAP. XII.

1 The companies that came to David at Ziklag. 23 The armies that came to him at Hebron.

1058. NOW theſe are they that came to David to Ziklag while he yet kept himſelf cloſe, becauſe of Saul the ſon of Kiſh: and they were among the mighty men, helpers of the war.

2 They were armed with bows, and could uſe both the right hand and the left, in hurling ſtones, and ſhooting arrows out of a bow, even of Sauls brethren of Benjamin.

Before Christ. 1058. 3 The chief was Ahiezer, then Joaſh, the ſons of Shemaah the Gibeathite, and Jeziel, and Pelet, the ſons of Azmaveth and Berachah, and Jehu the Antothite,

4 And Iſmaiah the Gibeonite, a mighty man among the thirty, and over the thirty, and Jeremiah, and Jahaziel, and Johanan, and Joſabad the Gederathite,

5 Eluzai, and Jerimoth, and Bealiah, and Shemariah, and Shephatiah the Haruphite,

6 Elkanah, and Jeſiah, and Azareel, and Joezer, and Jaſhobeam, the Korhites,

7 And Joelah, and Zebadiah the ſons of Jeroham of Gedor.

8 And of the Gadites there ſeparated themſelves unto David, into the hold to the wilderneſs, men of might, and men of war fit for the battel, that could handle ſhield and buckler, whoſe faces were like the faces of lions, and were as ſwift as the roes upon the mountains:

9 Ezer the firſt, Obadiah the ſecond, Eliab the third,

10 Miſhmannah the fourth, Jeremiah the fifth,

11 Attai the ſixth, Eliel the ſeventh,

12 Johanan the eighth, Elzabad the ninth,

13 Jeremiah the tenth, Machbanai the eleventh.

14 Theſe were of the ſons of Gad, captains of the hoſt: one of the leaſt was over an hundred, and the greateſt over a thouſand.

15 Theſe

Ver. 38. Joel the brother of Nathan.] Joel is called Igal in 2 Sam. xxiii. 36, and ſaid to be the ſon of Nathan; but the account of this is eaſy, for he might be both, if he was his adopted ſon, for want of children: the word ſon, often ſignifying no more than nephew, as the word brother doth one near of kin.

NOTES on Chap. XII.

Ver. 1. Now theſe are they that came to David, &c.] To wit, thoſe perſons that joined David in his exile; they are omitted in the book of Samuel.

Ver. 2. Sauls brethren of Benjamin.] It was certainly ſomething extraordinary, that could influence Saul's kindred to forſake him; poſſibly they abhorred ſo violent a perſecution of an innocent perſon: or, it may be, their piety excited a great regard to the words of Samuel, concerning David's right to the kingdom.

Ver. 8. Whoſe faces were like the faces of lions, &c.] A beautiful hyperbole! By the Roe, according to Dr. Shaw, we are to underſtand the Antelope. See 2 Sam. ii. 18.

Before Christ 1058. 15 Theſe are they that went over Jordan in the firſt month, when it had overflown all his banks, and they put to flight all them of the valleys, both toward the eaſt, and toward the weſt.

16 And there came of the children of Benjamin, and Judah, to the hold unto David.

17 And David went out to meet them, and anſwered and ſaid unto them, If ye be come peaceably unto me to help me, mine heart ſhall be knit unto you: but if ye be come to betray me to mine enemies, ſeeing there is no wrong in mine hands, the God of our fathers look thereon, and rebuke it.

18 Then the ſpirit came upon Amaſai, who was chief of the captains, and he ſaid, Thine are we, David, and on thy ſide, thou ſon of Jeſſe: peace, peace be unto thee, and peace be to thine helpers; for thy God helpeth thee. Then David received them, and made them captains of the band.

1056. 19 And there fell ſome of Manaſſeh to David (when he came with the Philiſtines againſt Saul to battel, but they helped them not, for the lords of the Philiſtines, upon adviſement, ſent him away, ſaying, He will fall to his maſter Saul, to the jeopardy of our heads)

20 As he went to Ziklag, there fell to him of Manaſſeh, Adnah, and Jozabad, and Jediael, and Michael, and Jozabad, and Elihu, and Zilthai, captains of the thouſands that were of Maneſſeh.

21 And they helped David againſt the band of the rovers: for they were all mighty men of valour, and were captains in the hoſt. Before Christ 1056

22 For at that time day by day, there came to David to help him, until it was a great hoſt, like the hoſt of God.

23 ¶ And theſe are the number of the bands that were ready armed to the war, and came to David to Hebron, to turn the kingdom of Saul to him, according to the word of the LORD. 1048.

24 The children of Judah that bare ſhield and ſpear, were ſix thouſand and eight hundred, ready armed to the war.

25 Of the children of Simeon, mighty men of valour for the war, ſeven thouſand and one hundred.

26 Of the children of Levi, four thouſand and ſix hundred.

27 And Jehoiada was the leader of the Aaronites, and with him were three thouſand and ſeven hundred.

28 And Zadok, a young man mighty of valour, and of his fathers houſe twenty and two captains.

29 And of the children of Benjamin the kindred of Saul, three thouſand: for hitherto the greateſt part of them had kept the ward of the houſe of Saul.

30 And of the children of Ephraim, twenty thouſand and eight hundred, mighty men of valour, famous throughout the houſe of their fathers.

31 And of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, eighteen

Ver. 15. Theſe are they which went over Jordan in the firſt month, &c.] This is an inſtance of their intrepidity, that they ventured over Jordan in the moſt dangerous ſeaſon; and perhaps ſwam over, when the ſtream was moſt rapid and violent, to aſſiſt their brethren.

They put to flight all them of the valleys.] Theſe probably were the inhabitants of the countries bordering on Jordan, who took this opportunity to invade the Iſraelites.

Ver. 18. The ſpirit came upon Amaſai.] That is, God inſpired him with an intrepid boldneſs, to profeſs, in the name of his companions, their fidelity to David, in ſuch pathetic words, as convinced him they were really his friends.

Ver. 22. A great hoſt like the hoſt of God.] A very formidable hoſt; which he compares to the hoſt of heaven, becauſe they were numerous, and many of them illuſtrious perſons.

Ver. 27. Jehoiada was the leader of the Aaronites.] He was not the high-prieſt, for Abiathar held that place; but was the chief (as ſome are of opinion) of one of the courſes of the prieſts; and now, the chief commander of thoſe of the family of Aaron, who came to invite David to take upon him the government.

Before Chriſt 1048. eighteen thouſand which were expreſſed by name to come and make David king.

32 And of the children of Iſſachar, which were men that had underſtanding of the times, to know what Iſrael ought to do: the heads of them were two hundred, and all their brethren were at their commandment.

33 Of Zebulun, ſuch as went forth to battel, expert in war, with all inſtruments of war, fifty thouſand which could keep rank: they were not of double heart.

34 And of Naphtali a thouſand captains, and with them, with ſhield and ſpear, thirty and ſeven thouſand.

35 And of the Danites expert in war, twenty and eight thouſand and ſix hundred.

36 And of Aſher ſuch as went forth to battel, expert in war, forty thouſand.

37 And on the other ſide of Jordan, of the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, with all manner of inſtruments of war for the battel, an hundred and twenty thouſand.

38 All theſe men of war, that could keep rank, came with a perfect heart to Hebron, to make David king over all Iſrael: and all the reſt alſo of Iſrael, were of one heart to make David king.

39 And there they were with David three days, eating and drinking: for their Before Chriſt 1048. brethren had prepared for them.

40 Moreover, they that were nigh them, even unto Iſſachar, and Zebulun, and Naphtali, brought bread on aſſes, and on camels, and on mules, and on oxen, and meat, meal, cakes of figs, and bunches of raiſins, and wine, and oil, and oxen, and ſheep abundantly, for there was joy in Iſrael.

CHAP. XIII.

1 David fetcheth the ark with great ſolemnity from Kirjath-jearim. 9 Uzza being ſmitten, the ark is left at the houſe of Obed-edom.

AND David conſulted with the captains of thouſands, and hundreds, and with every leader. 1045.

2 And David ſaid unto all the congregation of Iſrael, If it ſeem good unto you, and that it be of the LORD our God, let us ſend abroad unto our brethren every where, that are left in all the land of Iſrael, and with them alſo to the prieſts and Levites which are in their cities and ſuburbs, that they may gather themſelves unto us,

3 And let us bring again the ark of our God to us: for we enquired not at it in the days of Saul.

4 And all the congregation ſaid, that they

Ver. 32. Men that had underſtanding of the times.] This, according to ſome, denotes their ſkill in computing the beginning of their years, and months, and intercalations, that it might be certainly known when their feaſts were to be celebrated: others think, that they were great aſtronomers; and they tell us, that the name of this tribe was engraven in the ſapphire in the high-prieſts breaſt-plate, and that their banner was of a ſky colour, having the figures of the ſun, moon, and ſtars, wrought in it, becauſe of their ſkill in the motions of the heavenly bodies: others again, think it ſignifies their ſkill in the weather, by which they knew the proper ſeaſon for ſowing, planting, reaping, and navigation; but theſe being fancies, impertinent to the preſent buſineſs; the beſt explication is, that they were men who were well verſed in political affairs, and knew what was moſt proper to be done in all exigencies of human life, as the words immediately following ſufficiently indicate.

Ver. 39. They were with David three days eating and drinking.] This was certainly the moſt ſplendid ſhew that ever was exhibited: their feaſt continued three days, for three hund[illegible]d forty-eight thouſand, and eight hundred brave men.

Ver. 40. There was joy in Iſrael.] They were greatly pleaſed to ſee an end of their diviſions, by being united under one king, who, they had reaſon to hope, would procure both peace and plenty in their dwellings.

NOTES on Chap. XIII.

Ver. 3. Let us bring again the ark.] The firſt care of this pious prince was about religion.

We enquired not at it in the days of Saul.] Or, as the Hebrew. We enquired not of or about it, &c. that is, we were not ſolicitous to find out a proper place for it, during the time that Saul governed the kingdom.

Before Chriſt 1045. they would do ſo: for the thing was right in the eyes of all the people.

5 So David gathered all Iſrael together, from Shihor of Egypt, even unto the entering of Hemath, to bring the ark of God from Kirjath-jearim.

6 And David went up, and all Iſrael to Baalah, that is, to Kirjath-jearim, which belonged to Judah, to bring up thence the ark of God the LORD, that dwelleth between the cherubims, whoſe name is called on it.

7 And they carried the ark of God in a new cart, out of the houſe of Abinadab: and Uzza and Ahio drave the cart.

8 And David and all Iſrael played before God with all their might, and with ſinging, and with harps, and with pſalteries, and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets.

9 ¶ And when they came unto the threſhing-floor of Chidon, Uzza put forth his hand to hold the ark, for the oxen ſtumbled.

10 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Uzza, and he ſmote him, becauſe he put his hand to the ark: and there he died before God.

11 And David was diſpleaſed, becauſe the LORD had made a breach upon Uzza; wherefore that place is called Perez-uzza to this day.

12 And David was afraid of God that day, ſaying, How ſhall I bring the ark of God home to me?

13 So David brought not the ark home to himſelf to the city of David, but carried it aſide into the houſe of Obed-edom the Gittite.

14 And the ark of God remained with the family of Obed-edom in his houſe three months. And the LORD bleſſed the houſe of Obed-edom, and all that he had. Before Chriſt 1045.

1 Hirams kindneſs to David. 2 Davids felicity in people, wives and children: 8 His two victories againſt the Philiſtines.

NOW Hiram king of Tyre ſent meſſengers to David, and timber of cedars, with maſons and carpenters, to build him an houſe. 1043.

2 And David perceived that the LORD had confirmed him king over Iſrael, for his kingdom was lift up on high, becauſe of his people Iſrael.

3 ¶ And David took more wives at Jeruſalem: and David begat more ſons and daughters.

4 Now theſe are the names of his children which he had in Jeruſalem; Shammua, and Shobab, Nathan, and Solomon,

5 And Ibhar, and Eliſhua, and Elpalet,

6 And Nogah, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

7 And Eliſhama, and Beeliada, and Eliphalet.

8 ¶ And when the Philiſtines heard that David was anointed king over all Iſrael, all the Philiſtines went up to ſeek David: and David heard of it, and went out againſt them.

9 And the Philiſtines came and ſpread themſelves in the valley of Rephaim.

10 And David enquired of God, ſaying, Shall I go up againſt the Philiſtines? and wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the LORD ſaid unto him, Go up, for I will deliver them into thine hand.

11 So they came up to Baal-perazim, and David ſmote them there. Then David ſaid, God hath broken in upon mine enemies

12 And when they had left their gods there, David gave a commandment, and they were burnt with fire.

13 And the Philiſtines yet again ſpread themſelves abroad in the valley.

14 Therefore David enquired again of God; and God ſaid unto him, Go not up after them, turn away from them, and come upon them over againſt the mulberry-trees.

15 And it ſhall be, when thou ſhalt hear a ſound of going in the tops of the mulberry-trees, that then thou ſhalt go out to battel: for God is gone forth before thee, to ſmite the hoſt of the Philiſtines.

16 David therefore did as God commanded him: and they ſmote the hoſt of the Philiſtines from Gibeon even to Gazer.

17 And the fame of David went out into all lands, and the LORD brought the fear of him upon all nations.

1 David having prepared a place for the ark, ordereth the prieſts and Levites to bring it from Obed-edom: 25 He performeth the ſolemnity thereof with great joy. 29 Michal deſpiſeth him.

1042. AND David made him houſes in the city of David, and prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched for it a tent.

2 Then David ſaid, None ought to carry the ark of God, but the Levites: for them hath the LORD choſen to carry the ark of God, and to miniſter unto him for ever.

3 And David gathered all Iſrael together to Jeruſalem, to bring up the ark of the LORD unto his place, which he had prepared for it. Before Chriſt 1042.

4 And David aſſembled the children of Aaron, and the Levites.

5 Of the ſons of Kohath: Uriel the chief, and his brethren an hundred and twenty.

6 Of the ſons of Merari: Aſaiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred and twenty.

7 Of the ſons of Gerſhom: Joel the chief, and his brethren an hundred and thirty.

8 Of the ſons of Elizaphan: Shemaiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred.

9 Of the ſons of Hebron: Eliel the chief, and his brethren fourſcore.

10 Of the ſons of Uzziel: Amminadad the chief, and his brethren an hundred and twelve.

11 And David called for Zadok and Abiathar the prieſts, and for the Levites, for Uriel, Aſaiah, and Joel, Shemaiah, and Eliel, and Amminadab,

12 And ſaid unto them, Ye are the chief of the fathers of the Levites: ſanctify yourſelves both ye and your brethren, that you may bring up the ark of the LORD God of Iſrael, unto the place that I have prepared for it.

13 For becauſe ye did it not at the firſt, the LORD our God made a breach upon us, for that we ſought him not after the due order.

14 So the prieſts and the Levites ſanctified themſelves to bring up the ark of the LORD God of Iſrael.

15 And the children of the Levites bare the

Ver. 1. David prepared a place for the ark of God.] The tabernacle made by Moſes in the wilderneſs, was now at Gibeon; but David did not think proper to bring it from thence, and therefore cauſed a new tent to be pitched for it.

Ver. 2. None ought to carry the ark of God but the Levites.] The former miſcarriage had taught David to uſe the ark with more reverence; and take care that the Levites, according to the expreſs precept of the law, ſhould bear it on their ſhoulders.

the ark of God upon their ſhoulders, with the ſtaves thereon, as Moſes commanded, according to the word of the Lord.

16 And David ſpake to the chief of the Levites, to appoint their brethren to be the ſingers with inſtruments of muſick, pſalteries, and harps, and cymbals, ſounding, by lifting up the voice with joy.

17 So the Levites appointed Heman the ſon of Joel: and of his brethren, Aſaph the ſon of Berechiah: and of the ſons of Merari their brethren, Ethan the ſon of Kuſhaiah.

18 And with them their brethren of the ſecond degree, Zechariah, Ben, and Jaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maaſeiah, and Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel the porters.

19 So the ſingers, Heman, Aſaph, and Ethan, were appointed to ſound with cymbals of braſs;

20 And Zechariah, and Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, and Eliab, and Maaſeiah, and Benaiah, with pſalteries on Alamoth;

21 And Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, and Azaziah, with harps on the Sheminith to excel.

22 And Chenaniah chief of the Levites was for ſong: he inſtructed about the ſong, becauſe he was ſkilful.

23 And Berechiah, and Elkanah were door-keepers for the ark.

24 And Shebaniah, and Jehoſhaphat, and Nethaneel, and Amaſai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliezer the prieſts did blow with the trumpets before the ark of God: and Obed-edom, and Jehiah were door-keepers for the ark.

Before Chriſt 1042.

25 ¶ So David and the elders of Iſrael, and the captains over thouſands, went to bring up the ark of the covenant of the Lord, out of the houſe of Obed-edom with joy.

26 And it came to paſs when God helped the Levites that bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, that they offered ſeven bullocks, and ſeven rams.

27 And David was clothed with a robe of fine linen, and all the Levites that bare the ark, and the ſingers, and Chenaniah, the maſter of the ſong, with the ſingers: David alſo had upon him an ephod of linen.

28 Thus all Iſrael brought up the ark of the covenant of the Lord with ſhouting, and with ſound of the cornet, and with trumpets, and with cymbals, making a noiſe with pſalteries and harps.

29 ¶ And it came to paſs as the ark of the covenant of the Lord came to the city of David, that Michal the daughter of Saul looking out at a window, ſaw king David dancing and playing: and ſhe deſpiſed him in her heart.

SO they brought the ark of God, and ſet it in the midſt of the tent that David had pitched for it: and they offered burnt-ſacrifices, and peace-offerings before God.

2 And

Ver. 16. Lifting up the voice with joy.] They ſang ſo loud, that all might hear, and have their hearts lifted up with joy in God. There was ſcarce any ſervice performed, either by Greeks or Barbarians, to their gods, without vocal and inſtrumental muſic; and muſic was thought by the heathens to be a thing ſo heavenly, that their gods were accounted the inventors of the principal inſtruments.

Ver. 26. God helped the Levites that bare the ark.] That is, he preſerved them from committing any error, ſo that they carried it without offence.

Before Chriſt 1042.

2 And when David had made an end of offering the burnt-offerings, and the peace-offerings, he bleſſed the people in the name of the LORD.

3 And he dealt to every one of Iſrael, both man and woman, to every one a loaf of bread, and a good piece of fleſh, and a flagon of wine.

4 ¶ And he appointed certain of the Levites to miniſter before the ark of the LORD, and to record, and to thank and praiſe the LORD God of Iſrael:

5 Aſaph the chief, and next to him Zechariah, Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-edom: and Jeiel with pſalteries, and with harps: but Aſaph made a ſound with cymbals.

6 Benaiah alſo and Jahaziel the prieſts with trumpets continually before the ark of the covenant of God.

7 ¶ Then on that day, David delivered firſt this pſalm to thank the LORD, into the hand of Aſaph and his brethren.

8 Give thanks unto the LORD, call upon his name, make known his deeds among the people.

9 Sing unto him, ſing pſalms unto him, talk you of all his wondrous works.

10 Glory ye in his holy name, let the heart of them rejoice that ſeek the LORD.

11 Seek the LORD and his ſtrength, ſeek his face continually.

12 Remember his marvellous works that he hath done, his wonders, and the judgments of his mouth.

13 O ye ſeed of Iſrael his ſervant, ye children of Jacob his choſen ones.

14 He is the LORD our God, his judgments are in all the earth.

Before Chriſt 1042.

15 Be ye mindful alway of his covenant: the word which he commanded to a thouſand generations;

16 Even of the covenant which he made with Abraham, and of his oath unto Iſaac:

17 And hath confirmed the ſame to Jacob for a law, and to Iſrael for an everlaſting covenant,

18 Saying, Unto thee will I give the land of Canaan, the lot of your inheritance.

19 When ye were but few, even a few, and ſtrangers in it:

20 And when they went from nation to nation, and from one kingdom to another people:

21 He ſuffered no man to do them wrong: yea, he reproved kings for their ſakes,

22 Saying, Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm.

23 Sing unto the LORD all the earth: ſhew forth from day to day his ſalvation.

24 Declare his glory among the heathens: his marvellous works among all nations.

25 For great is the LORD, and greatly to be praiſed: he alſo is to be feared above all gods.

26 For all the gods of the people are idols: but the LORD made the heavens.

27 Glory and honour are in his preſence, ſtrength and gladneſs are in his place.

28 Give unto the LORD, ye kindreds of the people, give unto the LORD glory and ſtrength.

29 Give unto the LORD the glory due unto his name: bring an offering and come before him, worſhip the LORD in the beauty of holineſs.

Ver. 7. On that day, David delivered firſt this Pſalm.] The Hebrew reads it, This David ordained, in the firſt place, at that time, i. e. he then ordered, that God ſhould be praiſed by Aſaph and his attendants, in the following manner; this ſolemn ſervice began the day he brought up the ark to its place in Jeruſalem, and was afterwards conſtantly continued.

Ver. 8. Give thanks unto the Lord, &c.] This beautiful hymn, is taken from 105th and 96th Pſalms.

Before Chriſt 1042.

30 Fear before him, all the earth: the world alſo ſhall be ſtable, that it be not moved.

31 Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoice: and let men ſay among the nations, The LORD reigneth.

32 Let the ſea roar, and the fulneſs thereof: let the fields rejoice, and all that is therein.

33 Then ſhall the trees of the wood ſing out at the preſence of the LORD, becauſe he cometh to judge the earth.

34 O give thanks to the LORD, for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

35 And ſay ye, Save us, O God of our ſalvation, and gather us together, and deliver us from the heathen, that we may give thanks to thy holy name, and glory in thy praiſe.

36 Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael for ever and ever: and all the people ſaid, Amen, and praiſed the LORD.

37 ¶ So he left there before the ark of the covenant of the LORD, Aſaph and his brethren, to miniſter before the ark continually, as every days work required:

38 And Obed-edom, with their brethren threeſcore and eight: Obed-edom alſo the ſon of Jeduthun, and Hoſah to be porters:

39 And Zadok the prieſt and his brethren the prieſts, before the tabernacle of the LORD, in the high place that was at Gibeon,

40 To offer burnt-offerings unto the LORD, upon the altar of the burnt-offering continually morning and evening, and to do according to all that is written in the law of the LORD, which he commanded Iſrael:

Before Chriſt 1042.

41 And with them Heman and Jeduthun, and the reſt that were choſen, who are expreſſed by name, to give thanks to the LORD, becauſe his mercy endureth for ever:

42 And with them Heman and Jeduthun with trumpets and cymbals, for thoſe that ſhould make a ſound, and with muſical inſtruments of God: and the ſons of Jeduthun were porters.

43 And all the people departed every man to his houſe: and David returned to bleſs his houſe.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Nathan firſt approving the purpoſe of David, to build God an houſe, 3 after by the word of God forbiddeth him: 11 He promiſeth him bleſſings and benefits in his ſeed. 16 Davids prayer and thankſgiving.

NOW it came to paſs as David ſat in his houſe, that David ſaid to Nathan the prophet, Lo, I dwell in an houſe of cedars, but the ark of the covenant of the LORD remaineth under curtains.

2 Then Nathan ſaid unto David, Do all that is in thine heart, for God is with thee.

3 ¶ And it came to paſs the ſame night, that the word of God came to Nathan, ſaying,

4 Go and tell David my ſervant, Thus ſaith the LORD, Thou ſhalt not build me an houſe to dwell in.

day, but have gone from tent to tent, and from one tabernacle to another.

6 Whereſoever I have walked with all Iſrael, ſpake I a word to any of the judges of Iſrael, (whom I commanded to feed my people) ſaying, Why have ye not built me an houſe of cedars?

7 Now therefore thus ſhalt thou ſay unto my ſervant David, Thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts, I took thee from the ſheep-cote, even from following the ſheep, that thou ſhouldeſt be ruler over my people Iſrael:

8 And I have been with thee whitherſoever thou haſt walked, and have cut off all thine enemies from before thee, and have made thee a name like the name of the great men that are in the earth.

9 Alſo I will ordain a place for my people Iſrael, and will plant them, and they ſhall dwell in their place, and ſhall be moved no more; neither ſhall the children of wickedneſs waſte them any more: (as at the beginning,

10 And ſince the time that I commanded judges to be over my people Iſrael) moreover, I will ſubdue all thine enemies. Furthermore, I tell thee, that the LORD will build thee an houſe.

11 ¶ And it ſhall come to paſs, when thy days be expired that thou muſt go to be with thy fathers, that I will raiſe up thy ſeed after thee, which ſhall be of thy ſons, and I will eſtabliſh his kingdom.

12 He ſhall build me an houſe, and I will eſtabliſh his throne for ever.

13 I will be his father, and he ſhall be my ſon, and I will not take my mercy away from him, as I took it from him that was before thee.

Before Chriſt 1042.

14 But I will ſettle him in mine houſe, and in my kingdom for ever, and his throne ſhall be eſtabliſhed for evermore.

15 According to all theſe words, and according to all this viſion, ſo did Nathan ſpeak unto David.

16 ¶ And David the king came, and ſat before the LORD, and ſaid, Who am I, O LORD God, and what is mine houſe, that thou haſt brought me hitherto?

17 And yet this was a ſmall thing in thine eyes, O God, for thou haſt alſo ſpoken of thy ſervants houſe for a great while to come, and haſt regarded me according to the eſtate of a man of high degree, O LORD God.

18 What can David ſpeak more to thee for the honour of thy ſervant? for thou knoweſt thy ſervant.

19 O LORD, for thy ſervants ſake, and according to thine own heart haſt thou done all this greatneſs, in making known all theſe great things.

20 O LORD, there is none like thee, neither is there any God beſides thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.

21 And what one nation in the earth is like thy people Iſrael, whom God went to redeem to be his own people, to make thee a name of greatneſs and terribleneſs, by driving out nations from before thy people whom thou haſt redeemed out of Egypt?

22 For thy people Iſrael didſt thou make thine

Ver. 17. Haſt regarded me according to the eſtate of a man of high degree.] Victorinus Strigellius thinks, the words may be rendered, Thou haſt looked on me in the form of a man, who art in the higheſt, the Lord God; which he looks upon as a prophecy of the Meſſiah, who was really the Lord God, but took upon him our nature, and appeared in the form of a man.

23 Therefore now, LORD, let the thing that thou haſt ſpoken concerning thy ſervant, and concerning his houſe, be eſtabliſhed for ever, and do as thou haſt ſaid.

24 Let it even be eſtabliſhed, that thy name may be magnified for ever, ſaying, The LORD of hoſts is the God of Iſrael, even a God to Iſrael: and let the houſe of David thy ſervant be eſtabliſhed before thee.

25 For thou, O my God, haſt told thy ſervant, that thou wilt build him an houſe: therefore thy ſervant hath found in his heart to pray before thee.

26 And now, LORD, (thou art God, and haſt promiſed this goodneſs unto thy ſervant)

27 Now therefore let it pleaſe thee to bleſs the houſe of thy ſervant, that it may be before thee for ever: for thou bleſſeſt, O LORD, and it ſhall be bleſſed for ever.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 David ſubdueth the Philiſtines and the Moabites: 3 He ſmiteth Hadarezer and the Syrians. 9 Tou ſendeth Hadoram with preſents to bleſs David. 11 The preſents and the ſpoil David dedicateth to God: 13 He putteth garriſons in Edom. 14 Davids officers.

1040. NOW after this, it came to paſs that David ſmote the Philiſtines, and ſubdued them, and took Gath and her towns out of the hand of the Philiſtines.

2 And he ſmote Moab; and the Moabites became Davids ſervants, and brought gifts.

3 ¶ And David ſmote Hadarezer king of Zobah unto Hamath, as he went to eſtabliſh his dominion by the river Euphrates.

4 And David took from him a thouſand chariots, and ſeven thouſand horſemen, and twenty thouſand footmen: David alſo houghed all the chariot-horſes, but reſerved of them an hundred chariots. Before Chriſt 1040.

5 And when the Syrians of Damaſcus came to help Hadarezer king of Zobah, David ſlew of the Syrians two and twenty thouſand men.

6 Then David put garriſons in Syria-damaſcus, and the Syrians became Davids ſervants, and brought gifts. Thus the LORD preſerved David whitherſoever he went.

7 And David took the ſhields of gold that were on the ſervants of Hadarezer, and brought them to Jeruſalem.

8 Likewiſe from Tibhath, and from Chun, cities of Hadarezer, brought David very much braſs, wherewith Solomon made the brazen ſea, and the pillars, and the veſſels of braſs.

9 ¶ Now when Tou king of Hamath heard how David had ſmitten all the hoſt of Hadarezer king of Zobah:

10 He ſent Hadoram his ſon to king David, to enquire of his welfare, and to congratulate him, becauſe he had fought againſt Hadarezer, and ſmitten him, (for Hadarezer had warred with Tou) and with him all manner of veſſels of gold, and ſilver, and braſs.

11 ¶ Them alſo king David dedicated unto the LORD, with the ſilver and the gold that he brought from all theſe nations; from Edom, and from Moab, and from the children of Ammon, and from the Philiſtines, and from Amalek.

12 Moreover, Abiſhai the ſon of Zeruiah ſlew of the Edomites in the valley of ſalt, eighteen thouſand.

13 ¶ And

14 ¶ So David reigned over all Iſrael, and executed judgment and juſtice among all his people.

15 And Joab the ſon of Zeruiah was over the hoſt, and Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Ahilud, recorder.

16 And Zadok the ſon of Ahitub, and Abimelech the ſon of Abiathar, were the prieſts, and Shavſha was ſcribe.

17 And Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada was over the Cherethites, and the Pelethites: and the ſons of David were chief about the king.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Davids meſſengers ſent to comfort Hanun the ſon of Nahaſh, are villanouſly intreated. 6 The Ammonites ſtrengthned by the Syrians, are overcome by Joab and Abiſhai. 16 Shophach making a new ſupply of the Syrians, is ſlain by David.

1037. NOW it came to paſs after this, that Nahaſh the king of the children of Ammon died, and his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

2 And David ſaid, I will ſhew kindneſs unto Hanun the ſon of Nahaſh, becauſe his father ſhewed kindneſs to me. And David ſent meſſengers to comfort him concerning his father: ſo the ſervants of David came into the land of the children of Ammon, to Hanun, to comfort him.

3 But the princes of the children of Ammon ſaid to Hanun, Thinkeſt thou that David doth honour thy father that he hath ſent comforters unto thee? are not his ſervants come unto thee for to ſearch, and to overthrow, and to ſpy out the land?

Before Chriſt 1037. 4 Wherefore Hanun took Davids ſervants, and ſhaved them, and cut off their garments in the midſt hard by their buttocks, and ſent them away.

5 Then there went certain, and told David how the men were ſerved; and he ſent to meet them (for the men were greatly aſhamed) and the king ſaid, Tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown, and then return.

6 ¶ And when the children of Ammon ſaw that they had made themſelves odious to David, Hanun and the children of Ammon ſent a thouſand talents of ſilver to hire them chariots and horſemen out of Meſopotamia, and out of Syria-maachah, and out of Zobah.

7 So they hired thirty and two thouſand chariots, and the king of Maachah and his people, who came and pitched before Medeba. And the children of Ammon gathered themſelves together from their cities, and came to battel.

8 And when David heard of it, he ſent Joab, and all the hoſt of the mighty men.

9 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battel in aray before the gate of the city: and the kings that were come, were by themſelves in the field.

10 Now when Joab ſaw that the battel was ſet againſt him, before and behind, he choſe out of all the choice of Iſrael, and put them in aray againſt the Syrians.

11 And the reſt of the people he delivered unto the hand of Abiſhai his brother, and they ſet themſelves in aray againſt the children of Ammon.

12 And he ſaid, If the Syrians be too ſtrong

13 Be of good courage, and let us behave our ſelves valiantly for our people, and for the cities of our God: and let the Lord do that which is good in his ſight.

14 So Joab and the people that were with him, drew nigh before the Syrians, unto the battel; and they fled before him.

15 And when the children of Ammon ſaw that the Syrians were fled, they likewiſe fled before Abiſhai his brother, and entered into the city. Then Joab came to Jeruſalem.

1036. 16 ¶ And when the Syrians ſaw that they were put to the worſe before Iſrael, they ſent meſſengers, and drew forth the Syrians that were beyond the river: and Shophach the captain of the hoſt of Hadarezer, went before them.

17 And it was told David, and he gathered all Iſrael, and paſſed over Jordan, and came upon them, and ſet the battel in aray againſt them: ſo when David had put the battel in aray againſt the Syrians, they fought with him.

18 But the Syrians fled before Iſrael, and David ſlew of the Syrians ſeven thouſand men, which fought in chariots, and forty thouſand footmen, and killed Shophach the captain of the hoſt.

19 And when the ſervants of Hadarezer ſaw that they were put to the worſe before Iſrael, they made peace with David, and became his ſervants: neither would the Syrians help the children of Ammon any more.

CHAP. XX.

1 Rabbah is beſieged by Joab, ſpoiled by David, and the people thereof tortured. 4 Three giants are ſlain in three ſeveral overthrows of the Philiſtines. Before Chriſt 1035.

AND it came to paſs, that after the year was expired, at the time that kings go out to battel, Joab led forth the power of the army, and waſted the country of the children of Ammon, and came and beſieged Rabbah (but David tarried at Jeruſalem) and Joab ſmote Rabbah, and deſtroyed it.

2 And David took the crown of their king from off his head, and found it to weigh a talent of gold, and there were precious ſtones in it, and it was ſet upon Davids head; and he brought alſo exceeding much ſpoil out of the city. 1033.

3 And he brought out the people that were in it, and cut them with ſaws and with harrows of iron, and with axes: even ſo dealt David with all the cities of the children of Ammon. And David and all the people returned to Jeruſalem.

4 ¶ And it came to paſs after this, that there aroſe war at Gezer with the Philiſtines, at which time Sibbechai the Huſhathite, ſlew Sippai that was of the children of the giant, and they were ſubdued. 1018.

5 And there was war again with the Philiſtines, and Elhanan the ſon of Jair, ſlew Lahmi the brother of Goliath the Gittite, whoſe ſpear-ſtaff was like a weavers beam.

6 And yet again there was war at Gath, where was a man of great ſtature, whoſe fingers and toes were four and twenty, ſix on each hand, and ſix on each foot: and he alſo was the ſon of the giant.

7 But when he defied Iſrael, Jonathan the ſon of Shimea, Davids brother, ſlew him.

NOTES on Chap. XX.

Ver. 1. And it came to paſs after the year was expired, &c.] The whole of this tranſaction is rceorded, together with the hiſtory of David's adultery with Bath-ſheba, and the murder of Uriah, in 2 Samuel xi.

CHAP. XXI.

1 David tempted by Satan, forceth Joab to number the people. 5 The number of the people being brought, David repenteth of it. 9 David having three plagues propounded by Gad, chooſeth the peſtilence.

1017. AND Satan ſtood up againſt Iſrael, and provoked David to number Iſrael.

2 And David ſaid to Joab, and to the rulers of the people, Go, number Iſrael from Beer-ſheba even to Dan; and bring the number of them to me, that I may know it.

3 And Joab anſwered, The LORD make his people an hundred times ſo many more as they be: but my lord the king, are they not all my lords ſervants? why then doth my lord require this thing? why will he be a cauſe of treſpaſs to Iſrael?

4 Nevertheleſs, the kings word prevailed againſt Joab: wherefore Joab departed, and went throughout all Iſrael, and came to Jeruſalem.

5 ¶ And Joab gave the ſum of the number of the people unto David. And all they of Iſrael were a thouſand thouſand and an hundred thouſand men that drew ſword: and Judah was four hundred threeſcore and ten thouſand men that drew ſword.

6 But Levi and Benjamin counted he not among them: for the kings word was abominable to Joab.

7 And God was diſpleaſed with this thing, therefore he ſmote Iſrael. Before Chriſt, 1017.

8 And David ſaid unto God, I have ſinned greatly, becauſe I have done this thing: but now, I beſeech thee, do away the iniquity of thy ſervant, for I have done very fooliſhly.

9 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Gad, Davids ſeer, ſaying,

10 Go and tell David, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, I offer thee three things, chooſe thee one of them, that I may do it unto thee.

11 So Gad came to David, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Chooſe thee,

12 Either three years famine, or three months to be deſtroyed before thy foes, (while that the ſword of thine enemies overtaketh thee) or elſe three days the ſword of the LORD, even the peſtilence in the land, and the angel of the LORD deſtroying throughout all the coaſts of Iſrael: now therefore adviſe thyſelf, what word I ſhall bring again to him that ſent me.

13 And David ſaid unto Gad, I am in a great ſtrait: let me fall now into the hand of the LORD, (for very great are his mercies) but let me not fall into the hand of man.

14 ¶ So the LORD ſent peſtilence upon Iſrael: and there fell of Iſrael ſeventy thouſand men.

15 And God ſent an angel unto Jeruſalem to deſtroy it: and as he was deſtroying, the LORD beheld, and he repented him

Ver. 8. Theſe were born unto the giant at Gath, &c.] The hymn which David compoſed in remembrance of his many deliverances from his enemies, eſpecially from Saul, is inſerted after this in 2 Samuel xxii. but here omitted, as it would not only have been a repetition of what is there recorded, but alſo in the book of Pſalms.

NOTES on Chap. XXI.

Ver. 5. And all they of Iſrael were a thouſand thouſand, &c.] The numbers here given, both of the men of Iſrael and Judah, are very different from thoſe in 2 Samuel xxiv. 9.

Ver. 6. But Levi and Benjamin he counted not among them, &c.] The true reaſon is here given, why the Levites nor Benjamites were not numbered, becauſe the work was hateful to Joab; and therefore he left off before he numbered them.

him of the evil, and ſaid to the angel that deſtroyed, It is enough, ſtay now thine hand. And the angel of the LORD ſtood by the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite.

16 And David lift up his eyes, and ſaw the angel of the LORD ſtand between the earth and the heaven, having a drawn ſword in his hand ſtretched out over Jeruſalem: then David and the elders of Iſrael, who were clothed in ſackcloth, fell upon their faces.

17 And David ſaid unto God, Is it not I that commanded the people to be numbered? even I it is that have ſinned and done evil indeed; but as for theſe ſheep, what have they done? let thine hand, I pray thee, O LORD my God, be on me, and on my fathers houſe, but not on thy people, that they ſhould be plagued.

18 ¶ Then the angel of the LORD commanded Gad to ſay to David, that David ſhould go up and ſet up an altar unto the LORD, in the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite.

19 And David went up at the ſaying of Gad, which he ſpake in the name of the LORD.

20 And Ornan turned back, and ſaw the angel; and his four ſons with him hid themſelves. Now Ornan was threſhing wheat.

21 And as David came to Ornan, Ornan looked and ſaw David, and went out of the threſhing-floor, and bowed himſelf to David with his face to the ground.

22 Then David ſaid to Ornan, Grant me the place of this threſhing-floor, that I may build an altar therein unto the LORD: thou ſhalt grant it me for the full price, that the plague may be ſtayed from the people.

Before Christ 1017.

23 And Ornan ſaid unto David, Take it to thee, and let my lord the king do that which is good in his eyes: lo, I give thee the oxen alſo for burnt-offerings, and the threſhing inſtruments for wood, and the wheat for the meat-offering, I give it all.

24 And king David ſaid to Ornan, Nay, but I will verily buy it for the full price: for I will not take that which is thine for the LORD, nor offer burnt-offerings without coſt.

25 So David gave to Ornan for the place, ſix hundred ſhekels of gold by weight.

26 And David built there an altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings, and called upon the LORD, and he anſwered him from heaven by fire upon the altar of burnt-offering.

27 And the LORD commanded the angel, and he put up his ſword again into the ſheath thereof.

28 ¶ At that time when David ſaw that the LORD had anſwered him in the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite, then he ſacrificed there.

29 (For the tabernacle of the LORD which Moſes made in the wilderneſs, and the altar of the burnt-offering were at that ſeaſon in the high place at Gibeon.

30 But David could not go before it to enquire of God; for he was afraid, becauſe of the ſword of the angel of the LORD.)

Ver. 26. And he anſwered him from heaven by fire, &c.] This was the higheſt token of God's gracious acceptance of any ſacrifice. It was ſo eminent a token of the favour of the deity, that even Julian himſelf could not deny it.

Ver. 30. But David could not go before it, &c.] He was fully convinced that the ſpot was conſecrated by God, and therefore that he ought, immediately to offer ſacrifices, and not delay it till he could go to Gibeon.

of it: 6 He inſtructeth Solomon in Gods promiſes, and his duty in building the temple: 17 He chargeth the princes to aſſiſt his ſon.

THen David ſaid, This is the houſe of the LORD God, and this is the altar of the burnt-offering for Iſrael.

2 And David commanded to gather together the ſtrangers that were in the land of Iſrael, and he ſet maſons to hew wrought ſtones to build the houſe of God.

3 And David prepared iron in abundance for the nails for the doors of the gates, and for the joinings; and braſs in abundance without weight;

4 Alſo cedar-trees in abundance: for the Zidonians, and they of Tyre, brought much cedar-wood to David.

5 And David ſaid, Solomon my ſon is young and tender, and the houſe that is to be builded for the LORD, muſt be exceeding magnifical, of fame and of glory throughout all countries: I will therefore now make preparation for it. So David prepared abundantly before his death.

6 ¶ Then he called for Solomon his ſon, and charged him to build an houſe for the LORD God of Iſrael.

7 And David ſaid to Solomon, My ſon, as for me, it was in my mind to build an houſe unto the name of the LORD my God:

8 But the word of the LORD came to me, ſaying, Thou haſt ſhed blood abundantly, and haſt made great wars: thou ſhalt not build an houſe unto my name, becauſe thou haſt ſhed much blood upon the earth in my ſight.

Before Christ 1017.

9 Behold, a ſon ſhall be born to thee, who ſhall be a man of reſt, and I will give him reſt from all his enemies round about: for his name ſhall be Solomon, and I will give peace and quietneſs unto Iſrael in his days.

10 He ſhall build an houſe for my name; and he ſhall be my ſon, and I will be his father, and I will eſtabliſh the throne of his kingdom over Iſrael for ever.

11 Now my ſon, the LORD be with thee, and proſper thou, and build the houſe of the LORD thy God, as he hath ſaid of thee.

12 Only the LORD give thee wiſdom and underſtanding, and give thee charge concerning Iſrael, that thou mayeſt keep the law of the LORD thy God.

13 Then ſhalt thou proſper, if thou takeſt heed to fulfil the ſtatutes and judgments which the LORD charged Moſes with, concerning Iſrael: be ſtrong, and of good courage, dread not, nor be diſmayed.

14 Now behold, in my trouble, I have prepared for the houſe of the LORD an hundred thouſand talents of gold, and a thouſand thouſand talents of ſilver; and of braſs, and iron, without weight (for it is in abundance:) timber alſo and ſtone have I prepared, and thou mayeſt add thereto.

15 Moreover, there are workmen with thee

NOTES on Chap. XXII.

Ver. 1. This is the houſe of the Lord God.] David ſeems to have been inſpired with this thought, and from the ſignal marks which God had given of his acceptance of the ſacrifice, he probably concluded, that this was the ſpot whereon the temple muſt be built.

Ver. 5. Solomon my ſon, is young, &c.] David having conſidered the youth of his ſon, and the magnificence of the temple he was to build; he thought himſelf obliged, to the utmoſt of his power, to aſſiſt him in this great and expenſive undertaking.

Ver. 8. Thou haſt ſhed blood abundantly, &c.] In the book of Samuel, there is no mention made of this reaſon; but it is here recorded, to ſhew that a peaceable prince was much fitter to erect a temple to the Lord, than a warlike one; that he might be an emblem of that prince of peace, to whom the moſt principal tranſactions of the Iſraelites bore a manifeſt alluſion, as is evident from the next verſe; He ſhall be my ſon, and I will be his father; which expreſſions, in their full and proper ſenſe, can relate to none but the great Meſſiah, who was truly the ſon of God.

16 Of the gold, the ſilver, and the braſs, and the iron, there is no number. Ariſe therefore, and be doing, and the LORD be with thee.

17 ¶ David alſo commanded all the princes of Iſrael to help Solomon his ſon, ſaying,

18 Is not the LORD your God with you? and hath he not given you reſt on every ſide? for he hath given the inhabitants of the land into mine hand, and the land is ſubdued before the LORD, and before his people.

19 Now ſet your heart and your ſoul to ſeek the LORD your God; ariſe therefore, and build ye the ſanctuary of the LORD God, to bring the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and the holy veſſels of God, into the houſe that is to be built to the name of the LORD.

18 Of the ſons of Izhar; Shelomith the chief.

23 The ſons of Muſhi; Mahli, and Eder, and Jeremoth, three.

24 ¶ Theſe were the ſons of Levi after the houſe of their fathers; even the chief of the fathers, as they were counted by number of names by their polls, that did the work for the ſervice of the houſe of the LORD, from the age of twenty years and upward.

Before Chriſt 1015. 27 For by the laſt words of David, the Levites were numbered from twenty years old and above:

28 Becauſe their office was to wait on the ſons of Aaron, for the ſervice of the houſe of the LORD, in the courts, and in the chambers, and in the purifying of all holy things, and the work of the ſervice of the houſe of God;

29 Both for the ſhew-bread, and for the fine flour for meat-offering, and for the unleavened cakes, and for that which is baked in the pan, and for that which is fried, and for all manner of meaſure and ſize:

4 And there were more chief men found of the ſons of Eleazar, than of the ſons of Ithamar; and thus were they divided: Among the ſons of Eleazar there were ſixteen chief men of the houſe of their fathers, and eight among the ſons of Ithamar according to the houſe of their fathers.

5 Thus were they divided by lot, one ſort with another; for the governors of the ſanctuary, and governors of the houſe of God, were of the ſons of Eleazar, and of the ſons of Ithamar.

6 And Shemaiah the ſon of Nethaneel the ſcribe, one of the Levites, wrote them before the king and the princes, and Zadok the prieſt, and Ahimelech the ſon of Abiathar, and before the chief of the fathers of the prieſts and Levites: one principal houſhold being taken for Eleazar, and one taken for Ithamar.

CONCERNING the diviſions of the porters: of the Korhites was Meſhelemiah the ſon of Kore, of the ſons of Aſaph.

5 Ammiel the ſixth, Iſſachar the ſeventh, Peulthai the eighth: for God bleſſed him.

6 Alſo unto Shemaiah his ſon were ſons born, that ruled throughout the houſe of their father: for they were mighty men of valour.

7 The ſons of Shemaiah; Othni, and Rephael, and Obed, Elzabad, whoſe brethren were ſtrong men; Elihu and Semachiah.

Ver. 1. Concerning the diviſion of the porters.] As ſome of the Levites were choſen to be ſingers, ſo others were appointed to be porters; and as this was an office of great dignity, men of the firſt quality were put into it, they having the charge of the holy things.

The ſons of Aſaph.] Not Aſaph the muſician, mentioned in the preceding chapter, (he being of the family of Gerſhom) but another Aſaph, called Eliaſaph, and ſometimes Jaſaph, of the line of Kohath.

men for ſtrength for the ſervice, were threeſcore and two of Obed-edom.

9 And Meſhelemiah had ſons and brethren, ſtrong men, eighteen.

10 Alſo Hoſah of the children of Merari, had ſons; Simri the chief, (for though he was not the firſt-born, yet his father made him the chief)

11 Hilkiah the ſecond, Tebaliah the third, Zechariah the fourth: all the ſons and brethren of Hoſah were thirteen.

12 Among theſe were the diviſions of the porters, even among the chief men, having wards one againſt another, to miniſter in the houſe of the Lord.

13 ¶ And they caſt lots as well the ſmall as the great, according to the houſe of their fathers for every gate.

14 And the lot eaſtward fell to Shelemiah; then for Zechariah his ſon (a wiſe counſellor) they caſt lots, and his lot came out northward.

15 To Obed-edom ſouthward, and to his ſons, the houſe of Aſuppim.

16 To Shuppim and Hoſah, the lot came forth weſtward, with the gate Shallecheth, by the cauſey of the going up, ward againſt ward.

17 Eaſtward were ſix Levites, northward four a day, ſouthward four a day, and toward Aſuppim two and two.

18 At Parbar weſtward, four at the cauſey, and two at Parbar.

19 Theſe are the diviſions of the porters among the ſons of Kore, and among the ſons of Merari.

20 And of the Levites, Ahijah was over the treaſures of the houſe of God, and over the treaſures of the dedicate things.

21 As concerning the ſons of Laadan: the ſons of the Gerſhonite Laadan, chief fathers, even of Laadan the Gerſhonite were, Jehieli.

22 The ſons of Jehieli; Zetham, and Joel his brother, which were over the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord.

23 Of the Amramites, and the Izharites, the Hebronites, and the Uzzielites:

26 Which Shelomith and his brethren, were over all the threaſures of the dedicate things, which David the king and the chief fathers, the captains over thouſands and hundreds, and the captains of the hoſt had dedicated.

27 Out of the ſpoils won in battels, did they dedicate to maintain the houſe of the Lord.

28 And all that Samuel the ſeer, and Saul the ſon of Kiſh, and Abner the ſon of Ner, and Joab the ſon of Zeruiah had dedicated, and whoſoever had dedicated any thing, it was under the hand of Shelomith, and of his brethren.

29 ¶ Of the Izharites, Chenaniah and his ſons were for the outward buſineſs over Iſrael, for officers and judges.

Ver. 15. The houſe of Aſuppim.] Probably a place where the veſſels and treaſures of the temple were depoſited; for Obed-edom, whoſe ſons were placed at Aſuppim, is ſaid 2 Chron. xxv. 24. to have the cuſtody of the treaſures.

Ver. 16. By the cauſey of the going up.] It was by that aſcent, which Solomon made for his own paſſage, up from his own houſe to the temple. Joſephus ſays, that "a "gate led to the king's houſe from the temple, the val"ley between them being filled up for the paſſage."

Ver. 29. For the outward buſineſs.] That is, the buſineſs without the city of Jeruſalem, which belonged neither to the ſingers nor the porters; but of what nature this buſineſs was, is very uncertain; whether it related to the office of judges, and inferior magiſtrates, who did nothing but expound the law; or to the office of thoſe, whoſe buſineſs it was to provide abroad all ſuch things as were neceſſary for the building and maintenance of the temple, and God's ſervice. Bertram thinks, it conſiſted in their being aſſeſſors with the ordinary judges.

31 Among the Hebronites was Jerijah the chief, even among the Hebronites, according to the generations of his fathers. In the fortieth year of the reign of David, they were ſought for, and there were found among them mighty men of valour, at Jazer of Gilead.

32 And his brethren, men of valour, were two thouſand and ſeven hundred chief fathers, whom king David made rulers over the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh, for every matter pertaining to God, and affairs of the king.

NOTES on Chap. XXVII.

Ver. 1. Now the children of Iſrael, &c.] The eccleſiaſtical affairs being ſettled, here is now an account given, how the militia (as we may call it) of the kingdom, was diſpoſed, in order to render it ſerviceable on all occaſions. It was diſtributed into twelve legions, each of them conſiſted of 24,000 men, who were commanded by one of the chief fathers; under whom there were captains of thouſands, i. e. twenty-four, as it were colonels, in every legion, each of them commanding a thouſand men; they had alſo under them centurions, i. e. under every colonel, there were, as it were, ten captains, each of them commanding a hundred men; and under them again, were inferior officers, with leſſer commands. One of theſe legions, with their general and officers, were on duty a month at a time, for the ſecurity of the kingdom; at the end of which, they marched off, and another legion, with their general, ſucceeded; ſo that their courſe came round to them but once in a year, for one month, which made the duty the eaſier to them.

Ver. 5. A chief prieſt.] It ſhould rather be tranſlated, a chief prince, as the original frequently ſignifies: for, it is certain, that Benaiah was neither high-prieſt, nor ſagan, or ſecond prieſt; theſe offices being filled by Abiathar and Zadok.

Ver. 6. And in his courſe was Ammizabad his ſon.] He was his deputy, when his father could not attend this duty himſelf; being inveſted alſo with another office of greater dignity, as captain of the Cherethites and Pelethites.

Ver. 7. The fourth captain was Aſahel.] Upon this is founded the opinion, that theſe courſes were inſtituted in the beginnnig of the reign of David; for Aſahel was killed while David reigned in Hebron.

Before Christ 1015. children of Ephraim: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

11 The eighth captain for the eighth month, was Sibbecai the Huſhathite, of the Zarhites: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

12 The ninth captain for the ninth month, was Abiezer the Anetothite, of the Benjamites: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

13 The tenth captain for the tenth month, was Maharai the Netophathite, of the Zarhites: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

14 The eleventh captain for the eleventh month, was Benaiah the Pirathonite, of the children of Ephraim: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

15 The twelfth captain for the twelfth month, was Heldai the Netophathite, of Othniel: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

16 ¶ Furthermore, over the tribes of Iſrael: the ruler of the Reubenites was Eliezer the ſon of Zichri: of the Simeonites, Shephatiah the ſon of Maachah:

17 Of the Levites, Haſhabiah the ſon of Kemuel: of the Aaronites, Zadok.

18 Of Judah, Elihu one of the brethren of David: of Iſſachar, Omri the ſon of Michael:

19 Of Zebulun, Iſhmaiah the ſon of Obadiah: of Naphtali, Jerimoth the ſon of Azriel:

20 Of the children of Ephraim, Hoſhea the ſon of Azaziah: of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, Joel the ſon of Pedaiah:

21 Of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh in Gilead, Iddo the ſon of Zechariah: of Benjamin, Jaaſiel the ſon of Abner: Before Christ 1015.

22 Of Dan, Azareel the ſon of Jeroham. Theſe were the princes of the twelve of Iſrael.

23 ¶ But David took not the number of them from twenty years old and under: becauſe the LORD had ſaid, he would increaſe Iſrael like to the ſtars of the heavens.

24 Joab the ſon of Zeruiah began to 1017. number, but he finiſhed not, becauſe there fell wrath for it againſt Iſrael, neither was the number put in the account of the chronicles of king David.

25 ¶ And over the kings treaſures was Azmaveth the ſon of Adiel: and over the ſtore-houſes in the fields, in the cities, and in the villages, and in the caſtles, was Jehonathan the ſon of Uzziah.

26 And over them that did the work of the field for tillage of the ground, was Ezri the ſon of Chelub.

27 And over the vineyards was Shimei the Ramathite: over the increaſe of the vineyards for the wine-cellars, was Zabdi the Shiphmite.

28 And over the olive-trees and the ſycomore-trees that were in the low plains, was Baal-hanan the Gederite: and over the cellars of oil was Joaſh.

29 And over the herd that fed in Sharon, was Shitrai the Sharonite: and over the herds that were in the valleys, was Shaphat the ſon of Adlai.

Ver. 16. Furthermore, over the tribes of Iſrael, &c.] Beſides the twelve great captains before mentioned, who commanded each of them 24,000 men, every tribe had a ruler (who in ver. 22.) are called the princes of the tribes of Iſrael, who had the chief authority among them, under the king.

Ver. 17. The Aaronites.] The Aaronites were not a diſtinct tribe, but of a diſtinct order from the reſt of the Levites; and therefore had a peculiar chief to preſide over them.

Ver. 22. Of the tribes of Iſrael.] It is obſervable, that Gad and Aſher are here omitted, of which no certain account can be given; perhaps they were under the government of the ruler of ſome neighbouring tribe: for Aſher, dwelling in very narrow bounds, between Naphtali and Zebulon, might be under the government of him who governed either of them; and Gad, ſome think, might be comprehended under the Reubenites.

Before Chriſt 1015.

30 Over the camels alſo, was Obil the Iſhmeelite: and over the aſſes, was Jehdeiah the Meronothite.

31 And over the flocks, was Jaziz the Hagerite. All theſe were the rulers of the ſubſtance which was king Davids.

32 Alſo Jonathan Davids uncle was a counſellor, a wiſe man, and a ſcribe: and Jehiel the ſon of Hachmoni was with the kings ſons.

33 And Ahithophel was the kings counſellor, and Huſhai the Archite was the kings companion.

34 And after Ahithophel, was Jehoiada the ſon of Benaiah, and Abiathar: and the general of the kings army was Joab.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 David in a ſolemn aſſembly, having declared Gods favour to him, and promiſe to his ſon Solomon, exhorteth them to fear God: 9, 20 He encourageth Solomon to build the temple. 11 He giveth him patterns for the form, and gold and ſilver for the materials.

AND David aſſembled all the princes of Iſrael, the princes of the tribes, and the captains of the companies that miniſtered to the king by courſe, and the captains over the thouſands, and captains over the hundreds, and the ſtewards over all the ſubſtance and poſſeſſion of the king, and of his ſons, with the officers, and with the mighty men, and with all the valiant men unto Jeruſalem.

2 Then David the king ſtood up upon his feet, and ſaid, Hear me, my brethren, and my people, As for me, I had in mine heart to build an houſe of reſt for the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and for the footſtool of our God, and had made ready for the building:

5 And of all my ſons (for the LORD hath given me many ſons) he hath choſen Solomon my ſon, to ſit upon the throne of the kingdom of the LORD over Iſrael.

6 And he ſaid unto me, Solomon thy ſon, he ſhall build my houſe and my courts: for I have choſen him to be my ſon, and I will be his father.

7 Moreover, I will eſtabliſh his kingdom for ever, if he be conſtant to do my commandments and my judgments, as at this day.

8 Now therefore in the ſight of all Iſrael the congregation of the LORD, and in the audience of our God, keep and ſeek for all the commandments of the LORD your God: that ye may poſſeſs this good land, and leave it for an inheritance for your children after you for ever.

Ver. 2. The footſtool of our God.] That is, the divine glory, ſitting upon the wings of the cherubims, over the mercy-ſeat; his feet, as we ſpeak after the manner of men, reſted upon the ark; and therefore the ark is here called, The foot-ſtool of God.

10 Take heed now, for the LORD hath choſen thee to build an houſe for the ſanctuary: be ſtrong and do it.

11 ¶ Then David gave to Solomon his ſon the pattern of the porch, and of the houſes thereof, and of the treaſuries thereof, and of the upper chambers thereof, and of the inner parlour thereof, and of the place of the mercy-ſeat.

12 And the pattern of all that he had by the ſpirit, of the courts of the houſe of the LORD, and of all the chambers round about, of the treaſuries of the houſe of God, and of the treaſuries of the dedicate things.

13 Alſo for the courſes of the prieſts and the Levites, and for all the work of the ſervice of the houſe of the LORD, and for all the veſſels of ſervice in the houſe of the LORD.

14 He gave of gold by weight, for things of gold, for all inſtruments of all manner of ſervice, ſilver alſo for all inſtruments of every kind of ſervice:

15 Even the weight for the candleſticks of gold, and for their lamps of gold, by weight for every candleſtick, and for the lamps thereof: and for the candleſticks of ſilver by weight, both for the candleſtick and alſo for the lamps thereof, according to the uſe of every candleſtick.

16 And by weight he gave gold for the tables of ſhew-bread, for every table, and likewiſe ſilver for the tables of ſilver;

17 Alſo pure gold for the fleſh-hooks, and the bowls and the cups: and for the golden baſons he gave gold by weight for every baſon; and likewiſe ſilver by weight for every baſon of ſilver:

Before Christ 1015.

18 And for the altar of incenſe, refined gold by weight; and gold for the pattern of the chariot of the cherubims, that ſpread out their wings, and covered the ark of the covenant of the LORD.

19 All this, ſaid David, the LORD made me underſtand in writing by his hand upon me, even all the works of this pattern.

20 And David ſaid to Solomon his ſon, Be ſtrong and of good courage, and do it: fear not, nor be diſmayed, for the LORD God, even my God, will be with thee, he will not fail thee, nor forſake thee, until thou haſt finiſhed all the work for the ſervice of the houſe of the LORD.

21 And behold, the courſes of the prieſts and the Levites, even they ſhall be with thee for all the ſervice of the houſe of God, and there ſhall be with thee for all manner of workmanſhip, every willing ſkilful man, for any manner of ſervice: alſo the princes and all the people will be wholly at thy commandment.

Ver. 11. The pattern of the porch.] The word tranſlated porch, is underſtood to comprehend the whole houſe.

Ver. 12. The pattern of all that he had by the ſpirit.] That is, of all that was inſpired into him: the temple being of divine contrivance, as was the tabernacle, built by Moſes.

Ver. 18. The chariot of the cherubims.] They are called the chariot, becauſe God is ſaid not only to ſit, but alſo to ride upon the cherubims, Pſam xviii. 10.

Ver. 19. The Lord made me underſtand in writing by his hand upon me.] The Lord revealed it to him, as diſtinctly as if it had been written on his mind, as the ten commandments were on the tables of ſtone.

Before Chriſt 1015. young and tender, and the work is great: for the palace is not for man, but for the LORD God.

2 Now I have prepared with all my might for the houſe of my God, the gold for things to be made of gold, and the ſilver for things of ſilver, and the braſs for things of braſs, the iron for things of iron, and wood for things of wood; onyx-ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet, gliſtering-ſtones, and of divers colours, and all manner of precious ſtones, and marble-ſtones in abundance.

3 Moreover, becauſe I have ſet my affection to the houſe of my God, I have of mine own proper good, of gold and ſilver, which I have given to the houſe of my God, over and above all that I have prepared for the holy houſe,

4 Even three thouſand talents of gold, of the gold of Ophir, and ſeven thouſand talents of refined ſilver, to overlay the walls of the houſes withal:

5 The gold for things of gold, and the ſilver for things of ſilver, and for all manner of work to be made by the hands of artificers. And who then is willing to conſecrate his ſervice this day unto the LORD?

6 ¶ Then the chief of the fathers and princes of the tribes of Iſrael, and the captains of thouſands, and of hundreds, with the rulers over the kings work offered willingly.

7 And gave for the ſervice of the houſe of God, of gold, five thouſand talents, and ten thouſand drams; and of ſilver, ten thouſand talents; and of braſs, eighteen thouſand talents; and one hundred thouſand talents of iron.

Before Chriſt 1015. 8 And they with whom precious ſtones were found, gave them to the treaſure of the houſe of the LORD, by the hand of Jehiel the Gerſhonite.

9 Then the people rejoiced, for that they offered willingly, becauſe with perfect heart they offered willingly to the LORD: and David the king alſo rejoiced with great joy.

10 ¶ Wherefore David bleſſed the LORD before all the congregation: and David ſaid, Bleſſed be thou, LORD God of Iſrael our father, for ever, and ever.

11 Thine, O LORD, is the greatneſs, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majeſty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth, is thine; thine is the kingdom, O LORD, and thou art exalted as head above all.

12 Both riches and honour come of thee, and thou reigneſt over all, and in thine hand is power and might, and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give ſtrength unto all.

13 Now therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praiſe thy glorious name.

14 But who am I, and what is my people, that we ſhould be able to offer ſo willingly after this ſort? for all things come of thee, and of thine own have we given thee.

15 For we are ſtrangers before thee, and ſojourners, as were all our fathers: our days on the earth are as a ſhadow, and there is none abiding.

16 O LORD our God, all this ſtore that we have prepared to build thee an houſe for thine holy name, cometh of thine hand, and is all thine own.

NOTES on Chap. XXIX.

Ver. 4. Three thouſand talents of gold, &c.] Dean Prideaux obſerves two things, concerning this immenſe quantity of gold which God dedicated to the temple; firſt, that it was that of Ophir, therefore he muſt have eſtabliſhed a navigation in his time; ſecondly, that the ſum was ſo prodigious, that it is probable, it was reckoned by a ſort of talents of leſs value than the Moſaic; for what David gave, chap. xxii 14. and what is afterwards reckoned in this chapter, if valued by theſe talents, was enough, wherewith to have built all the temple of ſolid ſilver.

Before Christ 1015.

17 I know alſo, my God, that thou trieſt the heart, and haſt pleaſure in uprightneſs. As for me, in the uprightneſs of mine heart I have willingly offered all theſe things: and now have I ſeen with joy, thy people which are preſent here, to offer willingly unto thee.

18 O LORD God of Abraham, Iſaac, and of Iſrael our fathers, keep this for ever in the imagination of the thoughts of the heart of thy people, and prepare their heart unto thee.

19 And give unto Solomon my ſon a perfect heart to keep thy commandments, thy teſtimonies, and thy ſtatutes, and to do all theſe things, and to build the palace for the which I have made proviſion.

20 ¶ And David ſaid to all the congregation, Now bleſs the LORD your God. And all the congregation bleſſed the LORD God of their fathers, and bowed down their heads, and worſhipped the LORD and the king.

21 And they ſacrificed ſacrifices unto the LORD, and offered burnt-offerings unto the LORD on the morrow after that day, even a thouſand bullocks, a thouſand rams, and a thouſand lambs, with their drink-offerings, and ſacrifices in abundance for all Iſrael:

22 And did eat and drink before the LORD on that day with great gladneſs, and they made Solomon the ſon of David king the ſecond time, and anointed him unto the LORD to be the chief governor, and Zadok to be prieſt.

Before Christ, 1015.

23 Then Solomon ſat on the throne of the LORD as king in ſtead of David his father, and proſpered, and all Iſrael obeyed him.

24 And all the princes and the mighty men, and all the ſons likewiſe of king David ſubmitted themſelves unto Solomon the king.

25 And the LORD magnified Solomon exceedingly in the ſight of all Iſrael, and beſtowed upon him ſuch royal majeſty as had not been on any king before him in Iſrael.

26 ¶ Thus David the ſon of Jeſſe, reigned over all Iſrael.

27 And the time that he reigned over Iſrael, was forty years; ſeven years reigned he in Hebron, and thirty and three years reigned he in Jeruſalem.

28 And he died in a good old age, full of days, riches, and honour: and Solomon his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

29 Now the acts of David the king, firſt and laſt, behold they are written in the book of Samuel the ſeer, and in the book of Nathan the prophet, and in the book of Gad the ſeer,

Ver. 20. And worſhipped the Lord, and the king.] Worſhipped God with a religious worſhip, giving him thanks for all his bleſſings; and the king with a civil; thanking him for his care in their poſterity.

Ver. 21. Sacrifices in abundance for all Iſrael.] To wit, peace-offerings, ſufficient for the entertainment of all the Iſraelites, who were there preſent, to feaſt upon.

Ver. 24. Submitted themſelves, &c.] That is, ſwore allegiance.

Ver. 30. The times that went over him, and over Iſrael.] All the troubles which he endured, and which befel the people of Iſrael: or, the meaning may be, all the revolutions that were in public affairs in his days.

The End of the Firſt Book of CHRONICLES.

The Second Book of the CHRONICLES.

The ARGUMENT.

In this book is contained, an account of the kingdom of Judah, from the beginning of Solomon's reign, till the Iſraelites return from the Babyloniſh captivity. There are ſeveral things here omited, which are recorded in the book of Kings, and others contained in this book, of which no mention is made there; particularly in the hiſtory of Jehoſhaphat and Hezekiah.

CHAP. I.

1 The ſolemn offering of Solomon at Gibeon.

Before Christ 1015. AND Solomon the ſon of David was ſtrengthened in his kingdom, and the LORD his God was with him, and magnified him exceedingly.

2 Then Solomon ſpake unto all Iſrael, to the captains of thouſands and of hundreds, and to the judges, and to every governor in all Iſrael, the chief of the fathers.

3 So Solomon and all the congregation with him, went to the high place that was at Gibeon, for there was the tabernacle of the congregation of God, which Moſes the ſervant of the LORD had made in the wilderneſs. Before Chriſt 1015.

4 But the ark of God had David brought up from Kirjath-jearim, to the place which David had prepared for it: for he had pitched a tent for it at Jeruſalem. 1045.

5 Moreover, the brazen altar that Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, had made, he put before the tabernacle of

NOTES on Chap. I.

Ver. 3. Solomon went to the high place that was at Gibeon, &c.] The ark of the covenant was in the city of David, though the tabernacle and altar, which Moſes made in the wilderneſs, were now at Gibeon. The reaſon of their being ſeparated, according to Con. Pelicanus, was, that even in thoſe days, God intimated to the Iſraelites, that he did not regard the ceremonial worſhip, when the people were under the government of ſuch men as Samuel and David; nor exact ſo many legal ſervices as he did in time of peace and proſperity, when they were liable to fall into ſuperſtition, and to be tainted with the idolatry of the heathens.

Ver. 5. He put before the tabernacle of the Lord.] It is better tranſlated in the margin, Was there before, &c. for the expreſſion put before, ſeems to imply, that the altar did not ſtand in its right place, till Solomon ſet it where it uſed to ſtand, Before Christ 1015. the LORD: and Solomon and the congregation ſought unto it.

6 And Solomon went up thither to the brazen altar before the LORD, which was at the tabernacle of the congregation, and offered a thouſand burnt-offerings upon it.

7 ¶ In that night did God appear unto Solomon, and ſaid unto him, Aſk what I ſhall give thee.

8 And Solomon ſaid unto God, Thou haſt ſhewed great mercy unto David my father, and haſt made me to reign in his ſtead.

9 Now, O LORD God, let thy promiſe unto David my father be eſtabliſhed: for thou haſt made me king over a people, like the duſt of the earth in multitude.

10 Give me now wiſdom and knowledge, that I may go out and come in before this people: for who can judge this thy people, that is ſo great?

11 And God ſaid to Solomon, Becauſe this was in thine heart, and thou haſt not aſked riches, wealth, or honour, nor the life of thine enemies, neither yet haſt aſked long life; but haſt aſked wiſdom and knowledge for thyſelf, that thou mayeſt judge my people, over whom I have made thee king:

12 Wiſdom and knowledge is granted unto thee, and I will give thee riches and wealth, and honour, ſuch as none of the kings have had, that have been before thee, neither ſhall there any after thee have the like.

13 ¶ Then Solomon came from his journey to the high place that was at Gibeon, to Jeruſalem, from before the tabernacle of the congregation, and reigned over Iſrael.

Before Christ 1015. 14 And Solomon gathered chariots and horſemen: and he had a thouſand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thouſand horſemen, which he placed in the chariot-cities, and with the king at Jeruſalem.

15 And the king made ſilver and gold at Jeruſalem as plenteous as ſtones, and cedar-trees made he as the ſycomore-trees that are in the vale for abundance.

16 And Solomon had horſes brought out of Egypt, and linen yarn: the kings merchants received the linen yarn at a price.

17 And they fetcht up, and brought forth out of Egypt a chariot for ſix hundred ſhekels of ſilver, and an horſe for an hundred and fifty: and ſo brought they out horſes for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria by their means.

CHAP. II.

1, 17 Solomons labourers for the building of the temple: 3 His embaſſage to Huram for workmen and proviſion of ſtuff. 11 Huram ſendeth him a kind anſwer.

AND Solomon determined to build an houſe for the name of the LORD, and an houſe for his kingdom.

2 And Solomon told out threeſcore and ten thouſand men to bear burdens, and fourſcore thouſand to hew in the mountain, and three thouſand and ſix hundred to over ſee them.

3 ¶ And Solomon ſent to Huram the king of Tyre, ſaying, As thou didſt deal with David my father, and didſt ſend him cedars to build him an houſe to dwell therein, even ſo deal with me.

4 Behold, I build an houſe to the name of the LORD my God, to dedicate it to him,

---

Ver. 10. That I may go out and come in.] This is a proverbial expreſſion, (Deut. xxxi. 2.) for governing the people, both at home and abroad, in peace and in war.

Who can judge this thy people.] Without the aſſiſtance of the divine ſpirit. See 1 Kings iii. 9.

Ver. 13. Then Solomon came from his journey to the high place.] It might be better tranſlated, Then Solomon came from the high place, &c.] The words from his journey are needleſs.

Ver. 14. The chariot cities.] That is, thoſe in which there was good paſturage for horſes.

Ver. 15. Cedar trees made he as the ſycomore trees.] See 1 Kings x.

Before Christ 1015. him, and to burn before him ſweet incenſe, and for the continual ſhew-bread, and for the burnt-offerings morning and evening, on the ſabbaths, and on the new-moons, and on the ſolemn feaſt of the LORD our God. This is an ordinance for ever to Iſrael.

5 And the houſe which I build is great: for great is our God above all gods.

6 But who is able to build him an houſe, ſeeing the heaven, and heaven of heavens cannot contain him? who am I then that I ſhould build him an houſe, ſave only to burn ſacrifice before him?

7 Send me now therefore a man, cunning to work in gold, and in ſilver, and in braſs, and in iron, and in purple, and crimſon, and blue, and that can ſkill to grave with the cunning men that are with me in Judah and in Jeruſalem, whom David my father did provide.

8 Send me alſo cedar-trees, fir-trees, and algum-trees out of Lebanon: (for I know that thy ſervants can ſkill to cut timber in Lebanon) and behold, my ſervants ſhall be with thy ſervants,

9 Even to prepare me timber in abundance: for the houſe which I am about to build, ſhall be wonderful great.

10 And behold, I will give to thy ſervants, the hewers that cut timber, twenty thouſand meaſures of beaten wheat, and twenty thouſand meaſures of barley, and twenty thouſand baths of wine, and twenty thouſand baths of oil.

11 ¶ Then Huram the king of Tyre anſwered in writing, which he ſent to Solomon, Becauſe the LORD hath loved his people, he hath made thee king over them. Before Christ 1015.

12 Huram ſaid moreover, Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael that made heaven and earth, who hath given to David the king a wiſe ſon, endued with prudence and underſtanding, that might build an houſe for the LORD, and an houſe for his kingdom.

13 And now I have ſent a cunning man (endued with underſtanding) of Huram my fathers;

14 The ſon of a woman of the daughters of Dan, and his father was a man of Tyre, ſkilful to work in gold, and in ſilver, in braſs, in iron, in ſtone, and in timber, in purple, in blue, and in fine linen, and in crimſon: alſo to grave any manner of graving, and to find out every device which ſhall be put to him, with thy cunning men, and with the cunning men of my lord David thy father.

15 Now therefore the wheat, and the barley, the oil, and the wine which my lord hath ſpoken of, let him ſend unto his ſervants:

16 And we will cut wood out of Lebanon, as much as thou ſhalt need, and we will bring it to thee in flotes by ſea to Joppa, and thou ſhalt carry it to Jeruſalem.

17 ¶ And Solomon numbered all the ſtrangers that were in the land of Iſrael, after

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 6. Seeing the heaven of heavens cannot contain him.] Solomon would not have Huram (or as he is called Hiram in Kings) imagine, that he had ſuch low conceptions of God, as to think, that the ſupreme being, who is beyond all conception immenſe, could be confined, and comprehended within any building.

Ver. 8. Algum trees.] See the note on 1 Kings x. 11. and likewiſe the 5th and 7th chapters of the ſame book, where moſt of theſe tranſactions are recorded.

Ver. 10. Beaten wheat.] Wheat ground, or fine flour.

Ver. 12. Huram ſaid moreover, Bleſſed be the Lord, &c.] Hence Huram is thought to have been a proſelyte to the true religion, becauſe he owns the God of Iſrael to be Jehovah, the maker of heaven and earth, and congratulates the Iſraelites upon the happineſs they enjoyed under ſuch a king, and declared his love to the church, not only in embaſſies and letters, but in real acts of kindneſs, ſending to Solomon both materials, and the moſt ſkilful artificers.

Ver. 16. In flotes.] That is, timber bound together in rafts.

Ver. 17. Solomon numbered all the ſtrangers, &c.] Theſe were the remainder of the Amorites, Hittites, &c. who had

Before Christ 1015. after the numbering wherewith David his father had numbered them; and they were found an hundred and fifty thouſand and three thouſand and ſix hundred.

18 And he ſet threeſcore and ten thouſand of them to be bearers of burdens, and fourſcore thouſand to be hewers in the mountain, and three thouſand and ſix hundred overſeers to ſet the people a work.

CHAP. III.

1 The place and time of building the temple. 3 The meaſure and ornaments of the houſe. 11 The cherabims. 14 The vail and pillars.

1012. THen Solomon began to build the houſe of the LORD at Jeruſalem in mount Moriah, where the LORD appeared unto David his father, in the place that David had prepared in the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite.

2 And he began to build in the ſecond day of the ſecond month, in the fourth year of his reign.

3 ¶ Now theſe are the things wherein Solomon was inſtructed for the building of the houſe of God. The length by cubits after the firſt-meaſure was threeſcore cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits.

4 And the porch that was in the front of the houſe, the length of it was according to the breadth of the houſe, twenty cubits, and the height was an hundred and twenty: and he overlaid it within with pure gold.

Before Christ 1012. 5 And the greater houſe he cieled with fir-tree. which he overlaid with fine gold, and ſet thereon palm-trees and chains.

6 And he garniſhed the houſe with precious ſtones for beauty: and the gold was gold of Parvaim.

7 He overlaid alſo the houſe, the beams, the poſts, and the walls thereof, and the doors thereof with gold, and graved cherubims on the walls.

8 And he made the moſt holy houſe, the length whereof was according to the breadth of the houſe, twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits: and he overlaid it with fine gold amounting to ſix hundreds talents.

9 And the weight of the nails was fifty ſhekels of gold: and he overlaid the upper chambers with gold.

10 And in the moſt holy houſe he made two cherubims of image-work, and overlaid them with gold.

11 ¶ And the wings of the cherubims were twenty cubits long: one wing of the one cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the houſe: and the other wing was likewiſe five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub.

12 And one wing of the other cherub was had embraced the Jewiſh religion. David had before numbered them, that he might know their ſtrength and condition, and diſtinguiſh them from the Jews, by employing them in ſuch offices as he did not think fit for the Iſraelites.

NOTES on Chap. III.

Ver. 1. Mount Moriah.] This was the place where Abraham attempted to offer his ſon Iſaac. See the note on Gen. xxii. 2.

Ver. 3. Theſe are the things wherein Solomon was inſtructed for the building of the houſe of God.] The Targum tranſlates it, Theſe are the dimenſions of the foundation of the temple, which Solomon began to build.

Ver. 4. The height was an hundred and twenty.] This is greatly different from the account in 1 Kings vi. 2. where it is ſaid to be thirty cubits. Kimchi thinks, that the porch was but thirty cubits high; whereas the temple itſelf, was one hundred and twenty.

Ver. 5. The greater houſe.] By the greater houſe, is meant the ſanctuary or holy place, which was larger than the moſt holy.

Ver. 6. Gold of Parvaim.] It has been obſerved by ſome learned commentators, that Parvaim was another name for the iſland Taprobanes, which is now called Sumatra, and abounds with fine gold.

Ver. 9. The upper chambers.] By this, we are to underſtand, the upper floor, the roof or ceiling, of the holy and moſt holy place; which were every where overlaid with gold, both the floor on which they trod, and the walls, and the roof over-head.

Ver. 10. Overlaid them with gold.] They were made of olive-wood, and were not like thoſe of Moſes, of beaten gold.

Before Chriſt 1012. was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the houſe: and the other wing was five cubits alſo, joining to the wing of the other cherub.

13 The wings of theſe cherubims ſpread themſelves forth twenty cubits: and they ſtood on their feet, and their faces were inward.

14 ¶ And he made the vail of blue, and purple, and crimſon, and fine linen, and wrought cherubims thereon.

15 Alſo he made before the houſe two pillars of thirty and five cubits high, and the chapiter that was on the top of each of them was five cubits.

16 And he made chains, as in the oracle, and put them on the heads of the pillars, and made an hundred pomegranates, and put them on the chains.

17 And he reared up the pillars before the temple, one on the right hand, and the other on the left; and called the name of that on the right hand, Jachin, and the name of that on the left, Boaz.

CHAP. IV.

1 The altar of braſs. 2 The molten ſea upon twelve oxen. 6 The ten lavers, candleſticks, and tables. 9 The courts, and the inſtruments of braſs. 19 The inſtruments of gold.

MOreover, he made an altar of braſs, twenty cubits the length thereof, and twenty cubits the breadth thereof, and ten cubits the height thereof.

2 ¶ Alſo he made a molten ſea of ten cubits, from brim to brim, round in compaſs, and five cubits the height thereof, and a line of thirty cubits did compaſs it round about.

Before Chriſt 1012.

3 And under it was the ſimilitude of oxen, which did compaſs it round about: ten in a cubit compaſſing the ſea round about. Two rows of oxen were caſt, when it was caſt.

4 It ſtood upon twelve oxen, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the weſt, and three looking toward the ſouth, and three looking toward the eaſt: and the ſea was ſet above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

5 And the thickneſs of it was an handbreadth, and the brim of it like the work of the brim of a cup, with flowers of lilies; and it received, and held three thouſand baths.

6 ¶ He made alſo ten lavers, and put five on the right hand, and five on the left, to waſh in them; ſuch things as they offered for the burnt-offering, they waſhed in them; but the ſea was for the prieſts to waſh in.

7 And he made ten candleſticks of gold according to their form, and ſet them in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left.

8 He made alſo ten tables, and placed them in the temple, five on the right ſide, and five on the left: and he made an hundred baſons of gold.

9 ¶ Furthermore, he made the court of the prieſts and the great court, and doors for the court, and overlaid the doors of them with braſs.

NOTES on Chap. IV.

Ver. 1. He made an altar of braſs, &c.] This was much larger than that made by Moſes, and executed, no doubt, according to the direction of God, who had informed David in what manner all ſuch things ſhould be made. For the particulars of this chapter, ſee 1 Kings vii.

Ver. 3. Two rows of oxen were caſt, when it was caſt.] The oxen and the ſea were caſt together, and not faſtened afterwards. Kimchi.

Ver. 5. It held three thouſand baths.] In 1 Kings vii. 26. it ſays, it held only two thouſand baths. To reconcile theſe paſſages, therefore, we may ſuppoſe, that the quantity of water, which was commonly in it, was two thouſand baths; but if filled to the brim, it would contain three thouſand.

Ver. 7. According to their form.] According to the form or pattern which David gave them.

Before Chriſt 1012.

10 And he ſet the ſea on the right ſide of the eaſt-end, over againſt the ſouth.

11 And Huram made the pots, and the ſhovels, and the baſons, and Huram finiſhed the work that he was to make for king Solomon for the houſe of God:

12 To wit, the two pillars, and the pommels, and the chapiters which were on the top of the two pillars, and the two wreaths to cover the two pommels of the chapiters which were on the top of the pillars:

13 And four hundred pomegranates on the two wreaths; two rows of pomegranates on each wreath, to cover the two pommels of the chapiters, which were upon the pillars.

14 He made alſo baſes; and lavers made he upon the baſes;

15 One ſea, and twelve oxen under it:

16 The pots alſo, and the ſhovels, and the fleſh-hooks, and all their inſtruments did Huram his father make to king Solomon for the houſe of the LORD, of bright braſs.

17 In the plain of Jordan did the king caſt them, in the clay-ground between Succoth and Zeredathah.

18 Thus Solomon made all theſe veſſels in great abundance: for the weight of the braſs could not be found out.

19 And Solomon made all the veſſels that were for the houſe of God, the golden altar alſo, and the tables whereon the ſhew-bread was ſet;

20 Moreover, the candleſticks with their lamps, that they ſhould burn after the manner, before the oracle, of pure gold; Before Chriſt 1012.

21 And the flowers, and the lamps, and the tongs made he of gold, and that perfect gold.

22 And the ſnuffers, and the baſons, and the ſpoons, and the cenſers, of pure gold: and the entry of the houſe, the inner doors thereof for the moſt holy place, and the doors of the houſe of the temple, were of gold.

CHAP. V.

1 The dedicated treaſures. 2 The ſolemn induction of the ark into the oracle. 11 God being praiſed, giveth a viſible ſign of his favour.

THus all the work that Solomon made for the houſe of the LORD, was finiſhed: and Solomon brought in all the things that David his father had dedicated; and the ſilver, and the gold, and all the inſtruments, put he among the treaſures of the houſe of God. 1005.

2 ¶ Then Solomon aſſembled the elders of Iſrael, and all the heads of the tribes, the chief of the fathers of the children of Iſrael, unto Jeruſalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD, out of the city of David, which is Zion.

3 Wherefore all the men of Iſrael aſſembled themſelves unto the king in the feaſt, which was in the ſeventh month. 1004.

4 And all the elders of Iſrael came, and the Levites took up the ark.

5 And they brought up the ark, and the tabernacle

Ver. 16. Huram his father.] Solomon calls Huram his father, either out of reſpect to him, or elſe, becauſe he was the inventor of all this excellent work; or, it may ſignify, Huram and his father.

Ver. 19. The table whereon the ſhew-bread was ſet.] Moſes made only one table, but Solomon made ten, for the greater convenience of the prieſts in their miniſtration. But, it is not improbable, that here tables in the plural, is put for table in the ſingular; and that he ſpeaks of that on which the bread ſtood before the Lord.

Ver. 22. Were of gold.] Not entirely of maſſy gold, but of wood, covered with plates of gold.

NOTES on Chap. V.

Ver. 1. And the ſilver, and the gold, and all the inſtruments, &c.] David had made ſuch vaſt preparations for the building, that there was more than ſufficient for the whole work; and therefore Solomon depoſited the ſurplus in the treaſury of the temple. The reader is referred to the 1 Kings viii. which contains nearly the ſame account with this chapter.

Before Christ 1004.

tabernacle of the congregation, and all the holy veſſels that were in the tabernacle, theſe did the prieſts and the Levites bring up.

6 Alſo king Solomon and all the congregation of Iſrael that were aſſembled unto him before the ark, ſacrificed ſheep and oxen, which could not be told nor numbered for multitude.

7 And the prieſts brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto his place, to the oracle of the houſe into the moſt holy place, even under the wings of the cherubims.

8 For the cherubims ſpread forth their wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark and the ſtaves thereof, above.

9 And they drew out the ſtaves of the ark, that the ends of the ſtaves were ſeen from the ark before the oracle, but they were not ſeen without. And there it is unto this day.

10 There was nothing in the ark ſave the two tables which Moſes put therein at Horeb, when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Iſrael, when they came out of Egypt.

11 ¶ And it came to paſs when the prieſts were come out of the holy place: (for all the prieſts that were preſent were ſanctified, and did not then wait by courſe.

12 Alſo the Levites which were the ſingers, all of them of Aſaph, of Heman, of Jeduthun, with their ſons, and their brethren; being arayed in white linen, having cymbals, and pſalteries, and harps, ſtood at the eaſt-end of the altar, and with them an hundred and twenty prieſts, ſounding with trumpets)

Before Christ 1004.

13 It came even to paſs, as the trumpeters and ſingers were as one, to make one ſound to be heard in praiſing and thanking the LORD; and when they lift up their voice with the trumpets and cymbals, and inſtruments of muſick, and praiſed the LORD, ſaying, For he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever: that then the houſe was filled with a cloud, even the houſe of the LORD;

14 So that the prieſts could not ſtand to miniſter by reaſon of the cloud: for the glory of the LORD had filled the houſe of God.

CHAP. VI.

1 Solomon having bleſſed the people, bleſſeth God. 12 Solomons prayer at the conſecration of the temple, upon the brazen ſcaffold.

THen ſaid Solomon, The LORD hath ſaid that he would dwell in the thick darkneſs.

2 But I have built an houſe of habitation for thee, and a place for thy dwelling for ever.

3 And the king turned his face, and bleſſed the whole congregation of Iſrael, (and all the congregation of Iſrael ſtood)

4 And he ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael, who hath with his hands fulfilled

Ver. 9. There it is unto this day.] Or, they are there, as it is in the margin, out of 1 Kings viii. 8. which words were exactly true, when that book was written; but when this author tranſcribed them into this book, after the captivity, there was then neither ſtaves nor ark remaining. Therefore, he only relates how Solomon ſettled theſe things.

Ver. 11. And did not then wait by courſe.] Upon this extraordinary occaſion, all the prieſts attended, though it was not in their courſe; and they were ſanctified to do the duties of this great day. For there were ſuch a number of ſacrifices offered, that the attendance and ſervice of them all was neceſſary.

NOTES on Chap. VI.

Ver. 1. That he would dwell in the thick darkneſs.] Juſtin Martyr obſerves, that Orpheus, and another ancient writer, call God Pankruphon, altogether hid; and the Lacedemonians, who pretend to be of kin to the Jews, had a temple dedicated to Zeus Skotinos, Jupiter the dark. The notion of God's dwelling in the thick darkneſs, then, among the heathens, was certainly learned from hence. See 1 Kings viii. 12, &c.

Before Christ 1004.

fulfilled that which he ſpake with his mouth to my father David, ſaying,

5 Since the day that I brought forth my people out of the land of Egypt, I choſe no city among all the tribes of Iſrael to build an houſe in, that my name might be there, neither choſe I any man to be a ruler over my people Iſrael:

6 But I have choſen Jeruſalem, that my name might be there, and have choſen David to be over my people Iſrael.

7 Now it was in the heart of David my father to build an houſe for the name of the LORD God of Iſrael.

8 But the LORD ſaid to David my father, Foraſmuch as it was in thine heart to build an houſe for my name, thou didſt well in that it was in thine heart:

9 Notwithſtanding, thou ſhalt not build the houſe, but thy ſon which ſhall come forth out of thy loins, he ſhall build the houſe for my name.

10 The LORD therefore hath performed his word that he hath ſpoken: for I am riſen up in the room of David my father, and am ſet on the throne of Iſrael, as the LORD promiſed, and have built the houſe for the name of the LORD God of Iſrael.

11 And in it have I put the ark, wherein is the covenant of the LORD, that he made with the children of Iſrael.

12 ¶ And he ſtood before the altar of the LORD, in the preſence of all the congregation of Iſrael, and ſpread forth his hands;

13 (For Solomon had made a braſen ſcaffold, of five cubits long, and five cubits broad, and three cubits high, and had ſet it in the midſt of the court, and upon it he ſtood, and kneeled down upon his knees before all the congregation of Iſrael, and ſpread forth his hands towards heaven)

Before Christ 1004.

14 And ſaid, O LORD God of Iſrael, there is no God like thee in the heaven, nor in the earth; which keepeſt covenant, and ſheweſt mercy unto thy ſervants, that walk before thee with all their hearts:

15 Thou which haſt kept with thy ſervant David my father, that which thou haſt promiſed him; and ſpakeſt with thy mouth, and haſt fulfilled it with thine hand, as it is this day.

16 Now therefore, O LORD God of Iſrael, keep with thy ſervant David my father, that which thou haſt promiſed him, ſaying, There ſhall not fail thee a man in my ſight to ſit upon the throne of Iſrael; yet ſo, that thy children take heed to their way to walk in my law, as thou haſt walked before me.

17 Now then, O LORD God of Iſrael, let thy word be verified, which thou haſt ſpoken unto thy ſervant David.

18 (But will God in very deed dwell with men on the earth? behold, heaven, and the heavens of heavens cannot contain thee; how much leſs this houſe which I have built?)

19 Have reſpect therefore to the prayer of thy ſervant, and to his ſupplication, O LORD my God, to hearken unto the cry and the prayer which thy ſervant prayeth before thee:

20 That thine eyes may be open upon this houſe day and night, upon the place whereof thou haſt ſaid, that thou wouldeſt put thy name there; to hearken unto the prayer, which thy ſervant prayeth towards this place.

21 Hearken therefore unto the ſupplications of thy ſervant, and of thy people Iſrael, which they ſhall make towards this place:

22 ¶ If a man ſin againſt his neighbour, and an oath be laid upon him, to make him ſwear, and the oath come before thine altar in this houſe:

23 Then hear thou from heaven, and do, and judge thy ſervants by requiting the wicked, by recompenſing his way upon his own head, and by juſtifying the righteous, by giving him according to his righteouſneſs.

24 ¶ And if thy people Iſrael be put to the worſe before the enemy, becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee; and ſhall return and confeſs thy name, and pray and make ſupplication before thee in this houſe:

25 Then hear thou from the heavens, and forgive the ſin of thy people Iſrael, and bring them again unto the land which thou gaveſt to them, and to their fathers.

26 ¶ When the heaven is ſhut up, and there is no rain, becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee; yet if they pray towards this place, and confeſs thy name, and turn from their ſin, when thou doſt afflict them:

27 Then hear thou from heaven, and forgive the ſin of thy ſervants, and of thy people Iſrael, when thou haſt taught them the good way, wherein they ſhould walk; and ſend rain upon thy land which thou haſt given unto thy people for an inheritance.

28 ¶ If there be dearth in the land, if there be peſtilence, if there be blaſting, or mildew, locuſts, or caterpillars; if their enemies beſiege them in the cities of their land; whatſoever ſore, or whatſoever ſickneſs there be:

29 Then what prayer, or what ſupplication ſoever ſhall be made of any man, or of all thy people Iſrael, when every one ſhall know his own ſore, and his own grief, and ſhall ſpread forth his hands in this houſe:

30 Then hear thou from heaven thy dwelling-place, and forgive, and render unto every man according unto all his ways, whoſe heart thou knoweſt: (for thou only knoweſt the hearts of the children of men)

31 That they may fear thee, to walk in thy ways ſo long as they live in the land which thou gaveſt unto our fathers.

32 ¶ Moreover, concerning the ſtranger, which is not of thy people Iſrael, but is come from a far country for thy great names ſake, and thy mighty hand, and thy ſtretched out arm; if they come and pray in this houſe:

33 Then hear thou from the heavens, even from thy dwelling-place, and do according to all that the ſtranger calleth to thee for; that all people of the earth may know thy name, and fear thee, as doth thy people Iſrael, and may know that this houſe which I have built, is called by thy name.

34 If thy people go out to war againſt their enemies by the way that thou ſhalt ſend them, and they pray unto thee toward this city which thou haſt choſen, and the houſe which I have built for thy name:

39 Then hear thou from the heavens their prayer and their ſupplication, and maintain their cauſe.

36 If they ſin againſt thee, (for there is no man which ſinneth not) and thou be angry with them, and deliver them over before their enemies, and they carry them away captives unto a land far off or near;

38 If they return to thee with all their heart, and with all their ſoul, in the land of their captivity, whither they have carried them captives, and pray toward their land which thou gaveſt unto their fathers, and toward the city which thou haſt choſen, and toward the houſe which I have built for thy name:

39 Then hear thou from the heavens, even from thy dwelling-place, their prayer and their ſupplications, and maintain their cauſe, and forgive thy people which have ſinned againſt thee.

40 Now, my God, let (I beſeech thee) thine eyes be open, and let thine ears be attent unto the prayer that is made in this place.

41 Now therefore ariſe, O LORD God, into thy reſting-place, thou, and the ark of thy ſtrength: let thy prieſts, O LORD God, be clothed with ſalvation, and let thy ſaints rejoice in goodneſs.

42 O LORD God, turn not away the face of thine anointed: remember the mercies of David thy ſervant.

CHAP. VII.

1 God having given teſtimony to Solomons prayer by fire from heaven, and glory in the temple, the people worſhip him. 12 God appearing to Solomon, giveth him promiſes upon condition.

NOW when Solomon had made an end of praying, the fire came down from heaven, and conſumed the burnt-offering and the ſacrifices; and the glory of the LORD filled the houſe.

2 And the prieſts could not enter into the houſe of the LORD, becauſe the glory of the LORD had filled the LORDS houſe.

Before Chriſt 1004.

3 And when all the children of Iſrael ſaw how the fire came down, and the glory of the Lord upon the houſe, they bowed themſelves with their faces to the ground upon the pavement, and worſhipped, and praiſed the LORD, ſaying, For he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever.

4 ¶ Then the king and all the people offered ſacrifices before the LORD.

5 And king Solomon offered a ſacrifice of twenty and two thouſand oxen, an hundred and twenty thouſand ſheep: ſo the king and all the people dedicated the houſe of God.

6 And the prieſts waited on their offices: the Levites alſo with inſtruments of muſick of the LORD, which David the king had made to praiſe the LORD, becauſe his mercy endureth for ever, when David praiſed by their miniſtry: and the prieſts ſounded trumpets before them, and all Iſrael ſtood.

7 Moreover, Solomon hallowed the middle of the court that was before the houſe of the LORD: for there he offered burnt-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings, becauſe the brazen altar which Solomon had made, was not able to receive the burnt-offerings, and the meat-offerings, and the fat.

8 ¶ Alſo at the ſame time Solomon kept the feaſt ſeven days, and all Iſrael with him, a very great congregation, from the entering in of Hamath, unto the river of Egypt.

9 And in the eighth day they made a ſolemn aſſembly: for they kept the dedication of the altar ſeven days, and the feaſt ſeven days.

Ver. 1. Fire came down, and conſumed the burnt ſacrifice.] This is an addition to what is recorded, 1 Kings viii. 11. to ſhew God's acceptation of Solomon's prayer and ſacrifices, and give him aſſurance, that he would be preſent in this place, and grant all their petitions.

Before Chriſt 1004. of the ſeventh month, he ſent the people away into their tents, glad and merry in heart for the goodneſs that the LORD had ſhewed unto David, and to Solomon, and to Iſrael his people.

11 Thus Solomon finiſhed the houſe of the LORD, and the kings houſe: and all that came into Solomons heart to make in the houſe of the LORD, and in his own houſe he proſperouſly effected.

12 ¶ And the LORD appeared to Solomon by night, and ſaid unto him, I have heard thy prayer, and have choſen this place to myſelf for an houſe of ſacrifice.

13 If I ſhut up heaven that there be no rain, or if I command the locuſts to devour the land, or if I ſend peſtilence among my people;

14 If my people which are called by my name, ſhall humble themſelves and pray, and ſeek my face, and turn from their wicked ways: then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their ſin, and will heal their land.

15 Now mine eyes ſhall be open, and mine ears attent unto the prayer that is made in this place.

16 For now have I choſen and ſanctified this houſe, that my name may be there for ever: and mine eyes and mine heart ſhall be there perpetually.

17 And as for thee, if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, and do according to all that I have commanded thee, and ſhalt obſerve my ſtatutes and my judgments:

18 Then will I eſtabliſh the throne of thy kingdom, according as I have covenanted with David thy father, ſaying, There ſhall not fail thee a man to be ruler in Iſrael.

19 But if ye turn away and forſake my ſtatutes and my commandments which I have ſet before you, and ſhall go and ſerve other gods, and worſhip them: Before Chriſt 1004.

20 Then will I pluck them up by the roots out of my land which I have given them; and this houſe which I have ſanctified for my name, will I caſt out of my ſight, and will make it to be a proverb, and a by-word among all nations.

21 And this houſe which is high, ſhall be an aſtoniſhment to every one that paſſeth by it; ſo that he ſhall ſay, Why hath the LORD done thus unto this land, and unto this houſe?

22 And it ſhall be anſwered, Becauſe they forſook the LORD God of their fathers, which brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, and laid hold on other gods and worſhipped them, and ſerved them: therefore hath he brought all this evil upon them.

5 Alſo he built Beth-horon the upper, and Beth-horon the nether, fenced cities, with walls, gates and bars:

6 And Baalath, and all the ſtore-cities that Solomon had, and all the chariot-cities, and the cities of the horſemen, and all that Solomon deſired to build in Jeruſalem, and in Lebanon, and throughout all the land of his dominion.

7 ¶ As for all the people that were left of the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites which were not of Iſrael;

8 But of their children who were left after them in the land, whom the children of Iſrael conſumed not; them did Solomon make to pay tribute, until this day.

9 But of the children of Iſrael did Solomon make no ſervants for his work: but they were men of war, and chief of his captains, and captains of his chariots and horſemen.

10 And theſe were the chief of king Solomon's officers, even two hundred and fifty that bare rule over the people.

11 ¶ And Solomon brought up the daughter of Pharaoh, out of the city of David, unto the houſe that he had built for her: for he ſaid, My wife ſhall not dwell in the houſe of David king of Iſrael, becauſe the places are holy, whereunto the ark of the LORD hath come.

12 ¶ Then Solomon offered burnt-offerings unto the LORD on the altar of the LORD, which he had built before the porch:

13 Even after a certain rate every day, offering according to the commandment of Moſes, on the ſabbaths, and on the new-moons, and on the ſolemn feaſts, three times in the year, even in the feaſt of unleavened bread, and in the feaſt of weeks, and in the feaſt of tabernacles.

Before Chriſt, 992.

14 ¶ And he appointed, according to the order of David his father, the courſes of the prieſts to their ſervice, and the Levites to their charges, to praiſe and miniſter before the prieſts, as the duty of every day required: the porters alſo by their courſes, at every gate: for ſo had David the man of God commanded.

15 And they departed not from the commandment of the king unto the prieſts and Levites, concerning any matter, or concerning the treaſures.

16 Now all the work of Solomon was prepared unto the day of the foundation of the houſe of the LORD, and until it was finiſhed: ſo the houſe of the LORD was perfected.

17 ¶ Then went Solomon to Ezion-geber, and to Eloth, at the ſea-ſide in the land of Edom.

18 And Huram ſent him by the hands of his ſervants, ſhips, and ſervants that had knowledge of the ſea; and they went with the ſervants of Solomon to Ophir, and took thence four hundred and fifty talents of gold, and brought them to king Solomon.

2 And Solomon told her all her queſtions: and there was nothing hid from Solomon which he told her not.

3 And when the queen of Sheba had ſeen the wiſdom of Solomon, and the houſe that he had built,

5 And ſhe ſaid to the king, It was a true report, which I heard in mine own land, of thine acts, and of thy wiſdom:

6 Howbeit, I believed not their words, until I came, and mine eyes had ſeen it: and behold, the one half of the greatneſs of thy wiſdom was not told me: for thou exceedeſt the fame that I heard.

7 Happy are thy men, and happy are theſe thy ſervants, which ſtand continually before thee, and hear thy wiſdom.

8 Bleſſed be the LORD thy God, which delighted in thee to ſet thee on his throne, to be king for the LORD thy God: becauſe thy God loved Iſrael, to eſtabliſh them for ever, therefore made he thee king over them, to do judgment and juſtice.

9 And ſhe gave the king an hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of ſpices great abundance, and precious ſtones: neither was there any ſuch ſpice as the queen of Sheba gave king Solomon.

Notes on Chap. IX.

Ver. 2. Solomon told her all her queſtions.] The queſtions which ſhe came to aſk, were not curious inquiries into the ſecrets of natural things, or the maxims of political government; but only about things relating to piety and the ſervice of God; for our Saviour ſays, ſhe came to hear the wiſdom of Solomon, and ſhould therefore riſe up in judgment againſt that generation, who would not receive the inſtructions of one who was greater than Solomon. It is ſaid, 1 Kings x. 1. that the fame ſhe heard of Solomon, was concerning the name of the Lord. This chapter is little more than a repetition of what is there related.

Before Christ 992. ened to the throne, and ſtays on each ſide of the ſitting place, and two lions ſtanding by the ſtays.

19 And twelve lions ſtood there on the one ſide and on the other, upon the ſix ſteps. There was not the like made in any kingdom.

20 ¶ And all the drinking-veſſels of king Solomon were of gold, and all the veſſels of the houſe of the foreſt of Lebanon were of pure gold: none were of ſilver; it was not any thing accounted of in the days of Solomon.

21 For the kings ſhips went to Tarſhiſh with the ſervants of Huram: every three years once came the ſhips of Tarſhiſh bringing gold and ſilver, ivory, and apes, and peacocks.

22 And king Solomon paſſed all the kings of the earth in riches and wiſdom.

23 ¶ And all the kings of the earth ſought the preſence of Solomon, to hear his wiſdom, that God had put in his heart.

24 And they brought every man his preſent, veſſels of ſilver, and veſſels of gold, and raiment, harneſs, and ſpices, horſes, and mules, a rate year by year.

25 ¶ And Solomon had four thouſand ſtalls for horſes and chariots, and twelve thouſand horſemen, whom he beſtowed in the chariot-cities, and with the king at Jeruſalem.

26 ¶ And he reigned over all the kings, from the river, even unto the land of the Philiſtines, and to the border of Egypt. Before Christ 992.

27 And the king made ſilver in Jeruſalem as ſtones, and cedar-trees made he as the ſycomore-trees, that are in the low plains, in abundance.

28 And they brought unto Solomon horſes out of Egypt, and out of all lands.

29 ¶ Now the reſt of the Acts of Solomon, firſt and laſt, are they not written in the book of Nathan the prophet, and in the prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the viſions of Iddo the ſeer, againſt Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat?

30 And Solomon reigned in Jeruſalem over all Iſrael forty years.

31 And Solomon ſlept with his fathers, and he was buried in the city of David his father, and Rehoboam his ſon reigned in his ſtead. 975.

CHAP. X.

1 The Iſraelites aſſembled at Shechem to crown Rehoboam, by Jeroboam make a ſuit of relaxation unto him. 6 Rehoboam refuſing the old mens counſel, by the advice of young men anſwereth them roughly.

AND Rehoboam went to Shechem: for to Shechem were all Iſrael come to make him king.

2 And

Ver. 21. Apes and peacocks.] It is thought, that inſtead of apes and peacocks here, the greek tranſlators of the book of Kings, more properly underſtood them to mean ſome kind of precious ſtones; but of what particular ſort, it would be in vain to enquire.

Ver 25. Twelve thouſand horſemen, &c.] They had no horſes in David's time, for himſelf rode upon a mule; and ſo did Abſalom, when he loſt the battle. The country did not produce horſes, but Solomon had them out of Egypt, and maintained a great number of chariots; their chariots reſembled thoſe of the Grecians, i. e. they were ſmall, with two wheels a-piece, carrying a man or two, ſtanding or leaning forward.

Ver. 27. The king made ſilver in Jeruſalem as ſtones.] An hyperbolical expreſſion; and ſignifies that there was ſuch abundance of it as exceeded all belief.

Cedar trees made he as the ſycomore trees, that are in the low plains, in abundance.] The ſycomore is a wild fig-tree, with which thoſe countries abound, bearing fruit not unlike to figs, but much ſweeter, and without thoſe little ſeeds; they were not eſteemed, and therefore commonly ſold only to the poorer ſort of people.

Ver. 29. Are they not written in the book of Nathan the prophet, &c.] Abarbinel is of opinion, that there were two books of the acts of Solomon; one containing an account of the beginning of his reign, his noble buildings, and the ſplendor in which he lived, written by Nathan the prophet; the other, an account of what paſſed in the latter part of his life, how he fell into idolatry, and the puniſhments with which he was threatened, written by Ahijah the Shilonite, and Iddo the Seer; for the latter wrote the acts of Jeroboam, which could not be well related, without touching upon ſome part of Solomon's reign.

NOTES on Chap. X.

Ver. 1. Rehoboam went to Shechem, &c.] The reader is referred to 1 Kings xii. for an account of this tranſaction.

Before Chriſt 975.

2 And it came to paſs when Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat (who was in Egypt, whither he had fled from the preſence of Solomon the king) heard it, that Jeroboam returned out of Egypt.

3 And they ſent and called him: ſo Jeroboam and all Iſrael came and ſpake to Rehoboam, ſaying,

4 Thy father made our yoke grievous, now therefore eaſe thou ſomewhat the grievous ſervitude of thy father, and his heavy yoke that he put upon us, and we will ſerve thee.

5 And he ſaid unto them, Come again unto me after three days. And the people departed.

6 ¶ And king Rehoboam took counſel with the old men that had ſtood before Solomon his father while he yet lived, ſaying, What counſel give ye me, to return anſwer to this people?

7 And they ſpake unto him, ſaying, If thou be kind to this people, and pleaſe them, and ſpeak good words to them, they will be thy ſervants for ever.

8 But he forſook the counſel which the old men gave him, and took counſel with the young men that were brought up with him, that ſtood before him.

9 And he ſaid unto them, What advice give ye, that we may return anſwer to this people, which have ſpoken to me, ſaying, Eaſe ſomewhat the yoke that thy father did put upon us?

10 And the young men that were brought up with him, ſpake unto him, ſaying, Thus ſhalt thou anſwer the people that ſpake unto thee, ſaying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it ſomewhat lighter for us: thus ſhalt thou ſay unto them, My little finger ſhall be thicker than my fathers loins.

Before Chriſt 975.

11 For whereas my father put a heavy yoke upon you, I will put more to your yoke: my father chaſtiſed you with whips, but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions.

12 So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam on the third day, as the king bade, ſaying, Come again to me on the third day.

13 And the king anſwered them roughly; and king Rehoboam forſook the counſel of the old men,

14 And anſwered them after the advice of the young men, ſaying, My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add thereto: my father chaſtiſed you with whips, but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions.

15 So the king hearkened not unto the people, for the cauſe was of God, that the Lord might perform his word, which he ſpake by the hand of Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat.

16 ¶ And when all Iſrael ſaw that the king would not hearken unto them, the people anſwered the king, ſaying, What portion have we in David? and we have none inheritance in the ſon of Jeſſe: every man to your tents, O Iſrael: and now David ſee to thine own houſe. So all Iſrael went to their tents.

17 But as for the children of Iſrael that dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them.

18 Then king Rehoboam ſent Hadoram that was over the tribute, and the children of Iſrael ſtoned him with ſtones, that he died: but king Rehoboam made ſpeed to get him up to his chariot, to flee to Jeruſalem.

19 And Iſrael rebelled againſt the houſe of David unto this day.

CHAP.

Ver. 4. Thy father made our yoke grievous.] If this complaint againſt Solomon was true, it is probable, that it was leſs owing to his idolatry, than his oppreſſion; for being unable to ſupport the vaſt expences of ſo many wives and concubines, and alſo of building them temples for the worſhip of their gods, he had recourſe to oppreſſive meaſures, and loaded the people with heavy taxes.

Before Christ 975.

CHAP. XI.

1 Rehoboam raiſing an army to ſubdue Iſrael, is forbidden by Shemaiah: 5 He ſtrengtheneth his kingdom with forts and proviſion.

AND when Rehoboam was come to Jeruſalem, he gathered of the houſe of Judah and Benjamin, an hundred and fourſcore thouſand choſen men which were warriors, to fight againſt Iſrael, that he might bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam.

2 But the word of the LORD came to Shemaiah the man of God, ſaying,

3 Speak unto Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon king of Judah, and to all Iſrael in Judah and Benjamin, ſaying,

4 Thus ſaith the LORD, Ye ſhall not go up, nor fight againſt your brethren: return every man to his houſe, for this thing is done of me. And they obeyed the words of the LORD, and returned from going againſt Jeroboam.

5 ¶ And Rehoboam dwelt in Jeruſalem, and built cities for defence in Judah.

6 He built even Beth-lehem, and Etam, and Tekoa,

7 And Beth-zur, and Shoco, and Adullam,

8 And Gath, and Mareſhah, and Ziph,

9 And Adoraim, and Lachiſh, and Azekah,

10 And Zorah, and Aijalon, and Hebron, which are in Judah, and in Benjamin, fenced cities.

11 And he fortified the ſtrong holds, and put captains in them, and ſtore of victual, and of oil and wine.

12 And in every ſeveral city he put ſhields and ſpears, and made them exceeding ſtrong, having Judah and Benjamin on his ſide. Before Christ 975.

13 ¶ And the prieſts and the Levites were in all Iſrael, reſorted to him out of all their coaſts. 974.

14 (For the Levites left their ſuburbs, and their poſſeſſion, and came to Judah and Jeruſalem: for Jeroboam and his ſons had caſt them off from executing the prieſts office unto the LORD.

15 And he ordained him prieſts for the high places, and for the devils, and for the calves which he had made.)

16 And after them out of all the tribes of Iſrael, ſuch as ſet their hearts to ſeek the LORD God of Iſrael, came to Jeruſalem, to ſacrifice unto the LORD God of their fathers.

17 So they ſtrengthened the kingdom of Judah, and made Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon ſtrong, three years: for three years, they walked in the way of David and Solomon.

18 ¶ And Rehoboam took him Mahalath the daughter of Jerimoth the ſon of David to wife, and Abihail the daughter of Eliab the ſon of Jeſſe:

19 Which bare him children; Jeuſh, and Shamariah, and Zaham.

20 And after her, he took Maachah the daughter of Abſalom, which bare him Abijah, and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith.

21 And Rehoboam loved Maachah the daughter of Abſalom, above all his wives and his concubines: (for he took eighteen wives,

NOTES on Chap. XI.

Ver. 13. The prieſts and the Levites—reſorted to him out of all their coaſts.] Thus the tribe of Levi was added to that of Judah, the tribe of Simeon too, ſeems to have been partly united with Judah; for we read, verſe 6. that Rehoboam built Etam, which was a tribe in the town of Simeon.

Ver. 17. Three years they walked in the way of David and Solomon.] While they kept the commandments of the Lord, and worſhipped him in the beauty of holineſs, they had nothing to fear; but when they forſook the God of their fathers, and introduced the idolatry of the heathen, they became a prey to their enemies, and were at laſt carried away captive by Nebuchadnezzar. Solomon's being here mentioned with David, as an example of piety, is to be underſtood of the greater part of his reign only.

22 And Rehoboam made Abijah the ſon of Maachah the chief, to be ruler among his brethren: for he thought to make him king.

23 And he dealt wiſely, and diſperſed of all his children throughout all the countries of Judah and Benjamin, unto every fenced city: and he gave them victual in abundance: and he deſired many wives.

CHAP. XII.

1 Rehoboam forſaking the Lord, is puniſhed by Shiſhak: 5 He and the princes repenting at the preaching of Shemaiah, are delivered from deſtruction, but not from ſpoil. 13 The reign and death of Rehoboam.

972. AND it came to paſs when Rehoboam had eſtabliſhed the kingdom, and had ſtrengthened himſelf, he forſook the law of the LORD, and all Iſrael with him.

971. 2 And it came to paſs, that in the fifth year of king Rehoboam, Shiſhak king of Egypt came up againſt Jeruſalem, (becauſe they had tranſgreſſed againſt the LORD)

3 With twelve hundred chariots, and threeſcore thouſand horſemen: and the people were without number that came with him out of Egypt; the Lubims, the Sukkiims, and the Ethiopians.

4 And he took the fenced cities which pertained to Judah, and came to Jeruſalem.

5 ¶ Then came Shemaiah the prophet to Rehoboam, and to the princes of Judah, that were gathered together to Jeruſalem becauſe of Shiſhak, and ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD, Ye have forſaken me, and therefore have I alſo left you in the hand of Shiſhak. Before Chriſt 971.

6 Whereupon the princes of Iſrael, and the king humbled themſelves, and they ſaid, The LORD is righteous.

7 And when the LORD ſaw that they humbled themſelves, the word of the LORD came to Shemaiah, ſaying, They have humbled themſelves, therefore I will not deſtroy them, but I will grant them ſome deliverance, and my wrath ſhall not be poured out upon Jeruſalem by the hand of Shiſhak.

8 Nevertheleſs, they ſhall be his ſervants; that they may know my ſervice, and the ſervice of the kingdoms of the countries.

9 So Shiſhak king of Egypt came up againſt Jeruſalem, and took away the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD, and the treaſures of the kings houſe, he took all: he carried away alſo the ſhields of gold which Solomon had made.

10 In ſtead of which, king Rehoboam made ſhields of braſs, and committed them to the hands of the chief of the guard, that kept the entrance of the kings houſe.

11 And when the king entered into the houſe of the LORD, the guard came and ſet them, and brought them again into the guard-chamber.

12 And when he humbled himſelf, the

NOTES on Chap. XII.

Ver. 1. He forſook the law of the Lord.] He introduced the worſhip of falſe gods, which he derived from his mother, who was an Ammoniteſs.

Ver. 3. The Lubims.] They were a people of Lybia, a famous country of Africa, adjoining to Egypt.

The Sukkiims.] Then dwelt in caves and dens on the coaſt of the Red-ſea; they were from thence called Troglodites, agreeable to the ſignification of the Hebrew word SUCCHA, which imports not only tabernacles, but caves or dens.

The Ethiopians.] The people called Cuſh, which we tranſlate Ethiopians, were either inhabitants of a country on the ſouth of Egypt, or the Scenitæ in Arabia, for the name was common to both.

Ver. 8. That they might know my ſervice, &c.] He reſolved to let them experience the difference between him, and other lords and maſters, and how much more happy they were, while they continued to worſhip and ſerve him, than when they fell under a foreign yoke.

Before Christ 971. wrath of the LORD turned from him, that he would not deſtroy him altogether: and alſo in Judah things went well.

13 ¶ So king Rehoboam ſtrengthened himſelf in Jeruſalem, and reigned: for Rehoboam was one and forty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned ſeventeen years in Jeruſalem, the city which the LORD had choſen out of all the tribes of Iſrael, to put his name there: and his mothers name was Naamah an Ammoniteſs.

14 And he did evil, becauſe he prepared not his heart to ſeek the LORD.

15 Now the acts of Rehoboam, firſt and laſt, are they not written in the book of Shemaiah the prophet, and of Iddo the ſeer, concerning genealogies? And there were wars between Rehoboam and Jeroboam continually.

16 And Rehoboam ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David; and Abijah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Abijah ſucceeding, maketh war againſt Jeroboam: 13 Truſting in God, he overcometh Jeroboam.

958. NOW in the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam, began Abijah to reign over Judah.

2 He reigned three years in Jeruſalem: (his mothers name alſo was Michaiah the daughter of Uriel of Gibeah) and there was war between Abijah and Jeroboam.

957. 3 And Abijah ſet the battel in aray, with an army of valiant men of war, even four hundred thouſand choſen men: Jeroboam alſo ſet the battel in aray againſt him with eight hundred thouſand choſen men, being mighty men of valour. Before Christ 957.

4 ¶ And Abijah ſtood up upon mount Zemaraim, which is in mount Ephraim, and ſaid, Hear me, thou Jeroboam, and all Iſrael,

5 Ought you not to know, that the LORD God of Iſrael gave the kingdom over Iſrael to David for ever, even to him and to his ſons by a covenant of ſalt?

6 Yet Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, the ſervant of Solomon the ſon of David, is riſen up, and hath rebelled againſt his lord.

7 And there are gathered unto him vain men the children of Belial, and have ſtrengthened themſelves againſt Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon, when Rehoboam was young and tender-hearted, and could not withſtand them.

8 And now ye think to withſtand the kingdom of the LORD, in the hand of the ſons of David; and ye be a great multitude, and there are with you golden calves which Jeroboam made you for gods.

9 Have ye not caſt out the prieſts of the LORD the ſons of Aaron, and the Levites, and have made you prieſts after the manner of the nations of other lands? ſo that whoſoever cometh to conſecrate himſelf with a young bullock and ſeven rams, the ſame may be a prieſt of them that are no gods.

10 But as for us, the LORD is our God, and we have not forſaken him; and the prieſts which miniſter unto the LORD, are the ſons of Aaron, and the Levites wait upon their buſineſs.

11 And they burn unto the LORD every morning

Ver. 14. He did evil, &c.] This ſeems to imply, that he relapſed again into his ſins, after his humiliation for them.

Ver. 3. Four hundred thouſand—eight hundred thouſand.] Theſe numbers ſeem incredible, and are probably corrupted by the addition of a cypher, and inſtead of 400,000 and 800,000, it was at firſt 40,000 and 80,000, as ſeveral manuſcripts and editions teſtify.

12 And behold, God himſelf is with us for our captain, and his prieſts with ſounding trumpets to cry alarm againſt you: O children of Iſrael, fight ye not againſt the LORD God of your fathers, for you ſhall not proſper.

13 ¶ But Jeroboam cauſed an ambuſhment to come about behind them: ſo they were before Judah, and the ambuſhment was behind them.

14 And when Judah looked back, behold, the battel was before and behind: and they cried unto the LORD, and the prieſts ſounded with the trumpets.

15 Then the men of Judah gave a ſhout: and as the men of Judah ſhouted, it came to paſs, that God ſmote Jeroboam and all Iſrael before Abijah and Judah.

16 And the children of Iſrael fled before Judah: and God delivered them into their hand.

17 And Abijah and his people ſlew them with a great ſlaughter: ſo there fell down ſlain of Iſrael, five hundred thouſand choſen men.

18 Thus the children of Iſrael were brought under at that time, and the children of Judah prevailed, becauſe they relied upon the LORD God of their fathers.

19 And Abijah purſued after Jeroboam, and took cities from him, Beth-el with the towns thereof, and Jeſhanah with the towns thereof, and Ephrain with the towns thereof.

20 Neither did Jeroboam recover ſtrength again in the days of Abijah: and the LORD ſtruck him, and he died. Before Chriſt 957.

21 ¶ But Abijah waxed mighty, and married fourteen wives, and begat twenty and two ſons, and ſixteen daughters.

22 And the reſt of the acts of Abijah, and his ways, and his ſayings, are written in the ſtory of the prophet Iddo.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Aſa ſucceeding, deſtroyeth idolatry: 6 Having peace, he ſtrengtheneth his kingdom with forts and armies. 9 Calling on God, he overthroweth Zerah, and ſpoileth the Ethiopians.

SO Abijah ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David, and Aſa his ſon reigned in his ſtead: in his days the land was quiet ten years. 955.

2 And Aſa did that which was good and right in the eyes of the LORD his God.

3 For he took away the altars of the ſtrange gods, and the high places, and brake down the images, and cut down the groves: 951.

4 And commanded Judah to ſeek the LORD God of their fathers, and to do the law, and the commandment.

5 Alſo he took away out of all the cities of Judah, the high places and the images: and the kingdom was quiet before him.

6 ¶ And he built fenced cities in Judah: for the land had reſt, and he had no war in thoſe years; becauſe the LORD had given him reſt.

7 Therefore he ſaid unto Judah, Let us build theſe cities, and make about them walls, and towers, gates, and bars, while the land is yet before us; becauſe we have ſought the LORD our God, we have ſought

Ver. 17. Five hundred thouſand choſen men.] This is the greateſt ſlaughter that we read of in hiſtory; but ſome learned men have thought, that a cypher has been, thro' negligence, added to this, and the numbers at the 3d ver.

8 And Aſa had an army of men that bare targets and ſpears, out of Judah three hundred thouſand, and out of Benjamin, that bare ſhields, and drew bows, two hundred and fourſcore thouſand: all theſe were mighty men of valour.

941. 9 ¶ And there came out againſt them Zerah the Ethiopian, with an hoſt of a thouſand thouſand, and three hundred chariots, and came unto Mareſhah.

10 Then Aſa went out againſt him, and they ſet the battel in aray in the valley of Zephathah at Mareſhah.

11 And Aſa cried unto the LORD his God, and ſaid, LORD, it is nothing with thee to help, whether with many, or with them that have no power: help us, O LORD our God; for we reſt on thee, and in thy name we go againſt this multitude: O LORD, thou art our God, let not man prevail againſt thee.

12 So the LORD ſmote the Ethiopians before Aſa, and before Judah, and the Ethiopians fled.

13 And Aſa and the people that were with him purſued them unto Gerar: and the Ethiopians were overthrown, that they could not recover themſelves, for they were deſtroyed before the LORD, and before his hoſt; and they carried away very much ſpoil.

14 And they ſmote all the cities round about Gerar, for the fear of the LORD came upon them: and they ſpoiled all the cities, for there was exceeding much ſpoil in them. Before Christ 941.

15 They ſmote alſo the tents of cattle, and carried away ſheep and camels in abundance, and returned to Jeruſalem.

CHAP. XV.

1 Aſa with Judah and many of Iſrael moved by the prophecy of Azariah the ſon of Oded, make a ſolemn covenant with God: 16 He putteth down Maachah his mother for her idolatry: 18 He bringeth dedicate things into the houſe of God, and enjoyeth a long peace.

AND the ſpirit of God came upon Azariah the ſon of Oded.

2 And he went out to meet Aſa, and ſaid unto him, Hear ye me, Aſa, and all Judah and Benjamin, The LORD is with you, while ye be with him; and if ye ſeek him, he will be found of you; but if ye forſake him, he will forſake you.

3 Now for a long ſeaſon Iſrael hath been without the true God, and without a teaching prieſt, and without law.

4 But when they in their trouble did turn unto the LORD God of Iſrael, and ſought him, he was found of them.

5 And in thoſe times there was no peace to him that went out, nor to him that came in, but great vexations were upon all the inhabitants of the countries.

6 And nation was deſtroyed of nation, and city of city: for God did vex them with all adverſity.

Ver. 3. For a long ſeaſon Iſrael hath been without the true God.] That is, it is long ſince the houſe of Iſrael departed from the houſe of David, becauſe of Jeroboam, in which they have not worſhipped God, but the golden calves.

Ver. 5. In thoſe times there was no peace, &c.] We do not read of ſuch troubles hitherto in the kingdom of Iſrael; therefore the words may be tranſlated, in thoſe days there ſhall be no peace, &c. and at the next verſe alſo, we ſhould read, Nation ſhall be deſtroyed of nation, &c.

8 And when Aſa heard theſe words, and the prophecy of Oded the prophet, he took courage, and put away the abominable idols out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had taken from mount Ephraim, and renewed the altar of the Lord that was before the porch of the Lord.

9 And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and the ſtrangers with them out of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, and out of Simeon: (for they fell to him out of Iſrael in abundance, when they ſaw that the Lord his God was with him.)

10 So they gathered themſelves together at Jeruſalem in the third month, in the fifteenth year of the reign of Aſa.

11 And they offered unto the Lord the ſame time, of the ſpoil which they had brought, ſeven hundred oxen, and ſeven thouſand ſheep.

12 And they entered into a covenant to ſeek the Lord God of their fathers, with all their heart, and with all their ſoul;

13 That whoſoever would not ſeek the Lord God of Iſrael, ſhould be put to death, whether ſmall or great, whether man or woman.

14 And they ſware unto the Lord with a loud voice, and with ſhouting, and with trumpets, and with cornets.

15 And all Judah rejoiced at the oath: for they had ſworn with all their heart, and ſought him with their whole deſire, and he was found of them: and the Lord gave them reſt round about.

16 ¶ And alſo concerning Maachah the mother of Aſa the king, he removed her from being queen, becauſe ſhe had made an idol in a grove: and Aſa cut down her idol, and ſtamped it, and burnt it at the brook Kidron. Before Christ 951.

17 But the high places were not taken away out of Iſrael: nevertheleſs, the heart of Aſa was perfect all his days.

18 ¶ And he brought into the houſe of God the things that his father had dedicated, and that he himſelf had dedicated, ſilver, and gold, and veſſels.

19 And there was no more war unto the five and thirtieth year of the reign of Aſa.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Aſa, by the aid of the Syrians, diverteth Baaſha from building of Ramah. 7 Being reproved thereof by Hanani, he putteth him in priſon. 11 Among his other acts, in his diſeaſe he ſeekeeh not to God, but to the phyſicians: 13 His death and burial.

IN the ſix and thirtieth year of the reign of Aſa, Baaſha king of Iſrael came up 940. againſt Judah, and built Ramah, to the intent that he might let none go out or come in to Aſa king of Judah.

2 Then Aſa brought out ſilver and gold out of the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord, and of the kings houſe, and ſent to Ben-hadad king of Syria, that dwelt at Damaſcus, ſaying,

Ver. 15. They had ſworn with all their heart, &c.] Without doubt, at that time, many of them actually determined to ſerve the Lord; but ſo fickle is the heart of man, that they quickly forgot their oath, and relapſed into their former idolatry.

Ver. 17. The high places were not taken away out of Iſrael.] He had taken away thoſe in Judah, as we read in the foregoing chapter; but thoſe of the territories he had conquered in the land of Iſrael, he was not able to remove.

Notes on Chap. XVI.

Ver. 1. In the ſix and thirtieth year of the reign of Aſa, Baaſha king of Iſrael came up, &c.] Seeing Baaſha died in the ſix and twentieth year of Aſa, the beſt authors are of opinion, that an error is crept into the text, by the careleſsneſs of ſome tranſcriber.

Before Christ 941. Baaſha king of Iſrael, that he may depart from me.

4 And Ben-hadad hearkened unto king Aſa, and ſent the captains of his armies againſt the cities of Iſrael; and they ſmote Ijon, and Dan, and Abel-maim, and all the ſtore-cities of Naphtali.

5 And it came to paſs, when Baaſha heard it, that he left off building of Ramah, and let his work ceaſe.

6 Then Aſa the king took all Judah, and they carried away the ſtones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baaſha was building, and he built therewith Geba and Mizpah.

7 ¶ And at that time Hanani the ſeer came to Aſa king of Judah, and ſaid unto him, Becauſe thou haſt relied on the king of Syria, and not relied on the Lord thy God, therefore is the hoſt of the king of Syria eſcaped out of thine hand.

8 Were not the Ethiopians and the Lubims a huge hoſt, with very many chariots, and horſemen? yet, becauſe thou didſt rely on the Lord, he delivered them into thine hand.

9 For the eyes of the Lord run too and fro throughout the whole earth, to ſhew himſelf ſtrong in the behalf of them, whoſe heart is perfect towards him. Herein thou haſt done fooliſhly; therefore from henceforth thou ſhalt have wars.

10 Then Aſa was wroth with the ſeer, and put him in a priſon-houſe; for he was in a rage with him, becauſe of this thing. And Aſa oppreſſed ſome of the people the ſame time.

11 ¶ And behold, the acts of Aſa, firſt and laſt, lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Iſrael. Before Chriſt. 941.

12 And Aſa, in the thirty and ninth year of his reign, was diſeaſed in his feet, until his diſeaſe was exceeding great: yet in his diſeaſe he ſought not to the Lord, but to the phyſicians.

13 ¶ And Aſa ſlept with his fathers, and died in the one and fortieth year of his reign. 914.

14 And they buried him in his own ſepulchers, which he had made for himſelf in the city of David, and laid him in the bed, which was filled with ſweet odours and divers kinds of ſpices prepared by the apothecaries art: and they made a very great burning for him.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Jehoſhaphat ſucceeding Aſa, reigneth well, and proſpereth: 7 He ſendeth Levites with the princes to teach Judah: 10 His enemies being terrified by God, ſome of them bring him preſents and tribute: 12 His greatneſs, captains, and armies.

AND Jehoſhaphat his ſon reigned in his ſtead, and ſtrengthened himſelf againſt Iſrael.

2 And he placed forces in all the fenced cities of Judah, and ſet garriſons in the land of Judah, and in the cities of Ephraim, which Aſa his father had taken.

3 And the Lord was with Jehoſhaphat, becauſe he walked in the firſt ways of his father David, and ſought not unto Baalim;

4 But ſought to the LORD God of his father,

Ver. 8. The Lubims.] Se chapter xii. verſe 3.

Ver. 12. In his diſeaſe he ſought not to the Lord, &c.] Aſa's fault did not lay in deſiring help of the phyſicians, but in truſting more to their ſkill, than to the power and goodneſs of God, which he neglected to implore; and continued in his former fault of puting confidence in man.

Ver. 14. They made a very great burning for him.] Both the Greeks and Romans burnt their dead bodies, throwing frankinceſs, myrrh, caſſia, and other flagrant things into the fire. It is likely the Iſraelites learned from them, the cuſtom of burning (not the bodies of the dead, for they never burnt them, but) ſpices at their funerals. This was firſt intended, probably, to overpower the offence which the ſmell of dead bodies might ſometimes give; but the vanity of ſome, cauſed them to exceed what was neceſſary.

912. 7 ¶ Alſo in the third year of his reign, he ſent to his princes, even to Ben-hail, and to Obadiah, and to Zechariah, and to Nethaneel, and to Michaiah, to teach in the cities of Judah.

8 And with them he ſent Levites, even Shemaiah, and Nethaniah, and Zebadiah, and Aſahel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehonathan, and Adonijah, and Tobijah, and Tob-adonijah, Levites; and with them Eliſhama, and Jehoram, prieſts.

9 And they taught in Judah, and had the book of the law of the LORD with them, and went about throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people.

10 ¶ And the fear of the LORD fell upon all the kingdoms of the lands that were round about Judah, ſo that they made no war againſt Jehoſhaphat.

11 Alſo ſome of the Philiſtines brought Jehoſhaphat preſents, and tribute-ſilver; and the Arabians brought him flocks, ſeven thouſand and ſeven hundred rams, and ſeven thouſand and ſeven hundred he-goats. Before Christ 912.

12 ¶ And Jehoſhaphat waxed great exceedingly; and he built in Judah, caſtles, and cities of ſtore.

13 And he had much buſineſs in the cities of Judah: and the men of war, mighty men of valour, were in Jeruſalem.

14 And theſe are the numbers of them according to the houſe of their fathers: Of Judah, the captains of thouſands; Adnah the chief, and with him mighty men of valour, three hundred thouſand.

15 And next to him was Jehohanan the captain, and with him two hundred and fourſcore thouſand.

16 And next him was Amaſiah the ſon of Zichri, who willingly offered himſelf unto the LORD; and with him two hundred thouſand mighty men of valour.

17 And of Benjamin; Eliada a mighty man of valour, and with him armed men with bow and ſhield, two hundred thouſand.

18 And next him was Jehozabad, and with him an hundred and fourſcore thouſand, ready prepared for the war.

Ver. 7. In the third year of his reign, he ſent to his princes —to teach in the cities of Judah.] Various are the conjectures of the learned with reſpect to the buſineſs in which theſe princes were employed. Grotius is of opinion, that their commiſſion extended to the inſtruction of the people, which though in ordinary caſes was every man's buſineſs, it could never be done with greater probability of ſucceſs, than by ſuch as were members of the king's council, and inveſted with his authority. However, there is reaſon to think, that they did not act in the ſame capacity with the prieſts and Levites that attended them, but earneſtly admoniſhed the people ſtrictly to obſerve the laws of God, and left the particular explanation of thoſe laws, to that ſacred order whoſe province it was; ſupporting them, in the mean time, in the execution of their office, and obliging the people to receive them with reſpect, to hear them with attention, and to practiſe what they taught; for the Levites had been remiſs in their duty, and the people were grown ſo obſtinate in their ignorance, that a proper authority was wanting, to compel them to the obſervance of their duty; therefore Jehoſhaphat cannot be ſufficiently commended for his pious care of his people.

Ver. 18. An hundred and fourſcore thouſand, &c.] If we take the number of men mentioned in the four preceding verſes, and add them to this, the total will be ſurpriſingly large. It is ſo prodigious, that many have thought, there is an error in the text: but if we conſider, that the dominions of Judah, under Jehoſhaphat, were not confined to the narrow limits of Judah and Benjamin only, but extended into the tribes of Dan, Ephraim, and Simeon; into Arabia and the country of the Philiſtines; from Beerſheba to the mountains of Ephraim one way, and from Jordan to the Mediterranean-ſea the other; when it is conſidered, that this kingdom received vaſt acceſſion, when Jeroboam thruſt out the prieſts and Levites from the ſervice of the Lord, and multitudes of other piouſly diſ-

CHAP. XVIII.

1 Jehoſhaphat joined in affinity with Ahab, is perſuaded to go with him againſt Ramoth-gilead. 4 Ahab ſeduced by falſe prophets, according to the word of Micaiah, is ſlain there.

NOW Jehoſhaphat had riches and honour in abundance, and joined affinity with Ahab.

897. 2 And after certain years he went down to Ahab to Samaria: and Ahab killed ſheep and oxen for him in abundance, and for the people that he had with him, and perſuaded him to go up with him to Ramoth-gilead.

3 And Ahab king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat king of Judah, Wilt thou go with me to Ramoth-gilead? And he anſwered him, I am as thou art, and my people as thy people, and we will be with thee in the war.

4 ¶ And Jehoſhaphat ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, Enquire, I pray thee, at the word of the Lord to day.

5 Therefore the king of Iſrael gathered together of prophets four hundred men, and ſaid unto them, Shall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battel, or ſhall I forbear? And they ſaid, Go up; for God will deliver it into the kings hand.

6 But Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Is there not here a prophet of the Lord beſides, that we might enquire of him?

Before Christ 897. 7 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, There is yet one man, by whom we may enquire of the Lord: but I hate him, for he never propheſieth good unto me, but always evil: the ſame is Micaiah the ſon of Imla. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Let not the king ſay ſo.

8 And the king of Iſrael called for one of his officers, and ſaid, Fetch quickly Micaiah the ſon of Imla.

9 And the king of Iſrael and Jehoſhaphat king of Judah, ſat either of them on his throne, clothed in their robes, and they ſat in a void place at the entering in of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets propheſied before them.

10 And Zedekiah the ſon of Chenaanah, had made him horns of iron, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the Lord, With theſe thou ſhalt puſh Syria, until they be conſumed.

11 And all the prophets propheſied ſo, ſaying, Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and proſper: for the Lord ſhall deliver it into the hand of the king.

12 And the meſſenger that went to call Micaiah, ſpake to him, ſaying, Behold, the words of the prophets declare good to the king with one aſſent: let thy word therefore, I pray thee, be like one of theirs, and ſpeak thou good.

13 And Micaiah ſaid, As the Lord liveth, poſed perſons followed them from all parts of Iſrael; when they found they might be encouraged in the worſhipping God at Jeruſalem; if we conſider likewiſe, that this country was well cultivated, flouriſhing in commerce, abounding with foreigners, and what a great increaſe of inhabitants may be produced in the ſpace of an hundred years, which was the very period from David; and that ſoldiers were not kept in thoſe days like our ſtanding armies, in conſtant pay and duty; but only had their names entered in the muſter-rolls, in order to be ſummoned whenever there was occaſion; I ſay, when all this is conſidered, we ſhall not find the number of twelve hundred thouſand fighting men to be ſo very extravagant.

Notes on Chap. XVIII.

Ver. 1. Now Jehoſhaphat—joined affinity with Ahab.] In the 2 Kings viii. 18. we are told, that his ſon married Athaliah, the daughter of Ahab. It is ſomewhat ſurpriſing, that a prince, ſo zealous for the laws of God, and ſo aſſiduous to promote his honour and ſervice, ſhould contract an affinity with ſo great an idolater. By this marriage, perhaps, he hoped to re-unite the kingdoms of Judah and Iſrael, and by that means reſtore the latter to the worſhip of the true God.

Ver. 4. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, &c.] This particular tranſaction, which has given great occaſion to the enemies of revelation, to employ their favourite talent of ridicule, is mentioned in 2 Kings xxii. to the notes of which chapter, I ſhall refer my reader, for a ſolution of thoſe difficult paſſages that occur in it.

Before Christ 897. liveth, even what my God ſaith, that will I ſpeak.

14 And when he was come to the king, the king ſaid unto him, Micaiah, ſhall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battel, or ſhall I forbear? And he ſaid, Go ye up, and proſper, and they ſhall be delivered into your hand.

15 And the king ſaid unto him, How many times ſhall I adjure thee that thou ſay nothing but the truth to me, in the name of the LORD?

16 Then he ſaid, I did ſee all Iſrael ſcattered upon the mountains, as ſheep that have no ſhepherd: and the LORD ſaid, Theſe have no maſter; let them return therefore every man to his houſe in peace.

17 (And the king of Iſrael ſaid to Jehoſhaphat, Did I not tell thee that he would not propheſy good unto me, but evil?)

18 Again he ſaid, Therefore hear the word of the LORD: I ſaw the LORD ſitting upon his throne, and all the hoſt of heaven ſtanding on his right hand, and on his left.

19 And the LORD ſaid, Who ſhall entice Ahab king of Iſrael, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead? And one ſpake, ſaying after this manner, and another ſaying after that manner.

20 Then there came out a ſpirit, and ſtood before the LORD, and ſaid, I will entice him. And the LORD ſaid unto him, Wherewith?

21 And he ſaid, I will go out, and be a lying ſpirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And the LORD ſaid, Thou ſhalt entice him, and thou ſhalt alſo prevail: go out, and do even ſo.

22 Now therefore behold, the LORD hath put a lying ſpirit in the mouth of theſe thy prophets, and the LORD hath ſpoken evil againſt thee.

23 Then Zedekiah the ſon of Chenaanah, came near, and ſmote Micaiah upon the cheek, and ſaid, Which way went the ſpirit of the LORD from me, to ſpeak unto thee? Before Christ 897.

24 And Micaiah ſaid, Behold, thou ſhalt ſee on that day, when thou ſhalt go into an inner chamber to hide thyſelf.

25 Then the king of Iſrael ſaid, Take ye Micaiah, and carry him back to Amon the governor of the city, and to Joaſh the kings ſon:

26 And ſay, Thus ſaith the king, Put this fellow in the priſon, and feed him with bread of affliction, and with water of affliction, until I return in peace.

27 And Micaiah ſaid, If thou certainly return in peace, then hath not the LORD ſpoken by me. And he ſaid, Hearken, all ye people.

28 So the king of Iſrael, and Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead.

29 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, I will diſguiſe myſelf, and will go to the battel, but put thou on thy robes. So the king of Iſrael diſguiſed himſelf, and they went to the battel.

30 Now the king of Syria had commanded the captains of the chariots that were with him, ſaying, Fight ye not with ſmall or great, ſave only with the king of Iſrael.

31 And it came to paſs when the captains of the chariots ſaw Jehoſhaphat, that they ſaid, It is the king of Iſrael: therefore they compaſſed about him to fight: but Jehoſhaphat cried out, and the LORD helped him, and God moved them to depart from him.

32 For it came to paſs, that when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Iſrael, they turned back again from purſuing him.

33 And a certain man drew a bow at a venture, and ſmote the king of Iſrael be-

Before Chriſt 897. tween the joints of the harneſs: therefore he ſaid to his chariot-man, Turn thine hand, that thou mayeſt carry me out of the hoſt, for I am wounded.

34 And the battel increaſed that day: howbeit the king of Iſrael ſtayed himſelf up in his chariot againſt the Syrians, until the even: and about the time of the ſun going down, he died.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Jehoſhaphat reproved by Jehu, viſiteth his kingdom: 5 His inſtructions to the judges, 8 to the prieſts and Levites.

896. AND Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah returned to his houſe in peace to Jeruſalem.

2 And Jehu the ſon of Hanani the ſeer, went out to meet him, and ſaid to king Jehoſhaphat, Shouldeſt thou help the ungodly, and love them that hate the LORD? therefore is wrath upon thee from before the LORD.

3 Nevertheleſs, there are good things found in thee, in that thou haſt taken away the groves out of the land, and haſt prepared thine heart to ſeek God.

4 And Jehoſhaphat dwelt at Jeruſalem: and he went out again through the people, from Beerſheba to mount Ephraim, and brought them back unto the LORD God of their fathers.

5 ¶ And he ſet judges in the land, throughout all the fenced cities of Judah, city by city,

6 And ſaid to the judges, Take heed what ye do: for ye judge not for man, but for the LORD, who is with you in the judgment. Before Chriſt 896.

7 Wherefore now, let the fear of the LORD be upon you, take heed and do it: for there is no iniquity with the LORD our God, nor reſpect of perſons, nor taking of gifts.

8 ¶ Moreover, in Jeruſalem did Jehoſhaphat ſet of the Levites, and of the prieſts, and of the chief of the fathers of Iſrael, for the judgment of the LORD, and for controverſies, when they returned to Jeruſalem.

9 And he charged them, ſaying, Thus ſhall ye do in the fear of the LORD, faithfully, and with a perfect heart.

10 And what cauſe ſoever ſhall come to you of your brethren that dwell in their cities, between blood and blood, between law and commandment, ſtatutes and judgments, ye ſhall even warn them that they treſpaſs not againſt the LORD, and ſo wrath come upon you, and upon your brethren: this do, and ye ſhall not treſpaſs.

11 And behold, Amariah the chief prieſt is over you in all matters of the LORD; and Zebadiah the ſon of Iſhmael, the ruler of the houſe of Judah, for all the kings matters: alſo the Levites ſhall be officers before you. Deal couragiouſly, and the LORD ſhall be with the good.

CHAP. XX.

1 Jehoſhaphat in his fear proclaimeth a faſt: 5 His prayer. 14 The prophecy of Jahaziel. 20 Jehoſhaphat exhorteth the people, and ſetteth ſingers to praiſe the Lord.

NOTES on Chap. XIX.

Ver. 2. Shouldeſt thou help the ungodly, and love them that hate the Lord?] It is certainly unjuſt, to take thoſe for thy friends, who are enemies to thy God, and to give them aſſiſtance, againſt whom he hath denounced the ſevereſt puniſhments.

Ver. 6. Take heed what ye do: for ye judge not for man, but for the Lord, &c.] In the Targum, this paſſage is tranſlated in the following manner: Take heed what ye do; for ye do not judge before the ſons of men, but before the word of the Lord; and his glorious preſence reſides among you in the act of judgment. From which, and a great variety of other paſſages in that book, it is ſufficiently evident, that the doctrine of the Trinity was not entirely unknown to the ancient Jews.

Ver. 10. Between blood and blood.] Some think this related to the queſtion, whether, when a perſon was killed, it was done intendedly, or by accident. But others underſtand it of kindred, and that the charge related to queſtions, regarding who was neareſt of kin to the deceaſed.

Before Chriſt 896.

Lord. 22 The great overthrow of the enemies. 26 The people having bleſſed God at Berachah, return in triumph. 31 Jehoſhaphats reign.

IT came to paſs after this alſo, that the children of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and with them other beſides the Ammonites, came againſt Jehoſhaphat to battel.

2 Then there came ſome that told Jehoſhaphat, ſaying, There cometh a great multitude againſt thee from beyond the ſea on this ſide Syria, and behold, they be in Hazazon-tamar, which is En-gedi.

3 And Jehoſhaphat feared, and ſet himſelf to ſeek the LORD, and proclaimed a faſt throughout all Judah.

4 And Judah gathered themſelves together, to aſk help of the LORD: even out of all the cities of Judah they came to ſeek the LORD.

5 ¶ And Jehoſhaphat ſtood in the congregation of Judah and Jeruſalem, in the houſe of the LORD before the new court,

6 And ſaid, O LORD God of our fathers, art not thou God in heaven? and ruleſt not thou over all the kingdoms of the heathen? and in thine hand is their not power and might, ſo that none is able to withſtand thee?

7 Art not thou our God, who didſt drive out the inhabitants of this land before thy people Iſrael, and gaveſt it to the ſeed of Abraham thy friend for ever?

Before Chriſt 896.

8 And they dwelt therein, and have built thee a ſanctuary therein for thy name, ſaying,

9 If when evil cometh upon us, as the ſword, judgment, or peſtilence, or famine, we ſtand before this houſe, and in thy preſence, (for thy name is in this houſe) and cry unto thee in our affliction, then thou wilt hear and help.

10 And now, behold, the children of Ammon, and Moab, and mount Seir, whom thou wouldeſt not let Iſrael invade, when they came out of the land of Egypt, but they turned from them, and deſtroyed them not:

11 Behold, I ſay, how they reward us, to come to caſt us out of thy poſſeſſion, which thou haſt given us to inherit.

12 O our God, wilt thou not judge them? for we have no might againſt this great company that cometh againſt us: neither know we what to do, but our eyes are upon thee.

13 And all Judah ſtood before the LORD, with their little ones, their wives and their children.

Ver. 1. And with them other beſides the Ammonites.] It ought to be tranſlated, and with them the Meunims, a people in Arabia, near the Moabites and the Ammonites, and are here called as auxiliaries.

Hazazon-tamar.] This was a place ſituated among the palm-trees.

Ver. 5. Before the new court.] At this diſtance of time, it is impoſſible to know what is meant by the new court. Some imagine it was an addition made to the court of the Iſraelites by Jehoſhaphat; and others, that it was the court of the women, which was now made diſtinct from that of the men.

Ver. 6. O Lord God of our fathers, &c.] This is the moſt ſublime compoſition made by any of their kings; expreſſing the greateſt confidence in God, and repreſenting to him the juſtice of their cauſe; acknowledging his irreſiſtible power over all his creatures, both in heaven and earth, and ſubmitting the whole event of the preſent ungrateful invaſion, to the direction of his wiſe and unerring providence.

Ver. 9. The ſword, judgment.] Some tranſlate it, the ſword of judgment, viz. the puniſhing ſword.

Ver. 11. Behold, I ſay, how they reward us.] The ſin of ingratitude is abominated by all civilized nations; even the ſavages look upon it as the blackeſt of crimes; but to render evil for good, is the higheſt pitch of wickedneſs.

Ver. 14. Then upon Jahaziel— came the ſpirit of the Lord in the midſt of the congregation] He ſeems to have been immediately inſpired by God on this occaſion; for we do not read of him as a prophet before this time, to comfort the people with a certain hope of deliverance, before they departed from the place where they had offered up their prayers to the Lord of hoſts.

Before Christ 896. Zechariah, the ſon of Benaiah, the ſon of Jeiel, the ſon of Mattaniah, a Levite of the ſons of Aſaph, came the ſpirit of the LORD in the midſt of the congregation:

15 And he ſaid, Hearken ye, all Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and thou king Jehoſhaphat, Thus ſaith the LORD unto you, Be not afraid, nor diſmayed by reaſon of this great multitude; for the battel is not yours, but Gods.

16 To morrow go ye down againſt them: behold, they come up by the cliff of Ziz, and ye ſhall find them at the end of the brook, before the wilderneſs of Jeruel.

17 Ye ſhall not need to fight in the battel; ſet yourſelves, ſtand ye ſtill, and ſee the ſalvation of the LORD with you, O Judah and Jeruſalem: fear not, nor be diſmayed; to morrow go out againſt them, for the LORD will be with you.

18 And Jehoſhaphat bowed his head, with his face to the ground: and all Judah, and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem fell before the LORD, worſhipping the LORD.

19 And the Levites, of the children of the Kohathites, and of the children of the Korhites, ſtood up to praiſe the LORD God of Iſrael with a loud voice on high.

20 ¶ And they roſe early in the morning, and went forth into the wilderneſs of Tekoa: and as they went forth, Jehoſhaphat ſtood and ſaid, Hear me, O Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jeruſalem, Believe in the LORD your God, ſo ſhall you be eſtabliſhed; believe his prophets, ſo ſhall ye proſper.

21 And when he had conſulted with the people, he appointed ſingers unto the LORD, and that ſhould praiſe the beauty of holineſs, as they went out before the army, and to ſay, Praiſe the LORD, for his mercy endureth for ever.

22 ¶ And when they began to ſing and to praiſe, the LORD ſet ambuſhments againſt the children of Ammon, Moab, and mount Seir, which were come againſt Judah, and they were ſmitten. Before Christ 896.

23 For the children of Ammon and Moab, ſtood up againſt the inhabitants of mount Seir, utterly to ſlay and deſtroy them: and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, every one helped to deſtroy another.

24 And when Judah came toward the watch-tower in the wilderneſs, they looked unto the multitude, and behold, they were dead bodies fallen to the earth, and none eſcaped.

25 And when Jehoſhaphat and his people came to take away the ſpoil of them, they found among them in abundance both riches with the dead bodies, and precious jewels (which they ſtript off for themſelves) more than they could carry away: and they were three days in gathering of the ſpoil, it was ſo much.

26 ¶ And on the fourth day they aſſembled themſelves in the valley of Berachah; for there they bleſſed the LORD: therefore the name of the ſame place was called, The valley of Berachah, unto this day.

27 Then they returned every man of Judah and Jeruſalem, and Jehoſhaphat in the forefront of them, to go again to Jeruſalem with joy: for the LORD had made them to rejoice over their enemies.

28 And they came to Jeruſalem with pſalteries, and harps, and trumpets, unto the houſe of the LORD.

29 And the fear of God was on all the kingdoms

Ver. 23. The children of Ammon and Moab, &c.] Theſe laſt were ordered to fall upon Judah by an ambuſhment; but by ſome miſtake, they fell upon the Ammonites their own confederates: this exaſperated them, and the Moabites, ſo much, that they deſtroyed all the inhabitants of Seir, miſtaking them for Jews; when this was performed, they continued in ſuch confuſion, that they fell upon one another, ſtill thinking they were deſtroying the Jews.

30 So the realm of Jehoſhaphat was quiet: for his God gave him reſt round about.

31 ¶ And Jehoſhaphat reigned over Judah: he was thirty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and five years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.

32 And he walked in the way of Aſa, his father, and departed not from it, doing that which was right in the ſight of the LORD:

33 Howbeit, the high places were not taken away; for as yet the people had not prepared their hearts unto the God of their fathers.

34 Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoſhaphat, firſt and laſt, behold, they are written in the book of Jehu the ſon of Hanani, who is mentioned in the book of the kings of Iſrael.

35 ¶ And after this did Jehoſhaphat king of Judah join himſelf with Ahaziah king of Iſrael, who did very wickedly;

36 And he joined himſelf with him to make ſhips to go to Tarſhiſh: and they made the ſhips in Ezion-gaber.

37 Then Eliezer the ſon of Dodavah of Mareſhah, propheſied againſt Jehoſhaphat, ſaying, Becauſe thou haſt joined thyſelf with Ahaziah, the LORD hath broken thy works. And the ſhips were broken, that they were not able to go to Tarſhiſh.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Jehoram ſucceeding Jehoſhaphat, ſlayeth his brethren: 5 His wicked reign. 8 Edom and Libnah revolt. 12 The prophecy of Elijah againſt him in writing: 16 Philiſtines and Arabians oppreſs him: 18 His incurable diſeaſe, infamous death, and burial

Before Christ 889. NOW Jehoſhaphat ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Jehoram his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

2 And he had brethren the ſons of Jehoſhaphat, Azariah, and Jehiel, and Zechariah, and Azariah, and Michael, and Shephatiah: all theſe were the ſons of Jehoſhaphat king of Iſrael.

892. 3 And their father gave them great gifts of ſilver and of gold, and of precious things, with fenced cities in Judah: but the kingdom gave he to Jehoram, becauſe he was the firſt-born.

4 Now when Jehoram was riſen up to the kingdom of his father, he ſtrengthened himſelf, and ſlew all his brethren with the ſword, and divers alſo of the princes of Iſrael.

5 ¶ Jehoram was thirty and two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jeruſalem.

6 And he walked in the way of the kings of Iſrael, like as did the houſe of Ahab: for he had the daughter of Ahab to wife: and he wrought that which was evil in the eyes of the LORD.

7 Howbeit the LORD would not deſtroy the houſe of David, becauſe of the covenant that he had made with David, and as he promiſed to give a light to him and to his ſons for ever.

8 ¶ In his days the Edomites revolted from under the dominion of Judah, and made themſelves a king.

9 Then Jehoram went forth with his princes, and all his chariots with him: and he roſe up by night, and ſmote the Edomites which compaſſed him in, and the captains of the chariots.

Ver. 33. The high places were not taken away.] That is, not thoſe where God was worſhipped; but the groves where they ſacrificed to idols were deſtroyed throughout the kingdom.

Before Chriſt 889.

10 So the Edomites revolted from under the hand of Judah unto this day. The ſame time alſo did Libnah revolt from under his hand: becauſe he had forſaken the Lord God of his fathers.

11 Moreover, he made high places in the mountains of Judah, and cauſed the inhabitants of Jeruſalem to commit fornication, and compelled Judah thereto.

12 ¶ And there came a writing to him from Elijah the prophet, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord God of David thy father, Becauſe thou haſt not walked in the ways of Jehoſhaphat thy father, nor in the ways of Aſa king of Judah,

13 But haſt walked in the way of the kings of Iſrael, and haſt made Judah and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem to go a whoring, like to the whoredoms of the houſe of Ahab, and alſo haſt ſlain thy brethren of thy fathers houſe, which were better than thyſelf:

14 Behold, with a great plague will the Lord ſmite thy people, and thy children, and thy wives, and all thy goods.

15 And thou ſhalt have great ſickneſs by diſeaſe of thy bowels, until thy bowels fall out, by reaſon of the ſickneſs day by day.

16 ¶ Moreover, the Lord ſtirred up againſt Jehoram the ſpirit of the Philiſtines, and of the Arabians, that were near the Ethiopians.

17 And they came up into Judah, and brake into it, and carried away all the ſubſtance that was found in the kings houſe, and his ſons alſo and his wives; ſo that there was never a ſon left him, ſave Jehoahaz the youngeſt of his ſons. Before Chriſt 889.

887. 18 ¶ And after all this the Lord ſmote him in his bowels with an incurable diſeaſe.

19 And it came to paſs that in proceſs of time, after the end of two years, his bowels fell out by reaſon of his ſickneſs:
ſo he died of ſore diſeaſes: And his peo- 885.
ple made no burning for him, like the burning of his fathers.

20 Thirty and two years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jeruſalem eight years, and departed without being deſired: howbeit, they buried him in the city of David, but not in the ſepulchers of the kings.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Ahaziah ſucceeding, reigneth wickedly. 5 In his confederacy with Joram the ſon of Ahab, he is ſlain by Jehu. 10 Athaliah deſtroying all the ſeed royal, ſave Joaſh, whom Jehoſhabeath his aunt hid, uſurpeth the kingdom.

AND the inhabitants of Jeruſalem made Ahaziah his youngeſt ſon, king in his ſtead: for the band of men that came with the Arabians to the camp, had ſlain all the eldeſt. So Ahaziah the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah reigned.

2 Forty and two years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jeruſalem: his mothers name alſo was Athaliah the daughter of Omri.

NOTES on Chap. XXI.

Ver. 12. There came a writing—from Elijah the prophet.] Several learned commentators have ſuppoſed, that there has been a miſtake in ſome tranſcriber, and the name of Elijah put for that of Eliſha; the former being taken up in the reign of Jehoſhaphat; or that the Elijah, by whom the letter was ſent, was not the Elijah who was taken up into heaven, but another of the ſame name. Others think rather, that Elijah, foreſeeing by the ſpirit of prophecy, the wickedneſs of Jehoram, ſpake theſe words to one of the prophets, charging him to put them down in writing, and to ſend them in a letter to Jehoram, when he grew ſo impious as there related, and to let him know, that Elijah commanded this writing to be delivered to him. For there is nothing in the words to intimate, that it was written after his death, but delivered after his death.

Ver. 20. Departed without being deſired.] The beſt ſenſe is, that his people did not wiſh he ſhould live any longer, but were glad his reign had a period put to it ſo ſoon.

NOTES on Chap. XXII.

Ver. 2. Forty and two years old was Azariah when he began to reign.] In 2 Kings viii. 26. he is ſaid to be only twenty-two years old; one of theſe readings, therefore, muſt undoubtedly be falſe.

Before Christ 885. 3 He alſo walked in the ways of the houſe of Ahab: for his mother was his counſellor to do wickedly.

4 Wherefore he did evil in the ſight of the LORD, like the houſe of Ahab: for they were his counſellors after the death of his father, to his deſtruction.

884. 5 ¶ He walked alſo after their counſel, and went with Jehoram the ſon of Ahab king of Iſrael, to war againſt Hazael king of Syria at Ramoth-gilead: and the Syrians ſmote Joram.

6 And he returned to be healed in Jezreel, becauſe of the wounds which were given him at Ramah, when he fought with Hazael king of Syria. And Azariah the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah, went down to ſee Jehoram the ſon of Ahab at Jezreel, becauſe he was ſick.

7 And the deſtruction of Ahaziah was of God by coming to Joram: for when he was come, he went out with Jehoram againſt Jehu the ſon of Nimſhi, whom the LORD had anointed to cut off the houſe of Ahab.

8 And it came to paſs that when Jehu was executing judgment upon the houſe of Ahab, and found the princes of Judah, and the ſons of the brethren of Ahaziah, that miniſtered to Ahaziah, he ſlew them.

9 And he ſought Ahaziah: and they caught him, (for he was hid in Samaria) and brought him to Jehu: and when they had ſlain him, they buried him, becauſe ſaid they, he is the ſon of Jehoſhaphat, who ſought the LORD with all his heart. So the houſe of Ahaziah had no power to keep ſtill the kingdom.

10 ¶ But when Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah, ſaw that her ſon was dead, ſhe aroſe, and deſtroyed all the ſeed royal of the houſe of Judah. Before Christ 884.

11 But Jehoſhabeath the daughter of the king, took Joaſh the ſon of Ahaziah, and ſtole him from among the kings ſons that were ſlain, and put him and his nurſe in a bed-chamber. So Jehoſhabeath the daughter of king Jehoram, the wife of Jehoiada the prieſt (for ſhe was the ſiſter of Ahaziah) hid him from Athaliah, ſo that ſhe ſlew him not.

12 And he was with them hid in the houſe of God ſix years, and Athaliah reigned over the land.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Jehoiada having ſet things in order, maketh Joaſh king. 12 Athaliah is ſlain. 16 Jehoiada reſtoreth the worſhip of God.

AND in the ſeventh year Jehoiada ſtrengthened himſelf, and took the captains of hundreds, Azariah the ſon of Jeroham, and Iſhmael the ſon of Jehohanan, and Azariah the ſon of Obed, and Maaſeiah the ſon of Adaiah, and Eliſhaphat the ſon of Zichri, into covenant with him. 878.

2 And they went about in Judah, and gathered the Levites out of all the cities of Judah, and the chief of the fathers of Iſrael, and they came to Jeruſalem.

3 And all the congregation made a covenant with the king in the houſe of God: and he ſaid unto them, Behold, the kings ſon ſhall reign, as the LORD hath ſaid of the ſons of David.

4 This is the thing that ye ſhall do; A third part of you entering on the ſabbath of the prieſts and of the Levites, ſhall be porters of the doors;

5 And

Ver. 9. He ſought Azariah, &c.] See the notes on 2 Kings ix. 27, 28.

NOTES on Chap. XXIII.

Ver. 2. The chief of the fathers of Iſrael.] Some of whom were under the government of the kings of Judah; and others, perhaps, were known to be well affected to religion, and proper therefore to be invited to give their aſſiſtance; but it is moſt likely, that Judah is here called Iſrael (as it is in ſeveral other places) the principal men of which were acquainted with Jehoiada's intentions. See notes on 2 Kings xi.

Before Chriſt 878.

5 And a third part ſhall be at the kings houſe; and a third part at the gate of the foundation: and all the people ſhall be in the courts of the houſe of the Lord.

6 But let none come into the houſe of the Lord, ſave the prieſts, and they that miniſter of the Levites, they ſhall go in, for they are holy: but all the people ſhall keep the watch of the Lord.

7 And the Levites ſhall compaſs the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand, and whoſoever elſe cometh into the houſe, he ſhall be put to death: but be you with the king when he cometh in, and when he goeth out.

8 So the Levites and all Judah did according to all things that Jehoiada the prieſt had commanded, and took every man his men that were to come in on the ſabbath, with them that were to go out on the ſabbath; for Jehoiada the prieſt diſmiſſed not the courſes.

9 Moreover, Jehoiada the prieſt delivered to the captains of hundred, ſpears, and bucklers, and ſhields, that had been king Davids, which were in the houſe of God.

10 And he ſet all the people (every man having his weapon in his hand) from the right ſide of the temple to the left ſide of the temple, along by the altar and the temple, by the king round about.

11 Then they brought out the kings ſon, and put upon him the crown, and gave him the teſtimony, and made him king: and Jehoiada and his ſons anointed him, and ſaid, God ſave the king.

12 ¶ Now when Athaliah heard the noiſe of the people running and praiſing the king, ſhe came to the people into the houſe of the Lord.

13 And ſhe looked, and behold, the king ſtood at his pillar at the entering in, and the princes and the trumpets by the king: and all the people of the land rejoiced, and ſounded with trumpets, alſo the ſingers with inſtruments of muſick; and ſuch as taught to ſing praiſe. Then Athaliah rent her clothes, and ſaid, Treaſon, treaſon.

Before Chriſt 878.

14 Then Jehoiada the prieſt brought out the captains of hundreds, that were ſet over the hoſt, and ſaid unto them, Have her forth of the ranges: and whoſo followeth her, let him be ſlain with the ſword. For the prieſt ſaid, ſlay her not in the houſe of the Lord.

15 So they laid hands on her; and when ſhe was come to the entering of the horſe-gate, by the kings houſe, they ſlew her there.

16 ¶ And Jehoiada made a covenant between him, and between all the people, and between the king, that they ſhould be the Lords people.

17 Then all the people went to the houſe of Baal, and brake it down, and brake his altars, and his images in pieces, and ſlew Mattan the prieſt of Baal before the altars.

18 Alſo Jehoiada appointed the offices of the houſe of the Lord by the hand of the prieſts the Levites, whom David had diſtributed in the houſe of the Lord, to offer the burnt-offerings of the Lord, as it is written in the law of Moſes, with rejoicing and with ſinging, as it was ordained by David.

19 And he ſet the porters at the gates of the houſe of the Lord, that none which was unclean in any thing, ſhould enter in.

Ver. 19. He ſet the porters at the gates of the houſe of the Lord.] Maimonides very juſtly obſerves, that as there is no earthly king, whoſe palace is not encompaſſed with guards, how much more conſiſtent with, and becoming the divine Majeſty of the King of Kings, the ſupreme Lord of heaven and earth, that his temple, where his glorious preſence reſides, ſhould be ſurrounded by his miniſters, the prieſts and Levites, who ſhould carefully watch that nothing did pollute it!

Before Christ 878. 20 And he took the captains of hundreds, and the nobles, and the governors of the people, and all the people of the land, and brought down the king from the houſe of the LORD: and they came through the high gate into the kings houſe, and ſet the king upon the throne of the kingdom.

21 And all the people of the land rejoiced: and the city was quiet, after that they had ſlain Athaliah with the ſword.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 Joaſh reigneth well all the days of Jehoiada: 4 He giveth order for the repair of the temple. 15 Jehoiada his death and honourable burial. 17 Joaſh falling to idolatry, ſlayeth Zechariah the ſon of Jehoiada. 13 Joaſh is ſpoiled by the Syrians, and ſlain by Zabad and Jehozabad. 27 Amaziah ſucceedeth him.

JOaſh was ſeven years old when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years in Jeruſalem: his mothers name alſo was Zibeah of Beer-ſheba.

2 And Joaſh did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, all the days of Jehoiada the prieſt.

3 And Jehoiada took for him two wives, and he begat ſons and daughters.

4 ¶ And it came to paſs after this, that Joaſh was minded to repair the houſe of the LORD.

856. 5 And he gathered together the prieſts and the Levites, and ſaid to them, Go out unto the cities of Judah, and gather of all Iſrael money to repair the houſe of your God from year to year, and ſee that ye haſte the matter: howbeit the Levites haſtened it not. Before Christ 856.

6 And the king called for Jehoiada the chief, and ſaid unto him, Why haſt thou not required of the Levites to bring in out of Judah and out of Jeruſalem, the collection, according to the commandment of Moſes the ſervant of the LORD, and of the congregation of Iſrael, for the tabernacle of witneſs?

7 For the ſons of Athaliah that wicked woman, had broken up the houſe of God, and alſo all the dedicate things of the houſe of the LORD did they beſtow upon Baalim.

8 And at the kings commandment they made a cheſt, and ſet it without the gate of the houſe of the LORD.

9 And they made a proclamation through Judah and Jeruſalem, to bring in to the LORD, the collection that Moſes the ſervant of God laid upon Iſrael in the wilderneſs.

10 And all the princes, and all the people rejoiced, and brought in, and caſt into the cheſt, until they had made an end.

11 Now it came to paſs, that at what time the cheſt was brought unto the kings office, by the hand of the Levites; and when they ſaw that there was much money: the kings ſcribe, and the high prieſts officer came and emptied the cheſt, and took it, and carried it to his place again. Thus they did day by day, and gathered money in abundance.

12 And the king and Jehoiada gave it

NOTES on Chap. XXIV.

Ver. 3. Jehoiada took for him two wives.] That is, for himſelf, not for the king. It is the conſtant tradition of the Jews, that the high-prieſt was to be ſo pure, as to have but one wife at a time; and therefore Jehoiada is ſuppoſed, either to have had theſe two wives before he was high-prieſt, or that one being dead, he took another; but it is not certain, that Jehoiada was high-prieſt, he being every where called Jehoiada the prieſt, and but once only, in verſe 6, the chief; which does not neceſſarily imply, that he was the high-prieſt, but only a great man, becauſe of his relation to the royal family, or becauſe he was the chief head of one of the twenty-four families of the prieſts.

Ver. 7. The ſons of Athaliah had broken up the houſe of God.] That is, Azariah, and the ſons of his brethren, mentioned chap. xxii. 8. for his brethren themſelves were carried away captive before their father died, chapter xxi. 17.

13 So the workmen wrought, and the work was perfected by them, and they ſet the houſe of God in his ſtate, and ſtrengthened it.

14 And when they had finiſhed it, they brought the reſt of the money before the king and Jehoiada, whereof were made veſſels for the houſe of the LORD, even veſſels to miniſter, and to offer withal, and ſpoons, and veſſels of gold and ſilver: and they offered burnt-offerings in the houſe of the LORD continually, all the days of Jehoiada.

850. 15 ¶ But Jehoiada waxed old, and was full of days when he died; an hundred and thirty years old was he when he died.

16 And they buried him in the city of David among the kings, becauſe he had done good in Iſrael, both towards God, and towards his houſe.

17 Now after the death of Jehoiada, came the princes of Judah, and made obei-

ened unto them.

18 And they left the houſe of the LORD God of their fathers, and ſerved groves and idols: and wrath came upon Judah and Jeruſalem for this their treſpaſs.

19 Yet he ſent prophets to them, to bring them again unto the LORD, and they teſtified againſt them: but they would not give ear.

20 And the ſpirit of God came upon Zechariah the ſon of Jehoiada the prieſt, which ſtood above the people, and ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith God, Why tranſgreſs ye the commandments of the LORD, that ye cannot proſper? becauſe ye have forſaken the LORD, he hath alſo forſaken you.

Before Christ 840.

21 And they conſpired againſt him, and ſtoned him with ſtones at the commandment of the king, in the court of the houſe of the LORD.

22 Thus Joaſh the king remembered not the kindneſs which Jehoiada his father had done to him, but ſlew his ſon: and when he died, he ſaid, The LORD look upon it, and require it.

king of Damaſcus.

24 For the army of the Syrians came with a ſmall company of men, and the LORD delivered a very great hoſt into their hand, becauſe they had forſaken the LORD God of their fathers: ſo they executed judgment againſt Joaſh.

25 And when they were departed from him (for they left him in great diſeaſes) his own ſervants conſpired againſt him, for the blood of the ſons of Jehoiada the prieſt, and ſlew him on his bed, and he died: and they buried him in the city of David, but they buried him not in the ſepulchers of the kings.

26 And theſe are they that conſpired againſt him; Zabad the ſon of Shimeath an 27 ¶ Now concerning his ſons, and the greatneſs of the burdens laid upon him, and the repairing of the houſe of God, behold, they are written in the ſtory of the book of the kings. And Amaziah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XXV.

1 Amaziah beginneth to reign well: 3 He executeth juſtice on the traitors: 5 Having hired an army of Iſraelites againſt the Edomites, at the word of a prophet he loſeth the hundred talents, and diſmiſſeth them: 11 He overthroweth the Edomites.

AMaziah was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and nine years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Jehoaddan of Jeruſalem.

2 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, but not with a perfect heart.

3 ¶ Now it came to paſs, when the kingdom was eſtabliſhed to him, that he ſlew his ſervants that had killed the king his father.

4 But he ſlew not their children, but did as it is written in the law in the book of Moſes, where the LORD commanded, ſaying, The fathers ſhall not die for the children, neither ſhall the children die for the fathers, but every man ſhall die for his own ſin.

5 ¶ Moreover, Amaziah gathered Judah together, and made them captains over thouſands, and captains over hundreds, according to the houſes of their fathers, throughout all Judah and Benjamin: and he numbered them from twenty years old and above, and found them three hundred thouſand choice men, able to go forth to war, that could handle ſpear and ſhield. Before Christ 839.

6 He hired alſo an hundred thouſand mighty men of valour out of Iſrael, for an hundred talents of ſilver.

7 But there came a man of God to him, ſaying, O king, let not the army of Iſrael go with thee; for the LORD is not with Iſrael, to wit, with all the children of Ephraim.

8 But if thou wilt go, do it, be ſtrong for the battel: God ſhall make thee fall before the enemy: for God hath power to help, and to caſt down.

9 And Amaziah ſaid to the man of God, But what ſhall we do for the hundred talents which I have given to the army of Iſrael? And the man of God anſwered, The LORD is able to give thee much more than this.

10 Then Amaziah ſeparated them, to wit, the army that was come to him out of Ephraim, to go home again: wherefore their anger was greatly kindled againſt Judah, and they returned home in great anger.

827. 11 ¶ And Amaziah ſtrengthened himſelf, and led forth his people, and went to the valley of ſalt, and ſmote of the children of Seir, ten thouſand.

12 And other ten thouſand left alive, did the children of Judah carry away captive, and brought them unto the top of the rock, and caſt them down from the top of the rock, that they were broken all in pieces.

13 ¶ But

Ver. 2. He did that which was right in the ſight of the Lord, &c.] That is to ſay, he kept the law of Moſes, but not from a principle of ſolid piety, 2 Kings xiv.

Ver. 6. An hundred thouſand mighty men of valour.] There is probably ſome miſtake in the numbers: for we are aſſured, they were ſo greatly reduced, but a few years before, that there were left of the people of Iſrael, only fifty horſemen, ten chariots, and ten thouſand footmen. See 2 Kings xiii. 7.

Ver. 12. Caſt them down from the top of the rock, &c.] This was an ancient puniſhment among the Romans, as we learn from Livy, Plutarch, and others.

Before Chriſt 839. 13 ¶ But the ſoldiers of the army which Amaziah ſent back, that they ſhould not go with him to battel, fell upon the cities of Judah, from Samaria even unto Beth-horon, and ſmote three thouſand of them, and took much ſpoil.

14 ¶ Now it came to paſs, after that Amaziah was come from the ſlaughter of the Edomites, that he brought the gods of the children of Seir, and ſet them up to be his gods, and bowed down himſelf before them, and burned incenſe unto them.

15 Wherefore the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Amaziah, and he ſent unto him a prophet, which ſaid unto him, Why haſt thou ſought after the gods of the people, which could not deliver their own people out of thine hand?

16 And it came to paſs as he talked with him, that the king ſaid unto him, Art thou made of the kings counſel? forbear; why ſhouldeſt thou be ſmitten? Then the prophet forbare, and ſaid, I know that God hath determined to deſtroy thee, becauſe thou haſt done this, and haſt not hearkened unto my counſel.

826. 17 ¶ Then Amaziah king of Judah took advice, and ſent to Joaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz, the ſon of Jehu king of Iſrael, ſaying, Come, let us ſee one another in the face.

18 And Joaſh king of Iſrael ſent to Amaziah king of Judah, ſaying, The thiſtle that was in Lebanon, ſent to the cedar that was in Lebanon, ſaying, Give thy daughter to my ſon to wife: and there paſſed by a wild beaſt that was in Lebanon, and trode down the thiſtle.

19 Thou ſayeſt, Lo, thou haſt ſmitten the Edomites, and thine heart lifteth thee up to boaſt: abide now at home, why ſhouldeſt thou meddle to thine hurt, that thou ſhouldeſt fall, even thou, and Judah with thee? Before Chriſt. 826.

20 But Amaziah would not hear, for it came of God, that he might deliver them into the hand of their enemies, becauſe they ſought after the gods of Edom.

21 So Joaſh the king of Iſrael went up, and they ſaw one another in the face, both he and Amaziah king of Judah, at Beth-ſhemeſh, which belongeth to Judah.

22 And Judah was put to the worſe before Iſrael, and they fled every man to his tent.

23 And Joaſh the king of Iſrael took Amaziah king of Judah the ſon of Joaſh, the ſon of Jehoahaz, at Beth-ſhemeſh, and brought him to Jeruſalem, and brake down the wall of Jeruſalem, from the gate of Ephraim to the corner-gate, four hundred cubits.

24 And he took all the gold and the ſilver, and all the veſſels that were found in the houſe of God with Obed-edom, and the treaſures of the kings houſe, the hoſtages alſo, and returned to Samaria.

25 ¶ And Amaziah the ſon of Joaſh king of Judah, lived after the death of Joaſh ſon of Jehoahaz king of Iſrael, fifteen years. 810.

26 Now the reſt of the acts of Amaziah, firſt and laſt, behold, are they not written in the book of the kings of Judah and Iſrael?

27 ¶ Now after the time that Amaziah did turn away from following the LORD, they made a conſpiracy againſt him in Jeruſalem, and he fled to Lachiſh: but they ſent

CHAP. XXVI.

1 Uzziah ſucceeding, and reigning well in the days of Zechariah, proſpereth. 16 Waxing proud, he invadeth the prieſts office, and is ſmitten with leproſy: 22 He dieth, and Jotham ſucceedeth him.

THen all the people of Judah took Uzziah, who was ſixteen years old, and made him king in the room of his father Amaziah.

2 He built Eloth, and reſtored it to Judah, after that the king ſlept with his fathers.

3 Sixteen years old was Uzziah when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty and two years in Jeruſalem: his mothers name alſo was Jecoliah of Jeruſalem.

4 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the Lord, according to all that his father Amaziah did.

5 And he ſought God in the days of Zechariah, who had underſtanding in the viſions of God: and as long as he ſought the Lord, God made him to proſper.

6 And he went forth and warred againſt the Philiſtines, and brake down the wall of Gath, and the wall of Jabneh, and the wall of Aſhdod, and built cities about Aſhdod and among the Philiſtines.

7 And God helped him againſt the Philiſtines, and againſt the Arabians that dwelt in Gur-baal, and the Mehunims. Before Chriſt 800.

8 And the Ammonites gave gifts to Uzziah, and his name ſpread abroad even to the entering in of Egypt, for he ſtrengthened himſelf exceedingly.

9 Moreover, Uzziah built towers in Jeruſalem, at the corner-gate, and at the valley-gate, and at the turning of the wall, and fortified them.

10 Alſo he built towers in the deſert, and digged many wells, for he had much cattle, both in the low-country, and in the plains: huſbandmen alſo, and vine dreſſers in the mountains, and in Carmel: for he loved huſbandry.

11 Moreover, Uzziah had an hoſt of fighting men, that went out to war by bands, according to the number of their account, by the hand of Jeiel the ſcribe, and Maaſeiah the ruler, under the hand of Hananiah, one of the kings captains.

12 The whole number of the chief of the fathers of the mighty men of valour, were two thouſand and ſix hundred.

13 And under their hand was an army, three hundred thouſand, and ſeven thouſand and five hundred, that made war with mighty power, to help the king againſt the enemy.

14 And Uzziah prepared for them throughout all the hoſt, ſhields, and ſpears, and helmets, and habergions, and bows, and ſlings to caſt ſtones.

Ver. 9. Uzziah built towers in Jeruſalem.] Great part of the wall of this city, had been broken down in the reign of his father, by Joaſh king of Iſrael, as we read in the preceding chapter; therefore Uzziah rebuilt, and ſtrengthened it with towers.

Ver. 10. He built towers in the deſert.] Theſe towers were erected, to defend the ſhepherds from ſudden incurſions of their enemies; particularly the Arabs.

In Carmel.] Not the famous mount Carmel, (which was not in the tribe of Judah) but a very fruitful country only, as the word Carmel is often ſet to ſignify.

Before Chriſt 810. 15 And he made in Jeruſalem engines, invented by cunning men, to be on the towers and upon the bulwarks, to ſhoot arrows and great ſtones withal: and his name ſpread far abroad, for he was marveilouſly helped till he was ſtrong.

765. 16 ¶ But when he was ſtrong, his heart was lifted up to his deſtruction: for he tranſgreſſed againſt the Lord his God, and went into the temple of the Lord, to burn incenſe upon the altar of incenſe.

17 And Azariah the prieſt went in after him, and with him fourſcore prieſts of the Lord, that were valiant men:

18 And they withſtood Uzziah the king, and ſaid unto him, It appertaineth not unto thee, Uzziah, to burn incenſe unto the Lord, but to the prieſts the ſons of Aaron, that are conſecrated to burn incenſe: go out of the ſanctuary, for thou haſt treſpaſſed, neither ſhall it be for thine honour from the Lord God.

19 Then Uzziah was wroth, and had a cenſer in his hand, to burn incenſe: and while he was wroth with the prieſts, the leproſy even roſe up in his forehead, before the prieſts in the houſe of the Lord, from beſide the incenſe-altar.

20 And Azariah the chief prieſt, and all the prieſts looked upon him, and behold, he was leprous in his forehead, and they thruſt him out from thence, yea, himſelf haſted alſo to go out, becauſe the Lord had ſmitten him.

21 And Uzziah the king was a leper unto the day of his death, and dwelt in a ſeveral houſe, being a leper, for he was cut off from the houſe of the Lord: and Jotham his ſon was over the kings houſe, judging the people of the land. Before Chriſt 765.

22 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Uzziah, firſt and laſt, did Iſaiah the prophet the ſon of Amoz write.

23 So Uzziah ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers, in the field of the burial which belonged to the kings; for they ſaid, He is a leper: and Jotham his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

AHaz was twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem: but he did not that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, like David his father.

2 For he walked in the ways of the kings of Iſrael, and made alſo molten images for Baalim.

3 Moreover, he burnt incenſe in the valley of the ſon of Hinnom, and burnt his children in the fire, after the abominations of the heathen whom the LORD had caſt out before the children of Iſrael.

4 He ſacrificed alſo, and burnt incenſe in the high places, and on the hills, and under every green tree. Before Christ 742.

12 Then certain of the heads of the children of Ephraim, Azariah the ſon of Johanan, Berechiah the ſon of Meſhillemoth, and Jehizkiah the ſon of Shallum, and Amaſa the ſon of Hadlai, ſtood up againſt them that came from the war,

13 And ſaid unto them, Ye ſhall not bring in the captives hither: for whereas we have offended againſt the Lord already, ye intend to add more to our ſins and to our treſpaſs: for our treſpaſs is great, and there is fierce wrath againſt Iſrael.

14 So the armed men left the captives and the ſpoil, before the princes and all the congregation.

15 And the men which were expreſſed by name, roſe up, and took the captives, and with the ſpoil clothed all that were naked among them, and arayed them, and ſhod them, and gave them to eat and to drink, and anointed them, and carried all the feeble of them upon aſſes, and brought them to Jericho, the city of palm-trees, to their brethren: then they returned to Samaria.

16 ¶ At that time did king Ahaz ſend unto the kings of Aſſyria to help him.

17 For again the Edomites had come and ſmitten Judah, and carried away captives.

18 The Philiſtines alſo had invaded the cities of the low-country, and of the ſouth of Judah, and had taken Beth-ſhemeſh, and Ajalon, and Gederoth, and Shocho with the villages thereof, and Timnah with the villages thereof, Gimzo alſo and the villages thereof: and they dwelt there. Before Christ 741.

19 For the Lord brought Judah low, becauſe of Ahaz king of Iſrael; for he made Judah naked, and tranſgreſſed ſore againſt the Lord.

20 And Tilgath-pilneſer king of Aſſyria came unto him, and diſtreſſed him, but ſtrengthened him not. 740.

21 For Ahaz took away a portion out of the houſe of the Lord, and out of the houſe of the king, and of the princes, and gave it unto the king of Aſſyria: but he helped him not.

22 ¶ And in the time of his diſtreſs did he treſpaſs yet more againſt the Lord: this is that king Ahaz.

23 For he ſacrificed unto the gods of Damaſcus, which ſmote him: and he ſaid, Becauſe the gods of the kings of Syria help them, therefore will I ſacrifice to them, that they may help me: but they were the ruin of him and of all Iſrael.

24 And Ahaz gathered together the veſſels of the houſe of God, and cut in pieces the veſſels of the houſe of God, and ſhut up the doors of the houſe of the Lord, and he made him altars in every corner of Jeruſalem.

25 And in every ſeveral city of Judah he made high places to burn incenſe unto other gods, and provoked to anger the Lord God of their fathers.

26 ¶ Now the reſt of his acts, and of all his ways, firſt and laſt, behold, they are

Ver. 19. King of Iſrael.] Iſrael was once the name of the whole people; and after the diviſion of the kingdom, the two tribes were ſtill a part of Iſrael, in the ancient ſenſe of the word; the title king of Iſrael, is therefore uſed in this place in the large ſenſe, not as oppoſed to Judah, but comprehending it.

Ver. 20. Came unto him, but ſtrengthened him not.] In 2 Kings xvi. 9. we read, that the king of Aſſyria did help him; he came to his aſſiſtance againſt the king of Syria, took Damaſcus, carried the people captive, and delivered Ahaz from the power of the Aſſyrians; but this did Ahaz little ſervice, for he did not help him to recover the cities which the Philiſtines had taken from him; nor did he lend him any forces, nor enable him to recruit his own, but rather weakened him, by exhauſting his treaſures, and by deſtroying Samaria; by which means, the way was open for invading his country the more eaſily in the next reign.

27 And Ahaz ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city, even in Jeruſalem: but they brought him not into the ſepulchers of the kings of Iſrael: and Hezekiah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 Hezekiah his good reign: 3 He reſtoreth religion: 5 He exhorteth the Levites. 12 They ſanctify themſelves, and cleanſe the houſe of God. 20 Hezekiah offereth ſolemn ſacrifices, wherein the Levites were more forward than the prieſts.

HEzekiah began to reign when he was five and twenty years old, and he reigned nine and twenty years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Abijah the daughter of Zechariah.

2 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that David his father had done.

726. 3 ¶ He, in the firſt year of his reign, in the firſt month, opened the doors of the houſe of the LORD, and repaired them.

4 And he brought in the prieſts, and the Levites, and gathered them together into the eaſt-ſtreet,

5 And ſaid unto them, Hear me, ye Levites, ſanctify now yourſelves, and ſanctify the houſe of the LORD God of your fathers, and carry forth the filthineſs out of the holy place.

6 For our fathers have treſpaſſed, and done that which was evil in the eyes of the LORD our God, and have forſaken him, and have turned away their faces from the habitation of the LORD, and turned their backs. Before Christ 726.

7 Alſo they have ſhut up the doors of the porch, and put out the lamps, and have not burnt incenſe, nor offered burnt-offerings in the holy place, unto the God of Iſrael.

8 Wherefore the wrath of the LORD was upon Judah and Jeruſalem, and he hath delivered them to trouble, to aſtoniſhment, and to hiſſing, as ye ſee with your eyes.

9 For lo, our fathers have fallen by the ſword, and our ſons, and our daughters, and our wives are in captivity for this.

10 Now it is in mine heart to make a covenant with the LORD God of Iſrael, that his fierce wrath may turn away from us.

11 My ſons, be not now negligent: for the LORD hath choſen you to ſtand before him, to ſerve him, and that you ſhould miniſter unto him, and burn incenſe.

12 ¶ Then the Levites aroſe, Mahath the ſon of Amaſai, and Joel the ſon of Azariah, of the ſons of the Kohathites: and of the ſons of Merari; Kiſh the ſon of Abdi, and Azariah the ſon of Jehalelel: and of the Gerſhonites; Joah the ſon of Zimmah, and Eden the ſon of Joah:

13 And of the ſons of Elizaphan; Shimri, and Jeiel: and of the ſons of Aſaph; Zechariah, and Mattaniah:

14 And of the ſons of Heman; Jehiel, and Shimei: and of the ſons of Jeduthun; Shemaiah, and Uzziel.

15 And they gathered their brethren, and ſanctified themſelves, and came according to the commandment of the king,

NOTES on Chap. XXIX.

Ver. 1. Hezekiah began to reign, &c.] See the notes on 2 Kings xviii.

Ver. 3. He, in the firſt year of his reign, in the firſt month, &c.] His beginning the reformation of religion ſo ſoon, and not deferring it till eſtabliſhed in his throne, ſhews his great zeal and piety for God: he ſeemed perſuaded, that the ſureſt way of rendering his reign proſperous, and his people happy, was to aboliſh idolatry, and reſtore the true worſhip.

Ver. 5. Carry forth the filthineſs out of the holy place.] The Jews tranſlate this abomination, i. e. the altar of Damaſcus, and all the idols that were upon it; theſe were brought by Ahaz into the temple, i. e. into the court of the prieſts, called the holy place. See Lev. vi. 16.

by the words of the LORD, to cleanſe the houſe of the LORD.

16 And the prieſts went into the inner part of the houſe of the LORD, to cleanſe it, and brought out all the uncleanneſs that they found in the temple of the LORD, into the court of the houſe of the LORD. And the Levites took it, to carry it out abroad into the brook Kidron.

17 Now they began on the firſt day of the firſt month to ſanctify, and on the eighth day of the month came they to the porch of the LORD: ſo they ſanctified the houſe of the LORD in eight days, and in the ſixteenth day of the firſt month they made an end.

18 Then they went in to Hezekiah the king, and ſaid, We have cleanſed all the houſe of the LORD, and the altar of burnt-offering, with all the veſſels thereof, and the ſhew-bread table, with all the veſſels thereof.

19 Moreover, all the veſſels which king Ahaz in his reign did caſt away in his tranſgreſſion, have we prepared and ſanctified, and behold they are before the altar of the LORD.

20 ¶ Then Hezekiah the king aroſe early, and gathered the rulers of the city, and went up to the houſe of the LORD.

21 And they brought ſeven bullocks, and ſeven rams, and ſeven lambs, and ſeven he-goats, for a ſin-offering for the kingdom, and for the ſanctuary, and for Judah: and he commanded the prieſts the ſons of Aaron to offer them on the altar of the LORD.

22 So they killed the bullocks, and the prieſts received the blood, and ſprinkled it on the altar: likewiſe when they had killed the rams, they ſprinkled the blood upon the altar: they killed alſo the lambs, and they ſprinkled the blood upon the altar.

23 And they brought forth the he-goats for the ſin-offering, before the king, and the congregation, and they laid their hands upon them:

24 And the prieſt killed them, and they made reconciliation with their blood upon the altar, to make an atonement for all Iſrael: for the king commanded that the burnt-offering and the ſin-offering ſhould be made for all Iſrael.

25 And he ſet the Levites in the houſe of the LORD with cymbals, with pſalteries, and with harps, according to the commandment of David, and of Gad the kings ſeer, and Nathan the prophet: for ſo was the commandment of the LORD by his prophets.

26 And the Levites ſtood with the inſtruments of David, and the prieſts with the trumpets.

27 And Hezekiah commanded to offer the burnt-offering upon the altar: and when the burnt-offering began, the ſong of the LORD began alſo with the trumpets, and with the inſtruments ordained by David king of Iſrael.

28 And all the congregation worſhipped, and the ſingers ſang, and the trumpets ſounded: and all this continued until the burnt-offering was finiſhed.

29 And when they had made an end of offering, the king and all that were preſent with him, bowed themſelves, and worſhipped.

30 Moreover, Hezekiah the king, and the princes commanded the Levites to ſing praiſe unto the LORD, with the words of

Ver. 21. He-goats.] It is obſervable, that the word TZAPHIR, which here ſignifies the he-goat, was never uſed by the Hebrews, till after the captivity of Babylon, when we find it in Daniel, who lived in the captivity; and being here uſed, it is ſome argument that Ezra was the author of this book, which he wrote after their return from that captivity, in which he had learned the Chaldee language, and from thence intermixed ſome words with the Hebrew.

of David, and of Aſaph the ſeer: and they ſang praiſes with gladneſs, and they bowed their heads and worſhipped.

31 Then Hezekiah anſwered and ſaid, Now ye have conſecrated yourſelves unto the LORD, come near and bring ſacrifices, and thank-offerings into the houſe of the LORD. And the congregation brought in ſacrifices, and thank-offerings, and as many as were of a free heart, burnt-offerings.

32 And the number of the burnt-offerings which the congregation brought, was threeſcore and ten bullocks, an hundred rams, and two hundred lambs: all theſe were for a burnt-offering to the LORD.

33 And the conſecrated things were ſix hundred oxen, and three thouſand ſheep.

34 But the prieſts were too few, ſo that they could not flay all the burnt-offerings: wherefore their brethren the Levites did help them till the work was ended, and until the other prieſts had ſanctified themſelves: for the Levites were more upright in heart, to ſanctify themſelves, than the prieſts.

35 And alſo the burnt-offerings were in abundance, with the fat of the peace-offerings, and the drink-offerings for every burnt-offering. So the ſervice of the houſe of the LORD was ſet in order.

36 And Hezekiah rejoiced, and all the people, that God had prepared the people: for the thing was done ſuddenly.

CHAP. XXX.

Before Chriſt 726.

1 Hezekiah proclaimeth a ſolemn paſſover on the ſecond month for Judah and Iſrael. 13 The aſſembly having deſtroyed the altars of idolatry, keep the feaſt fourteen days. 27 The prieſts and Levites bleſs the people.

AND Hezekiah ſent to all Iſrael and Judah, and wrote letters alſo to Ephraim and Manaſſeh, that they ſhould come to the houſe of the LORD at Jeruſalem, to keep the paſſover unto the LORD God of Iſrael.

2 For the king had taken counſel, and his princes, and all the congregation in Jeruſalem, to keep the paſſover in the ſecond month.

3 For they could not keep it at that time, becauſe the prieſts had not ſanctified themſelves ſufficiently, neither had the people gathered themſelves together to Jeruſalem.

4 And the thing pleaſed the king, and all the congregation.

5 So they eſtabliſhed a decree, to make proclamation throughout all Iſrael, from Beer-ſheba even to Dan, that they ſhould come to keep the paſſover unto the LORD God of Iſrael at Jeruſalem: for they had not done it of a long time in ſuch ſort as it was written.

6 So the poſts went with the letters from the king and his princes throughout all Iſrael and Judah, and according to the com-

Ver. 34. Their brethren the Levites did help them.] It ſeems by this, that in caſes of great neceſſity, they did not ſtand nicely upon the obſervation of the ceremonial law; for it was only the prieſt's buſineſs to flay the burnt-offerings.

NOTES on Chap. XXX.

Ver. 1. Hezekiah ſent to all Iſrael and Judah, &c.] The moſt probable reaſon, why Hezekiah ſent to invite the ſubjects of Hoſhea to repair to Jeruſalem, to celebrate this paſſover, was this; the golden-calves in Beth-el and Dan were taken away, one by Tiglath-pileſer, and the other by his ſon, Salmanezer, and therefore the apoſtate Iſraelites, being deprived of their idols, began to return to the Lord, and to go up to Jeruſalem to worſhip, for ſome time before Hezekiah ſent to invite them.

Ver. 2. To keep the paſſover in the ſecond month.] Ahaz had made ſuch confuſion in the worſhip of God, by ſhutting up the doors of the temple, and every where erecting idols, that as the prieſts, by long diſuſe, could not be ſanctified ſo ſoon as was neceſſary, nor the people have time to aſſemble; ſo the temple itſelf could not be purged till the ſixteenth day of the firſt month, and conſequently the time was paſt for keeping the paſſover, which was to have been on the fourteenth; they thought it therefore beſt to adjourn it to the next month, rather than ſtay till the next year, eſpecially ſince God himſelf, in ſome caſes, allowed thoſe who could not keep it in the firſt month, to keep it in the ſecond, Numb. ix. 10, 11. and what was allowed to particular perſons, they thought might be allowed to the whole congregation.

commandment of the king, ſaying, Ye children of Iſrael, turn again unto the LORD God of Abraham, Iſaac, and Iſrael, and he will return to the remnant of you, that are eſcaped out of the hand of the kings of Aſſyria.

7 And be not ye like your fathers, and like your brethren, which treſpaſſed againſt the LORD God of their fathers, who therefore gave them up to deſolation, as ye ſee.

8 Now be ye not ſtiff-necked as your fathers were, but yield yourſelves unto the LORD, and enter into his ſanctuary, which he hath ſanctified for ever: and ſerve the LORD your God, that the fierceneſs of his wrath may turn away from you.

9 For if ye turn again unto the LORD, your brethren and your children ſhall find compaſſion before them that lead them captive, ſo that they ſhall come again into this land: for the LORD your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye return unto him.

10 So the poſts paſſed from city to city, through the country of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, even unto Zebulun: but they laughed them to ſcorn, and mocked them.

11 Nevertheleſs, divers of Aſher and Manaſſeh, and of Zebulun humbled themſelves, and came to Jeruſalem.

12 Alſo in Judah, the hand of God was to give them one heart to do the commandment of the king and of the princes, by the word of the LORD.

13 ¶ And there aſſembled at Jeruſalem much people, to keep the feaſt of unleavened bread in the ſecond month, a very great congregation.

Before Chriſt 726.

14 And they aroſe, and took away the altars that were in Jeruſalem, and all the altars for incenſe took they away, and caſt them into the brook Kidron.

15 Then they killed the paſſover on the fourteenth day of the ſecond month: and the prieſts and the Levites were aſhamed, and ſanctified themſelves, and brought in the burnt-offerings into the houſe of the LORD.

16 And they ſtood in their place after their manner, according to the law of Moſes the man of God: the prieſts ſprinkled the blood, which they received of the hand of the Levites.

17 For there were many in the congregation that were not ſanctified: therefore the Levites had the charge of the killing of the paſſovers, for every one that was not clean, to ſanctify them unto the LORD.

18 For a multitude of the people, even many of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, Iſſachar, and Zebulun, had not cleanſed themſelves, yet did they eat the paſſover, otherwiſe than it was written: but Hezekiah prayed for them, ſaying, The good LORD pardon every one.

19 That prepareth his heart to ſeek God, the LORD God of his fathers, though he be not cleanſed according to the purification of the ſanctuary.

20 And the LORD hearkened to Hezekiah, and healed the people.

21 And the children of Iſrael that were preſent at Jeruſalem, kept the feaſt of unleaveaned bread ſeven days with great gladneſs: and the Levites, and the prieſts praiſed praiſed the Lord day by day, ſinging with loud inſtruments unto the Lord.

22 And Hezekiah ſpake comfortably unto all the Levites, that taught the good knowledge of the Lord: and they did eat throughout the feaſt ſeven days, offering peace-offerings, and making confeſſion to the Lord God of their fathers.

23 And the whole aſſembly took counſel to keep other ſeven days: and they kept other ſeven days with gladneſs.

24 For Hezekiah king of Judah did give to the congregation a thouſand bullocks, and ſeven thouſand ſheep; and the princes gave to the congregation a thouſand bullocks, and ten thouſand ſheep: and a great number of prieſts ſanctified themſelves.

25 And all the congregation of Judah, with the prieſts and the Levites, and all the congregation that came out of Iſrael, and the ſtrangers that came out of the land of Iſrael, and that dwelt in Judah, rejoiced.

26 So there was great joy in Jeruſalem: for ſince the time of Solomon the ſon of David king of Iſrael, there was not the like in Jeruſalem.

27 ¶ Then the prieſts the Levites aroſe, and bleſſed the people: and their voice was heard, and their prayer came up to his holy dwelling-place, even unto heaven.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 The people is forward in deſtroying idolatry. 2 Hezekiah ordereth the courſes of the prieſts and Levites, and provideth for their work and maintenance. 20 The ſincerity of Hezekiah.

NOW when all this was finiſhed, all Iſrael that were preſent, went out to the cities of Judah, and brake the images in pieces, and cut down the groves, and threw down the high places and the altars out of all Judah and Benjamin, in Ephraim alſo and Manaſſeh, until they had utterly deſtroyed them all. Then all the children of Iſrael returned every man to his poſſeſſion into their own cities.

Before Chriſt 726.

2 ¶ And Hezekiah appointed the courſes of the prieſts and the Levites after their courſes, every man according to his ſervice, the prieſts, and Levites, for burnt-offerings, and for peace-offerings, to miniſter and to give thanks, and to praiſe in the gates of the tents of the Lord.

3 He appointed alſo the kings portion of his ſubſtance, for the burnt-offerings, to wit, for the morning and evening burnt-offerings, and the burnt-offerings for the ſabbaths, and for the new-moons, and for the ſet feaſts, as it is written in the law of the Lord.

4 Moreover, he commanded the people that dwelt in Jeruſalem, to give the portion of the prieſts, and the Levites, that they might be encouraged in the law of the Lord.

5 ¶ And as ſoon as the commandment came abroad, the children of Iſrael brought in abundance the firſt-fruits of corn, wine, and oil, and hony, and of all the increaſe of the field, and the tithe of all things brought they in abundantly.

6 And concerning the children of Iſrael and Judah, that dwelt in the cities of Judah, they alſo brought in the tithe of oxen and ſheep, and the tithe of holy things, which were conſecrated unto the Lord their God, and laid them by heaps.

Ver. 27. The prieſts and the Levites aroſe, and bleſſed the people.] That is, ſuch of the Levites as were prieſts, ſtood and diſmiſſed the congregation with bleſſings; a ceremony ordained by a divine commandment, Numb. vi. 22, 23.

8 And when Hezekiah and the princes came and ſaw the heaps, they bleſſed the LORD and his people Iſrael.

9 Then Hezekiah queſtioned with the prieſts, and the Levites, concerning the heaps.

10 And Azariah the chief prieſt of the houſe of Zadok, anſwered him, and ſaid, Since the people began to bring the offerings into the houſe of the LORD, we have had enough to eat, and have left plenty: for the LORD hath bleſſed his people; and that which is left, is this great ſtore.

11 ¶ Then Hezekiah commanded to prepare chambers in the houſe of the LORD; and they prepared them,

12 And brought in the offerings and the tithes, and the dedicate things faithfully: over which Cononiah the Levite was ruler, and Shimei his brother was the next.

13 And Jehiel, and Azaziah, and Nahath, and Aſahel, and Jerimoth, and Jozabad, and Eliel, and Iſmachiah, and Mahath, and Benaiah, were overſeers under the hand of Cononiah and Shimei his brother, at the commandment of Hezekiah the king, and Azariah the ruler of the houſe of God.

14 And Kore the ſon of Imnah the Levite, the porter toward the eaſt, was over the free-will-offerings of God, to diſtribute the oblations of the LORD, and the moſt holy things.

20 ¶ And thus did Hezekiah throughout all Judah, and wrought that which was good and right and truth before the LORD his God.

21 And in every work that he began in the ſervice of the houſe of God, and in the law, and in the commandments to ſeek his God, he did it with all his heart, and proſpered.

AFter theſe things and the eſtabliſhment thereof, Sennacherib king of Aſſyria came and entered into Judah, and encamped againſt the fenced cities, and thought to win them for himſelf.

2 And when Hezekiah ſaw that Sennacherib was come, and that he was purpoſed to fight againſt Jeruſalem;

3 He took counſel with his princes, and his mighty men, to ſtop the waters of the fountains, which were without the city: and they did help him.

4 So there was gathered much people together, who ſtopt all the fountains, and the brook that ran through the midſt of the land, ſaying, Why ſhould the kings of Aſſyria come, and find much water?

5 Alſo he ſtrengthened himſelf, and built up all the wall that was broken, and raiſed it up to the towers, and another wall without, and repaired Millo in the city of David, and made darts and ſhields in abundance.

6 And he ſet captains of war over the people, and gathered them together to him in the ſtreet of the gate of the city, and ſpake comfortably to them, ſaying,

7 Be ſtrong and courageous, be not afraid nor diſmayed for the king of Aſſyria, nor for all the multitude that is with him: for there be more with us, than with him.

8 With him is an arm of fleſh, but with us is the LORD our God, to help us, and to fight our battels. And the people reſted themſelves upon the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

Before Chriſt 710. 9 ¶ After this did Sennacherib king of Aſſyria ſend his ſervants to Jeruſalem (but he himſelf laid ſiege againſt Lachiſh, and all his power with him) unto Hezekiah king of Judah, and unto all Judah, that were at Jeruſalem, ſaying, 10 Thus ſaith Sennacherib king of Aſſyria, Whereon do ye truſt, that ye abide in the ſiege in Jeruſalem?

11 Doth not Hezekiah perſuade you to give over yourſelves to die by famine and by thirſt, ſaying, The LORD our God ſhall deliver us out of the hand of the king of Aſſyria?

12 Hath not the ſame Hezekiah taken away his high places, and his altars, and commanded Judah and Jeruſalem, ſaying, Ye ſhall worſhip before one altar, and burn incenſe upon it?

13 Know ye not what I and my fathers have done unto all the people of other lands? were the gods of the nations of thoſe lands any ways able to deliver their lands out of mine hand?

14 Who was there among all the gods of thoſe nations, that my fathers utterly deſtroyed, that could deliver his people out of mine hand, that your God ſhould be able to deliver you out of mine hand?

15 Now therefore let not Hezekiah deceive you, nor perſuade you on this manner, neither yet believe him: for no God of any nation or kingdom was able to deliver his people out of mine hand, and out of the hand of my fathers: how much leſs ſhall your God deliver you out of mine hand?

NOTES on Chap. XXXII.

Ver. 4. Who ſtopt all the fountains and the brooks, &c.] By the brook is meant Gihon, which ſome take to be Kidron. It was not eaſy to dry up this brook; but it is ſuppoſed the ſource of it was not far from the city, and this being filled with earth, they diverted the current, and by ſubterraneous paſſages, conveyed the water into large ciſterns in the city, for the uſe of the people.

Ver 5. Repaired Millo.] See note on 1 Kings ix. 15.

Before Christ 710. 16 And his ſervants ſpake yet more againſt the LORD God, and againſt his ſervant Hezekiah.

17 He wrote alſo letters to rail on the LORD God of Iſrael, and to ſpeak againſt him, ſaying, As the gods of the nations of other lands have not delivered their people out of mine hand, ſo ſhall not the God of Hezekiah deliver his people out of mine hand.

18 Then they cried with a loud voice, in the Jews ſpeech, unto the people of Jeruſalem that were on the wall, to affright them, and to trouble them, that they might take the city.

19 And they ſpake againſt the God of Jeruſalem, as againſt the gods of the people of the earth, which were the work of the hands of man.

20 And for this cauſe Hezekiah the king, and the prophet Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz, prayed and cried to heaven.

21 ¶ And the LORD ſent an angel which cut off all the mighty men of valour, and the leaders and captains in the camp of the king of Aſſyria: ſo he returned with ſhame of face to his own land. And when he was come into the houſe of his god, they that came forth of his own bowels, ſlew him there with the ſword.

22 Thus the LORD ſaved Hezekiah, and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem from the hand of Sennacherib the king of Aſſyria, and from the hand of all other, and guided them on every ſide.

23 And many brought gifts unto the LORD to Jeruſalem, and preſents to Hezekiah king of Judah: ſo that he was magnified in the ſight of all nations, from thenceforth.

24 ¶ In thoſe days Hezekiah was ſick to the death, and prayed unto the LORD: and he ſpake unto him, and he gave him a ſign. Before Christ 713.

25 But Hezekiah rendered not again, according to the benefit done unto him: for his heart was lifted up; therefore there was wrath upon him, and upon Judah and Jeruſalem.

26 Notwithſtanding, Hezekiah humbled himſelf for the pride of his heart (both he and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem) ſo that the wrath of the LORD came not upon them in the days of Hezekiah.

27 ¶ And Hezekiah had exceeding much riches and honour: and he made himſelf treaſuries for ſilver, and for gold, and for precious ſtones, and for ſpices, and for ſhields, and for all manner of pleaſant jewels;

28 Store-houſes alſo for the increaſe of corn, and wine, and oil; and ſtalls for all manner of beaſts, and cotes for flocks.

29 Moreover, he provided him cities, and poſſeſſions of flocks, and herds in abundance: for God had given him ſubſtance very much.

30 This ſame Hezekiah alſo ſtopped the upper water-courſe of Gihon, and brought it ſtraight down to the weſt ſide of the city of David. And Hezekiah proſpered in all his works.

31 ¶ Howbeit, in the buſineſs of the ambaſſadors of the princes of Babylon, who ſent unto him to enquire of the wonder that was done in the land, God left him to try him, that he might know all that was in his heart. 712.

32 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Hezekiah,

33 And Hezekiah ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in the chiefeſt of the ſepulchers of the ſons of David: and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem did him honour at his death: and Manaſſeh his ſon reigned in his ſtead. 698.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 Manaſſeh his wicked reign: 3 He ſetteth up idolatry, and would not be admoniſhed:
11 He is carried into Babylon. 12 Upon his prayer to God he is releaſed, and putteth down idolatry: 18 His acts: 20 He dying, Amon ſucceedeth him.

MAnaſſeh was twelve years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty and five years in Jeruſalem.

2 But did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, like unto the abominations of the heathen, whom the LORD had caſt out before the children of Iſrael.

3 For he built again the high places which Hezekiah his father had broken down, and he reared up altars for Baalim, and made groves, and worſhipped all the hoſt of heaven, and ſerved them.

4 Alſo he built altars in the houſe of the LORD, whereof the LORD had ſaid, In Jeruſalem ſhall my name be for ever.

5 And he built altars for all the hoſt of heaven, in the two courts of the houſe of the LORD.

6 And he cauſed his children to paſs through the fire in the valley of the ſon of Hinnom: alſo he obſerved times, and uſed inchantments, and uſed witchcraft, and dealt with a familiar ſpirit, and with wizards: he wrought much evil in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger. Before Christ 698.

7 And he ſet a carved image (the idol which he had made) in the houſe of God, of which God had ſaid to David, and to Solomon his ſon, In this houſe, and in Jeruſalem, which I have choſen before all the tribes of Iſrael, will I put my name for ever.

8 Neither will I any more remove the foot of Iſrael from out of the land which I have appointed for your fathers; ſo that they will take heed to do all that I have commanded them, according to the whole law, and the ſtatutes and the ordinances by the hand of Moſes.

9 So Manaſſeh made Judah and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem to err, and to do worſe than the heathen, whom the LORD had deſtroyed before the children of Iſrael.

10 And the LORD ſpake to Manaſſeh, and to his people: but they would not hearken.

11 ¶ Wherefore the LORD brought upon them the captains of the hoſt of the king of Aſſyria, which took Manaſſeh among the thorns, and bound him with fetters, and carried him to Babylon. 677.

12 And when he was in affliction, he beſought the LORD his God, and humbled himſelf greatly before the God of his fathers,

13 And prayed unto him, and he was intreated of him, and heard his ſupplication, and brought him again to Jeruſalem into his kingdom. Then Manaſſeh knew that the LORD he was God.

NOTES on Chap. XXXIII.

Ver. 9. Manaſſeh made Judah and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem to err, &c.] What a prodigious change was now wrought in this kingdom! In the laſt reign, it was celebrated for righteouſneſs, now for being the very ſink of impiety; and from hence, we ſhould be admoniſhed, to value the precious opportunities we now enjoy, of practiſing the duties of religion in their primitive purity, leſt, by a ſad reverſe of fortune, we ſhould be deprived of ſuch glorious privileges, and our candleſtick, like thoſe of the churches of Aſia, removed out of its place.

Ver. 11. Took Manaſſeh among the thorns.] They found him in a thicket, where he had concealed himſelf: theſe particulars are no where elſe mentioned.

Before Chriſt 677. 14 Now after this, he built a wall without the city of David, on the weſt ſide of Gihon, in the valley, even to the entering in at the fiſh-gate, and compaſſed about Ophel, and raiſed it up a very great height, and put captains of war in all the fenced cities of Judah.

15 And he took away the ſtrange gods, and the idol out of the houſe of the LORD, and all the altars that he had built in the mount of the houſe of the LORD, and in Jeruſalem, and caſt them out of the city.

16 And he repaired the altar of the LORD, and ſacrificed thereon peace-offerings, and thank-offerings, and commanded Judah to ſerve the LORD God of Iſrael.

17 Neverthleſs, the people did ſacrifice ſtill in the high places, yet unto the LORD their God only.

18 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Manaſſeh, and his prayer unto his God, and the words of the ſeers that ſpake to him in the name of the LORD God of Iſrael, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Iſrael.

19 His prayer alſo, and how God was intreated of him, and all his ſin, and his treſpaſs, and the places wherein he built high places, and ſet up groves and graven images before he was humbled: behold, they are written among the ſayings of the ſeers.

20 ¶ So Manaſſeh ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in his own houſe: and Amon his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

643. 21 ¶ Amon was two and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned two years in Jeruſalem.

22 But he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, as did Manaſſeh his father: for Amon ſacrificed unto all the carved images, which Manaſſeh his father had made, and ſerved them; Before Chriſt 643.

23 And humbled not himſelf before the LORD, as Manaſſeh his father had humbled himſelf; but Amon treſpaſſed more and more.

24 And his ſervants conſpired againſt him, and ſlew him in his own houſe.

25 ¶ But the people of the land ſlew all them that had conſpired againſt king Amon, and the people of the land made Joſiah his ſon king in his ſtead. 641.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 Joſiah his good reign: 3 He deſtroyeth idolatry: 8 He taketh order for the repair of the temple. 14 Hilkiah having found a book of the law, Joſiah ſendeth to Huldah to enquire of the Lord. 23 Huldah propheſieth the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, but reſpite thereof in Joſiahs time. 29 Joſiah cauſing it to be read in a ſolemn aſſembly, reneweth the covenant with God.

JOſiah was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jeruſalem one and thirty years.

2 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, and walked in the ways of David his father, and declined neither to the right hand, nor to the left.

while he was yet young, he began to ſeek

the twelfth year he began to purge Ju- 630.

Ver. 19. They are written among the ſayings of the ſeers.] Or, of Hoſai, as it is tranſlated in the margin, who was a prophet, it is likely, in thoſe times, by whom many memorable things in his reign were recorded; particularly his prayer, which he recorded, as Iſaiah did the prayer of Hezekiah his father.

NOTES on Chap. XXXIV.

Ver. 3. In the eighth year of his reign, &c.] His pious inclination of worſhipping the God of Iſrael, appeared very early; for he was no more than ſixteen years of age, when he openly declared his reſolution of ſerving the Lord God of his fathers, and propoſed David for his pattern. See 2 Kings xxii. 13.

Before Christ 630. and the groves, and the carv'd images, and the molten images.

4 And they brake down the altars of Baalim in his preſence; and the images that were on high above them, he cut down, and the groves, and the carved images, and the molten images he brake in pieces, and made duſt of them, and ſtrowed it upon the graves of them that had ſacrificed unto them.

5 And he burnt the bones of the prieſts upon their altars, and cleanſed Judah and Jeruſalem.

6 And ſo did he in the cities of Manaſſeh, and Ephraim, and Simeon, even unto Naphtali, with their mattocks round about.

7 And when he had broken down the altars and the groves, and had beaten the graven images into powder, and cut down all the idols throughout all the land of Iſrael, he returned to Jeruſalem.

624. 8 ¶ Now in the eighteenth year of his reign, when he had purged the land, and the houſe, he ſent Shaphan the ſon of Azaliah, and Maaſeiah the governor of the city, and Joah the ſon of Joahaz the recorder, to repair the houſe of the LORD his God.

9 And when they came to Hilkiah the high prieſt, they delivered the money that was brought into the houſe of God, which the Levites that kept the doors, had gathered of the hand of Manaſſeh and Ephraim, and of all the remnant of Iſrael, and of all Judah, and Benjamin, and they returned to Jeruſalem.

10 And they put it in the hand of the
Before Christ 624. workman, that had the overſight of the houſe of the LORD, and they gave it to the workman that wrought in the houſe of the LORD, to repair and mend the houſe:

11 Even to the artificers and builders gave they it, to buy hewn ſtone, and timber for couplings, and to floor the houſes, which the kings of Judah had deſtroyed.

12 And the men did the work faithfully: and the overſeers of them were Jahath, and Obadiah, the Levites, of the ſons of Merari; and Zechariah, and Meſhullam, of the ſons of the Kohathites, to ſet it forward; and other of the Levites, all that could ſkill of inſtruments of muſick.

13 Alſo they were over the bearers of burdens, and were overſeers of all that wrought the work in any manner of ſervice: and of the Levites there were ſcribes, and officers, and porters.

14 ¶ And when they brought out the money that was brought into the houſe of the LORD, Hilkiah the prieſt found a book of the law of the LORD, given by Moſes.

15 And Hilkiah anſwered and ſaid to Shaphan the ſcribe, I have found the book of the law in the houſe of the LORD. And Hilkiah delivered the book to Shaphan:

16 And Shaphan carried the book to the king, and brought the king word back again, ſaying, All that was committed to thy ſervants, they do it.

17 And they have gathered together the money that was found in the houſe of the LORD, and have delivered it into the hand

Ver. 14. Found a book of the law of the Lord given by Moſes.] In the Hebrew, it is, The book of the law of the Lord by the hand of Moſes, which biſhop Patrick underſtands to be, by the miniſtry of Moſes; but Mr. Kennicot, in the hand-writing of Moſes; and obſerves, that though there are fifteen places in the Old Teſtament, which mention the words law of Moſes, and book of Moſes; yet this one place only, mentions the book of the law in the hand (or by the hand) of Moſes: the reaſon of which ſeems to be, that the other places ſpeak of that law in general; but this place ſpeaks of one particular MSS. namely the original. And as to the point of age, it might yet be the original; for, from the death of Moſes, to the death of Joſiah, at the utmoſt computation, was not more than 950 years; an age exceeded by that of ſeveral MSS. preſerved at this day.

hand of the overſeers, and to the hand of the workmen.

18 Then Shaphan the ſcribe told the king, ſaying, Hilkiah the prieſt hath given me a book. And Shaphan read it before the king.

19 And it came to paſs when the king had heard the words of the law, that he rent his clothes.

20 And the king commanded Hilkiah, and Ahikam the ſon of Shaphan, and Abdon the ſon of Micah, and Shaphan the ſcribe, and Aſaiah a ſervant of the kings, ſaying,

21 Go, enquire of the LORD for me, and for them that are left in Iſrael, and in Judah, concerning the words of the book that is found: for great is the wrath of the LORD that is poured out upon us, becauſe our fathers have not kept the word of the LORD, to do after all that is written in this book.

22 And Hilkiah, and they that the king had appointed, went to Huldah the propheteſs, the wife of Shallum the ſon of Tikvath, the ſon of Haſrath, keeper of the wardrobe; (now ſhe dwelt in Jeruſalem in the college) and they ſpake to her to that effect.

23 ¶ And ſhe anſwered them, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Tell ye the man that ſent you to me,

24 Thus ſaith the LORD, Behold, I will bring evil upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof, even all the curſes that are written in the book which they have read before the king of Judah:

25 Becauſe they have forſaken me, and have burned incenſe unto other gods, that they might provoke me to anger with all the works of their hands; therefore my wrath ſhall be poured out upon this place, and ſhall not be quenched.

Before Chriſt. 624.

26 And as for the king of Judah, who ſent you to enquire of the LORD, ſo ſhall ye ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael concerning the words which thou haſt heard,

27 Becauſe thine heart was tender, and thou didſt humble thyſelf before God, when thou heardeſt his words againſt this place, and againſt the inhabitants thereof, and humbleſt thyſelf before me, and didſt rend thy clothes, and weep before me; I have even heard thee alſo, ſaith the LORD.

28 Behold, I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou ſhalt be gathered to thy grave in peace, neither ſhall thine eyes ſee all the evil that I will bring upon this place, and upon the inhabitants of the ſame. So they brought the king word again.

29 ¶ Then the king ſent, and gathered together all the elders of Judah and Jeruſalem.

30 And the king went up into the houſe of the LORD, and all the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and the prieſts, and the Levites, and all the people, great and ſmall: and he read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant that was found in the houſe of the LORD.

31 And the king ſtood in his place, and made a covenant before the LORD, to walk after the LORD, and to keep his commandments, and his teſtimonies, and his ſtatutes, with all his heart, and with all

Ver. 30. He read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant.] It can hardly be ſuppoſed, that both Joſiah, and all the nation of Judah, were entirely ignorant of what the book of the law contained; eſpecially when it is remembered, that Jeremiah, and other prophets, were now living, who were very converſant in the book, and made it their buſineſs to inſtruct the people in the precepts it contained: but it is plain, they did not give a proper attention to the words of it, particularly that paſſage in Deut. xxviii. 32. where Moſes foretold the captivity of Samaria, and afterwards of Judah.

Before Christ 624. all his ſoul, to perform the words of the covenant which are written in this book.

32 And he cauſed all that were preſent in Jeruſalem and Benjamin to ſtand to it. And the inhabitants of Jeruſalem did according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers.

33 And Joſiah took away all the abominations out of all the countries that pertained to the children of Iſrael, and made all that were preſent in Iſrael to ſerve, even to ſerve the LORD their God. And all his days they departed not from following the LORD, the God of their fathers.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 Joſiah keepeth a moſt ſolemn paſſover: 20 He provoking Pharaoh-nechoh, is ſlain at Megiddo. 25 Lamentations for Joſiah.

623. MOreover, Joſiah kept a paſſover unto the LORD in Jeruſalem: and they killed the paſſover on the fourteenth day of the firſt month.

2 And he ſet the prieſts in their charges, and encouraged them to the ſervice of the houſe of the LORD.

3 And ſaid unto the Levites that taught all Iſrael, which were holy unto the LORD, Put the holy ark in the houſe, which Solomon the ſon of David king of Iſrael did build; it ſhall not be a burden upon your ſhoulders: ſerve now the LORD your God, and his people Iſrael,

4 And prepare yourſelves by the houſes of your fathers, after your courſes, according to the writing of David king of Iſrael, and according to the writing of Solomon his ſon. Before Chriſt 623.

5 And ſtand in the holy place according to the diviſions of the families of the fathers of your brethren the people, and after the diviſion of the families of the Levites.

6 So kill the paſſover, and ſanctify yourſelves, and prepare your brethren, that they may do according to the word of the LORD, by the hand of Moſes.

7 And Joſiah gave to the people of the flock, lambs and kids, all for the paſſover-offerings, for all that were preſent, to the number of thirty thouſand, and three thouſand bullocks: theſe were of the kings ſubſtance.

8 And his princes gave willingly unto to the people, to the prieſts and to the Levites: Hilkiah, and Zechariah, and Jehiel, rulers of the houſe of God, gave unto the prieſts for the paſſover-offerings, two thouſand and ſix hundred ſmall cattle, and three hundred oxen.

9 Conaniah alſo, and Shemaiah, and Nethaneel, his brethren, and Haſhabiah, and Jeiel, and Jozabad, chief of the Levites, gave unto the Levites for paſſover-offerings, five thouſand ſmall cattle, and five hundred oxen.

10 So the ſervice was prepared, and the prieſts ſtood in their place, and the Levites in their courſes, according to the kings commandment.

11 And they killed the paſſover, and the

NOTES on Chap. XXXV.

Ver. 1. Joſiah kept a paſſover unto the Lord in Jeruſalem.] A brief account of this paſſover has been already given in 2 Kings xxiii. 21, 22, 23.

Ver. 3. Which were holy unto the Lord.] The Levites were holy unto the Lord, and therefore it may be rendered, and were holy unto the Lord, that is, particularly dedicated to this ſervice of miniſtring to the prieſts, and inſtructing the people.

Put the holy ark in the houſe.] Some interpreters think, that Manaſſeh, or his ſon Amon, had removed the ark from its place; but others think, that Hilkiah himſelf had removed the ark, while the temple was repairing; there being defects in the moſt holy place, as well as the other parts of it, and it not being fit that the ark ſhould be expoſed to the workmen; whilſt others underſtand it, in a ſtill different-ſenſe, and think, that the word which is here tranſlated put, ſhould be rendered keep, or look after.

Before Christ 623. the prieſts ſprinkled the blood from their hands, and the Levites flayed them.

12 And they removed the burnt-offerings, that they might give according to the diviſions of the families of the people, to offer unto the LORD, as it is written in the book of Moſes: and ſo did they with the oxen.

13 And they roaſted the paſſover with fire, according to the ordinance: but the other holy offerings ſod they in pots, and in caldrons, and in pans, and divided them ſpeedily among all the people.

14 And afterward they made ready for themſelves, and for the prieſts: becauſe the prieſts the ſons of Aaron were buſied in offering of burnt-offerings, and the fat until night; therefore the Levites prepared for themſelves, and for the prieſts the ſons of Aaron.

15 And the ſingers the ſons of Aſaph were in their place, according to the commandment of David, and Aſaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun the kings ſeer; and the porters waited at every gate; they might not depart from their ſervice; for their brethren the Levites prepared for them.

16 So all the ſervice of the LORD was prepared the ſame day, to keep the paſſover, and to offer burnt-offerings upon the altar of the LORD, according to the commandment of king Joſiah.

17 And the children of Iſrael that were preſent, kept the paſſover at that time, and the feaſt of unleavened bread ſeven days.

18 And there was no paſſover like to that kept in Iſrael, from the days of Samuel the prophet, neither did all the kings of Iſrael keep ſuch a paſſover as Joſiah kept, and the prieſts, and the Levites, and all Judah and Iſrael that were preſent, and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem. Before Christ 623.

19 In the eighteenth year of the reign of Joſiah, was this paſſover kept.

20 ¶ After all this, when Joſiah had prepared the temple, Necho king of Egypt came up to fight againſt Carchemiſh by Euphrates: and Joſiah went out againſt him. 610.

21 But he ſent ambaſſadors to him, ſaying, What have I to do with thee, thou king of Judah? I come not againſt thee this day, but againſt the houſe wherewith I have war: for God commanded me to make haſte: forbear thee from meddling with God, who is with me, that he deſtroy thee not.

22 Nevertheleſs Joſiah would not turn his face from him, but diſguiſed himſelf that he might fight with him, and hearkened not unto the words of Necho from the mouth of God, and came to fight in the valley of Megiddo.

23 And the archers ſhot at king Joſiah; and the king ſaid to his ſervants, Have me away, for I am ſore wounded.

24 His ſervants therefore took him out of that chariot, and put him in the ſecond chariot that he had; and they brought him to Jeruſalem, and he died, and was buried in one of the ſepulchers of his fathers: and all Judah and Jeruſalem mourned for Joſiah.

25 ¶ And Jeremiah lamented for Joſiah, and all the ſinging-men and the ſinging-women ſpake of Joſiah in their lamentations to this day, and made them an ordinance

Ver. 18. From the days of Samuel the prophet.] We do not read in the book of Samuel, of any paſſover kept in his days; therefore the book, wherein this is recorded, is loſt, as many other books of the prophets are.

Ver. 20. Joſiah went out againſt him.] It was againſt the king of Aſſyria that Necho was marching, but by Joſiah's oppoſing him, it is probable, that the king of Judah was in alliance and friendſhip with the king of Aſſyria, and that he now voluntarily aſſiſted him, by giving a diverſion to the Egyptians.

26 Now the reſt of the acts of Joſiah, and his goodneſs, according to that which was written in the law of the Lord,

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 Jehoahaz ſucceeding, is depoſed by Pharaoh, and carried into Egypt. 5 Jehoiakim reigning ill, is carried bound into Babylon. 9 Jehoiachin ſucceeding, reigneth ill, and is brought into Babylon.

THen the people of the land took Jehoahaz the ſon of Joſiah, and made him king in his fathers ſtead in Jeruſalem.

2 Jehoahaz was twenty and three years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jeruſalem.

3 And the king of Egypt put him down at Jeruſalem, and condemned the land in an hundred talents of ſilver, and a talent of gold.

4 And the king of Egypt made Eliakim his brother, king over Judah and Jeruſalem, and turned his name to Jehoiakim. And Necho took Jehoahaz his brother, and carried him to Egypt.

5 ¶ Jehoiakim was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jeruſalem : and he did that which was evil in the ſight of the Lord his God.

607. 6 Againſt him came up Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and bound him in fetters to carry him to Babylon.

7 Nebuchadnezzar alſo carried of the veſſels of the houſe of the Lord to Babylon, and put them in his temple at Babylon. Before Christ 606.

8 Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoiakim, and his abominations which he did, and that which was found in him, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Iſrael and Judah : and Jehoiachin his ſon reigned in his ſtead. 599.

9 ¶ Jehoiachin was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months and ten days in Jeruſalem, and he did that which was evil in the ſight of the Lord.

10 And when the year was expired, king Nebuchadnezzar ſent, and brought him to Babylon, with the goodly veſſels of the houſe of the Lord, and made Zedekiah his brother, king over Judah and Jeruſalem.

11 ¶ Zedekiah was one and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned eleven years in Jeruſalem.

12 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the Lord his God, and humbled not himſelf before Jeremiah the prophet, ſpeaking from the mouth of the Lord.

13 And he alſo rebelled againſt king Nebuchadnezzar, who had made him ſwear by God : but he ſtiffened his neck, and hardened his heart from turning unto the Lord God of Iſrael. 593.

14 ¶ Moreover, all the chief of the prieſts, and the people tranſgreſſed very much, after all the abominations of the heathen

Behold, they are written in the Lamentations.] It is plain, from hence, that the Jews uſed to make lamentations, or mournful ſongs, upon the death of great men, and had collections of this kind of compoſition. The author of the book of Samuel has preſerved thoſe that were made upon the death of Saul and Jonathan, of Abner and Abſalom; but this mournful poem, which the diſconſolate prophet made on the immature death of good Joſiah, has not been handed down to us, which is a loſs the more to be deplored, as in all probability, it was a maſter-piece in its kind; ſince there never was an author more affected with his ſubject, or more capable of filling it with all the tender ſentiments of ſorrow and compaſſion.

But the Jews had ſuch a ſtrange propenſity to idolatry, that if they worſhipped the Lord during the reign of a good king, they immediately returned to their old crimes, when a bad one aſcended the throne.

Before Chriſt 536.

NOW in the firſt year of Cyrus king of Perſia (that the word of the LORD by the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled) the LORD ſtirred up the ſpirit of Cyrus king of Perſia, that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, and put it alſo in writing, ſaying,

Before Chriſt 536.

NOTES on Chap. I.

Ver. 1. Cyrus king of Perſia.] That is, that famous Cyrus, who was mentioned by name in the prophecy of Iſaiah, as a perſon deſigned by God for the reſtoring his people, an hundred and forty years before the temple was deſtroyed, and two hundred years before he was born. See Iſaiah xliv. 28, and xlv. 1, 4.

That the word of the Lord, by the mouth of Jeremiah, might be fulfilled.] This prophet had predicted, that the king of Babylon, and the Chaldeans, ſhould be deſtroyed, and the people of Judah reſtored to their own land, after ſeventy years were accompliſhed. See Jer. xxv. 12. and xxix. 10.

Ver. 2. He hath charged me to build him an houſe, &c.] So Cyrus underſtood from Iſaiah xliv. 28. xlv. 13. and It is probable, that Daniel (whom Cyrus, at his firſt coming to Babylon, found famed for his great wiſdom over all the eaſt, and in many things, for a knowledge ſuperior to the reſt of mankind) might ſhew the king thoſe paſſages in Iſaiah, wrote many years before he was born, which mention him by name, as a great prince, a conqueror, and the reſtorer of his people, by cauſing the temple to be built, and the city of Jeruſaleu to be re-inhabited: for, it is evident, from the decree itſelf, that Cyrus had ſeen thoſe prophecies; and ſurely no perſon was more proper to ſhew them to him, and to recommend the accompliſhment of them to his princely care, than Daniel, who was in ſo great credit with him, and was ſo paſſionately concerned for the reſtoration of Sion.

thers of Judah and Benjamin, and the prieſts and the Levites, with all them whoſe ſpirit God had raiſed to go up, to build the houſe of the LORD which is in Jeruſalem.

6 And all they that were about them, ſtrengthened their hands with veſſels of ſilver, with gold, with goods, and with beaſts, and with precious things, beſides all that was willingly offered.

7 ¶ Alſo Cyrus the king brought forth the veſſels of the houſe of the LORD, which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth out of Jeruſalem, and had put them in the houſe of his gods:

8 Even thoſe did Cyrus king of Perſia bring forth by the hand of Mithredath the treaſurer, and numbered them unto Sheſhbazzar the prince of Judah.

9 And this is the number of them: thirty chargers of gold, a thouſand chargers of ſilver, nine and twenty knives,

10 Thirty baſons of gold, ſilver baſons of a ſecond ſort four hundred and ten, and other veſſels a thouſand.

11 All the veſſels of gold and of ſilver, were five thouſand and four hundred. All theſe did Sheſhbazzar bring up with them of the captivity, that were brought up from Babylon unto Jeruſalem.

CHAP. II.

Before Chriſt 536.

1 The number that returned of the people, 36 of the prieſts, 40 of the Levites, 43 of the Nethinims, 55 of Solomons ſervants, 62 of the prieſts which could not ſhew their pedigree.

NOW theſe are the children of the province that went up out of the captivity, of thoſe which had been carried away, whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had carried away unto Babylon, and came again unto Jeruſalem and Judah, every one unto his city;

2 Which came with Zerubbabel: Jeſhua, Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilſhan, Miſpar, Bigvai, Rehum, Baanah. The number of the men of the people of Iſrael.

3 The children of Paroſh, two thouſand an hundred ſeventy and two.

4 The children of Shephatiah, three hundred ſeventy and two.

5 The children of Arah, ſeven hundred ſeventy and five.

6 The children of Pahath-moab, of the children of Jeſhua and Joab, two thouſand eight hundred and twelve.

7 The children of Elam, a thouſand two hundred fifty and four.

8 The

Ver. 7. Cyrus the king, brought forth the veſſels, &c.] It was remarkably providential, that theſe veſſels ſhould be preſerved till this time; they had been looked upon as ſacred things, which Nebuchadnezzar would not convert to his own uſe, but dedicated to his gods.

Ver. 8. Sheſhbazzar.] This was another name for Zerubbabel; it was common, in the time of the captivity, for the great men of Judah to have two names; one of their own country, which was domeſtic; and another of the Chaldeans, which was uſed at court. Zerubbabel was born in Babylon, and his name, which ſignifies an exile, or ſtranger in Babylon, implies the miſery of the people of Iſrael at that time; but Sheſhbazzar, which ſignifies fine linnen and gold, ſeems to be a name of a better omen, and to denote their future flouriſhing condition.

Ver. 10. Four hundred and ten.] From the parallel account in Eſdras, chap. ii. 13. and the authority of ſeveral MSS. it is plain, that the number of theſe veſſels ſhould have been 2410.

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 1. The children of the province.] By the province, ſome underſtand Babylon; but certainly Judea is here meant, which was made a province when it was conquered, and Gedaliah conſtituted the governor. Accordingly, in chap. v. 8. it is expreſsly called the province of Judea; for the variations in the names of the chiefs, and of the men of Iſrael, and the difference of the numbers, mentioned in this chapter, and in Nehemiah chap. vii. and Eſdras v. See Mr. Kennicot's Diſſertations, vol. 2. p. 508.

Ver. 2. Nehemiah.] Not the author of the following book, as is ſuppoſed; for he did not go now, but afterwards; or, if he did, he returned to Babylon again.

Ver. 5. Seven hundred ſeventy and five.] From Nehemiah vii. 10. it appears, that there came no more into Judea than ſix hundred fifty and two; therefore, it is imagined, that thoſe who had given in their names, with an intention to return into Judea, either altered their mind, or died by the way; and the ſame muſt be ſaid of ſeveral other differences between this account and that in Nehemiah.

Ver. 55. The children of Solomons ſervants.] Probably the deſcendants of thoſe who came from other nations, to ſerve Solomon during the building of the temple; and having embraced the Jewiſh religion, were appointed to the conſtant reparation and care of that ſtructure.

Ver. 63. The Tirſhatha.] This ſignifies probably, the chief governor, or kings commiſſioner; Nehemiah is ſo called, chap. viii. 9. and x. 1. of the book which bears his name.

Till there ſtood up a prieſt with Urim and with Thummim.] Till the Lord himſelf ſhould decide, by means of ſuch an high-prieſt, as there was in the firſt temple, whether they were the ſons of Aaron or not. It is probable, that the Urim and Thummim, together with other kinds of prophecy, and the many extraordinary tokens of God's power and preſence, ceaſed with that generation which returned from captivity, or immediately after the finiſhing of the ſecond temple; as if God had appointed that long interval of time, for a faſt or vigil, as an introduction to the fulneſs of time, when God would pour out his ſpirit upon all fleſh, upon the Gentile as well as Jew; to teach the Iſraelites, that he was not their God alone, but alſo the God of the Gentiles.

Ver. 64. Forty and two thouſand, three hundred and threeſcore.] If we add the ſeveral ſums together, enumerated in the preceding verſes, the total will be no more than 29,818. But it ſhould be remembered, that great numbers of the other tribes of Iſrael, beſides thoſe of Judah and Benjamin, came from Babylon; and theſe not being able to make out their deſcent, were not mentioned by their families, as the others were.

AND when the ſeventh month was come, and the children of Iſrael were in the cities, the people gathered themſelves together, as one man, to Jeruſalem.

2 Then ſtood up Jeſhua the ſon of Jozadak, and his brethren the prieſts, and Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel, and his brethren, and builded the altar of the God of Iſrael, to offer burnt-offerings thereon, as it is written in the law of Moſes the man of God.

3 And they ſet the altar upon his baſes, (for fear was upon them, becauſe of the people of thoſe countries) and they offered burnt-offerings thereon unto the Lord, even burnt-offerings morning and evening.

4 They kept alſo the feaſt of tabernacles, as it is written, and offered the daily burnt-offerings by number, according to the cuſtom, as the duty of every day required;

5 And afterward offered the continual burnt-offering, both of the new-moons, and of all the ſet feaſts of the Lord, that were conſecrated, and of every one that willingly offered a free-will-offering unto the Lord. Before Christ 536.

6 From the firſt day of the ſeventh month began they to offer burnt-offerings unto the Lord: but the foundation of the temple of the Lord was not yet laid.

7 They gave money alſo unto the maſons, and to the carpenters; and meat, and drink, and oil, unto them of Zidon, and to them of Tyre to bring cedar-trees from Lebanon to the ſea of Joppa: according to the grant that they had of Cyrus king of Perſia.

8 ¶ Now in the ſecond year of their 535. coming unto the houſe of God at Jeruſalem, in the ſecond month, began Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel, and Jeſhua the ſon of Jozadak, and the remnant of their brethren the prieſts and the Levites, and all they that were come out of the captivity unto Jeruſalem; and appointed the Levites, from twenty years old and upward, to ſet forward the work of the houſe of the Lord.

9 Then ſtood Jeſhua, with his ſons and his brethren, Kadmiel and his ſons, the ſons of Judah together, to ſet forward the workmen in the houſe of God: the ſons of Henadad, with their ſons and their brethren the Levites.

This explains what we read afterwards, chap. vi. ver. 17. that for a ſin-offering for all Iſrael, they offered twelve he-goats, according to the number of the tribes of Iſrael; and indeed there were ſome relicks of the ten tribes, even till their laſt deſtruction.

Ver. 3. They ſet the altar upon his baſis.] They ſet up the altar before they laid the foundation of the temple, becauſe they would not intermit their ſacrifices, while it was in building.

Thoſe who approve of the preſent tranſlation, underſtand it, that they were the more zealous to reſtore God's worſhip, that they might, upon all occaſions, fly to him for ſuccour againſt their enemies, of whom they were in dread.

Ver. 8. In the ſecond year—in the ſecond month, &c.] It is probable, that all the time before this, viz. the latter end of the laſt year was ſpent in removing the rubbiſh, and preparing the ground for laying the foundation, as much as the winter would permit, which was not a ſeaſon to begin the work; but after the paſſover, it is preſumed, they entered upon it.

12 But many of the prieſts and Levites, and chief of the fathers, who were ancient men that had ſeen the firſt houſe, when the foundation of this houſe was laid before their eyes, wept with a loud voice, and many ſhouted for joy:

Ver. 12. Many wept with a loud voice, and many ſhouted aloud for joy.] The young men ſhouted for joy, while the old men wept aloud; for though the temple was intended to be built as large as the former, yet there were not ſuch excellent ſtones for laying the foundations, as in that built by Solomon; nor could they hope to finiſh it in ſo magnificent a manner. The Shechinah, together with a prieſt with the Urim and Thummim, were alſo wanting. Nevertheleſs, they ought not, with their exceſſive grief, to have interrupted the public joy; but ought rather to have been thankful to God, for the liberty of worſhipping him in the beauty of holineſs, and again enjoying their own land.

16 We certify the king, that if this city be builded again, and the walls thereof ſet up, by this means thou ſhalt have no portion on this ſide the river.

17 ¶ Then ſent the king an anſwer unto Rehum the chancellor, and to Shimſhai the ſcribe, and to the reſt of their companions that dwell in Samaria, and unto the reſt beyond the river, Peace, and at ſuch a time.

18 The letter which you ſent unto us, hath been plainly read before me.

19 And I commanded, and ſearch hath been made, and it is found, that this city of old time hath made inſurrection againſt kings, and that rebellion and ſedition have been made therein.

20 There have been mighty kings alſo over Jeruſalem, which have ruled over all countries beyond the river; and toll, tribute, and cuſtom was paid unto them.

21 Give ye now commandment, to cauſe theſe men to ceaſe, and that this city be not builded, until another commandment ſhall be given from me.

22 Take heed now that ye fail not to do this: why ſhould damage grow to the hurt of the kings?

23 ¶ Now when the copy of king Artaxerxes letter was read before Rehum and Shimſhai the ſcribe, and their companions, they went up in haſte to Jeruſalem, unto

1 Zerubbabel and Joſhua, incited by Haggai and Zechariah, ſet forward the building of the temple. 3 Tatnai and Shethar-boznai could not hinder the Jews. 6 Their letter to Darius againſt the Jews.

THen the prophets, Haggai the prophet, and Zechariah the ſon of Iddo, propheſied unto the Jews that were in Judah and Jeruſalem, in the name of the God of Iſrael, even unto them.

2 Then roſe up Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel, and Jeſhua the ſon of Jozadak, and began to build the houſe of God, which is at Jeruſalem: and with them were the prophets of God helping them.

3 ¶ At the ſame time came to them Tatnai, governor on this ſide the river, and Shethar-boznai, and their companions, and ſaid thus unto them, Who hath commanded you to build this houſe, and to make up this wall?

4 Then ſaid we unto them after this manner, What are the names of the men that make this building?

5 But the eye of their God was upon the elders of the Jews, that they could not cauſe them to ceaſe, till the matter came to Darius: and then they returned anſwer by letter concerning this matter.

519. 6 ¶ The copy of the letter that Tatnai, governor on this ſide the river, and Shethar-boznai, and his companions the Apharſachites, which were on this ſide the river, ſent unto Darius the king: Before Chriſt 519.

7 They ſent a letter unto him, wherein was written thus; Unto Darius the king, all peace.

8 Be it known unto the king, that we went into the province of Judea, to the houſe of the great God, which is builded with great ſtones, and timber is laid in the walls, and this work goeth faſt on, and proſpereth in their hands.

9 Then aſked we thoſe elders, and ſaid unto them thus, Who commanded you to build this houſe, and to make up theſe walls?

10 We aſked their names alſo, to certify thee, that we might write the names of the men that were the chief of them.

11 And thus they returned us anſwer, ſaying, We are the ſervants of the God of heaven and earth, and build the houſe that was builded theſe many years ago, which a great king of Iſrael builded, and ſet up.

12 But after that our fathers had provoked the God of heaven unto wrath, he gave them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon the Chaldean, who deſtroyed this houſe, and carried the people away into Babylon.

536. 13 But in the firſt year of Cyrus the king of Babylon, the ſame king Cyrus made a decree to build this houſe of God.

14 And the veſſels alſo of gold and ſilver of the houſe of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took out of the temple that was in Jeruſalem, and brought them into the temple of Babylon, thoſe did Cyrus the

Ver. 4. Then ſaid we unto them, &c.] From this place the argument is drawn, that he who wrote this chapter was now preſent, when this queſtion was aſked, and the anſwer made to it; and therefore Ezra was not the author; for this was in the ſecond year of Darius, and he did not come to Jeruſalem till the ſeventh year of Artaxerxes.

15 And ſaid unto him, Take theſe veſſels, go, carry them into the temple that is in Jeruſalem, and let the houſe of God be builded in his place.

16 Then came the ſame Sheſhbazzar, and laid the foundation of the houſe of God which is in Jeruſalem. And ſince that time even until now, hath it been in building, and yet it is not finiſhed.

17 Now therefore if it ſeem good to the king, let there be ſearch made in the kings treaſure-houſe, which is there at Babylon, whether it be ſo that a decree was made of Cyrus the king, to build this houſe of God at Jeruſalem, and let the king ſend his pleaſure to us concerning this matter.

CHAP. VI.

1 Darius finding the decree of Cyrus, maketh a new decree for the advancement of the building. 13 By the help of the enemies, and the directions of the prophets, the temple is finiſhed. 16 The feaſt of the dedication is kept, 19 and the paſſover.

THen Darius the king made a decree, and ſearch was made in the houſe of the rolls, where the treaſures were laid up in Babylon.

2 And there was found at Achmetha, in the palace that is in the province of the Medes, a roll, and therein was a record thus written:

3 In the firſt year of Cyrus the king, the ſame Cyrus the king made a decree concerning the houſe of God at Jeruſalem, Let the houſe be builded, the place where they offered ſacrifices, and let the foundations thereof be ſtrongly laid, the height thereof threeſcore cubits, and the breadth thereof threeſcore cubits:

Before Chriſt 519.

4 With three rows of great ſtones, and a row of new timber: and let the expences be given out of the kings houſe.

5 And alſo let the golden and ſilver veſſels of the houſe of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took forth out of the temple which is at Jeruſalem, and brought unto Babylon, be reſtored, and brought again unto the temple which is at Jeruſalem, every one to his place, and place them in the houſe of God.

6 Now therefore Tatnai, governor beyond the river, Shethar-boznai, and your companions the Apharſachites, which are beyond the river, be ye far from thence.

7 Let the work of this houſe of God alone, let the governor of the Jews, and the elders of the Jews, build this houſe of God in his place.

8 Moreover, I make a decree, what ye ſhall do to the elders of theſe Jews, for the building of this houſe of God: that of the kings goods, even of the tribute beyond the river, forthwith expences be given unto theſe men, that they be not hindered.

9 And that which they have need of, both young bullocks, and rams, and lambs, for the burnt-offerings of the God of heaven, wheat, ſalt, wine, and oil, according to the appointment of the prieſts which are at Jeruſalem, let it be given them day by day without fail:

10 That they may offer ſacrifices of ſweet ſavours unto the God of heaven, and pray for the life of the king, and of his ſons.

11 Alſo I have made a decree, that whoſoever ſhall alter this word, let timber be pulled down from his houſe, and being 13 ¶ Then Tatnai, governor on this ſide the river, Shethar-boznai, and their companions, according to that which Darius the king had ſent, ſo they did ſpeedily.

14 And the elders of the Jews builded, and they proſpered through the propheſying of Haggai the prophet, and Zechariah the ſon of Iddo; and they builded, and finiſhed it, according to the commandment of the God of Iſrael, and according to the commandment of Cyrus, and Darius, and Artaxerxes king of Perſia.

515. 15 And this houſe was finiſhed on the third day of the month Adar, which was in the ſixth year of the reign of Darius the king.

16 ¶ And the children of Iſrael, the prieſts and the Levites, and the reſt of the children of the captivity, kept the dedication of this houſe of God with joy,

17 And offered at the dedication of this houſe of God, an hundred bullocks, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs; and for a ſin-offering for all Iſrael, twelve he-goats, according to the number of the tribes of Iſrael.

18 And they ſet the prieſts in their diviſions, and the Levites in their courſes, for the ſervice of God, which is at Jeruſalem; as it is written in the book of Moſes.

19 And the children of the captivity kept the paſſover, upon the fourteenth day of the firſt month.

20 For the prieſts and the Levites were purified together, all of them were pure, and killed the paſſover for all the children of the captivity, and for their brethren the prieſts, and for themſelves.

21 And the children of Iſrael, which were come again out of captivity, and all ſuch as had ſeparated themſelves unto them from the filthineſs of the heathen of the land, to ſeek the LORD God of Iſrael, did eat,

22 And kept the feaſt of unleavened bread ſeven days with joy: for the LORD had made them joyful, and turned the heart of the king of Aſſyria unto them, to ſtrengthen their hands in the work of the houſe of God, the God of Iſrael.

8 And he came to Jeruſalem in the fifth month, which was in the ſeventh year of the king.

9 For upon the firſt day of the firſt month began he to go up from Babylon, and on the firſt day of the fifth month, came he to Jeruſalem, according to the good hand of his God upon him.

10 For Ezra had prepared his heart to ſeek the law of the LORD, and to do it, and to teach in Iſrael ſtatutes and judgments.

11 ¶ Now this is the copy of the letter that the king Artaxerxes gave unto Ezra the prieſt, the ſcribe, even a ſcribe of the words of the commandments of the LORD, and of his ſtatutes to Iſrael.

12 Artaxerxes king of kings, Unto Ezra the prieſt, a ſcribe of the law of the God of heaven, perfect peace, and at ſuch a time.

13 I make a decree, that all they of the people of Iſrael, and of his prieſts, and Levites in my realm, which are minded of their own free will to go up to Jeruſalem, go with thee.

14 Foraſmuch as thou art ſent of the king, and of his ſeven counſellors, to enquire concerning Judah and Jeruſalem, according to the law of thy God which is in thine hand:

16 And all the ſilver and gold that thou canſt find in all the provinces of Babylon, with the free-will-offering of the people, and of the prieſts, offering willingly for the houſe of their God, which is in Jeruſalem:

17 That thou mayeſt buy ſpeedily with this money, bullocks, rams, lambs, with their meat-offerings, and their drink-offerings, and offer them upon the altar of the houſe of your God which is in Jeruſalem.

18 And whatſoever ſhall ſeem good to thee, and to thy brethren, to do with the reſt of the ſilver and gold, that do after the will of your God.

19 The veſſels alſo that are given thee, for the ſervice of the houſe of thy God, thoſe deliver thou before the God of Jeruſalem.

20 And whatſoever more ſhall be needful for the houſe of thy God, which thou ſhalt have occaſion to beſtow, beſtow it out of the kings treaſure-houſe.

21 And I, even I Artaxerxes the king, do make a decree to all the treaſurers which are beyond the river, that whatſoever Ezra the prieſt, the ſcribe of the law of the God of heaven, ſhall require of you, it be done ſpeedily;

Before Chriſt 457.

15 ¶ And I gathered them together to the river that runneth to Ahava; and there abode we in tents three days: and I viewed the people, and the prieſts, and found there none of the ſons of Levi.

16 Then ſent I for Eliezer, for Ariel, for Shemaiah, and for Elnathan, and for Jarib, and for Elnathan, and for Nathan, and for Zechariah, and for Meſhullam, chief men; alſo for Joiarib, and for Elnathan, men of underſtanding.

17 And I ſent them with commandment unto Iddo the chief, at the place Caſiphia, and I told them what they ſhould ſay unto Iddo, and to his brethren the Nethinims, at the place Caſiphia, that they ſhould bring unto us miniſters for the houſe of our God.

18 And by the good hand of our God upon us, they brought us a man of underſtanding, of the ſons of Mahli, the ſon of Levi, the ſon of Iſrael, and Sherebiah, with his ſons and his brethren, eighteen;

19 And Haſhabiah, and with him Jeſhaiah of the ſons of Merari, his brethren and their ſons, twenty;

20 Alſo of the Nethinims, whom David and the princes had appointed for the ſervice of the Levites, two hundred and twenty Nethinims: all of them were expreſſed by name.

21 ¶ Then I proclaimed a faſt there, at the river Ahava, that we might afflict ourſelves before our God, to ſeek of him a right way for us, and for our little ones, and for all our ſubſtance.

Before Chriſt 457.

22 For I was aſhamed to require of the king a band of ſoldiers and horſemen, to help us againſt the enemy in the way: becauſe we had ſpoken unto the king, ſaying, The hand of our God is upon all them for good, that ſeek him, but his power and his wrath is againſt all them that forſake him.

23 So we faſted and beſought our God for this, and he was intreated of us.

24 ¶ Then I ſeparated twelve of the chief of the prieſts, Sherebiah, Haſhabiah, and ten of their brethren with them.

25 And weighed unto them the ſilver, and the gold, and the veſſels, even the offering of the houſe of our God, which the king, and his counſellors, and his lords, and all Iſrael there preſent, had offered.

26 I even weighed unto their hand, ſix hundred and fifty talents of ſilver, and ſilver veſſels an hundred talents, and of gold an hundred talents:

27 Alſo twenty baſons of gold, of a thouſand drams, and two veſſels of fine copper, precious as gold.

28 And I ſaid unto them, Ye are holy unto the Lord, the veſſels are holy alſo, and the ſilver, and the gold are a free-will-offering unto the Lord God of your fathers.

Notes on Chap. VIII.

Ver. 15. I gathered them together to the river that runneth to Ahava.] This was a river of Aſſyria. It was uſual with thoſe, who travelled from Babylon to Jeruſalem, in order to avoid the ſcorching heat in the deſerts of Arabia, to direct their courſe firſt to the northward, and then turning weſtward, to paſs through Syria into Paleſtine; but as Ezra intended to aſſemble as many Iſraelites as poſſible, and carry them with him to Jeruſalem, he paſſed through this country, and halted in that of Ava, or Ahava, from whence he might ſend meſſengers to the Caſpian mountains, in order to invite ſuch Jews as reſided there to join their brethren, now on their journey to their own land.

Ver. 17. At the place Caſiphia.] It ſeems the Levites were not among the ten tribes, but in Chaldea; and perhaps ſome of them were tranſported into Parthia, where was a city called Caſpi, known to the old geographers.

Ver. 20. Nethinims.] They were employed in carrying wood and water for the uſe of the temple. The word implies the ſame as deditii, men given for that purpoſe.

Ver. 22. I was aſhamed to require of the king a band of ſoldiers.] He thought it better to commit himſelf to the protection of God, than by applying to the king for the ordinary human means of ſafety, to give him, and others, occaſion to think, that he doubted God's power; for to have aſked protection and defence from the king, would have looked, as if they had diſtruſted the power and favour of their God, of whom they had ſpoken, and boaſted, and praiſed ſo magnificently.

Before Chriſt 457.

29 Watch ye, and keep them, until ye weigh them before the chief of the prieſts, and the Levites, and chief of the fathers of Iſrael at Jeruſalem, in the chambers of the houſe of the LORD.

30 So took the prieſts and the Levites, the weight of the ſilver and the gold, and the veſſels, to bring them to Jeruſalem unto the houſe of our God.

31 ¶ Then we departed from the river of Ahava, on the twelfth day of the firſt month, to go unto Jeruſalem; and the hand of our God was upon us, and he delivered us from the hand of the enemy, and of ſuch as lay in wait by the way.

32 And we came to Jeruſalem, and abode there three days.

33 ¶ Now on the fourth day was the ſilver and the gold, and the veſſels weighed in the houſe of our God by the hand of Meremoth the ſon of Uriah the prieſt, and with him was Eleazar the ſon of Phinehas, and with them was Jozabad the ſon of Jeſhua, and Noadiah the ſon of Binnui, Levites:

34 By number and by weight of every one: and all the weight was written at that time.

35 Alſo the children of thoſe that had been carried away which were come out of the captivity, offered burnt-offerings unto the God of Iſrael, twelve bullocks for all Iſrael, ninety and ſix rams, ſeventy and ſeven lambs, twelve he-goats for a ſin-offering: all this was a burnt-offering unto the LORD.

36 ¶ And they delivered the kings commiſſions unto the kings lieutenants, and to the governors on this ſide the river, and they furthered the people, and the houſe of God.

CHAP. IX.

1 Ezra mourneth for the affinity of the people with ſtrangers: 5 He prayeth unto God with confeſſion of ſins.

NOW when theſe things were done, the princes came to me, ſaying, The people of Iſrael, and the prieſts, and the Levites have not ſeparated themſelves from the people of the lands, doing according to their abominations, even of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebuſites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Amorites.

2 For they have taken of their daughters for themſelves, and for their ſons: ſo that the holy ſeed have mingled themſelves with the people of thoſe lands: yea, the hand of the princes and rulers hath been chief in this treſpaſs.

3 And when I heard this thing, I rent my garment and my mantle, and pluckt off the hair of my head, and of my beard, and ſat down aſtoniſhed.

4 Then were aſſembled unto me every one that trembled at the words of the God of Iſrael, becauſe of the tranſgreſſions of thoſe that had been carried away, and I ſat aſtoniſhed until the evening ſacrifice.

5 ¶ And at the evening ſacrifice, I aroſe up from my heavineſs, and having rent my garment and my mantle, I fell upon my knees, and ſpread out my hands unto the LORD my God,

6 And ſaid, O my God, I am aſhamed, and bluſh to lift up my face to thee, my God:

God: for our iniquities are increaſed over our head, and our treſpaſs is grown up unto the heavens.

7 Since the days of our fathers, have we been in a great treſpaſs unto this day, and for our iniquities have we, our kings, and our prieſts been delivered into the hand of the kings of the lands, to the ſword, to captivity, and to a ſpoil, and to confuſion of face, as it is this day.

8 And now for a little ſpace grace hath been ſhewed from the LORD our God, to leave us a remnant to eſcape, and to give us a nail in his holy place, that our God may lighten our eyes, and give us a little reviving in our bondage.

9 For we were bondmen, yet our God hath not forſaken us in our bondage, but hath extended mercy unto us in the ſight of the kings of Perſia, to give us a reviving, to ſet up the houſe of our God, and to repair the deſolations thereof, and to give us a wall in Judah and in Jeruſalem.

10 And now, O our God, what ſhall we ſay after this? for we have forſaken thy commandments,

11 Which thou haſt commanded by thy ſervants the prophets, ſaying, The land unto which ye go to poſſeſs it, is an unclean land, with the filthineſs of the people of the lands, with their abominations, which have filled it from one end to another, with their uncleanneſs.

12 Now therefore give not your daughters unto their ſons, neither take their daughters unto your ſons, nor ſeek their peace, or their wealth for ever: that ye may be ſtrong, and eat the good of the land, and leave it for an inheritance to your children for ever.

Before Chriſt 457.

13 And after all that is come upon us for our evil deeds, and for our great treſpaſs, ſeeing that thou our God haſt puniſhed us leſs than our iniquities deſerve, and haſt given us ſuch deliverance as this:

14 Should we again break thy commandments, and join in affinity with the people of theſe abominations? wouldeſt not thou be angry with us till thou hadſt conſumed us, ſo that there ſhould be no remnant nor eſcaping?

15 O LORD God of Iſrael, thou art righteous, for we remain yet eſcaped, as it is this day: behold, we are before thee in our treſpaſſes: for we cannot ſtand before thee, becauſe of this.

CHAP. X.

1 Shechaniah encourageth Ezra to reform the ſtrange marriages. 6 Ezra mourning, aſſembleth the people. 9 The people at the exhortation of Ezra, repent and promiſe amendment.

NOW when Ezra had prayed, and when he had confeſſed, weeping, and caſting himſelf down before the houſe of God, there aſſembled unto him out of Iſrael a very great congregation of men, and women, and children: for the people wept very ſore.

2 And

Our iniquities are increaſed over our heads.] This is a metaphor, taken from the riſing of water gradually over the head of a man, and at laſt overwhelming and drowning him.

Ver. 8. To give us a nail in his holy place.] This expreſſion is borrowed from their faſtening their tents to the ground with nails or pins; and therefore ſignifies (as it is explained in the margin) a ſettled abode after a long captivity.

Ver. 9. To give us a wall in Judah and in Jeruſalem.] The Hebrew word ſignifies alſo an hedge or fence, ſuch as were made for folds of ſheep. By this expreſſion, Ezra denotes the ſingular care God had for them, who, being the ſhepherd of Iſrael, had gathered together his ſcattered ſheep, and brought them back into their ancient folds, wherein he preſerved them ſafe, even when they had no wall to defend them, under the powerful protection of the king of Perſia.

NOTES on Chap. X.

Ver. 1. Now when Ezra had prayed, &c.] As this prayer was made at the evening ſacrifice, when the greateſt part of the people were aſſembled to worſhip the Lord; and as it was uttered with great paſſion, and the higheſt expreſſions of grief and ſorrow, it is no wonder that the people were greatly moved, eſpecially to ſee ſuch a perſon as Ezra, a prieſt of God, and a great ruler under the king of Perſia, ſo dejected, full of fear, confuſion, and aſtoniſhment.

Before Chriſt 457.

2 And Shechaniah the ſon of Jehiel, one of the ſons of Elam, anſwered and ſaid unto Ezra, We have treſpaſſed againſt our God, and have taken ſtrange wives, of the people of the land: yet now there is hope in Iſrael concerning this thing.

3 Now therefore let us make a covenant with our God, to put away all the wives, and ſuch as are born of them, according to the counſel of my lord, and of thoſe that tremble at the commandment of our God, and let it be done according to the law.

4 Ariſe: for this matter belongeth unto thee; we alſo will be with thee: be of good courage, and do it.

5 Then aroſe Ezra, and made the chief prieſts, the Levites, and all Iſrael to ſwear, that they ſhould do according to this word: And they ſware.

6 ¶ Then Ezra roſe up from before the houſe of God, and went into the chamber of Johanan the ſon of Eliaſhib: and when he came thither, he did eat no bread, nor drink water: for he mourned becauſe of the trangreſſion of them that had been carried away.

7 And they made proclamation throughout Judah and Jeruſalem, unto all the children of the captivity, that they ſhould gather themſelves together unto Jeruſalem;

8 And that whoſoever would not come within three days, according to the counſel of the princes and the elders, all his ſubſtance ſhould be forfeited, and himſelf ſeparated from the congregation of thoſe that had been carried away.

9 ¶ Then all the men of Judah and Benjamin gathered themſelves together unto Jeruſalem, within three days: it was the ninth month, and the twentieth day of the month, and all the people ſat in the ſtreet of the houſe of God, trembling becauſe of this matter, and for the great rain.

Before Chriſt 457

10 And Ezra the prieſt ſtood up, and ſaid unto them, Ye have tranſgreſſed, and have taken ſtrange wives to increaſe the treſpaſs of Iſrael.

11 Now therefore make confeſſion unto the LORD God of your fathers, and do his pleaſure: and ſeparate yourſelves from the people of the land, and from the ſtrange wives.

12 Then all the congregation anſwered, and ſaid with a loud voice, As thou haſt ſaid, ſo muſt we do.

13 But the people are many, and it is a time of much rain, and we are not able to ſtand without, neither is this a work of one day or two: for we are many that have tranſgreſſed in this thing.

14 Let now our rulers of all the congregation ſtand, and let all them which have taken ſtrange wives in our cities, come at appointed times, and with them the elders of every city, and the judges thereof, until the fierce wrath of our God for this matter, be turned from us.

15 ¶ Only Jonathan the ſon of Aſahel, and Jahaziah the ſon of Tikvah, were employed about this matter: and Meſhullam, and Shabbethai the Levite helped them.

16 And the children of the captivity did ſo: and Ezra the prieſt, with certain chief of the fathers, after the houſe of their fathers,

---

Ver. 3. And ſuch as were born of them.] It was proper the children ſhould follow the fortunes of their mothers, who, as they were unlawfully born, and educated in ſuperſtition, might corrupt other children.

Ver. 6. When he came thither, he did eat no bread.] The word when is not in the Hebrew, and therefore it ought to be rendered, till he came thither he had eaten nothing.

Ver. 8. All his ſubſtance ſhould be forfeited.] In the Hebrew it is devoted; i. e. forfeited, ſo as to become ſacred to God, being put into the treaſury of God's houſe.

Ver. 14. The elders of every city, and the judges thereof.] Interpreters think, that by elders are meant the ſupreme ſenate in every city, who judged in all civil cauſes; and by judges, the judges of an inferior bench, by whom all monied matters were tried: for though the ſenate might judge in all cauſes, it is reaſonable to think, they referred ſmaller matters to a lower court.

Before Chriſt 457.

thers, and all of them by their names were ſeparated, and ſat down in the firſt day of the tenth month to examine the matter.

17 And they made an end with all the men that had taken ſtrange wives, by the firſt day of the firſt month.

18 ¶ And among the ſons of the prieſts, there were found that had taken ſtrange wives: namely, of the ſons of Jeſhua the ſon of Jozadak, and his brethren; Maaſeiah, and Eliezer, and Jarib, and Gedaliah.

19 And they gave their hands, that they would put away their wives; and being guilty, they offered a ram of the flock for their treſpaſs.

20 And of the ſons of Immer; Hanani, and Zebadiah.

21 And of the ſons of Harim; Maaſeiah, and Elijah, and Shemaiah, and Jehiel, and Uzziah.

22 And of the ſons of Paſhur; Elioenai, Maaſeiah, Iſhmael, Nethaneel, Jozabad, and Elaſah.

23 Alſo of the Levites; Jozabad, and Shimei, and Kelaiah, (the ſame is Kelita) Pethahiah, Judah, and Eliezer.

24 Of the ſingers alſo; Eliaſhib: and of the porters; Shallum, and Telem, and Uri.

25 Moreover of Iſrael: of the ſons of Paroſh; Ramiah, and Jeziah, and Malchiah, and Miamin, and Eleazar, and Malchijah, and Benaiah.

26 And of the ſons of Elam; Mattaniah, Zechariah, and Jehiel, and Abdi, and Jeremoth, and Eliah.

27 And of the ſons of Zattu; Elioenai, Eliaſhib, Mattaniah, and Jeremoth, and Zabad, and Aziza.

Before Chriſt 456.

28 Of the ſons alſo of Bebai; Jehohanan, Hannaniah, Zabbai, and Athlai.

29 And of the ſons of Bani; Meſhullam, Malluch, and Adaiah, Jaſhub, and Sheal, and Ramoth.

30 And of the ſons of Pahath-moab; Adna, and Chelal, Benaiah, Maaſeiah, Mattaniah, Bezaleel, and Binnui, and Manaſſeh.

31 And of the ſons of Harim; Eliezer, Iſhijah, Malchiah, Shemaiah, Shimeon, 32 Benjamin, Malluch, and Shemariah.

33 Of the ſons of Haſhum; Mattenai, Mattathah, Zabad, Eliphelet, Jeramai, Manaſſeh, and Shimei.

34 Of the ſons of Bani; Maadai, Amram, and Uel,

35 Benaiah, Bedaiah, Chelluh,

36 Vaniah, Meremoth, Eliaſhib,

37 Mattaniah, Mattenai, and Jaaſau,

38 And Bani, and Binnui, Shimei,

39 And Shelemiah, and Nathan, and Adaiah,

40 Machnadebai, Shaſhai, Sharai,

41 Azareel, and Shelemiah, Shemariah,

42 Shallum, Amariah, and Joſeph.

43 Of the ſons of Nebo; Jeiel, Mattithiah, Zabad, Zebina, Jadau, and Joel, Benaiah.

44 All theſe had taken ſtrange wives: and ſome of them had wives by whom they had children.

Ver. 44. All theſe had taken ſtrange wives.] There was no great number of them, in compariſon with all that returned from captivity; but they ſeem to have been eminent perſons, who would have ſpread the contagion, if a ſtop had not been put to it.

The End of the Book of EZRA.

The BOOK of NEHEMIAH.

The ARGUMENT.

That Nehemiah was the author of this book, is not to be doubted. He was advanced in Babylon, to be cup-bearer to the king of Perſia, from whom he obtained leave to return to Judea for twelve years, in order to rebuild the city of Jeruſalem. He here continues the hiſtory of Ezra, from the twentieth year of Artaxerxes, to the reign of Darius Nothus, about forty years in the whole.

CHAP. I.

1 Nehemiah underſtanding by Hanani, the miſery of Jeruſalem, mourneth, faſteth, and prayeth: 5 His prayer.

Before Chriſt 446.

THE words of Nehemiah the ſon of Hachaliah. And it came to paſs in the month Chiſleu, in the twentieth year, as I was in Shuſhan the palace,

2 That Hanani, one of my brethren came, he and certain men of Judah, and I aſked them concerning the Jews that had eſcaped, which were left of the captivity, and concerning Jeruſalem.

Before Chriſt 446.

3 And they ſaid unto me, The remnant that are left of the captivity there in the province, are in great affliction and reproach: the wall of Jeruſalem alſo is broken down, and the gates thereof are burnt with fire.

4 ¶ And it came to paſs when I heard theſe words, that I ſat down and wept, and mourned certain days, and faſted, and prayed before the God of heaven,

5 And ſaid, I beſeech thee, O LORD God

NOTES on Chap. I.

Ver. 1. In the month Chiſleu.] Which anſwers to part of our November and December, and was tke ninth month with them.

In Shuſhan the palace.] This was in the region of Elymais, where the Perſian kings kept their court in winter; and from its pleaſant and beautiful ſituation, was called by the heathen writers Suſa, which ſignifies a lily. Stephanus Byrantius ſays, it was called ſo from the lilies which grew in abundance in that country.

Ver. 5. I beſeech thee, O Lord God of heaven.] This was the ſtile in which they mentioned God after the captivity, and ſignifies his ſovereign dominion over all things contained within the compaſs of the heavens; the ſun, and ſtars, angels, men, and all creatures in general.

Before Christ 446.

God of heaven, the great and terrible God, that keepeth covenant and mercy for them that love him, and obſerve his commandments:

6 Let thine ear now be attentive, and thine eyes open, that thou mayeſt hear the prayer of thy ſervant, which I pray before thee now, day and night, for the children of Iſrael thy ſervants, and confeſs the ſins of the children of Iſrael, which we have ſinned againſt thee: both I, and my fathers houſe have ſinned.

7 We have dealt very corruptly againſt thee, and have not kept the commandments, nor the ſtatutes, nor the judgments, which thou commandedſt thy ſervant Moſes.

8 Remember, I beſeech thee, the word that thou commandedſt thy ſervant Moſes, ſaying, If ye tranſgreſs, I will ſcatter you abroad among the nations:

9 But if ye turn unto me, and keep my commandments, and do them: though there were of you caſt out unto the uttermoſt part of the heaven, yet will I gather them from thence, and will bring them unto the place that I have choſen to ſet my name there.

10 Now theſe are thy ſervants, and thy people, whom thou haſt redeemed by thy great power, and by thy ſtrong hand.

11 O LORD, I beſeech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy ſervant, and to the prayer of thy ſervants, who deſire to fear thy name: and proſper, I pray thee, thy ſervant this day, and grant him mercy in the ſight of this man. For I was the kings cup-bearer.

Before Christ 446.

CHAP. II.

1 Artaxerxes underſtanding the cauſe of Nehemiahs ſadneſs, ſendeth him with letters and commiſſion to Jeruſalem. 9 Nehemiah, to the grief of the enemies, cometh to Jeruſalem: 12 He vieweth ſecretly the ruins of the walls.

445.

AND it came to paſs in the month Niſan, in the twentieth year of Artaxerxes the king, that wine was before him: and I took up the wine, and gave it unto the king. Now I had not been beforetime ſad in his preſence.

2 Wherefore the king ſaid unto me, Why is thy countenance ſad, ſeeing thou art not ſick? this is nothing elſe, but ſorrow of heart. Then I was very ſore afraid,

3 And ſaid unto the king, Let the king live for ever: why ſhould not my countenance be ſad, when the city, the place of my fathers ſepulchers, lieth waſte, and the gates thereof are conſumed with fire?

4 Then the king ſaid unto me, For what doſt thou make requeſt? So I prayed to the God of heaven.

5 And I ſaid unto the king, If it pleaſe the king, and if thy ſervant have found favour in thy ſight, that thou wouldeſt ſend me

---

Ver. 11. I was the king's cup-bearer.] A place of great honour in the Perſian court, becauſe of the privilege he enjoyed of being daily in the king's preſence, and conſequently had an opportunity of gaining his favour, for obtaining any petition that he ſhould make to him; and that it was a place of great advantage, is evident, becauſe Nehemiah had amaſſed ſuch immenſe riches, that he was enabled to ſupport himſelf, with all the charges attending his government, (ſee chap. v. 14.) without laying any burden on the people.

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 1. In the month of Niſan.] This contained part of March, and part of April; ſo that it was almoſt four months after Nehemiah was informed of the wretched ſtate of Jeruſalem. The reaſon why he did not petition the king ſooner to viſit Jeruſalem, was probably, becauſe his turn of waiting did not come ſooner; beſides, he would ſcarce undertake ſo long and dangerous a journey in the midſt of winter.

Ver. 3. Why ſhould not my countenance be ſad, &c.] It is natural for men to have a regard for the ſepulchres of their anceſtors, and to grieve at beholding the place where their aſhes are depoſited, become deſolate.

Ver. 4. So I prayed to the God of heaven.] He ſilently beſought God to guide his tongue, and to incline the king's heart to grant his requeſt.

me unto Judah, unto the city of my fathers ſepulchers, that I may build it.

6 And the king ſaid unto me, (the queen alſo ſitting by him) For how long ſhall thy journey be? and when wilt thou return? So it pleaſed the king to ſend me, and I ſet him a time.

7 Moreover, I ſaid unto the king, If it pleaſe the king, let letters be given me to the governors beyond the river, that they may convey me over till I come into Judah;

8 And a letter unto Aſaph the keeper of the kings foreſt, that he may give me timber to make beams for the gates of the palace which appertained to the houſe, and for the wall of the city, and for the houſe that I ſhall enter into. And the king granted me, according to the good hand of my God upon me.

9 ¶ Then I came to the governors beyond the river, and gave them the kings letters. (Now the king had ſent captains of the army, and horſemen with me)

10 When Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the ſervant the Ammonite, heard of it, it grieved them exceedingly that there was come a man to ſeek the welfare of the children of Iſrael.

11 So I came to Jeruſalem, and was there three days.

12 ¶ And I aroſe in the night, I and ſome few men with me, neither told I any man what my God had put in my heart to do at Jeruſalem: neither was there any beaſt with me, ſave the beaſt that I rode upon.

13 And I went out by night, by the gate of the valley, even before the dragon-well, and to the dung-port, and viewed the walls of Jeruſalem, which were broken down, and the gates thereof were conſumed with fire.

Before Christ 445.

14 Then I went on to the gate of the fountain, and to the kings pool: but there was no place for the beaſt that was under me to paſs.

15 Then went I up in the night by the brook, and viewed the wall, and turned back, and entered by the gate of the valley, and ſo returned.

16 And the rulers knew not whither I went, or what I did, neither had I as yet told it to the Jews, nor to the prieſts, nor to the nobles, nor to the rulers, nor to the reſt that did the work.

17 ¶ Then ſaid I unto them, Ye ſee the diſtreſs that we are in, how Jeruſalem lieth waſte, and the gates thereof are burnt with fire: come, and let us build up the wall of Jeruſalem, that we be no more a reproach.

18 Then I told them of the hand of my God which was good upon me; as alſo the kings words that he had ſpoken unto me. And they ſaid, Let us riſe up and build. So they ſtrengthened their hands for this good work.

19 But when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the ſervant the Ammonite, and Geſhem the Arabian heard it, they laughed us to ſcorn, and deſpiſed us, and ſaid, What is this thing that ye do? will ye rebel againſt the king?

20 Then anſwered I them, and ſaid unto them, the God of heaven, he will proſper us; therefore we his ſervants will ariſe and build: but you have no portion, nor right, nor memorial in Jeruſalem.

CHAP.

Ver. 6. I ſet him a time.] Probably, he aſked leave to be abſent only a few months, and not ſo long as twelve years. See chapter v. 14. which made him ſo quick in diſpatching his buſineſs; for he finiſhed the building of the wall in fifty-two days, chapter vi. 15. after which, it is likely, he returned to Shuſhan, and then the king ſent him back as his governor for twelve years, his preſence being found neceſſary for the better ordering of that province.

The names and order of them that builded the wall.

THen Eliaſhib the high prieſt roſe up with his brethren the prieſts, and they built the ſheep-gate, they ſanctified it, and ſet up the doors of it; even unto the tower of Meah they ſanctified it, unto the tower of Hananeel.

2 And next to him builded the men of Jericho: and next to them builded Zaccur the ſon of Imri.

3 But the fiſh-gate did the ſons of Haſſenaah build, who alſo laid the beams thereof, and ſet up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof.

4 And next unto them repaired Meremoth the ſon of Urijah, the ſon of Koz: and next unto them repaired Meſhullam the ſon of Berechiah, the ſon of Meſhezabeel: and next unto them repaired Zadok the ſon of Baana.

5 And next unto them the Tekoites repaired; but their nobles put not their necks to the work of their Lord.

6 Moreover, the old gate repaired Jehoiada the ſon of Paſeah, and Meſhullam the ſon of Boſedeiah; they laid the beams thereof, and ſet up the doors thereof, and the locks thereof, and the bars thereof.

7 And next unto them repaired Melatiah the Gibeonite, and Jadon the Meronothite, the men of Gibeon, and of Mizpah, unto the throne of the governor on this ſide the river.

8 Next unto him repaired Uzziel the ſon of Harhaiah, of the goldſmiths: next unto him alſo repaired Hananiah, the ſon of one of the apothecaries, and they fortified Jeruſalem unto the broad wall.

Before Chriſt 445.

9 And next unto them repaired Rephaiah the ſon of Hur, the ruler of the half part of Jeruſalem.

10 And next unto them repaired Jedaiah the ſon of Harumaph, even over againſt his houſe: and next unto him repaired Hattuſh the ſon of Haſhabniah.

11 Malkijah the ſon of Harim, and Haſhub the ſon of Pahath-moab, repaired the other piece, and the tower of the furnaces.

12 And next unto him repaired Shallum the ſon of Haloheſh, the ruler of the half part of Jeruſalem, he and his daughters.

13 The valley-gate repaired Hanun, and the inhabitants of Zanoah; they built it, and ſet up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof, and a thouſand cubits on the wall unto the dung-gate.

14 But the dung-gate repaired Malkiah the ſon of Rechab, the ruler of part of Beth-haccerem: he built it, and ſet up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof.

15 But the gate of the fountain repaired Shallum the ſon of Col-hozeh, the ruler of part of Mizpah: he built it, and covered it, and ſet up the doors thereof, the

NOTES on Chap. III.

Ver. 1. They builded the ſheep-gate.] The ſheep-gate was on the ſouth-ſide of the city, in that part of the valley which looked towards the city of David, and the temple. The ſheep which were to be ſacrificed, entered in by this gate. This then being a work proper for the prieſts, Eliaſhib and his brethren gave a noble example, in being the firſt in re-building the wall of the city, which was broken down.

Ver. 3. The fiſh-gate.] This was a gate that looked towards the ſea, from whence fiſh were brought, and were ſold here.

Ver. 5. Their nobles put not their necks to the work of their Lord.] They were either proud or negligent, not caring whether the work was performed or no. By their Lord, ſome underſtand their leader, or head of their family; ſome Nehemiah; but it moſt probably ſignifies God himſelf, by whoſe command the city was rebuilt.

locks thereof, and the bars thereof, and the wall of the pool of Siloah by the kings garden, and unto the ſtairs that go down from the city of David.

16 After him repaired Nehemiah the ſon of Azbuk the ruler of the half part of Beth-zur, unto the place over againſt the ſepulchers of David, and to the pool that was made, and unto the houſe of the mighty.

17 After him repaired the Levites, Rehum the ſon of Bani: next unto him repaired Haſhabiah the ruler of the half part of Keilah, in his part.

18 After him repaired their brethren, Bavai the ſon of Henadad the ruler of the half part of Keilah.

19 And next to him repaired Ezer the ſon of Jeſhua, the ruler of Mizpah, another piece over againſt the going up to the armoury at the turning of the wall.

20 After him Baruch the ſon of Zabbai, earneſtly repaired the other piece, from the turning of the wall unto the door of the houſe of Eliaſhib the high prieſt.

21 After him repaired Meremoth the ſon of Urijah, the ſon of Koz, another piece, from the door of the houſe of Eliaſhib, even to the end of the houſe of Eliaſhib.

22 And after him repaired the prieſts, the men of the plain.

23 After him repaired Benjamin, and Haſhub, over againſt their houſe: after him repaired Azariah the ſon of Maaſeiah, the ſon of Ananiah, by his houſe.

24 After him repaired Binnui the ſon of Henadad, another piece, from the houſe of Azariah, unto the turning of the wall, even unto the corner.

25 Palal the ſon of Uzai, over againſt the turning of the wall, and the tower which lieth out from the kings high houſe, that was by the court of the priſon: after him, Pedaiah the ſon of Paroſh.

26 Moreover, the Nethinims dwelt in in Ophel, unto the place over againſt the water-gate toward the eaſt, and the tower that lieth out.

27 After them the Tekoites repaired another piece, over againſt the great tower that lieth out, even unto the wall of Ophel.

28 From above the horſe-gate repaired the prieſts, every one over againſt his houſe.

29 After him repaired Zadok the ſon of Immer, over againſt his houſe: after him repaired alſo Shemaiah, the ſon of Shechaniah, the keeper of the eaſt-gate.

30 After him repaired Hananiah the ſon of Shelemiah, and Hanun the ſixth ſon of Zalaph, another piece: after him repaired Meſhullam the ſon of Berechiah, over againſt his chamber.

31 After him repaired Malkiah, the gold-ſmiths ſon, unto the place of the Nethinims, and of the merchants, over againſt the gate Miphkad, and to the going up of the corner.

32 And between the going up of the corner unto the ſheep-gate, repaired the gold-ſmiths and the merchants.

CHAP. IV.

1 While the enemies ſcoff, Nehemiah prayeth and continueth the work. 7 Underſtanding the wrath and ſecrets of the enemy, he ſetteth a watch: 13 He armeth the labourers, 19 and giveth military precepts.

BUT

Ver. 16. The houſe of the mighty.] Where the king's guards were lodged.

Ver. 26. The Nethinims.] Not the prieſts and Levites only, but the meaneſt perſons that belonged to the houſe of God, contributed to the work. The names of thoſe who repaired the walls of Jeruſalem are commemorated, becauſe it was a work of virtue and piety, to reſtore the holy city.

The water-gate.] It is likely, the water-gate was that at which theſe inferior miniſters, the Nethinims, brought in water for the uſe of the temple.

Before Christ 445.

BUT it came to paſs, that when Sanballat heard that we builded the wall, he was wroth, and took great indignation, and mocked the Jews.

2 And he ſpake before his brethren and the army of Samaria, and ſaid, What do theſe feeble Jews? will they fortify themſelves? will they ſacrifice? will they make an end in a day? will they revive the ſtones out of the heaps of the rubbiſh, which are burnt?

3 Now Tobiah the Ammonite was by him, and he ſaid, Even that which they build, if a fox go up, he ſhall even break down their ſtone-wall.

4 Hear, O our God, for we are deſpiſed, and turn their reproach upon their own head, and give them for a prey in the land of captivity:

5 And cover not their iniquity, and let not their ſin be blotted out from before thee: for they provoked thee to anger before the builders.

6 So built we the wall; and all the wall was joined together unto the half thereof: for the people had a mind to work.

7 ¶ But it came to paſs that when Sanballat and Tobiah, and the Arabians, and the Ammonites, and the Aſhdodites, heard that the walls of Jeruſalem were made up, and that the breaches began to be ſtopped, then they were very wroth,

8 And conſpired all of them together, to come and to fight againſt Jeruſalem, and to hinder it.

9 Nevertheleſs, we made our prayer unto our God, and ſet a watch againſt them day and night, becauſe of them.

10 And Judah ſaid, The ſtrength of the bearers of burdens is decayed, and there is much rubbiſh, ſo that we are not able to build the wall.

11 And our adverſaries ſaid, They ſhall not know, neither ſee, till we come in the midſt among them, and ſlay them, and cauſe the work to ceaſe.

12 And it came to paſs that when the Jews which dwelt by them, came, they ſaid unto us ten times, From all places, whence ye ſhall return unto us, they will be upon you.

13 ¶ Therefore ſet I in the lower places behind the wall, and on the higher places, I even ſet the people after their families with their ſwords, their ſpears, and their bows.

14 And I looked, and roſe up, and ſaid unto the nobles, and to the rulers, and to the reſt of the people, Be not ye afraid of them: remember the LORD which is great and terrible, and fight for your brethren, your ſons and your daughters, your wives and your houſes.

15 And it came to paſs when our enemies heard that it was known unto us, and God had brought their counſel to nought, that we returned all of us to the wall, every one unto his work.

16 And it came paſs from that time forth, that the half of my ſervants wrought in the work, and the other half of them held

NOTES on Chap. IV.

Ver. 2. Will they make an end in a day?] Reports had been ſpread, that ſo many were at work, as if they intended to build the wall, keep a feaſt, and dedicate it all in one day; hence he takes occaſion to laugh at their fooliſh diligence, and the haſte they made in the work.

Ver. 5. Let not their ſin be blotted out.] Theſe words, if taken in a literal ſenſe, ſeem as if he prayed, that their ſins might never be forgiven; but it ſhould be remembered, that he ſpoke by the ſpirit of prophecy, foreſeeing, that from their malicious and implacable ſpirit againſt God and his people, they would never be capable of his mercy, but at laſt be utterly deſtroyed.

Ver. 12. Ten times.] That is, a great many times, often, repeating it.

From all places whence ye ſhall return unto us, they will be upon you.] The laſt words of this ſentence, they will be upon you, are not in the Hebrew, and ſerve to obſcure the paſſage. The ſenſe is, that ſeveral Jews who reſided near the enemy, having diſcovered their deſigns, informed their brethren of the different ſtratagems they had formed for oppoſing them: if any words are added, they ſhould be, they informed us of our danger.

Before Chriſt 445. held both the ſpears, the ſhields, and the bows, and the habergions; and the rulers were behind all the houſe of Judah.

17 They which builded on the wall, and they that bare burdens, with thoſe that laded, every one with one of his hands wrought in the work, and with the other hand held a weapon.

18 For the builders, every one had his ſword girded by his ſide, and ſo builded: and he that ſounded the trumpet was by me.

19 ¶ And I ſaid unto the nobles, and to the rulers, and to the reſt of the people, The work is great and large, and we are ſeparated upon the wall, one far from another.

20 In what place therefore ye hear the ſound of the trumpet, reſort ye thither unto us: our God ſhall fight for us.

21 So we laboured in the work: and half of them held the ſpears, from the riſing of the morning, until the ſtars appeared.

22 Likewiſe at the ſame time ſaid I unto the people, Let every one with his ſervant lodge within Jeruſalem, that in the night they may be a guard to us, and labour on the day.

23 So neither I, nor my brethren, nor my ſervants, nor the men of the guard which followed me, none of us put off our clothes, ſaving that every one put them off for waſhing.

CHAP. V.

Before Chriſt 445. 1 The Jews complain of their debt, mortgage, and bondage. 6 Nehemiah rebuketh the uſurers, and cauſeth them to make a covenant of reſtitution: 14 He forbeareth his own allowance, and keepeth hoſpitality.

AND there was a great cry of the people, and of their wives, againſt their brethren the Jews.

2 For there were that ſaid, We, our ſons, and our daughters are many: therefore we take up corn for them, that we may eat, and live.

3 Some alſo there were that ſaid, We have mortgaged our lands, vineyards, and houſes, that we might buy corn, becauſe of the dearth.

4 There were alſo that ſaid, We have borrowed money for the kings tribute, and that upon our lands and vineyards.

5 Yet now our fleſh is as the fleſh of our brethren, our children as their children: and lo, we bring into bondage our ſons and our daughters to be ſervants, and ſome of our daughters are brought unto bondage already, neither is it in our power to redeem them: for other men have our lands and vineyards.

6 ¶ And I was very angry when I heard their cry, and theſe words.

7 Then I conſulted with myſelf, and I rebuked the nobles, and the rulers, and ſaid unto them, You exact uſury, every one

---

Ver. 17. And with the other hand held a weapon.] This is a figurative ſpeech, and ſignifies, that they were well appointed, either to build or fight; it being impoſſible for them to work, if both their hands had not been at liberty; and that every one had his ſword girded by his ſide, and ſo builded, the very next verſe informs us.

NOTES on Chap. V.

Ver. 1. There was a great cry of the people againſt their brethren.] It was the poor who made theſe grievous complaints againſt the rich, for taking the advantage of their neceſſities, and exacting uſury. This oppreſſion reduced them to ſuch a degree, that they were obliged to mortgage their lands, houſes, and even to ſell their children, to enable them to buy bread for their ſupport. What increaſed the cruelty of this exaction was, that it was made at a time when their enemies threatened to deſtroy them all; ſo that they were obliged to purchaſe corn at the unreaſonable rates demanded by their rich brethren, or periſh with hunger.

Ver. 3. Becauſe of the dearth.] There had been a great ſcarcity not long before this, for want of rain, and during this diſtreſs, the rich had obliged their brethren to part with all they had. There was now another dearth, occaſioned by the multitudes of the people in the city; and their enemies hindering the country people from coming with proviſions, rendered their condition truly deplorable.

Before Chriſt 445. one of his brother. And I ſet a great aſſembly againſt them.

8 And I ſaid unto them, We, after our ability, have redeemed our brethren the Jews, which were ſold unto the heathen; and will you even ſell your brethren? or ſhall they be ſold unto us? Then held they their peace, and found nothing to anſwer.

9 Alſo I ſaid, It is not good that ye do: ought ye not to walk in the fear of our God, becauſe of the reproach of the heathen our enemies?

10 I likewiſe, and my brethren, and my ſervants, might exact of them money and corn: I pray you let us leave off this uſury.

11 Reſtore, I pray you, to them, even this day, their lands, their vineyards, their olive-yards, and their houſes, alſo the hundredth part of the money, and of the corn, the wine, and the oil, that ye exact of them.

12 Then ſaid they, We will reſtore them, and will require nothing of them; ſo will we do as thou ſayeſt. Then I called the prieſts, and took an oath of them, that they ſhould do according to this promiſe.

13 Alſo I ſhook my lap, and ſaid, So God ſhake out every man from his houſe, and from his labour, that performeth not this promiſe, even thus be he ſhaken out, and emptied. And all the congregation ſaid, Amen, and praiſed the LORD. And the people did according to this promiſe. Before Chriſt 445.

14 ¶ Moreover, from the time that I was appointed to be their governor in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year, even unto the two and thirtieth year of Artaxerxes the king, that is, twelve years, I and my brethren have not eaten the bread of the governor.

15 But the former governors that had been before me, were chargeable unto the people, and had taken of them bread and wine, beſides forty ſhekles of ſilver, yea, even their ſervants bare rule over the people: but ſo did not I, becauſe of the fear of God.

16 Yea, alſo I continued in the work of this wall, neither bought we any land: and all my ſervants were gathered thither unto the work.

17 Moreover, there were at my table an hundred and fifty of the Jews and rulers, beſides thoſe that came unto us from among the heathen that are about us.

18 Now that which was prepared for me daily, was one ox, and ſix choice ſheep; alſo fowls were prepared for me; and once in ten days, ſtore of all ſorts of wine: yet for all this required not I the bread of the governor, becauſe the bondage was heavy upon this people.

19 Think upon me, my God, for good,

Ver. 8. They held their peace, and found nothing to anſwer.] Well knowing, that there was an expreſs law of God againſt them, Deut. xxiii. 19. they were ſilent, being neither able to deny the fact, nor to juſtify it.

Ver. 11. The hundredth part of the money, &c.] The uſury they exacted was one per cent. for every month; or twelve per cent. for the year. Such was the exorbitant uſury, demanded afterwards by the Romans, as Salmaſius has obſerved.

Ver. 13. I ſhook my lap.] By an external ſign (as was the manner of the prophets) he predicted their poverty.

Ver. 14. I and my brethren have not eaten the bread of the governor.] That is, we have not made uſe of the allowances made for the governors, appointed by the king of Perſia, to provide them a table. He refuſed this juſt maintenance (becauſe he ſaw it would be burthenſome to his countrymen) living upon his own eſtate in Judea, and the ſalary he had from the king of Perſia, as his cupbearer.

Ver. 15. So did not I, becauſe of the fear of God.] That is, he did not do this through oſtenſtation, but out of a ſincere love to God and his country; for he eſteemed religion far above riches. The laws of God were dearer to him than thouſands of gold and ſilver.

Ver. 16. Neither bought we any land.] Which they might have done of the poor, at an eaſy price; but they would not make any advantage of the neceſſities of others.

Ver. 19. Think upon me, my God, for good, &c.] He expected his reward from God, who, he hoped, would ſhew him the ſame kindneſs he had done for his people.

according to all that I have done for this people.

CHAP. VI.

1 Sanballat practiſeth by craft, by rumours, by hired prophecies, to terrify Nehemiah. 15 The work is finiſhed to the terror of the enemies.

NOW it came to paſs, when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and Geſhem the Arabian, and the reſt of our enemies heard that I had builded the wall, and that there was no breach left therein; (though at at that time I had not ſet up the doors upon the gates)

2 That Sanballat, and Geſhem ſent unto me, ſaying, Come, let us meet together in ſome one of the villages in the plain of Ono: but they thought to do me miſchief.

3 And I ſent meſſengers unto them, ſaying, I am doing a great work, ſo that I cannot come down: why ſhould the work ceaſe, whilſt I leave it and come down to you?

4 Yet they ſent unto me four times after this ſort; and I anſwered them after the ſame manner.

5 Then ſent Sanballat his ſervant unto me in like manner, the fifth time, with an open letter in his hand:

6 Wherein was written; It is reported among the heathen, and Gaſhmu ſaith it, that thou and the Jews think to rebel: for which cauſe thou buildeſt the wall, that thou mayeſt be their king, according to theſe words.

Before Christ 445.

7 And thou haſt alſo appointed prophets to preach of thee at Jeruſalem, ſaying, There is a king in Judah: and now ſhall it be reported to the king, according to theſe words. Come now therefore, and let us take counſel together.

8 Then I ſent unto him, ſaying, There are no ſuch things done as thou ſayeſt, but thou feigneſt them out of thine own heart.

9 For they all made us afraid, ſaying, Their hands ſhall be weakened from the work, that it be not done. Now therefore, O God, ſtrengthen my hands.

10 Afterward I came unto the houſe of Shemaiah the ſon of Delaiah, the ſon of Mehetabeel, who was ſhut up; and he ſaid, Let us meet together in the houſe of God, within the temple, and let us ſhut the doors of the temple; for they will come to ſlay thee, yea, in the night will they come to ſlay thee.

11 And I ſaid, Should ſuch a man as I flee? and who is there that being as I am, would go into the temple to ſave his life? I will not go in.

12 And lo, I perceived that God had not ſent him, but that he pronounced this prophecy againſt me: for Tobiah and Sanballat had hired him.

13 Therefore was he hired, that I ſhould be afraid, and do ſo, and ſin, and that

NOTES on Chap. VI.

Ver. 6. And Gaſhmu ſaith it.] This is, probably the ſame with Geſhem, mentioned ver. 1. who undertakes to prove it.

Ver. 10. Shemaiah.] Who was a prophet, whom Nehemiah probably took for his friend.

Let us meet together in the houſe of God, within the temple.] That is, in the ſanctuary; and whither he adviſed Nehemiah to retreat; but his real deſign was not only to diſgrace him, and diſhearten the people, when they ſaw the cowardice of their governor, but alſo to prepare the way for the enemies aſſaulting and taking the city, when there were none to defend the walls; and probably, to deſtroy Nehemiah, or ſecure his perſon, till the city was betrayed into the hands of the enemy.

Ver. 11. Should ſuch a man as I flee?] Shall I, the chief governor, upon whoſe preſence, counſel, and conduct, the ſafety of the city and nation in a great meaſure depends; who have profeſſed ſuch confidence in God; who have had ſuch eminent experience of his powerful aſſiſtance, when the danger was much greater than now: ſhall I diſhonour God and religion, and betray the city and people by my cowardice?

that they might have matter for an evil report, that they might reproach me.

14 My God, think thou upon Tobiah and Sanballat, according to theſe their works, and on the propheteſs Noadiah, and the reſt of the prophets, that would have put me in fear.

15 ¶ So the wall was finiſhed, in the twenty and fifth day of the month Elul, in fifty and two days.

16 And it came to paſs that when all our enemies heard thereof, and all the heathen that were about us ſaw theſe things, they were much caſt down in their own eyes: for they perceived that this work was wrought of our God.

17 ¶ Moreover, in thoſe days the nobles of Judah ſent many letters unto Tobiah, and the letters of Tobiah came unto them.

18 For there were many in Judah ſworn unto him, becauſe he was the ſon in law of Shechaniah the ſon of Arah; and his ſon Johanan had taken the daughter of Meſhullam, the ſon of Berechiah.

19 Alſo they reported his good deeds before me, and uttered my words to him: and Tobiah ſent letters to put me in fear.

1 Nehemiah committeth the charge of Jeruſalem to Hanani and Hananiah. 5 A regiſter of the genealogy of them which came at the firſt out of Babylon, 8 of the people, 39 of the prieſts, 43 of the Levites, 46 of the Nethinims, 57 of Solomons ſervants, 63 and of the prieſts which could not find their pedigree.

Before Chriſt 445.

NOW it came to paſs when the wall was built, and I had ſet up the doors, and the porters and the ſingers, and the Levites were appointed,

2 That I gave my brother Hanani, and Hananiah the ruler of the palace, charge over Jeruſalem: (for he was a faithful man, and feared God above many)

3 And I ſaid unto them, Let not the gates of Jeruſalem be opened until the ſun be hot; and while they ſtand by, let them ſhut the doors, and bar them: and appoint watches of the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, every one in his watch, and every one to be over againſt his houſe.

4 Now the city was large and great: but the people were few therein, and the houſes were not builded.

5 ¶ And my God put into mine heart, to gather together the nobles, and the rulers, and the people, that they might be reckoned by genealogy: and I found a regiſter of the genealogy of them which came up at

Ver. 15. The wall was finiſhed—in fifty and two days.] This diſpatch may ſeem incredible, if we did not reflect, what a prodigious number of people voluntarily engaged in this work, and how full of zeal they were; and further, that the foundation of the wall was not deſtroyed by the Chaldeans; and that there were ſome pieces of it ſtanding, and only great breaches made in it. Hiſtory acquaints us with inſtances of the like diligence, particularly, Alexander the Great, is ſaid to have built the walls of Alexandria, which was ſeven miles in compaſs, in the ſpace of twenty days.

Notes on Chap. VII.

Ver. 2. I gave my brother Hanani, &c.] Nehemiah, very likely, was now returning to Shuſhan, to give the king an account of the ſtate of affairs in Judea; and therefore was particularly careful, to place ſuch men in the city, as he knew would execute the truſt repoſed in them, with the ſtricteſt fidelity. Hanani had given proof of his zeal for God and his country, in taking a journey from Judea to Shuſhan, to inform Nehemiah of the wretched ſtate of Jeruſalem, and to implore his aſſiſtance to relieve it. See chap. i. The reaſon why Nehemiah put ſuch truſt and confidence in Hananiah was, becauſe he was a man of conſcience, and acted on religious principles; which would render him proof againſt all temptations, which the enemy, during his abſence, might throw in his way.

Ver. 4. The people were few therein.] The generality choſe to reſide in the country, which was more ſuited to their genius and manner of life, as paſtors and huſbandmen; and many were terrified from coming to live at Jeruſalem, thinking themſelves ſafer in the country, where their enemies had no pretence to diſturb them.

Ver. 5. My God, put into mine heart to gather the nobles, &c.] Well would it be for us, if, like the pious Nehemiah, we had God always in our thoughts (as without his aſſiſtance we can do nothing) and aſcribed to him every good motion of our mind.

60 All the Nethinims, and the children of Solomons ſervants, were three hundred ninety and two.

73 So the prieſts, and the Levites, and the porters, and the ſingers, and ſome of the people, and the Nethinims, and all Iſrael, dwelt in their cities; and when the ſeventh month came, the children of Iſrael were in their cities.

1 The religious manner of reading and hearing the law. 9 They comfort the people. 13 The forwardneſs of them to hear, and be inſtructed. 16 They keep the feaſt of tabernacles.

AND all the people gathered themſelves together as one man, into the ſtreet that was before the water-gate, and they ſpake unto Ezra the ſcribe, to bring the book of the law of Moſes, which the LORD had commanded to Iſrael.

2 And Ezra the ſcribe brought the law before the congregation, both of men and women, and all that could hear with underſtanding, upon the firſt day of the ſeventh month.

Before Christ 445. 3 And he read therein before the ſtreet that was before the water-gate, from the morning until mid-day, before the men and the women, and thoſe that could underſtand; and the ears of all the people were attentive unto the book of the law.

4 And Ezra the ſcribe ſtood upon a pulpit of wood, which they had made for the purpoſe, and beſide him ſtood Mattithiah, and Shema, and Anaiah, and Urijah, and Hilkiah, and Maaſeiah, on his right hand; and on his left hand, Pedaiah, and Miſhael, and Malchijah, and Haſhum, and Haſhbadana, Zechariah, and Meſhullam.

5 And Ezra opened the book in the ſight of all the people (for he was above all the people) and when he opened it, all the people ſtood up:

6 And Ezra bleſſed the LORD the great God: and all the people anſwered, Amen, amen, with lifting up their hands: and they bowed their heads, and worſhipped the LORD with their faces to the ground.

7 Alſo Jeſhua, and Bani, and Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodijah, Maaſeiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, and the Levites cauſed the people to underſtand the law: and the people ſtood in their place.

8 So they read in the book, in the law of God diſtinctly, and gave the ſenſe, and cauſed them to underſtand the reading.

NOTES on Chap. VIII.

Ver. 1. All the people gathered themſelves together.] This was the firſt great feaſt after the walls of Jeruſalem were finiſhed.

They ſpake unto Ezra the ſcribe.] The ſame Ezra, no doubt, who came from Babylon in the ſeventh year of Artaxerxes, with a full commiſſion to Jeruſalem, to aſſiſt Zerubbabel in the reformation of the whole ſtate of the Jewiſh church. After the death of Zerubbabel, the whole adminiſtration devolved upon him; but as his commiſſion laſted but for twelve years, upon its expiration, Nehemiah ſucceeded to the government; and we hear no more of Ezra, until he is here called upon to read and expound the law to the people.

Ver. 2. Ezra brought the law before, &c.] It is plain, from hence, that what the author of the ſecond book of Eſdras xiv. 21. ſays, that all the copies of the holy books had been burnt with the temple, is an apocryphal ſtory.

Ver. 8. Cauſed the people to underſtand the reading.] The Iſraelites, during their long captivity, being uſed to the Chaldee,

Before Christ 445.

9 ¶ And Nehemiah which is the Tirſhatha, and Ezra the prieſt the ſcribe, and the Levites that taught the people, ſaid unto all the people, This day is holy unto the LORD your God, mourn not, nor weep: for all the people wept, when they heard the words of the law.

10 Then he ſaid unto them, Go your way, eat the fat, and drink the ſweet, and ſend portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared: for this day is holy unto our Lord: neither be ye ſorry, for the joy of our LORD is your ſtrength.

11 So the Levites ſtilled all the people, ſaying, Hold your peace, for the day is holy, neither be grieved.

12 And all the people went their way to eat, and to drink, and to ſend portions, and to make great mirth, becauſe they had underſtood the words that were declared unto them.

13 ¶ And on the ſecond day were gathered together the chief of the fathers of all the people, the prieſts and the Levites, unto Ezra the ſcribe, even to underſtand the words of the law.

14 And they found written in the law which the LORD had commanded by Moſes, that the children of Iſrael ſhould dwell in booths, in the feaſt of the ſeventh month:

15 And that they ſhould publiſh and proclaim in all their cities, and in Jeruſalem, ſaying, Go forth unto the mount, and fetch olive-branches, and pine-branches and myrtle-branches, and palm-branches, and branches of thick trees, to make booths, as it is written.

Before Christ 445.

16 ¶ So the people went forth, and brought them, and made themſelves booths, every one upon the roof of his houſe, and in their courts, and in the courts of the houſe of God, and in the ſtreet of the water-gate, and in the ſtreet of the gate of Ephraim.

17 And all the congregation of them that were come again out of the captivity, made booths, and ſat under the booths: for ſince the days of Jeſhua the ſon of Nun, unto that day, had not the children of Iſrael done ſo: and there was very great gladneſs.

18 Alſo day by day, from the firſt day unto the laſt day, he read in the book of the law of God: and they kept the feaſt ſeven days, and on the eighth day was a ſolemn aſſembly, according unto the manner.

Ver. 10. This day is holy, &c.] This was the firſt new-moon in the year, and the feaſt of blowing with trumpets. See Lev. xxiii.

Ver. 17. Since the days of Jeſhua, &c.] That is, the joy ſince that time, had never been ſo great as upon this occaſion; in the days of Joſhua they rejoiced, becauſe they had got poſſeſſion of the land of Canaan; and now they rejoiced for being again ſettled in it, after ſo long a captivity.

4 ¶ Then ſtood up upon the ſtairs of the Levites, Jeſhua and Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani, and cried with a loud voice unto the LORD their God.

5 Then the Levites, Jeſhua and Kadmiel, Bani, Haſhabniah, Sherebiah, Hodijah, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah, ſaid, Stand up and bleſs the LORD your God for ever and ever; and bleſſed be thy glorious name, which is exalted above all bleſſing and praiſe.

6 Thou, even thou art LORD alone, thou haſt made heaven, the heaven of heavens with all their hoſt, the earth and all things that are therein, the ſeas and all that is therein, and thou preſerveſt them all, and the hoſt of heaven worſhippeth thee.

7 Thou art the LORD the God, who didſt chooſe Abram, and broughteſt him forth out of Ur of the Chaldees, and gaveſt him the name of Abraham:

8 And foundeſt his heart faithful before thee, and madeſt a covenant with him, to give the land of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Jebuſites, and the Girgaſhites, to give it, I ſay, to his ſeed, and haſt performed thy words, for thou art righteous:

9 And didſt ſee the afflictions of our fathers in Egypt, and heardeſt their cry by the Red ſea:

10 And ſhewedſt ſigns and wonders upon Pharaoh, and on all his ſervants, and on all the people of his land: for thou kneweſt that they dealt proudly againſt them: ſo didſt thou get thee a name, as it is this day.

11 And thou didſt divide the ſea before them, ſo that they went through the midſt of the ſea on the dry land, and their perſecutors thou threweſt into the deeps, as a ſtone into the mighty waters.

12 Moreover, thou leddeſt them in the day by a cloudy pillar; and in the night by a pillar of fire, to give them light in the way wherein they ſhould go.

13 Thou cameſt down alſo upon mount Sinai, and ſpakeſt with them from heaven, and gaveſt them right judgments, and true laws, good ſtatutes and commandments:

14 And madeſt known unto them thy holy ſabbath, and commandedſt them precepts, ſtatutes, and laws, by the hand of Moſes thy ſervant:

15 And gaveſt them bread from heaven, for their hunger, and broughteſt forth water for them out of the rock, for their thirſt, and promiſedſt them that they ſhould go in to poſſeſs the land, which thou hadſt ſworn to give them.

16 But they and our fathers dealt proudly, and hardened their necks, and hearkened not to thy commandments,

17 And refuſed to obey, neither were mindful of thy wonders that thou didſt among them: but hardened their necks, and in their rebellion appointed a captain to return to their bondage: but thou art a God ready to pardon, gracious and merciful, ſlow to anger, and of great kindneſs, and forſookeſt them not.

brought thee up out of Egypt, and had wrought great provocations:

19 Yet thou in thy manifold mercies, forſookeſt them not in the wilderneſs: the pillar of the cloud departed not from them by day, to lead them in the way; neither the pillar of fire by night, to ſhew them light, and the way wherein they ſhould go.

20 Thou gaveſt alſo thy good ſpirit, to inſtruct them, and withheldeſt not thy manna from their mouth, and gaveſt them water for their thirſt.

21 Yea, forty years didſt thou ſuſtain them in the wilderneſs, ſo that they lacked nothing; their clothes waxed not old, and their feet ſwelled not.

22 Moreover, thou gaveſt them kingdoms and nations, and didſt divide them into corners: ſo they poſſeſſed the land of Sihon, and the land of the king of Heſhbon, and the land of Og king of Baſhan.

23 Their children alſo multipliedſt thou as the ſtars of heaven, and broughteſt them into the land, concerning which thou hadſt promiſed to their fathers, that they ſhould go in to poſſeſs it.

24 So the children went in and poſſeſſed the land, and thou ſubduedſt before them the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, and gaveſt them into their hands, with their kings, and the people of the land, that they might do with them as they would.

25 And they took ſtrong cities, and a fat land, and poſſeſſed houſes full of all goods, wells digged, vineyards and olive-yards, and fruit-trees in abundance: ſo they did eat, and were filled, and became fat, and delighted themſelves in thy great goodneſs.

Before Chriſt 445.

26 Nevertheleſs, they were diſobedient, and rebelled againſt thee, and caſt thy law behind their backs, and ſlew thy prophets which teſtified againſt them to turn them to thee, and they wrought great provocations.

27 Therefore thou deliveredſt them into the hand of their enemies, who vexed them: and in the time of their trouble when they cried unto thee, thou heardeſt them from heaven; and according to thy manifold mercies, thou gaveſt them ſaviours, who ſaved them out of the hand of their enemies.

28 But after they had reſt, they did evil again before thee: therefore lefteſt thou them in the hand of their enemies, ſo that they had dominion over them: yet when they returned, and cried unto thee, thou heardeſt them from heaven, and many times didſt thou deliver them, according to thy mercies:

29 And teſtifiedſt againſt them, that thou mighteſt bring them again unto thy law: yet they dealt proudly, and hearkened not unto thy commandments, but ſinned againſt thy judgments (which if a man do, he ſhall live in them) and withdrew the ſhoulder, and hardened their neck, and would not hear.

30 Yet many years didſt thou forbear them, and teſtifiedſt againſt them by thy ſpirit in thy prophets: yet would they not give ear: therefore gaveſt thou them into the hand of the people of the lands.

Ver. 20. Thou gaveſt alſo thy good ſpirit.] The ſpirit of God, which reſted upon Moſes, God imparted to ſeventy other perſons, that they might be better governed, Numb. xi. 16, 17.

Ver. 22. Didſt divide them into corners.] This probably relates to the inhabitants of Canaan, whom the Iſraelites diſpoſſeſſed, and drove them into corners: and in ſome old tranſlations of the bible, it is rendered, and ſcattered them into corners.

The land of Sihon, and the land of the king of Heſhbon.] Or rather, The land of Sihon, even the land of the king of Heſhbon. Heſhbon was the capital city of the kingdom of Sihon.

Ver. 29. Which if a man do, he ſhall live in them.] That is, ſhall be an happy man.

Before Christ 445.

31 Nevertheleſs, for thy great mercies ſake, thou didſt not utterly conſume them, nor forſake them; for thou art a gracious and merciful God.

32 Now therefore our God, the great, the mighty, and the terrible God, who keepeſt covenant and mercy; let not all the trouble ſeem little before thee that hath come upon us, on our kings, on our princes, and on our prieſts, and on our prophets, and on our fathers, and on all thy people, ſince the time of the kings of Aſſyria unto this day.

33 Howbeit, thou art juſt in all that is brought upon us; for thou haſt done right, but we have done wickedly:

34 Neither have our kings, our princes, our prieſts, nor our fathers kept thy law, nor hearkened unto thy commandments, and thy teſtimonies wherewith thou didſt teſtify againſt them.

35 For they have not ſerved thee in their kingdom, and in thy great goodneſs that thou gaveſt them, and in the large and fat land which thou gaveſt before them, neither turned they from their wicked works.

36 Behold, we are ſervants this day, and for the land that thou gaveſt unto our fathers, to eat the fruit thereof, and the good thereof, behold, we are ſervants in it.

37 And it yieldeth much increaſe unto the kings whom thou haſt ſet over us becauſe of our ſins: alſo they have dominion over our bodies, and over our cattle, at their pleaſure, and we are in great diſtreſs.

38 And becauſe of all this, we make a ſure covenant, and write it; and our princes, Levites, and prieſts ſeal unto it.

It was, however, very uſeful, that there ſhould be a public inſtrument, to convince them of their impiety, that they might be publicly confounded, when they perfidiouſly refuſed to obey the precepts of the law, by ſhewing them under their own hands, their engagements to future fidelity.

Ver. 28. The reſt of the people, &c.] There being too many to ſubſcribe and ſeal the writing, the principals did it in the name of the reſt, who all unanimouſly declared, that they looked upon it as their own act, and gave their full conſent to what was done.

Ver. 30. That we would not give our daughters unto the people of the land, &c.] From this, and the three following verſes, it is plain, that the principal articles they obliged themſelves to obſerve, by this covenant, were, 1ſt, Not to make intermarriages with the Gentiles. 2d, To obſerve the Sabbath and ſabbatical years. 3d, To pay their annual tribute for the reparation of the temple. And, 4thly, To pay their tithes and firſt-fruits, for the maintainance of the prieſts and Levites. And hence we may learn, that theſe laws had been chiefly neglected, ſince their return from the captivity.

Ver. 31. We would not buy it of them on the ſabbath.] The Jews, being no more than ſubjects and ſervants, could not hinder their heathen neighbours from bringing their wares on the Sabbath-day into Jeruſalem; they therefore reſolved, and confirmed it by oath, that they would buy no more. However, it is remarkable, that notwithſtanding this reſolution and ſacred engagement, they very ſoon broke it. See chap. xiii. 15.

Ver. 33. For the ſhew-bread, &c.] Theſe things were formerly ſupplied out of the treaſury; but that being now exhauſted, they made this oblation, for things neceſſary for the ſervice of God.

38 And the prieſt the ſon of Aaron, ſhall be with the Levites, when the Levites take tithes: and the Levites ſhall bring up the tithe of the tithes unto the houſe of our God, to the chambers, into the treaſure-houſe.

39 For the children of Iſrael, and the children of Levi, ſhall bring the offering of the corn, of the new wine, and the oil, unto the chambers, where are the veſſels of the ſanctuary, and the prieſts that miniſter, and the porters, and the ſingers: and we will not forſake the houſe of our God.

Notes on Chap. XII.

Ver. 11. Jaddua.] This is the ſame perſon who went to meet Alexander the Great, in his pontifical habit, as he came to Jeruſalem from the conqueſt of Tyre and Gaza, and procured great privileges for the Jewiſh nation.

Ver. 27. At the dedication of the wall of Jeruſalem.] As Moſes dedicated the tabernacle in the wilderneſs, and Solomon the houſe of the Lord, when it was firſt built; ſo Nehemiah, having put all things in good order, dedicated the city, as a place which God himſelf had choſen, and reſtored it to him again, after it had been profaned by the devaſtations of the heathen.

Before Christ 445.

for the ſingers had builded them villages round about Jeruſalem.

30 And the prieſts and the Levites purified themſelves, and purified the people, and the gates, and the wall.

31 Then I brought up the princes of Judah upon the wall, and appointed two great companies of them that gave thanks, whereof one went on the right hand upon the wall toward the dung-gate:

32 And after them went Hoſhaiah, and half of the princes of Judah,

33 And Azariah, Ezra, and Meſhullam,

34 Judah, and Benjamin, and Shemaiah, and Jeremiah,

35 And certain of the prieſts ſons with trumpets: namely, Zechariah the ſon of Jonathan, the ſon of Shemaiah, the ſon of Mattaniah, the ſon of Michaiah, the ſon of Zaccur, the ſon of Aſaph:

36 And his brethren, Shemaiah, and Azarael, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethaneel, and Judah, Hanani, with the muſical inſtruments of David the man of God, and Ezra the ſcribe before them.

37 And at the fountain-gate, which was over againſt them, they went up by the ſtairs of the city of David, at the going up of the wall, above the houſe of David, even unto the water-gate eaſtward.

38 And the other company of them that gave thanks, went over againſt them, and I after them, and the half of the people upon the wall, from beyond the tower of the furnaces, even unto the broad wall:

39 And from above the gate of Ephraim, and above the old gate, and above the fiſh-gate, and the tower of Hananeel, and the tower of Meah, even unto the ſheep-gate; and they ſtood ſtill in the priſon-gate.

Before Christ 445.

40 So ſtood the two companies of them that gave thanks in the houſe of God, and I, and the half of the rulers with me:

41 And the prieſts; Eliakim, Maaſeiah, Miniamin, Michaia, Elioenai, Zechariah, and Hananiah with trumpets:

42 And Maaſeiah, and Shemaiah, and Eleazar, and Uzzi, and Jehohanan, and Malchijah, and Elam, and Ezer: and the ſingers ſang loud, with Jezrahiah their overſeer.

43 Alſo that day they offered great ſacrifices, and rejoiced; for God had made them rejoice with great joy; the wives alſo and the children rejoiced: ſo that the joy of Jeruſalem was heard even afar off.

44 ¶ And at that time were ſome appointed over the chambers for the treaſures, for the offerings, for the firſt-fruits, and for the tithes, to gather into them out of the fields of the cities the portions of the law for the prieſts and Levites: for Judah rejoiced for the prieſts and for the Levites that waited.

45 And both the ſingers and the porters kept the ward of their God, and the ward of the purification, according to the commandment of David, and of Solomon his ſon.

46 For in the days of David and Aſaph, of old there were chief of the ſingers, and ſongs of praiſe and thankſgiving unto God.

47 And all Iſrael in the days of Zerubbabel,

Ver. 31. I brought up the princes of Judah upon the wall, &c.] He ſeparated the prieſts, the Levites, and the princes of the people, into two companies; one of which walked to the right-hand, and the other to the left, on the top of the walls; the two companies met in the temple, and there they ſtood ſtill, and completed their thankſgivings with ſacrifices.

Ver. 43. The joy of Jeruſalem was heard even afar off.] That is, the report of it was ſpread into far diſtant countries.

Ver. 45. The ſingers and the porters kept the ward of their God.] That is, The former ſung orderly in their courſes, and praiſed God; and the latter, duly obſerved the orders about purification, in not ſuffering any unclean perſon or thing to come into the houſe of God.

babel, and in the days of Nehemiah, gave the portions of the ſingers, and the porters, every day his portion, and they ſanctified holy things unto the Levites, and the Levites ſanctified them unto the children of Aaron.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Upon the reading of the law, ſeparation is made from the mixed multitude. 4 Nehemiah at his return cauſeth the chambers to be cleanſed: 10 He reformeth the offices in the houſe of God, 15 the violation of the ſabbath, 23 and the marriages with ſtrange wives.

ON that day they read in the book of Moſes in the audience of the people; and therein was found written, that the Ammonite and the Moabite ſhould not come into the congregation of God for ever;

2 Becauſe they met not the children of Iſrael with bread and with water, but hired Baalim againſt them, that he ſhould curſe them: howbeit our God turned the curſe into a bleſſing.

3 Now it came to paſs when they had heard the law, that they ſeparated from Iſrael all the mixed multitude.

4 ¶ And before this, Eliaſhib the prieſt, having the overſight of the chamber of the houſe of our God, was allied unto Tobiah:

5 And he prepared for him a great chamber, where aforetime they laid the meat-offerings, the frankincenſe, and the veſſels, and the tithes of the corn, the new wine, and the oil, (which was commanded to be given to the Levites, and the ſingers, and the porters) and the offerings of the prieſts.

6 But in all this time was not I at Jeruſalem: for in the two and thirtieth year of Artaxerxes king of Babylon, came I 434. unto the king, and after certain days obtained I leave of the king:

7 And I came to Jeruſalem, and underſtood of the evil that Eliaſhib did for Tobiah, in preparing him a chamber in the courts of the houſe of God.

8 And it grieved me ſore, therefore I caſt forth all the houſhold-ſtuff of Tobiah out of the chamber.

9 Then I commanded, and they cleanſed the chambers; and thither brought I again the veſſels of the houſe of God, with the meat-offering and the frankincenſe.

10 ¶ And I perceived that the portions of

Ver. 47. They ſanctified holy things unto the Levites, &c.] That is, the people ſet apart the tenth part of their harveſt, for the uſe of the Levites; and the Levites ſeparated from their tithes, the tenth part of them for the prieſts; according to the law of Moſes.

NOTES on Chap. XIII.

Ver. 1. On that day they read in the book of Moſes.] This happened not immediately after the dedication, but ſome time after Nehemiah was returned from Perſia; for it cannot be ſuppoſed, that the people, who were ſo well affected to the miniſters of religion, ſhould ſo ſoon forget and neglect them.

Should not come into the congregation of God.] By the congregation of God, is not here meant, the public aſſemblies for divine worſhip; for men of all nations, if willing to become proſelytes, were admitted into the Jewiſh communion; but it means a prohibition of marriage; for, according to the Rabbins, none of the houſe of Iſrael, of either ſex, were to contract marriage with any Gentiles, unleſs firſt converted to their religion; and even in that caſe, ſome were debarred from it for ever; others in part; and others only for a limited time. Of the firſt ſort, were all the ſeven nations of the Canaanites, Deut. vii. Of the ſecond ſort, were the Moabites and the Ammonites, whoſe males were excluded for ever, but not their females: and of the third ſort, were the Edomites and Egyptians, with whom the Jews were not permitted to marry until the third generation; but with all others, they might freely make intermarriages, whenever they became thoroughly proſelyted to their religion.

Ver. 4. Eliaſhib the prieſt, having the overſight of the chamber of the houſe of our God.] The ſingular number is here put inſtead of the plural; for he had not the care of one chamber only, but of all the chambers. It is moſt probable, that this Eliaſhib, (for there were ſeveral of the name) who was the author of the following profanation of the houſe of God, was the high-prieſt: but he might die before Nehemiah returned from Babylon; for we hear nothing of the governors reprehending him for it, which he doubtleſs would otherwiſe have done.

Ver. 6. All this time was not I at Jeruſalem.] He was, during this time, retired to the court of Perſia.

Before Christ 434. of the Levites had not been given them: for the Levites and the ſingers that did the work, were fled every one to his field.

11 Then contended I with the rulers, and ſaid, Why is this houſe of God forſaken? And I gathered them together, and ſet them in their place.

12 Then brought all Judah the tithe of the corn, and the new wine, and the oil, unto the treaſuries.

13 And I made treaſurers over the treaſuries, Shelemiah the prieſt, and Zadok the ſcribe, and of the Levites, Pedaiah: and next to them was Hanan the ſon of Zaccur, the ſon of Mattaniah: for they were counted faithful, and their office was to diſtribute unto their brethren.

14 Remember me, O my God, concerning this, and wipe not out my good deeds that I have done for the houſe of my God, and for the offices thereof.

15 ¶ In thoſe days ſaw I in Judah ſome treading wine-preſſes on the ſabbath, and bringing in ſheaves, and lading aſſes; as alſo wine, grapes, and figs, and all manner of burdens, which they brought into Jeruſalem on the ſabbath-day: and I teſtified againſt them in the day wherein they ſold victuals.

16 There dwelt men of Tyre alſo therein, which brought fiſh, and all manner of ware, and ſold on the ſabbath unto the children of Judah, and in Jeruſalem.

17 Then I contended with the nobles of Judah, and ſaid unto them, What evil thing is this that ye do, and profane the ſabbath-day?

Before Christ 434. 18 Did not your fathers thus, and did not our God bring all this evil upon us, and upon this city? yet ye bring more wrath upon Iſrael by profaning the ſabbath.

19 And it came to paſs, that when the gates of Jeruſalem began to be dark before the ſabbath, I commanded that the gates ſhould be ſhut, and charged that they ſhould not be opened till after the ſabbath: and ſome of my ſervants ſet I at the gates, that there ſhould no burden be brought in on the ſabbath-day.

20 So the merchants, and ſellers of all kind of ware lodged without Jeruſalem once or twice.

21 Then I teſtified againſt them, and ſaid unto them, Why lodge ye about the wall? if ye do ſo again, I will lay hands on you. From that time forth came they no more on the ſabbath.

22 And I commanded the Levites, that they ſhould cleanſe themſelves, and that they ſhould come and keep the gates, to ſanctify the ſabbath-day: Remember me, O my God, concerning this alſo, and ſpare me according to the greatneſs of thy mercy.

23 ¶ In thoſe days alſo ſaw I Jews that had married wives of Aſhdod, of Ammon, and of Moab:

24 And their children ſpake half in the ſpeech of Aſhdod, and could not ſpeak in the Jews language, but according to the language of each people.

25 And I contended with them, and

Ver. 16. There dwelt men of Tyre alſo therein, which brought fiſh.] The city of Tyre was a place of great trade; and lying on the ſea, abounded with fiſh, which they brought from thence to Joppa, and from Joppa to Jeruſalem.

Ver. 19. When the gates of Jeruſalem began to be dark.] That is, When they who ſat there, could not ſee to do any thing; which was about ſun-ſet, the mountains about Jeruſalem intercepting the light there ſooner than in other places.

Ver. 22. I commanded the Levites that they ſhould cleanſe themſelves—and keep the gates, &c.] It was natural to think, that the Levites, by virtue of their character, would meet with more deference and reſpect than his domeſtic ſervants; he appointed them to this ſervice, that they might continue it, when he and his ſervants were gone to Jeruſalem.

Ver. 25. I contended with them.] I expoſtulated the matter with them.

Before Christ 434.

curſed them, and ſmote certain of them, and plucked off their hair, and made them ſwear by God, ſaying, Ye ſhall not give your daughters unto their ſons, nor take their daughters unto your ſons, or for yourſelves.

26 Did not Solomon king of Iſrael ſin by theſe things? yet among many nations was there no king like him, who was beloved of his God, and God made him king over all Iſrael; nevertheleſs, even him did outlandiſh women cauſe to ſin.

27 Shall we then hearken unto you to do all this great evil, to tranſgreſs againſt our God, in marrying ſtrange wives?

Before Christ 434.

28 And one of the ſons of Joiada, the ſon of Eliaſhib the high prieſt, was ſon in law to Sanballat the Horonite: therefore I chaſed him from me.

29 Remember them, O my God, becauſe they have defiled the prieſthood, and the covenant of the prieſthood, and of the Levites.

30 Thus cleanſed I them from all ſtrangers, and appointed the wards, of the prieſts and the Levites, every one in his buſineſs:

31 And for the wood-offering, at times appointed, and for the firſt-fruits, Remember me, O my God, for good.

I curſed them] I denounced God's judgments againſt them.

I ſmote certain of them.] I ordered the officers to ſcourge the moſt notorious offenders, according to Deut. xxv. 2.

I plucked off their hair.] I commanded them to be ſhaved, thereby to put them to ſhame, and making them look like vile ſlaves: it being a great diſgrace in thoſe eaſtern countries, where the hair was eſteemed a great ornament.

Ver. 28. I chaſed him from me.] That is, I baniſhed him from Judea.

Ver. 31. Remember me, O my God for good.] Hence we ſhould remember, that whatever good actions we may have done, it was not by our own power, but by the aſſiſtance of God; and therefore we ought, like the good Nehemiah, to recommend ourſelves, and all we have done, to his gracious favour and acceptance.

The End of the Book of NEHEMIAH.

The BOOK of ESTHER.

The ARGUMENT.

This book contains the hiſtory of Eſther, a Jewiſh captive virgin, who, for her extraordinary beauty, was advanced to the throne of Perſia, and by her intereſt with her royal huſband, procured to her countrymen a wonderful deliverance from Haman's intended maſſacre. Ezra, by many chriſtian fathers, was thought to be the author of this book; others think it was Mordecai: the Talmudiſts, with more probability, are of opinion, that the great ſynagogue (to perpetuate the memory of that remarkable event, and to account for the origin of the feaſt of Purim) ordered this book to be compoſed and approved of, and admitted it into the ſacred canon.

CHAP. I.

Ahaſuerus maketh royal feaſts.

Before Christ 521. NOW it came to paſs in the days of Ahaſuerus (this is Ahaſuerus which reigned from India even unto Ethiopia, over an hundred and ſeven and twenty provinces)

2 That in thoſe days, when the king Ahaſuerus ſat on the throne of his kingdom, which was in Shuſhan the palace, Before Chriſt 519.

3 In the third year of his reign, he made a feaſt unto all his princes, and his ſervants; the power of Perſia and Media, the nobles and princes of the provinces being before him.

4 When he ſhewed the riches of his glorious

NOTES on Chap. I.

Ver. 1. Ahaſuerus.] It is the general opinion, agreeable to Joſephus, that the Ahaſuerus of ſcripture, was the Artaxerxes Longimanus of profane hiſtory; and the Septuagint, throughout the book of Eſther, where Ahaſuerus is mentioned in the Hebrew text, tranſlate it Artaxerxes.

Ver. 2. When the king Ahaſuerus ſat on the throne of his kingdom.] Enjoying peace and tranquillity throughout his large dominions. The hiſtory of his acceſſion to the throne is this—Xerxes, his father, was privately murdered by Artabanes, captain of his guard, who inſtantly repaired to Ahaſuerus, the third ſon of Xerxes, and pretended, that Darius his eldeſt brother, had committed this parricide, in order to make his way to the throne, and glorious kingdom, and the honour of his excellent majeſty, many days, even an hundred and fourſcore days.

5 And when theſe days were expired, the king made a feaſt unto all the people that were preſent in Shuſhan the palace, both unto great and ſmall, ſeven days, in the court of the garden of the kings palace,

6 Where were white, green, and blue hangings, faſtened with cords of fine linen and purple, to ſilver rings, and pillars of marble: the beds were of gold, and ſilver, upon a pavement of red, and blue, and white, and black marble.

7 And they gave them drink in veſſels of gold, (the veſſels being divers one from another) and royal wine in abundance, according to the ſtate of the king.

8 And the drinking was according to the law, none did compel: for ſo the king had appointed to all the officers of his houſe, that they ſhould do according to every mans pleaſure.

9 Alſo Vaſhti the queen made a feaſt for the women, in the royal houſe which belonged to king Ahaſuerus.

10 ¶ On the ſeventh day, when the heart of the king was merry with wine, he commanded Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, and Abagtha, Zethar, and Carcas, the ſeven chamberlains that ſerved in the preſence of Ahaſuerus the king,

Before Christ 519.

11 To bring Vaſhti the queen before the king, with the crown royal, to ſhew the people and the princes her beauty: for ſhe was fair to look on.

12 But the queen Vaſhti refuſed to come at the kings commandment by his chamberlains: therefore was the king very wroth, and his anger burned in him.

13 ¶ Then the king ſaid to the wiſemen, which knew the times, (for ſo was the kings manner towards all that knew law and judgment:

14 And the next unto him was Carſhena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarſhiſh, Meres, Marſena, and Memucan, the ſeven princes of Perſia and Media, which ſaw the kings face, and which ſat firſt in the kingdom)

15 What ſhall we do unto the queen Vaſhti, according to law, becauſe ſhe hath not performed the commandment of the king Ahaſuerus, by the chamberlains?

16 And Memucan anſwered before the king, and the princes, Vaſhti the queen hath not done wrong to the king only, but alſo to all the princes, and to all the people and intended alſo to cut him off, to ſecure himſelf in the poſſeſſion of it. This Ahaſuerus believing, went immediately to his brother's apartment, and by the aſſiſtance of this wicked perſon, and his guards, ſlew him; thinking he only acted in his own defence. The deſign of Artabanes, was to uſurp the throne himſelf; but for the preſent, placed Ahaſuerus thereon, intending to depoſe him, as ſoon as matters were ripe for his own aſcent: but Magabyzus, who had married one of the ſiſters of Ahaſuerus, diſcovered to that monarch the whole plot; upon which Ahaſuerus cut off Artabanes and his whole party, before their treaſon was come to maturity; and it is very probable, that to celebrate his deliverance, he appointed the extraordinary feaſt, mentioned in the ſubſequent verſes.

Shuſhan the palace.] Cyrus, and the other Perſian monarchs, after they had conquered the Medes, whoſe country lay at a great diſtance, fixed their royal ſeat at Shuſhan, that they might not be too far from Babylon, and make it the capital of Perſia. It ſtood on the river Ulai, and was a place of great renown.

Ver. 6. The beds were of gold and ſilver.] Among the eaſterns, it was the cuſtom to ſit, or rather lay on beds or couches at their meat: the beds themſelves were of the ſofteſt wool; but the bedſteads were overlaid with plates of gold and ſilver.

Ver. 9. Vaſhti the queen.] It has been a great enquiry among the learned, who this Vaſhti was: but the queſtion is not of any great importance, as there is reaſon to think, that before her marriage, there had been ſuch a collection of virgins made for the king, as there was before that of Eſther; and having the good fortune then to obtain the preference in the king's eſteem, ſhe was created queen; and if this be granted, it may naturally be ſuppoſed, that being a woman of no high deſcent, her family might for that reaſon be concealed.

Made a feaſt for the women.] Who were always entertained ſeparately from the men.

Ver. 13. The king ſaid to the wiſe men.] That is, to the men who were well verſed in ancient hiſtories, (as Vitringa explains it) and in the laws and cuſtoms of their countries.

Before Chriſt 519. people that are in all the provinces of the king Ahaſuerus.

17 For this deed of the queen ſhall come abroad unto all women, ſo that they ſhall deſpiſe their huſbands in their eyes, when it ſhall be reported, The king Ahaſuerus commanded Vaſhti the queen to be brought in before him, but ſhe came not.

18 Likewiſe ſhall the ladies of Perſia and Media ſay this day unto all the kings princes, which have heard of the deed of the queen. Thus ſhall there ariſe too much contempt and wrath.

19 If it pleaſe the king, let there go a royal commandment from him, and let it be written among the laws of the Perſians and the Medes, that it be not altered, that Vaſhti come no more before king Ahaſuerus, and let the king give her royal eſtate unto another that is better than ſhe.

20 And when the kings decree which he ſhall make, ſhall be publiſhed throughout all his empire, (for it is great) all the wives ſhall give to their huſbands honour, both to great and ſmall.

21 And the ſaying pleaſed the king and the princes, and the king did according to the word of Memucan:

22 For he ſent letters into all the kings provinces, into every province according to the writing thereof, and to every people after their language, that every man ſhould bear rule in his own houſe, and that it ſhould be publiſhed according to the language of every people.

CHAP. II.

1 Out of the choice of virgins a queen is to be choſen. 8 Eſther is preferred by Hegai before the reſt. 12 The manner of purification, and going into the king. 15 Eſther beſt pleaſing the king, is made queen. 21 Mordecai diſcovering a treaſon, is recorded in the chronicles.

Before Chriſt 518. AFter theſe things, when the wrath of king Ahaſuerus was appeaſed, he remembered Vaſhti, and what ſhe had done, and what was decreed againſt her.

2 Then ſaid the kings ſervants, that miniſtered unto him, Let there be fair young virgins ſought for the king.

3 And let the king appoint officers in all the provinces of his kingdom, that they may gather together all the fair young virgins unto Shuſhan the palace, to the houſe of the women, unto the cuſtody of Hegai the kings chamberlain, keeper of the women, and let their things for purification be given them:

4 And let the maiden which pleaſeth the king, be queen inſtead of Vaſhti. And the thing pleaſed the king, and he did ſo.

5 ¶ Now in Shuſhan the palace, there was a certain Jew, whoſe name was Mordecai, the ſon of Jair, the ſon of Shimei, the ſon of Kiſh, a Benjamite:

6 Who had been carried away from Jeruſalem, with the captivity which had been carried away with Jeconiah king of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had carried away.

7 And he brought up Hadaſſah (that is Eſther) his uncles daughter, for ſhe had neither father nor mother, and the maid was fair and beautiful, whom Mordecai (when her father and mother were dead) took for his own daughter.

8 ¶ So it came to paſs, when the kings commandment and his decree was heard, and when many maidens were gathered together unto Shuſhan the palace, to the cuſtody of Hegai, that Eſther was brought

---

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 7. He brought up Hadaſſah (that is Eſther) his uncles daughter.] This woman was born in Babylon, and therefore, in analogy to that language, they gave her the name of Hadaſſah, which, in Chaldee, ſignifies a myrtle; but her Perſian name was Eſther, which ſome derive from the Greek word aſter, a ſtar.

Before Christ 518. alſo unto the kings houſe, to the cuſtody of Hegai keeper of the women.

9 And the maiden pleaſed him, and ſhe obtained kindneſs of him, and he ſpeedily gave her her things for purification, with ſuch things as belonged to her, and ſeven maidens, which were meet to be given her, out of the kings houſe, and he preferred her and her maids, unto the beſt place of the houſe of the women.

10 Eſther had not ſhewn her people, nor her kindred: for Mordecai had charged her, that ſhe ſhould not ſhew it.

11 And Mordecai walked every day before the court of the womens houſe, to know how Eſther did, and what ſhould become of her.

515. 12 ¶ Now when every maids turn was come to go in to king Ahaſuerus, after that ſhe had been twelve months, according to the manner of the women, (for ſo were the days of their purifications accompliſhed, to wit, ſix months with oil of myrrh, and ſix months with ſweet odours, and with other things for the purifying of the women.)

13 Then thus came every maid unto the king; whatſoever ſhe deſired was given her, to go with her out of the houſe of the women, unto the kings houſe.

14 In the evening ſhe went, and on the morrow ſhe returned into the ſecond houſe of the women, to the cuſtody of Shaaſhgaz, the kings chamberlain, which kept the concubines: ſhe came in unto the king no more, except the king delighted in her, and that ſhe were called by name.

15 ¶ Now when the turn of Eſther, the daugher of Abihail, the uncle of Mordecai (who had taken her for his daughter) was come to go in unto the king, ſhe required nothing, but what Hegai the kings chamberlain, the keeper of the women appointed: and Eſther obtained favour in the ſight of all them that looked upon her. Before Christ 515.

16 So Eſther was taken unto king Ahaſuerus, into his houſe royal, in the tenth month (which is the month Tebeth) in the ſeventh year of his reign.

17 And the king loved Eſther above all the women, and ſhe obtained grace and favour in his ſight, more than all the virgins; ſo that he ſet the royal crown upon her head, and made her queen in ſtead of Vaſhti.

514. 18 Then the king made a great feaſt unto all his princes and his ſervants, even Eſthers feaſt, and he made a releaſe to the provinces, and gave gifts, according to the ſtate of the king.

19 And when the virgins were gathered together the ſecond time, then Mordecai ſat in the kings gate.

20 Eſther had not yet ſhewed her kindred, nor her people; as Mordecai had charged her: for Eſther did the commandment of Mordecai, like as when ſhe was brought up with him.

21 ¶ In thoſe days (while Mordecai ſat in the kings gate) two of the kings chamberlains, Bigthan and Tereſh, of thoſe which kept the door, were wroth, and ſought to lay hand on the king Ahaſuerus.

22 And the thing was known to Mordecai,

Ver. 16. Eſther was taken unto king Ahaſuerus, into his houſe royal.] She was not like the reſt, ſent back in the morning to the ſecond houſe of the women, but kept in the royal houſe, the king intending to make her more than a concubine. This ſecond houſe of the women, was made for the reception of the concubines, who were treated with all the ſplendor of an eaſtern court, being accounted the king's ſecondary wives: no man was permitted to marry them; and on the king's deceaſe, they became the property of his ſucceſſor.

Ver. 18. Gave gifts, according to the ſtate of the king.] The manner of the Perſian king was, to give his queens, at their marriage, ſuch a city, to buy them cloaths; another for their hair; another for their necklaces, and other ornaments; and ſo on for the reſt of their expences.

Before Christ 514. decai, who told it unto Eſther the queen, and Eſther certified the king thereof, in Mordecai's name.

23 And when inquiſition was made of the matter, it was found out; therefore they were both hanged on a tree: and it was written in the book of the chronicles before the king.

CHAP. III.

1 Haman advanced by the king, and deſpiſed by Mordecai, ſeeketh revenge upon all the Jews: 7 He caſteth lots: 8 He obtained by calumniation, a decree of the king to put the Jews to death.

510. AFter theſe things did king Ahaſuerus promote Haman the ſon of Hammedatha the Agagite, and advanced him, and ſet his ſeat above all the princes that were with him.

2 And all the kings ſervants that were in the kings gate, bowed, and reverenced Haman; for the king had ſo commanded concerning him: but Mordecai bowed not, nor did him reverence.

3 Then the kings ſervants, which were in the kings gate, ſaid unto Mordecai, Why tranſgreſſeſt thou the kings commandment?

4 Now it came to paſs, when they ſpake daily unto him, and he hearkened not unto them, that they told Haman, to ſee whether Mordecai his matters would ſtand; for he had told them that he was a Jew. Before Christ 510.

5 And when Haman ſaw that Mordecai bowed not, nor did him reverence, then was Haman full of wrath.

6 And he thought ſcorn to lay hands on Mordecai alone; for they had ſhewed him the people of Mordecai: wherefore Haman ſought to deſtroy all the Jews, that were throughout the whole kingdom of Ahaſuerus, even the people of Mordecai.

7 ¶ In the firſt month, (that is the month Niſan) in the twelfth year of king Ahaſuerus, they caſt Pur, that is, the lot, before Haman, from day to day, and from month to month, to the twelfth month, that is the month Adar.

8 ¶ And Haman ſaid unto king Ahaſuerus, There is a certain people ſcattered abroad, and diſperſed among the people in all the provinces of thy kingdom, and their laws are diverſe from all people, neither keep they the kings laws; therefore it is not for the kings profit to ſuffer them.

9 If it pleaſe the king, let it be written that they may be deſtroyed: and I will pay ten thouſand talents of ſilver to the hands of thoſe that have the charge of the buſineſs, to bring it into the kings treaſuries.

Ver. 23. The book of the Chronicles.] Of the records and public acts.

NOTES on Chap. III.

Ver. 1. Haman the ſon of Hammedatha the Agagite.] He was a deſcendant of Agag, king of Amalek, whom Saul hewed in pieces in Gilgal.

Ver. 6. Haman ſought to deſtroy all the Jews.] The behaviour of Mordecai, incenſed Haman to ſuch a degree, that in his rage, he formed the deſperate reſolution of being not only revenged on the perſon of Mordecai, but on the whole race of the Jews; well remembering, that his anceſtors, the Amalekites, had been driven from their country, and the whole nation almoſt entirely exterminated by the Jews.

Ver. 7. Niſan.] Which is the March moon.

They caſt Pur, that is, the lot, &c.] Haman, according to the eaſtern ſuperſtition, endeavoured to diſcover, by caſting lots, what day was moſt favourable, and what moſt unfortunate to the Jews. And by this means, the deſtruction of the Jews was delayed till the laſt month of the year; an evident proof, that though the lot be caſt in the lap, yet the whole diſpoſing thereof is from the Lord; for hereby almoſt an whole year intervened between the deſign and its execution, which gave time for Eſther to intercede with the king for revoking the decree, and diſappointing the conſpiracy. What we call lots, the Perſians call purim, and therefore the Jews gave the name of Purim to this feaſt.

Ver. 9. Ten thouſand talents of ſilver.] An immenſe ſum; but this, probably, he intended to pay out of the effects of the maſſacred Jews.

Before Chriſt 510.

10 And the king took his ring from his hand, and gave it unto Haman the ſon of Hammedatha the Agagite, the Jews enemy.

11 And the king ſaid unto Haman, The ſilver is given to thee, the people alſo, to do with them as it ſeemeth good to thee.

12 Then were the kings ſcribes called on the thirteenth day of the firſt month, and there was written according to all that Haman had commanded unto the kings lieutenants, and to the governors that were over every province, and to the rulers of every people of every province according to the writing thereof, and to every people after their language; in the name of king Ahaſuerus was it written, and ſealed with the kings ring.

13 And the letters were ſent by poſts into all the kings provinces, to deſtroy, to kill, and to cauſe to periſh all Jews, both young and old, little children and women, in one day, even upon the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, (which is the month Adar) and to take the ſpoil of them for a prey.

14 The copy of the writing for a commandment to be given in every province, was publiſhed unto all the people, that they ſhould be ready againſt that day.

15 The poſts went out, being haſtened by the kings commandment, and the decree was given in Shuſhan the palace: and the king and Haman ſat down to drink, but the city Shuſhan was perplexed.

CHAP. IV.

1 The great mourning of Mordecai and the Jews: 4 Eſther underſtanding it, ſendeth to Mordecai, who ſheweth the cauſe, and adviſeth her to undertake the ſuit: 10 She excuſing herſelf, is threatened by Mordecai: 15 She appointing a faſt, undertaketh the ſuit.

Before Chriſt 510.

WHen Mordecai perceived all that was done, Mordecai rent his clothes, and put on ſackcloth with aſhes, and went out into the midſt of the city, and cried with a loud and a bitter cry:

2 And it came even before the kings gate: for none might enter into the kings gate clothed with ſackcloth.

3 And in every province whitherſoever the kings commandment, and his decree came, there was great mourning among the Jews, and faſting, and weeping, and wailing, and many lay in ſackcloth and aſhes.

4 ¶ So Eſthers maids, and her chamberlains came and told it her: Then was the queen exceedingly grieved, and ſhe ſent raiment to clothe Mordecai, and to take away his ſackcloth from him: but he received it not.

5 Then called Eſther for Hatach, one of the kings chamberlains, whom he had appointed to attend upon her, and gave him a commandment to Mordecai, to know what it was, and why it was.

6 So Hatach went forth to Mordecai unto the ſtreet of the city, which was before the kings gate.

7 And Mordecai told him of all that had happened unto him, and of the ſum of the money that Haman had promiſed to pay to the kings treaſuries for the Jews, to deſtroy them.

Ver. 13. The letters were ſent by poſts into all the kings provinces.] The firſt inſtitution of poſts is generally aſcribed to the Perſians. The monarchs of that extenſive empire, that they might have intelligence of what paſſed in all the provinces of their vaſt dominions, placed centinels on eminences, at convenient diſtances, where towers were built; which centinels, gave notice of public occurrences to one another, with a very loud and ſhrill voice; by which means, news was tranſported from one extremity of the kingdom to another, with ſurpriſing expedition: but as this could be practiſed only in the caſe of general news, Cyrus, as Xenophon informs us, provided couriers, and erected offices on all the high roads, for keeping poſt-horſes, and delivering packets from one to another.

Before Chriſt 510.

8 Alſo he gave him the copy of the writing of the decree, that was given at Shuſhan to deſtroy them, to ſhew it unto Eſther, and to declare it unto her, and to charge her that ſhe ſhould go in unto the king, to make ſupplication unto him, and to make requeſt before him for her people.

9 And Hatach came and told Eſther the words of Mordecai.

10 ¶ Again Eſther ſpake unto Hatach, and gave him commandment unto Mordecai;

11 All the kings ſervants, and the people of the kings provinces do know, that whoſoever, whether man or woman, ſhall come unto the king into the inner court, who is not called, there is one law of his to put him to death, except ſuch to whom the king ſhall hold out the golden ſcepter, that he may live: but I have not been called to come in unto the king, theſe thirty days.

12 And they told to Mordecai Eſthers words.

13 Then Mordecai commanded to anſwer Eſther, Think not with thyſelf that thou ſhalt eſcape in the kings houſe, more than all the Jews.

14 For if thou altogether holdeſt thy peace at this time, then ſhall there enlargement and deliverance ariſe to the Jews from another place, but thou and thy fathers houſe ſhall be deſtroyed: and who knoweth, whether thou art come to the kingdom for ſuch a time as this?

15 ¶ Then Eſther bade them return Mordecai this anſwer,

Before Chriſt 510.

16 Go, gather together all the Jews that are preſent in Shuſhan, and faſt ye for me, and neither eat nor drink three days, night or day: I alſo and my maidens will faſt likewiſe, and ſo will I go in unto the king, which is not according to the law; and if I periſh, I periſh.

17 So Mordecai went his way, and did according to all that Eſther had commanded him.

CHAP. V.

1 Eſther adventuring on the kings favour, obtaineth the grace of the golden ſcepter, and inviteth the king and Haman to a banquet. 9 She being encouraged by the king in her ſuit, inviteth them to another banquet the next day.

NOW it came to paſs on the third day, that Eſther put on her royal apparel, and ſtood in the inner court of the kings houſe, over againſt the kings houſe: and the king ſat upon his royal throne in the royal houſe, over againſt the gate of the houſe.

2 And it was ſo when the king ſaw Eſther the queen ſtanding in the court, that ſhe obtained favour in his ſight: and the king held out to Eſther the golden ſcepter.

3 Then ſaid the king unto her, What wilt thou, queen Eſther? and what is thy requeſt? it ſhall be even given thee, to the half of the kingdom.

NOTES on Chap. IV.

Ver. 11. Whoever—ſhall come in unto the king into the inner court, &c.] It was enacted by the Medes for the preſervation of royal majeſty, that no perſon ſhould be admitted into the king's preſence; but that if he had any buſineſs with him, he ſhould tranſact it by the intercourſe of his miniſters; this cuſtom paſſed from the Medes to the Perſians.

Ver. 16. Neither eat nor drink three days, night or day.] This is not to be underſtood, as if the people were to take no kind of ſuſtenance for three days, becauſe few could ſupport under ſo long a faſt; but that they ſhould neither eat nor drink any thing more than what was abſolutely neceſſary for the ſupport of life.

If I periſh, I periſh.] I am content to venture my life in ſo good a cauſe: a ſpeech of courage and reſolution.

NOTES on Chap. V.

Ver. 2. The king held out to Eſther the golden ſceptre.] In token of his favour, and inviting her approach.

Before Chriſt 510.

4 And Eſther anſwered, If it ſeem good unto the king, let the king and Haman come this day unto the banquet that I have prepared for him.

5 Then the king ſaid, Cauſe Haman to make haſte, that he may do as Eſther hath ſaid. So the king and Haman came to the banquet that Eſther had prepared.

6 And the king ſaid unto Eſther at the banquet of wine, What is thy petition? and it ſhall be granted thee: and what is thy requeſt? even to the half of the kingdom it ſhall be performed.

7 Then anſwered Eſther, and ſaid, My petition, and my requeſt is;

8 If I have found favour in the ſight of the king, and if it pleaſe the king to grant my petition, and to perform my requeſt, let the king and Haman come to the banquet that I ſhall prepare for them, and I will do to morrow as the king hath ſaid.

9 ¶ Then went Haman forth that day, joyful, and with a glad heart: but when Haman ſaw Mordecai in the kings gate, that he ſtood not up, nor moved for him, he was full of indignation againſt Mordecai.

10 Nevertheleſs, Haman refrained himſelf, and when he came home, he ſent and called for his friends, and Zereſh his wife.

11 And Haman told them of the glory of his riches, and the multitude of his children, and all the things wherein the king had promoted him, and how he had advanced him above the princes and ſervants of the king.

Before Chriſt 510.

12 Haman ſaid, moreover, Yea, Eſther the queen did let no man come in with the king unto the banquet that ſhe had prepared, but myſelf; and to morrow am I invited unto her alſo with the king.

13 Yet all this availeth me nothing, ſo long as I ſee Mordecai the Jew ſitting at the kings gate.

14 ¶ Then ſaid Zereſh his wife, and all his friends unto him, Let a gallows be made of fifty cubits high, and to morrow ſpeak thou unto the king, that Mordecai may be hanged thereon: then go thou in merrily with the king unto the banquet. And the thing pleaſed Haman, and he cauſed the gallows to be made.

CAP. VI.

1 Ahaſuerus reading in the chronicles of the good ſervice done by Mordecai, taketh care for his reward. 4 Haman coming to ſue that Mordecai might be hanged, unawares giveth counſel that he might do him honour. 12 Complaining of his misfortune, his friends tell him of his final deſtiny.

ON that night could not the king ſleep, and he commanded to bring the book of records of the chronicles; and they were read before the king.

2 And

Ver. 4. Let the king and Haman come this day to the banquet.] It was prudent in her not to open her mind at once to the king, but firſt to endear his affections by feaſting, muſic, dancing, and whatever might pleaſe him; and without doubt, her inviting his favourite at the ſame time, was very agreeable to him.

Ver. 6. Of wine.] To wit, at the ſecond courſe.

Ver. 8. I will do to-morrow as the king hath ſaid.] I will make my requeſt to the king to-morrow, at the banquet of wine. There was ſufficient reaſons for Eſther's uſing theſe cautions, as her requeſt was by no means trifling; ſhe had a favourite miniſter to encounter, and what was ſtill more, ſhe was going to petition the king to revoke his own decree.

Ver. 13. All this availeth me nothing ſo long as I ſee Mordecai the Jew ſitting at the kings gate.] What trifling circumſtances will ruin all the ſatisfaction of thoſe, who, to appearance, are arrived at the pinnacle of human felicity! immenſe riches, with the glory and honours of the Perſian court, were diſtaſteful to Haman, for no other reaſon, than the refuſal of homage from one private man.

NOTES on Chap. VI.

Ver. 1. The book of records of the chronicles.] To wit, the public acts of every day, which were gathered and regiſtered by certain writers or ſcribes, according to the cuſtom of Perſia, and other nations.

Before Chriſt 510.

2 And it was found written, that Mordecai had told of Bigthana and Tereſh, two of the kings chamberlains, the keepers of the door, who ſought to lay hand on the king Ahaſuerus.

3 And the king ſaid, What honour and dignity hath been done to Mordecai for this? Then ſaid the kings ſervants that miniſtered unto him, There is nothing done for him.

4 ¶ And the king ſaid, Who is in the court? (Now Haman was come into the outward court of the kings houſe, to ſpeak unto the king, to hang Mordecai on the gallows that he had prepared for him)

5 And the kings ſervants ſaid unto him, Behold, Haman ſtandeth in the court. And the king ſaid, Let him come in.

6 So Haman came in: and the king ſaid unto him, What ſhall be done unto the man whom the king delighteth to honour? (Now Haman thought in his heart, To whom would the king delight to do honour more than to myſelf?)

7 And Haman anſwered the king, For the man whom the king delighteth to honour,

8 Let the royal apparel be brought which the king uſeth to wear, and the horſe that the king rideth upon, and the crown royal which is ſet upon his head:

Before Chriſt 510.

9 And let this apparel and horſe be delivered to the hand of one of the kings moſt noble princes, that they may aray the man withal whom the king delighteth to honour, and bring him on horſeback through the ſtreet of the city, and proclaim before him, Thus ſhall it be done to the man that the king delighteth to honour.

10 Then the king ſaid to Haman, Make haſte, and take the apparel, and the horſe, as thou haſt ſaid, and do even ſo to Mordecai the Jew, that ſitteth at the kings gate: let nothing fail of all that thou haſt ſpoken.

11 Then took Haman the apparel and the horſe, and arrayed Mordecai, and brought him on horſeback through the ſtreet of the city, and proclaimed before him, Thus ſhall it be done unto the man whom the king delighteth to honour.

12 ¶ And Mordecai came again to the kings gate: but Haman haſted to his houſe, mourning, and having his head covered.

13 And Haman told Zereſh his wife and all his friends, every thing that had befallen him. Then ſaid his wiſe men,

and

Ver. 2. It was found written, that Mordecai had told of Bigthana and Tereſh.] Matters began now to take a very different turn; divine providence ſo ordered it, that the king ſhould take no reſt that night; and inſtead of diverting himſelf with muſic, &c. he ordered the records of his kingdom to be brought and read before him. And it was a very extraordinary providence of God, that that very particular tranſaction ſhould be read, wherein the ſervice of Mordecai was recorded.

Ver. 3. What honour—hath been done to Mordecai for this?] It has been looked upon as a very ſingular circumſtance, that the king ſhould forget to recompence a man who had been ſo ſignal an inſtrument in preſerving his life; however, there was doubtleſs a particular providence, in having his reward delayed till this time, when he and all his nation were deſtined to deſtruction; when the remembrance of his ſervices might be a means to recommend them to the mercy of the king, and the honours conferred on him, prove the greateſt mortification to his adverſary.

Ver. 8. The crown royal which is ſet upon his head.] Some will have this crown to be what we call a turbant, made of fine white and purple linen, which it was death for any man to put on his head, without the king's expreſs order. But others, more probably, think it denotes that ornament which the king's horſe wore on his head: and it muſt be owned, that this application agrees better with the ſignification and order of the Hebrew words, and with the cuſtom of the Perſians, who uſed to place a certain ornament upon the head of that horſe whereon the king was mounted.

Ver. 11. Then took Haman the apparel, and the horſe, &c.] Surely nothing could cut a proud man more to the heart, than to be employed in ſuch an office; but the king's command was poſitive, ſo that Haman was forced to obey, how much ſoever it might go againſt the grain.

Before Christ 510. and Zereſh his wife unto him, If Mordecai be of the ſeed of the Jews, before whom thou haſt begun to fall, thou ſhalt not prevail againſt him, but ſhalt ſurely fall before him.

14 And while they were yet talking with him, came the kings chamberlains, and haſted to bring Haman unto the banquet that Eſther had prepared.

CHAP. VII.

1 Eſther entertaining the king and Haman, maketh ſuit for her own life and her peoples: 5 She accuſeth Haman. 7 The king in his anger underſtanding of the gallows, which Haman had made for Mordecai, cauſeth him to be hanged thereon.

SO the king and Haman came to banquet with Eſther the queen.

2 And the king ſaid unto Eſther, on the ſecond day, at the banquet of wine, What is thy petition, queen Eſther? and it ſhall be granted thee: and what is thy requeſt? and it ſhall be performed even to the half of the kingdom.

3 Then Eſther the queen anſwered, and ſaid, If I have found favour in thy ſight, O king, and if it pleaſe the king, let my life be given me at my petition, and my people at my requeſt.

4 For we are ſold, I and my people, to be deſtroyed, to be ſlain, and to periſh: but if we had been ſold for bond-men and bond-women, I had held my tongue, although the enemy could not countervail the kings damage. Before Christ 5

5 ¶ Then the king Ahaſuerus anſwered and ſaid unto Eſther the queen, Who is he? and where is he that durſt preſume in his heart to do ſo?

6 And Eſther ſaid, the adverſary and enemy, is this wicked Haman. Then Haman was afraid before the king and the queen.

7 ¶ And the king ariſing from the banquet of wine in his wrath, went into the palace-garden; and Haman ſtood up to make requeſt for his life to Eſther the queen: for he ſaw that there was evil determined againſt him by the king.

8 Then the king returned out of the palace-garden, into the place of the banquet of wine; and Haman was fallen upon the bed whereon Eſther was. Then ſaid the king, Will he force the queen alſo before me in the houſe? As the word went out of the kings mouth, they covered Hamans face.

9 And

Ver. 13. If Mordecai be of the ſeed of the Jews, &c.] The interpoſition of providence, in favour of the Jewiſh nation, even during their captivity, had been ſo viſible, that the wiſe men about Haman, might, from experience, form a conjecture, that if their God was become their friend, (as their turn of affairs in favour of Mordecai ſeemed to indicate) no weapon formed againſt them would proſper; becauſe they had ſeen ſo many plots, which would have cruſhed any other nation, turn to their advantage, as well as their enemies deſtruction; and conſequently, that the deſperate deſign that was now formed againſt them, would never be executed; but on the contrary, the contrivers of it covered with ſhame and confuſion.

NOTES on Chap. VII.

Ver. 4. Although the enemy could not countervail the kings damage.] Aben Ezra takes the Hebrew word, which we tranſlate enemy, to mean diſtreſs or miſery; and thus interprets the paſſage, "If they had ſold us for ſlaves, I "had not troubled the king with my petition; becauſe "that miſery of ours would not have been ſo much to "the king's damage."

Ver. 5. Who is he? and where is he that durſt preſume, &c.] He could ſcarce be perſuaded, that any man could entertain ſo wicked a thought, as to extirpate a whole people, to ſatisfy private revenge; a ſufficient proof that he did not conſider what decree he had ſigned in favour of Haman againſt the Jews.

Ver. 7. The king ariſing from the banquet of wine in his wrath, went into the palace garden, &c.] Partly as diſdaining the company of ſo audacious and ungrateful a perſon; partly to cool and allay his ſpirit, ſtruggling with ſuch a variety of paſſions; and partly to conſider within himſelf the hainouſneſs of Haman's crime, the miſchief which he himſelf was like to have done by his own raſhneſs; and what puniſhment was fit to be inflicted on ſo vile a miſcreant.

Ver. 8. Haman was fallen upon the bed whereon Eſther was.] The bed which ſhe ſat on at meals, not that ſhe lay upon to ſleep; here, as a ſupplicant, he fell at the feet of Eſther, and probably (as the manner was among the Greeks and Romans) embraced her knees.

They covered Haman's face.] That he might not any more ſee the king's face; or rather, as a man condemned, this told him his ſentence.

Before Christ 510.

9 And Harbonah, one of the chamberlains, ſaid before the king, Behold alſo the gallows fifty cubits high, which Haman had made for Mordecai, who had ſpoken good for the king, ſtandeth in the houſe of Haman. Then the king ſaid, Hang him thereon.

10 So they hanged Hamon on the gallows that he had prepared for Mordecai. Then was the kings wrath pacified.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Mordecai is advanced. 3 Eſther maketh ſuit to reverſe Hamans letters. 7 Ahaſuerus granteth to the Jews to defend themſelves. 15 Mordecai's honour, and the Jews joy.

ON that day did the king Ahaſuerus give the houſe of Haman the Jews enemy, unto Eſther the queen: and Mordecai came before the king; for Eſther had told what he was unto her.

2 And the king took off his ring which he had taken from Haman, and gave it unto Mordecai. And Eſther ſet Mordecai over the houſe of Haman.

3 ¶ And Eſther ſpake yet again before the king, and fell down at his feet and beſought him with tears, to put away the miſchief of Haman the Agagite, and his device that he had deviſed againſt the Jews.

4 Then the king held out the golden ſcepter toward Eſther. So Eſther aroſe, and ſtood before the king,

5 And ſaid, If it pleaſe the king, and if I have found favour in his ſight, and the thing ſeem right before the king, and it be pleaſing in his eyes; let it be written to reverſe the letters deviſed by Haman the ſon of Hammedatha the Agagite, which he wrote to deſtroy the Jews, which are in all the kings provinces:

Before Christ 510

6 For how can I endure to ſee the evil that ſhall come unto my people? or how can I endure to ſee the deſtruction of my kindred?

7 ¶ Then the king Ahaſuerus ſaid unto Eſther the queen, and to Mordecai the Jew, Behold, I have given Eſther the houſe of Haman, and him they have hanged upon the gallows, becauſe he laid his hand upon the Jews.

8 Write ye alſo for the Jews, as it liketh you, in the kings name, and ſeal it with the kings ring: for the writing which is written in the kings name, and ſealed with the kings ring, may no man reverſe.

9 Then were the kings ſcribes called at that time in the third month (that is the month Sivan) on the three and twentieth day thereof, and it was written (according to all that Mordecai commanded) unto the Jews, and to the lieutenants, and the deputies and rulers of the provinces which are from India unto Ethiopia, an hundred twenty and ſeven provinces, unto every province according to the writing

---

Ver. 10. So they hanged Haman on the gallows that he had prepared for Mordecai.] And thus God returned the wickedneſs of Haman on his own head; and the gallows he had prepared for his enemy, was uſed for his own execution. It is very obſervable, that though we find, thro' the whole narrative, no extraordinary manifeſtation of God's power, no particular cauſe or agent that conducted the affair in a manner ſuperior to nature, yet the contrivance, or adapting thoſe ordinary agents, is in itſelf more wonderful, than if the effect had been produced by means truly miraculous. That a king ſhould not ſleep, is no unuſual thing; nor that he ſhould divert his waking thoughts, by hearing the annals of his kingdom, or the journals of his own reign read to him; but that ſleep ſhould fly from his eye-lids, at the very juncture of time when Haman was watching to deſtroy the Jews, and that in ſo large a book as the Chronicles of his kingdom muſt neceſſarily be, they ſhould light on the place where Mordecai's unrewarded ſervices were recorded; that the king ſhould immediately reſolve to do him honour, and that Haman ſhould come in at the very inſtant of time, and he himſelf be appointed to confer it: theſe are events that could not flow from chance, but muſt be directed by the great ſhepherd of Iſrael, who neither ſlumbers nor ſleeps, and was truly marvellous in the ſight of his people: and though miracles, in their nature, are more apt to ſtrike the ſenſes, yet ſuch ſecret contrivance of God's wiſdom and providence, have a greater effect upon the underſtanding; the one produces aſtoniſhment, the other admiration.

thereof, and unto every people after their language, and to the Jews according to their writing, and according to their language.

10 And he wrote in the king Ahaſuerus name, and ſealed it with the kings ring, and ſent letters by poſts on horſeback, and riders on mules, camels, and young dromedaries:

11 Wherein the king granted the Jews which were in every city, to gather themſelves together, and to ſtand for their life, to deſtroy, to ſlay, and to cauſe to periſh all the power of the people and province, that would aſſault them, both little ones, and women, and to take the ſpoil of them for a prey.

12 Upon one day, in all the provinces of king Ahaſuerus, namely, upon the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is the month Adar.

13 The copy of the writing, for a commandment to be given in every province, was publiſhed unto all people, and that the Jews ſhould be ready againſt that day, to avenge themſelves on their enemies.

14 So the poſts that rode upon mules, and camels went out, being haſtened, and preſſed on by the kings commandment; and the decree was given at Shuſhan the palace.

15 ¶ And Mordecai went out from the preſence of the king, in royal apparel of blue and white, and with a great crown of gold, and with a garment of fine linen, and purple; and the city of Shuſhan rejoiced and was glad:

16 The Jews had light and gladneſs, and joy, and honour.

Before Chriſt 510.

17 And in every province, and in every city, whitherſoever the kings commandment and his decree came, the Jews had joy and gladneſs, a feaſt and a good day: and many of the people of the land became Jews; for the fear of the Jews fell upon them.

CHAP. IX.

1 The Jews (the rulers, for fear of Mordecai, helping them) ſlay their enemies, with the ten ſons of Haman. 12 Ahaſuerus at the requeſt of Eſther granteth another day of ſlaughter, and Hamans ſons to be hanged. 20 The two days of Purim are made feſtival.

NOW in the twelfth month (that is the month Adar) on the thirteenth day of the ſame, when the kings commandment and his decree drew near to be put in execution, in the day that the enemies of the Jews hoped to have power over them, (though it was turned to the contrary, that the Jews had rule over them that hated them)

2 The Jews gathered themſelves together in their cities, throughout all the provinces of the king Ahaſuerus, to lay hand on ſuch as ſought their hurt; and no man could withſtand them: for the fear of them fell upon all people.

3 And all the rulers of the provinces, and the lieutenants, and the deputies, and officers of the king, helped the Jews: becauſe the fear of Mordecai fell upon them.

NOTES on Chap. VIII.

Ver. 10. Dromedaries.] Dr. Shaw ſays, that the dromedary is remarkable for its ſwiftneſs; the Arabs affirming, that it will run over as much ground in one day, as one of their beſt horſes will do in eight or ten; for which reaſon, thoſe meſſages which require haſte, are diſpatched upon dromedaries.

Ver. 11. The king granted the Jews which were in every city, to gather themſelves together, and to ſtand for their life, &c.] This ſecond decree, procured by Mordecai, gave the Jews authority, if any attempt was made upon them, either by large numbers or ſmall parties, not only to defend themſelves, and repel them, but to make as great a ſlaughter of them as they were able; and even to take poſſeſſion of their goods, as Haman had procured them licence to ſeize thoſe of the Jews.

11 On that day, the number of thoſe that were ſlain in Shuſhan the palace, was brought before the king.

12 ¶ And the king ſaid unto Eſther the queen, The Jews have ſlain and deſtroyed five hundred men in Shuſhan the palace, and the ten ſons of Haman; what have they done in the reſt of the kings provinces? now what is thy petition? and it ſhall be granted thee: or what is thy requeſt further? and it ſhall be done.

13 Then ſaid Eſther, If it pleaſe the king, let it be granted to the Jews which are in Shuſhan, to do to morrow alſo according unto this days decree, and let Hamans ten ſons be hanged upon the gallows.

14 And the king commanded it ſo to be done; and the decree was given at Shuſhan, and they hanged Hamans ten ſons.

15 For the Jews that were in Shuſhan gathered themſelves together on the fourteenth day alſo of the month Adar, and ſlew three hundred men at Shuſhan; but on the prey they laid not their hand.

16 But the other Jews that were in the kings provinces, gathered themſelves together, and ſtood for their lives, and had reſt from their enemies, and ſlew of their foes ſeventy and five thouſand; but they laid not their hands on the prey.

17 On the thirteenth day of the month Adar, and on the fourteenth day of the ſame, reſted they, and made it a day of feaſting and gladneſs.

18 But the Jews that were at Shuſhan, aſſembled together on the thirteenth day thereof, and on the fourteenth thereof; and on the fifteenth day of the ſame they reſted, and made it a day of feaſting and gladneſs.

19 Therefore the Jews of the villages, that dwelt in the unwalled towns, made the fourteenth day of the month Adar, a day of gladneſs and feaſting, and a good day, and of ſending portions one to another.

20 ¶ Mordecai wrote theſe things, and ſent letters unto all the Jews that were in all the provinces of the king Ahaſuerus, both nigh and far,

Ver. 16. Seventy and five thouſand.] It is the general opinion of commentators, that the perſons ſlain by the Jews, were Amalekites, diſperſed through the vaſt empire of Perſia; as they were the known and inveterate enemies of the Jews; and following now the fortune of Haman, it is natural to think, they would be very ready to execute the decree he had procured againſt them.

Ver. 21. That they ſhould keep the fourteenth day of the month Adar, and the fifteenth day of the ſame yearly.] This is called the feaſt of Purim, from the Perſian word Pur, which ſignifies a lot, becauſe of Haman's caſting lots in order to divine which would be the moſt fortunate day for extirpating the Jews out of all the Perſian dominions. 23 And the Jews undertook to do as they had begun, and as Mordecai had written unto them.

24 Becauſe Haman the ſon of Hammedatha the Agagite, the enemy of all the Jews had deviſed againſt the Jews to deſtroy them, and had caſt Pur (that is, the lot) to conſume them, and to deſtroy them:

25 But when Eſther came before the king, he commanded by letters, that his wicked device which he deviſed againſt the Jews, ſhould return upon his own head, and that he and his ſons ſhould be hanged on the gallows.

26 Wherefore they called theſe days Purim, after the name of Pur: therefore for all the words of this letter, and of that which they had ſeen concerning this matter, and which had come unto them,

27 The Jews ordained, and took upon them, and upon their ſeed, and upon all ſuch as joined themſelves unto them, ſo as it ſhould not fail, that they would keep theſe two days, according to their writing, and according to their appointed time every year: Before Chriſt 509.

28 And that theſe days ſhould be remembered, and kept throughout every generation, every family, every province, and every city; and that theſe days of Purim ſhould not fail from among the Jews, nor the memorial of them periſh from their ſeed.

29 Then Eſther the queen the daughter of Abihail, and Mordecai the Jew, wrote with all authority, to confirm this ſecond letter of Purim.

30 And he ſent the letters unto all the Jews, to the hundred twenty and ſeven provinces of the kingdom of Ahaſuerus, with words of peace and truth:

31 To confirm theſe days of Purim in their times appointed, according as Mordecai the Jew, and Eſther the queen had enjoined them, and as they had decreed for themſelves and for their ſeed, the matters of the faſtings and their cry.

32 And the decree of Eſther confirmed theſe matters of Purim, and it was written in the book.

The Book of JOB.

The ARGUMENT.

This book contains the narrative of a moſt extraordinary ſeries of calamities, ſupported with the moſt admirable patience and reſignation. It is an excellent poem, part allegorical; viz. where the grand enemy of mankind appears before the Lord; the reſt literal. The ſubject is the moſt noble; the drama repreſents the univerſe, and exhibits the fortunes of the whole human race. The machinery the moſt grand; for therein God maketh the clouds his chariot, and walketh upon the wings of the wind. The author is uncertain. Some have aſcribed it to Job himſelf, to Solomon, Ezra, and Elihu; but the moſt probable opinion is, that Moſes wrote it while an exile in Midian, tranſlating it out of Arabic; or wrote it by divine inſpiration for the conſolation and encouragement of his countrymen, then groaning under Egyptian bondage.

Job's religious care for his children.

Before Chriſt 1520.

THERE was a man in the land of Uz, whoſe name was Job, and that man was perfect and upright, and one that feared God, and eſchewed evil.

2 And there were born unto him ſeven ſons, and three daughters.

3 His ſubſtance alſo was ſeven thouſand ſheep, and three thouſand camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred ſhe-aſſes, and a very great houſhold; ſo that this man was the greateſt of all the men of the eaſt.

NOTES on Chap. I.

Ver. 1. The land of Uz.] The land of Uz, upon ſuppoſition that Job ſprung from one of Keturah's ſons, is placed in that part of Arabia Deſerta, which has Meſopotamia and the Euphrates to the north; to the weſt, Syria, Paleſtine, and Idumea; to the ſouth, the mountains of Arabia Felix; and this deſcription receives farther confirmation, from the mention which the hiſtory makes

Before Christ 1520.

5 And it was ſo, when the days of their feaſting were gone about, that Job ſent and ſanctified them, and roſe up early in the morning, and offered burnt-offerings, according to the number of them all: for Job ſaid, It may be that my ſons have ſinned, and curſed God in their hearts. Thus did Job continually.

6 Now there was a day when the ſons of God came to preſent themſelves before the LORD, and Satan came alſo among them.

7 And the LORD ſaid unto Satan, Whence comeſt thou? Then Satan anſwered the LORD, and ſaid, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it.

8 And the LORD ſaid unto Satan, Haſt thou conſidered my ſervant Job, that there is none like him in all the earth, a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and eſcheweth evil?

9 Then Satan anſwered the LORD, and ſaid, Doth Job fear God for nought?

10 Haſt not thou made an hedge about him, and about his houſe, and about all that he hath on every ſide? thou haſt bleſſed the work of his hands, and his ſubſtance is increaſed in the land.

makes of the Chaldeans and Sabeans plundering his eſtate, who were certainly inhabitants of theſe parts. This land, very probably, took its name from Uz, a deſcendant of Eſau. See Gen. 36. 28.

Whoſe name was Job.] It appears from ſeveral paſſages of ſcripture, that Job was a real perſon, and not a fictitious character. In the Old Teſtament he is joined with Noah and Daniel, and equally diſtinguiſhed for his righteouſneſs; and in the New, he is commended for his patience. Indeed the narrative itſelf has all the lineaments of a real hiſtory; tho' at the ſame time, it is plain, that there is an allegorical turn given to ſeveral particulars, which as they relate to ſpiritual beings, would not otherwiſe ſo eaſily affect the imagination of the vulgar.

The moſt probable opinion, with regard to his family is, that he was deſcended in a direct line from Abraham, by his wife Keturah, by whom that patriarch had ſeveral ſons; but being reſolved to reſerve the chief patrimony entire for Iſaac, he gave them portions, and ſent them into the eaſt, ſo that moſt of them ſettled in Arabia; beſides, we find diſperſed every where in his ſpeeches, noble ſentiments of creation and providence, of the nature of angels, and the fall of man, of puniſhments for ſin, and juſtifications by grace, of a redemption, reſurrection, and a final judgment; notions which he could never have received from the light of nature; but muſt have had them originally from his firſt parents, as they ſucceſſively derived them from the father of the faithful, who had them immediately from God himſelf. But what ſeems abſolutely to confirm this opinion is, that Abraham had by his wife Keturah a ſon, whoſe name was Shuah; and therefore when we read of Bildad the Shuite, we may very well ſuppoſe that he was a deſcendant from that family, who living in the neighbourhood, thought himſelf obliged by the ties of conſanguinity, to viſit his kinſman in ſuch deplorable circumſtances of diſtreſs.

As to the time when Job lived, we have ſome criterions to direct our judgment. That he lived in the early ages of the world, ſeems plain, from his mentioning with abhorrence, that ancient kind of idolatry, the adoration of the ſun and moon; and at the ſame time paſſing over in ſilence the Egyptian bondage, which could hardly have eſcaped the notice of him or his friends, had it not been ſubſequent to their times. It is therefore probable, that he lived before the Iſraelites were made ſlaves to the Egyptians; and what adds a conſiderable weight to this opinion is, the long duration of his life, which continuing an hundred and forty years after his reſtoration, could hardly be leſs in all than two hundred; a longer period than either Abraham or Iſaac reached. If we place his birth about the time of Jacob's deceaſe, we ſhall not perhaps be far from the truth; for then the time of his trial will happen about ſixteen years after the death of Joſeph, when Job might juſtly deſerve the extraordinary character given him by God.

Ver. 3. His ſubſtance was ſeven thouſand ſheep, &c.] Dr. Shaw obſerves, that the principal riches of the Bedoween Arabs, like the ancient eaſtern patriarchs, continue to be rated according to the value and quality of their cattle.

Ver. 4. Every one his day.] Probably, on his birth-day; it might be the cuſtom of his ſons, to meet annually at each others houſe on this occaſion.

Ver. 5. And curſed God in their hearts.] That is, have blaſphemed, or rather, as the Septuagint read, have had ill thoughts of God in their hearts.

Ver. 6. Sons of God.] The angels. The expreſſion, preſented themſelves before the Lord, is borrowed, and taken from the courts of princes, where the officers appear at certain times, to give account of their actions and charge.

Ver. 12. All that he hath is in thy power, &c.] Willing to prove the falſity of Satan's accuſation, and the integrety of his ſervant in an afflicted, as he had tried him in a proſperous ſtate; God was pleaſed here to grant Satan a commiſſion to diſpoſe of all belonging to Job, according as he pleaſed, excepting only his perſon, which he commanded him not to touch.

only upon himſelf put not forth thine hand. So Satan went out from the preſence of the LORD.

13 ¶ And there was a day, when his ſons and his daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldeſt brothers houſe:

14 And there came a meſſenger unto Job, and ſaid, The oxen were plowing, and the aſſes feeding beſide them:

15 And the Sabeans fell upon them, and took them away, yea, they have ſlain the ſervants with the edge of the ſword, and I only am eſcaped alone to tell thee.

16 While he was yet ſpeaking, there came alſo another, and ſaid, The fire of God is fallen from heaven, and hath burnt up the ſheep, and the ſervants, and conſumed them, and I only am eſcaped alone to tell thee.

17 While he was yet ſpeaking, there came alſo another, and ſaid, The Chaldeans made out three bands, and fell upon the camels, and have carried them away, yea, and ſlain the ſervants with the edge of the ſword, and I only am eſcaped alone to tell thee.

18 While he was yet ſpeaking, there came alſo another, and ſaid, Thy ſons and thy daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldeſt brothers houſe:

19 And behold, there came a great wind from the wilderneſs, and ſmote the four corners of the houſe, and it fell upon the young men, and they are dead, and I only am eſcaped alone to tell thee.

Before Chriſt 1520.

20 Then Job aroſe, and rent his mantle, and ſhaved his head, and fell down upon the ground, and worſhipped,

21 And ſaid, Naked came I out of my mothers womb, and naked ſhall I return thither: the LORD gave, and the LORD hath taken away; bleſſed be the name of the LORD.

22 In all this Job ſinned not, nor charged God fooliſhly.

CHAP. II.

1 Satan appearing again before God, obtaineth further leave to tempt Job: 7 He ſmiteth him with ſore boils: 9 Job reproveth his wife, moving him to curſe God: 11 His three friends condole with him in ſilence.

AGain there was a day when the ſons of God came to preſent themſelves before the LORD, and Satan came alſo among them to preſent himſelf before the LORD.

2 And the LORD ſaid unto Satan, From whence comeſt thou? And Satan anſwered the LORD, and ſaid, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it.

3 And the LORD ſaid unto Satan, Haſt thou conſidered my ſervant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and eſcheweth evil? and ſtill he holdeth faſt his integrity, although thou movedſt me againſt him, to deſtroy him without cauſe.

Ver. 15. The Sabeans.] The original word here is an appellative, and not a proper name, and ſignifies a band of robbers; ſo the Septuagint render it.

Ver. 20. Job aroſe and rent his mantle, &c.] He heard with the greateſt tranquillity, the repeated accounts of his unparralleled misfortunes; but when he was told of the death of all his children, his grief was too great to be concealed, and laying aſide all other thoughts, he abandoned himſelf to ſorrow: yet ſtill he retained his integrity, and inſtead of uttering complaints againſt the conduct of providence, reverently adored, and worſhipped the divine majeſty.

Ver. 21. Naked came I out of my mothers womb, and naked ſhall I return thither, &c.] Namely, to the earth, to which he pointed.

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 3. Haſt thou conſidered my ſervant Job?] Art thou not convinced that the character I gave thee of Job was true? for he ſtill continues reſolutely to tread the paths of virtue, notwithſtanding the calamities which he undeſervedly ſuffers.

Before Chriſt 1520.

4 And Satan anſwered the LORD, and ſaid, Skin for ſkin, yea, all that a man hath will he give for his life.

5 But put forth thine hand now, and touch his bone and his fleſh, and he will curſe thee to thy face.

6 And the LORD ſaid unto Satan, Behold, he is in thine hand, but ſave his life.

7 ¶ So went Satan forth from the preſence of the LORD, and ſmote Job with ſore boils, from the ſole of his foot unto his crown.

8 And he took him a potſherd to ſcrape himſelf withal; and he ſat down among the aſhes.

9 ¶ Then ſaid his wife unto him, Doſt thou ſtill retain thine integrity? curſe God and die.

10 But he ſaid unto her, Thou ſpeakeſt as one of the fooliſh women ſpeaketh: what? ſhall we receive good at the hand of God, and ſhall we not receive evil? In all this did not Job ſin with his lips.

11 ¶ Now when Jobs three friends heard of all this evil that was come upon him, they came every one from his own place; Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite: for they had made an appointment together to come to mourn with him, and to comfort him.

12 And when they lift up their eyes afar off, and knew him not, they lifted up their voice, and wept; and they rent every one his mantle, and ſprinkled duſt upon their heads toward heaven.

13 So they ſat down with him upon the ground ſeven days and ſeven nights, and none ſpake a word unto him: for they ſaw that his grief was very great.

Before Chriſt 1520.

CHAP. III.

1 Job curſeth the day and ſervices of his birth. 13 The eaſe of death: 20 He complaineth of life, becauſe of his anguiſh.

Ver. 4. Skin for ſkin, &c.] Satan replies, that a man will give another's ſkin to ſave his own; nay, even part with his children, as well as his goods, to ſave his life. The expreſſion ſkin for ſkin, is taken from trade, and the exchanges which were made in thoſe days; and the meaning is, there may be ſome proportions in bargains, releaſes, and exchanges of other things; but for his life a man will give all.

Ver. 6. Behold, he is in thine hand, but ſave his life.] Thus Satan can go no farther in puniſhing than God hath limited him.

Ver. 7 Satan—ſmote Job with ſore boils, &c.] Some have imagined, from the deſcription which Job gives of his own diſtemper, that it was a leproſy, but of a more malignant kind (as it always is in hot countries) than our climate is acquainted with. But their opinion ſeems to be beſt founded, who make this diſtemper, not one ſimple malady, but a complication of many; for ſince the great enemy of mankind had a full licence to try to the uttermoſt the patience of Job, (ſaving his life) it is not to be queſtioned, but he exerted all his power; and accordingly, we may obſerve, from the ſucceeding parts of the hiſtory, that beſides the puſtulated blains which afflicted his body, the devil not only inſtigated his wife to grieve his mind, but diſturbed his imagination likewiſe, to terrify his conſcience; for when the holy man complains, thou ſcareſt me with dreams, and terrifieſt me with viſions, analogy of hiſtory will not ſuffer us to interpret, that God himſelf inflicted theſe affrighting dreams; but that the devil (to whoſe temptations he had ſubmitted him) raiſed theſe gloomy thoughts, and framed horrid and ghaſtly objects in his imagination, to drive him to melancholy and deſpair.

Ver. 9. Curſe God and die.] The word rendered curſe, will equally ſignify bleſs; but from the ſharp reply which Job makes, it is plain, ſhe did not uſe the word in its more favourable ſenſe. Some commentators connect the preceding words, and read thus: Doſt thou ſtill retain thy integrity in bleſſing God and periſhing.

Ver. 11. Eliphaz the Temanite.] He was the grandſon of Eſau, and ſon of Teman, who dwelt in a city of the ſame name in Idumea, not far from the confines of Arabia Deſerta.

Bildad the Shuite.] He was deſcended from Shuah, the ſon of Abraham and Keturah.

Zophar the Naamathite.] It is not certainly known who this might be; though ſome will have him deſcended from Eſau.

Ver. 12. Sprinkled duſt upon their heads.] See the note on Gen. xxxvii. 34.

Ver. 13. Seven days and ſeven nights.] This is not literally to be underſtood; they muſt have taken refreſhments of food and ſleep. It is remarkable, that we find the prophet Ezekiel (chap. iii. 15.) ſitting with his brethren of the captivity by the river Chebar, for ſeven days aſtoniſhed.

Before Chriſt 1520.

AFter this Job opened his mouth, and curſed his day.

4 Let that day be darkneſs, let not God regard it from above, neither let the light ſhine upon it.

5 Let darkneſs and the ſhadow of death ſtain it, let a cloud dwell upon it, let the blackneſs of the day terrify it.

6 As for that night, let darkneſs ſeize upon it, let it not be joined unto the days of the year, let it not come into the number of the months.

7 Lo, let that night be ſolitary, let no joyful voice come therein.

8 Let them curſe it that curſe the day, who are ready to raiſe up their mourning.

9 Let the ſtars of the twilight thereof be dark, let it look for light but have none, neither let it ſee the dawning of the day:

11 Why died I not from the womb? why did I not give up the ghoſt when I came out of the belly?

NOTES on Chap. III.

Ver. 1. After this opened Job his mouth, &c.] Job had hitherto ſupported his afflictions with admirable conſtancy, but being overwhelmed with grief, and deſtitute of the leaſt comfort from his friends, he could contain himſelf no longer; but burſts out into the moſt paſſionate complaints of the miſeries of human life, wiſhing he had never been born, or had reſigned his breath as ſoon as he perceived the light, or might now forthwith be diſmiſſed.

Ver. 5. The ſhadow of death.] That is to ſay, a deſtructive or deadly ſhadow.

Ver. 8. To raiſe up their mourning.] This is an obſcure expreſſion. Margin and Vulgate read, to raiſe up Leviathan; the Septuagint a great whale; the meaning of which is by ſome interpreted, to catch a tartar (as we ſpeak) or rouze a lion. Diodati underſtands it of thoſe hired mourners, who uſe tragical forms of mourning at funerals.

Ver. 14. Which built deſolate places.] That is, who lie alone in the tombs, which they built themſelves.

Ver. 23. Whoſe way is hid.] Who can ſee no remedy for his evils, nor means of extricating himſelf.

Ver. 1. Then Eliphaz the Temanite anſwered and ſaid.] Incenſed at the juſt complaint of Job, and forgetting that his agonizing pains had extorted this bitter complaint from him, inſtead of condoling him, and applying lenitives to aſſuage the anguiſh of his heart, rebukes him very roughly, for not following the good advice he had himſelf ſo often given to others in their adverſity; adding, that he had ſufficient reaſon to ſuſpect the ſincerity of his piety, becauſe he never knew the innocent ſo deeply afflicted; but on the contrary, God always humbled wicked oppreſſors.

Ver. 18. His angels he charged with folly.] Not with the follies of vain man, but with ſuch imperfections as are comparatively folly in the eyes of him, who alone is wiſdom and perfection itſelf.

Ver. 19. Which are cruſhed before the moth.] Before the face of the moth. They are ſo frail, that even a moth flying againſt them, may daſh them to pieces.

NOTES on Chap. V.

Ver. 1. Call now, if there be any that will anſwer thee] If thou doſt not believe me, thou mayeſt enquire of others. Eliphaz here proſecutes the very ſame argument, endeavouring to confirm it from the opinion and obſervation of others; nay, could he have recourſe to an angel, he would ſtill receive the ſame information, namely, that the anger of God falls only on the head of the wicked.

Ver. 3. I curſed his habitation.] That is, I predicted his downfall.

Ver. 4. They are cruſhed in the gate.] They are eſteemed as infamous perſons in courts of judicature and common aſſemblies, and as unworthy to enjoy the public benefits.

Ver. 19. In ſeven, &c.] That is, in the ſeventh: thy troubles cannot be ſo many; but if thou ſubmiſſively accept them, he will deliver thee from them.

from death; and in war, from the power of the ſword.

21 Thou ſhalt be hid from the ſcourge of the tongue: neither ſhalt thou be afraid of deſtruction when it cometh.

22 At deſtruction and famine thou ſhalt laugh: neither ſhalt thou be afraid of the beaſts of the earth.

23 For thou ſhalt be in league with the ſtones of the field: and the beaſts of the field ſhall be at peace with thee.

24 And thou ſhalt know that thy tabernacle ſhall be in peace: and thou ſhalt viſit thy habitation, and ſhalt not ſin.

25 Thou ſhalt know alſo that thy ſeed ſhall be great, and thy offspring as the graſs of the earth.

26 Thou ſhalt come to thy grave in a full age, like as a ſhock of corn cometh in, in his ſeaſon.

27 Lo this, we have ſearched it, ſo it is; hear it, and know thou it for thy good.

CHAP. VI.

1 Job ſheweth that his complaints are not cauſeleleſs: 8 He wiſhes for death, wherein he is aſſured of comfort: 14 He reproveth his friends of unkindneſs.

BUT Job anſwered and ſaid,

2 Oh that my grief were throughly weighed, and my calamity laid in the balances together!

3 For now it would be heavier than the ſand of the ſea: therefore my words are ſwallowed up.

4 For the arrows of the Almighty are within me, the poiſon whereof drinketh up my ſpirit: the terrors of God do ſet themſelves in aray againſt me.

5 Doth the wild aſs bray when he hath graſs? or loweth the ox over his fodder?

6 Can that which is unſavory be eaten without ſalt? or is there any taſte in the white of an egg?

7 The things that my ſoul refuſed to touch, are as my ſorrowful meat.

8 O that I might have my requeſt! and that God would grant me the thing that I long for!

9 Even that it would pleaſe God to deſtroy me; that he would let looſe his hand, and cut me off.

10 Then ſhould I yet have comfort, yea, I would harden myſelf in ſorrow; let him not ſpare, for I have not concealed the words of the holy One.

11 What is my ſtrength, that I ſhould hope? and what is mine end that I ſhould prolong my life?

Ver. 23. Thou ſhalt be in league with the ſtones of the field.] When thou art in peace and favour with God, no creatures, animate or inanimate ſhall hurt thee: the earth ſhall be very plenteous, ſo that the ſtony fields ſhall bring forth abundantly, and the wild beaſt ſhall not hurt thee; when thou ſhalt recover thine innocence, thou ſhalt be as happy as Adam before his tranſgreſſion, the ſavage beaſts ſhall be conciliated to thee.

Ver. 24. Shalt know that thy tabernacle ſhall be in peace.] This aſſurance of proſperity, is one of the advantages which thoſe enjoy, who are tried and purified in the furnace of affliction.

Ver. 26. As a ſhock of corn cometh in, in his ſeaſon.] Thou ſhalt not die a violent and untimely death; but ſhall be carried to the grave, as corn is to the barn, when it is full ripe, and fit to be gathered.

NOTES on Chap. VI.

Ver. 1. Job anſwered and ſaid.] Job, not at all convinced by the arguments of Eliphaz, renews his wiſhes for death, and upbraids his friends with their unkindneſs; who, inſtead of ſympathizing with him in his ſufferings, and pouring balm into his wounds, had augmented the weight of his diſtreſs, by heavy reproaches and bitter reproofs.

Ver. 2. Oh that my grief were thoroughly weighed, &c.] Oh that ſome impartial hand would weigh my complaints and ſufferings againſt each other, in the balance of equity, and faithfully determine which of them preponderate!

Ver. 3. Therefore my words are ſwallowed up.] I want words to expreſs my grief.

Ver. 5. Doth the wild aſs bray, when he hath graſs?] The very beaſts are ſatisfied when ſupplied with neceſſaries; and do you think that I complain without cauſe?

Ver. 6. Can that which is unſavory be eaten without ſalt?] If it is uſual to ſeaſon things that are inſipid, how much more then may we call for ſomething to qualify the bitterneſs of affliction?

Before Christ 1520.

12 Is my ſtrength the ſtrength of ſtones? or is my fleſh of braſs?

13 Is not my help in me? and is wiſdom driven quite from me?

14 To him that is afflicted, pity ſhould be ſhewed from his friend; but he forſaketh the fear of the Almighty.

15 My brethren have dealt deceitfully as a brook, and as the ſtream of brooks they paſs away:

16 Which are blackiſh by reaſon of the ice, and wherein the ſnow is hid:

17 What time they wax warm, they vaniſh: when it is hot, they are conſumed out of their place.

18 The paths of their way are turned aſide; they go to nothing, and periſh.

19 The troops of Tema looked, the companies of Sheba waited for them.

20 They were confounded becauſe they had hoped; they came thither, and were aſhamed.

21 For now ye are nothing; ye ſee my caſting down, and are afraid.

22 Did I ſay, Bring unto me? or give a reward for me of your ſubſtance?

23 Or deliver me from the enemies hand? or redeem me from the hand of the mighty?

24 Teach me, and I will hold my tongue: and cauſe me to underſtand wherein I have erred.

28 Now therefore be content, look upon me, for it is evident unto you, if I lie.

29 Return, I pray you, let it not be iniquity; yea, return again, my righteouſneſs is in it.

30 Is there iniquity in my tongue? cannot my taſte diſcern perverſe things?

CHAP. VII.

1 Job excuſeth his deſire of death: 12 He complaineth of his own reſtleſneſs, and Gods watchfulneſs.

IS there not an appointed time to man upon earth? are not his days alſo like the days of an hireling?

2 As a ſervant earneſtly deſireth the ſhadow, and as an hireling looketh for the reward of his work:

3 So am I made to poſſeſs months of vanity, and weariſom nights are appointed to me.

4 When I lie down, I ſay, When ſhall I ariſe, and the night be gone? and I am full of toſſings to and fro unto the dawning of the day.

5 My fleſh is clothed with worms, and clods of duſt, my ſkin is broken, and become lothſom.

6 My days are ſwifter than a weavers ſhuttle, and are ſpent without hope.

Ver. 15. Deceitfully as a brook.] The Septuagint reads, as a brook that is dried up; or, as the torrents which make a great noiſe, and run with a violent ſtream, when the melted ice and ſnow fall into them.

Ver. 16, 17. The Septuagint reads, As ſnow or ice, when frozen, is firm; but as that when the heat comes, melts, and it is not known where it was; ſo am I forſaken of all, I am undone, without houſe or home.

Ver. 19. The troops of Tema looked, the companies of Sheba, &c.] Theſe were places in Arabia, to which they travelled in caravans, and in great numbers, with many beaſts of carriage, and water was very ſcarce. "They "that travel into our neighbouring countries, expected "to quench their thirſt there, where they had before ſeen ſo much water.

Ver. 30. Cannot my taſte diſcern perverſe things?] "I "do not think my judgment is ſo corrupted, but that I "can diſern what is bad, though ſpoken by myſelf."

NOTES on Chap. VII.

Ver. 1. Is there not an appointed time to man upon earth?] Is not the whole life of man a perpetual conflict, with troubles and misfortunes? And muſt not thoſe who enjoy the largeſt ſhare of happineſs, expect to meet with a ſufficient portion of labour, wearineſs, and pain?

7 O remember that my life is wind: mine eye ſhall no more ſee good.

8 The eye of him that hath ſeen me ſhall ſee me no more: thine eyes are upon me, and I am not.

9 As the cloud is conſumed, and vaniſheth away: ſo he that goeth down to the grave, ſhall come up no more.

10 He ſhall return no more to his houſe, neither ſhall his place know him any more.

11 Therefore I will not refrain my mouth, I will ſpeak in the anguiſh of my ſpirit, I will complain in the bitterneſs of my ſoul.

12 Am I a ſea, or a whale, that thou ſetteſt a watch over me?

13 When I ſay, My bed ſhall comfort me, my couch ſhall eaſe my complaint:

14 Then thou ſcareſt me with dreams, and terrifieſt me through viſions.

15 So that my ſoul chooſeth ſtrangling, and death rather than my life.

16 I lothe it, I would not live alway: let me alone, for my days are vanity.

17 What is man, that thou ſhouldeſt magnify him? and that thou ſhouldeſt ſet thine heart upon him?

18 And that thou ſhouldeſt viſit him every morning, and try him every moment?

19 How long wilt thou not depart from me, nor let me alone till I ſwallow down my ſpittle?

20 I have ſinned, what ſhall I do unto thee, O thou preſerver of men? why haſt thou ſet me as a mark againſt thee, ſo that I am a burden to myſelf?

21 And why doſt thou not pardon my tranſgreſſion, and take away mine iniquity? for now ſhall I ſleep in the duſt, and thou ſhalt ſeek me in the morning, but I ſhall not be.

THen anſwered Bildad the Shuhite, and ſaid,

Ver. 1. Then anſwered Bildad the Shuhite, &c.] The apologies of Job made but little impreſſion on his friends; for he had no ſooner finiſhed his anſwer, than Bildad the Shuhite continued the diſpute, diſcovering the ſame principles with Eliphaz, for though he gives him good counſel, yet he ſtill preſſes it, as the ſenſe of all antiquity, that providence always rewards the juſt, and puniſhes the wicked, who, though they may flouriſh for a ſeaſon, are always rooted up at the laſt.

NOTES on Chap. IX.

Ver. 1. Then Job anſwered and ſaid.] Job allows the force of Bildad's arguments in the beginning of his ſpeech, and very religiouſly adores the juſtice, wiſdom, and ſovereignty of the Almighty, with whom, he proteſts, he had no intention to diſpute, but only to aſſert the contrary maxim to what they maintained, namely, that piety will not ſecure us from all calamities, and that they do not always fall upon thoſe who deſerve them.

Ver. 3. He cannot anſwer him one of a thouſand.] Here Job, as a very learned author interprets it, profeſſes his belief of a mediator and interceſſor: if he will contend with him, ſhall not he, who is called by way of eminent diſtinction, one among a thouſand anſwer him, and plead the cauſe in behalf of mankind?

22 A land of darkneſs, as darkneſs itſelf, and of the ſhadow of death, without any order, and where the light is as darkneſs.

CHAP. XI.

1 Zophar reproveth Job for juſtifying himſelf. 5 Gods wiſdom is unſearchable. 13 The aſſured bleſſing of repentance.

THen anſwered Zophar the Naamathite, and ſaid,

2 Should not the multitude of words be anſwered? and ſhould a man full of talk be juſtified?

3 Should thy lies make men hold their peace? and when thou mockeſt, ſhall no man make thee aſhamed?

4 For thou haſt ſaid, My doctrine is pure, and I am clean in thine eyes.

5 But, O that God would ſpeak, and open his lips againſt thee;

6 And that he would ſhew thee the ſecrets of wiſdom, that they are double to that which is! know therefore that God exacteth of thee leſs than thine iniquity deſerveth.

7 Canſt thou by ſearching find out God? canſt thou find out the Almighty unto perfection?

8 It is as high as heaven, what canſt thou do? deeper than hell, what canſt thou know?

9 The meaſure thereof is longer than the earth, and broader than the ſea.

Before Chriſt 1520.

10 If he cut off, and ſhut up, or gather together, then who can hinder him?

11 For he knoweth vain men: he ſeeth wickedneſs alſo; will he not then conſider it?

12 For vain man would be wiſe, though man be born like a wild aſſes colt.

13 If thou prepare thine heart, and ſtretch out thine hands towards him;

14 If iniquity be in thine hand, put it far away, and let not wickedneſs dwell in thy tabernacles.

15 For then ſhalt thou lift up thy face without ſpot; yea, thou ſhalt be ſtedfaſt, and ſhalt not fear:

16 Becauſe thou ſhalt forget thy miſery, and remember it as waters that paſs away:

17 And thine age ſhall be clearer than the noon-day; thou ſhalt ſhine forth, thou ſhalt be as the morning.

18 And thou ſhall be ſecure becauſe there is hope; yea, thou ſhalt dig about thee, and thou ſhalt take thy reſt in ſafety.

19 Alſo thou ſhalt lie down, and none ſhall make thee afraid; yea, many ſhall make ſuit unto thee.

20 But the eyes of the wicked ſhall fail, and they ſhall not eſcape, and their hope ſhall be as the giving up of the ghoſt.

CHAP.

Ver. 22. A land of darkneſs, as darkneſs itſelf, &c.] The Septuagint read, Into a land of everlaſting darkneſs, where there is no light, nor beholding the life of mortals.

NOTES on Chap. XI.

Ver. 1. Then anſwered Zophar, &c.] Zophar here continues the diſpute, and though he diſcuſſes with great ſenſe, and gives Job exceeding good advice, yet he ſtill maintains the opinion of the other two friends, and inſiſts, that he would not have been ſo miſerable, if he had not been wicked.

Ver. 5, 6. O that God would ſpeak, &c.] O that God would make thee acquainted with the ſecret reaſons that induced him to afflict thee! thou wouldſt then be convinced, that thy puniſhment is far from being equal to thine iniquity.

Ver. 7. Canſt thou by ſearching find out God?] Can all thy deep enquiries ſufficiently account for the judgments of God, and perfectly comprehend the reaſons of his providence?

Ver. 15. Thou ſhalt lift up thy face.] This is a ſcripture phraſe, for a fearleſs and chearful ſtate; as the contrary is expreſſed by the falling of the countenance, as in Cain, Gen. iv. 5, 6.

Ver. 17. Thine age ſhall be clearer, &c.] The reſt of thy life ſhall be more glorious than the ſun at noon-day. The Septuagint read, Thy prayer ſhall be as the morning.

Ver. 18. Thou ſhalt dig about thee, and ſhalt take thy reſt, &c.] Thou ſhalt dig wells of water, and none ſhall diſturb thy tents, or thy flocks.

Ver. 20. The eyes of the wicked ſhall fail.] They ſhall look for happineſs in vain.

Before Chriſt 1520.

CHAP. XII.

1 Job maintaineth himſelf againſt his friends that reprove him: 7 He acknowledgeth the general doctrine of Gods omnipotency.

AND Job anſwered and ſaid,

2 No doubt but ye are the people, and wiſdom ſhall die with you.

3 But I have underſtanding as well as you: I am not inferior to you; yea, who knoweth not ſuch things as theſe?

4 I am as one mocked of his neighbour, who calleth upon God, and he anſwereth him: the juſt upright man is laughed to ſcorn.

5 He that is ready to ſlip with his feet, is as a lamp deſpiſed in the thought of him that is at eaſe.

6 The tabernacles of robbers proſper, and they that provoke God are ſecure; into whoſe hand God bringeth abundantly.

7 But aſk now the beaſts, and they ſhall teach thee; and the fowls of the air, and they ſhall tell thee:

8 Or ſpeak to the earth, and it ſhall teach thee; and the fiſhes of the ſea ſhall declare unto thee.

9 Who knoweth not in all theſe, that the hand of the LORD hath wrought this?

10 In whoſe hand is the ſoul of every living thing, and the breath of all mankind.

11 Doth not the ear try words? and the mouth taſte his meat?

12 With the ancient is wiſdom; and in length of days, underſtanding.

13 With him is wiſdom and ſtrength, he hath counſel and underſtanding.

14 Behold, he breaketh down, and it cannot be built again: he ſhutteth up a man, and there can be no opening.

15 Behold, he withholdeth the waters, and they dry up: alſo he ſendeth them out, and they overturn the earth.

16 With him is ſtrength and wiſdom: the deceived and the deceiver are his.

17 He leadeth counſellors away ſpoiled, and maketh the judges fools.

18 He looſeth the bond of kings, and girdeth their loins with a girdle.

19 He leadeth princes away ſpoiled, and overthroweth the mighty.

20 He removeth away the ſpeech of the truſty, and taketh away the underſtanding of the aged.

21 He poureth contempt upon princes, and weakeneth the ſtrength of the mighty.

22 He diſcovereth deep things out of darkneſs, and bringeth out to light the ſhadow of death.

23 He increaſeth the nations, and deſtroyeth them: he enlargeth the nations, and ſtraiteneth them again.

24 He taketh away the heart of the chief of the people of the earth, and cauſeth them to wander in a wilderneſs where there is no way.

NOTES on Chap. XII.

Ver. 1. Job anſwered and ſaid.] Job, in this chapter, accuſe his three friends of having too great a conceit of their own wiſdom, though it had not yet taught them the common duty of humanity to the afflicted.

Ver. 2. No doubt ye are the people, &c.] This is ſarcaſtically ſpoken, "You fancy that you are the only perſons "of ſenſe in the world, and that, when you are dead, "wiſdom will be no longer found among the ſons of "men."

Ver. 5. He that is ready to ſlip with his feet, &c.] He that is in adverſity, is as a lamp extinguiſhed, which is deſpiſed and thrown away as uſeleſs.

Ver. 13. With him is wiſdom.] That is, with God.

Ver. 16. The deceived and the deceiver are his.] The hypocriſy of thoſe who deceive others, is as well known to him, as the weakneſs of thoſe who are deceived.

Ver. 18. He looſeth the bonds of kings, and girdeth their loins with a girdle.] He ſtrippeth kings of their royal garments, and bindeth them in chains. Rather as the Septuagint have it, He ſetteth kings on the throne.

Ver. 22. He diſcovereth, &c.] The moſt ſecret deſigns are open to his view, and he expoſeth to open day, plots formed in the obſcurity of night.

Ver. 24. He taketh away the heart of the chief of the people of the earth, &c.] He deprives commanders of courage and judgment, and leads them into confuſion.

Before Chriſt 1520.

25 They grope in the dark without light, and he maketh them to ſtagger like a drunken man.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Job reproveth his friends of partiality:
14 He profeſſeth his confidence in God,
20 and intreateth to know his own ſins, and Gods purpoſe in afflicting him.

LO, mine eye hath ſeen all this, mine ear hath heard and underſtood it.

2 What ye know, the ſame do I know alſo: I am not inferior unto you.

3 Surely I would ſpeak to the Almighty, and I deſire to reaſon with God.

4 But ye are forgers of lies, ye are all phyſicians of no value.

5 O that you would altogether hold your peace, and it ſhould be your wiſdom.

6 Hear now my reaſoning, and hearken to the pleadings of my lips.

7 Will you ſpeak wickedly for God? and talk deceitfully for him?

8 Will ye accept his perſon? will ye contend for God?

9 Is it good that he ſhould ſearch you out? or as one man mocketh another, do ye ſo mock him?

10 He will ſurely reprove you, if ye do ſecretly accept perſons.

11 Shall not his excellency make you afraid? and his dread fall upon you?

Before Chriſt 1520.

12 Your remembrances are like unto aſhes, your bodies to bodies of clay.

13 Hold your peace, let me alone that I may ſpeak, and let come on me what will.

14 Wherefore do I take my fleſh in my teeth, and put my life in mine hand?

15 Though he ſlay me, yet will I truſt in him: but I will maintain mine own ways before him.

16 He alſo ſhall be my ſalvation: for an hypocrite ſhall not come before him.

17 Hear diligently my ſpeech, and my declaration with your ears.

18 Behold now, I have ordered my cauſe; I know that I ſhall be juſtified.

19 Who is he that will plead with me? for now if I hold my tongue, I ſhall give up the ghoſt.

20 Only do not two things unto me: then will I not hide myſelf from thee.

21 Withdraw thine hand far from me: and let not thy dread make me afraid.

22 Then call thou, and I will anſwer: or let me ſpeak, and anſwer thou me.

23 How many are mine iniquities and ſins? make me to know my tranſgreſſion and my ſin.

NOTES on Chap. XIII.

Ver. 4. Ye are all phyſicians of no value.] Like unſkilful phyſicians, you exaſperate the diſeaſe you cannot cure.

Ver. 7. Will you ſpeak wickedly for God, &c.] Doth God ſtand in need of untruths to juſtify his proceeding? Cannot he be righteous, unleſs I be wicked?

Ver. 8. Will you accept his perſon? &c.] Do his proceedings deviate ſo far from juſtice, that you muſt favour his cauſe?

Ver. 9. Is it good that he ſhould ſearch you out?] Will it be to your advantage, think you, that God ſhould ſtrictly examine all you have ſaid?

Ver. 10. He will ſurely reprove you, if ye ſecretly accept perſons.] That is to ſay, if you judge thus raſhly and unjuſtly, even in vindication of his ways.

Ver. 12. Your remembrances are like unto aſhes, your bodies to bodies of clay.] In the Hebrew, it is, Your memorable ſayings are ſpeeches of aſhes, to the backs of clay your backs. That is, your anſwers are ſpeeches of no value; perhaps the other may be interpreted, you are thrown on your backs; you are failed in the argument. As wreſtling was an exerciſe famous among the ancients, a metaphor taken from thence does not ſeem improbable. The Latin vulgate ſavours this interpretation.

Ver. 14. Wherefore do I take my fleſh in my teeth, &c.] Why am I thus grievouſly tormented, inſomuch that I could tear my fleſh with my teeth?

Ver. 15. I will maintain mine own ways.] That is, mine integrity.

Ver. 16. An hypocrite.] A ſycophant, or falſe accuſer.

Ver. 18. Behold now, I have ordered my cauſe, &c.] As if he had ſaid, I addreſs myſelf to my trial, and plead not guilty.

Ver. 19. Who is he that will plead with me, &c.] The Hebrew runs literally thus: "Who is he that will litigate the matter with me, for now I will be ſilent and "expire;" that is, Who is he that will bring a charge againſt me? for you are now to conſider me as dead, and ſtanding before the tribunal of God. The adding an if, as in our tranſlation, has ſpoiled the whole turn of the ſentence.

Before Chriſt 1520.

24 Wherefore hideſt thou thy face, and holdeſt me for thine enemy?

25 Wilt thou break a leaf driven to and fro? and wilt thou purſue the dry ſtubble?

26 For thou writeſt bitter things againſt me, and makeſt me to poſſeſs the iniquities of my youth.

27 Thou putteſt my feet alſo in the ſtocks, and lookeſt narrowly unto all my paths; thou ſetteſt a print upon the heels of my feet.

28 And, he as a rotten thing conſumeth, as a garment that is moth-eaten.

1 Job intreateth God for favour by the ſhortneſs of life, and certainty of death. 7 Though life once loſt be irrecoverable, yet he waiteth for his change. 16 By ſin the creature is ſubject to corruption.

MAN that is born of a woman, is of few days, and full of trouble.

2 He cometh forth like a flower, and is cut down: he fleeth alſo as a ſhadow, and continueth not.

3 And doſt thou open thine eyes upon ſuch an one, and bringeſt me into judgment with thee?

4 Who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean? not one.

Before Chriſt 1520.

5 Seeing his days are determined, the number of his months are with thee, thou haſt appointed his bounds that he cannot paſs.

6 Turn from him that he may reſt, till he ſhall accompliſh, as an hireling his day.

7 For there is hope of a tree, if it be cut down, that it will ſprout again, and that the tender branch thereof will not ceaſe.

8 Though the root thereof wax old in the earth, and the ſtock thereof die in the ground:

9 Yet through the ſcent of water it will bud, and bring forth boughs like a plant.

10 But man dieth, and waſteth away: yea, man giveth up the ghoſt, and where is he?

11 As the waters fail from the ſea, and the flood decayeth and drieth up:

12 So man lieth down, and riſeth not till the heavens be no more, they ſhall not awake, nor be raiſed out of their ſleep.

13 O that thou wouldeſt hide me in the grave, that thou wouldeſt keep me ſecret, until thy wrath be paſt, that thou wouldeſt appoint me a ſet time, and remember me!

Ver. 27. Thou ſetteſt a print upon the heels of my feet.] Probably alluding to the puniſhment of ſlaves that run away, which was, to beat them ſeverely with a battoon on the ſoles of their feet; this occaſioned great pain, and often putrefaction of the parts, to which the 28th verſe ſeems to allude; and he, or rather, and this ſeverity as rottenneſs, as a putrifying ſore, conſumeth me.

NOTES on Chap. XIV.

Ver. 4. Who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean?] The Septuagint reads, "Who is there that is clean from pollution? not one; though his life be but of a day."

Ver. 5. Seeing his days are determined, &c.] If he were more conſiderable than he is, yet ſince he can live but ſo long a time as thou doſt prefix him, and cannot prolong his days one moment beyond, &c.

Ver. 7. There is hope of a tree if it be cut down, &c.] This fine ſentiment has been embelliſhed by ſeveral authors: thus Moſchus, on the death of Bion;

Alas! the meaneſt flow'rs which gardens yield,
The vileſt weeds that flouriſh in the field,
Which dead in wintry ſepulchres appear,
Revive in ſpring, and bloom another year:
But we, the great, the brave, the learn'd, the wiſe,
Soon as the hand of death has clos'd our eyes,
In tombs forgotten lie; no ſuns reſtore,
We ſleep, for ever ſleep, to wake no more.

Ver. 11, 12. As the waters fail from the ſea. &c.] The meaning ſeems to be, that as we ſee every thing in flux, and ſubject to change, ſo the whole ſhall be one day changed. The ſea itſelf will be quite abſorbed; and the rivers, which now flow perpetually, as if ſupplied by everlaſting ſprings, will nevertheleſs, in time, quite ceaſe and diſappear; this viſible frame of things ſhall be diſſolved, and the preſent heavens themſelves ſhall be no more; and then, and not till then, comes the reſurrection, and the general judgment.

Ver. 14, 15. If a man die ſhall he live again? &c.] The Septuagint reads, "For if a man die, he ſhall live to "finiſh the days of his life. I will wait till I am made anew: then thou ſhalt call, and I will anſwer thee. Here Job ſeems to have had thoughts of a reſurrection.

Before Christ 1520.

all the days of my appointed time will I wait, till my change come.

15 Thou ſhalt call, and I will anſwer thee: thou wilt have a deſire to the work of thine hands.

16 For now thou numbereſt my ſteps, doſt thou not watch over my ſin?

17 My tranſgreſſion is ſealed up in a bag, and thou ſoweſt up mine iniquity.

18 And ſurely the mountain falling cometh to nought: and the rock is removed out of his place.

19 The waters wear the ſtones: thou waſheſt away the things which grow out of the duſt of the earth, and thou deſtroyeſt the hope of man.

20 Thou prevaileſt for ever againſt him, and he paſſeth; thou changeſt his countenance, and ſendeſt him away.

21 His ſons come to honour, and he knoweth it not; and they are brought low, but he perceiveth it not of them.

22 But his fleſh upon him ſhall have pain, and his ſoul within him ſhall mourn.

CHAP. XV.

1 Eliphaz reproveth Job of impiety in juſtifying himſelf: 17 He proveth by tradition the unquietneſs of wicked men.

THen anſwered Eliphaz the Temanite, and ſaid,

2 Should a wiſe man utter vain knowledge, and fill his belly with the eaſt-wind?

12 Why doth thine heart carry thee away? and what do thine eyes wink at,

13 That thou turneſt thy ſpirit againſt God, and letteſt ſuch words go out of thy month?

14 What is man, that he ſhould be clean? and he which is born of a woman, that he ſhould be righteous?

15 Behold, he putteth no truſt in his ſaints; yea, the heavens are not clean in his ſight.

16 How much more abominable and filthy is man, which drinketh iniquity like water?

Ver. 20. Thou changeſt his countenance, and ſendeſt him away.] Thou ſpoileſt his beauty, and ſendeſt his ſoul into the regions of eternity.

NOTES on Chap. XV.

Ver. 1. Then anſwered Eliphaz, &c.] Eliphaz, ſtimulated with anger at the ſlighting manner in which Job had treated their ſpeeches, renews the diſpute with more eagerneſs and violence than before; but urges no more than what he aſſerted at the firſt, namely, that the wicked only are puniſhed by God, with ſuch calamities as had now fallen upon Job.

Ver. 4. And reſtraineſt prayer before God.] That is, by laying aſide religion, thou diſcourageſt men from pouring out their prayer before God.

9 The righteous alſo ſhall hold on his way, and he that hath clean hands ſhall be ſtronger and ſtronger.

10 But as for you all, do you return, and come now: for I cannot find one wiſe man among you.

THen anſwered Bildad the Shuhite, and ſaid,

5 Yea, the light of the wicked ſhall be put out, and the ſpark of his fire ſhall not ſhine.

6 The light ſhall be dark in his tabernacle, and his candle ſhall be put out with him.

7 The ſteps of his ſtrength ſhall be ſtraitened, and his own counſel ſhall caſt him down.

Ver. 14. I have ſaid to corruption, &c.] I have made ſo ſtrict an alliance with death, that corruption and the worm are my neareſt relations.

Ver. 16. Thou ſhalt go down to the bars of the pit, &c.] All the hopes you flatter me with, ſhall ſink to the bottom of the grave, when you, my friends, as well as I, take up our lodging in the duſt.

NOTES on Chap. XI8.

Ver. 1. Then anſwered Bildad the Shuhite.] Bildad, enraged that their advice ſhould be treated with contempt proceeds even to abuſe. He draws a more terrible picture than any before related, and inſinuated that he had worſe to expect, unleſs he prevented it by a ſpeedy alteration of his behaviour.

Ver. 4. Shall the rock be removed.] Becauſe you obſtinately maintain that God does not govern by equal laws, muſt it therefore be ſo? ſhall providence be removed to gratify your paſſions?

Ver. 6. The light ſhall be dark in his tabernacle, &c.] The ſplendor of his family ſhall be turned into contempt, and their joy into mourning.

11 Terrors ſhall make him afraid on every ſide, and ſhall drive him to his feet.

12 His ſtrength ſhall be hunger-bitten, and deſtruction ſhall be ready at his ſide.

13 It ſhall devour the ſtrength of his ſkin: even the firſt-born of death ſhall devour his ſtrength.

14 His confidence ſhall be rooted out of his tabernacle, and it ſhall bring him to the kings terrors.

15 It ſhall dwell in his tabernacle, becauſe it is none of his: brimſtone ſhall be ſcattered upon his habitation.

3 Theſe ten times have ye reproached me: you are not aſhamed that you make yourſelves ſtrange to me.

5 If indeed ye will magnify yourſelves againſt me, and plead againſt me my reproach:

7 Behold, I cry out of wrong, but I am not heard: I cry aloud, but there is no judgment.

9 He hath ſtript me of my glory, and taken the crown from my head.

Ver. 12. Shall be hunger bitten.] The Hebrew, to affright, which is an image more ſuitable to this place, than the idea of famine.

Ver. 13. The ſtrenth of his ſkin.] By ſtrength, in this place, according to the original, may be underſtood, any bad habit of body; and for the firſt born of death, the Hebrew is, an untimely death, and a ſecond ſignification of the word ſtrength, being branches, or children; the ſenſe of the paſſage will ſtand, "Filthy ulcers ſhall conſume his "ſkin; an untimely death ſhall deſtroy his children." This ſarcaſm was in a particular manner adapted to Job, who then laboured under both theſe calamities.

Ver. 15. Brimſtone ſhall be ſcattered upon his habitation.] By this, ſome learned commentators underſtand, that his habitation ſhall be deſtroyed by thunder and lightning.

Ver. 18. Be driven from light into darkneſs.] He ſhall be thrown from his height of greatneſs, into ſome obſcure place, and be buried in oblivion.

Ver. 21. Surely ſuch are the dwellings, &c.] This is a true deſcription of the miſerable ſtate of the wicked; and ſuch is the certain portion of them who pay no honour to their Creator.

NOTES on Chap. XIX.

Ver. 1. Job anſwered and ſaid, &c.] Job having before, as it were, given himſelf up to deſpair, and being for that reproved by Bildad the Shuhite, now recollects himſelf, and complains of the bad uſage of his friends in cenſuring him, whoſe caſe was ſo deplorable, that if he was in an error, he rather deſerved pity than blame from them; and in the end, declares this, as his fixed ſentiments, that he had now a glimmering hope, that God would at laſt take pity on his miſery, and reſtore him again to happineſs.

Ver. 3. Make yourſelves ſtrange.] Rather, are ye not aſhamed to be ſo obſtinate againſt me.

12 His troops come together, and raiſe up their way againſt me, and encamp round about my tabernacle.

13 He hath put my brethren far from me, and mine acquaintance are verily eſtranged from me.

14 My kinsfolk have failed, and my familiar friends have forgotten me.

15 They that dwell in mine houſe, and my maids, count me for a ſtranger: I am an alien in their ſight.

16 I called my ſervant, and he gave me no anſwer: I intreated him with my mouth.

17 My breath is ſtrange to my wife, though I intreated for the childrens ſake of mine own body.

18 Yea, young children deſpiſed me; I aroſe, and they ſpake againſt me.

19 All my inward friends abhorred me: and they whom I loved, are turned againſt me.

20 My bone cleaveth to my ſkin, and to my fleſh, and I am eſcaped with the ſkin of my teeth.

Before Christ 1520.

22 Why do ye proſecute me as God, and are not ſatisfied with my fleſh?

23 Oh that my words were now written! oh that they were printed in a book!

24 That they were graven with an iron pen and lead, in the rock for ever!

25 For I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he ſhall ſtand at the latter day upon the earth.

26 And though after my ſkin, worms deſtroy this body, yet in my fleſh ſhall I ſee God:

27 Whom I ſhall ſee for myſelf, and mine eyes ſhall behold, and not another; though my reins be conſumed within me.

28 But ye ſhould ſay, Why perſecute we him, ſeeing the root of the matter is found in me?

29 Be ye afraid of the ſword: for wrath bringeth the puniſhments of the ſword, that ye may know there is a judgment.

CHAP. XX.

Zophar ſheweth the ſtate and portion of the wicked.

THen anſwered Zophar the Naamathite, and ſaid,

Ver. 18. Young children deſpiſed me.] The Hebrew words, tranſlated young children, ſignify alſo domeſticks, ſo that this paſſage might be more properly expreſſed "The meaneſt of my domeſticks or ſervants deſpiſed me.

Ver. 25. I know that my redeemer liveth, &c.] The Hebrew word Goali here rendered my redeemer, ſignifies alſo the avenger, and is properly the advocate or perſon who was to ſee right done to his client in any caſe, the paſſage before us undoubtedly relates to the reſurrection of the body and a future judgment; though ſome learned authors have interpreted them of a temporal deliverance. That the Jews did believe that the bodies, at leaſt of remarkable pious men, ſhould riſe again, appears plainly from the tranſlation of the laſt verſe of the book of Job according to the LXX. which in that verſion runs thus; "So Job died, being old and full of days; but it is "written that he ſhall riſe again with thoſe whom the "Lord raiſes up." To tranſcribe the name of Chriſtian commentators who follow this interpretation would fill a page: I ſhall therefore only lay before the reader a literal tranſlation and paraphraſe, which the learned and ingenious Mr. Peters has given of this paſſage in his Critical Diſſertation on the book of Job. The tranſlation runs literally thus, without altering the order of the words; "I "know my vindicator living, and at the laſt over the "duſt he ſhall ariſe: and after my ſkin (they) have deſtroyed this, alſo from my fleſh I ſhall ſee God: Whom I ſhall ſee for myſelf; and mine eyes ſhall behold, and "not another, or a ſtranger." I know the vindicator, or avenger of my innocence and reputation, whom you have thus inhumanly attacked, now liveth, and ſhall live for ever; and that in ſome grand future period he ſhall ariſe to judge the dead. And though after my ſkin, which you ſee ſo miſerably affected, this whole frame ſhall be diſſolved and turned to duſt; yet I believe that I ſhall live again hereafter, as truly and certainly as I do now, and ſhall appear perſonally before my judge; whom I ſhall ſee for myſelf, or in my own cauſe, prepared to do me juſtice; and conſcious of my innocence, ſhall look up to him with joy and hope, while others, my accuſers, unable to behold him, ſhall look down with ſhame and confuſion.

and he tells him, that though he taxed them with unkindneſs, yet it is publicly acknowledged, that ſuffering was the portion of the wicked; concluding with a plain intimation, that Job was that wicked man whom they had all along ſuſpected him to be.

Ver. 2. Therefore do my thoughts cauſe me to anſwer, &c.] The abrupt manner in which the ſpeech of Zophar begins, ſhews that he was in a paſſion; though, by the expreſſion in the next verſe, The ſpirit of my underſtanding cauſeth me anſwer; he would inſinuate, that he was quite moderate and calm. Not conſidering the proteſtation which Job had made of his innocence, Zophar goes on in the common place, of the certain downfall of the wicked, be he never ſo powerful and well ſupported.

Ver. 6. Though his excellency mount up, &c.] Though he ſhould be advanced to the utmoſt pitch of mortal honour and human greatneſs, being advanced above the reſt of mankind, as much as the cedar of the mountain is above the thiſtle of the valley; yet he ſhall fall as low as his own dunghill, and be caſt out with contempt; they who knew him in his proſperous condition, ſhall be aſtoniſhed at his ruin, and with terror and amazement, enquire what is become of him.

Ver. 10. To pleaſe the poor.] To pacify the rage of the poor whom he hath oppreſſed.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Job ſheweth that even in the judgment of man he hath reaſon to be grieved. 7 Sometimes the wicked do ſo proſper, as they deſpiſe God. 16 Sometimes their deſtruction is manifeſt. 22 The happy and unhappy are alike in death. 27 The judgment of the wicked is in another world.

NOTES on Chap. XXI.

Ver. 1. Job anſwered and ſaid.] To bring the diſpute to a ſpeedier iſſue, Job (after having reproved their incivility in a ſhort preface) does not any longer content himſelf merely with denying what they had ſaid, but proves, from authentic hiſtories, that though God does ſometimes puniſh the wicked in an examplary manner, yet this is not always the caſe; there being innumerable inſtances, where the vileſt of mortals have enjoyed every ſatisfaction this world was capable of affording them, and left at their death large poſſeſſions to their children. In ſhort, that the proceedings of providence, with regard to the puniſhment of the wicked in this world are various, and conſequently, that no general rule can from thence be drawn.

Ver. 9. Their houſes are ſafe from fear.] To wit, from the incurſion of robbers, ſo uſual in thoſe ancient times; and of which Job felt the miſchievous effects.

Ver. 19. God layeth up his iniquity for his children, &c.] And when doth God puniſh the iniquity of the wicked in his children, (as you pretend he does) and that too while he lives, and beholds it himſelf?

Ver. 28. Ye ſay, where is the houſe of the prince?] I hear you ſay within yourſelves, What is become of the houſe of Job, who lived like a prince? What difference is there between him and thoſe wicked men, whoſe dwelling places are deſtroyed?

NOTES on Chap. XXII.

Ver. 1. Then Eliphaz the Temanite anſwered.] Eliphaz ſtill continues to diſpute, though he has no new argument to offer. He indeed draws up a catalogue of the moſt pernicious crimes, and boldly declares, that Job muſt have been guilty of them before he was puniſhed in ſo exemplary a manner; founding his argument upon the ſame baſis, viz. that only wicked men are puniſhed.

28 Thou ſhalt alſo decree a thing, and it ſhall be eſtabliſhed unto thee: and the light ſhall ſhine upon thy ways.

29 When men are caſt down, then thou ſhalt ſay, There is lifting up: and he ſhall ſave the humble perſon.

30 He ſhall deliver the iſland of the innocent: and it is delivered by the pureneſs of thine hands.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Job longeth to appear before God, 6 in confidence of his mercy. 8 God who is inviſible, obſerveth our ways. 11 Jobs innocence. 13 Gods decree is immutable.

THen Job anſwered and ſaid,

2 Even to day is my complaint bitter: my ſtroke is heavier than my groaning.

3 O that I knew where I might find him! that I might come even to his ſeat!

4 I would order my cauſe before him, and fill my mouth with arguments.

5 I would know the words which he would anſwer me, and underſtand what he would ſay unto me.

6 Will he plead againſt me with his great power? No, but he would put ſtrength in me.

Before Christ 1520. 7 There the righteous might diſpute with him; ſo ſhould I be delivered for ever from my judge.

8 Behold, I go forward, but he is not there; and backward, but I cannot perceive him:

9 On the left hand where he doth work, but I cannot behold him: he hideth himſelf on the right hand, that I cannot ſee him.

10 But he knoweth the way that I take: when he hath tried me, I ſhall come forth as gold.

11 My foot hath held his ſteps, his way have I kept, and not declined.

12 Neither have I gone back from the commandment of his lips, I have eſteemed the words of his mouth, more than my neceſſary food.

13 But he is in one mind, and who can turn him? and what his ſoul deſireth, even that he doeth.

14 For he performeth the thing that is appointed for me: and many ſuch things are with him.

15 Therefore am I troubled at his preſence: when I conſider, I am afraid of him.

16 For God maketh my heart ſoft, and the Almighty troubleth me:

17 Becauſe I was not cut off before the darkneſs, neither hath he covered the darkneſs from my face.

10 X CHAP.

Ver. 29 When men are caſt down, &c.] The Septuagint reads, "Becauſe thou humbleſt thyſelf: and thou ſhalt "ſay, He hath ſet me on high; and he will ſave the "humble perſon. He will deliver the innocent; and "thou ſhalt be ſafe with the innocency of thy hands." None but our tranſlation has any mention of an iſland.

NOTES on Chap. XXIII.

Ver. 1. Job anſwered.] Job again appeals to God, by whom he deſires more earneſtly than ever to be tried; being ſatisfied, that he ſhould be acquitted at his equitable tribunal.

Ver. 6. Will he plead againſt me with his great power? &c.] Would he only plead his power, as his reaſon for this treatment of me, and ſay, becauſe I am God, I will act thus? No, he would rather of his mercy, employ his power to ſupport me.

Ver. 10. When he hath tried me, I ſhall come forth as gold.] When he hath tried me by afflictions, and approved me, I ſhall be cleared from all theſe imputations.

Ver. 11. My foot hath held his ſteps.] I have always followed his directions; nor has any temptation cauſed me to ſwerve from his commandments.

Ver. 13. He is in one mind, &c.] All my care to walk in his ſtatutes, will not move him to relieve me; he ſteadily purſues his purpoſe; nor can any divert him from it, nor hinder it from being fulfilled.

Ver. 17. Becauſe I was not cut of, &c.] Still he ſupports me under all my miſeries, and denies me the comfort of dying by that hand who ſtrikes me ſo ſeverely.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 Wickedneſs goeth often unpuniſhed. 17 There is a ſecret judgment for the wicked.

WHY, ſeeing times are not hidden from the Almighty, do they that know him, not ſee his days?

2 Some remove the land-marks; they violently take away flocks, and feed thereof.

3 They drive away the aſs of the fatherleſs, they take the widows ox for a pledge.

4 They turn the needy out of the way: the poor of the earth hide themſelves together.

5 Behold, as wild aſſes in the deſert, go they forth to their work, riſing betimes for a prey: the wilderneſs yieldeth food for them and for their children.

6 They reap every one his corn in the field: and they gather the vintage of the wicked.

7 They cauſe the naked to lodge without clothing, that they have no covering in the cold.

8 They are wet with the ſhowers of the mountains, and embrace the rock for want of a ſhelter.

9 They pluck the fatherleſs from the breaſt, and take a pledge of the poor.

10 They cauſe him to go naked without clothing, and they take away the ſheaf from the hungry.

11 Which make oil within their walls, and tread their wine-preſſes, and ſuffer thirſt.

12 Men groan from out of the city, and the ſoul of the wounded crieth out: yet God layeth not folly to them.

13 They are of thoſe that rebel againſt the light, they know not the ways thereof, nor abide in the paths thereof.

14 The murderer riſing with the light, killeth the poor, and needy, and in the night is as a thief.

15 The eye alſo of the adulterer waiteth for the twilight, ſaying, No eye ſhall ſee me: and diſguiſeth his face.

16 In the dark they dig through houſes, which they had marked for themſelves in the day-time: they know not the light.

17 For the morning is to them even as the ſhadow of death: if one know them, they are in the terrors of the ſhadow of death.

18 He is ſwift as the waters, their portion is curſed in the earth: he beholdeth not the way of the vineyards.

19 Drought and heat conſume the ſnow-waters: ſo doth the grave thoſe which have ſinned.

20 The womb ſhall forget him, the worm ſhall feed ſweetly on him, he ſhall be no more remembered, and wickedneſs ſhall be broken as a tree.

21 He evil intreateth the barren that beareth not: and doeth not good to the widow.

22 He

NOTES on Chap. XX.

Ver. 1. Why, ſeeing times are not hidden, &c.] If it is as you maintain, that the Almighty's puniſhment of the wicked is ſo viſible; why do not the truly virtuous ſee, and acknowledge theſe open judgments?

Ver. 5. Behold, as the wild aſſes in the deſert, &c.] Part of this chapter, particularly this and the following verſes, ſeem to allude to the wild Arabs, whoſe profeſſion is rapine, and yet they proſper by it.

Ver. 13. That rebel againſt the light.] That is, that look upon the light as their enemy.

Ver. 18. He is ſwift as the waters.] The pirate who robs upon the ſea in ſwift ſhips, deſpiſes the labours of thoſe who plant vineyards.

Ver. 19. Drought and heat conſume the ſnow-waters, &c.] The wicked go down as eaſily to the grave, as the ſnow-water, when melted by the ſun, ſinks into the thirſty ſoil.

Ver. 20. The womb ſhall forget him, &c.] He bears no ſuch marks of the divine diſpleaſure, as to cauſe his mother to remember him with regret; he is carried to his grave like other men, and the worms feed as ſweetly upon him. There he reſts in quietneſs, and both him and his wickedneſs are forgotten, as a tree broken to ſhivers.

Before Chriſt 1520. 22 He draweth alſo the mighty with his power: he riſeth up, and no man is ſure of life.

23 Though it be given him to be in ſafety, whereon he reſteth; yet his eyes are upon their ways.

24 They are exalted for a little while, but are gone and brought low, they are taken out of the way as all other, and cut off as the tops of the ears of corn.

25 And if it be not ſo now, who will make me a liar, and make my ſpeech nothing worth?

CHAP. XXV.

Bildad ſheweth that man cannot be juſtified before God.

THen anſwered Bildad the Shuhite, and ſaid,

2 Dominion and fear are with him, he maketh peace in his high places.

3 Is there any number of his armies? and upon whom doth not his light ariſe?

4 How then can man be juſtified with God? or how can he be clean that is born of a woman?

5 Behold, even to the moon, and it ſhineth not; yea, the ſtars are not pure in his ſight.

6 How much leſs man that is a worm: and the ſon of man which is a worm? Before Chriſt 1520.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 Job reproving the uncharitable ſpirit of Bildad, 5 acknowledgeth the power of God to be infinite and unſearchable.

BUT Job anſwered and ſaid,

2 How haſt thou helped him that is without power? how ſaveſt thou the arm that hath no ſtrength?

3 How haſt thou counſelled him that hath no wiſdom? and how haſt thou plentifully declared the thing, as it is?

4 To whom haſt thou uttered words? and whoſe ſpirit came from thee?

5 Dead things are formed from under the waters, and the inhabitants thereof.

6 Hell is naked before him, and deſtruction hath no covering.

7 He ſtretcheth out the north over the empty-place, and hangeth the earth upon nothing.

8 He bindeth up the waters in his thick clouds, and the cloud is not rent under them.

9 He holdeth back the face of his throne, and ſpreadeth his cloud upon it.

10 He

Ver. 22. He riſeth up, and no man is ſure of life.] When he riſes to aſſaſſinate, no man, though ever ſo ſtrong, is ſure of eſcaping.

Notes on Chap. XXV.

Ver. 1. Then anſwered Bildad.] Bildad, being unable to refute what Job had ſaid, begins to break off the diſpute; and inſtead of replying to it, he only adviſes him to ſpeak more reverently of God.

Ver. 3. Is there any number of his armies?] Hath not he myriads of angels ready to execute his pleaſure?

Ver. 5, 6. Behold, even to the moon, &c.] So holy is God, he perceives defilement in the brightneſs of the firmament. Thoſe living ſapphires, before his majeſty loſe their luſtre: how much leſs man, who, in his fallen ſtate, is as a worm that delights in putrefaction?

Notes on Chap. XXVI.

Ver 1. Job anſwered, &c.] Job, perceiving that Bildad wandered ſo far from the matter in diſpute, derides his great affectation of wiſdom, and ſhews that his diſcourſe was equally mean and impertinent.

Ver. 2, 3, 4. How haſt thou, &c.] The Septuagint gives theſe verſes a more emphatical meaning than our tranſlation. 2. On whoſe ſide doſt thou ſtand to help him? Is it not on his who has a great ſtrength, and a powerful arm? 3. Whom haſt thou counſelled, but him who has all wiſdom? Whoſe follower wilt thou be? Wilt thou not be his who has the greateſt power. 4. For whom haſt thou uttered words? for him whoſe breath it is that comes out of thee.

Ver. 5. Dead things are formed from under the waters, &c.] This is an unhappy tranſlation of a very noble paſſage. The Vulgate reads, "The giants groan from under the waters, &c." The word rendered dead things, never has that meaning; but here ſignifies the ghoſts of thoſe giants, or men mighty in wickedneſs, who were overwhelmed by the flood: the meaning therefore ſeems to be this:—Shall the rephaim or manes of the giants, be brought forth again from under the waters, with which they were overwhelmed at the flood? or, thoſe wicked ſouls that have been ſince gathered to their aſſembly.

Ver. 3. He holdeth back the face of his throne, &c.] It ought rather to be, he upholdeth his throne, that is, the ſky.

10 He hath compaſſed the waters with bounds, until the day and night come to an end.

11 The pillars of heaven tremble, and are aſtoniſhed at his reproof.

12 He divideth the ſea with his power, and by his underſtanding he ſmiteth through the proud.

13 By his ſpirit he hath garniſhed the heavens: his hand hath formed the crooked ſerpent.

14 Lo, theſe are parts of his ways, but how little a portion is heard of him? but the thunder of his power who can underſtand?

C H A P. XXVII.

1 Job proteſteth his ſincerity. 8 The hypocrite is without hope. 11 The bleſſings which the wicked have, are turned into curſes.

MOreover, Job continued his parable, and ſaid,

2 As God liveth, who hath taken away my judgment, and the Almighty, who hath vexed my ſoul;

3 All the while my breath is in me, and the ſpirit of God is in my noſtrils.

4 My lips ſhall not ſpeak wickedneſs, nor my tongue utter deceit.

5 God forbid that I ſhould juſtify you: till I die, I will not remove my integrity from me.

6 My righteouſneſs I hold faſt, and will not let it go: my heart ſhall not reproach me ſo long as I live.

7 Let mine enemy be as the wicked, and he that riſeth up againſt me, as the unrighteous.

9 For what is the hope of the hypocrite, though he hath gained, when God taketh away his ſoul?

9 Will God hear his cry when trouble cometh upon him?

10 Will he delight himſelf in the Almighty? will he always call upon God?

11 I will teach you by the hand of God: that which is with the Almighty, will I not conceal.

12 Behold, all ye yourſelves have ſeen it, why then are ye thus altogether vain?

13 This is the portion of a wicked man with God, and the heritage of oppreſſors, which they ſhall receive of the Almighty.

14 If his children be multiplied, it is for the ſword: and his offspring ſhall not be ſatisfied with bread.

15 Thoſe that remain of him ſhall be buried in death: and his widows ſhall not weep.

16 Though he heap up ſilver as the duſt, and prepare raiment as the clay;

17 He may prepare it, but the juſt ſhall put it on, and the innocent ſhall divide the ſilver.

18 He buildeth his houſe as a moth, and

Ver. 11. The pillars of heaven tremble, &c.] The mountains (which are beautifully called the pillars of heaven) tremble when his thunders aſſault them.

Ver. 13. His hand hath formed the crooked ſerpent.] To wit, that large conſtellation called the great dragon or ſerpent.

Ver. 14. Lo, theſe are parts of his ways.] Or, as the original word more literally ſignifies, theſe are only the ſkirts, the very uttermoſt borders of his works; no more than a ſmall preface, to the immenſe volume of the creation.

NOTES on Chap. XXVII.

Ver. 1. His parable.] The word parable, in the Hebrew, ſignifies an ingenious and elegant ſentence or ſpeech, and here denotes, that Job proceeded in a triumphant way of ſpeech, like one who had the better of his argument.

Ver. 2. Who hath taken away my judgment?] Hath ſo grievouſly afflicted me, that men cannot judge of integrity; for they judge by outward appearance only.

Ver. 5. God forbid that I ſhould juſtify you.] That I ſhould yield to your opinion, which I know to be falſe.

Ver. 6. My heart ſhall not reproach me.] That is, with thoſe great crimes of which he had been accuſed.

Ver. 10. Will he always call upon God?] Will he not deſpair of protection, and therefore ceaſe to call upon his maker?

Ver. 18. He buildeth his houſe as a moth, &c.] He buildeth a ſumptuous edifice, out of which he is as eaſily ſhaken as a moth out of a garment; it is no more durable than a ſhady booth, which the keeper of a garden buildeth.

Before Christ 1520.

and as a booth that the keeper maketh.

19 The rich man ſhall lie down, but he ſhall not be gathered: he openeth his eyes, and he is not.

20 Terrors take hold on him as waters, a tempeſt ſtealeth him away in the night.

21 The eaſt-wind carrieth him away, and he departeth: and as a ſtorm hurleth him out of his place.

22 For God ſhall caſt upon him, and not ſpare: he would fain flee out of his hand.

23 Men ſhall clap their hands at him, and ſhall hiſs him out of his place.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 There is a knowledge of natural things:
12 But wiſdom is an excellent gift of God.

SUrely, there is a vein for the ſilver, and a place for gold where they fine it.

2 Iron is taken out of the earth, and braſs is molten out of the ſtone.

3 He ſetteth an end to darkneſs, and ſearcheth out all perfection: the ſtones of darkneſs and the ſhadow of death.

4 The flood breaketh out from the inhabitant; even the waters forgotten of the foot: they are dried up, they are gone away from men.

5 As for the earth, out of it cometh bread: and under it is turned up as it were fire.

6 The ſtones of it are the place of ſapphires: and it hath duſt of gold.

7 There is a path which no fowl knoweth, and which the vultures eye hath not ſeen.

8 The lions whelps have not trodden it, nor the fierce lion paſſed by it.

9 He putteth forth his hand upon the rock; he overturneth the mountains by the roots.

10 He cutteth out rivers among the rocks, and his eye ſeeth every precious thing.

11 He bindeth the floods from overflowing, and the thing that is hid, bringeth he forth to light.

12 But where ſhall wiſdom be found? and where is the place of underſtanding?

13 Man knoweth not the price thereof;

Ver. 19. The rich man ſhall lie down, &c.] The wicked rich man ſhall die, but ſhall not be gathered to the aſſembly of pious and good ſouls; he openeth his eyes in the other world, and finds himſelf quite loſt and miſerable.

Ver. 20. Terrors take hold on him as waters, a tempeſt ſtealeth him away in the night.] Terrors innumerable, like an overflowing ſtream break in upon him; the divine vengeance like a ſudden tempeſt, hurries him away unexpectedly.

Notes on Chap. XXVIII.

Ver. 1. Surely there is a vein for ſilver, &c.] Perhaps you expect a reaſon why ſome wicked men are puniſhed, while others eſcape; but this, mankind, though they have diſcovered mines of gold and ſilver, muſt not hope to diſcover. The Almighty having reſerved it to himſelf.

Ver. 3. He ſetteth an end to darkneſs, &c.] That is, man hath ſet an end to darkneſs, and an extremity to all, or to the univerſe: He ſearcheth out the ſtone of darkneſs, and of the ſhadow of death. He digs into another world, as it were for gold and precious ſtones.

Ver. 4. The flood, &c.] Mr. Peters tranſlates the verſe literally thus: "The flood interrupts from the ſtranger: "forgotten of the foot; they appear leſs than men; they "are toſſed." This ſeems an inſtance of the daring ſpirit and ingenuity of mankind, how they croſs the broad rivers and arms of the ſea for commerce, where there is no path for the foot of man, i. e. they forget them, or are no longer ſerviceable; they leſſen to the ſight as they go farther from the ſhore, and are toſſed upon the waves. A very lively and beautiful image!

Ver. 5. And under it is turned up as it were fire.] In its bowels are ſulphur, Naphtha, and other combuſtibles.

Ver. 6. The ſtones of it are the place of ſapphires, &c.] He viſits countries, in whoſe ſtones are ſapphires, and whoſe duſt is as gold; or as in the margin, gold ore.

Ver. 7. A path where no fowl knoweth, &c.] There is ſcarce any thing ſo concealed, but what the induſtry of man hath brought to light; wiſdom only excepted.

Ver. 9. He putteth forth his hand upon the rock, &c.] He digs through the hardeſt rocks, and undermines the mountains, to find the treaſure hid in their bowels.

Ver. 12. But where ſhall wiſdom be found?] However ſucceſsful man may be in his own reſearches, he muſt not hope to comprehend the myſteries of providence, nor diſcover the reaſon why the wicked, who inſolently contemn their maker, are not puniſhed in this world.

Ver. 13. Man knoweth not the price thereof.] It is not to be purchaſed.

Before Christ 1520.

neither is it found in the land of the living.

14 The depth ſaith, It is not in me: and the ſea ſaith, It is not with me.

15 It cannot be gotten for gold, neither ſhall ſilver be weighed for the price thereof.

16 It cannot be valued with the gold of Ophir, with the precious onyx, or the ſapphire.

17 The gold and the cryſtal cannot equal it: and the exchange of it ſhall not be for jewels of fine gold.

18 No mention ſhall be made of coral, or of pearls; for the price of wiſdom is above rubies.

19 The topaz of Ethiopia ſhall not equal it, neither ſhall it be valued with pure gold.

20 Whence then cometh wiſdom? and where is the place of underſtanding?

21 Seeing it is hid from the eyes of all living, and kept cloſe from the fowls of the air.

22 Deſtruction and death ſay, We have heard the fame thereof with our ears.

23 God underſtandeth the way thereof, and he knoweth the place thereof.

24 For he looketh to the ends of the earth, and ſeeth under the whole heaven;

26 When he made a decree for the rain, and a way for the lightning of the thunder:

27 Then did he ſee it, and declare it, he prepared it, yea, and ſearched it out.

28 And unto man he ſaid, Behold, the fear of the Lord, that is wiſdom, and to depart from evil is underſtanding.

CHAP. XXIX.

Job bemoaneth himſelf of his former proſperity and honour.

MOreover, Job continued his parable, and ſaid,

2 Oh that I were as in months paſt, as in the days when God preſerved me:

3 When his candle ſhined upon my head, and when by his light I walked through darkneſs:

4 As I was in the days of my youth, when the ſecret of God was upon my tabernacle:

5 When the Almighty was yet with me, when my children were about me:

6 When I waſhed my ſteps with butter, and the rock poured me out rivers of oil:

Ver. 18. Rubies.] The Hebrew word ſignifies pearls, which are fiſhed out of the ſea: the paſſage might therefore be better tranſlated thus, It is a greater treaſure to get wiſdom than to fiſh out pearls from the bottom of the ſea.

Ver. 22. Deſtruction and death ſay, &c.] Deſtruction and death muſt mean the dead; the generation of men ſays Job, who have lived before us, and are now gone to the regions of the dead, theſe have told us, we have heard the hearing thereof with our ears; i. e. we have had ſomething relating to this queſtion about wiſdom, handed down to us by tradition from our fore-fathers. This muſt be the meaning, from the great regard which is paid by every ſpeaker, in every ſpeech to what was taught them by their anceſtors.

Ver. 28. Unto man he ſaid, behold the fear of the Lord, &c.] He imprinted this ſenſe upon the mind of man, that he ought to be an humble adorer, and not a cenſurer of his ſecret wiſdom. He did not reveal nor communicate to man the eſſential wiſdom of his providence, nor that of his ſecret counſel, by which he hath created, and governeth the univerſe; but only that of his law, by which man ought to regulate his actions, and not go beyond thoſe bounds.

NOTES on Chap. XXIX.

Ver. 1. Moreover Job continued his parable, and ſaid, &c.] Job preſumes his friends would have given greater attention to his diſcourſes, had not the vileneſs of his preſent condition rendered his ſpeech alſo contemptible; and therefore he deſires them to remember with what reverence all his ſpeeches were formerly received by every claſs of people, wiſhing that God would reſtore his former proſperity, as he never abuſed his power, but always employed it to defend the poor and friendleſs from oppreſſion, and force the wicked to reſtore what they had violently extorted from them.

Ver. 4. When the ſecret of God was upon his tabernacle.] That is, when that auguſt aſſembly, where God's counſels and decrees are paſſed, was held as it were, over my habitation; and it ſeemed to be his peculiar care to proſper me and my family.

Before Chriſt 1520.

7 When I went out to the gate, through the city, when I prepared my ſeat in the ſtreet.

8 The young men ſaw me, and hid themſelves: and the aged aroſe, and ſtood up.

9 The princes refrained talking, and laid their hand on their mouth.

10 The nobles held their peace, and their tongue cleaved to the roof of their mouth.

11 When the ear heard me, then it bleſſed me; and when the eye ſaw me, it gave witneſs to me:

12 Becauſe I delivered the poor that cried, and the fatherleſs, and him that had none to help him.

13 The bleſſing of him that was ready to periſh, came upon me: and I cauſed the widows heart to ſing for joy.

14 I put on righteouſneſs, and it clothed me: my judgment was as a robe and a diadem.

15 I was eyes to the blind, and feet was I to the lame.

16 I was a father to the poor: and the cauſe which I knew not, I ſearched out.

17 And I brake the jaws of the wicked, and plucked the ſpoil out of his teeth.

18 Then I ſaid, I ſhall die in my neſt, and I ſhall multiply my days as the ſand.

19 My root was ſpread out by the waters, and the dew lay all night upon my branch.

Before Chriſt 1520.

20 My glory was freſh in me, and my bow was renewed in my hand.

21 Unto me men gave ear, and waited, and kept ſilence at my counſel.

22 After my words they ſpake not again, and my ſpeech dropped upon them.

23 And they waited for me, as for the rain, and they opened their mouth wide as for the latter rain.

24 If I laughed on them, they believed it not, and the light of my countenance they caſt not down.

25 I choſe out their way, and ſat chief, and dwelt as a king in the army, as one that comforteth the mourners.

CHAP. XXX.

1 Jobs honour is turned into extreme contempt; 15 His proſperity into calamity.

BUT now they that are younger than I, have me in deriſion, whoſe fathers I would have diſdained to have ſet with the dogs of my flock.

Ver. 16. The cauſe which I knew not I ſearched out.] I never left ſtudying the cauſe of the poor, if there was any obſcurity in it, till I had cleared the buſineſs, and ſeen him righted.

Ver. 18. I ſhall die in my neſt.] I ſhall die quietly in my own houſe. Some think this alludes to the phœnix, a bird which was ſuppoſed to live a thouſand years, which number is ſignified by the ſand, whoſe grains are innumerable.

Ver. 19. My root was ſpread out, &c.] I was like to a tree whoſe roots extended along the margin of the waters, and whoſe boughs were perpetually moiſtened by the dews of heaven.

Ver. 22. My ſpeech dropped upon them, &c.] The Septuagint reads, They were overjoyed when I ſpoke; as the thirſty earth gapes for rain.

Ver. 23. They waited for me, as for the rain.] They expected my opinion with the ſame eager deſire that the huſbandman doth the ſhowers, after he hath ſown the corn

NOTES on Chap. XXX.

Ver. 1. But now they that are younger than I, &c.] Job, having in the preceding chapter, given us an account of his former ſplendor, takes occaſion here to annex a no leſs elegant deſcription of the vileneſs of his preſent condition; hoping, that the conſideration of ſo prodigious a change, might at laſt move his ſevere friends to ſome compaſſion towards him.

Ver. 2. In whom old age was periſhed] Who are more unactive and unfit for buſineſs, than an old man ready to drop into the grave.

Before Chriſt 1520.

5 They were driven forth from among men, (they cried after them, as after a thief)

6 To dwell in the clifts of the valleys, in caves of the earth, and in the rocks.

7 Among the buſhes they brayed, under the nettles they were gathered together.

8 They were children of fools, yea, children of baſe men; they were viler than the earth.

9 And now am I their ſong, yea, I am their by-word.

10 They abhor me, they flee far from me, and ſpare not to ſpit in my face.

NOTES on Chap. XXXI.

Ver. 1. I made a covenant with mine eyes, &c.] I have been careful to avoid even the occaſions of laſciviouſneſs; and therefore it cannot be thought I ever laid a ſcheme to corrupt a virgin.

Ver. 2. For what portion of God is there from above?] For I well know and conſider, that in heaven there is an Almighty being, who created and governs all things; and what muſt I expect from him as the reward of ſuch impurity?

Ver. 3. Is not deſtruction to the wicked?] He means their final retribution in another ſtate.

Ver. 6. Let me be weighed in an even balance.] This figure of God's weighing mankind in a balance, is found in many of the beſt authors; particularly Homer, in more places than one, repreſents Jupiter, as weighing the deſtinies of the Greeks and Trojans.

Again, we meet with the ſame thought in Iliad X. it appeared ſo beautiful to ſucceeding poets, that Æſchylus (as we are informed by Plutarch de aud. poetis) writ a whole tragedy upon this foundation, which he called Pſychoſtaſia, or the weighing of ſouls. Virgil has likewiſe the ſame thought in his laſt Ænead.

> Jupiter ipſe duas æquato examine lances
> Suſtinet, & fata imponit diverſa duorum:
> Quem damnet labor, & quo vergat pondere lethum.

Ver. 17. Or, have eaten my morſel myſelf alone.] Doctor Shaw ſays, it is now the cuſtom for the Arabs, when on a journey, after they have prepared their food, to go to the higheſt ground in the neighbourhood, and call thrice aloud to all their brethren, the ſons of the faithful, to come and partake of it, though none are in view, or perhaps within an hundred miles of them: this cuſtom, they think, is an inſtance of their great benevolence and hoſpitality.

Ver. 2. Then was kindled the wrath of Elihu, &c.] He was the grandſon of Buz, the ſon of Nahor, who lived in the ſouthern parts of Meſopotamia. He had, it ſeems, liſtened attentively to the ſpeeches of Job, and his three friends ; but neither pleaſed him. It muſt be granted, that though he was inferior to the reſt in years, yet he was much their ſuperior in knowledge, as appears from the judicious cenſures he paſſes, not only upon his three friends, but alſo upon Job himſelf ; for though he does not pretend to accuſe him with any crime committed before his misfortunes, yet he ſhews he had not conducted the diſpute with that calmneſs and ſubmiſſion to God, which became his piety.

the ſon of Barachel the Buzite, of the kindred of Ram: againſt Job was his wrath kindled, becauſe he juſtified himſelf rather than God.

3 Alſo againſt his three friends was his wrath kindled, becauſe they had found no anſwer, and yet had condemned Job.

4 Now Elihu had waited till Job had ſpoken, becauſe they were elder than he.

5 When Elihu ſaw that there was no anſwer in the mouth of theſe three men, then his wrath was kindled.

6 And Elihu the ſon of Barachel the Buzite anſwered and ſaid, I am young, and ye are very old, wherefore I was afraid, and durſt not ſhew you mine opinion.

Ver. 1. Wherefore, Job, I pray thee, hear my ſpeeches.] Elihu, having rejected all that the friends had ſaid, as fully confuted by Job, addreſſes himſelf to him, and tells him, that he was the man who would now plead with him (as he had often deſired) in God's behalf; and begins to reprehend only thoſe paſſages which he thought were blameable in Job's ſpeeches; particularly, his inſiſting ſo much upon his integrity, which though true, ſhould not have been mentioned without due acknowledgment, that the ſovereign of the earth had done him no wrong in thus afflicting him.

10 Therefore hearken unto me, ye men of underſtanding: far be it from God, that he ſhould do wickedneſs, and from the Almighty, that he ſhould commit iniquity.

11 For the work of a man ſhall he render unto him, and cauſe every man to find according to his ways.

12 Yea, ſurely God will not do wickedly, neither will the Almighty pervert judgment.

NOTES on Chap. XXXV.

Ver. 10. Songs in the night.] More properly, according to the Hebrew, guards, as it is rendered Pſalm. lxxvii. 4. where, with great elegance, the eye-lids are termed the guards of the eyes. The ſentence may therefore be rendered, who appointeth “ guards over me in the night “ ſeaſon,” ſimilar to Pſalm xci. 11. “ He ſhall give his “ angels charge over thee, to keep or guard thee in all “ thy ways.”

Ver. 15. In great extremity.] In the Hebrew, petulance or wantonneſs; it may be rendered, “ He knoweth it not “ by reaſon of his ſelf-conceit.”

NOTES on Chap. XXXVI.

Ver. 1. Elihu proceeded, &c.] Elihu proceeds to ſhew, from the nature of God, and the methods of his providence, that if inſtead of diſputing, Job had ſubmitted himſelf to God's corrections, he would have been delivered; and that, as we are not able to comprehend any of the operations of the Almighty, which we daily ſee, and muſt acknowledge to be all very good; therefore, Job's not perceiving the reaſon of his afflictions, ought not to have prevented his ſubmiſſion.

Ver. 4. He that is perfect in knowledge, &c.] This expreſſion ſeems to be a ſarcaſm on what Job had ſaid to his three friends, chap. xii. 2. It may be rendered, “ Though “ perfection of knowledge be with thee.”

Ver. 7. He withdraweth not his eyes, &c.] The righteous, whatever afflictions they may endure, are nevertheleſs under the care and protection of the Almighty's providence, and he often raiſes them out of the duſt, to the greateſt height of earthly grandeur.

Before Chriſt 1520.

13 But the hypocrites in heart heap up wrath: they cry not when he bindeth them.

14 They die in youth, and their life is among the unclean.

15 He delivereth the poor in his affliction, and openeth their ears in oppreſſion.

16 Even ſo would he have removed thee out of the ſtrait into a broad place, where there is no ſtraitneſs, and that which ſhould be ſet on thy table, ſhould be full of fatneſs.

17 But thou haſt fulfilled the judgment of the wicked: judgment and juſtice take hold on thee.

18 Becauſe there is wrath, beware leſt he take thee away with his ſtroke: then a great ranſom cannot deliver thee.

19 Will he eſteem thy riches? no, not gold, nor all the forces of ſtrength.

20 Deſire not the night, when people are cut off in their place.

21 Take heed, regard not iniquity: for this haſt thou choſen rather than affliction.

22 Behold, God exalteth by his power: who teacheth like him?

23 Who hath enjoined him his way? or who can ſay, Thou haſt wrought iniquity?

24 Remember that thou magnify his work, which men behold.

Before Chriſt 1520.

25 Every man may ſee it, man may behold it afar off.

26 Behold, God is great, and we know him not, neither can the number of his years be ſearched out.

27 For he maketh ſmall the drops of water: they pour down rain according to the vapour thereof:

28 Which the clouds do drop, and diſtil upon man abundantly.

29 Alſo can any underſtand the ſpreadings of the clouds, or the noiſe of his tabernacle?

30 Behold, he ſpreadeth his light upon it, and covereth the bottom of the ſea.

31 For by them judgeth he the people, he giveth meat in abundance.

32 With clouds he covereth the light; and commandeth it not to ſhine, by the cloud that cometh betwixt.

33 The noiſe thereof ſheweth concerning it, the cattle alſo concerning the vapour.

C H A P. XXXVII.

1 God is to be feared becauſe of his great works: 15 His wiſdom is unſearchable in them.

A T

Ver. 14. They die in youth, &c.] Or they die an untimely or violent death: the Hebrew word tranſlated unclean, ſignifies "ſuch as are anathematiſed, or devoted to "utter deſtruction."

Ver. 16. Even ſo would he have delivered thee, &c.] The Almighty, hadſt thou patiently ſubmitted to his correction, would doubtleſs have delivered thee from all thy miſeries which have fallen upon thee, and bleſſed thee with proſperity: the Hebrew, MIPPI TZAR RAHHAB, which is here tranſlated, out of the ſtraight, &c. and ſignifies from the edge of the broad ſword. This metaphor of a broad ſword, to expreſs great afflictions, may have been borrowed from the ancient Egyptian hieroglyphics, and is uſed in the ſame ſenſe, Iſaiah xxvii. 1.

Ver. 17. Thou haſt fulfilled, &c.] Thou haſt all along maintained the cauſe of the wicked. It is an obſervation of Dr. Wall, and other commentators, that the latter part of this chapter, and moſt of the next, is greatly mutilated in the copies, and ſo full of ellipſes, or omiſſions, that the different tranſlators have been obliged to fill up the ſentences themſelves; who having different ideas of the author's deſign and argument, have made every ſentence bear a different ſenſe by their interpolations.

Ver. 27. He maketh ſmall, &c.] The Arabic root ſignifies, he raiſes on high, which elegantly deſcribes the attraction of the exhalations of the waters by the heat of the ſun, which afterwards form the drops of rain. The ſenſe of the verſe may properly be rendered, "Who cauſeth "the exhalations of the waters to mount on high, which "form the rain in his cloud."

Ver. 30. He covereth the bottom of the ſea.] The Hebrew is, He turneth up, which gives us a beautiful image of the effect of the Almighty's power in a ſtorm at ſea.

Ver. 33. The noiſe thereof, &c.] In the Hebrew, inſtead of concerning it, it is before him, and the expreſſion may be thus paraphraſed, "His thunder maketh pro"clamation before him; wrath is treaſured up againſt "iniquity." This exhibits one of the nobleſt images in the whole poem. "The thunder is the harbinger of God, "which goeth before him, making proclamation againſt "the wicked."

Before Chriſt 1520.

AT this alſo my heart trembleth, and is moved out of his place.

2 Hear attentively the noiſe of his voice, and the ſound that goeth out of his mouth.

3 He directeth it under the whole heaven, and his lightening unto the ends of the earth.

4 After it a voice roareth; he thundereth with the voice of his excellency, and will not ſtay them when his voice is heard,

5 God thundereth marvellouſly with his voice; great things doeth he, which we cannot comprehend.

6 For he ſaith to the ſnow, Be thou on the earth; likewiſe to the ſmall rain, and to the great rain of his ſtrength.

7 He ſealeth up the hand of every man; that all men may know his work.

8 Then the beaſts go into dens, and remain in their places.

9 Out of the ſouth cometh the whirlwind: and cold out of the north.

10 By the breath of God, froſt is given: and the breadth of the waters is ſtraitened.

11 Alſo by watering he wearieth the thick cloud: he ſcattereth his bright cloud.

12 And it is turned round about by his counſels: that they may do whatſoever he commandeth them upon the face of the world in the earth.

13 He cauſeth it to come, whether for correction, or for his land, or for mercy.

Before Chriſt 1520.

14 Hearken unto this, O Job: ſtand ſtill, and conſider the wondrous works of God.

15 Doſt thou know when God diſpoſed them, and cauſed the light of his cloud to ſhine?

16 Doſt thou know the balancings of the clouds, the wonderous works of him which is perfect in knowledge?

17 How thy garments are warm, when he quieteth the earth by the ſouth-wind?

18 Haſt thou with him ſpread out the ſky, which is ſtrong, and as a molten looking-glaſs?

19 Teach us what we ſhall ſay unto him; for we cannot order our ſpeech by reaſon of darkneſs.

20 Shall it be told him that I ſpeak? if a man ſpeak, ſurely he ſhall be ſwallowed up.

21 And now men ſee not the bright light which is in the clouds: but the wind paſſeth and cleanſeth them.

22 Fair weather cometh out of the north: with God is terrible majeſty.

23 Touching the Almighty, we cannot find him out: he is excellent in power, and in judgment, and in plenty of juſtice: he will not afflict.

24 Men do therefore fear him: he reſpecteth not any that are wiſe of heart.

NOTES on Chap. XXXVII.

Ver. 1. At this alſo my heart trembleth.] Though I have mentioned but a few of the amazing effects of the Almighty's power, yet every one of them ſtrikes me with terror, ſo that my heart trembles within me.

Ver. 7. He ſealeth up the hand of every man.] His ſtorms put a ſtop to the labour of thoſe who are in the field.

Ver. 18. The ſky, which is ſtrong, &c.] The colour of the ſky, when clear, exactly reſembles that poliſhed metal of which the looking-glaſſes of the ancients were made.

Ver. 20. Shall it be told him that I ſpeak?] Is any thing I have ſaid worth his hearing?

If a man ſpeak, ſurely he ſhall be ſwallowed up.] Whoever attempts to deſcribe him, will loſe himſelf in contemplating his perfections, and will be dazzled with the brightneſs of his glory.

Ver. 22. Fair weather cometh out of the north, &c.] The margin has it, gold cometh, &c. The Septuagint thus: "Out of the north cometh clouds of a golden colour, "and there is in them a terrible brightneſs and glory of "the Almighty." This is true of Arabia, and a probable argument, that Job was of that country.

NOTES on Chap. XXXVIII.

Ver. 1. Then the Lord anſwered Job out of the whirlwind, and ſaid, &c.] A general ſilence enſued, when the Almighty himſelf appeared as judge, to decide this great controverſy; and out of a whirlwind, directed his ſpeech to Job. The ſubject of it is God's omnipotence, as diſplayed in the works of the creation—Many are the poems which have adorned this noble argument, philoſophers, poets, and divines; but the holy ſcriptures far ſurpaſſes all human compoſitions, in thoſe ſublime deſcriptions which they give us of the majeſty of God, and the wiſdom and magnificence of his works.

Ver. 2. That darkeneth counſel by words without knowledge.] That is, that diſparages my counſels with his ignorant diſcourſes about them?

Ver. 5. Who hath ſtretched the line upon it?] What hand confined its bulk, and determined its exact proportions?

Ver. 7. When the morning ſtars ſang together.] That is, When the angels rejoiced and praiſed God, at the time of the creation of the viſible world.

Ver. 8. Who ſhut up the ſea with doors, &c.] Who hollowed the ſides of the globe, and provided a capacious baſon for the floods, when they firſt iſſued from the abyſs, as an infant from the womb?

Ver. 9. I made the cloud the garment thereof, &c.] I cloathed it with clouds as with a garment; I wrapt its boiſterous waves in the veil of darkneſs, as a nurſe her tender infant in a ſwaddling band, and laid it in the bed I had formed for it, in the bowels of the earth, and confined it with banks it can never paſs over.

Ver. 11. Hitherto ſhalt thou come, &c.] Thus far may thy floating tide extend, but no further; and here ſhall thy proud waves be ſtayed, though agitated with all the rage of an indignant tempeſt.

Ver. 12. And cauſed the day-ſpring to know his place?] And ordered in what part of heaven the ſun ſhould every day ariſe?

Ver. 13. That it might take hold of the ends of the earth.] That he might extend his beams to the ends of the earth, that the wicked, who conceal their actions under the veil of night, may be detected, and dragged to the puniſhment they have deſerved.

Ver. 14. It is turned as clay to the ſeal, &c.] The Septuagint reads, "Haſt thou, by baking clay, formed of "it a living creature; and giving the faculty of ſpeech, "placed it upon the earth?"

Ver. 15. From the wicked, &c.] The Septuagint reads, "Haſt thou taken away light from the wicked, and broken "the arm of the proud?"

Ver. 17. The gates of death, &c.] Theſe are poetical expreſſions, and ſignify the hidden receſſes, the ſubterraneous and internal parts of the earth.

Ver. 24. By what way is the light parted, &c.] The Septuagint reads, "Whence cometh the frozen dew? or "whence is the ſouth wind ſpread over the earth?"

Ver. 25. Who hath divided a water-courſe for the overflowing of waters?] The Hebrew, in this paſſage, is ſo pregnant with ſenſe, that no tranſlation can do it juſtice; perhaps the following paraphraſe may convey the principal ideas comprehended in the original. "Who hath "branched out, and with admirable judgment. diſpoſed "a variety of aqueducts, for that immenſe collection of "waters which float in the ſky? Who diſtributes thoſe "pendulous floods throughout all the earth; not in "dreadful cataracts, or promiſcuous gluts of rain, but "in kindly drops and refreſhing ſhowers, with as much "regularity and œconomy, as if they were conveyed by "pipes from a conduit?—To whom ſhall we aſcribe that "niceneſs of contrivance, which now emits, now re"ſtrains them; ſometimes conveys their humid train to "one place, ſometimes to another; diſpenſes them to "this ſoil in larger, to that in ſmaller communications: "and, in a word, ſo manages the mighty fluid, that "every ſpot is ſupplied in exact proportion to its wants; "none deſtroyed by an undiſtinguiſhing deluge?"

Ver. 32. Canſt thou bring forth Mazzaroth, &c.] Is it owing to thy power, that the other conſtellations appear in the ſouthern or northern parts of the heavens, in their reſpective ſeaſons?

Ver. 34. Canſt thou lift up thy voice to the clouds, &c.] Canſt thou command the clouds to pour out their ſtores, and ſurround thee with water?

Ver. 35. Canſt thou ſend lightnings, &c.] How lively and ſtrong the image! How ſimple the expreſſion! We read of winged lightnings in the heathen poets; but where do they live, and act, and ſpeak, and wait for orders with impatience, as here!

NOTES on Chap. XXXIX.

Ver. 5. Who hath ſent out the wild aſs free?] Didſt thou diſcharge the wild aſs from ſervitude, and break his bands, and declare him at liberty to live at large?

Ver. 9. The unicorn.] This is thought to be the rhinoceros.

Ver. 13. Wings and feathers unto the oſtrich?] This verſe may be better rendered, from the original, "The "wing of the oſtrich is (quivering or) expanded; the "very feathers and plumage of the ſtork. The ingenious Dr. Shaw obſerves, that when the oſtrich is full grown, the neck, particularly of the male, which before was almoſt naked, is now very beautifully covered with red feathers. The plumage likewiſe of the back, the ſhoulders, and ſome parts of the wings, from being hitherto of a dark greyiſh colour, becomes now as black as jet; whilſt the reſt of the feathers exhibit an exquiſite whiteneſs; they retain the very feathers and plumage of the ſtork. When they are diſturbed, they fly with a ſwiftneſs that no creature can equal. Nothing certainly can be a more beautiful ſight The wings, by their repeated, though unwearied vibrations, equally ſerving them for ſails and oars; and hence we ſee, with what propriety the ſacred writers aſcribe to them an expanded quivering wing.

Ver. 14. Which leaveth her eggs in the earth, &c.] The ſame learned and ingenious traveller likewiſe remarks, that the oſtrich lays from thirty to fifty eggs; the firſt of which ſhe depoſits in the centre, and the reſt as conveniently as poſſible round it. In this manner ſhe is ſaid to leave, depoſit, or truſt her eggs in the earth, and to warm them (by incubation) in the duſt, and forgetting that the foot of the traveller may cruſh them, or that the wild aſs may break them.

Before Christ 1520.

Ver. 16. She is hardened againſt her young ones, &c.] It is alſo obſervable, that the oſtrich has a very ſmall ſhare of that natural affection, which ſo ſtrongly exerts itſelf in other creatures; for, upon the leaſt diſtant noiſe, or trivial occaſion, ſhe forſakes her eggs or young ones, to which, perhaps, ſhe never returns; or if ſhe does, it may be too late, either to reſtore genial warmth to the one, or to preſerve the lives of the other. Accordingly, the Arabs ſometimes meet with whole neſts of theſe eggs undiſturbed, and often with a few of the young ones, about the ſize of a pullet, half ſtarved, ſtraggling, and moaning about like diſtreſſed orphans in ſearch of their mother. Hence the oſtrich may be juſtly ſaid to be hardened againſt her young ones, as tho' they were not hers; her labour in hatching and attending them (ſo long as ſhe does attend them) being in vain, without fear, or the leaſt concern of what becomes of them afterwards. This want of affection, is alſo mentioned by the prophet. The daughter of my people is cruel, like the oſtriches in the wilderneſs, Lam. iv. 3.

Ver. 17. God hath deprived her of wiſdom, &c.] Nor is the above the only reproach that is due to the oſtrich; ſhe is alſo inconſiderate and fooliſh in the choice of her food, which is frequently detrimental, and ſometimes highly pernicious, ſwallowing every thing indiſcriminately, with the greateſt greedineſs, whether pieces of rags, leather, wood, ſtone, lead, or iron. It may therefore be juſtly ſaid, that God hath deprived her of wiſdom, neither hath he imparted to her underſtanding.

Ver. 18. What time ſhe lifteth up herſelf on high, &c.] Or as the words may be tranſlated, when ſhe riſeth herſelf to fly from her purſuer, ſhe ſcorneth the horſe and his rider. The Arabians are well acquainted with the truth of this aſſertion; for they find it impoſſible to overtake them, even when mounted on their ſwifteſt horſes. They have only an opportunity of admiring, at a diſtance, the extraordinary agility and ſtatelineſs of their motions.

Ver. 19. Haſt thou given the horſe ſtrength?] Here follows one of the moſt lively and beautiful deſcriptions that was ever penned. We have celebrated paintings of an horſe in both the Greek and Roman poets; but this, though under all the diſadvantages of having been written in a language little underſtood, in being expreſſed in phraſes peculiar to a part of the world, whoſe manner of thinking and ſpeaking ſeems to us very uncouth; and above all appearing in a proſe tranſlation, is nevertheleſs tranſcendently above the heathen deſcriptions. In Homer we meet with the following ſimilitude of an horſe.

> The wanton courſer thus, with reins unbound,
> Breaks from his ſtall, and beats the trembling ground;
> Pamper'd and proud, he ſeeks the wonted tides,
> And heaves, in height of blood, his ſhining ſides;
> His head now freed, he toſſes to the ſkies,
> His mane diſhevel'd o'er his ſhoulders flies;
> He ſnuffs the females in the diſtant plain,
> And ſprings, exulting, to his fields again.
> POPE.

This ſimile is exactly copied by Virgil in his 11th Æneid; yet we cannot but particularly obſerve, that in thoſe deſcriptions, the claſſical poets chiefly endeavour to paint the outward figure, lineaments and motions; but in this deſcription, the ſacred poet makes all the beauties flow from an inward principle in the creatures he deſcribes, and thereby gives great ſpirit and vivacity to his deſcription; here are all the great and ſprightly images that thought can form of this generous beaſt, expreſſed in ſuch force and energy of ſtyle, as would have given the great wits of antiquity new laws for the ſublime, had they been acquainted with theſe writings.

Haſt thou clothed his neck with thunder?] Homer and Virgil mention nothing about the neck of the horſe, but his mane: the ſacred author, by the bold figure of thunder, not only expreſſes the ſhaking of that remarkable beauty in the horſe, and the flakes of hair, which naturally ſuggeſt the idea of lightening; but likewiſe the violent agitation and force of the neck, which in the oriental tongues had been flatly expreſſed by a metaphor leſs than this.

Ver. 24. He ſwalloweth the ground, &c.] A bold and noble image for his ſwiftneſs. Mr. Pope's deſcription of the horſe has ſomething of the ſame ſpirit in it.

> Th' impatient courſer pants in every vein,
> And pawing, ſeems to beat the diſtant plain;
> Hills, vales, and floods, appear already croſt,
> And e're he ſtarts, a thouſand ſteps are loſt.

3 ¶ Then Job anſwered the LORD, and ſaid,

4 Behold, I am vile, what ſhall I anſwer thee? I will lay mine hand upon my mouth.

5 Once have I ſpoken, but I will not anſwer: yea, twice, but I will proceed no further.

Before Christ 1520.

6 ¶ Then anſwered the LORD unto Job out of the whirlwind, and ſaid,

7 Gird up thy loins now like a man: I will demand of thee, and declare thou unto me.

8 Wilt thou alſo diſannul my judgment? wilt thou condemn me, that thou mayeſt be righteous?

9 Haſt thou an arm like God? or canſt thou thunder with a voice like him?

10 Deck thyſelf now with majeſty and excellency, and aray thyſelf with glory and beauty.

11 Caſt abroad the rage of thy wrath: and behold every one that is proud, and abaſe him.

12 Look on every one that is proud, and bring him low: and tread down the wicked in their place.

13 Hide them in the duſt together, and bind their faces in ſecret.

14 Then will I alſo confeſs unto thee, that thine own right hand can ſave thee.

15 ¶ Behold now behemoth which I made with thee, he eateth graſs as an ox.

16 Lo now, his ſtrength is in his loins, and his force is in the navel of his belly.

17 He moveth his tail like a cedar: the ſinews of his ſtones are wrapt together.

Ver. 26. Doth the hawk fly by thy wiſdom? &c.] Windſor Foreſt who taught the hawk as the winter approaches to ſeek a milder climate in the ſouth, and in a perpetual ſummer, to defy the northern ſtorms.

NOTES on Chap. XL.

Ver. 5. Once have I ſpoken, &c.] I have ſaid too much already, in ſpeaking only theſe two or three words to thee; but I have done, I will add no more. Job now expreſſes great terror and confuſion, and anſwers with humility, as unworthy to ſpeak to the great majeſty of heaven.

Ver. 15. Behemoth.] The word Behemoth is an Egyptian termination, ſignifying, not the elephant, but a creature in that country, called by the Greek writers Hippopotamus, i. e. river horſe; for he ſhelters himſelf among the reeds of the Nile; and ſo the Behemoth is ſaid, verſe 21. to lie in the coverts of the reeds and fens, and to be compaſſed about with the willows of the brook. The river horſe feeds upon the herbage of the Nile, and the Behemoth is ſaid to eat graſs like an ox. No creature is known to have ſtronger ribs than the River-horſe; and the bones of the Behemoth are as ſtrong as pieces of braſs, like bars of iron: and it appears from 2 Eſdras, vi. 49. that the Hebrews reckon Behemoth not among the land creatures, but thoſe belonging to the water. Hence it ſufficiently appears, that the Behemoth, and the River-horſe, are one and the ſame creature; though Mr. Pilkington takes it to be the Rhinoceros.

Before Christ 1520.

18 His bones are as ſtrong pieces of braſs, his bones are like bars of iron.

19 He is the chief of the ways of God: he that made him, can make his ſword to approach unto him.

20 Surely the mountains bring him forth food: where all the beaſts of the field play.

21 He lieth under the ſhady trees, in the covert of the reed, and fens.

22 The ſhady trees cover him with their ſhadow: the willows of the brook compaſs him about.

23 Behold, he drinketh up a river, and haſteth not: he truſteth that he can draw up Jordan into his mouth.

24 He taketh it with his eyes: his noſe pierceth through ſnares.

CHAP. XLI.

Of Gods great power in the leviathan.

CAnſt thou draw out leviathan with an hook? or his tongue with a cord which thou letteſt down?

2 Canſt thou put an hook into his noſe? or bore his jaw through with a thorn?

3 Will he make many ſupplications unto thee? will he ſpeak ſoft words unto thee?

4 Will he make a covenant with thee? wilt thou take him for a ſervant for ever?

5 Wilt thou play with him as with a bird? or wilt thou bind him for thy maidens?

6 Shall the companions make a banquet of him? ſhall they part him among the merchants?

Before Christ 1520.

7 Canſt thou fill his ſkin with barbed irons? or his head with fiſh-ſpears?

8 Lay thine hand upon him, remember the battel, do no more.

9 Behold, the hope of him is in vain: ſhall not one be caſt down even at the ſight of him?

10 None is ſo fierce that dare ſtir him up: who then is able to ſtand before me?

11 Who hath prevented me that I ſhould repay him? whatſoever is under the whole heaven is mine.

12 I will not conceal his parts, nor his power, nor his comely proportion.

13 Who can diſcover the face of his garment? or who can come to him with his double bridle?

14 Who can open the doors of his face? his teeth are terrible round about.

15 His ſcales are his pride, ſhut up together, as with a cloſe ſeal.

16 One is ſo near to another, that no air can come between them.

17 They are joined one to another, they ſtick together, that they cannot be ſundred.

18 By his neeſings a light doth ſhine, and his eyes are like the eye-lids of the morning.

19 Out of his mouth go burning lamps, and ſparks of fire leap out.

Ver. 19. He is the chief of the ways of God.] One of the principal works of God among the brute creation.

Ver. 23. And haſteth not.] That is, drinketh at leiſure, and without fear.

NOTES on Chap. XLI.

Ver 1. Leviathan.] That is the crocodile; a monſtrous creature found in the river Nile, to which every part of this deſcription is conformable; and not the whale, that fiſh being not armed with ſuch ſcales as the leviathan is here ſaid to have (verſe 15.) neither is impenetrable, nor ever creeps upon the earth.

Ver. 8. Remember the battle, do no more.] If thou once conſider the danger, thou will not meddle with him.

Ver. 10. None is ſo fierce that dare ſtir him up.] This alludes to a cuſtom of this creature, namely, that when he is ſatiated with fiſh, he comes on ſhore, and ſleeps among the reeds.

Ver. 18. His eyes are like the eye-lids of the morning.] Here is conveyed to us as great an image of the thing repreſented, as is poſſible to be done by words; and probably, from hence, the Egyptians borrowed their heiroglyphic of the morning, which is a crocodile's eye.

Ver. 19. Out of his mouth goeth burning lamps, &c.] This expreſſion is more literally true than at firſt view may be imagined. The naturaliſts tell us, that the crocodile, lying a long time under water, and being there forced to hold his breath, when he emerges, his breath, by being long repreſſed, is hot, and burſts out ſo violently, that it reſembles fire and ſmoke. This ſhould teach us, not to entertain a falſe opinion of the eaſtern boldneſs, from paſſages ill underſtood.

Before Chriſt 1520.

20 Out of his noſtrils goeth ſmoke, as out of a ſeething pot or caldron.

21 His breath kindleth coals, and a flame goeth out of his mouth.

22 In his neck remaineth ſtrength, and ſorrow is turned into joy before him.

23 The flakes of his fleſh are joined together: they are firm in themſelves, they cannot be moved.

24 His heart is as firm as a ſtone, yea, as hard as a piece of the nether milſtone.

25 When he raiſeth up himſelf, the mighty are afraid: by reaſon of breakings they purify themſelves.

26 The ſword of him that layeth at him cannot hold: the ſpear, the dart, nor the habergion.

27 He eſteemeth iron as ſtraw, and braſs as rotten wood.

28 The arrow cannot make him flee: ſling-ſtones are turned with him into ſtubble.

29 Darts are counted as ſtubble: he laughed at the ſhaking of a ſpear.

30 Sharp ſtones are under him: he ſpreadeth ſharp-pointed things upon the mire.

31 He maketh the deep to boil like a pot: he maketh the ſea like a pot of ointment.

32 He maketh a path to ſhine after him; one would think the deep to be hoary.

33 Upon earth there is not his like: who is made without fear.

34 He beholdeth all high things: he is a king over all the children of pride.

Before Chriſt. 1520.

THen Job anſwered the LORD, and ſaid,

4 Hear, I beſeech thee, and I will ſpeak: I will demand of thee, and declare thou unto me.

5 I have heard of thee by the hearing of the ear: but now mine eye ſeeth thee.

7 ¶ And it was ſo, that after the LORD had ſpoken theſe words unto Job, the LORD ſaid to Eliphaz the Temanite, My wrath is kindled againſt thee, and againſt thy two friends: for ye have not ſpoken of me the thing that is right, as my ſervant Job hath.

Ver. 22. Sorrow is turned into joy before him.] Nothing is painful or difficult to him.

Ver. 31. He maketh the deep to boil like a pot] That is, troubled with the ſlimy mud which he ſtirreth up.

Ver. 34. He beholdeth all high things.] Without any fear, as if he contemned them.

NOTES on Chap. XLII.

Ver. 1. Then Job anſwered the Lord, &c.] The preceeding ſpeeches having, in ſo lively a manner, repreſented the power and wiſdom of God in his works, awakened Job to a fuller conviction of his error; and now he ſubmitted himſelf with the profoundeſt humility, begged pardon for his faults, and reſolved never hereafter to complain of, or queſtion the equity and goodneſs of providence.

Ver. 5. I have heard of thee by the hearing of the ear, and now, &c.] I have heard of thee by tradition, delivered down from my forefathers; but now I have a clear and ſenſible perception of thy being and divine perfections.

Ver. 8. Go to my ſervant Job.] To reconcile yourſelves unto him, before you can think of reconciling yourſelves unto me. Biſhop Patrick thinks, that God ſent them with the bullocks and the rams to Job, becauſe he had appointed him to be their prieſt, and he was to offer for them their burnt-offering.

Before Chriſt 1520.

burnt-offering, and my ſervant Job ſhall pray for you, for him will I accept: leſt I deal with you after your folly, in that ye have not ſpoken of me the thing which is right, like my ſervant Job.

9 So Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite went, and did according as the LORD commanded them: the LORD alſo accepted Job.

10 And the LORD turned the captivity of Job, when he prayed for his friends: alſo the LORD gave Job twice as much as he had before.

11 Then came there unto him all his brethren, and all his ſiſters, and all they that had been of his acquaintance before, and did eat bread with him in his houſe: and they bemoaned him, and comforted him over all the evil that the LORD had brought upon him: every man alſo gave him a piece of money, and every one an ear-ring of gold.

Before Chriſt 1520.

12 So the LORD bleſſed the latter end of Job more than his beginning: for he had fourteen thouſand ſheep, and ſix thouſand camels, and a thouſand yoke of oxen, and a thouſand ſhe-aſſes.

13 He had alſo ſeven ſons and three daughters.

14 And he called the name of the firſt, Jemima, and the name of the ſecond, Kezia, and the name of the third, Keren-happuch.

15 And in all the land were no women found ſo fair as the daughters of Job: and their father gave them inheritance among their brethren.

16 After this lived Job an hundred and forty years, and ſaw his ſons, and his ſons ſons, even four generations.

17 So Job died, being old, and full of days.

Ver. 11. A piece of money.] The word rendered a piece of money, ſignifies alſo lambs, or young ſheep, as the Chaldee paraphraſt turns the word; and this ſeems moſt probable, as that particular piece of money was but of very ſmall value, (viz. the coin that had the ſtamp of a lamb upon it) three halfpence Engliſh. But if all Job's acquaintance, which was very numerous, brought him one ſheep each, it would ſet him up with a good flock at once.

Ver. 14. Jemima.] The day, becauſe of the day of felicity which he now enjoyed, after a ſad night of affliction.

Keziä.] This is the name of a certain ſpice in Arabia, of an excellent fragrance, and given here by Job, in remembrance of God's healing his ſores.

Keren-happuch.] That is, plenty reſtored, and is applied, on account of God's having reſtored him to his proſperity.

Ver. 16. After this Job lived an hundred and forty years.] The Septuagint reads an hundred and ſeventy years. He lived in all two hundred and forty years.

Ver. 17. So Job died, being old and full of days.] The Septuagint adds, but it is written he ſhall riſe again, among thoſe whom the Lord ſhall raiſe. A plain proof (as was before obſerved) that the ancients believed a reſurrection.

Thus ends this moſt elegant and inſtructive book. The principal benefit which pious ſouls, eſpecially the afflicted, reap from it, is, to be perſuaded, that all things are originally ordered and diſpoſed by Almighty God; that neither good nor bad angels can do any thing without his permiſſion; that we ought not to murmur in any condition, as if God neglected or dealt hardly with us; becauſe, as he is all-powerful to afflict, ſo he is all-wiſe, and all-good, not to do any thing without reaſon, but for our good and benefit in the end; that we ought not therefore to accuſe his providence, but ſilently to adore and reverence thoſe unſearchable depths of his wiſe councils which we cannot fathom; ought ſtill to aſſert his righteouſneſs in the midſt of our own calamities, as well as in the proſperous condition of the wicked; and believe that all, at laſt, ſhall turn to our advantage, if, like his ſervant Job, we perſevere in faith, and hope, and patience.

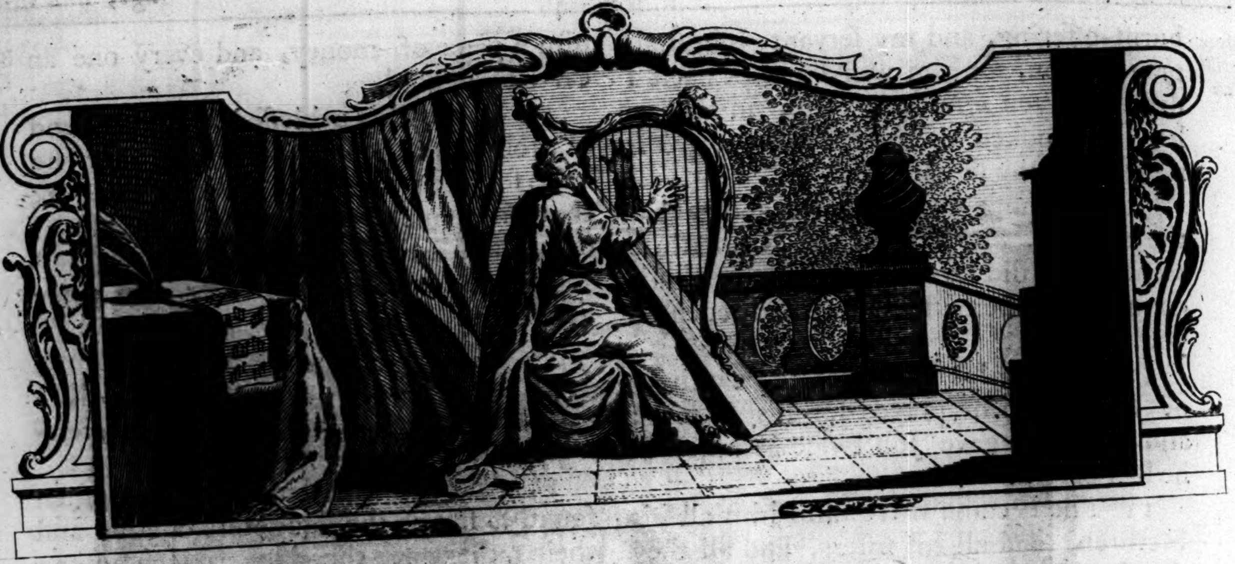
The End of the Book of JOB.



The Book of PSALMS.

The ARGUMENT.

This book is a collection of ſpiritual hymns, compiled by ſeveral men, in ſeveral ages; moſt by David, ſome by Solomon, one at leaſt by Moſes. Many are inſcribed with the name of Aſaph; ſome were compoſed during the captivity; others after the reſtoration. Probably after the ſacred records were burnt by the Babyloniſh army, ſome pious perſons collected theſe pſalms from their friends, who had taken copies for their own private uſe, and had preſerved them for their comfort in their captivity; and Ezra ranged them into one collection at their return. The word Pſalm is Greek, properly ſignifying the ſound of a ſtringed inſtrument of muſic; for the Hebrews ſung the pſalms with different inſtruments.—This is a ſtrict tranſlation from the preſent Hebrew; that in the liturgy, is taken from the Septuagint.

tinguiſhes offenders into three different ranks, viz. the man that walketh in the counſel of the ungodly; the man that ſtandeth in the way of ſinners, and the man that ſitteth in the ſeat of the ſcornful. By the ſcornful, are meant thoſe who not only neglect, but ſcoff at religion, and make a mock of that, which of all things in the world, is of the greateſt importance. Walking or ſtanding in the way of ſinners, repreſents only particular wicked actions; but ſitting ſignifies a fixed reſolute eſtabliſhment in an habit of wickedneſs.

Ver. 3. He ſhall be like a tree, &c.] You may behold an emblem of this man's happineſs, in thoſe trees which are planted near the waters of a perpetual fountain. As they are green and flouriſhing all the year, and never fail to reward the planter's pains with plenty of fruit; ſo ſhall this pious man be ever proſperous, and in the iſſue, reap a plentiful fruit of his labours.

Ver. 4. Like the chaff.] The ancient method of winnowing corn was, by throwing it up againſt the wind with a ſhovel; as it is now practiſed in the eaſt.

Ver. 5. Shall not ſtand in the judgment.] Let them not think to defend themſelves, when God comes to judge the world.

Ver. 6, The Lord knoweth the way, &c.] He eſteems, and highly approves the way, &c.

NOTES on Pſalm II.

In this pſalm, under the hiſtory of David, whom God exalted from a low eſtate to the throne of Iſrael, we have a moſt illuſtrious prophecy of the kingdom of Chriſt, whom God raiſed from the grave, made him the king of glory, and extended his kingdom to the utmoſt parts of the earth, notwithſtanding the rage and malice of the chief prieſts, Herod, and other princes of the world.

Ver. 1. Why do the heathen rage, &c.] What phrenzy poſſeſſeth the Philiſtines and other neighbouring nations, that they join with ſo much fury to oppoſe the power of God, and render abortive the work he will ſurely bring to paſs.

Ver. 2. The kings of the earth, &c.] The kings and governors of the world are confederated to oppoſe the deſigns of God, who has anointed me king over his people, in the ſame manner as Herod, Pontius Pilate, and the rulers of Iſrael, will conſpire againſt the Meſſiah, and endeavour to dethrone him, to whom God hath given all the kingdoms of the earth. See the apoſtle's interpretation of this pſalm, Acts iv. 27.

Ver. 3. Let us break their bands, &c.] Let us (ſay they) ſhake off all obedience to this new king, who pretends to reign by the power of the moſt high.

Ver. 6. Yet have I ſet my king, &c.] Notwithſtanding all oppoſition, I have given the kingdom to David; and in future times, I will appoint one of his poſterity to ſit on the throne of glory, on the right hand of the majeſty on high.

Ver. 7. I will declare the decree, &c.] Such I know is the decree of heaven, and I will publiſh it to the whole world; for, from a low condition, the Lord hath raiſed me to the higheſt dignity. This day I begin to reign by his order; and therefore, it may be called the birth-day of my kingdom: and this is only a ſlender type of a far greater exaltation of his ſon Chriſt, whom he hath determined to raiſe again to life after his death and burial, and then to crown him with glory and honour in the heavens.

Ver. 8. I ſhall give thee the heathen, &c.] To wit, the Philiſtines, the Edomites, Moabites, Syrians, and other countries as far as the Euphrates, ſhall be ſubdued unto me; as hereafter all nations ſhall be to the power and kingdom of Chriſt.

Ver. 10. Be wiſe now therefore, O ye kings, &c.] Submit ye therefore to the decrees of heaven, which it will be madneſs to oppoſe.

PSAL. III.

The ſecurity of Gods protection.

¶ A Pſalm of David, when he fled from Abſalom his ſon.

1023. LORD, how are they increaſed that trouble me? many are they that riſe up againſt me.

2 Many there be which ſay of my ſoul, There is no help for him in God. Selah.

3 But thou, O LORD, art a ſhield for me; my glory, and the lifter up of mine head.

4 I cried unto the LORD with my voice, and he heard me out of his holy hill. Selah.

5 I laid me down and ſlept; I awaked, for the LORD ſuſtained me.

6 I will not be afraid of ten thouſands of people, that have ſet themſelves againſt me round about.

7 Ariſe, O LORD, ſave me, O my God; for thou haſt ſmitten all mine enemies upon the cheek-bone: thou haſt broken the teeth of the ungodly.

8 Salvation belongeth unto the LORD: thy bleſſing is upon thy people. Selah.

PSAL. IV.

1 David prayeth for audience: 2 He reproveth and exhorteth his enemies. 6 Mans happineſs is in Gods favour.

¶ To the chief muſician on Neginoth, A Pſalm of David.

HEar me when I call, O God of my righteouſneſs: thou haſt enlarged me when I was in diſtreſs, have mercy upon me, and hear my prayer.

2 O ye ſons of men, how long will ye turn my glory into ſhame? how long will ye love vanity, and ſeek after leaſing? Selah.

3 But

Ver. 12. Kiſs the ſon, leſt he be angry.] It ſhould have been rendered obey, or be ſubject to, &c. for to kiſs, is a ſymbol of love, and token of obedience. See 1 Sam. x. 1. Several ancient verſions read, Receive inſtructions, leſt God be angry, &c.

And ye periſh, &c.] Err, wander, or deviate, from the right way.

NOTES on Pſalm III.

Ver. 1. Lord, how are they encreaſed, &c.] How amazing is the change which has happened to me! I who was by thee placed on the throne of Iſrael, and lately triumphed over ſo many countries; now ſee mine own ſubjects in arms againſt me, and with mine own ſon, conſpiring to deprive me both of my crown and life.

Ver. 2. Many there be which ſay of my ſoul, &c.] That is, concerning me, or my life. The generality of the people conſider me as loſt, and ſay thou haſt utterly forſaken me.

Selah.] This word is often uſed in the divine poems: but it is difficult to aſſign its true and proper import. The Chaldee paraphraſt renders it for ever; and ſo it is expounded by ſeveral of the rabbins, without aſſigning any ſufficient reaſon for it. It ſignifies an elevation or lifting up, and may be applied, either to the attention of the mind, or the raiſing of the voice. Some take it for a note in muſic, in which David being a great maſter, he ſet ſome of his pſalms himſelf, to be ſung to ſuch inſtruments as he thought moſt agreeable to the notes; but that muſic being now loſt, ſome interpreters have wholly omitted the word ſelah. The Septuagint have diapſalma, which Suidas interprets, a change of the ſong. Dr. Wall's conjecture in regard to it, ſeems well founded, viz. that it is a note, ſignifying, that the laſt words to which it is added, ſhould be again repeated to the chorus; becauſe it is always affixed at the end of ſome remarkable and pathetic clauſe, proper to be ſung over again.

Ver. 7. Upon the cheek bone.] This is a ſign and term of reproach.

NOTES on Pſalm IV.

Wherever the Hebrew has, to the chief muſician, in the title of a pſalm, the Septuagint have to the end; by which one would conjecture, that their ſenſe is, that thoſe pſalms which have this note in their title, were to be ſung to the end at once, as being of one continued ſenſe; whereas many of the others conſiſt of parts, relating to different matters, or were too long to be ſung to the end at once. To the end, are the ſame words which the Septuagint have, Deut xxxi. 30. Moſes ſpake in the ears of the congregation, the words of this ſong until they were ended.

On Neginoth.] That is, on ſtringed inſtruments.

Ver. 1. Hear me when I call, O God of my righteouſneſs.] The Hebrew, O God my juſtice, that is, who juſtifieth me.

Ver. 2. O ye ſons of men.] It ſhould be tranſlated, as in the original, ſons of man, that is, great men: for ſons of men are all that are of the race of Adam; but ſons of man, are perſons of dignity, and rule in the world.

How long will ye turn my glory into ſhame?] How long will you defame and overturn my government.

And ſeek after leaſing.] Invent calumnies, and induſtriouſly ſpread lies.

A Pſalm of David.

Give ear to my words, O Lord, conſider my meditation.

2 Hearken unto the voice of my cry, my King, and my God: for unto thee will I pray.

3 My voice ſhalt thou hear in the morning, O Lord; in the morning will I direct my prayer unto thee, and will look up.

4 For thou art not a God that hath pleaſure in wickedneſs: neither ſhall evil dwell with thee.

6 Thou ſhalt deſtroy them that ſpeak leaſing: the Lord will abhor the bloody and deceitful man.

7 But as for me, I will come into thy houſe in the multitude of thy mercy: and in thy fear will I worſhip toward thy holy temple.

8 Lead me, O Lord, in thy righteouſneſs, becauſe of mine enemies; make thy way ſtraight before my face.

9 For there is no faithfulneſs in their mouth, their inward part is very wickedneſs; their throat is an open ſepulcher, they flatter with their tongue.

10 Deſtroy thou them, O God; let them fall by their own counſels: caſt them out in the multitude of their tranſgreſſions, for they have rebelled againſt thee.

Ver. 6. There be many that ſay, &c.] Many are apt to deſpair; but do thou, O Lord, &c.

Notes on Pſalm V.

This pſalm was compoſed by David, after a deliverance out of his trouble; but whether it was from the perſecution of Saul, or the rebellion of Abſalom, is uncertain.

Nehiloth.] Nehiloth is underſtood to mean, wind inſtruments, flutes, trumpets, organs, &c.

Ver. 1. My meditation.] My complaint and cry.

Ver. 5. The fooliſh.] The word is uſed for mad, and implies raving with folly, or running eagerly upon ſin.

Ver. 7. Toward thy holy temple.] Toward thy ſanctuary, into which the worſhippers never entered, but into the court-yard, and at the door offered their gifts.

Ver. 9. Their inward part.] It means their minds or conſciences.

Ver. 10. Deſtroy thou them.] The Septuagint reads judge them.

Ver. 11. That love thy name.] The name of a perſon is an Hebraiſm, whereby the perſon is frequently expreſſed.

1 Davids complaint in his ſickneſs: 8 By faith he triumpheth over his enemies.

¶ To the chief muſician on Neginoth, upon Sheminith, A Pſalm of David.

O LORD, rebuke me not in thine anger, neither chaſten me in thy hot diſpleaſure.

2 Have mercy upon me, O LORD, for I am weak: O LORD, heal me, for my bones are vexed.

3 My ſoul is alſo ſore vexed: but thou, O LORD, how long?

4 Return, O LORD, deliver my ſoul: oh ſave me for thy mercies ſake.

5 For in death there is no remembrance of thee: in the grave who ſhall give thee thanks?

6 I am weary with my groaning, all the night make I my bed to ſwim: I water my couch with my tears.

7 Mine eye is conſumed becauſe of grief; it waxeth old becauſe of all mine enemies.

8 Depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity; for the LORD hath heard the voice of my weeping.

9 The LORD hath heard my ſupplication; the LORD will receive my prayer.

10 Let all mine enemies be aſhamed and ſore vexed: let them return and be aſhamed ſuddenly.

¶ Shiggaion of David, which he ſang unto the LORD, concerning the words of Cuſh the Benjamite.

O LORD my God, in thee do I put my truſt: ſave me from all them that perſecute me, and deliver me.

3 O LORD my God, if I have done this; if there be iniquity in my hands:

5 Let the enemy perſecute my ſoul, and take it, yea, let him tread down my life upon the earth, and lay mine honour in the duſt. Selah.

6 Ariſe, O LORD, in thine anger, lift up thyſelf, becauſe of the rage of mine enemies:

NOTES on Pſalm VI.

Sheminith.] Sheminith ſignifies eight; and as this pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed, after David had recovered from ſome grievous diſeaſe, it is thought he delivered it to the chief muſician, and ordered it to be ſung to the harp of eight ſtrings.

Ver. 1. Rebuke me not in thine anger.] David here does not deſire to be entirely eaſed of correction, and go off with impunity; but only requeſts a mitigation of his puniſhment.

Ver. 3. O Lord, how long?] How long wilt thou defer help: or, as the other verſions read, How long wilt thou puniſh me?

Ver. 5. In death there is no remembrance of thee.] The dead are utterly incapable of commemorating thy wonderful works, and of propagating the memory of them to poſterity.

Ver. 8. Depart from me, &c.] Depart from me therefore ye wicked, nor maliciouſly inſult my affliction, nor vainly expect my death.

Ver. 10. Let all mine enemies be aſhamed.] The other verſion reads, All mine enemies ſhall be confounded, &c. which ſeems not ſo conſiſtent with the ſentiments of David, as implying too great confidence.

NOTES on Pſalm VII.

Shiggaion of David.] Shagah, from whence is derived Shiggaion, is uſed for delight, or wandering in pleaſure. This pſalm may therefore be entitled the delight, pleaſure, or ſolace of David.

Concerning the words of Cuſh the Benjamite.] This excellent pſalm was written by David, to commemorate God's loving kindneſs, on occaſion of ſome calumnies and falſe accuſations which Cuſh, one of the ſame tribe with Saul, had charged him with. Some are of opinion, that by Cuſh is meant Saul himſelf, the ſon of Kiſh.

Ver. 2. Leſt he tear my ſoul like a lion.] So great is his power, and ſo implacable his rage, that if thou doſt ſuffer me to fall into his hands, I am no more able to oppoſe Saul, than a lamb is able to defend itſelf againſt a lion.

10 My defence is of God, which ſaveth the upright in heart.

11 God judgeth the righteous, and God is angry with the wicked every day.

Gods glory is magnified by his works, and by his love to man.

¶ To the chief muſician upon Gittith, A Pſalm of David.

O LORD our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth! who haſt ſet thy glory above the heavens.

2 Out of the mouth of babes and ſucklings haſt thou ordained ſtrength, becauſe of thine enemies, that thou mighteſt ſtill the enemy and the avenger.

3 When I conſider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the ſtars which thou haſt ordained;

Ver. 11. God judgeth the righteous.] Liturgy verſion, God is a righteous judge.

God is angry with the wicked every day.] Though he delays their puniſhment, yet he ſtill remembers their offence; increaſing the puniſhments of thoſe who "treaſure up for themſelves wrath againſt the day of wrath."

Ver. 14. Behold, he travaileth with iniquity, &c.] Behold the folly of this calumniator, who wickedly plots my ruin, and hath formed the moſt miſchievous deſigns, both againſt my honour and my life, which ſhall all miſcarry, and deceive his expectations.

NOTES on Pſalm VIII.

Gittith.] Gittith has, by ſome, been underſtood to denote, that this pſalm was to be ſung to an harp, which David brought with him from Gath. Others think it only to be a note in muſic; whilſt others again (as Gath, in the Hebrew, ſignifies a wine-preſs) look upon it as a thankſgiving pſalm, in the time of vintage. But agreeable to the title which Theodoret gives it, who calls it PSALMOS EPINIKIOS, a pſalm of triumph, upon ſome victory; it is moſt likely that David compoſed it, after having obtained ſome memorable victory; probably after ſlaying Goliath of Gath; for the account of that event is very agreeable to the matter of the pſalm, and a lively emblem of Chriſt's conqueſt over our great enemy the devil.

Ver. 2. Out of the mouth of babes and ſucklings, &c.] Thou haſt aſſiſted me (who, compared with Goliath, am but an infant) with power and ſtrength to ſubdue that mighty giant. The Septuagint reads, haſt thou perfected praiſe; and ſo it is quoted, Matt. xxi. 16.

Ver. 3, 4. When I conſider the heavens, &c.] When I contemplate the immenſity of the heavens, and thoſe ſtupendous orbs, which thou haſt placed there in the moſt beautiful order, I am aſtoniſhed to think, that thou ſhouldeſt condeſcend to ſhew ſuch remarkable favour to man, and in particular to me, who am the meaneſt of my father's houſe; nay, even that thou ſhouldeſt advance our natures by means of the ſon of man, the great Meſſiah, whom the world will villify and deſpiſe, exceeds all wonder, and ought to be the ſubject of one perpetual admiration.

Ver. 5. Thou haſt made him a little lower than the angels, &c.] Thou haſt raiſed man to ſuch a pitch of dignity, and honoured him ſo highly, that he is but little inferior to the heavenly hoſt; and by the mediation of thine own ſon, who ſhall take our nature upon him, thou wilt crown him with glory and honour.

Upon Muth-labben.] The opinion of the generality of interpreters is, that the words Muth-labben, have a relation to Goliath. All of them underſtand, that by Gnalmuth, is meant upon the death; and they have three ways of applying Labben to Goliath. Some think that it ſignifies a ſon, which is a term denoting ſtrength and power: others render it the white, i. e. an illuſtrious noble perſon; or one famous in arms: others again render it intermediate, which agrees likewiſe to that champion who ſtood between the two armies, and defied Iſrael. This pſalm, however, was not compoſed immediately upon his victory over the giant; becauſe mention is made in it of Sion, which was not then in the hands of Iſrael; but afterwards, upon ſome freſh occaſion, he had to implore the divine aſſiſtance, he only recollected and commemorated again that former deliverance. But ſtill it muſt be confeſſed, not eaſy to determine the particular occaſion on which it was made.

Ver. 3. Shall periſh at thy preſence.] It ſhould have been rendered, ſhall periſh by thine anger.

Ver. 10. They that know thy name.] Thoſe who have a juſt notion of thy veracity and goodneſs.

Ver. 12. The cry of the humble.] More properly, as in the other verſion, the complaint of the poor.

Ver. 14. The daughter of Zion.] It was a common turn of the Hebrew and Phœnician languages, to ſay, that a city or country was the daughter of the rocks, rivers, or mountains that ſurround her, or that were incloſed within her walls. Thus Jeruſalem is often called the daughter

NOTES on Pſalm X.

It is unknown by whom, or on what occaſion this pſalm was compoſed; it is, however, a lively deſcription of the inſolence of wicked atheiſtical men, when they have acquired power and authority; by which they abuſe thoſe that are under them, making no conſcience of uſing the baſeſt arts to compaſs their ends.

This pſalm, in the Greek verſion, is made a continuance of the foregoing; ſo that in the Greek, and thoſe who copy them, the numbers of the pſalms differ from thoſe in the Hebrew, the 11th being reckoned for the 10th, the 12th for the 11th, &c. and ſtill, to make up the number of 150 pſalms, they divide the 147th into two. They join likewiſe the 114th and 115th, and to make up for it, they divide the 116th.

Ver. 3. And bleſſeth the covetous.] The margin reads, "The covetous bleſſeth himſelf." The other verſion, "and ſpeaketh good of the covetous, &c."

Ver. 4. God is not in all his thoughts.] That is, by an uſual Hebraiſm, God is not at all in his thoughts.

NOTES on Pſalm XI.

We are told by the title, that this Pſalm was compoſed by David; in all probability, it was when he was perſecuted by Saul, and was adviſed by ſome to ſeek his ſafety by flight, into the mountains of Judea; afterwards, when he was ſettled on the throne, it was performed in the tabernacle, in commemoration of what had paſſed between him and his friends, and the entire confidence he placed in the Almighty.

Ver. 1. In the Lord put I my truſt, &c.] It is neither in fortreſſes nor friends that I put my truſt, the Lord alone is my defence; why then ſhould you bid me flee away like a timorous bird from the ſnare of the fowler, to the mountain of your ſecurity?

Ver. 2. The wicked bend their bow.] Behold, you ſay, the danger; the fowler hath bent his bow, and fitted his arrow upon the ſtring, and has you as a bird already in his eye.

Ver. 3. If the foundations be deſtroyed, &c.] If men have no regard to laws or public decrees, which are the foundations of ſociety, what can an honeſt man do?

Ver. 4. The Lord is in his holy temple. &c.] My anſwer is, that the world is not governed by chance, nor can men do juſt as they pleaſe; for wickedneſs lies open before the Lord, and is manifeſt in his ſight.

Ver. 6. Upon the wicked he ſhall rain ſnares, &c.] He ſhall deſtroy them with ſudden and terrible judgments. Snares in ſcripture, often ſignify extraordinary puniſhments; here, probably, the ſimile is continued from verſe 1. flee, &c.

NOTES on Pſalm. XII.

This pſalm was compoſed by David, to be ſung like the ſixth, upon the harp of eight ſtrings. It is a ſad complaint of the corrupt manners of the age, particularly of the court of Saul, where it was ſcarce poſſible to find a truly ſincere and honeſt man. Some are of opinion, that it is principally directed againſt Doeg and the Ziphites, who promiſed him their friendſhip with no other intention than to deliver him into the hand of Saul.

NOTES on Pſalm XIII.

This pſalm was compoſed by David, and relates to ſome remarkable diſtreſs; probably the rebellion of Abſalom.

Ver. 2 How long ſhall I take counſel in my ſoul? &c.] I am ever conſulting where I can preſerve my life; but can find no place of ſecurity! The great power of the enemy threatens like a ſudden tempeſt to overwhelm me! When will his cruel attempts be fruſtrated!

Ver. 3. Leſt I ſleep the ſleep of death.] Leſt mine enemy take advantage of my mournful depreſſion of ſpirit, and deſtroy me.

NOTES on Pſalm XIV.

This pſalm, which was compoſed likewiſe by David, refers, in all probability, to the univerſal apoſtacy of the people in the rebellion of Abſalom, from the allegiance they owed to David, and the duty they owed to God.

Ver. 1. The fool hath ſaid in his heart there is no God.] The wicked, though not ſo imprudent as openly to deny the being of a God, yet certainly flatter themſelves in ſecret with the thought; that either there is no God, or that he is indifferent with regard to the tranſactions of mankind, and will never call them to account for their tranſgreſſions.

Ver. 3. There is none that doeth good, no not one.] This is not be underſtood in a ſtrict and literal ſenſe; but only that the number of the righteous was inconſiderable in compariſon of the wicked. The word almoſt ſhould be inſerted; there is almoſt none that doth good, &c.

and our common tranſlation, add here ſix or ſeven ſentences, which St. Paul, after he has cited this verſe, quotes, Rom. iii. 13, &c. from whence it is evident, that the Vatican verſion was made from a Hebrew copy, in which this paſſage was in the ſame ſtate as we find it quoted by St. Paul. This gives the greateſt ſanction poſſible to the authority of this verſion; and hence we have as clear a proof as can be given, of a manifeſt and remarkable omiſſion in the preſent Hebrew text, which appears to have been perfect, at leaſt in this particular, at the time when the verſion was made.

Ver. 6. You have ſhamed the counſel of the poor, &c.] Ye derided that ſmall party of men who were determined to preſerve their integrity and loyalty, and to wait patiently upon God, and truſt in him alone for ſafety.

NOTES on Pſalm XV.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed when he brought the ark to mount Zion, or when he was reſtored thither again after Abſalom's rebellion.

Ver. 1. Lord, who ſhall abide, &c.] What happineſs haſt thou conferred on thy people, by deigning to dwell among them, even in this mountain, on which thou haſt pitched thy tabernacle!

Ver. 2. He that walketh uprightly.] Here David ſuppoſes God anſwering from the holy oracle. Not all that are deſcendants from Abraham, that obſerve the ceremonious rites of religion, but him who exerciſes juſtice and mercy to his neighbour, and piety to God.

Ver. 3. He that backbiteth not, &c.] Ragal, here tranſlated to backbite, (and from whence is derived ragel, a fool) properly ſignifies going to and fro, prying, and ſpying, and carrying tales and rumours, and is ſet for defaming and calumniating.

Ver. 4. He that ſweareth to his own hurt, &c.] He who hath ſo true a reſpect to religion, that whatever he promiſes with an oath, he never fails to perform; however injurious it may prove to his private fortune.

Ver. 5. That putteth not out his money to uſury.] At an exorbitant intereſt; taking advantage of the indigence of his brethren.

Shall never be moved.] That is, ſhall never be removed from the favour of God.

NOTES on Pſalm XVI.

Michtam.] The ſignification of this word is not certainly known. Some interpreters render it David's jewel; others, who think it is derived from chetem, the pureſt gold, a pſalm of gold.

This excellent pſalm is worthy of being inſcribed on a pillar of adamant, that it may endure to all poſterity; for, beſides the admirable expreſſions of faith in God, it contains a prophecy of our bleſſed Redeemer's reſurrection from the dead.

Ver. 2. My goodneſs extendeth not to thee.] No merits of mine can claim thy favour.

3 But to the ſaints that are in the earth, and to the excellent, in whom is all my delight.

4 Their ſorrows ſhall be multiplied, that haſten after another god: their drink-offerings of blood will I not offer, nor take up their names into my lips.

5 The LORD is the portion of mine inheritance, and of my cup: thou maintaineſt my lot.

6 The lines are fallen unto me in pleaſant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage.

7 I will bleſs the LORD, who hath given me counſel: my reins alſo inſtruct me in the night-ſeaſons.

8 I have ſet the LORD always before me: becauſe he is at my right hand, I ſhall not be moved.

9 Therefore my heart is glad, and my glory rejoiceth: my fleſh alſo ſhall reſt in hope.

10 For thou wilt not leave my ſoul in hell; neither wilt thou ſuffer thine holy One to ſee corruption.

11 Thou wilt ſhew me the path of life: in thy preſence is fulneſs of joy, at thy right hand there are pleaſures for evermore.

PSAL. XVII.

1 David in confidence of his integrity, craveth defence of God againſt his enemies: 10 He ſheweth their pride, craft, and eagerneſs:
13 He prayeth againſt them in confidence of his hope.

¶ A Prayer of David.

HEar the right, O LORD, attend unto my cry, give ear unto my prayer that goeth not out of feigned lips.

2 Let my ſentence come forth from thy preſence: let thine eyes behold the things that are equal.

3 Thou haſt proved mine heart, thou haſt viſited me in the night, thou haſt tried me, and ſhalt find nothing: I am purpoſed that my mouth ſhall not tranſgreſs.

4 Concerning the works of men, by the word of thy lips, I have kept me from the paths of the deſtroyer.

5 Hold up my goings in thy paths, that my footſteps ſlip not.

6 I have called upon thee, for thou wilt hear me, O God: incline thine ear unto me, and hear my ſpeech.

7 Shew thy marvellous loving kindneſs, O thou that ſaveſt by thy right hand them which put their truſt in thee, from thoſe that riſe up againſt them.

8 Keep me as the apple of the eye: hide me under the ſhadow of thy wings,

---

Ver. 4. Their ſorrows ſhall be multiplied, &c.] They here multiply idols, and are zealous in the ſervice of another God.

Nor take up their names into my lips.] The Jews were afraid to mention the name of the heathen deities; and therefore gave them borrowed names.

Ver. 5. The Lord is the portion of mine inheritance.] The Almighty is the God whom I adore; and while I put my confidence in him, he will ſupport me.

And of my cup.] Cup here likewiſe ſignifies inheritance.

Ver. 6. The lines are fallen unto me in pleaſant places.] The kingdom he has ſettled upon me is remarkably pleaſant. This expreſſion is taken from the cuſtom of meaſuring land by lines or cords.

Ver. 7. My reins.] That is, my thoughts.

Ver. 8. At my right-hand.] He is nigh, powerfully to aſſiſt me.

Ver. 9. My glory rejoiceth.] That is, My ſoul, ſome read my tongue. See Pſalm xxx. 12.

Ver. 10. Thou wilt not leave my ſoul in hell, &c.] By hell, we are here to underſtand the grave, the place, eſtate, or depth of death. It is very remarkable, that the Hebrew printed copies have the plural number here, inſtead of the ſingular; and therefore read, Thou wilt not ſuffer thy ſaints to ſee corruption; whereby the ſtrong reaſoning of St. Peter and St. Paul is entirely invalidated. See Kennicot's excellent diſſertation on this text.

NOTES on Pſalm XVII.

This prayer of David, appears to have been written at the beginning of his perſecutions by Saul, when the courtiers, inſtigated by malice and envy, accuſed him of crimes which never entered his thoughts; namely, that he was affecting the kingdom, and ſeeking the life of Saul.

Ver. 4. Concerning the works of men, &c.] I know what men are apt to do in ſuch circumſtances; but the reſpect I bear to thy commandments, hath preſerved me from thoſe murderous practices, which the violent man would have attempted.

Ver. 6. Thou wilt hear me,] More proper thus, Thou canſt hear me.

9 From the wicked that oppreſs me, from my deadly enemies, who compaſs me about.

10 They are incloſed in their own fat: with their mouth they ſpeak proudly.

11 They have now compaſſed us in our ſteps: they have ſet their eyes bowing down to the earth:

12 Like as a lion that is greedy of his prey, and as it were a young lion lurking in ſecret places.

13 Ariſe, O LORD, diſappoint him, caſt him down: deliver my ſoul from the wicked, which is thy ſword:

14 From men which are thy hand, O LORD, from men of the world, which have their portion in this life, and whoſe belly thou filleſt with thy hid treaſure: they are full of children, and leave the reſt of their ſubſtance to their babes.

15 As for me, I will behold thy face in righteouſneſs: I ſhall be ſatisfied, when I awake, with thy likeneſs.

PSAL. XVIII.

David praiſeth God for his manifold and marvellous bleſſings.

¶ To the chief muſician, A pſalm of David, the ſervant of the LORD, who ſpake unto the LORD the words of this ſong in the day that the LORD delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul: And he ſaid,

I will love thee, O LORD, my ſtrength.

2 The LORD is my rock, and my fortreſs, and my deliverer: my God, my ſtrength in whom I will truſt, my buckler, and the horn of my ſalvation, and my high tower.

3 I will call upon the LORD, who is worthy to be praiſed: ſo ſhall I be ſaved from mine enemies.

4 The ſorrows of death compaſſed me, and the floods of ungodly men made me afraid.

5 The ſorrows of hell compaſſed me about: the ſnares of death prevented me.

6 In my diſtreſs I called upon the LORD, and cried unto my God: he heard my voice out of his temple, and my cry came before him, even into his ears.

7 Then the earth ſhook and trembled; the foundations alſo of the hills moved, and were ſhaken, becauſe he was wroth.

8 There went out a ſmoke out of his noſtrils, and fire out of his mouth devoured: coals were kindled by it.

9 He bowed the heavens alſo, and came down: and darkneſs was under his feet.

10 And he rode upon a cherub, and did fly: yea, he did fly upon the wings of the wind.

11 He made darkneſs his ſecret place: his pavilion round about him, were dark waters, and thick clouds of the ſkies.

12 At the brightneſs that was before him, his thick clouds paſſed, hail-ſtones and coals of fire.

13 The LORD alſo thundered in the heavens,

Ver. 10. They are incloſed in their own fat.] Their proſperity makes them haughty and proud; and by indulging the appetites of the fleſh, they diſregard the duties of religion.

Ver. 13, 14. From the wicked, which is thy ſword, &c.] Dr. Hammond tranſlates it thus, "Deliver my ſoul from the "wicked by thy ſword; and by thy hand, from the men "of this age, which have, &c." But our tranſlation is full as conſpicuous, and has more of elegance in it; it ſuppoſes the wicked to be the ſword, i. e. the inſtrument of God, wherewith he puniſhed David; and the men of the world to be his hand, with which he ſmote him.

Ver. 15. I will behold, &c.] If I follow after righteouſneſs, I ſhall enjoy the comfort and favour of thy countenance; and when I am delivered out of my troubles, I ſhall be ſatisfied with thy majeſty and glory.

NOTES on Pſalm XVIII.

We have already met with this ſacred and beautiful poem, in a preceding part of the bible; and as they are both nearly the ſame, the reader is refered, for a commentary upon this pſalm, to 2 Sam. xxii.

Ver. 1. I will love thee, O Lord, my ſtrength.] I will love thee, O Lord, to whom I owe my ſafety, with the moſt ardent and paſſionate affection, as long as life continues. This verſe is not inſerted in the book of Samuel.

heavens, and the Higheſt gave his voice; hail-ſtones and coals of fire.

14 Yea, he ſent out his arrows, and ſcattered them; and he ſhot out lightnings, and diſcomfited them.

15 Then the channels of waters were ſeen, and the foundations of the world were diſcovered: at thy rebuke, O LORD, at the blaſt of the breath of thy noſtrils.

16 He ſent from above, he took me, he drew me out of many waters.

17 He delivered me from my ſtrong enemy, and from them which hated me: for they were too ſtrong for me.

18 They prevented me in the day of my calamity: but the LORD was my ſtay.

19 He brought me forth alſo into a large place: he delivered me, becauſe he delighted in me.

20 The LORD rewarded me according to my righteouſneſs, according to the cleanneſs of my hands hath he recompenſed me.

21 For I have kept the ways of the LORD, and have not wickedly departed from my God.

22 For all his judgments were before me, and I did not put away his ſtatutes from me.

23 I was alſo upright before him: and I kept myſelf from mine iniquity.

24 Therefore hath the LORD recompenſed me according to my righteouſneſs, according to the cleanneſs of my hands in his eye-ſight.

25 With the merciful thou wilt ſhew thyſelf merciful, with an upright man thou wilt ſhew thyſelf upright.

26 With the pure thou wilt ſhew thyſelf pure, and with the froward thou wilt ſhew thyſelf froward.

27 For thou wilt ſave the afflicted people: but wilt bring down high looks.

28 For thou wilt light my candle: the LORD my God will enlighten my darkneſs.

29 For by thee I have run through a troop: and by my God have I leaped over a wall.

30 As for God, his way is perfect: the word of the LORD is tried: he is a buckler to all thoſe that truſt in him.

31 For who is God ſave the LORD? or who is a rock ſave our God?

32 It is God that girdeth me with ſtrength, and maketh my way perfect.

33 He maketh my feet like hinds feet, and ſetteth me upon my high places.

34 He teacheth my hands to war, ſo that a bow of ſteel is broken by mine arms.

35 Thou haſt alſo given me the ſhield of thy ſalvation: and thy right hand hath holden me up, and thy gentleneſs hath made me great.

36 Thou haſt enlarged my ſteps under me; that my feet did not ſlip.

37 I have purſued mine enemies, and overtaken them: neither did I turn again till they were conſumed.

38 I have wounded them that they were not able to riſe: they are fallen under my feet.

39 For thou haſt girded me with ſtrength unto battel: thou haſt ſubdued under me thoſe that roſe up againſt me.

40 Thou haſt alſo given me the necks of mine enemies: that I might deſtroy them that hate me.

41 They cried, but there was none to ſave them: even unto the LORD, but he anſwered them not.

42 Then did I beat them ſmall as the duſt before the wind: I did caſt them out as the dirt in the ſtreets.

43 Thou haſt delivered me from the ſtrivings of the people: and thou haſt made

---

Ver. 15. At the blaſt of the breath of thy noſtrils.] That is, at the anger of the Lord.

made me the head of the heathen: a people whom I have not known ſhall ſerve me.

44 As ſoon as they hear of me, they ſhall obey me: the ſtrangers ſhall ſubmit themſelves unto me.

45 The ſtrangers ſhall fade away, and be afraid out of their cloſe places.

46 The LORD liveth, and bleſſed be my rock: and let the God of my ſalvation be exalted.

47 It is God that avengeth me, and ſubdueth the people under me.

48 He delivereth me from mine enemies: yea, thou liftest me up above thoſe that riſe up againſt me: thou haſt delivered me from the violent man.

49 Therefore will I give thanks unto thee, O LORD, among the heathen: and ſing praiſes unto thy name.

50 Great deliverance giveth he to his king: and ſheweth mercy to his anointed, to David, and to his ſeed for evermore.

1 The creatures ſhew Gods glory; 7 the word, his grace. 12 David prayeth for grace.

¶ To the chief muſician, A Pſalm of David.

THE heavens declare the glory of God: and the firmament ſheweth his handy work.

2 Day unto day uttereth ſpeech, and night unto night ſheweth knowledge.

3 There is no ſpeech nor language where their voice is not heard.

4 Their line is gone out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world: in them hath he ſet a tabernacle for the ſun.

5 Which is as a bridegroom coming out of his chamber, and rejoiceth as a ſtrong man to run a race.

6 His going forth is from the end of the heaven, and his circuit unto the ends of it: and there is nothing hid from the heat thereof.

7 The law of the LORD is perfect, converting the ſoul: the teſtimony of the LORD is ſure, making wiſe the ſimple.

8 The ſtatutes of the LORD are right, rejoicing the heart: the commandment of the LORD is pure, enlightening the eyes.

9 The fear of the LORD is clean, enduring for ever: the judgments of the LORD are true and righteous altogether.

10 More to be deſired are they than gold, yea, than much fine gold: ſweeter alſo than hony, and the hony-comb.

11 Moreover, by them is thy ſervant warned: and in keeping of them there is great reward.

12 Who can underſtand his errors? cleanſe thou me from ſecret faults.

NOTES on Pſalm XIX.

Ver. 1. The heavens declare the glory of God, &c.] There is no part of this ſurpriſing fabric of the world, which doth not direct us to an Almighty Being. The heavens, decorated with ſo immenſe a number of glorious orbs, in a particular manner proclaim aloud to the ſons of men, the infinite greatneſs, power, wiſdom, and goodneſs of God.

Ver. 2. Day unto day uttereth ſpeech, &c.] The conſtant ſucceſſion, and the convenient and grateful variation of day and night, furniſhes us with perpetual inſtruction, and copious matters of praiſe and thanks to the divine wiſdom and goodneſs.

Ver. 3. There is no ſpeech nor language, &c.] There is not a people or nation in the world, of whatever ſpeech or language, where the heavens and the firmament do not declare the glory of God, and the agreeable viciſſitude of day and night, does not ſhew forth the wiſdom of the great deſigner. Speech and language are elegantly put for people and countries: the book of Daniel gives us ſeveral inſtances of it.

Ver: 4. Their line.] The Greek, and from thence our other Engliſh tranſlation reads, their ſound.

In them hath he ſet a tabernacle for the ſun.] Or tent. The eſpouſals of the Jews were made under a tent or canopy, erected for that purpoſe; which cuſtom is here alluded to.

Ver. 5. Which is as a bridegroom.] This ſeems to refer to a cuſtom which prevailed then among the Jews, and ſtill does prevail among ſome of the eaſtern nations, of the bridegroom's going out at midnight, accompanied with flambeaux; darkneſs flying before the ſun and bridegroom.

Before Chriſt

13 Keep back thy ſervant alſo from preſumptuous ſins, let them not have dominion over me: then ſhall I be upright, and I ſhall be innocent from the great tranſgreſſion.

14 Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in thy ſight, O LORD, my ſtrength and my redeemer.

5 His glory is great in thy ſalvation, honour and majeſty haſt thou laid upon him.

7 For the king truſteth in the LORD,

Ver. 13. Preſumptuous ſins.] The Septuagint reads, ſtrange gods.

NOTES on Pſalm XX.

The learned Dr. Pearce obſerves, that this pſalm ſeems not only to have been drawn for general uſe, on ſome day appointed for public worſhip, but to have been ſung in parts alternately, by David and his ſubjects. The five firſt verſes appear plainly to have been deſigned for the voice of the people, The Lord hear thee, &c. and then David, encouraged by the unanimous prayers of his ſubjects, replied, Now know I that the Lord ſaveth, &c. The people then ſeem to have gone on as in the text, and ſo cloſed their devotions with the remainder of the pſalm.

Ver. 1. The name of God.] The power and grace of God.

Ver. 9. Save, Lord, &c.] In the day when we cry unto thee for help, make our armies victorious.

NOTES on Pſalm XXI.

This may be called a triumphal pſalm, after ſome victories which David had obtained, and is a type of Chriſt's victory over death, and of the triumph which enſued. There are ſome things in it more literally fulfilled in Chriſt, than in David.

Ver. 4. He aſked, life of thee, &c.] He deſired only to eſcape with his life, when he was encompaſſed with many dangers. And thou, moreover, didſt promiſe to prolong his days, and to continue the crown to his poſterity for many generations, as thou wilt do to his ſon Chriſt for ever and ever. For Chriſt being raiſed from the dead, dieth no more, death hath no more power over him. Rom. vi. 9. But behold, he is alive for evermore, amen. Rev. i. 18. And ever liveth to make interceſſion for them that come to God by him. Heb. vii. 25.

Ver. 8. Thine hand ſhall find out, &c.] This verſe ſhews the propriety of looking upon the Jews as a ſcourge, raiſed up by God, to be a ſcourge upon the vices of the nations ſurrounding them.

Ver. 12. Therefore ſhalt thou make them turn their back.] In the Hebrew, it is, "Thou ſhalt make them a butt," a mark to ſhoot at.

NOTES on Pſalm XXII.

Aijeleth Shahar.] That is, the hind of the morning.

In this pſalm, David, who was perſecuted like an hind, by the hunters in the morning, as interpreters, in order to account for the title of the pſalm expreſs themſelves, gives a large deſcription of his ſufferings. But under the type of his own perſon, he deſcribes at large the ſufferings of our great Redeemer; and in the concluſion, paints in the moſt beautiful colours, his exultation, and the propagation of his kingdom to the ends of the earth. Some of the particulars are delivered in ſuch expreſſions, that they are more literally fulfilled in Chriſt, than ever they were in David himſelf, to whom they can only be applied in a metaphorical ſenſe.

Ver. 1. My God, my God, &c.] It is very probable that our bleſſed Redeemer repeated the whole of this pſalm; in which are the moſt lively ſtrokes of all the remarkable particulars of his paſſion. It is to be remarked, that in the application, our Saviour makes uſe of the Syriac word Sabacthani; whereas the word which David uſes, is Gnazabhtani; but they have both the ſame meaning, and ſignify forſaken me.

Ver. 2. O my God, &c.] O my God, I cry inceſſantly unto thee day and night, but can obtain no reſt from my perſecutions.

Ver. 3. Thou that inhabiteſt the praiſes of Iſrael.] The ſanctuary, where the people continually offered up their praiſes and thankſgivings.

Ver. 6. I am a worm, and no man.] The literal tranſlation of theſe words is this, "As for me, I am a ſcarlet "inſect, or worm, and not a man." The figurative ſenſe will bear this; "I bear the ſcandal and reproach of "the deepeſt guilt, and yet am wholly free from it."

Ver. 7, 8. All they that ſee me, laugh me to ſcorn.] This was exactly fulfilled in our bleſſed Saviour, Matthew xxvii. 39.

thou art my God from my mothers belly.

11 Be not far from me, for trouble is near; for there is none to help.

12 Many bulls have compaſſed me: ſtrong bulls of Baſhan have beſet me round.

13 They gaped upon me with their mouths, as a ravening and a roaring lion.

14 I am poured out like water, and all my bones are out of joint: my heart is like wax, it is melted in the midſt of my bowels.

15 My ſtrength is dried up like a potſherd: and my tongue cleaveth to my jaws; and thou haſt brought me into the duſt of death.

16 For dogs have compaſſed me, the aſſembly of the wicked have incloſed me: they pierced my hands and my feet.

17 I may tell all my bones: they look and ſtare upon me.

18 They part my garments among them, and caſt lots upon my veſture.

19 But be thou not far from me, O Lord; O my ſtrength, haſte thee to help me.

20 Deliver my ſoul from the ſword: my darling from the power of the dog.

21 Save me from the lions mouth: for thou haſt heard me from the horns of the unicorns.

22 I will declare thy name unto my brethren: in the midſt of the congregation will I praiſe thee.

23 Ye that fear the Lord, praiſe him; all ye the ſeed of Jacob, glorify him; and fear him, all ye the ſeed of Iſrael.

24 For he hath not deſpiſed, nor abhorred the affliction of the afflicted: neither hath he hid his face from him, but when he cried unto him, he heard.

25 My praiſe ſhall be of thee in the great congregation: I will pay my vows before them that fear him.

26 The meek ſhall eat and be ſatisfied: they ſhall praiſe the Lord that ſeek him; your heart ſhall live for ever.

27 All the ends of the world ſhall remember and turn unto the Lord: and all the kindreds of the nations ſhall worſhip before thee.

28 For the kingdom is the Lords: and he is the governor among the nations.

29 All they that be fat upon earth, ſhall eat and worſhip: all they that go down to the duſt ſhall bow before him, and none can keep alive his own ſoul.

30 A ſeed ſhall ſerve him, it ſhall be accounted to the Lord for a generation.

31 They ſhall come, and ſhall declare his righteouſneſs unto a people that ſhall be born, that he hath done this.

PSAL. XXIII.

Davids confidence in Gods grace.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

THE Lord is my ſhepherd, I ſhall not want.

2 He

Ver. 12. Strong bulls of Baſhan.] Baſhan abounded in rich paſtures, and large cattle. He means, that his enemies were powerful, great, and cruel.

Ver. 14. I am poured out like water, &c.] I am as weak as water; my bones are looſed, ſo that I am not able to ſupport my body; my heart fails me, and my ſpirit diſſolves, and faints away as wax melts before the fire.

Ver. 16. Dogs have compaſſed me, &c.] That malicious company which have combined together to perſecute me, are as greedy, and as cruel as the hungry dogs, who have hunted down a hind, and are gathered about her to tear her in pieces. They uſe me moſt cruelly, and have pierced my hands and my feet. This was literally fulfilled in the ſon of God; but in the hiſtory of David, there is nothing that reſembles it.

Ver. 18. They part my garments among them, and caſt lots upon my veſture.] This was likewiſe more literally fulfilled in Chriſt than in David; in whoſe hiſtory we find nothing like it.

Ver. 20. My darling.] Some have tranſlated this my ſolitary, or deſolate ſoul; that is, forſaken of all.

Notes on Pſalm XXIII.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed by David, after God had delivered him from that deep diſtreſs, of which he complained in the foregoing; and ſettled him in a proſperous condition, wherein he was confident God would continue him.

Ver. 1. The Lord is my ſhepherd, &c.] No ſhepherd exerciſes a more tender care over his flocks, than the Lord hath done over me.

Before Chriſt

2 He maketh me to lie down in green paſtures: he leadeth me beſide the ſtill waters.

3 He reſtoreth my ſoul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteouſneſs for his names ſake.

4 Yea, though I walk through the valley of the ſhadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me, thy rod and thy ſtaff they comfort me.

5 Thou prepareſt a table before me in the preſence of mine enemies: thou anointeſt my head with oil, my cup runneth over.

6 Surely goodneſs and mercy ſhall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the houſe of the Lord for ever.

PSAL. XXIV.

1 Gods lordſhip in the world. 3 The citizens of his ſpiritual kingdom. 7 An exhortation to receive him.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

1017. THE earth is the Lords, and the fulneſs thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein.

2 For he hath founded it upon the ſeas, and eſtabliſhed it upon the floods.

3 Who ſhall aſcend into the hill of the Lord? and who ſhall ſtand in his holy place?

4 He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart; who hath not lift up his ſoul unto vanity, nor ſworn deceitfully.

5 He ſhall receive his bleſſing from the Lord, and righteouſneſs from the God of his ſalvation.

6 This is the generation of them that ſeek him, that ſeek thy face, O Jacob. Selah.

7 Lift up your heads, O ye gates, and be ye lift up, ye everlaſting doors, and the King of glory ſhall come in.

8 Who is this King of glory? the Lord ſtrong and mighty, the Lord mighty in battel.

9 Lift up your heads, O ye gates, even lift them up, ye everlaſting doors, and the King of glory ſhall come in.

10 Who is this King of glory? the Lord of hoſts, he is the King of glory. Selah.

PSAL. XXV.

1 Davids confidence in prayer: 7 He prayeth for remiſſion of ſins, 16 and for help in affliction.

UNTO

Before Chriſt.

Ver. 4. Though I walk through the valley of the ſhadow of death.] It is thought, that by the valley of the ſhadow of death, David meant, thoſe dreadful foreſts of Hareth, where he abode ſome time in exile.

Ver. 5. Thou prepareſt, &c.] Thou provideſt for me in a ſumptuous manner, to the aſtoniſhment of mine enemies.

Thou anointeſt my head with oil, &c.] Odoriferous oils were uſed, not only in the conſecration of things, &c. but alſo at banquets. He deſcribes the abundant plenty with which God had bleſſed him.

Ver. 6. Surely goodneſs and mercy ſhall follow me, &c.] I am perſuaded, that the ſame bounteous goodneſs and tender mercy, which have done ſuch great things for me, will ſtill moſt graciouſly attend me to the end of my days, and ſettle me in a quiet enjoyment of his tabernacle; where I will never ceaſe to praiſe his amazing love towards me, and give him thanks for all the benefits he hath done unto me.

Notes on Pſalm XXIV.

This pſalm was compoſed by David, moſt probably, when he brought up the ark from the houſe of Obed-edom, and ſettled it in mount Zion; and upon that account, he prefers this place to all the reſt of the world. It is likely, that this pſalm was to be ſung by the king and people alternately.

Ver. 3. Who ſhall aſcend, &c.] Since God hath condeſcended to diſtinguiſh this mountain, as the place of his ſpecial preſence, who ſhall be thought worthy to appear there before him?

Ver. 7. Lift up your heads, O ye gates, &c.] Let all, who follow the ark of the Lord, at this ſolemn entry of the divine majeſty, into the holy place, join with me in ſaying, "Be ye open, O ye gates of the ſanctuary, and "the king of glory will enter in, and by the ſpecial tokens of his preſence, dwell among us."

Ver. 8. Who is this king of glory? &c.] If any ſhould aſk, Who is this king of glory, whoſe tranſcendent majeſty we proclaim? Let them know, it is the Lord, who hath made, and governs the world; that moſt mighty and invincible Lord, whoſe awful preſence hath made me to gain ſo many ſignal victories in the day of battle.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

UNto thee, O LORD, do I lift up my ſoul.

2 O my God, I truſt in thee, let me not be aſhamed: let not mine enemies triumph over me.

3 Yea, let none that wait on thee be aſhamed; let them be aſhamed which tranſgreſs without cauſe.

4 Shew me thy ways, O LORD; teach me thy paths.

5 Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my ſalvation, on thee do I wait all the day.

6 Remember, O LORD, thy tender mercies, and thy loving kindneſſes: for they have been ever of old.

7 Remember not the ſins of my youth, nor my tranſgreſſions: according to thy mercy remember thou me, for thy goodneſs ſake, O LORD.

8 Good and upright is the LORD: therefore will he teach ſinners in the way.

9 The meek will he guide in judgment: and the meek will he teach his way.

10 All the paths of the LORD are mercy and truth, unto ſuch as keep his covenant, and his teſtimonies.

11 For thy names ſake, O LORD, pardon mine iniquity: for it is great.

12 What man is he that feareth the LORD? him ſhall he teach in the way that he ſhall chooſe.

13 His ſoul ſhall dwell at eaſe: and his ſeed ſhall inherit the earth.

14 The ſecret of the LORD is with them that fear him: and he will ſhew them his covenant.

15 Mine eyes are ever towards the LORD: for he ſhall pluck my feet out of the net.

16 Turn thee unto me, and have mercy upon me: for I am deſolate and afflicted.

17 The troubles of my heart are enlarged: O bring thou me out of my diſtreſſes.

18 Look upon mine affliction, and my pain, and forgive all my ſins.

19 Conſider mine enemies, for they are many, and they hate me with cruel hatred.

20 O keep my ſoul, and deliver me: let me not be aſhamed, for I put my truſt in thee.

21 Let integrity and uprightneſs preſerve me: for I wait on thee.

22 Redeem Iſrael, O God, out of all his troubles.

PSAL. XXVI.

David reſorteth unto God, in confidence of his integrity.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

JUdge me, O LORD, for I have walked in mine integrity: I have truſted alſo in the LORD: therefore I ſhall not ſlide.

NOTES on Pſalm XXV.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed by David, after the commiſſion of ſome enormous ſin, and in ſome great diſtreſs; probably, after the matter of Uriah, and when Abſalom rebelled againſt him.

Ver. 3. Let them be aſhamed which tranſgreſs without cauſe.] Let them be utterly defeated, who, againſt all law and obligations, have broke their faith with me; and without any provocation, labour to deſtroy me.

Ver. 7. Remember not the ſins of my youth, &c.] "I am "a ſinner: and even in my youth, went aſtray from "thee; and committed more grievous offences as I advanced in years. But thy mercies ſhield us from thy "juſtice; thou pardoneſt the offences of man, when the "ſinner implores thy forgiveneſs. Conſider not, there"fore, O my God, the greatneſs of my ſins; but for "the ſake of thy tender mercy, forgive my tranſgreſ"ſions."

Ver. 14. The ſecret of the Lord.] By this is meant, either his favour and providence, or his counſel.

Ver. 22. Redeem Iſrael, O my God, &c.] Nor do I plead mine own private cauſe only; but beſeech thee to have mercy upon the whole nation, who are lamentably diſtracted by theſe diviſions; and to reſtore them to peace and quietneſs.

NOTES on Pſalm XXVI.

David, in this pſalm, aſſerts his integrity, and appeals to God, as judge of his moſt ſecret intentions; but it ſeems to relate to the time of his perſecution by Saul, when he was conſidered as a public enemy.

2 Examine me, O LORD, and prove me; try my reins and my heart.

3 For thy loving kindneſs is before mine eyes: and I have walked in thy truth.

4 I have not ſat with vain perſons, neither will I go in with diſſemblers.

5 I have hated the congregation of evil doers: and will not ſit with the wicked.

6 I will waſh mine hands in innocency: ſo will I compaſs thine altar, O LORD.

7 That I may publiſh with the voice of thankſgiving, and tell of all thy wondrous works.

8 LORD, I have loved the habitation of thy houſe, and the place where thine honour dwelleth.

9 Gather not my ſoul with ſinners, nor my life with bloody men.

10 In whoſe hand is miſchief: and their right hand is full of bribes.

11 But as for me, I will walk in mine integrity: redeem me, and be merciful unto me.

12 My foot ſtandeth in an even place: in the congregations will I bleſs the LORD.

PSAL. XXVII.

1 David ſuſtaineth his faith by the power of God, 4 by his love to the ſervice of God, 9 by prayer.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

THE LORD is my light, and my ſalvation, whom ſhall I fear? the LORD is the ſtrength of my life, of whom ſhall I be afraid?

2 When the wicked, even mine enemies and my foes came upon me to eat up my fleſh, they ſtumbled and fell.

3 Though an hoſt ſhould encamp againſt me, my heart ſhall not fear: though war ſhould riſe againſt me, in this will I be confident.

4 One thing have I deſired of the LORD, that will I ſeek after, that I may dwell in the houſe of the LORD all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the LORD, and to enquire in his temple.

5 For in the time of trouble he ſhall hide me in his pavilion: in the ſecret of his tabernacle ſhall he hide me, he ſhall ſet me up upon a rock.

6 And now ſhall mine head be lifted up above mine enemies round about me: therefore will I offer in his tabernacle ſacrifices of joy, I will ſing, yea, I will ſing praiſes unto the LORD.

7 Hear

Ver. 2. Examine me, &c.] Whether I ever intended any evil to mine enemy; and if thou wilt expoſe me to a more ſevere trial, I hope it will only diſcover more of my integrity.

My reins.] The reins being the moſt inward parts of the body, are, in ſcripture, figuratively put for the inward thoughts.

Ver. 4. I have not ſat with vain perſons.] I never delighted in the company of falſe and treacherous perſons, nor had any thing to do with thoſe, who, under the ſpecious veil of friendſhip and religion, conceal the moſt wicked deſigns.

Ver. 6. I will waſh my hands, &c.] This is an expreſſion, taken from thoſe waſhings which were appointed for the prieſts to uſe when they approached the altar.

Ver. 8. I have loved the habitation of thy houſe, &c.] I have attended the ſervice of thy houſe with a ſincere affection, and rejoiced when I viſited thy tabernacle.

Ver. 9. Gather not my ſoul with ſinners.] Involve me not in the ſame puniſhment with them, from whoſe ſociety I have ever ſeparated.

NOTES on Chap. XXVII.

This pſalm was written by David, either when he was, or had been in ſome great diſtreſs. Some of the Jews think, that it was on account of his engaging himſelf in fight with the Philiſtines, ſo far among the enemies, that he was in danger of being killed by a giant, unleſs Abiſhai had not ſeaſonably ſtepped in, and relieved him.

Ver. 4. That I may dwell in the houſe of the Lord.] May perpetually attend upon the ſervice of God in his holy tabernacle.

Ver. 5. In the time of trouble he ſhall hide me in his pavilion, &c.] I ſhall be more ſecure in his tabernacle in the day of trouble, than if encompaſſed with the ſtrongeſt bulwarks, or concealed in the moſt ſacred caverns of the mountains; nor is the moſt impregnable rock, a place of equal ſecurity.

Ver. 6. Now ſhall mine head be lifted up, &c.] Now I have felt the happy fruits of loving his dwelling-place; for the Lord hath given me a glorious victory, and made me triumph over all mine enemies on every ſide: I will therefore viſit his tabernacle, and offer ſacrifices of thankſgiving, with the higheſt expreſſions of joy. I will compoſe ſongs of praiſe, and magnify the power and loving-kindneſs of the Lord.

7 Hear, O Lord, when I cry with my voice: have mercy alſo upon me, and anſwer me.

8 When thou ſaidſt, Seek ye my face; my heart ſaid unto thee, Thy face, Lord, will I ſeek.

9 Hide not thy face far from me, put not thy ſervant away in anger: thou haſt been my help, leave me not, neither forſake me, O God of my ſalvation.

10 When my father and my mother forſake me, then the Lord will take me up.

11 Teach me thy way, O Lord, and lead me in a plain path, becauſe of mine enemies.

12 Deliver me not over unto the will of mine enemies: for falſe witneſſes are riſen up againſt me, and ſuch as breathe out cruelty.

13 I had fainted, unleſs I had believed to ſee the goodneſs of the Lord in the land of the living.

14 Wait on the Lord: be of good courage, and he ſhall ſtrengthen thine heart: wait, I ſay, on the Lord.

PSAL. XXVIII.

1 David prayeth earneſtly againſt his enemies. 6 He bleſſeth God. 9 He prayeth for the people.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

UNto thee will I cry, O Lord, my rock, be not ſilent to me: leſt if thou be ſilent to me, I become like them that go down into the pit.

2 Hear the voice of my ſupplications, when I cry unto thee: when I lift up my hands toward thy holy oracle.

3 Draw me not away with the wicked, and with the workers of iniquity: which ſpeak peace to their neighbours, but miſchief is in their hearts.

4 Give them according to their deeds, and according to the wickedneſs of their endeavours: give them after the work of their hands, render to them their deſert.

5 Becauſe they regard not the works of the Lord, nor the operations of his hands, he ſhall deſtroy them, and not build them up.

6 Bleſſed be the Lord, becauſe he hath heard the voice of my ſupplications.

7 The Lord is my ſtrength, and my ſhield, my heart truſted in him, and I am helped: therefore my heart greatly rejoiceth, and with my ſong will I praiſe him.

8 The Lord is their ſtrength, and he is the ſaving ſtrength of his anointed.

9 Save thy people, and bleſs thine inheritance: feed them alſo, and lift them up for ever.

PSAL. XXIX.

1 David exhorteth princes to give glory to God, 3 by reaſon of his power, 11 and protection of his people.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

GIve unto the Lord, O ye mighty, give unto the Lord glory and ſtrength.

2 Give

Ver. 13. I had fainted, &c.] I could not have ſupported under ſo many troubles and fears, if I had not firmly truſted in thee.

Notes on Pſalm XXVIII.

This pſalm ſeems to be a meditation, wrote on ſome ſolemn occaſion; perhaps the ſame that gave riſe to the foregoing.

Ver. 1. Leſt, if thou be ſilent to me, &c.] Leſt, while I confide ſo entirely on thee, and yet thou takeſt no notice of me, I appear like one that is abandoned by thee to deſtruction.

Ver. 3. Draw me not away with the wicked, &c.] Suffer me not to be involved in the ſame puniſhment with thoſe wretches, who make no conſcience in committing the greateſt villainies.

Notes on Pſalm. XXIX.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed by David, immediately after ſome ſtorm of thunder, lightning, and rain; whereby God had diſcomfited his enemies, and put their forces into ſuch diſorder, that he eaſily obtained a compleat victory over them. And this remarkable aſſiſtance of providence, animated him to exhort all the people to ſubmit to that glorious majeſty, from whom the thunder came; and who can ſo eaſily ſtrike a ſudden terror, into the hearts of his boldeſt and moſt reſolute oppoſers.

2 Give unto the LORD the glory due unto his name; worſhip the LORD in the beauty of holineſs.

3 The voice of the LORD is upon the waters: the God of glory thundereth, the LORD is upon many waters.

4 The voice of the LORD is powerful; the voice of the LORD is full of majeſty.

5 The voice of the LORD breaketh the cedars: yea, the LORD breaketh the cedars of Lebanon.

6 He maketh them alſo to ſkip like a calf: Lebanon, and Sirion like a young unicorn.

7 The voice of the LORD divideth the flames of fire:

8 The voice of the LORD ſhaketh the wilderneſs: the LORD ſhaketh the wilderneſs of Kadeſh.

9 The voice of the LORD maketh the hinds to calve, and diſcovereth the foreſts: and in his temple doth every one ſpeak of his glory.

10 The LORD ſitteth upon the flood: yea, the LORD ſitteth King for ever.

11 The LORD will give ſtrength unto his people, the LORD will bleſs his people with peace.

¶ A Pſalm and Song at the dedication of the houſe of David.

I Will extol thee, O LORD, for thou haſt lifted me up, and haſt not made my foes to rejoice over me. 1052.

2 O LORD my God, I cried unto thee, and thou haſt healed me.

3 O LORD, thou haſt brought up my ſoul from the grave: thou haſt kept me alive that I ſhould not go down to the pit.

4 Sing unto the LORD, O ye ſaints of his, and give thanks at the remembrance of his holineſs.

5 For his anger endureth but a moment; in his favour is life: weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning.

6 And in my proſperity I ſaid, I ſhall never be moved.

7 LORD,

Ver. 2. The beauty of holineſs.] The ſanctuary, where he fixed his glorious reſidence. Some have refered it to the magnificence and ſolemnity of the Jewiſh ſervice in the temple.

Ver. 3. The voice of the Lord is upon the waters.] It was his voice you heard in the clouds, from whence his glorious majeſty thunders; he makes not only the earth, but the great ocean tremble, at that awful token of his preſence.

Ver. 5. The voice of the Lord breaketh the cedars.] The ſtrongeſt trees of the foreſt tremble at his thunder, and are broken into ſhivers by it.

Ver. 6. He maketh them alſo to ſkip like a calf.] After he hath torn them aſunder, he ſcatters them in the air, and cauſes even the mountains, to leap like the young cattle that feed on their ſides.

Sirion.] Sirion is mount Hermon, called by the Amorites Shenir, and by the Sidonians Sirion.

Ver. 7. Divideth the flames of fire.] The flaſhes of lightning, which he cauſes to ſhoot out, and dart through the ſky.

Ver. 8. Kadeſh.] Called alſo Paran, and Sin; this was the deſert through which the Iſraelites paſt in their journey from Egypt to Canaan. It had its name Kadeſh, from a city bordering upon it.

Ver. 9. The voice of the Lord maketh the hinds to calve.] Hinds are ſaid to bring forth with greater trouble than other creatures; and when it thunders, the pſalmiſt remarks, that fear makes them caſt their calves.

Diſcovereth the foreſts.] That is, lays bare the coverts of the wild beaſts of the foreſts, whom it frightened into their dens.

Ver. 10. The Lord ſitteth upon the flood.] That is, to moderate the rage of the tempeſt and ſeas, and to prevent an univerſal deſolation.

NOTES on Pſalm XXX.

The title of this pſalm is evidently different from the preceding, being called a pſalm or ſong. In the Hebrew it is alſo ſomething different, and may be conſtrued thus, "A pſalm; a ſong of dedication of the houſe built by "David." This pious prince would not eat in his houſe, till he had addreſſed himſelf to the Almighty, acknowledging, in the moſt ſolemn manner, the divine goodneſs in placing him again on his throne, after he had been forced from it by the wicked rebellion of his ſon.

Ver. 1. Lifted me up.] As it were out of a pit; a phraſe denoting the depths of danger and diſtreſs.

Ver. 2. Thou haſt healed me.] Thou haſt reſtored me to my former eſtate.

Ver. 3. Thou haſt brought up my ſoul from the grave, &c.] There ſeemed to be no more hope of my reſtoration, than of the revival of a dead man; or, at the beſt, of a ſick man's recovery, who is at the point of death.

7 Lord, by thy favour thou haſt made my mountain to ſtand ſtrong : thou didſt hide thy face, and I was troubled.

8 I cried to thee, O Lord : and unto the Lord I made ſupplication.

9 What profit is there in my blood, when I go down to the pit ? ſhall the duſt praiſe thee ? ſhall it declare thy truth ?

10 Hear, O Lord, and have mercy upon me : Lord, be thou my helper.

11 Thou haſt turned for me my mourning into dancing : thou haſt put off my ſackcloth, and girded me with gladneſs :

12 To the end that my glory may ſing praiſe to thee, and not be ſilent : O Lord my God, I will give thanks unto thee for ever.

PSAL. XXXI.

1 David ſhewing his confidence in God, craveth his help : 7 He rejoiceth in his mercy : 9 He prayeth in his calamity : 19 He praiſeth God for his goodneſs.

¶ To the chief muſician, A Pſalm of David.

IN thee, O Lord, do I put my truſt, let me never be aſhamed : deliver me in thy righteouſneſs.

2 Bow down thine ear to me, deliver me ſpeedily : be thou my ſtrong rock, for an houſe of defence to ſave me.

3 For thou art my rock and my fortreſs : therefore for thy names ſake lead me, and guide me.

4 Pull me out of the net, that they have laid privily for me : for thou art my ſtrength.

5 Into thine hand I commit my ſpirit : thou haſt redeemed me, O Lord God of truth.

6 I have hated them that regard lying vanities : but I truſt in the Lord.

7 I will be glad, and rejoice in thy mercy : for thou haſt conſidered my trouble ; thou haſt known my ſoul in adverſities ;

8 And haſt not ſhut me up into the hand of the enemy : thou haſt ſet my feet in a large room.

9 Have mercy upon me, O Lord, for I am in trouble ; mine eye is conſumed with grief, yea, my ſoul and my belly.

10 For my life is ſpent with grief, and my years with ſighing : my ſtrength faileth becauſe of mine iniquity, and my bones are conſumed.

11 I was a reproach among all mine enemies, but eſpecially among my neighbours, and a fear to mine acquaintance : they that did ſee me without, fled from me.

12 I am forgotten as a dead man out of mind : I am like a broken veſſel.

13 For I have heard the ſlander of many, fear was on every ſide, while they took counſel together againſt me, they deviſed to take away my life.

Ver. 12. My glory.] That is, my tongue.

Notes on Pſalm XXXI.

David compoſed this pſalm, probably on account of the diſtreſs he was reduced to after his eſcape from Keilah, when Saul purſued him ſo cloſely in the wilderneſs of Maon, that without an extraordinary providence of God over him, he would moſt certainly have fallen into the hands of his purſuers.

Ver. 4. Pull me out of the net that they have laid privily for me.] Mine enemies have now ſo circumvented me, and by the ſecret treachery of the Ziphites, have brought me into ſuch perplexities, that I am utterly ruined, unleſs thou doſt vouchſafe to work my deliverance.

Ver. 5. Into thine hand I commit my ſpirit.] Unto thy care and cuſtody I commit myſelf, and depoſit my very life with thee. Our Saviour made uſe of theſe words (Luke xxxiii. 46.) in a more proper and literal ſenſe than they can be applied to David.

Ver. 6. Lying vanities.] By lying vanities, we are here to underſtand, not ſo much worldly things, as idols and falſe gods, which are alſo called vanities, Deut. xxxii. 21. Jer. viii. 19, &c.

Ver. 8. And haſt not ſhut me up into the hand of the enemy, &c.] Thou didſt not ſuffer me to be ſhut up in Keilah, whoſe inhabitants would have delivered me into the hands of Saul ; but didſt admoniſh me, by thy oracles, to depart from thence, and gaveſt me a larger extent to ſeek the means of my preſervation.

Ver. 10. Becauſe of mine iniquity.] Becauſe of the puniſhment due to mine iniquity, pain, miſery, and death, came into the world by reaſon of, and are the conſequence of ſin ; and the ſacred language, by a figure, puts here the cauſe for the effect.

14 But I truſted in thee, O LORD: I ſaid, Thou art my God.

15 My times are in thy hand: deliver me from the hand of mine enemies, and from them that perſecute me.

16 Make thy face to ſhine upon thy ſervant: ſave me for thy mercies ſake.

17 Let me not be aſhamed, O LORD, for I have called upon thee; let the wicked be aſhamed, and let them be ſilent in the grave.

18 Let the lying lips be put to ſilence; which ſpeak grievous things proudly, and contemptuouſly againſt the righteous.

19 O how great is thy goodneſs, which thou haſt laid up for them that fear thee; which thou haſt wrought for them that truſt in thee, before the ſons of men!

20 Thou ſhalt hide them in the ſecret of thy preſence from the pride of man: thou ſhalt keep them ſecretly in a pavilion from the ſtrife of tongues.

21 Bleſſed be the LORD; for he hath ſhewed me his marvellous kindneſs, in a ſtrong city.

22 For I ſaid in my haſte, I am cut off from before thine eyes: nevertheleſs thou heardeſt the voice of my ſupplications, when I cried unto thee.

23 O love the LORD, all ye his ſaints: for the LORD preſerveth the faithful, and plentifully rewardeth the proud doer.

24 Be of good courage, and he ſhall ſtrengthen your heart, all ye that hope in the LORD.

NOTES on Pſalm XXXII.

This pſalm was compoſed by David, when the calamities attending the rebellion of his ſon, taught him how fearful a thing it was to offend God; and how much he was beholden to him, for mercifully remitting to him the vengeance which his ſins deſerved. Some have imagined, that this pſalm was intended for public uſe, upon the great day of expiation, when the whole nation made a general confeſſion of their ſins.

Maſchil.] This word ſignifies inſtruction, and gives the title to this pſalm; either becauſe it contains excellent rules for obtaining true bleſſedneſs, or becauſe it was ſet to the tune of an hymn, at that time in common uſe, beginning with the word Maſchil: and this opinion ſeems the moſt probable of the two, there being twelve pſalms beſides this, which have the ſame title; and to all of them, the former reaſon cannot be ſo well applied.

Ver. 1. Bleſſed is he whoſe tranſgreſſion is forgiven, &c.] By the Lord, and not by himſelf; for he that covereth his ſins ſhall not proſper: but whoſo confeſſeth, and forſaketh them, ſhall have mercy. Prov. xxviii. 13. The man to whom God is graciouſly pleaſed to remit all his ſins, has ſurely the higheſt reaſon to rejoice in the mercy of God.

Ver. 3. When I kept ſilence, my bones waxed old, &c.] This has been tranſlated, “When I held my tongue, my “bones conſumed, or when I roared all the day;” i. e. neither by ſilence nor crying found I eaſe; ſignifying, that before the ſinner is reconciled to God, he is under a perpetual conflict and torture of mind.

NOTES on Pſalm XXXIII.

It is not known on what occaſion this pſalm was compoſed; tho' there can be no doubt of its being a pious meditation of the royal pſalmiſt, on occaſion of ſome great benefit he had received from the Almighty.

Ver. 2. With the pſaltery] Or it may be tranſlated, with the lute or violin. All that is conjectured concerning this inſtrument is, that it was a round hollow inſtrument; for the original word nebel, ſignifies alſo a bottle.

Ver. 6. By the word of the Lord were the heavens made.] Sure no one who ſurveys the heavenly bodies, marſhalled under the canopy of heaven, like an army in the moſt beautiful order, and conſiders that all theſe glittering orbs were called into being by the breath of his mouth; ſuch a one ſurely, cannot doubt the power of the Almighty. This beautiful verſe is a proof how thoroughly the royal poet entered into the majeſty of the moſaic narration. And the reception of the ſentiment, ver. 9 intimates, how peculiarly he was charmed with that noble manner of deſcribing the divine operations.

Ver. 10. He maketh the devices of the people of none effect.] The LXX, Vulgate and Arabic add to this verſe, and fruſtrateth the counſels of princes: but the Hebrew and Chaldee have not this ſentence.

Ver. 12. The nation whoſe God is the Lord.] That is, that nation which worſhips this Lord, the creator of heaven and earth.

Ver. 15. He faſhioneth their hearts alike.] They are all of them equally his creatures, and the work of his hands.

NOTES on Pſalm XXXIV.

This pſalm was written by David, after his eſcape from Achiſh, king of Gath; the title ſays, Achiſh drove him away; but the LXX, and vulgate, diſmiſſed him. In that country all their kings were called by the common name of Abimelech, i. e. My father the king. This pſalm was probably compoſed for the uſe of thoſe perſons who reſorted to him in the cave of Adullam (ſee 1 Sam. xxii. 2 and contains the nobleſt encouragements to piety and virtue, from an aſſurance that all ſuch as are ſo devoted, are the immediate care of God; as all thoſe who are of a contrary character, are his abhorrence. This pſalm is very curiouſly compoſed, according to the number and order of the letters of the Hebrew alphabet in the beginning of every verſe; which is a ſufficient proof that it was written after his eſcape to ſome place of ſafety.

Ver. 6. This poor man cried. &c.] Let all that are in trouble fix their eyes upon me, and excite one another to a chearful dependance upon God, ſaying, behold that man, who was in a poor and mean conditon, deſtitute of all human aſſiſtance; but commending himſelf to his God by earneſt prayer, the Lord delivered him out of all his diſtreſſes. Dr. Delany thinks this and the next verſe alludes to Jacob, who when he was at Mahanaim, God placed him under the protection of two hoſts of angels.

Ver. 7. The angel of the Lord encampeth, &c.] See Gen. xxxii. 1, 2 and 2 Kings vi. 17.

Ver. 8. O taſte and ſee.] Here David exhorts others to make a trial of God's goodneſs from their own experience.

Ver. 10. The young lions do lack.] Strength and magnanimity are no ſecurities from want and diſtreſs; whereas truſt in God is a never failing ſource of every thing that is good.

Ver. 16. The face of the Lord.] This expreſſion denotes the divine anger.

18 The Lord is nigh unto them that are of a broken heart: and ſaveth ſuch as be of a contrite heart.

19 Many are the afflictions of the righteous: but the Lord delivereth him out of them all.

20 He keepeth all his bones: not one of them is broken.

4 Let them be confounded and put to ſhame that ſeek after my ſoul: let them be turned back and brought to confuſion that deviſe my hurt.

5 Let them be as chaff before the wind: and let the angel of the Lord chaſe them.

6 Let their way be dark and ſlippery, and let the angel of the Lord perſecute them.

7 For without cauſe have they hid for me their net in a pit, which without cauſe they have digged for my ſoul.

8 Let deſtruction come upon him at unawares, and let his net that he hath hid catch himſelf: into that very deſtruction let him fall.

9 And my ſoul ſhall be joyful in the Lord: it ſhall rejoice in his ſalvation.

10 All my bones ſhall ſay, Lord, who is like unto thee, which delivereſt the poor from him that is too ſtrong for him, yea, the poor and the needy from him that ſpoileth him?

11 Falſe witneſſes did riſe up; they laid to my charge things that I knew not.

12 They rewarded me evil for good, to the ſpoiling of my ſoul.

13 But as for me, when they were ſick, my clothing was ſackcloth: I humbled my ſoul with faſting, and my prayer returned into mine own boſom.

14 I behaved myſelf as though he had been my friend, or brother: I bowed down heavily, as one that mourneth for his mother.

15 But in mine adverſity they rejoiced, and gathered themſelves together: yea, the abjects gathered themſelves together againſt me, and I knew it not; they did tear me, and ceaſed not.

Notes on Pſalm XXXV.

This pſalm appears to have been written by David, when he was fiercely perſecuted by Saul, whoſe forces, which were unjuſtly raiſed againſt him, he beſeeches the Lord to diſperſe; and eſpecially to ſtop the mouth of his falſe accuſers, of whom he very pathetically complains. It contains the ſtrongeſt imprecations on the enemies of its author, which ſome have thought unbecoming the mouth of a good man; but theſe imprecations muſt be conſidered as an appeal to God, in a particular caſe, for juſtice againſt thoſe whom no court on earth could puniſh. He therefore begged the divine majeſty, to execute the judgment he had pronounced in his law, againſt obſtinate and incorrigible offenders, who would otherwiſe eſcape the hands of juſtice; whereby others alſo would be hardened in their wickedneſs: beſides, the words may be interpreted, not as a prayer, but a prediction, and rendered, they ſhall be, inſtead of let them be.

Ver. 10. All my bones ſhall ſay.] From my inmoſt heart, with all my power of ſoul and body, I will praiſe thee: an hyperbole, expreſſing his ardour.

Ver. 13. As for me, when they were ſick, &c.] How unlike is this, to the kindneſs I ſhewed to them in their troubles? When they were ſick, I ſympathized moſt ſincerely with them, and teſtified my unfeigned ſorrow for them.

Ver. 15. And I knew it not.] In the Hebrew, I knew not: it ſeems here unneceſſarily inſerted; for the plain meaning

NOTES on Pſalm XXXVI.

This pſalm was compoſed by David, during the perſecution he underwent from Saul, probably about the beginning of it, when Saul had conceived a jealouſy of him, and an hatred to him; and at the ſame time, endeavouring to hide his malignancy, he counterfeited a friendſhip for him, and deſired his alliance, but yet could not wholly ſuppreſs and conceal his intentions. David having diſcovered them, makes the treachery the ſubject of his pſalm, and places, in oppoſition to it, the fidelity and goodneſs of God.

Ver. 1. The tranſgreſſion of the wicked ſaith within my heart, &c.] His actions ſufficiently convince me, that he hath no regard to God, nor will be reſtrained by the fear of him, from doing me the greateſt miſchief.

That this pſalm was particularly written, for the conſolation of ſome righteous man, oppreſſed by calumny, againſt whom ſome wicked wretch had laid ſchemes to deſtroy him, is clear from the whole tenor of it; particularly the 4th and 6th verſes. 14 Thus I was as a man that heareth not, and in whoſe mouth are no reproofs.

19 But mine enemies are lively, and they are ſtrong: and they that hate me wrongfully are multiplied.

20 They alſo that render evil for good, are mine adverſaries: becauſe I follow the thing that good is.

NOTES on Pſalm XXXVIII.

It ſeems probable, that this pſalm, the 39th, 40th, and 41ſt, were compoſed by David, when under the preſſure of ſome heavy trouble, or perſecuted by ſome dangerous conſpiracy, and at the ſame time afflicted with a grievous diſtemper. Dr. Delany is of opinion, that this diſtemper was the ſmall-pox, and he grounds his reaſons for it, on the 3d, 5th, 7th, 8th, 10th, and 11th verſes of this pſalm; but however that be, we may enter into the beauties of theſe pſalms, if we ſuppoſe him under great afflictions, both of body and mind. This pſalm is intitled Lebazcbir, to bring to remembrance; for the commemoration, either of his afflictions, or of God's mercies in delivering him out of them.

Notes on Pſalm XXXIX.

Jeduthun.] Jeduthun was one of the three chief heads, appointed by David over the ſacred muſic, (1 Chron. 25.) to whom this pſalm was delivered to be performed; or, as ſome imagine, to the whole ſet or company, over which Jeduthun was the head.

There is good reaſon to believe, that David compoſed this pſalm on the death of his beloved ſon Abſalom, after Joab had ſo bitterly reproached him for the public expreſſions of his grief which made him begin the pſalm; with a reſolution to watch his words and paſſions more narrowly hereafter, and to ſtifle that grief, which his natural affection excited before the hard-hearted Joab, verſe 1, 2. and that he would eaſe his mind by prayer, ver. 3. His praying for a due preparation of his own death, refers to Abſalom's untimely end, verſe 4. His blaming his own care, to leave a large empire and great riches to his ſucceſſor, evidently reſpects the loſs of his deſigned heir, verſe 6. The reproach of the fooliſh, verſe 8. was the malicious uſe which Joab, and ſuch as had no regard to God's wiſe diſpenſations, made of his affliction. The fading of beauty, when death comes, verſe 11. plainly refers to Abſalom's beauty, wherein he excelled all Iſrael. And laſtly, the recovering of his ſtrength, verſe 13. is not to be underſtood of his being reſtored from ſickneſs, but the recovering the ſtrength of his family, now much weakened by the loſs of Amnon and Abſalom, the two chief of his ſons, which are in ſcripture called, The ſtrength of their parents.

Ver. 2. I held my peace, even from good.] I ſpake not a word either good or bad.

Ver. 3. My heart was hot within me, &c.] But though I kept ſilence, yet many diſmal thoughts diſturbed my mind; and muſing long upon them, and upon the impunity of thoſe from whom I ſuffered, my ſorrows roſe to ſuch an height at laſt, that they could no longer be confined, but burning like a fire, with a vehement heat in my breaſt, they broke forth into ſuch expreſſions as theſe.

Ver. 4. Lord make make me to know mine end.] Lord make me to know, that my days, and conſequently my afflictions, will have an end.

Ver. 11 Like a moth.] Dr. Delany will have it, that no other diſtemper is ſo ſtrongly characteriſed here as the ſmall-pox; particularly in regard to that loſs of beauty, which is cauſed, by reducing the ſkin into the condition of a garment fretted by moths.

NOTES on Pſalm XL.

In this pſalm David thankfully acknowledges God's goodneſs to him in delivering him from ſome great danger; and then declares his reſolution to ſerve the Lord faithfully and chearfully. But the words may more properly be applied to Chriſt's readineſs to do the will of his Father, than to David; and there being a tranſpoſition of the words in the title of this pſalm, being, of David a pſalm; whereas in common it is, a pſalm of David; ſome interpreters refer of David, to him, not ſo much as the compoſer, as the ſubject of the pſalm, and underſtand by it, concerning David, i. e. concerning Chriſt; for Chriſt, in the language of the prophets, is frequently pointed out under the name of David. See Hoſ. iii. 5. Jer. xxx. 9. Ezek. xxxiv. 23, and xxxvii. 24. and that Chriſt is the ſubject of this pſalm, the apoſtle teaches us. Heb. x. 5, 6, &c.

Ver. 2. Out of an horrible pit.] He delivered me in my greateſt diſtreſs.

Ver. 6. Mine ears haſt thou opened.] In the Hebrew it is, mine ears haſt thou bored. It muſt be remembered, that in order to prepare an equality among the Iſraelites, God required, that if any of them had ſold their liberty, they ſhould be reſtored to it at the jubilee. But it was lawful to continue thoſe in ſlavery who were willing to continue ſo; and in that caſe, their ears were bored in teſtimony of it. Probably David alludes to this, when he makes the ſon of God ſay to his father, that he had bored his ears; i. e. that he had accepted him to be his voluntary ſlave; and St. Paul (Heb. x. 5.) agreeably to this interpretation, renders it but a body haſt thou prepared me, i. e. to be a victim to be offered up in ſacrifice unto thee.

Ver. 7. Then ſaid I, lo, I come, &c.] Behold, I come to make an offering of myſelf unto thee; as the great Meſſiah will hereafter do, even of his very blood; for ſo the book of the law requires, wherein the great ſacrifice of Chriſt is more plainly deſcribed.

16 Let all thoſe that ſeek thee, rejoice and be glad in thee: let ſuch as love thy ſalvation, ſay continually, The LORD be magnified.

3 The LORD will ſtrengthen him upon the bed of languiſhing: thou wilt make all his bed in his ſickneſs.

4 I ſaid, LORD, be merciful unto me; heal my ſoul, for I have ſinned againſt thee.

5 Mine enemies ſpeak evil of me: When ſhall he die, and his name periſh?

6 And if he come to ſee me, he ſpeaketh vanity: his heart gathereth iniquity to itſelf, when he goeth abroad, he telleth it.

9 Yea, mine own familiar friend in whom I truſted, which did eat of my bread, hath lift up his heel againſt me.

10 But thou, O LORD, be merciful unto me, and raiſe me up, that I may requite them.

11 By this I know that thou favoureſt me, becauſe mine enemy doth not triumph over me.

12 And as for me, thou upholdeſt me in mine integrity, and ſetteſt me before thy face for ever.

NOTES on Pſalm XLI.

In this pſalm, the royal prophet highly commends, and bleſſes that temper of mind, which inclines men to pity and compaſſion, with regard to thoſe who are poor and afflicted with ſickneſs; aſſuring ſuch perſons, that they ſhall not fail of receiving a full reward from the Almighty; and then complains bitterly of their inhumanity, who inſulted over him in his calamity, and with reproachful words, and vile calumnies, exaſperated the grief of his mind. He therefore expreſſes his hope, that God who loves the merciful, would take compaſſion upon him, and and put him in a condition to chaſtiſe their inſolence.

Ver. 6. If he come to ſee me, he ſpeaketh vanity.] Dr. Delany thinks, the vanity and lying ſpirit of Abſalom are characteriſed in this verſe; and in the 9th, the treachery of Ahitophel.

Ver. 8. An evil diſeaſe cleaveth faſt unto him.] The Liturgy reads, Let the ſentence of guiltineſs proceed againſt him. Dr. Hammond obſerves, that the word here uſed, though it does ſometimes ſignify a plague or diſeaſe, cannot well have that ſignification in this place, but means a ſlander or falſe accuſation.

NOTES on Pſalm XLII.

In the Hebrew, the pſalms are divided into five books, and here begins the ſecond. All in the foregoing book, except four, have the name of David prefixed to them as their author; and thence the collector thought proper to place them all together. 3 My tears have been my meat day and night, while they continually ſay unto me, Where is thy God?

4 When I remember theſe things, I pour out my ſoul in me; for I had gone with the multiude, I went with them to the houſe of God; with the voice of joy and praiſe, with a multitude that kept holyday.

5 Why art thou caſt down, O my ſoul? and why art thou diſquieted in me? hope thou in God, for I ſhall yet praiſe him for the help of his countenance.

6 O my God, my ſoul is caſt down within me: therefore will I remember thee from the land of Jordan, and of the Hermonites from the hill Mizar.

7 Deep calleth unto deep at the noiſe of thy water-ſpouts: all thy waves and thy billows are gone over me.

9 I will ſay unto God my rock, Why haſt thou forgotten me? why go I mourning becauſe of the oppreſſion of the enemy?

10 As with a ſword in my bones, mine enemies reproach me: while they ſay daily unto me, Where is thy God?

author of ſome of the pſalms, which have this title, it being certain, that he directed moſt of thoſe contained in the latter part of this book, and which all allow to have been of his compoſition. This pſalm appears to have been written, either during his perſecution by Saul, or when he was again driven from the houſe of God by Abſalom.

Ver. 2. My ſoul thirſteth, &c.] My ſoul vehemently longeth for thee. When ſhall I ſee that happy day, wherein I ſhall again be reſtored to the liberty of preſenting myſelf before thee in thy tabernacle?

Ver. 3. My tears have been my meat, &c.] There I uſed with the greateſt delight to feaſt with thee, but now my appetite fails me for my daily food; inſtead of which, my only ſatisfaction is tears, to which I have wholly abandoned myſelf.

Ver. 6. From the land of Jordan, &c.] The Septuagint and Vulgate read, "From the land of Jordan, and the "Hermons, from the little hill." It ſeems, David was now at theſe places beyond Jordan, and nigh Hermon (or the Hermons, a chain of hills) and himſelf abiding on a riſing thereabouts.

Ver. 7. Deep calleth unto deep, &c.] I am fallen into an unfathomable abyſs of miſeries; they guſh in upon me, by thy appointment, with the violence of ſpouts of water from a burthened cloud: I am toſſed like one on a tempeſtuous ſea, where the waves rage and ſwell to ſuch an height, that every billow threatens to overwhelm me.

NOTES on Pſalm XLIII.

Though this pſalm has no title in the Hebrew, yet it is generally agreed that David was the author; and the LXX. expreſsly aſcribe it to him, and that it was wrote on the ſame occaſion as the former.

Ver. 3. O ſend out thy light and thy truth, &c.] O ſend forth the happy effects of thy favour and faithfulneſs; and, according to thy promiſes to thoſe who depend on thee, let thy Almighty power in much mercy, lead and conduct me; let it go along with me, and give me victory, and bring me again into thy holy mountain, where thou haſt fixed thy dwelling-place.

5 Why art thou caſt down, O my ſoul? and why art thou diſquieted within me? hope in God, for I ſhall yet praiſe him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God.

WE have heard with our ears, O God, our fathers have told us what work thou didſt in their days, in the times of old.

2 How thou didſt drive out the heathen with thy hand, and plantedſt them; how thou didſt afflict the people, and caſt them out.

3 For they got not the land in poſſeſſion by their own ſword, neither did their own arm ſave them: but thy right hand, and thine arm, and the light of thy countenance, becauſe thou hadſt a favour unto them.

12 Thou ſelleſt thy people for nought, and doſt not increaſe thy wealth by their price.

13 Thou makeſt us a reproach to our neighbours, a ſcorn and a deriſion to them that are round about us.

14 Thou makeſt us a by-word among the heathen: a ſhaking of the head among the people.

NOTES on Pſalm XLIV.

This pſalm does not ſeem to have been wrote by David; for, in his days, the people of Iſrael were not oppreſſed by foreign enemies, as the pſalmiſt here complains in the name of the whole church. Some of them, he tells us, were made ſlaves, others ſlain, and all of them became a reproach to their enemies. It appears, however, to have been written before the Babyloniſh captivity; but long after the days of David, when their country was invaded by the king of Aſſyria, who took all the fenced cities of Judah, and came before Jeruſalem with a great army, 2 Kings xviii. 13, 17. In this diſtreſsful ſituation, they would naturally call to remembrance the many wonderful works the Lord had done for their anceſtors, hoping he would ſtill be their protector and rock of defence.

Ver. 9. Thou—goeſt not forth with our armies.] This expreſſion may, perhaps, allude to the cuſtom of the ark's being ſometimes carried into the camp, in time of great and imminent danger.

Ver. 11. Like ſheep appointed for meat.] Some of us they kill in the purſuit, others they ſend into captivity.

Ver. 12. Thou ſelleſt thy people for nought.] We are ſold as vile ſlaves, who are nothing worth.

And doſt not increaſe thy wealth by their price.] Thou thyſelf ſeemeſt to have loſt by this oppreſſion of thy people, (who are ſurely thine inheritance) and our enemies have not ſo much as yielded thee any acknowledgment, nor paid thee any homage to compenſate this loſs.

19 Though thou haſt ſore broken us in the place of dragons, and covered us with the ſhadow of death.

20 If we have forgotten the name of our God, or ſtretched out our hands to a ſtrange god:

21 Shall not God ſearch this out? for he knoweth the ſecrets of the heart.

22 Yea, for thy ſake are we killed all the day long; we are counted as ſheep for the ſlaughter.

23 Awake, why ſleepeſt thou, O Lord? ariſe, caſt us not off for ever.

24 Wherefore hideſt thou thy face? and forgetteſt our affliction, and our oppreſſion?

25 For our ſoul is bowed down to the duſt: our belly cleaveth unto the earth.

Ver. 19. The place of dragons.] Dragon is a word that conveys no particular idea, becauſe there is no creature properly ſo called: the original word here uſed, means thoſe noxious and diſagreeable animals, that generally hide themſelves in dark and inacceſſible coverts.

Ver. 20. If we have forgotten the name of our God.] That is, if we have fallen into idolatry.

Ver. 22. Yea, for thy ſake, &c.] So far are we from following ſtrange gods, that it is for thy ſake, O God, on the account of our profeſſing thy name and worſhip, that we are now expoſed to ſlaughter and deſtruction.

NOTES on Pſalm XLV.

Shoſhannim.] By this are underſtood inſtruments of ſix ſtrings.

A ſong of loves.] Shir Jedidoth, plainly alludes to the name Jedidiah, given to Solomon by the prophet Nathan, 2 Sam. xii. 25. it is here rendered, a ſong of loves; but may be tranſlated, a ſong of the well beloved virgins; i. e. the king's daughters, and other honourable damſels attending upon, and coming with the queen, the friends of the bride and bridegroom, who were, as it is ſuppoſed, to ſing this marriage ſong in praiſe of them. Who was the author of this pſalm, is not mentioned; but as the preceding one is mournful and melancholy, ſo the ſubject of this is joyful and comfortable; and, in the opinion of moſt interpreters, it is thought to have been compoſed upon the occaſion of Solomon's marriage with Pharaoh's daughter. Some indeed will not allow, that the author had any reſpect to Solomon, but to Chriſt only. This is certain, that many of the expreſſions in it, are ſo magnificent, that they can only be applied, in a very mean ſenſe, to Solomon and his bride; and ſome of them ſcarce at all. But on the other hand, many of the paſſages ſo plainly allude to that prince, that they can only be allegorically applied to our bleſſed Saviour. The principal parts of it, however, relate to Chriſt; it being ſufficiently evident, that the prophet, while he was writing ſome part of this pſalm, was carried quite beyond king Solomon, to the great King, the Lord our righteouſneſs; ſo that we may ſay here, as our Saviour doth in another caſe, Behold a greater than Solomon is here. And this is even acknowledged by the beſt of the Jewiſh interpreters themſelves.

Ver. 1. My heart is inditing a good matter.] My heart is filled with a pſalm of thankſgiving, which I have meditated, and am ready to utter in praiſe of king Solomon, who is only a type of that great King whom we expect.

Ver. 2. Thou art fairer than the children of men, &c.] Thou art more lovely than the reſt of mankind; the moſt perſuaſive eloquence flows from thy lips, becauſe the Lord delighteth in thee, and hath promiſed thee length of days, riches, and honour, though they but faintly repreſent thoſe eternal bleſſings which he hath beſtowed on that great King, who, when he appears, it ſhall be ſaid, That he is in favour with God and man, and ſpeaks as never man ſpake; ſo that all ſhall wonder at the gracious words that proceed out of his mouth.

Ver. 3. Gird thy ſword upon thy thigh, &c.] Aray thyſelf in thy royal ornaments, and the enſigns of thy power, thou moſt mighty prince, and appear in ſuch ſplendor and majeſty, as may ſerve for an emblem of that ſovereign authority, in which the omnipotent Lord of the univerſe ſhall ſhew himſelf among men. Sword here, ſignifies either glory or the word of God. Epheſ. vi. 17.

Ver. 4. In thy majeſty ride proſperouſly, &c.] May thy kingdom be ſo proſperous on every ſide, by planting virtue and piety among thy ſubjects, that it may prove a lively type of the government of the great Meſſiah, whoſe teouſneſs: and thy right hand ſhall teach thee terrible things.

5 Thine arrows are ſharp in the heart of the kings enemies; whereby the people fall under thee.

6 Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: the ſcepter of thy kingdom is a right ſcepter.

7 Thou loveſt righteouſneſs, and hateſt wickedneſs: therefore God, thy God hath anointed thee with the oil of gladneſs above thy fellows.

9 Kings daughters were among thy honourable women: upon thy right hand did ſtand the queen in gold of Ophir.

10 Hearken, O daughter, and conſider, and incline thine ear; forget alſo thine own people, and thy fathers houſe.

11 So ſhall the king greatly deſire thy beauty: for he is thy Lord, and worſhip thou him.

12 And the daughter of Tyre ſhall be there with a gift, even the rich among the people ſhall intreat thy favour.

13 The kings daughter is all glorious within; her clothing is of wrought gold.

14 She ſhall be brought unto the king in raiment of needle-work: the virgins her companions that follow her ſhall be brought unto thee.

15 With gladneſs and rejoicing ſhall they be brought: they ſhall enter into the kings palace.

16 In ſtead of thy fathers ſhall be thy children, whom thou mayeſt make princes in all the earth.

kingdom, when he goes forth, conquering and to conquer, ſhall prevail over all; not by enſlaving the perſons of men, or ſpoiling them of their goods, but by ſettling the true faith among them, rendering them humble and meek, juſt and charitable; and to haſten this glorious work, thy mighty power, O Lord, ſhall inſtruct thee to perform wonderful things.

Ver. 5. Thine arrows are ſharp, &c.] Thy words, like unto ſharp arrows, pierce into the hearts of all thoſe that oppoſe thy royal authority.

Ver. 6. Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever, &c.] How weak and tottering are the thrones of all other princes, in compariſon with thine, which ſhall never be ſubverted! Of thy kingdom there ſhall be no end. This relates to the Meſſiah.

Ver. 8. Aloes.] What is here meant by aloes, is not the herb of that name, which is bitter, and of a bad ſmell; but the wood of aloes, which, when dried, is of a very agreeable odour. Caſſiodorus ſays, in his time, it was burnt before the altars inſtead of frankincenſe.

Ivory palaces.] Probably it ſhould be ivory cheſts, wherein cloaths were kept.

Ver. 9. The queen.] Pharaoh's daughter; prophetically the church, the ſpouſe of Chriſt.

Ver. 10. Forget alſo thine own people, &c.] The meaning applied to the church is, renounce the world, which is, as it were, thy father's houſe, from whence thou wert taken, and cleave altogether to thy huſband, which is Chriſt, according to the laws of matrimony.

Ver. 12. The daughter of Tyre ſhall be there.] The people of Tyre, rich and proud as they are, ſhall come with their neighbour countries, and bring thee preſents. One city is here named inſtead of many others; and Tyre in particular, becauſe of the beauty of its ſituation, which rendered it remarkably famous for trade, merchandize, and magnificence. This is a prophecy of the ſubjection which the nations of the earth ſhould pay to the kingdom of Chriſt.

Ver. 13. The kings daughter is all glorious within.] Pharaoh's daughter is poſſeſſed of all excellent qualities of mind.

Ver. 15. With gladneſs and rejoicing, &c.] They ſhall expreſs the inward gladneſs of their minds, by external tokens of joy, as they enter the royal palace. A lively figure of the church, which men ſhall enter with far greater joy, ſaying, Hallelujah, let us rejoice and be glad, for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth.

NOTES on Pſalm XLVI.

This pſalm is generally ſuppoſed to have been written by David, immediately after one of thoſe great victories, mentioned 2 Sam. viii. 10. for it evidently appears to have been a pious triumph in God, on ſome ſignal deliverance from very powerful enemies; and none are recorded in the ſacred hiſtory, to which it can more naturally be referred, than thoſe above mentioned. It was intended to repeat the remembrance of ſuch remarkable victories,

NOTES on Pſalm XLVII.

This pſalm, it is generally thought, was a triumphant ſong, performed before the ark, as they brought it back to its place, after ſome great victory; it being common for them to carry it before them to battle. However that be, the ark, being a figure of Chriſt, as the mountain on which it had its dwelling-place, was of heaven, the tranſlation, or carrying of it back thither, may be conſidered as a figure of Chriſt's aſcenſion, after he had dwelt in this vale of miſery and conquered death, into the heavenly manſions of eternal felicity, where he now ſitteth at the right-hand of God for evermore.

Ver. 4. He ſhall chooſe.] That is, he hath choſen.

Ver. 5. God is gone up with a ſhout.] The ark of God is gone up with ſhouts of joy and praiſe.

Ver. 9. The princes of the people, &c.] The heads of the tribes, with all the people, are aſſembled together at their ſolemn feaſts, without any fear of invaſion from foreign neighbours.

NOTES on Pſalm XLVIII.

The fourth verſe of this pſalm mentions a combination of kings, who had joined their forces to deſtroy Jeruſalem; and therefore it is applicable to that hiſtory in 2 Chron. xx. 1, 2, 10. when Moab, Ammon, and they of mount Seir, came againſt Jehoſhaphat, with an intention to fall upon Jeruſalem: and verſe 28. it is ſaid, that after Jehoſhaphat had obtained a great victory over theſe numerous armies, he returned with the people to Jeruſalem with pſalteries, and harps, and trumpets unto the houſe of the Lord: at which time, it is probable, this pſalm was ſung before the victorious hoſt

Ver. 2. Beautiful—is mount Zion, on the ſides of the north.] The Liturgy ſeems to expreſs it trueſt; "On the "north ſide lieth the city of the great king;" i. e. Jeruſalem.

Ver. 5. They ſaw it, &c.] But when they were aſſembled together againſt the city, they had only a ſight of it; for a ſudden pannic ſeizing them, they fell into confuſion, and taking one another for enemies, were deſtroyed by the ambuſh, which one nation laid for the other.

Ver. 10. According to thy name, O God, &c.] Not we alone, O God, ſhall praiſe thee, but the moſt diſtant people, who hear thy fame, ſhall acknowledge and magnify thy power.

Ver. 11. Let mount Zion rejoice, &c.] This and the following verſes, ſeem to refer to the great improvements which were made to old Jeruſalem, viz. when the temple was erected on mount Moriah, when Millo was added, and the houſe of the foreſt of Lebanon, and the palace of Pharaoh's daughter, and Solomon's own palace, which was thirteen years in building.

NOTES on Pſalm XLIX.

The author of this pſalm is not known, nor the particular occaſion on which it was wrote; but it ſeems to have been compoſed, to check the vanity and unreaſonable thirſt of mankind after riches, by ſetting the king of terrors before their eyes, well knowing, that a ſerious meditation on death, would bring down the haughty looks of the proud and ſcornful, and preſerve thoſe they oppreſſed, from being dejected at their proſperous impiety.

3 My mouth ſhall ſpeak of wiſdom: and the meditation of my heart ſhall be of underſtanding.

4 I will incline mine ear to a parable; I will open my dark ſaying upon the harp.

5 Wherefore ſhould I fear in the days of evil, when the iniquity of my heels ſhall compaſs me about.

6 They that truſt in their wealth, and boaſt themſelves in the multitude of their riches;

7 None of them can by any means redeem his brother, nor give to God a ranſom for him:

8 (For the redemption of their ſoul is precious, and it ceaſeth for ever)

9 That he ſhould ſtill live for ever, and not ſee corruption.

10 For he ſeeth that wiſe men die, likewiſe the fool and the brutiſh perſon periſh, and leave their wealth to others.

11 Their inward thought is, that their houſes ſhall continue for ever, and their dwelling-places to all generations: they call their lands after their own names.

12 Nevertheleſs, man being in honour abideth not: he is like the beaſts that periſh.

13 This their way is their folly; yet their poſterity approve their ſayings. Selah.

14 Like ſheep they are laid in the grave, death ſhall feed on them; and the upright ſhall have dominion over them in the morning, and their beauty ſhall conſume in the grave, from their dwelling.

15 But God will redeem my ſoul from the power of the grave; for he ſhall receive me. Selah.

16 Be not thou afraid when one is made rich, when the glory of his houſe is increaſed.

17 For when he dieth, he ſhall carry nothing away: his glory ſhall not deſcend after him.

18 Though whiles he lived, he bleſſed his ſoul: and men will praiſe thee, when thou doſt well to thyſelf.

19 He ſhall go to the generation of his fathers, they ſhall never ſee light.

20 Man that is in honour, and underſtandeth not, is like the beaſts that periſh.

THE

Ver. 4. I will incline mine ear to a parable, &c.] It is not vulgar inſtruction, but moſt excellent advice, which I have to give you.

Ver. 5. Wherefore ſhould I fear in the days of evil, &c.] Why ſhould I be troubled with fear and anxiety of mind, in the days of calamity, when I am puniſhed on all ſides for the iniquity of my paſt life.

Ver. 7. None of them can by any means redeem his brother, &c.] Can ſave his deareſt friend from the grave, be his power ever ſo great, when the Almighty demands his ſoul.

Ver. 8. The redemption of their ſoul is precious, and it ceaſeth for ever.] That is, as to any thing we can do.

Ver. 13. This their way is their folly, &c.] Notwithſtanding they allow this to have been a folly; yet their children follow their example, and act over the ſame follies.

Ver. 14. Like ſheep they are laid in the grave, &c.] They go in droves to their graves, whither death drives them at the cloſe of their days, as a ſhepherd does his flock in the evening to the fold; and then the juſt, whom they before inſulted, ſhall triumph over them at the morning of the reſurrection.

Ver. 15. Will redeem my ſoul.] Will raiſe me to life and glory.

Ver. 20. Man that is in honour, and underſtandeth not, &c.] A man of great dignity in this world, that never conſiders how ſhort-lived and uncertain his honour is, behaves himſelf like a brute while he lives, and is cut off like a brute, whom no body regards when he dies.

NOTES on Pſalm L.

We are informed, by the title of this pſalm, that it was written by Aſaph, who, like David, compoſed ſeveral pieces for the uſe of the temple. It is probable that he lived in the reign of ſome pious prince, perhaps Jehoſhaphat, or Hezekiah, when the people and judges were filled with hypocriſy; the former placing all religion in ſacrifices, and external ceremonies; the latter never obſerving the precepts they expounded to the people. Both theſe vices, the pious author endeavours to deſtroy, by repreſenting God as the ſupreme Judge of the world, coming in an amazing manner, to call them all to a ſtrict account, and take a ſevere vengeance upon them, unleſs they turned from the evil of their doings.

Before Christ

THE mighty God, even the LORD hath ſpoken, and called the earth from the riſing of the ſun, unto the going down thereof.

2 Out of Zion the perfection of beauty, God hath ſhined.

3 Our God ſhall come, and ſhall not keep ſilence: a fire ſhall devour before him, and it ſhall be very tempeſtuous round about him.

4 He ſhall call to the heavens from above, and to the earth, that he may judge his people.

5 Gather my ſaints together unto me: thoſe that have made a covenant with me by ſacrifice.

6 And the heavens ſhall declare his righteouſneſs: for God is judge himſelf. Selah.

7 Hear, O my people, and I will ſpeak; O Iſrael, and I will teſtify againſt thee: I am God, even thy God.

8 I will not reprove thee for thy ſacrifices, or thy burnt-offerings, to have been continually before me.

9 I will take no bullock out of thy houſe, nor he-goats out of thy folds.

10 For every beaſt of the foreſt is mine, and the cattle upon a thouſand hills.

11 I know all the fowls of the mountains: and the wild beaſts of the field are mine.

12 If I were hungry, I would not tell thee: for the world is mine, and the fulneſs thereof.

Before Christ

13 Will I eat the fleſh of bulls, or drink the blood of goats?

14 Offer unto God thankſgiving, and pay thy vows unto the moſt High.

15 And call upon me in the day of trouble; I will deliver thee, and thou ſhalt glorify me.

16 But unto the wicked God ſaith, What haſt thou to do to declare my ſtatutes, or that thou ſhouldeſt take my covenant in thy mouth?

17 Seeing thou hateſt inſtruction, and caſteth my words behind thee.

18 When thou ſaweſt a thief, then thou conſentedſt with him, and haſt been partaker with adulterers.

19 Thou giveſt thy mouth to evil, and thy tongue frameth deceit.

20 Thou ſitteſt and ſpeakeſt againſt thy brother; thou ſlandereſt thine own mothers ſon.

21 Theſe things haſt thou done, and I kept ſilence: thou thoughteſt that I was altogether ſuch a one as thyſelf: but I will reprove thee, and ſet them in order before thine eyes.

22 Now conſider this, ye that forget God, leſt I tear you in pieces, and there be none to deliver.

23 Whoſo offereth praiſe, glorifieth me: and

Ver. 1. The mighty God, even the Lord hath ſpoken, &c.] The Almighty father of the univerſe, the ſupreme Judge of heaven and earth, hath commanded all the people of the land, from the eaſt to the weſt, to appear before him.

Ver. 2. Out of Zion the perfection of beauty, hath God ſhined.] He will go forth in amazing ſplendor, from his magnificent palace, where he dwells in Zion.

Ver. 4. He ſhall call to the heavens, &c.] He ſhall call heaven and earth to be witneſſes of the equity of his proceedings.

Ver. 5. Gather my ſaints together unto me, &c.] He will command his angels, ſaying, Bring thoſe men before me, whom I have favoured before all other people, and ſeparated to myſelf to be an holy nation, and who have engaged themſelves to me by the moſt ſolemn covenant, confirmed by the blood of ſacrifices.

Ver. 8. I will not reprove thee, &c.] I will not complain, &c. Liturgy reads, "Becauſe they were not al-"way before me."

Ver. 13. Will I eat the fleſh of bulls, &c.] Alluding, probably, to that conceit of the pagans, mentioned Deut. xxxii. 38. that their gods did eat the fleſh of their ſacrifices, and drank the wine of their drink-offerings.

Ver. 14. Offer unto God thankſgiving, &c.] Who values a thankful heart, and grateful acknowledgments of his benefits, above all the peace-offerings in the world.

Ver. 23. Whoſo offereth praiſe, glorifieth me, &c.] I have told you what ſacrifices I am delighted with: but he who thus devoutly worſhips me, muſt alſo take care to render his life conformable to all my precepts, and this man ſhall be partaker of the bleſſings I have ſo often promiſed.

and to him that ordereth his converſation aright, will I ſhew the ſalvation of God.

2 Waſh me throughly from mine iniquity, and cleanſe me from my ſin.

3 For I acknowledge my tranſgreſſions: and my ſin is ever before me.

4 Againſt thee, thee only have I ſinned, and done this evil in thy ſight: that thou mighteſt be juſtified when thou ſpeakeſt, and be clear when thou judgeſt.

5 Behold, I was ſhapen in iniquity: and in ſin did my mother conceive me.

6 Behold, thou deſireſt truth in the inward parts: and in the hidden part thou ſhalt make me to know wiſdom.

7 Purge me with hyſſop, and I ſhall be clean: waſh me, and I ſhall be whiter than ſnow.

8 Make me to hear joy and gladneſs: that the bones which thou haſt broken, may rejoice.

9 Hide thy face from my ſins; and blot out all mine iniquities.

10 Create in me a clean heart, O God: and renew a right ſpirit within me.

11 Caſt me not away from thy preſence; and take not thy holy ſpirit from me.

12 Reſtore unto me the joy of thy ſalvation: and uphold me with thy free ſpirit.

13 Then will I teach tranſgreſſors thy ways, and ſinners ſhall be converted unto thee.

14 Deliver me from blood-guiltineſs, O God, thou God of my ſalvation: and my tongue ſhall ſing aloud of thy righteouſneſs.

15 O Lord, open thou my lips, and my mouth ſhall ſhew forth thy praiſe.

16 For thou deſireſt not ſacrifice, elſe would I give it: thou delighteſt not in burnt-offering.

NOTES on Pſalm LI.

Ver. 1. Have mercy upon me, O God, &c.] O thou great Judge of all the earth, whom I have ſo highly offended, and therefore may be juſtly condemned to ſuffer the effect of thy ſevereſt anger; I caſt myſelf down before thee, and humbly ſupplicate for mercy, unto which I am encouraged by thy known clemency, and thine infinite compaſſions, which will, I hope, move thee to pity a grievous ſinner, and pardon the heinous tranſgreſſions I have committed.

Ver. 4. Againſt thee, thee only have I ſinned, &c.] Not becauſe I ſtand in fear of puniſhment from men, who have no power over me; but becauſe I am ſo obnoxious to thee, whoſe judgments I ought to dread the more, the leſs I am liable to give an account of my actions to others. O how it afflicts me, that I preſumed, becauſe I had none to controul me here on earth, to offend thy majeſty, thy all-ſeeing majeſty, at whoſe tribunal the higheſt muſt be judged.

Ver. 5. I was ſhapen in iniquity.] I acknowledge the corruption of my nature through original ſin.

Ver. 6. The inward parts.] That is, the mind or conſcience.

Ver. 7. Purge me with hyſſop, and I ſhall be clean, &c.] The ſprinklers, wherewith they ſprinkled the unclean, were made of hyſſop, (Lev. xiv. 6.) which occaſioned this expreſſion. As if he had ſaid,—"I have indeed been guilty of the moſt ſhocking crimes, crimes inflamed by every aggravating circumſtance, with regard to myſelf, my neighbour, and my God: yet horrid as my offence is, it is nothing to the ſuper-abundant merit of that great Redeemer, who was promiſed from the foundations of the world, in whom all my fathers truſted; who is the hope of all the ends of the earth. Though my conſcience be more loathſome with adulterous impurity than a dunghill; though the moſt barbarous murder, has rendered it even black as the gloom of hell; yet waſhed in the great fountain, opened for ſin and for uncleanneſs, I (though impure as a leper) ſhall not only be fairer than the full blown lilly, but whiter than the new fallen ſnow."

Ver. 9. Hide thy face from my ſins.] Thine anger.

Ver. 11. Caſt me not away from thy preſence.] Deliver me not over to a reprobate mind.

Ver. 16. Thou deſireſt not ſacrifice, &c.] Not frequently means not only, or ſcarcely; not chiefly, rather than; therefore this verſe might run thus: Thou deſireſt not ſacrifice chiefly; thou delighteſt not in burnt-offerings only.

17 The ſacrifices of God are a broken ſpirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not deſpiſe.

18 Do good in thy good pleaſure unto Zion: build thou the walls of Jeruſalem.

19 Then ſhalt thou be pleaſed with the ſacrifices of righteouſneſs, with burnt-offering and whole burnt-offering: then ſhall they offer bullocks upon thine altar.

NOTES on Pſalm LIV.

The title of this pſalm tells us, that it was written by David, when the treacherous Ziphites endeavoured to ingratiate themſelves with Saul, by diſcovering David's retreats in their neighbourhood, and offering to conduct the king's forces to every place, and aſſiſt themſelves in taking him: by which means, David was reduced to ſuch ſtreights, that had not Saul been diverted from his purpoſe, by a ſudden invaſion of the Philiſtines, he could not have eſcaped. In this diſtreſs, he had recourſe by prayer to God, who alone has power to relieve the diſtreſſed; the three firſt verſes of the pſalm are a petition of deliverance from his enemies, then in full purſuit of him; the fourth verſe begins upon ſeeing his enemies ſtop ſhort, in full aſſurance, that God had heard his prayer: the ſubſtance of the laſt verſe is, that God had delivered him out of his diſtreſs, and that he could calmly ſurvey thoſe enemies, whom before he did not dare to look in the face.

NOTES on Pſalm LV.

This pſalm was written by David on a ſimilar occaſion with the former; perhaps when Abſalom's rebellion was firſt known, and the royal prophet was forced to flee ſuddenly from Jeruſalem; for we read, that as he was going barefooted, and weeping up mount Olivet, news was brought him that Ahitophel was alſo among the conſpirators, and concluding an exhortation to his followers, not to be diſcouraged, but to caſt all their care upon God, who would not fail to reward their pious confidence in him, by protecting and delivering them, and deſtroying their enemies.

8 I would haſten my eſcape from the windy ſtorm and tempeſt.

9 Deſtroy, O Lord, and divide their tongues: for I have ſeen violence and ſtrife in the city.

10 Day and night they go about it upon the walls thereof: miſchief alſo and ſorrow are in the midſt of it.

11 Wickedneſs is in the midſt thereof: deceit and guile depart not from her ſtreets.

12 For it was not an enemy that reproached me, then I could have borne it; neither was it he that hated me, that did magnify himſelf againſt me, then I would have hid myſelf from him.

13 But it was thou, a man, mine equal, my guide, and mine acquaintance.

14 We took ſweet counſel together, and walked unto the houſe of God in company.

15 Let death ſeize upon them, and let them go down quick into hell: for wickedneſs is in their dwellings, and among them.

16 As for me, I will call upon God: and the LORD ſhall ſave me.

17 Evening and morning, and at noon will I pray, and cry aloud: and he ſhall hear my voice.

18 He hath delivered my ſoul in peace from the battel that was againſt me: for there were many with me.

19 God ſhall hear and afflict them, even he that abideth of old, Selah: becauſe they have no changes, therefore they fear not God.

NOTES on Pſalm LVI.

This pſalm was compoſed by David, when, for fear of Saul, he fled into remote ſolitary places; particularly when he was obliged to take ſhelter among the Philiſtines in Gath.

Jonath-elem-rechokim.] A ſilent dove, or a dove of ſilence in the remote woods: David intitled this pſalm, and compared himſelf to a dove; probably on account of his frequenting the ſolitary foreſts, and becauſe, in the midſt of his ſufferings, he never mentioned them to Achiſh, nor begged his aſſiſtance againſt his perſecuting enemy; but contented himſelf with bewailing, in ſecret, the ſadneſs of his condition, and complaining only to God of the cruel proceedings of his inveterate foe.

2 Mine enemies would daily ſwallow me up: for they be many that fight againſt me, O thou moſt High.

3 What time I am afraid, I will truſt in thee.

4 In God I will praiſe his word, in God I have put my truſt, I will not fear what fleſh can do unto me.

5 Every day they wreſt my words: all their thoughts are againſt me for evil.

6 They gather themſelves together, they hide themſelves, they mark my ſteps when they wait for my ſoul.

7 Shall they eſcape by iniquity? in thine anger caſt down the people, O God.

8 Thou telleſt my wanderings, put thou my tears into thy bottle: are they not in thy book?

9 When I cry unto thee, then ſhall mine enemies turn back: this I know, for God is in me.

10 In God will I praiſe his word: in the LORD will I praiſe his word.

11 In God have I put my truſt: I will not be afraid what man can do unto me.

12 Thy vows are upon me, O God: I will render praiſes unto thee.

13 For thou haſt delivered my ſoul from death: wilt not thou deliver my feet from falling, that I may walk before God in the light of the living?

NOTES on Pſalm LVII.

This pſalm was alſo, like the former, compoſed under the perſecution of Saul, and at the time, when after ſome removes from place to place, David took refuge in the ſtrong holds of En-gedi, and ſecreted himſelf in a cave.

Ver. 3. He ſhall ſend — God ſhall ſend.] Rather, he can ſend—and God can ſend.

¶ To the chief muſician Al-taſchith, Michtam of David.

DO ye indeed ſpeak righteouſneſs, O congregation? do ye judge uprightly, O ye ſons of men?

2 Yea, in heart you work wickedneſs, you weigh the violence of your hands in the earth.

3 The wicked are eſtranged from the womb, they go aſtray as ſoon as they be born, ſpeaking lies.

4 Their poiſon is like the poiſon of a ſerpent: they are like the deaf adder that ſtoppeth his ear:

7 Let them melt away as waters, which run continually: when he bendeth his bow to ſhoot his arrows, let them be as cut in pieces.

9 Before your pots can feel the thorns, he ſhall take them away, as with a whirlwind, both living, and in his wrath.

1 David prayeth to be delivered from his enemies: 6 He complaineth of their cruelty: 8 He truſteth in God: 11 He prayeth againſt them: 16 He praiſeth God.

¶ To the chief muſician, Al-taſchith, Michtam of David: when Saul ſent, and they watched the houſe to kill him.

DEliver me from mine enemies, O my God: defend me from them that riſe up againſt me.

2 Deliver me from the workers of iniquity, and ſave me from bloody men.

3 For lo, they lie in wait for my ſoul; the mighty are gathered againſt me; not for my tranſgreſſion, nor for my ſin, O Lord.

Notes on Pſalm LVIII.

This and the next pſalm ſeem to have been written before the preceding; but all three have the ſame title, from that remarkable circumſtance mentioned in the commentary on the foregoing pſalm. The ſubject of this is a reproof to thoſe wicked counſellors, who, contrary to their conſciences, had condemned David, merely to pleaſe the king, and give him a pretence to deſtroy him; he therefore prophecies, that a ſudden and dreadful vengeance would overtake them, and, like a rapid whirlwind, ſweep all before it.

Ver. 1, 2. Do ye indeed ſpeak righteouſneſs, O congregation? &c.] If juſtice be no longer found among the princes and rulers met together in council, where can we expect it?

Ver. 3. Are eſtranged] That is, alienate themſelves from God, juſtice, and virtue.

Ver. 5. Will not hearken to the voice of charmers.] The magicians were wont to charm ſerpents with muſic, and draw them out of their holes.

Ver. 6. Break their teeth.] Take from them all the power and means of doing hurt.

Ver. 8. As a ſnail which melteth.] The Septuagint and Vulgate read, as wax that melteth.

Ver. 9. Before your pots can feel the thorns, &c.] Quickly, before your pots can feel the heat of blazing thorns, ſhall he ſweep away the wicked; ſo that, from the height of his proſperity, he ſhall be plunged into deſtruction.

Ver. 10. He ſhall waſh his feet in the blood, &c.] Shall triumph over theſe wicked, like a great conqueror, who dips his feet in the blood of his enemies as he paſſes over them.

NOTES on Pſalm LX.

This pſalm was written by David, after he was advanced to the throne of Iſrael. The diviſions between the kingdoms of Iſrael and Judah, had for ſome years given encouragement to the Philiſtines, and other neighbouring nations, to afflict the Hebrews, as they had alſo done in the days of Saul, while he was purſuing David ; at laſt they became too powerful for him, entirely defeating his army, and ſlaying both him and his ſons on mount Gilboa But when the kingdoms were again united under David, he ſubdued the Philiſtines. 2 Sam. viii. ſmote the Moabites, and then, in a memorable battle (particularly taken notice of in this pſalm) overthrew the Syrians, called here, and in other places, Aram ; (the Aramites, or Syrians, were the poſterity of Aram, the ſon of Shem, the ſon of Noah. Gen. x. 22.) both thoſe who lived between the two rivers, Tigris and Euphrates, and were called Naharaim, and the reſt that inhabited that part of Syria called Tſoba : returning from which victory, after his lieutenant-general Abiſhai had ſlain 18,000 of the Edomites, Joab, the general of all his forces, fell upon them again, and killed in the valley of Salt 12,000 more. 2 Sam. viii. 13, 16. for all which expeditions, when David was preparing, he compoſed this pſalm, and delivered it to the maſter of muſic in the tabernacle, to be ſung upon an inſtrument of ſix ſtrings ; for ſo the interpreters underſtand, by the title Shuſhan Gneduth.

Before Chriſt

2 Thou haſt made the earth to tremble; thou haſt broken it: heal the breaches thereof, for it ſhaketh.

3 Thou haſt ſhewed thy people hard things: thou haſt made us to drink the wine of aſtoniſhment.

4 Thou haſt given a banner to them that fear thee: that it may be diſplayed becauſe of thy truth. Selah.

Ver. 7. Ephraim alſo, &c.] This ſhould be thus tranſ"lated; Ephraim furniſhes me with valiant men, Judah "with men of prudence and wiſdom."

NOTE on Pſalm LXI.

This pſalm was probably compoſed on occaſion of the rebellion of Abſalom, when the royal prophet was obliged to paſs the river Jordan, and retired to Mahanaim, the very extremity of Judah.

NOTES on Pſalm LXII.

This pſalm contains the ſtrongeſt expreſſions of the royal prophet's faith and confidence in God, the moſt earneſt exhortations for others to truſt in him, aſſuring them, that God would never fail thoſe that rely wholly on him. It was probably wrote, when he had overcome all the fears which the rebellion of Abſalom at firſt had occaſioned; but yet was not reſtored to his kingdom.

Before Christ

Before Christ

¶ A Pſalm of David, when he was in the wilderneſs of Judah.

O God, thou art my God, early will I ſeek thee: my ſoul thirſteth for thee, my fleſh longeth for thee in a dry and thirſty land, where no water is.

2 To ſee thy power and thy glory, ſo as I have ſeen thee in the ſanctuary.

3 Becauſe thy loving kindneſs is better than life: my lips ſhall praiſe thee.

4 Thus will I bleſs thee, while I live: I will lift up my hands in thy name.

5 My ſoul ſhall be ſatiſfied as with marrow and fatneſs; and my mouth ſhall praiſe thee with joyful lips:

6 When I remember thee upon my bed, and meditate on thee in the night-watches.

7 Becauſe thou haſt been my help; therefore in the ſhadow of thy wings will I rejoice.

8 My ſoul followeth hard after thee: thy right hand upholdeth me.

9 But thoſe that ſeek my ſoul to deſtroy it, ſhall go into the lower parts of the earth.

10 They ſhall fall by the ſword, they ſhall be a portion for foxes.

11 But the king ſhall rejoice in God, every one that ſweareth by him ſhall glory: but the mouth of them that ſpeak lies, ſhall be ſtopped.

Ver. 4. Excellency.] That is, dignity.

Ver. 9. Surely men of low degree, &c.] No confidence is to be placed; for as the multitude are vain, giddy, and inconſtant, ſo thoſe of higher rank, are falſe, deceitful, and treacherous.

Notes on Pſalm LXIII.

When he was in the wilderneſs of Judah.] Whether the foreſt of Hareth, in which he, for ſome time, ſecured himſelf, when he fled from Saul, is here meant, or the wilderneſs which he went through when he fled from Abſalom, interpreters are not agreed; but the latter ſeems moſt likely, for the ſame reaſon mentioned in the notes on the 61ſt pſalm; namely, his aſſuming the title of king, which he does here again in the laſt verſe.

Ver. 1. My fleſh longeth for thee in a dry land.] As a dry land.

Ver 10. They ſhall be a portion for foxes.] They ſhall be left unburied, for foxes and beaſts to prey upon.

HEar my voice, O God, in my prayer; preſerve my life from fear of the enemy.

2 Hide me from the ſecret counſel of the wicked; from the inſurrection of the workers of iniquity.

3 Who whet their tongue like a ſword, and bend their bows to ſhoot their arrows, even bitter words.

4 That they may ſhoot in ſecret at the perfect: ſuddenly do they ſhoot at him, and fear not.

5 They encourage themſelves in an evil matter: they commune of laying ſnares privily, they ſay, Who ſhall ſee them?

6 They ſearch out iniquities, they accompliſh a diligent ſearch: both the inward thought of every one of them, and the heart is deep.

7 But God ſhall ſhoot at them with an arrow, ſuddenly ſhall they be wounded.

8 So they ſhall make their own tongue to fall upon themſelves; all that ſee them, ſhall flee away.

9 And all men ſhall fear, and ſhall declare the work of God; for they ſhall wiſely conſider of his doing.

5 By terrible things in righteouſneſs, wilt thou anſwer us, O God of our ſalvation: who art the confidence of all the ends of the earth, and of them that are afar off upon the ſea.

6 Which by his ſtrength ſetteth faſt the mountains; being girded with power.

7 Which ſtilleth the noiſe of the ſeas, the noiſe of their waves, and the tumult of the people.

NOTES on Pſalm LXIV.

The enemy of whom David here complains, was probably Saul, whoſe hatred to him was rendered more malignant, by the calumnies and falſe ſtories which were told of him, by ſome ſycophants of his court. In memory of which he compoſed this pſalm, and delivered it to the chief muſician, to be ſung in the tabernacle.

Ver. 6. They ſearch out iniquities, &c.] They exerciſe all their wit and diligence in theſe wicked devices, and leave nothing unattempted, to produce the moſt exquiſite and abſolute piece of villainy, that can be invented by men of the deepeſt reach and policy.

Ver. 8. They ſhall make their own tongue to fall upon themſelves.] Their ſlanders ſhall reflect upon themſelves; and the wicked counſels which they gave, ſhall prove pernicious to the adviſers.

NOTES on Pſalm LXV.

From the latter part of this pſalm, ſome interpreters are of opinion, that it was wrote by David after ſome great drought; and there are thoſe who imagine, that it relates to the three years of famine after the rebellion of Abſalom.

Ver. 5. By terrible things.] That is, by miraculous and ſtupendous things.

Ver. 8. They alſo that dwell in the uttermoſt parts of the ſea are afraid at thy tokens, &c.] The moſt barbarous people, who live in the remoteſt corners of the earth, behold parts are afraid at thy tokens: thou makeſt the out-goings of the morning and evening to rejoice.

9 Thou viſiteſt the earth and watereſt it: thou greatly enricheſt it with the river of God which is full of water: thou prepareſt them corn, when thou haſt ſo provided for it.

10 Thouethereſt the ridges thereof abundantly: thou ſettleſt the furrows thereof: thou makeſt it ſoft with ſhowers, thou bleſſeſt the ſpringing thereof.

11 Thou crowneſt the year with thy goodneſs, and thy paths drop fatneſs.

12 They drop upon the paſtures of the wilderneſs: and the little hills rejoice on every ſide.

NOTES on Pſalm LXVI.

It is evident, that this pſalm was written after a remarkable deliverance from ſome great calamity, under which the nation had groaned; but by whom, or on what particular occaſion, is not abſolutely known. The moſt probable opinion, however, is, that it was compoſed by David, after he had aſcended the throne of Iſrael, before which the Hebrews had been in a very unſettled condition, not only during the government of the judges, but alſo in the reign of Saul, when the Philiſtines were ſo powerful, that they drove the Iſraelites into caves and thickets, and into high places, and into pits, 1 Sam. xiii. 6. and at laſt, ſlew Saul and his ſons on mount Gilboa, and dwelt in many of the cities of the Iſraelites, who abandoned them after that fatal battle: for freeing the land then from thoſe enemies, David here gives praiſes to God, inviting all the country to join with him in bleſſing his divine majeſty, not only for this, but for the deliverances he had vouchſafed to that nation.

Ver. 12. A wealthy place.] This denotes liberty, eaſe, and plenty.

16 Come and hear, all ye that fear God, and I will declare what he hath done for my ſoul.

17 I cried unto him with my mouth, and he was extolled with my tongue.

18 If I regard iniquity in my heart: the Lord will not hear me.

19 But verily God hath heard me: he hath attended to the voice of my prayer.

20 Bleſſed be God, which hath not turned away my prayer, nor his mercy from me.

PSAL. LXVII.

1 A prayer for the enlargement of Gods kingdom, 3 to the joy of the people, 6 and the increaſe of Gods bleſſings.

¶ To the chief muſician on Neginoth, A Pſalm or Song.

GOD be merciful unto us, and bleſs us: and cauſe his face to ſhine upon us. Selah.

3 Let the people praiſe thee, O God; let all the people praiſe thee.

PSAL. LXVIII.

1 A prayer at the removing of the ark. 4 An exhortation to praiſe God for his mercies, 7 for his care of the church, 19 for his great works.

¶ To the chief muſician, A Pſalm or Song of David.

LET God ariſe, let his enemies be ſcattered: let them alſo that hate him, flee before him.

2 As ſmoke is driven away, ſo drive them away: as wax melteth before the fire, ſo let the wicked periſh at the preſence of God.

3 But let the righteous be glad: let them rejoice before God, yea, let them exceedingly rejoice.

4 Sing unto God, ſing praiſes to his name: extol him that rideth upon the heavens by his name JAH, and rejoice before him.

5 A father of the fatherleſs, and a judge of the widows, is God in his holy habitation.

6 God ſetteth the ſolitary in families: he bringeth out thoſe which are bound with chains, but the rebellious dwell in a dry land.

NOTES on Pſalm LXVII.

This pſalm was written by David, who being ſettled in his throne, and having brought the ark to Jeruſalem, bleſſed the people in the name of the Lord of hoſts, pronouncing this pſalm, wherein he evidently intimates the form of bleſſing, which the prieſts were commanded to uſe on ſolemn occaſions; beſeeching God to continue his favour to them, and make them ſuch an example of his loving-kindneſs, that it might invite all nations that ſhould hear the fame thereof, to ſubmit themſelves to his government, and truſt in his protection.

Ver. 2. Thy way.] That is, Thy wonderful providence.

Ver. 4. O let the nations be glad, &c] O that the nations were ſo ſenſible, what an happineſs it is to be under thy care, that they may be glad, &c.

NOTES on Pſalm LXVIII.

David having brought the ark to Jeruſalem with great joy and triumph, after it had been long neglected in the reign of Saul, hoped God would be more propitious to him, according to the prayer he had made in the preceding pſalm, having now brought the ark near his own palace, and prepared a noble place for its reception, which it had been long without; for ſince the time it had been taken by the Philiſtines, it had been ſeparated from the tabernacle of the congregation made for it by Moſes, which was the habitation of the moſt high.

Ver. 4. By his name Jah.] Jah is his name; Jah is a contraction of Jehovah, and imports the incomprehenſible being or exiſtence of God.

Ver. 6. A dry land.] A land barren of God's bleſſings.

17 The chariots of God are twenty thouſand, even thouſands of angels: the Lord is among them as in Sinai, in the holy place.

18 Thou haſt aſcended on high, thou haſt led captivity captive: thou haſt received gifts for men; yea, for the rebellious alſo, that the LORD God might dwell among them.

Ver. 7, 8 O God, when thou wenteſt forth before thy people, &c.] What a ſublime and noble idea this paſſage gives us of the Deity! Mr. Kennicot obſerves, that by comparing the ſimilar or parallel paſſage in Judges v. 4, 5. there is an image wanting here, which finiſhes the deſcription in Judges with great propriety. Is it wrong to ſuppoſe the 8th verſe ſtood thus?

> The earth trembled, and the heavens dropped;
> The clouds alſo dropped water:
> The mountains melted at the preſence of Jehovah,
> Even that Sinai, before Jehovah the God of Iſrael.

There is a deſcription of Neptune in Homer, which Longinus has greatly commended, and it has been the admiration of all antiquity; but how much it is inferior to this grand image of the pſalmiſt, is left to the reader.

> Fierce as he paſt, the lofty mountains nod,
> The foreſts ſhake, earth trembled as he trod,
> And felt the footſteps of th' immortal God.

Ver. 12. She that tarried at home, divided the ſpoil.] The ſpoil was ſo great, that not only the ſoldiers, but even the women had their ſhare.

Ver. 13. Though ye have lien among the pots, &c.] Tho' ye were formerly obſcure and oppreſſed ſlaves, tied down to the drudgery of brick making and pottery in Egypt; yet you ſhall now be as glorious as you were then contemptible.

Ver. 14. White as ſnow in Salmon.] When by ſubduing the kings, the Almighty appeared moſt illuſtrious at Salmon.

Ver. 16. Why leap ye, ye high hills?] Boaſt not of your height and beauty, ye towering mountains, Sion is the hill which God hath choſen to honour with his reſidence.

Ver. 17. The chariots of God are twenty thouſand, &c.] In Sion, there are ten thouſand times more innumerable hoſts of angels attending upon the divine majeſty, who is with them there, as he was upon mount Sinai.

Ver. 18. Thou haſt aſcended on high, thou haſt led captivity captive.] Thou haſt declared this, O God, who art gone up to that holy mountain, and haſt highly exalted thyſelf by illuſtrious victories, which by the inviſible miniſtry of the heavenly hoſt, thou haſt given us over our enemies as the Meſſiah, who ſhall be thy ſanctuary, will do far more magnificently, when after conquering death, and the power of Satan, he ſhall aſcend in a reſplendent chariot, attended by myriads of the heavenly hoſt, to the moſt exalted ſeat of happineſs; even to thine own right-hand, on the throne of thy glory.

Thou haſt received gifts for men.] By thy aid we have carried away our enemies captive, and their ſpoils together with them, to be diſtributed among thy people. St. Paul, Epheſ. iv. 8. referring to this text, expreſſes it, Gave gifts to men.

Ver. 20. Unto God the Lord belong the iſſues from death.] Or, the paſſages; that is, the ways and means, either to cauſe to die, or to preſerve from death, are in his power.

35 O God, thou art terrible out of thy holy places, the God of Iſrael is he that giveth ſtrength and power unto his people: bleſſed be God.

PSAL. LXIX.

1 David complaineth of his affliction: 13 He prayeth for deliverance: 22 He devoteth his enemies to deſtruction: 30 He praiſeth God with thankſgiving.

¶ To the chief muſician upon Shoſhannim,

A Pſalm of David.

SAve me, O God, for the waters are come in unto my ſoul.

2 I ſink in deep mire, where there is no ſtanding:

Ver. 27. There is little Benjamin with their ruler.] The tribe of Benjamin was preſent on this ſolemn occaſion, of which particular mention is made, becauſe it had more obſtinately, than any of the other tribes, withſtood David, and ſided with Saul; the princes of the tribe of Judah are mentioned, as they were the great ſupport and prop of the kingdom; and the tribes of Zebulun and Naphtali, who lived on the borders of the kingdom, are taken notice of, to ſhew that the civil war being extinguiſhed, and all the country reduced to obedience, the whole nation was alſo perfectly united in religion, and the ſervice of God, which was appointed by God to be performed in Jeruſalem. Benjamin is called little, as well becauſe he was the youngeſt ſon of Jacob, as becauſe that tribe was very much diminiſhed, and almoſt deſtroyed for the ſin of Gibeah. See Judges xx. 46.

Ver. 30. The multitude of bulls, with the calves.] Theſe expreſſions deſcribe the fury and inſolence of the ſoldiers, like cattle fed in a rich and fat ſoil.

With pieces of ſilver.] They adorned their arms and habits with plates of ſilver.

NOTES on Pſalm LXIX.

This pſalm was compoſed by David, as ſome think, when in great danger, either from Saul or the rebellion of Abſalom; but others rather ſuppoſe it was written by him during the courſe of his repentance, for his ſin with Bathſheba. Theodoret obſerves, that the ſufferings of Chriſt, and the utter overthrow of the Jewiſh nation are here foretold; for, as the Jews were ſo audaciouſly wicked, to inflict theſe puniſhments on their Saviour, which they themſelves experienced from their moſt ſpiteful enemies, God, the righteous judge, condemned them to ſuffer that themſelves, which they prayed might fall on the heads of thoſe enemies: for the meaning of the word Shoſhannim, the reader is referred to pſalm xlv.

ſtanding: I am come into deep waters, where the floods overflow me.

3 I am weary of my crying, my throat is dried: mine eyes fail while I wait for my God.

4 They that hate me without a cauſe, are more than the hairs of mine head: they that would deſtroy me, being mine enemies wrongfully, are mighty: then I reſtored that which I took not away.

5 O God, thou knoweſt my fooliſhneſs; and my ſins are not hid from thee.

6 Let not them that wait on thee, O Lord GOD of hoſts, be aſhamed for my ſake: let not thoſe that ſeek thee, be confounded for my ſake, O God of Iſrael.

7 Becauſe for thy ſake I have borne reproach: ſhame hath covered my face.

8 I am become a ſtranger unto my brethren, and an alien unto my mothers children.

9 For the zeal of thine houſe hath eaten me up; and the reproaches of them that reproached thee, are fallen upon me.

10 When I wept, and chaſtened my ſoul with faſting, that was to my reproach.

11 I made ſackcloth alſo my garment: and I became a proverb to them.

12 They that ſit in the gate ſpeak againſt me; and I was the ſong of the drunkards.

13 But as for me, my prayer is unto thee, O LORD, in an acceptable time: O God, in the multitude of thy mercy hear me, in the truth of thy ſalvation.

14 Deliver me out of the mire, and let me not ſink: let me be delivered from them that hate me, and out of the deep waters.

15 Let not the water-flood overflow me, neither let the deep ſwallow me up, and let not the pit ſhut her mouth upon me.

16 Hear me, O LORD, for thy loving kindneſs is good: turn unto me according to the multitude of thy tender mercies.

17 And hide not thy face from thy ſervant, for I am in trouble: hear me ſpeedily.

18 Draw nigh unto my ſoul, and redeem it: deliver me becauſe of mine enemies.

19 Thou haſt known my reproach, and my ſhame, and my diſhonour: mine adverſaries are all before thee.

20 Reproach hath broken my heart, and I am full of heavineſs: and I looked for ſome to take pity, but there was none; and for comforters, but I found none.

21 They gave me alſo gall for my meat, and in my thirſt they gave me vinegar to drink.

22 Let their table become a ſnare before them: and that which ſhould have been for their welfare, let it become a trap.

23 Let their eyes be darkened that they ſee not; and make their loins continually to ſhake.

24 Pour out thine indignation upon them, and let thy wrathful anger take hold of them.

25 Let their habitation be deſolate, and let none dwell in their tents.

26 For

Ver. 12. They that ſit in the gate, &c.] The grave ſenators and judges of the land revile me.

Ver. 21. They gave me alſo gall for my meat, &c.] The Hebrew word ROSH, here rendered gall, is an herb as bitter as wormwood. See Deut. xxix. 18. and is here put for affliction. Thus Jer. ix. 15. I will feed them with wormwood, and give them water of gall to drink. What the pſalmiſt here ſpeaks figuratively of himſelf, was literally done to our Saviour. Matt. xxvii. 34.

Ver. 22. Let their table, &c.] They who eat at their tables ſhall betray them, and their proſperity ſhall prove their ruin.

Ver. 23. Make their loins continually to ſhake.] This implies a yoke of inſufferable bondage. The Septuagint and Vulgate read, Ever bow thou down their backs.

Ver. 25. Let their habitation be deſolate, &c.] Let their moſt magnificent ſtructures, and all their houſes be laid waſte; nay, even their meaneſt cottages deſtitute of inhabitants. Matt. xxiii. 38. Acts i. 20.

26 For they perſecute him whom thou haſt ſmitten, and they talk to the grief of thoſe whom thou haſt wounded.

27 Add iniquity to their iniquity: and let them not come into thy righteouſneſs.

28 Let them be blotted out of the book of the living, and not be written with the righteous.

29 But I am poor and ſorrowful: let thy ſalvation, O God, ſet me up on high.

30 I will praiſe the name of God with a ſong, and will magnify him with thankſgiving.

31 This alſo ſhall pleaſe the LORD better than an ox or bullock that hath horns and hoofs.

32 The humble ſhall ſee this, and be glad: and your hearts ſhall live that ſeek God.

33 For the LORD heareth the poor, and deſpiſeth not his priſoners.

34 Let the heaven and earth praiſe him, the ſeas, and every thing that moveth therein.

35 For God will ſave Sion, and will build the cities of Judah: that they may dwell there, and have it in poſſeſſion.

36 The ſeed alſo of his ſervants ſhall inherit it: and they that love his name ſhall dwell therein.

PSAL. LXX.

David ſoliciteth God to the ſpeedy deſtruction of the wicked, and preſervation of the godly.

¶ To the chief muſician, A Pſalm of David, to bring to remembrance.

Make haſte, O God, to deliver me; make haſte to help me, O LORD.

2 Let them be aſhamed and confounded that ſeek after my ſoul: let them be turned backward, and put to confuſion, that deſire my hurt.

3 Let them be turned back for a reward of their ſhame, that ſay, Aha, aha.

4 Let all thoſe that ſeek thee, rejoice, and be glad in thee: and let ſuch as love thy ſalvation ſay continually, Let God be magnified.

5 But I am poor and needy, make haſte unto me, O God: thou art my help and my deliverer, O LORD, make no tarrying.

PSAL. LXXI.

let me never be put to confuſion.

Ver. 27. Add iniquity to their iniquity.] That is, Let them accumulate their ſins.

Not come into thy righteouſneſs.] That is, never attain any mercy from thee.

NOTES on Pſalm LXX.

There is not any remarkable difference between this pſalm and the latter part of the 40th; and therefore, it is natural to think, that David, during the conſpiracy of Abſalom, reviewed what he had written, and with ſome ſmall alterations, compoſed this as a diſtinct prayer, to be uſed conſtantly, during the continuance of that ſharp affliction.

Ver. 5. Poor.] The epithet poor, in this place, means a perſon under any oppreſſive or afflictive circumſtances.

NOTES on Pſalm LXXI.

This pſalm is generally thought to have been written by David, on occaſion of the unnatural rebellion of his ſon, which happened in his declining years, when he was grey-headed, as he complains, ver. 9, and 18.

Ver. 3. Be thou my ſtrong habitation, &c.] I am forced to quit my habitation, and have no place of ſafety to retreat to; but whenſoever I fly to thy Almighty protection, do thou always keep me as ſecure as if I repoſed myſelf in an impregnable caſtle.

4 Deliver me, O my God, out of the hand of the wicked, out of the hand of the unrighteous and cruel man.

5 For thou art my hope, O Lord GOD: thou art my truſt from my youth.

6 By thee have I been holden up from the womb: thou art he that took me out of my mothers bowels, my praiſe ſhall be continually of thee.

7 I am as a wonder unto many; but thou art my ſtrong refuge.

8 Let my mouth be filled with thy praiſe, and with thy honour all the day.

9 Caſt me not off in the time of old age, forſake me not when my ſtrength faileth.

10 For mine enemies ſpeak againſt me: and they that lay wait for my ſoul, take counſel together,

11 Saying, God hath forſaken him: perſecute and take him, for there is none to deliver him.

12 O God, be not far from me: O my God, make haſte for my help.

13 Let them be confounded and conſumed, that are adverſaries to my ſoul: let them be covered with reproach and diſhonour, that ſeek my hurt.

14 But I will hope continually, and will yet praiſe thee more and more.

15 My mouth ſhall ſhew forth thy righteouſneſs, and thy ſalvation all the day: for I know not the numbers thereof.

16 I will go in the ſtrength of the Lord GOD: I will make mention of thy righteouſneſs, even of thine only.

17 O God, thou haſt taught me from my youth: and hitherto have I declared thy wondrous works.

18 Now alſo when I am old and grayheaded, O God, forſake me not: until I have ſhewed thy ſtrength unto this generation, and thy power to every one that is to come.

19 Thy righteouſneſs alſo, O God, is very high, who haſt done great things: O God, who is like unto thee?

20 Thou which haſt ſhewed me great and ſore troubles, ſhalt quicken me again, and ſhalt bring me up again from the depths of the earth.

21 Thou ſhalt increaſe my greatneſs, and comfort me on every ſide.

22 I will alſo praiſe thee with the pſaltery, even thy truth, O my God: unto thee will I ſing with the harp, O thou holy One of Iſrael.

23 My lips ſhall greatly rejoice when I ſing unto thee: and my ſoul which thou haſt redeemed.

24 My tongue alſo ſhall talk of thy righteouſneſs all the day long: for they are confounded, for they are brought unto ſhame, that ſeek my hurt.

NOTES on Pſalm LXXII.

The concluſion of this pſalm informs us who the author of it was; and the occaſion of David's writing it was this—By his command, Nathan the prophet, and Zadok the prieſt, took Solomon, and ſet him upon his throne, that David might have the ſatisfaction of ſeeing all the great men do homage to Solomon, and acknowledge him for their ſucceeding ſovereign before he died: at this ſight, the ſpirit of this holy man, being tranſported with extraordinary joy, dictated it to Solomon, wherein he firſt recommends him to the divine benediction, and then inſtructs him how to render his people happy, by enumerating the qualities of a good king, and the proſperous ſtate of the kingdom under his government: and delivers ſome parts of it in ſo exalted a ſtrain, that the words were never fully accompliſhed till the appearance of the Meſſiah; of the happineſs of whoſe reign, and the juſtice of whoſe government, together with the power, extent, and external continuance of his kingdom, his father David here prophecies.

¶ A Pſalm of Aſaph.

TRuly God is good to Iſrael, even to ſuch as are of a clean heart.

2 But as for me, my feet were almoſt gone: my ſteps had well nigh ſlipt.

3 For I was envious at the fooliſh, when I ſaw the proſperity of the wicked.

4 For there are no bands in their death: but their ſtrength is firm.

5 They are not in trouble as other men; neither are they plagued like other men.

6 Therefore pride compaſſeth them about as a chain: violence covereth them as a garment.

7 Their eyes ſtand out with fatneſs: they have more than heart could wiſh.

8 They are corrupt, and ſpeak wickedly concerning oppreſſion: they ſpeak loftily.

9 They ſet their mouth againſt the heavens; and their tongue walketh through the earth.

10 Therefore his people return hither: and waters of a full cup are wrung out to them.

Before Chriſt

11 And they ſay, How doth God know? and is there knowledge in the moſt High?

12 Behold, theſe are the ungodly, who proſper in the world, they increaſe in riches.

13 Verily, I have cleanſed my heart in vain, and waſhed my hands in innocency.

14 For all the day long have I been plagued, and chaſtened every morning.

15 If I ſay, I will ſpeak thus: behold, I ſhould offend againſt the generation of thy children.

16 When I thought to know this, it was too painful for me.

17 Until I went into the ſanctuary of God; then underſtood I their end.

18 Surely thou didſt ſet them in ſlippery places: thou caſtedſt them down into deſtruction.

19 How are they brought into deſolation as in a moment! they are utterly conſumed with terrors.

20 As a dream when one awaketh; ſo, O Lord, when thou awakeſt, thou ſhalt deſpiſe their image.

21 Thus my heart was grieved, and I was pricked in my reins.

22 So fooliſh was I, and ignorant: I was as a beaſt before thee.

23 Nevertheleſs, I am continually with thee: thou haſt holden me by my right hand.

24 Thou

NOTES on Pſalm LXXIII.

Here begins a new collection, or the third book of Pſalms, according to the Hebrew diviſion. This book contains ſeventeen pſalms, moſt of them very diſconſolate, and full of bitter complaints. They were chiefly compoſed by Aſaph, who lived in the days of Hezekiah, and called Aſaph the Seer. See 2 Chron. xxix. 30. He ſeems to be the author of this, and probably compoſed it to comfort himſelf, and all good men, when they ſaw the wicked proſper, while the righteous were ſore afflicted.

Ver. 2. My feet were almoſt gone, my ſteps, &c.] I began to doubt and ſtagger in my faith.

Ver. 4. There are no bands in their death.] The meaning is, that they are not drawn to an untimely death by ſickneſs, or evil accidents.

Ver. 7. Their eyes ſtand out, &c.] They pamper themſelves to exceſs.

Ver. 10. Therefore his people return hither.] That is, to the following thoughts, and their old opinions.

Ver. 15. If I ſay, I will ſpeak thus, &c.] But whatever confuſed and fooliſh thoughts came on a ſudden into my mind, I concluded upon more mature deliberation, that if I ſaid, as theſe men do, I ſhould baſely betray the cauſe of all them who are dear unto thee.

Ver. 17. Until I went into the ſanctuary, &c.] Withdrawing my mind from the world, and the falſe ſhews thereof, I brought myſelf to judge of theſe things; I was ſenſible how ſhort was the felicity of the wicked, and how truly miſerable thoſe men are, whoſe reward is only in this life.

24 Thou ſhalt guide me with thy counſel, and afterward receive me to glory.

25 Whom have I in heaven but thee? and there is none upon earth that I deſire beſides thee.

26 My fleſh and my heart faileth? but God is the ſtrength of my heart, and my portion for ever.

27 For lo, they that are from thee, ſhall periſh: thou haſt deſtroyed all them that go a whoring from thee.

28 But it is good for me to draw near to God: I have put my truſt in the Lord God, that I may declare all thy works.

PSAL. LXXIV.

1 The prophet complaineth of the deſolation of the ſanctuary: 10 He moveth God to help, in conſideration of his power, 18 of his reproachful enemies, of his children, and of his covenant.

¶ Maſchil of Aſaph.

O God, why haſt thou caſt us off for ever? why doth thine anger ſmoke againſt the ſheep of thy paſture?

2 Remember thy congregation which thou haſt purchaſed of old: the rod of thine inheritance which thou haſt redeemed, this mount Zion wherein thou haſt dwelt.

3 Lift up thy feet unto the perpetual deſolations: even all that the enemy hath done wickedly in the ſanctuary.

4 Their enemies roar in the midſt of thy congregations: they ſet up their enſigns for ſigns.

5 A man was famous according as he had lifted up axes upon the thick trees.

6 But now they break down the carved work thereof at once, with axes and hammers.

7 They have caſt fire into thy ſanctuary, they have defiled by caſting down the dwelling-place of thy name to the ground.

8 They ſaid in their hearts, Let us deſtroy them together: they have burnt up all the ſynagogues of God in the land.

9 We ſee not our ſigns, there is no more any prophet, neither is there among us any that knoweth how long.

10 O God, how long ſhall the adverſary reproach? ſhall the enemy blaſpheme thy name for ever?

11 Why withdraweſt thou thy hand, even thy right hand? pluck it out of thy boſom.

12 For God is my King of old, working ſalvation in the midſt of the earth.

13 Thou didſt divide the ſea by thy ſtrength: thou brakeſt the heads of the dragons in the waters.

NOTES on Pſalm LXXIV.

The deſolation of Jeruſalem, the temple, and the reſt of the land of Canaan, by Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, was the ſad occaſion of this pſalm, which was compoſed during the Babyloniſh captivity; and probably by ſome pious man of the poſterity of Aſaph the Seer, who was ſuffered to remain in the land of Iſrael with the Chaldeans.

Ver. 2. The rod of thine inheritance.] Which thou haſt meaſured out for thyſelf, as with a line or rod: or by rod, ſome underſtand a ſceptre, and apply it to the tribe of Judah, on account of the ſuperior dignity of that tribe above the reſt.

Ver 3. Lift up thy feet.] To ſtamp or beat down, or to come and ſee the deſolations.

Ver. 5. A man was famous according as, &c.] They got fame according to the miſchief they did, which they committed with no more remorſe, than if they had been lopping off the boughs of a tree.

Ver. 7. They have caſt fire into thy ſanctuary.] The Septuagint reads, They have burnt with fire thy ſanctuary to the ground.

Ver. 9. We ſee not our ſigns.] No tokens of thy divine preſence.

Ver. 11. Why withdraweſt thou thy hand? &c.] Their upper garments anciently having no ſleeves, the arms were wrapped up, and covered under them; and therefore, when the right-hand was exerted in the action, it muſt be diſengaged from the garment, and made bare. Why withdraweſt thou thy hand? i. e. why turneſt thou thine hand under thy garment?

Ver. 13. Dragons.] By dragons is meant the Egyptians, or Pharaoh's army, who were broken, or drowned in the Red-ſea; and their bodies being waſhed aſhore, became food for the wild beaſts and birds of the wilderneſs.

14 Thou brakeſt the heads of leviathan in pieces, and gaveſt him to be meat to the people inhabiting the wilderneſs.

15 Thou didſt cleave the fountain and the flood: thou driedſt up mighty rivers.

16 The day is thine, the night alſo is thine: thou haſt prepared the light and the ſun.

17 Thou haſt ſet all the borders of the earth: thou haſt made ſummer and winter.

18 Remember this, that the enemy hath reproached, O Lord, and that the fooliſh people have blaſphemed thy name.

19 O deliver not the ſoul of thy turtle-dove unto the multitude of the wicked, forget not the congregation of thy poor for ever.

20 Have reſpect unto the covenant: for the dark places of the earth are full of the habitations of cruelty.

21 O let not the oppreſſed return aſhamed: let the poor and needy praiſe thy name.

22 Ariſe, O God, plead thine own cauſe: remember how the fooliſh man reproacheth thee daily.

23 Forget not the voice of thine enemies: the tumult of thoſe that riſe up againſt thee, increaſeth continually.

PSAL. LXXV.

1 The prophet praiſeth God: 2 He promiſeth to judge uprightly: 4 He rebuketh the proud by conſideration of Gods providence: 9 He praiſeth God, and promiſeth to execute juſtice.

¶ To the chief muſician, Al-taſchith, A Pſalm or Song of Aſaph.

UNto thee, O God, do we give thanks, unto thee do we give thanks: for that thy name is near, thy wondrous works declare.

2 When I ſhall receive the congregation, I will judge uprightly.

3 The earth and all the inhabitants thereof are diſſolved: I bear up the pillars of it. Selah.

4 I ſaid unto the fools, Deal not fooliſhly; and to the wicked, Lift not up the horn.

5 Lift not up your horn on high: ſpeak not with a ſtiff neck.

6 For promotion cometh neither from the eaſt, nor from the weſt, nor from the ſouth.

7 But God is the judge: he putteth down one, and ſetteth up another.

Ver. 14. Leviathan.] By Leviathan, is meant Pharaoh himſelf.

Ver. 19. Thy turtle dove.] Deliver, we beſeech thee, thy church, which, like a turtle dove, can only mourn in ſecret, and make ſilent complaints unto thee, from thoſe violent men who ſeek utterly to deſtroy her. Inſtead of turtle dove, ſeveral verſions read, one confeſſing thee.

Ver. 20. The dark places of the earth, &c.] The dreary and deſert parts of the country are full of robberies and receptacles for thieves.

NOTES on Pſalm LXXV.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed by Aſaph the Seer, after the great deliverance, which, by the ſtrange deſtruction of Sennacherib's army, God gave the good king Hezekiah: the word AL-TASCHITH, thou ſhalt not deſtroy, may very naturally be applied to Sennacherib, who, as the prophet told them, ſhould not accompliſh his intentions of deſtroying Jeruſalem, as he had done the capitals of other nations. Symmachus calls this pſalm a triumphal ſong concerning immortality, becauſe it contains, as Theodoret explains it, a prediction of the righteous judgment of God in the deſtruction of the wicked, and rewarding the lovers of virtue; which ſhould teach us not to ſuffer any pious thoughts to periſh, but to preſerve them whole and entire, that we may inherit immortality. If we ſuppoſe this pſalm to have been ſung, as ſeveral of them were, alternately, we ſhall ſee it in a much clearer light. The Iſraelites may be ſuppoſed to ſing the two firſt verſes; the third verſe are the words of the Almighty; then the Iſraelites, ver. 4. Have not we often ſaid, &c.

Ver. 1. Thy name is near.] That is, thou art near; the name of a perſon is an Hebraiſm, whereby the perſon is frequently expreſſed.

Ver. 2. When I ſhall receive the congregation, &c.] When we can have our ſolemn aſſemblies again, I will perfect the reformation which I have began.

Ver. 3. Pillars.] Governors or great perſonages.

Ver. 4. Lift not up your horn.] Be not proud and inſolent.

Ver. 6. Nor from the ſouth.] This ſhould be tranſlated the deſert, but the deſerts lay both on the north and ſouth ends of Canaan; the meaning is, that deliverance was not to be expected from any of the nations round about.

8 For in the hand of the LORD there is a cup, and the wine is red: it is full of mixture, and he poureth out of the ſame: but the dregs thereof all the wicked of the earth ſhall wring them out, and drink them.

9 But I will declare for ever; I will ſing praiſes to the God of Jacob.

10 All the horns of the wicked alſo will I cut off; but the horns of the righteous ſhall be exalted.

PSAL. LXXVI.

1 A declaration of Gods majeſty in the church. 11 An exhortation to ſerve him reverently.

¶ To the chief muſician on Neginoth, A Pſalm or Song of Aſaph.

IN Judah is God known: his name is great in Iſrael.

2 In Salem alſo is his tabernacle, and his dwelling-place in Zion.

3 There brake he the arrows of the bow, the ſhield, and the ſword, and the battel. Selah.

4 Thou art more glorious and excellent than the mountains of prey.

5 The ſtout-hearted are ſpoiled, they have ſlept their ſleep: and none of the men of might have found their hands.

6 At thy rebuke, O God of Jacob, both the chariot and horſe are caſt into a dead ſleep.

7 Thou, even thou art to be feared, and who may ſtand in thy ſight when once thou art angry?

8 Thou didſt cauſe judgment to be heard from heaven; the earth feared and was ſtill,

9 When God aroſe to judgment to ſave all the meek of the earth. Selah.

10 Surely the wrath of man ſhall praiſe thee: the remainder of wrath ſhalt thou reſtrain.

11 Vow, and pay unto the LORD your God; let all that be round about him bring preſents unto him that ought to be feared.

12 He ſhall cut off the ſpirit of princes: he is terrible to the kings of the earth.

PSAL. LXXVII.

1 The pſalmiſt ſheweth what fierce combat he had with diffidence. 10 The victory which he had by conſideration of Gods great and gracious works.

¶ To the chief muſician, to Jeduthun, A Pſalm of Aſaph.

I Cried unto God with my voice: even unto God with my voice, and he gave ear unto me.

Ver. 8. In the hand of the Lord there is a cup, &c.] This is beautifully imagined; and there is a fine paſſage in Homer ſimilar to this paſſage.

> Two urns by Jove's high throne have ever ſtood,
> The ſource of evil one, and one of Good;
> From thence the cup of mortal man he fills,
> Bleſſings to theſe, to thoſe diſtributes ills;
> To moſt he mingles both; the wretch decreed,
> To taſte the bad, unmix'd, is curs'd indeed.
>
> POPE

Is red.] Red denotes the fierceneſs of God's wrath.

NOTES on Pſalm LXXVI.

This pſalm here commemorates ſome ſignal victory over a very powerful enemy, which ſeems to be no other than that over Sennacherib's army, which Aſaph, not content with celebrating in the former hymn, added this alſo for his own uſe; and all other pious perſons, who, he hoped, would join with him in it; eſpecially when it was ſung in the temple, as he directed the chief muſician after the ſame manner as the fourth pſalm.

Ver. 2. Salem.] Jeruſalem.

Ver. 4. Thou art more glorious, &c.] Thou, O Sion, art more glorious.

Ver. 5. They have ſlept their ſleep, &c.] They lay down to ſleep, but never awaked; and none of their mighty men have found, or obtained any advantage by their hands,

Ver. 10. Surely the wrath of man ſhall praiſe thee.] Even the fierceneſs and rage of man ſhall turn to thy praiſe; for it ſhall effect nothing.

NOTES on Pſalm LXXVII.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed during the Babyloniſh captivity; the author, who was not Aſaph the Seer, but ſome other in after times, very pathetically laments the long continuance of their bondage, which ſeemed to indicate that God had utterly forſaken them; but he at laſt comforts himſelf, with the remembrance of what God had formerly done for them, when he delivered them out of Egyptian ſlavery.

2 In the day of my trouble I ſought the Lord; my ſore ran in the night, and ceaſed not: my ſoul refuſed to be comforted.

3 I remembered God, and was troubled: I complained, and my ſpirit was overwhelmed. Selah.

4 Thou holdeſt mine eyes waking: I am ſo troubled that I cannot ſpeak.

5 I have conſidered the days of old, the years of ancient times.

6 I call to remembrance my ſong in the night: I commune with mine own heart, and my ſpirit made diligent ſearch.

7 Will the LORD caſt off for ever? and will he be favourable no more?

8 Is his mercy clean gone for ever? doth his promiſe fail for evermore?

9 Hath God forgotten to be gracious? hath he in anger ſhut up his tender mercies? Selah.

10 And I ſaid, This is my infirmity: but I will remember the years of the right hand of the moſt High.

11 I will remember the works of the LORD: ſurely I will remember thy wonders of old.

12 I will meditate alſo of all thy work, and talk of thy doings.

13 Thy way, O God, is in the ſanctuary: who is ſo great a God as our God?

14 Thou art the God that doeſt wonders; thou haſt declared thy ſtrength among the people.

15 Thou haſt with thine arm redeemed thy people, the ſons of Jacob and Joſeph. Selah.

16 The waters ſaw thee, O God, the waters ſaw thee: they were afraid; the depths alſo were troubled.

17 The clouds poured out water, the ſkies ſent out a ſound: thine arrows alſo went abroad.

18 The voice of thy thunder was in the heaven: the lightnings lightned the world, the earth trembled and ſhook.

19 Thy way is in the ſea, and thy path in the great waters, and thy foot-ſteps are not known.

20 Thou leddeſt thy people like a flock, by the hand of Moſes and Aaron.

PSAL. LXXVIII.

1 An exhortation both to learn and to preach the law of God. 9 The ſtory of Gods wrath againſt the incredulous and diſobedient. 67 The Iſraelites being rejected, God choſe Judah, Zion, and David.

Maſ-

Ver. 2. My ſore ran, &c.] Or, my hand was ſtretched out.

Ver. 10. This is my infirmity.] Or, my affliction; the time in which God hath pleaſed to appoint my ſufferings. The word is to be underſtood thus, 2 Cor. xi, 30, and xii. 5. and probably in the laſt collect of the Litany.

Ver. 13. Thy way, O God, is in the ſanctuary, &c.] The proceedings of thy providence, O God, are not only perfect, holy, and juſt; but far beyond the reach of man to fathom.

Ver. 15. Thou haſt with thine arm redeemed thy people.] Thou, O Lord, haſt claimed thy right to the equity of the redemption of thy people, whom thou haſt ſold into the hands of thine enemies; thou gaveſt Egypt for their ranſom, Ethiopia and Seba for them—The Hebrew word here uſed, has a particular reference to the privilege which the neareſt relation among the Jews had to redeem his kinſman, or whatever his kinſman had ſold, or pawned, to another perſon.

Ver. 16. The waters ſaw thee, O God, &c.] The waters of the Red-ſea felt thy power to the very depths of the ocean, which retreated, as if terrified by thy preſence, and left a dry path in the ſea for thy people to paſs over.

Ver. 17. The clouds poured out water, &c.] But returned again upon the Egyptians, accompanied with a terrible ſtorm of rain, thunder, and hail-ſtones, which brake the very wheels of their chariots. Exod. xiv. 24, 25.

Ver. 18. The voice of thy thunder was in the heaven, &c.] The tremendous noiſe of this thunder filled the air; the lightning flaſhed in their faces, which, with a dreadful earthquake, made the very inhabitants of Canaan tremble.

Ver. 19. Thy way is in the ſea, &c.] Thy way cannot be traced by human knowledge, who madeſt a broad path through the boiſterous waves; where none ever trod before; and which the waters have overflown and obliterated.

NOTES on Pſalm LXXVIII.

That his countrymen, and their poſterity, might preſerve in their minds the wonderful works of God, the pſalmiſt here commemorates the benefits their fathers had received

Maſchil of Aſaph.

Give ear, O my people, to my law: incline your ears to the words of my mouth.

2 I will open my mouth in a parable: I will utter dark ſayings of old:

3 Which we have heard and known, and our fathers have told us.

4 We will not hide them from their children, ſhewing to the generation to come, the praiſes of the LORD; and his ſtrength and his wonderful works that he hath done.

5 For he eſtabliſhed a teſtimony in Jacob, and appointed a law in Iſrael, which he commanded our fathers, that they ſhould make them known to their children.

6 That the generation to come might know them, even the children which ſhould be born: who ſhould ariſe and declare them to their children:

7 That they might ſet their hope in God, and not forget the works of God; but keep his commandments:

8 And might not be as their fathers, a ſtubborn and rebellious generation; a generation that ſet not their heart aright, and whoſe ſpirit was not ſtedfaſt with God.

9 The children of Ephraim being armed and carrying bows, turned back in the day of battel.

10 They kept not the covenant of God, and refuſed to walk in his law:

11 And forgat his works, and his wonders that he had ſhewed them.

12 Marvellous things did he in the ſight of their fathers, in the land of Egypt, in the field of Zoan.

13 He divided the ſea, and cauſed them to paſs through, and he made the waters to ſtand as an heap.

14 In the day-time alſo he led them with a cloud, and all the night with a light of fire.

15 He clave the rocks in the wilderneſs, and gave them drink as out of the great depths.

16 He brought ſtreams alſo out of the rock, and cauſed waters to run down like rivers.

17 And they ſinned yet more againſt him, by provoking the moſt High in the wilderneſs.

18 And they tempted God in their heart, by aſking meat for their luſt.

19 Yea, they ſpake againſt God: they ſaid, Can God furniſh a table in the wilderneſs?

20 Behold, he ſmote the rock, that the waters guſhed out, and the ſtreams overflowed; can he give bread alſo? can he provide fleſh for his people?

21 Therefore the LORD heard this, and was wroth, ſo a fire was kindled againſt Jacob, and anger alſo came up againſt Iſrael;

22 Becauſe they believed not in God, and truſted not in his ſalvation:

23 Though he had commanded the clouds from above, and opened the doors of heaven, received, not omitting, at the ſame time, to take notice alſo of their ſhameful ingratitude, and the juſt puniſhments which divine vengeance deſervedly inflicted upon them; preſenting them with an epitome of the hiſtory of the Iſraelites, from the time of their coming out of Egypt, to the time of David's advancement to the throne; and the time when this narration, or hiſtorical abſtract concludes, makes it more than probable, that the author of this pſalm was that Aſaph, who lived in the days of David, and is ſo often mentioned as one of the chief ſingers.

Ver. 2. I will open my mouth in a parable.] It is no vulgar leſſon which I will teach you.

Ver. 9. Turned back in the day of battle.] See Deut. i. 26.

Ver. 12. Zoan.] Zoan was a chief city in Egypt, and the king's court or palace, and a place of great antiquity; Zoan is probably here only another appellation for the land of Egypt, by taking (as it is uſual in poetical compoſitions) a part of the whole.

Ver. 20. Behold he ſmote the rock, &c.] It is very evident from the context, that it ſhould be tranſlated, Though he ſmote the rock, &c.

24 And had rained down manna upon them to eat, and had given them of the corn of heaven.

25 Man did eat angels food: he ſent them meat to the full.

26 He cauſed an eaſt-wind to blow in the heaven: and by his power he brought in the ſouth-wind.

27 He rained fleſh alſo upon them as duſt, and feathered fowls like as the ſand of the ſea.

28 And he let it fall in the midſt of their camp, round about their habitations.

29 So they did eat, and were well filled: for he gave them their own deſire;

30 They were not eſtranged from their luſts: but while their meat was yet in their mouths,

31 The wrath of God came upon them, and ſlew the fatteſt of them, and ſmote down the choſen men of Iſrael.

32 For all this they ſinned ſtill: and believed not for his wondrous works.

33 Therefore their days did he conſume in vanity, and their years in trouble.

34 When he ſlew them, then they ſought him: and they returned and enquired early after God.

35 And they remembered that God was their rock, and the high God their redeemer.

36 Nevertheleſs, they did flatter him with their mouth, and they lied unto him with their tongues.

37 For their heart was not right with him, neither were they ſtedfaſt in his covenant.

38 But he being full of compaſſion, forgave their iniquity, and deſtroyed them not; yea, many a time turned he his anger away, and did not ſtir up all his wrath.

39 For he remembered that they were but fleſh; a wind that paſſeth away and cometh not again.

40 How oft did they provoke him in the wilderneſs, and grieve him in the deſert?

41 Yea, they turned back and tempted God, and limited the holy One of Iſrael.

42 They remembered not his hand, nor the day when he delivered them from the enemy.

43 How he had wrought his ſigns in Egypt, and his wonders in the field of Zoan:

44 And had turned their rivers into blood; and their floods, that they could not drink.

45 He ſent divers ſorts of flies among them, which deſtroyed them; and frogs, which deſtroyed them.

46 He gave alſo their increaſe unto the caterpillar, and their labour unto the locuſt.

47 He deſtroyed their vines with hail, and their ſycomore-trees with froſt.

48 He gave up their cattle alſo to the hail, and their flocks to hot thunder-bolts.

49 He caſt upon them the fierceneſs of his anger, wrath, and indignation and trouble, by ſending evil angels among them.

50 He made a way to his anger, he ſpared not their ſoul from death: but gave their life over to the peſtilence.

51 And ſmote all the firſt-born in Egypt: the chief of their ſtrength in the tabernacles of Ham:

Ver 25. Angels food.] That is, food prepared by the miniſtry of angels; or it may be an Hebraiſm, and mean only very excellent food.

Ver. 27. He rained fleſh upon them.] Some commentators have thought, that fleſh alludes to locuſts, and feathered fowls to quails. See note on Numb. xi. 31.

Ver. 39. He remembered that they were but fleſh.] He conſidered how very frail they were, and that they could continue only a ſhort time here; but would of themſelves moulder into duſt, and vaniſh like a blaſt of wind, which makes a noiſe for a ſhort time, and is then diſperſed, and heard no more.

Ver. 47. Sycomore-trees.] The Liturgy tranſlation reads, mulberry-trees, but ſycomore-trees ſeem more agreeable to the original; it was a wood of great repute in Egypt, for making mummy cheſts and ſacred boxes.

52 But made his own people to go forth like ſheep, and guided them in the wilderneſs like a flock.

53 And he led them on ſafely, ſo that they feared not: but the ſea overwhelmed their enemies.

54 And he brought them to the border of his ſanctuary, even to this mountain, which his right hand had purchaſed.

55 He caſt out the heathen alſo before them, and divided them an inheritance by line, and made the tribes of Iſrael to dwell in their tents.

56 Yet they tempted and provoked the moſt high God, and kept not his teſtimonies:

57 But turned back and dealt unfaithfully like their fathers: they were turned aſide like a deceitful bow.

58 For they provoked him to anger with their high places, and moved him to jealouſy with their graven images.

59 When God heard this, he was wroth, and greatly abhorred Iſrael:

60 So that he forſook the tabernacle of Shiloh, the tent which he placed among men:

61 And delivered his ſtrength into captivity, and his glory into the enemies hand.

62 He gave his people over unto the ſword: and was wroth with his inheritance.

63 The fire conſumed their young men: and their maidens were not given to marriage.

64 Their prieſts fell by the ſword: and their widows made no lamentation.

65 Then the Lord awaked as one out of ſleep, and like a mighty man that ſhouteth by reaſon of wine.

66 And he ſmote his enemies in the hinder parts: he put them to a perpetual reproach.

67 Moreover, he refuſed the tabernacle of Joſeph: and choſe not the tribe of Ephraim.

68 But choſe the tribe of Judah, the mount Zion which he loved.

69 And he built his ſanctuary like high palaces, like the earth which he hath eſtabliſhed for ever.

70 He choſe David alſo his ſervant, and took him from the ſheep-folds:

71 From following the ews great with young, he brought him to feed Jacob his people, and Iſrael his inheritance.

¶ A Pſalm of Aſaph.

O God, the heathen are come into thine inheritance, thy holy temple have they defiled: they have laid Jeruſalem on heaps.

2 The dead bodies of thy ſervants have they given to be meat unto the fowls of the heaven, the fleſh of thy ſaints unto the beaſts of the earth.

3 Their blood have they ſhed like water round about Jeruſalem: and there was none to bury them.

NOTES on Pſalm LXXIX.

This pſalm was compoſed, moſt probably, by the ſame author, and on the ſame occaſion with the 74th, namely, the deſtruction of Jeruſalem by Nebuchadnezzar.

4 We are become a reproach to our neighbours: a ſcorn and deriſion to them that are round about us.

5 How long, LORD? wilt thou be angry for ever? ſhall thy jealouſy burn like fire?

6 Pour out thy wrath upon the heathen that have not known thee, and upon the kingdoms that have not called upon thy name.

7 For they have devoured Jacob, and laid waſte his dwelling-place.

8 O remember not againſt us former iniquities: let thy tender mercies ſpeedily prevent us: for we are brought very low.

9 Help us, O God of our ſalvation, for the glory of thy name: and deliver us, and purge away our ſins for thy names ſake.

10 Wherefore ſhould the heathen ſay, Where is their God? let him be known among the heathen in our ſight by the revenging of the blood of thy ſervants which is ſhed.

11 Let the ſighing of the priſoner come before thee, according to the greatneſs of thy power: preſerve thou thoſe that are appointed to die.

12 And render unto our neighbours ſeven-fold into their boſom, their reproach wherewith they have reproached thee, O Lord.

13 So we thy people and ſheep of thy paſture, will give thee thanks for ever: we will ſhew forth thy praiſe to all generations.

NOTES on Pſalm LXXX.

This pſalm ſeems to have been written by Aſaph the Seer, when Sennacherib, the king of Aſſyria, came up with a great hoſt againſt Jeruſalem, in the days of king Hezekiah. It was delivered to the chief muſician in the temple, to be ſung as the ſixtieth pſalm, upon the inſtruments of ſix ſtrings, which were generally uſed in ſolemn thankſgivings.

Ver. 1. Thou that leadeſt Joſeph like a flock.] This alludes to the peculiar art and cuſtom of the Hebrew ſhepherds, who were ſo converſant among their flocks, that they knew every individual ſheep, called them all by their names, and led them whitherſoever they pleaſed.

Ver. 8. Thou haſt brought a vine, &c.] Thou once tranſplantedſt us, like a choice vine, out of Egypt into this country.

NOTES on Pſalm LXXXI.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed for the feaſt of trumpets, which was held on the firſt day of the ſeventh month; which feaſt was kept with great ſolemnity, the trumpets blowing longer on that day than on any other; and the reaſon of this extraordinary ſolemnity was, to awaken their conſciences, that they might, by a ſtrict enquiry into their lives, and a ſincere repentance, prepare themſelves for the great day of atonement, which was the tenth of the ſame month. See notes on Lev. xxiii. 24, 25, and Numb. xxix. 1. Aſaph, who lived in the days of David, is ſuppoſed to be the author.

Ver. 3. Blow up the trumpet in the new-moon.] The firſt new-moon in the year. This feaſt was always proclaimed to the people by the ſound of trumpets. This cuſtom is ſtill obſerved by the Mahometans.

Ver. 5. When he went out— where I heard, &c.] The Septuagint and Vulgate read, When he came out of the land of Egypt, he heard a language which he underſtood not.

NOTES on Pſalm LXXXII.

This pſalm was compoſed by Aſaph the Seer, in the days of Hezekiah, to admoniſh the judges of their duty, and to reform the abuſes which had crept into their civil judicatures.

Ver. 1. God ſtandeth in, &c.] Remember, O ye judges, God is preſent in your courts, to obſerve what you do.

Among the gods.] ELOHIM. This appellation the ſcripture gives to rulers and judges, to denote, that the fountain of their power is from the moſt High, and to remind them in the exerciſe of their authority, that they are his repreſentatives.

Ver. 5. The foundations of the earth are out of courſe.] That is, the foundations of the kingdom are ſhaken, which are juſtice and truth.

Ver. 6. Ye are gods, &c.] Homer often uſes to call his kings, born of the gods, bred by the gods, &c. by which he points out to themſelves, the offices they were ordained for, and to their people, the reverence that ſhould be paid them.

NOTES on Pſalm LXXXIII.

This pſalm ſeems to have been written, when there was an univerſal confederacy againſt Iſrael, entered into by all the ſurrounding nations, in the days of David, and not in thoſe of Jehoſhaphat, as ſeveral commentators have imagined; that there was ſuch a league, is evident from the 118th pſalm, where David expreſsly delares, that all nations compaſſed him about; and it appears, from the ſame pſalm, that this compaſſing was before he had deſtroyed them, and therefore in the beginning of his reign.

Ver. 1. Keep not thou ſilence, &c.] O do not refuſe to liſten to our prayers in this ſore diſtreſs; ſhut not thy merciful ears to our cries, nor quietly ſee us periſh, thou mighty God of Jacob.

NOTES on Pſalm LXXXIV.

This pſalm, in all probability, was written when David was at reſt from all his enemies round about, and had ſettled the ark in its place; on which the ſacred hiſtorian informs us, David had ſet his heart on building a temple to God, in ſome meaſure worthy of his majeſty. Suppoſe him in this ſituation, with what tranſport of delight, fervent charity, ardent deſire, and earneſt longing for the temple of God, does he cry out? How amiable, &c.

Ver. 3. The ſparrow hath found an houſe, &c.] This paſſage may, perhaps, be thus underſtood; as if David had ſaid, "The ſparrow hath an houſe, and the ſwallow "a neſt, &c." but my houſe, and my neſt, are with thee, even thy altars, O Lord of hoſts, my king, and my God.

Ver. 6. Who paſſing through the valley of Baca, make it a well, &c.] Of Baca, i. e. of mulberry trees, which delight in a dry ſoil—Who travelling through the thirſty valley of Baca, where there is no water, paſs it as chearfully as if it abounded with pleaſant ſprings; and depending on God as the fountain of what they want, receive from him the bleſſing of plentiful and ſeaſonable ſhowers, to refreſh them in their journey; ſo that the whole company go from ſtage to ſtage, with an unwearied vigour, till they all preſent themſelves before God, to receive his bleſſing in his temple, on the holy hill of Zion.

Ver. 8. I will hear what God the Lord will ſpeak, &c.] I will wait patiently upon the Lord, the judge of the world, for a gracious anſwer to my prayers, hoping that he will not condemn us to farther puniſhment; but ſettle his people, who devoutly worſhip him in a proſperous tranquillity, provided they return not again to their old idolatry.

Heman the Ezrahite.] Who he was is uncertain. He is ſuppoſed to be of the poſterity of Zerah; and from thence called the Ezrahite. Nor can it be certainly determined when he lived, probably when Jechoniah, otherwiſe called Jehoiachin, (or elſe afterwards, in the days of Zedekiah) was taken and carried captive to Babylon, together with abundance of nobility, principal commanders, and moſt ſkilful artificers, this Heman was among them; who being either caſt into a dark priſon, or otherwiſe miſerably treated, bewails here his diſtreſſed and diſmal eſtate. ¶ Maſchil of Ethan the Ezrahite.

I Will ſing of the mercies of the LORD for ever: with my mouth will I make known thy faithfulneſs to all generations.

2 For I have ſaid, Mercy ſhall be built up for ever: thy faithfulneſs ſhalt thou eſtabliſh in the very heavens.

3 I have made a covenant with my choſen, I have ſworn unto David my ſervant.

4 Thy ſeed will I eſtabliſh for ever, and build up thy throne to all generations. Selah.

5 And the heavens ſhall praiſe thy wonders, O LORD: thy faithfulneſs alſo in the congregation of the ſaints.

6 For who in the heaven can be compared unto the LORD? who among the ſons of the mighty can be likened unto the LORD?

7 God is greatly to be feared in the aſſembly of the ſaints: and to be had in reverence of all them that are about him.

8 O LORD God of hoſts, who is a ſtrong LORD like unto thee? or to thy faithfulneſs round about thee?

9 Thou ruleſt the raging of the ſea: when the waves thereof ariſe, thou ſtilleſt them.

10 Thou haſt broken Rahab in pieces, as one that is ſlain; thou haſt ſcattered thine enemies with thy ſtrong arm.

11 The heavens are thine, the earth alſo is thine: as for the world, and the fulneſs thereof, thou haſt founded them.

12 The north and the ſouth thou haſt created them: Tabor and Hermon ſhall rejoice in thy name.

NOTES on Pſalm LXXXIX.

Ethan the Ezrahite.] Ethan, moſt probably, was of the ſame family with Heman in the foregoing pſalm; they were both written upon the ſame occaſion, but with this difference; in the former, Heman bewails his private affliction; whereas Ethan, in this preſent pſalm, (after a thankful acknowledgment of the benefits God had beſtowed upon them, and eſpecially of his promiſe made to David by Samuel and Nathan, of ſettling the kingdom upon him and his poſterity for ever) laments the public calamity, by the ſubverſion of the royal family and government, in the days of Jehoachin, or of Zedekiah. The Babylonians boaſted, that notwithſtanding the promiſes they pretended to have received from heaven, there was now a final period put to both the family and kingdom of David; and in truth, the ſceptre was never reſtored to that family, till Chriſt the ſon of David came; and to him ſeveral paſſages in this pſalm are applied, even by the Jews themſelves.

Ver. 4. Thy ſeed will I eſtabliſh for ever.] Theſe words are too great to have their completion in Solomon; and therefore muſt relate to the Meſſiah. The pſalmiſt diſtinguiſhes between David's ſeed and his ſons; by the former, he means the Meſſiah; by the latter, his deſcendants; to his ſons, the promiſe is conditional; to his ſeed, it is abſolute.—Of the Meſſiah, he ſays, ver. 36. His ſeed will I make to endure for ever, &c. Of his ſons, he ſays, ver. 30, 31. If his children forſake, &c. If they break, &c. Of his ſeed, it follows, ver. 33, 34, 35, 36, 37. Nevertheleſs, my loving kindneſs, &c. to which the reader is referred,

Ver. 10. Thou haſt broken Rahab in pieces, &c.] Rahab or Egypt. Mr. Kennicot has nobly corrected this paſſage. See his Diſſertation, page 108. which ſeems juſtified by the context; and the parallel words in Exodus xv. 3, 6.—the tranſlation of which will be, Thou, like a warrior, haſt broken Egypt in pieces; with the arm of thy ſtrength, haſt thou ſcattered abroad thine enemies; for it alludes to the deſtruction of the Egyptians in the Red-ſea; and the image is taken from the ſublime ode in Exodus.

Ver. 12. Tabor and Hermon.] As in the former part of the verſe, mention is made of the north and the ſouth; ſo in the latter, weſt and eaſt; mount Tabor lay weſt of Jeruſalem, and Hermon eaſt.

13 Thou haſt a mighty arm: ſtrong is thy hand, and high is thy right hand.

14 Juſtice and judgment are the habitation of thy throne: mercy and truth ſhall go before thy face.

15 Bleſſed is thy people that know the joyful ſound: they ſhall walk, O LORD, in the light of thy countenance.

16 In thy name ſhall they rejoice all the day: and in thy righteouſneſs ſhall they be exalted.

17 For thou art the glory of their ſtrength: and in thy favour our horn ſhall be exalted.

18 For the LORD is our defence: and the holy One of Iſrael is our king.

19 Then thou ſpakeſt in viſion to the holy One, and ſaidſt, I have laid help upon one that is mighty: I have exalted one choſen out of the people.

20 I have found David my ſervant: with my holy oil have I anointed him.

21 With whom my hand ſhall be eſtabliſhed: mine arm alſo ſhall ſtrengthen him.

22 The enemy ſhall not exact upon him: nor the ſon of wickedneſs afflict him.

23 And I will beat down his foes before his face, and plague them that hate him.

24 But my faithfulneſs and my mercy ſhall be with him: and in my name ſhall his horn be exalted.

25 I will ſet his hand alſo in the ſea, and his right hand in the rivers.

26 He ſhall cry unto me, Thou art my father, my God, and the rock of my ſalvation.

27 Alſo I will make him my firſt-born, higher than the kings of the earth.

28 My mercy will I keep for him for evermore, and my covenant ſhall ſtand faſt with him.

29 His ſeed alſo will I make to endure for ever, and his throne as the days of heaven.

30 If his children forſake my law, and walk not in my judgments;

31 If they break my ſtatutes, and keep not my commandment:

32 Then will I viſit their tranſgreſſion with the rod, and their iniquity with ſtripes.

33 Nevertheleſs, my loving kindneſs will I not utterly take from him, nor ſuffer my faithfulneſs to fail.

34 My covenant will I not break, nor alter the thing that is gone out of my lips.

35 Once have I ſworn by my holineſs, that I will not lie unto David.

36 His ſeed ſhall endure for ever, and his throne as the ſun before me.

37 It ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever as the moon, and as a faithful witneſs in heaven. Selah.

38 But thou haſt caſt off and abhorred, thou haſt been wroth with thine anointed.

39 Thou haſt made void the covenant of thy ſervant: thou haſt profaned his crown, by caſting it to the ground.

40 Thou haſt broken down all his hedges, thou haſt brought his ſtrong holds to ruin.

41 All

Ver. 14. Juſtice and judgment are the habitation of thy throne.] The original ſignifies preparation, and is ſo rendered by the Septuagint and Vulgate.

Ver. 19. Thou ſpakeſt in viſion to the holy one.] To the holy prophet Samuel. 1 Sam. xvi. 1.

Ver. 25. I will ſet his hand alſo in the ſea, &c.] On the one hand, he ſhall conquer the Philiſtines, and thoſe that inhabit the coaſt of the ſea; and on the other, the Syrians, as far as the Tygris and Euphrates.

Ver. 27. I will make him my firſt-born, &c.] I will ſet him ſo high above all other kings in the world, that he ſhall be the moſt eminent type of the great King of Kings, and Lord of Lords.

Ver. 40. Thou haſt broken down all his hedges.] All the walls of Jeruſalem.

41 All that paſs by the way ſpoil him: he is a reproach to his neighbours.

42 Thou haſt ſet up the right hand of his adverſaries: thou haſt made all his enemies to rejoice.

43 Thou haſt alſo turned the edge of his ſword, and haſt not made him to ſtand in the battel.

44 Thou haſt made his glory to ceaſe, and caſt his throne down to the ground.

45 The days of his youth haſt thou ſhortened: thou haſt covered him with ſhame. Selah.

46 How long, LORD, wilt thou hide thyſelf for ever? ſhall thy wrath burn like fire?

47 Remember how ſhort my time is: wherefore haſt thou made all men in vain?

48 What man is he that liveth, and ſhall not ſee death? ſhall he deliver his ſoul from the hand of the grave? Selah.

49 Lord, where are thy former loving kindneſſes, which thou ſwareſt unto David in thy truth?

50 Remember, Lord, the reproach of thy ſervants; how I do bear in my boſom the reproach of all the mighty people;

51 Wherewith thine enemies have reproached, O LORD; wherewith they have reproached the footſteps of thine anoined.

52 Bleſſed be the LORD for evermore. Amen, and amen.

6 In the morning it flouriſheth, and groweth up; in the evening it is cut down, and withereth.

9 For all our days are paſſed away in thy wrath: we ſpend our years as a tale that is told.

10 The days of our years are threeſcore years and ten; and if by reaſon of ſtrength they be fourſcore years, yet is their ſtrength labour and ſorrow: for it is ſoon cut off, and we fly away.

Ver. 45. The days of his youth haſt thou ſhortened, &c.] Thou haſt made a ſpeedy end of the reign of Jehoiakim, who, in his youth, was made a ſlave, and ſuffered Zedekiah to be moſt diſgracefully condemned to loſe his eyes, and remain a priſoner all the days of his life. 2 Kings xxiv. and xxv.

Ver. 47. Remember how ſhort my time is.] The Septuagint reads, Remember what my expectation is.

NOTES on Pſalm XC.

Here begins the fourth book of pſalms, according to the Hebrew diviſion. This pſalm was compoſed by Moſes, when the people had ſo highly offended God in the wilderneſs, that he ſhortened their lives to ſeventy or eighty years, and ſuffered them not to arrive at the age of their anceſtors, except Moſes, Caleb, and Joſhua, whoſe lives he prolonged to an hundred and twenty years.

14 O ſatisfy us early with thy mercy; that we may rejoice, and be glad all our days.

15 Make us glad according to the days wherein thou haſt afflicted us, and the years wherein we have ſeen evil.

16 Let thy work appear unto thy ſervants, and thy glory unto their children.

NOTES on Pſalm XCI.

Moſes was probably the author of this pſalm, as well as the laſt: the laſt was calculated for the uſe of thoſe who were to die in the wilderneſs; whereas this, is evidently deſigned for thoſe who were to ſurvive this threatened devaſtation. Both pſalms ſeem to have been compoſed ſoon after the irrevocable decree was paſt, (Numb. 14) which condemned one part of them, all that were numbered, from twenty years old and upwards, to a lingering death in the wilderneſs, and their little ones to a forty years wandering for their fathers ſins; but with a gracious promiſe, however, that they ſhould at length obtain an entrance into the land of Canaan. The occaſion of this pſalm, is ſtill pointed out more plainly at the 13th verſe; Thou ſhalt tread upon the lion and adder, &c. There is ſomething ſo particular in this, that it will ſuit no other part of their hiſtory.

Ver. 1. He that dwelleth in the ſecret place, &c.] The four firſt verſes are an inſtruction and encouragement to the younger ſort.

Ver. 3. From the ſnare of the fowler.] From all unſeen dangers.

Ver. 4. His truth.] That is, his gracious promiſe. Numb. xiv. 31.

Ver. 5, 6, 7, and 8.] They were encouraged to reſt ſecure in the divine promiſe for protection, amidſt the daily ſpectacles of mortality, to which they were ſoon to be accuſtomed.

Ver. 13. The lion.] Bochartus, and many ancient interpreters, by SHACAL, here tranſlated lion, underſtand ſome kind of ſerpent; but there are others, who, under adder: the young lion and the dragon ſhalt thou trample under feet.

12 The righteous ſhall flouriſh like the palm-tree: he ſhall grow like a cedar in Lebanon.

NOTES on Pſalm XCII.

Some of the Rabbins have fancied, that this pſalm was wrote by Adam, immediately after he was created, in the evening of the Sabbath; but he had no enemies to riſe up againſt him, as we read the author of this pſalm had, ver. 11. Nor is it probable that it was compoſed by Moſes; for pſalteries and harps, though invented by Jubal, (ſee ver. 3.) yet were not, as we read of, introduced into the Jewiſh church, or indeed any kind of inſtrumental muſic, till the days of David. It is more reaſonable, therefore, to think, that David was the author of this pſalm, and that he compoſed it for the ſabbath, after God had given him reſt round about from all his enemies, that he concluded, he ſhould be hereafter able to ſubdue all who oppoſed him.

Ver. 2. To ſhew forth thy loving-kindneſs in the morning.] The ſweeteſt employment in the morning, and pleaſanteſt employment at night, is to commemorate and declare to all, the goodneſs of the Lord, and his kindneſs to the children of men.

Ver. 10. My horn ſhalt thou exalt.] My power and authority ſhall be raiſed to a great height.

NOTES on Pſalm XCIII.

This pſalm was, in all probability, compoſed by David, when ſome of his powerful enemies began to gather ſtrength, and threatened to diſturb the peace and tranquillity of his reign; but in a more ſublime ſenſe, it ought to be applied to the ſtability of the Meſſiah's kingdom, as ſeveral of the Jews themſelves acknowledge.

Notes on Pſalm XCIV.

It is not known by whom, or on what occaſion this pſalm was compoſed. Biſhop Patrick thinks, that there is in it an exact deſcription of the court of Saul, when their authority was exerted only in oppreſſion and violence; eſpecially againſt David, when they acted as if void of the fear of God, and imagined, that he would not call them to an account for the abuſe of their power. Dr. Delany ſuppoſes, that David wrote this pſalm on occaſion of a battle that was fought between the Iſraelites, under the command of Joab, and the Ammonites and Syrians, before Medeba; in conſequence of the great indignities ſhewn to the meſſengers David ſent to Hanun, king of the children of Ammon. This battle is recorded, 2 Sam. x. and 1 Chron. xix.

Ver. 1. Shew thyſelf.] That is, let thy interpoſition in this cauſe be made evident to the world, by the righteouſneſs of the deciſion.

Ver. 4. Hard things.] Proud, inſolent ſpeeches againſt men, and blaſphemous againſt God.

Ver. 5. They break in pieces thy people, O Lord, &c.] The Ammonites and Syrians (it may mean) waſte his country, and murder his ſubjects.

Ver. 17. In ſilence.] The Septuagint and Vulgate read, In hades, or the grave. Dr. Delany imagines, that David, reflecting upon the danger his army had eſcaped, added theſe ſeven more verſes after the battle, which begins with acknowledging the danger, and aſcribing the deliverance to God.

18 When I ſaid, My foot ſlippeth: thy mercy, O Lord, held me up.

19 In the multitude of my thoughts within me, thy comforts delight my ſoul.

20 Shall the throne of iniquity have fellowſhip with thee, which frameth miſchief by a law?

21 They gather themſelves together againſt the ſoul of the righteous, and condemn the innocent blood.

NOTES on Pſalm XCV.

The author of this pſalm is not certainly known; but the Septuagint, and the generality of commentators aſcribe it to David; the apoſtle alſo, in his epiſtle to the Hebrews, quotes a paſſage out of this pſalm, (Heb. iv. 7) and there ſpeaks of David as the author of it. By the ſubject of it, it ſeems as if it was intended to be what the Greeks call a proſphoneſis, or ſolemn invitation of the people, (when they were all aſſembled together on the Sabbath, or ſome public occaſion) to praiſe the Lord their God, and hear inſtruction out of his law; and it is very juſtly ſtill made uſe of by the church, in the entrance of our morning ſervice. This pſalm (as the Jews themſelves confeſs, and the apoſtle to the Hebrews proves, ſee the third and fourth chapters) relates to the days of Chriſt; and the apoſtle, in the epiſtle beforementioned, demonſtrates, that the reſt here ſpoken of, could not be merely that in the land of Canaan, which their forefathers fell ſhort of, by their diſobedience to God in the wilderneſs; but another, far better, into which they were to be brought by the Meſſiah, a far greater captain than Joſhua.

Ver. 7. The people of his paſture, &c.] Some critics tranſpoſe the words, and read, We are the ſheep of his paſture, and the people of his hand

Ver. 9. Tempted me.] That is, provoked me.

NOTES on Pſalm XCVI.

This pſalm has no title in the Hebrew; but it is plain, from 1 Chron. xvi. that it was wrote by David, and delivered, together with the 105th, when he brought up the ark from the houſe of Obed-edom, to the place he had prepared for it on mount Sion. There are, indeed, ſome ſmall variations from that given in the place referred to; but that only proves, that it was altered by ſome pious perſon, when the Iſraelites returned from their captivity in Babylon; but the prophecy itſelf was never fulfilled, till the deſire of all nations, the great Meſſiah himſelf, came to dwell among them, and offered eternal ſalvation to the human race.

4 For the LORD is great, and greatly to be praiſed: he is to be feared above all gods.

5 For all the gods of the nations are idols: but the LORD made the heavens.

6 Honour and majeſty are before him: ſtrength and beauty are in his ſanctuary.

7 Give unto the LORD, O ye kindreds of the people, give unto the LORD glory and ſtrength.

8 Give unto the LORD the glory due unto his name: bring an offering, and come into his courts.

9 O worſhip the LORD in the beauty of holineſs: fear before him, all the earth.

10 Say among the heathen, that the LORD reigneth: the world alſo ſhall be eſtabliſhed that it ſhall not be moved; he ſhall judge the people righteouſly.

11 Let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth be glad: let the ſea roar, and the fulneſs thereof.

12 Let the field be joyful, and all that is therein: then ſhall all the trees of the wood rejoice

NOTES on Pſalm XCVII.

This pſalm is ſuppoſed to be compoſed by David, upon occaſion of thoſe conqueſts he made, not long after he had brought the ark to mount Sion; his deſign in it, was to inſpire the Iſraelites with confidence, and terrify their enemies with the expectation of thoſe great things, which would certainly enſue, upon the ſpecial preſence of God among them. But, in its ſublimer meaning, it belongs to Chriſt's triumph over the grave, and all the powers of darkneſs, at his reſurrection and aſcenſion to his throne in heaven.

This pſalm is generally ſuppoſed to have been compoſed by David, on occaſion of ſome great deliverance, which God had newly granted to Iſrael, as an earneſt of future bleſſings, eſpecially of the coming of that great bleſſing, the prince of peace, to give complete ſalvation to his people.

A Pſalm of David.

I Will ſing of mercy and judgment: unto thee, O LORD, will I ſing.

2 I will behave myſelf wiſely in a perfect way; O when wilt thou come unto me? I will walk within my houſe with a perfect heart.

3 I will ſet no wicked thing before mine eyes: I hate the work of them that turn aſide, it ſhall not cleave to me.

4 A froward heart ſhall depart from me: I will not know a wicked perſon.

5 Whoſo privily ſlandereth his neighbour, him will I cut off: him that hath an high look, and a proud heart will not I ſuffer.

6 Mine eyes ſhall be upon the faithful of the land, that they may dwell with me: he that walketh in a perfect way, he ſhall ſerve me.

7 He that worketh deceit, ſhall not dwell within my houſe: he that telleth lies, ſhall not tarry in my ſight.

8 I will early deſtroy all the wicked of the land: that I may cut off all wicked doers from the city of the LORD.

PSAL.

Ver. 8. Thou waſt a God that forgaveſt them, &c.] That God ſhould beſtow forgiveneſs, and yet inflict vengeance upon the ſame perſons, may appear an irreconcileable contradiction; but the ſolution is not very difficult, if we conſider, that eternal mercy may very well conſiſt with temporal ſeverities, and the pardon of ſin with the correction of the ſinner.

NOTES on Pſalm C.

This is the only pſalm, in the whole collection, intitled a pſalm of praiſe, probably, becauſe it was peculiarly appointed to be ſung, when their ſacrifices of thankſgiving were offered to the moſt High, and is generally thought to have been written by David, who invites all the world to join with the Iſraelites in the ſervice of the Lord, whoſe kindneſs to them was beyond expreſſion: and accordingly, we now uſe it in acknowledgment of God's wonderful love to us in Chriſt, who, by the ſacrifice of himſelf, redeemed us from the power of ſin and death, and made us heirs of life eternal.

Ver. 5. His truth endureth from all generations.] The mercy promiſed to our forefathers, he hath exactly fulfilled in our days, and will continue to all ſucceeding generations.

NOTE on Pſalm CI.

When David received Mephiboſheth into favour, he was aware what the partizans of the houſe of Saul would ſay on the occaſion, viz. that all theſe fair pretences and promiſes, in favour of Saul's family, were but a ſpecious artifice to get the true heirs of the crown into his hands, and then he would ſoon find means to rid himſelf of them; David therefore writes this pſalm as a declaration, to vindicate his own integrity, terrify treachery, and diſcountenance calumny.

¶ A Prayer of the afflicted, when he is overwhelmed, and poureth out his complaint before the LORD.

HEar my prayer, O LORD, and let my cry come unto thee.

2 Hide not thy face from me in the day when I am in trouble, incline thine ear unto me: in the day when I call, anſwer me ſpeedily.

3 For my days are conſumed like ſmoke: and my bones art burnt as an hearth.

4 My heart is ſmitten, and withered like graſs: ſo that I forget to eat my bread.

5 By reaſon of the voice of my groaning, my bones cleave to my ſkin.

6 I am like a pelican of the wilderneſs: I am like an owl of the deſert.

7 I watch, and am as a ſparrow alone upon the houſe-top.

8 Mine enemies reproach me all the day; and they that are mad againſt me, are ſworn againſt me.

9 For I have eaten aſhes like bread, and mingled my drink with weeping:

10 Becauſe of thine indignation and thy wrath: for thou haſt lifted me up, and caſt me down.

11 My days are like a ſhadow that declineth: and I am withered like graſs.

12 But thou, O LORD, ſhalt endure for ever, and thy remembrance unto all generations.

13 Thou ſhalt ariſe, and have mercy upon Zion: for the time to favour her, yea, the ſet time is come.

14 For thy ſervants take pleaſure in her ſtones, and favour the duſt thereof.

15 So the heathen ſhall fear the name of the LORD: and all the kings of the earth thy glory.

16 When the LORD ſhall build up Zion, he ſhall appear in his glory.

NOTES on Pſalm CII.

This prayer was compoſed by ſome pious perſon, about the end of the Babyloniſh captivity, who was overwhelmed to ſee the temple lie waſte, and the city of Jeruſalem reduced to an heap of ruins; and it is alſo well adapted to the condition of any perſon under grievous calamities, who implores the divine favour for help and deliverance. This is the fifth among the ſeven, which are called Penitential pſalms.

Ver. 3. For my days are conſumed like ſmoke.] For my days are ſpent as diſmally as if I was involved in a cloud of ſmoke, and the anguiſh I feel, is ſo ſharp, that it penetrates to my very bones, and makes them as parched and dry, as the fire doth the hearth.

Ver. 6. Like a pelican of the wilderneſs.] Doctor Shaw obſerves, that the pelican has lasge webbed feet, and a capacious pouch, which, from the manner of catching his food, which can only be in the water, ſhows it entirely to be a water-fowl, that muſt of neceſſity ſtarve in the wilderneſs; and therefore this cannot be the bird here intended. But Calmet ſays, there are two kinds of pelicans, one of which lives in the water, and feeds upon fiſh; the other in the wilderneſs, and feeds upon ſerpents, and other reptiles.

Like an owl of the deſert.] Poole, and ſeveral commentators, think the bird here intended, is not the owl, but the Onocratilus or bittern; ſo called from making a noiſe like an aſs; for he puts his head into the water, and breathing into it, makes a noiſe reſembling the braying of an aſs.

> ——— ——— ——— ſo that ſcarce
> The bittern knows his time, with bill ingulpht
> To ſhake the ſounding marſh. THOMSON.

The ſenſe of the verſe is—I take no delight in the company of my friends, but ſeek for ſolitary places to mourn, and give a vent to my grief.

Ver. 7. I watch, and am as a ſparrow alone, &c.] A ſparrow cannot be the bird here meant; for he is not a ſolitary, but a gregarious bird; does not uſe to watch, but ſleep at night. The generality of interpreters ſuppoſe the bird here intended, to be ſome ſort of owl.

Ver. 9. I have eaten aſhes.] This phraſe is taken from the cuſtom of laying down in great ſorrows and mournings, with their faces upon the ground, among duſt and aſhes. 2 Sam. xii. 16. and Job ii. 8.

3 Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diſeaſes.

4 Who redeemeth thy life from deſtruction: who crowneth thee with loving kindneſs and tender mercies.

5 Who ſatisfieth thy mouth with good things: ſo that thy youth is renewed like the eagles.

8 The LORD is merciful and gracious, ſlow to anger, and plenteous in mercy.

9 He will not always chide: neither will he keep his anger for ever.

10 He hath not dealt with us after our ſins: nor rewarded us according to our iniquities.

11 For as the heaven is high above the earth: ſo great is his mercy toward them that fear him.

12 As far as the eaſt is from the weſt: ſo far hath he removed our tranſgreſſions from us.

13 Like as a father pitieth his children: ſo the LORD pitieth them that fear him.

14 For he knoweth our frame: he remembereth that we are duſt.

15 As for man, his days are as graſs: as a flower of the field, ſo he flouriſheth.

Ver. 23. He weakened my ſtrength in the way, &c.] I had hopes to have lived to ſee this bleſſed time, and thought I had been in the way to it, (Ezra iii. 8, &c.) but he hath ſtopped our vigorous beginnings, (Ezra iv. 4.) and thereby ſo ſorely afflicted me, that I feel I am like to fall ſhort of my expectations.

NOTES on Pſalm CIII.

This pſalm was compoſed by David, on his recovery from a dangerous fit of ſickneſs; and is an excellent example for all who have eſcaped the ſame danger, and are deſirous of returning thanks to God, the reſtorer of their health, and the giver of every good thing they enjoy.

Ver. 5. Thy youth is renewed like the eagles.] Eagles moult their feathers often, which might give riſe to the vulgar opinion, that they grew young again after they had been old. It is ſaid their feathers fall by pairs, one in each wing; and that thoſe which fall at once, are the two feathers exactly correſponding to each other, in each wing; and that this pair is renewed by a new growth, before the next pair falls.

16 For the wind paſſeth over it, and it is gone; and the place thereof ſhall know it no more.

17 But the mercy of the LORD is from everlaſting to everlaſting upon them that fear him: and his righteouſneſs unto childrens children:

18 To ſuch as keep his covenant, and to thoſe that remember his commandments to do them.

19 The LORD hath prepared his throne in the heavens: and his kingdom ruleth over all.

20 Bleſs the LORD, ye his angels, that excel in ſtrength, that do his commandments, hearkening unto the voice of his word.

21 Bleſs ye the LORD, all ye his hoſts, ye miniſters of his that do his pleaſure.

NOTES on Pſalm CIV.

From the ſubject matter of this pſalm, it is not an improbable conjecture, that David compoſed it in the foreſt of Hareth, where he was daily ſurrounded with thoſe paſtoral ſcenes he ſo finely deſcribes. After ſome general obſervations upon the works and wiſdom of God in the creation, the pſalmiſt deſcends to the following particulars; the riſe of ſprings, the courſe of rivers, the retreat of fowls, and wild beaſts of the foreſt and mountains, the viciſſitudes of days and nights, and their various uſes to the animal world; the dependance of the whole creation upon the Almighty for being and ſubſiſtence.—He withdraws their breath, and they die.—He breaths, and they revive.—He opens his hand, and ſatisfies them all at once. Theſe are ideas familiar to him, and his manner of introducing them, plainly evinces them to be the effect of his moſt retired meditations, in his ſolitary wanderings.

Ver. 2. Who covereſt thyſelf with light, &c.] Thy royal robe is formed of the reſplendent rays of light, and the ſpacious heavens are the grand pavilion, which thy ſovereign power hath extended, like a canopy for thy majeſty, in this grand palace of the world.

Ver. 3. Who layeth the beams of his chambers in the waters.] This expreſſion ſignifies no more, than that the rain falls down on the earth from the heaven.

Who walketh upon the wings of the wind] In this expreſſion there is an elegance, an emphaſis unequalled in any writer.—Not he flieth, he runneth, but he walketh, and that on the very wings of the wind, on the moſt impetuous of elements, rouſed into its utmoſt rage, and ſweeping along with inconceivable rapidity. A tumult in nature, not to be deſcribed in the ſedate work of the Deity. How flat are all the lines of profane authors, when compared with this inimitable ſtroke of divine poetry! He walketh upon the wings of the wind. The wings of the wind, carry an idea of the utmoſt fierceneſs and velocity; and it is impoſſible to imagine the ſerene and deliberate walking of the Deity, upon a creature of the moſt inconceivable ſwiftneſs, without being filled with the deepeſt wonder and amazement.

Ver. 4. Who maketh his angels, &c.] Who maketh the winds his meſſengers, and flaming fire his miniſters.

Ver. 5. Who laid the foundations of the earth, &c.] Who hath ſettled the maſſy globe of the earth, even in the liquid air, upon ſuch firm foundations, that none of thoſe ſtorms and tempeſts which beat upon it from without, nor any violent commotions from within, can ever cauſe it to deviate from the orbit thou haſt preſcribed for it, in the regions of univerſal ſpace.

Ver. 6, 7. Thou covereſt it with the deep, &c.] The earth, at firſt, was covered with waters, as with a garment; the higheſt mountains did not reach to its ſurface: but at thy command they ſtarted back; at the voice of thy thunder they haſted away.

go down by the valleys unto the place which thou haſt founded for them.

9 Thou haſt ſet a bound that they may not paſs over: that they turn not again to cover the earth.

10 He ſendeth the ſprings into the valleys, which run among the hills.

11 They give drink to every beaſt of the field: the wild aſſes quench their thirſt.

12 By them ſhall the fowls of the heaven have their habitation, which ſing among the branches.

13 He watereth the hills from his chambers: the earth is ſatisfied with the fruit of thy works.

14 He cauſeth the graſs to grow for the cattle, and herb for the ſervice of man: that he may bring forth food out of the earth:

15 And wine that maketh glad the heart of man, and oil to make his face to ſhine, and bread which ſtrengtheneth mans heart.

16 The trees of the LORD are full of ſap: the cedars of Lebanon which he hath planted.

17 Where the birds make their neſt: as for the ſtork, the fir-trees are her houſe.

18 The high hills are a refuge for the wild goats, and the rocks for the conies.

19 He appointeth the moon for ſeaſons; the ſun knoweth his going down.

20 Thou makeſt darkneſs, and it is night: wherein all the beaſts of the foreſt do creep forth.

21 The young lions roar after their prey, and ſeek their meat from God.

22 The ſun ariſeth, they gather themſelves together, and lay them down in their dens.

23 Man goeth forth to his work, and to his labour until the evening.

24 O LORD, how manifold are thy works! in wiſdom haſt thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches.

25 So is this great and wide ſea, wherein are things creeping innumerable, both ſmall and great beaſts.

26 There go the ſhips; there is that leviathan, whom thou haſt made to play therein.

27 Theſe wait all upon thee: that thou mayeſt give them their meat in due ſeaſon.

28 That thou giveſt them, they gather: thou openeſt thine hand, they are filled with good.

29 Thou hideſt thy face, they are troubled; thou takeſt away their breath, they die, and return to their duſt.

30 Thou ſendeſt forth thy ſpirit, they are created: and thou reneweſt the face of the earth.

31 The glory of the LORD ſhall endure for ever: the LORD ſhall rejoice in his works:

32 He looketh on the earth, and it trembleth; he toucheth the hills, and they ſmoke.

33 I will ſing unto the LORD as long as I live: I will ſing praiſes unto my God, while I have my being.

34 My meditation of him ſhall be ſweet: I will be glad in the LORD.

Ver. 10. He ſendeth the ſprings into the valleys, &c.] This thought was conſiſtent with the philoſophy of the ancients; but does not agree with the opinion of the moſt modern philoſophers, who account for the ſprings which are found on the tops of hills, not by ſubterraneous paſſages from the ſea, and percolation through the earth, but by vapours exhaled from the ſea, and other large collections of waters, ſtriking againſt the ſummits of thoſe hills, and there received in the ſeveral cavities, which are as ſo many natural baſons or ciſterns. The quantity of which vapour, has been demonſtrated by the late ingenious Dr. Halley, to be ſufficient for the ſupply of the rivulets and ſtreams falling from thoſe heights.

Ver. 19. The ſun knoweth his going down.] This expreſſion is likewiſe accommodated to the ancient ſyſtem of aſtronomy, which ſuppoſed the ſun to move round the earth.

Ver. 26. Leviathan.] It is difficult to determine what creature is here meant. Some think it is the crocodile; others the whale; and others again, take it for a general name for all large ſea-fiſhes.

Notes on Pſalm CV.

Though this pſalm has no title, yet it is evident, from 1 Chron. xvi. 7. &c. that David was the author of the firſt part of it at leaſt, and that he delivered it to Aſaph and his brethren, to be conſtantly uſed in the ſervice of God in the tabernacle, when, after obtaining ſeveral memorable victories over the Philiſtines, he had ſettled the ark in mount Sion: and very probably, he afterwards enlarged this pſalm, that it might be a more complete commemoration of all the mercies of God towards the Hebrews, from the days of Abraham, to the time of their taking poſſeſſion of the promiſed land.

34 He ſpake, and the locuſts came: and caterpillars, and that without number,

Ver. 28. They rebelled not againſt his word.] The Liturgy tranſlation is directly contradictory; They were not obedient unto his word; to reconcile this difference, many learned men have ſuppoſed, that a ſlight, but very ancient corruption has crept into the Septuagint, by the careleſsneſs of a tranſcriber, who, inſtead of OUTE, wrote OTI; which error has been copied by thoſe verſions which have followed it. According to the original text, the Liturgy ſhould have been tranſlated thus: Neither were they diſobedient unto his word.

Ver. 39. He ſpread a cloud for a covering, &c.] The intenſeneſs of the cold and heat in theſe countries, by night or by day, very emphatically accounts for this proviſion of providence, in ſpreading out for the Iſraelites, a cloud for a covering from the daily heat, and a fire to diſpel the nightly cold.

NOTES on Pſalm CVI.

This pſalm is intitled Hallelujah, praiſe the Lord; but neither the author, nor the occaſion of it are mentioned. It ſeems, however, to have been written by David, and to be one of the pſalms he delivered to Aſaph, when he had prepared a tabernacle for the ark.

Ver. 7. Our fathers underſtood not.] The Septuagint Our fathers regarded not.

ders in Egypt, they remembered not the multitude of thy mercies, but provoked him at the ſea, even at the Red ſea.

8 Nevertheleſs, he ſaved them for his names ſake: that he might make his mighty power to be known.

9 He rebuked the Red ſea alſo, and it was dried up: ſo he led them through the depths as through the wilderneſs.

10 And he ſaved them from the hand of him that hated them: and redeemed them from the hand of the enemy.

11 And the waters covered their enemies: there was not one of them left.

12 Then believed they his words, they ſang his praiſe.

13 They ſoon forgat his works, they waited not for his counſel:

14 But luſted exceedingly in the wilderneſs, and tempted God in the deſert.

15 And he gave them their requeſt, but ſent leanneſs unto their ſoul.

16 They envied Moſes alſo in the camp, and Aaron the ſaint of the LORD.

17 The earth opened and ſwallowed up Dathan, and covered the company of Abiram.

18 And a fire was kindled in their company; the flame burnt up the wicked.

19 They made a calf in Horeb, and worſhipped the molten image.

20 Thus they changed their glory into the ſimilitude of an ox that eateth graſs.

21 They forgat God their ſaviour, which had done great things in Egypt:

22 Wonderous works in the land of Ham, and terrible things by the Red ſea.

23 Therefore he ſaid that he would deſtroy them, had not Moſes his choſen ſtood before him in the breach: to turn away his wrath, leſt he ſhould deſtroy them.

24 Yea, they deſpiſed the pleaſant land: they believed not his word:

25 But murmured in their tents, and hearkened not unto the voice of the LORD.

26 Therefore he lifted up his hand againſt them, to overthrow them in the wilderneſs:

27 To overthrow their ſeed alſo among the nations, and to ſcatter them in the lands.

28 They joined themſelves alſo unto Baal-peor, and ate the ſacrifices of the dead.

29 Thus they provoked him to anger with their inventions: and the plague brake in upon them.

30 Then ſtood up Phinehas, and executed judgment: and ſo the plague was ſtayed.

31 And that was counted unto him for righteouſneſs, unto all generations for evermore.

32 They angred him alſo at the waters of ſtrife, ſo that it went ill with Moſes for their ſakes:

33 Becauſe they provoked his ſpirit, ſo that he ſpake unadviſedly with his lips.

34 They did not deſtroy the nations, concerning whom the LORD commanded them:

Ver. 13. They waited not for his counſel.] They were impatient, and murmured, and would not wait till he ſhewed what way he intended to relieve them.

Ver. 15. Leanneſs.] The Septuagint and Vulgate read, A loathing or ſurfeit.

Ver. 26. He lifted up his hand againſt them.] It ſhould have been rendered, He ſware unto them; as the ſame phraſe is tranſlated, pſalm xcv. 11. Unto whom I ſware in my wrath, &c.

Ver. 28. Ate the ſacrifices of the dead.] They committed whoredom with the daughters of Moab, and devoted themſelves to the ſervice of Baal, whoſe temple ſtood on mount Peor, and partook with them in ſacrifices which they offered to dead men. Numb. xxv. 1, 2, 3.

Ver. 30. Phinehas executed judgment.] The Septuagint and Vulgate render this, by a word that ſignifies propitiated. Litur. Phinehas ſtood up, and prayed.

Ver. 33. He ſpake unadviſedly.] The Septuagint reads, He ſpoke doubtfully, or diſtruſtfully.

35 But were mingled among the heathen, and learned their works.

36 And they ſerved their idols: which were a ſnare unto them.

37 Yea, they ſacrificed their ſons and their daughters unto devils,

38 And ſhed innocent blood, even the blood of their ſons and of their daughters, whom they ſacrificed unto the idols of Canaan: and the land was polluted with blood.

39 Thus were they defiled with their own works, and went a whoring with their own inventions.

40 Therefore was the wrath of the LORD kindled againſt his people, inſomuch that he abhorred his own inheritance.

41 And he gave them into the hand of the heathen; and they that hated them, ruled over them.

42 Their enemies alſo oppreſſed them, and they were brought into ſubjection under their hand.

43 Many times did he deliver them, but they provoked him with their counſel, and were brought low for their iniquity.

44 Nevertheleſs, he regarded their affliction when he heard their cry.

45 And he remembered for them his covenant, and repented according to the multitude of his mercies.

46 He made them alſo to be pitied of all thoſe that carried them captives.

NOTES on Pſalm CVII.

The fifth and laſt book of pſalms, according to the Hebrew diviſion, begins here with an exhortation to theſe, whom God had delivered from the ſervitude of the heathen, to acknowledge his ſingular benefits, and praiſe him with the voice of thankſgiving; and from thence, to take occaſion to magnify his merciful providence over all the ſons of men, and the aſſiſtance he vouchſafeth to ſend them, when they call upon him in diſtreſs. The author of this pſalm is unknown; but from the connection of it with the two foregoing, it ſeems to have been David, who having, in pſalm 105, remembered them of the promiſes made to the patriarchs, and of the bleſſings beſtowed on their poſterity; and, in the 106th, of their horrid ingratitude for ſuch remarkable benefits, and the puniſhments he had inflicted upon them for their enormous crimes, declares, in this pſalm, the inexpreſſible kindneſs of the Lord, in freeing them from ſlavery, and his watchful providence over all mankind.

Ver. 2, 3. Let the redeemed of the Lord ſay ſo, &c.] Let them eſpecially animate one another, to give thanks unto the God of Jacob, whom he hath graciouſly redeemed from a deplorable captivity, whither they were carried by their conquering enemies; and who, by his Almighty power, have been re-eſtabliſhed in their own land, tho' diſperſed in places under the different quarters of heaven.

8 Oh that men would praiſe the LORD for his goodneſs, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!

10 Such as ſit in darkneſs and in the ſhadow of death, being bound in affliction and iron:

11 Becauſe they rebelled againſt the words of God, and contemned the counſel of the moſt High:

12 Therefore he brought down their heart with labour, they fell down and there was none to help.

13 Then they cried unto the LORD in their trouble, and he ſaved them out of their diſtreſſes.

14 He brought them out of darkneſs, and the ſhadow of death, and brake their bands in ſunder.

15 Oh that men would praiſe the LORD for his goodneſs, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!

16 For he hath broken the gates of braſs, and cut the bars of iron in ſunder.

17 Fools, becauſe of their tranſgreſſion, and becauſe of their iniquities, are afflicted.

18 Their ſoul abhoreth all manner of meat, and they draw near unto the gates of death.

19 Then they cry unto the LORD in their trouble, he ſaveth them out of their diſtreſſes.

20 He ſent his word, and healed them, and delivered them from their deſtructions.

21 Oh that men would praiſe the LORD for his goodneſs, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!

22 And let them ſacrifice the ſacrifices of thankſgiving, and declare his works with rejoicing.

23 They that go down to the ſea in ſhips, that do buſineſs in great waters:

24 Theſe ſee the works of the LORD, and his wonders in the deep.

25 For he commandeth, and raiſeth the ſtormy wind, which lifteth up the waves thereof.

26 They mount up to the heaven, they go down again to the depths, their ſoul is melted becauſe of trouble.

27 They reel to and fro, and ſtagger like a drunken man, and are at their wits end.

28 Then they cry unto the LORD in their trouble, and he bringeth them out of their diſtreſſes.

29 He maketh a ſtorm a calm, ſo that the waves thereof are ſtill.

30 Then are they glad becauſe they be quiet; ſo he bringeth them unto their deſired haven.

31 Oh that men would praiſe the LORD for his goodneſs, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!

32 Let them exalt him alſo in the congregation of the people, and praiſe him in the aſſembly of the elders.

NOTES on Pſalm CVIII.

The former part of this pſalm is nearly the ſame with the five laſt verſes of the 57th; and the latter part is but very little different from the eight laſt verſes of the 60th pſalm, which was compoſed by David, when he had made ſome progreſs in the wars mentioned in that pſalm; (ſee note on pſalm 60.) and therefore he begins this, with giving thanks to God for his mercy; as there he laments the diſorder in which he found the affairs of the kingdom when he firſt aſcended the throne.

Ver. 7, 8, 9. See note on pſalm xl. 6, 7, 8.

NOTES on Pſalm CIX.

What diſtreſs have thouſands of ſerious and thinking men felt in reading this pſalm, in which it is generally ſuppoſed, that David uttered ſuch curſes upon his enemies; and yet, when the pſalm is conſidered, it clearly contains the curſes of David's enemies upon David: for the curſes are not againſt many, but one perſon only; (ſome indeed direct theſe curſes as from David againſt Doeg) but it is more agreeable to reaſon, and the pious character of the royal pſalmiſt, to conſider them as pronounced by his enemies. This is moſt probable, as may be collected from ver. 3, and 28.

Ver. 18. Like oil into his bones.] There is nothing more pernicious to a naked bone, than to put oil, or any other moiſture upon it, which will cauſe a miſerable corruption therein: on which account it is, that the moſt ſkilful ſurgeons, in treating about the diſeaſes of the bones, do moſt carefully warn their readers againſt the ſame.

Ver. 20. Let this be the reward of mine adverſaries.] Perhaps it may be objected, that in this verſe David ſeems to make theſe curſes his own; but as there is no word here expreſſive of a wiſh in the Hebrew, perhaps the words ſhould be rendered, This is the behaviour of mine adverſaries with reſpect to Jehovah, or before Jehovah.

NOTES on Pſalm CX.

It is abundantly evident, that the royal prophet here ſpeaks of ſome perſon greater than himſelf, whom he calls his Lord; and this can be no other than the great Meſſiah, the Redeemer of the human race; for no other king can, in any ſenſe, be ſaid to ſit at God's right hand; nor was there any prieſt of the order of Melchizedek that could be a type of him.

Ver. 1. The Lord ſaid unto my Lord, &c.] This is the decree of God himſelf, that the Meſſiah whom we expect, and whom I honour as my Lord and Maſter, ſhall, after his ſufferings, be advanced to the higheſt dignity in the heavens, and reign with him as the ſovereign of all the earth, till he hath perfectly ſubdued the moſt powerful oppoſers of his kingdom, and overcome even death itſelf, by whom all mankind are conquered.

Ver. 2. The Lord ſhall ſend the rod of thy ſtrength out of Zion, &c.] The eternal God, who has thus decreed to honour thee, O moſt mighty prince, will firſt make Zion feel the power of thy ſceptre, and thence extend thy empire over all the earth, where thou ſhalt prevail over infidelity, idolatry, ſuperſtition, and impiety, which will all oppoſe thy authority.

Ver. 3. Thy people ſhall be willing in the day of thy power, &c.] Thoſe who fought under thy banner, being ready armed, ſhall march forth to ſubdue the world unto thy obedience; the light of thy goſpel has ſhone brighter than the morning, after the long and dark night of ignorance; innumerable multitudes have come over to thee at thy firſt appearance, innumerable, as the pearly drops of morning dew.

Ver. 4. Thou art a prieſt for ever, &c.] The Lord hath unchangeably reſolved, that thou ſhalt be a prieſt as well as a king, with full power to bleſs all thy ſubjects, not only in that age, but even to all eternity; for thou ſhalt be a prieſt, not like thoſe deſcended from Aaron, who die, and are ſucceeded by others; but, like that great king and prieſt Melchizedek, ſhalt have neither predeceſſor nor ſucceſſor in thine office, but continue a royal prieſt for evermore.

Ver. 5. The Lord at thy right hand, &c.] This may be ſpoken, either to God the father, at whoſe right-hand Chriſt ſitteth; or to the people of God; Chriſt being ſaid to ſtand at the right-hand of his people. Pſalm cix. 31.

PRaiſe ye the Lord. I will praiſe the Lord with my whole heart, in the aſſembly of the upright, and in the congregation.

2 The works of the Lord are great, ſought out of all them that have pleaſure therein.

3 His work is honourable and glorious and his righteouſneſs endureth for ever.

4 He hath made his wonderful works to be remembered: the Lord is gracious and full of compaſſion.

5 He hath given meat unto them that fear him: he will ever be mindful of his covenant.

6 He hath ſhewed his people the power of his works, that he may give them the heritage of the heathen.

7 The works of his hands are verity and judgment; all his commandments are ſure.

8 They ſtand faſt for ever and ever, and are done in truth and uprightneſs.

9 He ſent redemption unto his people, he hath commanded his covenant for ever: holy and reverend is his name.

10 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wiſdom: a good underſtanding have all they that do his commandments: his praiſe endureth for ever.

PSAL. CXII.

1 Godlineſs hath the promiſes of this life, 4 and of the life to come. 10 The proſperity of the godly ſhall be an eye-ſore to the wicked.

PRaiſe ye the Lord. Bleſſed is the man that feareth the Lord, that delighteth greatly in his commandments.

2 His ſeed ſhall be mighty upon earth: the generation of the upright ſhall be bleſſed.

3 Wealth and riches ſhall be in his houſe: and his righteouſneſs endureth for ever.

4 Unto the upright there ariſeth light in the darkneſs: he is gracious, and full of compaſſion, and righteous.

5 A good man ſheweth favour, and lendeth; he will guide his affairs with diſcretion.

6 Surely he ſhall not be moved for ever:

with ſuch proviſion as he meets with in his way; for which cauſe, after enduring many hardſhips, and even death itſelf, he ſhall be highly exalted to his royal and prieſtly dignity in the heavens, from which he ſhall never be removed: or thus, He ſhall drink of the brook in the way. He ſhall not be left barely to his human nature, which muſt unavoidably ſink under the tremendous work of recovering a loſt world; but through the whole courſe of his incarnated ſtate, through the whole adminiſtration of his mediatorial kingdom, ſhall be ſupported with omnipotent ſuccours. He ſhall drink at the brook of Almighty power, and travel on in the greatneſs of an uncreated ſtrength; therefore ſhall he lift up his head: by this means, he ſhall be equal to the prodigious taſk, and ſuperior to all oppoſition: by this means, he ſhall be thoroughly ſucceſsful in whatever he undertakes, and greatly triumphant over all his enemies.

Notes on Pſalm CXI.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed, as a compendious remembrance of thoſe mercies David had received from the moſt High, which he has enumerated more at large in the 115th and 116th pſalms. It is remarkable, that this pſalm is, in the original, very artificially compoſed, conſiſting of as many ſhort metres, as there are letters in the Hebrew alphabet; and each of thoſe ſhort metres, or little ſentences, beginning with thoſe letters, in the ſame order as they ſtand in the alphabet: the pſalm properly begins with, I will praiſe the Lord, &c. Hallelujah; Praiſe ye the Lord, being here only a kind of title to it, or a direction to the ſingers.

Ver. 10. The fear of the Lord, &c.] The principal point of wiſdom, is to fear the Lord; for, by practiſing them, a much better underſtanding is obtained, than from all the refined maxims of policy. See note on Job xxviii. 28.

Notes on Pſalm CXII.

This pſalm was probably wrote by the ſame author with the foregoing, and ſeems to be a commentary on the laſt verſe of it, ſhewing how wiſely they conſult their own happineſs, who obſerve the commands of the Lord; eſpecially thoſe relating to charity, and the love of our neighbour: it is likewiſe compoſed in the ſame artificial manner as the foregoing.

the righteous ſhall be in everlaſting remembrance.

7 He ſhall not be afraid of evil tidings: his heart is fixed, truſting in the LORD.

8 His heart is eſtabliſhed, he ſhall not be afraid, until he ſee his deſire upon his enemies.

9 He hath diſperſed, he hath given to the poor; his righteouſneſs endureth for ever; his horn ſhall be exalted with honour.

10 The wicked ſhall ſee it, and be grieved; he ſhall gnaſh with his teeth, and melt away: the deſire of the wicked ſhall periſh.

PSAL. CXIII.

1 An exhortation to praiſe God for his excellency, 6 for his mercy.

Praiſe ye the LORD. Praiſe, O ye ſervants of the LORD, praiſe the name of the LORD.

2 Bleſſed be the name of the LORD, from this time forth and for evermore.

3 From the riſing of the ſun unto the going down of the ſame, the LORDS name is to be praiſed.

4 The LORD is high above all nations, and his glory above the heavens.

5 Who is like unto the LORD our God, who dwelleth on high?

6 Who humbleth himſelf to behold the things that are in heaven, and in the earth?

7 He raiſeth up the poor out of the duſt, and lifteth the needy out of the dunghil:

8 That he may ſet him with princes, even with the princes of his people.

9 He maketh the barren woman to keep houſe, and to be a joyful mother of children. Praiſe ye the LORD.

PSAL. CXIV.

An exhortation by the example of the dumb creatures to fear God in his church.

When Iſrael went out of Egypt, the houſe of Jacob from a people of ſtrange language;

2 Judah was his ſanctuary, and Iſrael his dominion.

3 The ſea ſaw it, and fled; Jordan was driven back.

4 The mountains ſkipped like rams, and the little hills like lambs.

5 What ailed thee, O thou ſea, that thou fleddeſt? thou Jordan, that thou waſt driven back?

6 Ye mountains, that ye ſkipped like rams; and ye little hills like lambs?

7 Tremble thou earth at the preſence of the Lord, at the preſence of the God of Jacob.

8 Which turned the rock into a ſtanding water, the flint into a fountain of waters.

PSAL. CXV.

1 Becauſe God is truly glorious, 4 and idols

Ver. 9. His righteouſneſs, &c.] Righteouſneſs here, ſignifies alms.

NOTE on Pſalm CXIII.

The Hebrews call this pſalm, and the five next following, by the name of Hallel, or hymns, which they recited at their tables in the new-moons, and other feaſts; eſpecially in the paſchal night, after they had eaten the lamb, concluding it with Hallelujah, to excite all the people of God, eſpecially thoſe who conſtantly attended in his tabernacle, to praiſe the benevolent providence of the moſt High, which extends to this lower world, and ſupplies the wants of all its inhabitants.

NOTES on Pſalm CXIV.

This pſalm contains a brief narration of ſome miraculous works, whereby the Lord declared his power, when he brought the poſterity of Jacob out of the Egyptian bondage.

Ver. 2. Judah was his ſanctuary, &c.] There was a moſt glorious appearance of God among them, by that luminous cloud, the token of his preſence, which then had no other place for its ſanctuary, but ſtood over the whole camp of Iſrael, whom he then took for his peculiar kingdom.

Ver. 4. The mountains ſkipped like rams.] They trembled greatly. See pſalm xxix. 6.

NOTES on Pſalm CXV.

Dr. Delany, upon a ſuppoſition, that by the blind and the lame, 2 Sam. v. 6. are meant the idols which the Jebuſites worſhipped, ſuppoſes this pſalm to be a triumphal ſong for David's victory over the Jebuſites; it being are vanity, 9 he exhorteth to confidence in God. 12 God is to be bleſſed for his bleſſings.

NOt unto us, O LORD, not unto us, but unto thy name give glory, for thy mercy, and for thy truths ſake.

2 Wherefore ſhould the heathen ſay, Where is now their God?

3 But our God is in the heavens, he hath done whatſoever he pleaſed.

4 Their idols are ſilver and gold, the work of mens hands.

5 They have mouths, but they ſpeak not; eyes have they, but they ſee not.

6 They have ears, but they hear not; noſes have they, but they ſmell not.

7 They have hands, but they handle not; feet have they, but they walk not; neither ſpeak they through their throat.

8 They that make them, are like unto them; ſo is every one that truſteth in them.

9 O Iſrael, truſt thou in the LORD: he is their help and their ſhield.

10 O houſe of Aaron, truſt in the LORD: he is their help and their ſhield.

11 Ye that fear the LORD, truſt in the LORD: he is their help and their ſhield.

12 The LORD hath been mindful of us, he will bleſs us, he will bleſs the houſe of Iſrael, he will bleſs the houſe of Aaron.

13 He will bleſs them that fear the LORD, both ſmall and great.

14 The LORD ſhall increaſe you more and more, you and your children.

15 You are bleſſed of the LORD, which made heaven and earth.

16 The heaven, even the heavens are the LORDS: but the earth hath he given to the children of men.

17 The dead praiſe not the LORD, neither any that go down into ſilence.

18 But we will bleſs the LORD, from this time forth and for evermore. Praiſe the LORD.

PSAL. CXVI.

1 The pſalmiſt profeſſeth his love and duty to God for his deliverance: 12 He ſtudieth to be thankful.

I Love the LORD, becauſe he hath heard my voice, and my ſupplications.

2 Becauſe he hath inclined his ear unto me, therefore will I call upon him as long as I live.

3 The ſorrows of death compaſſed me, and the pains of hell gat hold upon me: I found trouble and ſorrow.

4 Then called I upon the name of the LORD; O LORD, I beſeech thee, deliver my ſoul.

5 Gracious is the LORD, and righteous: yea, our God is merciful.

6 The LORD preſerveth the ſimple: I was brought low, and he helped me.

ing plainly a hymn of humiliation and thankſgiving to God, for a victory gained over a heathen people, who put their confidence in idols, and deſpiſed the God of David.

Ver. 17. The dead praiſe not the Lord.] By the dead, are moſt properly characterized the gentile nations, who having no part in God's covenant of redemption, but being eſtranged from him by their idolatries and wickedneſſes, were to be left for ever in the ſtate of death, ſo as never more to riſe to happineſs; at leaſt, while God's people hoped for a joyful reſurrection, and a future ſtate of bleſſedneſs.

NOTES on Pſalm CXVI.

This pſalm was certainly wrote by David, when he fled from his rebellious ſon, and when Ahitophel, and others of his friends, joined the rebels, and he had nothing to depend upon but the goodneſs of the Almighty, who was pleaſed to plead his cauſe, and deliver him; for which reaſon, he reſolved to be truly thankful, and to call upon all his friends to rejoice with him.

Ver. 3. The ſorrows of death.] In the old tranſlation, it is ſnares. The pſalmiſt alludes here to the ancient manner of hunting: they uſed to ſurround a conſiderable tract of ground with a circle of nets, and afterwards contracted the circle by degrees, till they had forced all the beaſts of that quarter into a narrow compaſs, and then the ſlaughter began: the ſame cuſtom obtained in Italy.

Before Christ

7 Return unto thy reſt, O my ſoul, for the LORD hath dealt bountifully with thee.

8 For thou haſt delivered my ſoul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling.

9 I will walk before the LORD in the land of the living.

10 I believed, therefore have I ſpoken: I was greatly afflicted.

11 I ſaid in my haſte, All men are liars.

12 What ſhall I render unto the LORD, for all his benefits towards me?

13 I will take the cup of ſalvation, and call upon the name of the LORD.

14 I will pay my vows unto the LORD, now in the preſence of all his people.

15 Precious in the ſight of the LORD, is the death of his ſaints.

16 Oh LORD, truly I am thy ſervant, I am thy ſervant, and the ſon of thine handmaid: thou haſt looſed my bonds.

17 I will offer to thee the ſacrifice of thankſgiving, and will call upon the name of the LORD.

18 I will pay my vows unto the LORD, now in the preſence of all his people:

19 In the courts of the LORDS houſe, in the midſt of thee, O Jeruſalem. Praiſe ye the LORD.

PSAL. CXVII.

An exhortation to praiſe God for his mercy and truth.

O Praiſe the LORD, all ye nations: praiſe him, all ye people.

Before Christ

2 For his merciful kindneſs is great towards us: and the truth of the LORD endureth for ever. Praiſe ye the LORD.

PSAL. CXVIII.

1 An exhortation to praiſe God for his mercy. 5 The pſalmiſt by his experience ſheweth how good it is to truſt in God. 19 Under the type of the pſalmiſt, the the coming of Chriſt in his kingdom is expreſſed.

O Give thanks unto the LORD, for he is good: becauſe his mercy endureth for ever.

2 Let Iſrael now ſay, that his mercy endureth for ever.

3 Let the houſe of Aaron now ſay, that his mercy endureth for ever.

4 Let them now that fear the LORD ſay, that his mercy endureth for ever.

5 I called upon the LORD in diſtreſs: the LORD anſwered me, and ſet me in a large place.

6 The LORD is on my ſide, I will not fear: what can man do unto me?

7 The LORD taketh my part with them that help me: therefore ſhall I ſee my deſire upon them that hate me.

8 It is better to truſt in the LORD, than to put confidence in man.

9 It is better to truſt in the LORD, than to put confidence in princes.

Ver. 11. I ſaid in my haſte, all men are liars.] In my flight from Abſalom, I ſaid, the arm of fleſh can afford me no relief; men are either deceitful, and will not, or impotent, and therefore cannot deliver me from this diſtreſs.

NOTE on Pſalm CXVII.

This pſalm, like the 110th, ſeems to be altogether prophetical of the joy that all the world ſhould conceive at the coming of the Meſſiah, to give ſalvation to the Jews firſt, and afterwards to all the nations of the earth, according to his faithful promiſe.

NOTES on Pſalm CXVIII.

This pſalm was compoſed by David, after God had ſettled him on the throne of Iſrael, as well as Judah, and ſubdued all his enemies round about him. Several paſſages of it relate to the Meſſiah, and were never fulfilled till our great Redeemer was made king of the world. It ſeems to have been pronounced or ſung alternately by the king and the people; all the firſt part by David: at the 19th verſe, he calls upon the porters to open the gates, that he might praiſe God in his ſanctuary, which he does, at the 20th and 21ſt verſes—the 22d, 23d, and 24th, are ſung by the people, who magnify the divine goodneſs, in making him, who was baniſhed from his country, their king: the 25th ſeems to be ſung by David. At the 26th and 27th, the prieſts come forth, and bleſs both the king and the people in the name of the Lord, and exhort them to be thankful.—Then David, at the 28th and 29th, declares, that he will never be unmindful of God's benefits, deſiring the people alſo to remember them.

Before Chriſt

10 All nations compaſſed me about: but in the name of the LORD will I deſtroy them.

11 They compaſſed me about, yea, they compaſſed me about: but in the name of the LORD I will deſtroy them.

12 They compaſſed me about like bees, they are quenched as the fire of thorns: for in the name of the LORD I will deſtroy them.

13 Thou haſt thruſt ſore at me that I might fall: but the LORD helped me.

14 The LORD is my ſtrength and ſong, and is become my ſalvation.

15 The voice of rejoicing and ſalvation is in the tabernacles of the righteous: the right hand of the LORD doeth valiantly.

16 The right hand of the LORD is exalted: the right hand of the LORD doeth valiantly.

17 I ſhall not die, but live, and declare the works of the LORD.

18 The LORD hath chaſtened me ſore: but he hath not given me over unto death.

19 Open to me the gates of righteouſneſs: I will go into them, and I will praiſe the LORD:

20 This gate of the LORD, into which the righteous ſhall enter.

21 I will praiſe thee, for thou haſt heard me, and art become my ſalvation.

Before Chriſt.

22 The ſtone which the builders refuſed is become the head ſtone of the corner.

23 This is the LORDS doing, it is marvellous in our eyes.

24 This is the day which the LORD hath made, we will rejoice and be glad in it.

25 Save now, I beſeech thee, O LORD: O LORD, I beſeech thee, ſend now proſperity.

26 Bleſſed be he that cometh in the name of the LORD: we have bleſſed you out of the houſe of the LORD.

27 God is the LORD, which hath ſhewed us light; bind the ſacrifice with cords, even unto the horns of the altar.

28 Thou art my God, I will praiſe thee; thou art my God, I will exalt thee.

29 O give thanks unto the LORD, for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

PSAL. CXIX.

This pſalm containeth ſundry prayers, praiſes, and profeſſions of obedience.

ALEPH.

BLeſſed are the undefiled in the way, who walk in the law of the LORD.

2 Bleſſed are they that keep his teſtimonies, and that ſeek him with the whole heart.

Ver. 12. They are quenched as the fire of thorns.] This and the preceding ſentence are, by a notorious blunder, connected in the Liturgy tranſlation, as if they were one; whereas they are two very diſtinct and beautiful images.

Ver. 22. The ſtone which the builders refuſed, &c.] He whom the great men, and the rulers of the people rejected, is now become our king and our ſovereign, and in him alone we muſt truſt for ſafety.

Ver. 27. Bind the ſacrifice with cords, even to the horns of the altar.] The Septuagint and Vulgate read, Keep the feaſt with thick boughs (brought as far as) to the horns of the altar. There was no ſuch cuſtom as tying the ſacrifice that was to be killed to the horns of the altar.

NOTES on Pſalm CXIX.

This pſalm, of which David was the author, is written with great art; for it is not only divided into as many parts as there are letters in the Hebrew alphabet, but alſo each of theſe parts into eight verſes; each of which, in the original, begins with the ſame letter that forms the title of the part. For inſtance, all the eight verſes in the firſt part, termed Aleph, begins with ALEPH or A; and thoſe in the ſecond with BETH or B, &c. And hence, this pſalm is, in the Maſſora, ſtiled the great alphabet. But notwithſtanding the pains the royal author muſt have taken, in the compoſition of this pſalm, it appears, from ſeveral paſſages in it, that it was written during the perſecution of Saul. It muſt, however, be obſerved, that David had many intervals of reſt in that period, and theſe, it is natural to think, he employed in meditating on the goodneſs and mercy of the Almighty, the excellency of his laws, and the happineſs of thoſe who make them the conduct of their lives, and, in theſe meditations, the pſalm under conſideration, ſeems to have been compoſed.

Ver. 3. They alſo do no iniquity, &c.] The Liturgy reads, For they who do no wickedneſs walk in his ways. The Septuagint and Vulgate, For they who work wickedneſs do not walk in his ways.

4 Thou haſt commanded us to keep thy precepts diligently.

5 O that my ways were directed to keep thy ſtatutes!

6 Then ſhall I not be aſhamed, when I have reſpect unto all thy commandments.

7 I will praiſe thee with uprightneſs of heart, when I ſhall have learned thy righteous judgments.

8 I will keep thy ſtatutes: O forſake me not utterly.

BETH.

9 Wherewith ſhall a young man cleanſe his way? by taking heed thereto according to thy word.

10 With my whole heart have I ſought thee: O let me not wander from thy commandments.

11 Thy word have I hid in mine heart, that I might not ſin againſt thee.

12 Bleſſed art thou, O LORD: teach me thy ſtatutes.

13 With my lips have I declared all the judgments of thy mouth.

14 I have rejoiced in the way of thy teſtimonies, as much as in all riches.

15 I will meditate in thy precepts, and have reſpect unto thy ways.

16 I will delight myſelf in thy ſtatutes: I will not forget thy word.

GIMEL.

17 Deal bountifully with thy ſervant, that I may live and keep thy word.

18 Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wonderous things out of thy law.

19 I am a ſtranger in the earth, hide not thy commandments from me.

20 My ſoul breaketh for the longing that it hath unto thy judgments at all times.

21 Thou haſt rebuked the proud that are curſed, which do err from thy commandments.

22 Remove from me reproach and contempt, for I have kept thy teſtimonies.

23 Princes alſo did ſit and ſpeak againſt me: but thy ſervant did meditate in thy ſtatutes.

24 Thy teſtimonies alſo are my delight, and my counſellors.

DALETH.

25 My ſoul cleaveth unto the duſt: quicken thou me according to thy word.

26 I have declared my ways, and thou heardeſt me: teach me thy ſtatutes.

27 Make me to underſtand the way of thy precepts: ſo ſhall I talk of thy wonderous works.

28 My ſoul melteth for heavineſs: ſtrengthen thou me according unto thy word.

29 Remove from me the way of lying: and grant me thy law graciouſly.

30 I have choſen the way of truth: thy judgments have I laid before me.

31 I have ſtuck unto thy teſtimonies: O LORD, put me not to ſhame.

32 I will run the way of thy commandments, when thou ſhalt enlarge my heart.

HE.

33 Teach me, O LORD, the way of thy ſtatutes, and I ſhall keep it unto the end.

34 Give me underſtanding, and I ſhall keep thy law, yea, I ſhall obſerve it with my whole heart.

35 Make me to go in the path of thy commandments, for therein do I delight.

Ver. 18. Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wonderous things, &c.] Illuminate mine underſtanding, O thou great preſerver of men, that I may clearly diſcern the admirable wiſdom which appears in thy law.

Ver. 28. My ſoul melteth.] The Septuagint and Vulgate read, My ſoul hath ſlept; but probably, the tranſcribers of the Septuagint wrote enuſtaxe, inſtead of eſtaxe; and this both Ambroſe and Hilary aſſert.

Ver. 29. The way of lying.] Fraud and falſhood.

Ver. 32. I will run the way of thy commandments, when thou ſhalt enlarge my heart.] When thou haſt delivered me from my perſecutors, I will render thee better ſervice, and more chearfully perform all thy commandments.

36 Incline my heart unto thy teſtimonies, and not to covetouſneſs.

37 Turn away mine eyes from beholding vanity: and quicken thou me in thy way.

38 Stabliſh thy word unto thy ſervant, who is devoted to thy fear.

39 Turn away my reproach which I fear: for thy judgments are good.

40 Behold, I have longed after thy precepts: quicken me in thy righteouſneſs.

VAU.

41 Let thy mercies come alſo unto me, O LORD; even thy ſalvation according to thy word.

42 So ſhall I have wherewith to anſwer him that reproacheth me: for I truſt in thy word.

43 And take not the word of truth utterly out of my mouth; for I have hoped in thy judgments.

44 So ſhall I keep thy law continually, for ever and ever.

45 And I will walk at liberty: for I ſeek thy precepts.

46 I will ſpeak of thy teſtimonies alſo before kings, and will not be aſhamed.

47 And I will delight myſelf in thy commandments which I have loved.

48 My hands alſo will I lift up unto thy commandments which I have loved: and I will meditate in thy ſtatutes.

ZAIN.

49 Remember the word unto thy ſervant, upon which thou haſt cauſed me to hope.

50 This is my comfort in my affliction: for thy word hath quickened me.

51 The proud have had me greatly in deriſion: yet have I not declined from thy law.

52 I remembered thy judgments of old, O LORD; and have comforted myſelf.

53 Horror hath taken hold upon me, becauſe of the wicked that forſake thy law.

54 Thy ſtatutes have been my ſongs in the houſe of my pilgrimage.

55 I have remembered thy name, O LORD, in the night, and have kept thy law.

56 This I had: becauſe I kept thy precepts.

CHETH.

57 Thou art my portion, O LORD, I have ſaid, that I would keep thy words.

58 I intreated thy favour with my whole heart: be merciful unto me according to thy word.

59 I thought on my ways, and turned my feet unto thy teſtimonies.

60 I made haſte, and delayed not to keep thy commandments.

61 The bands of the wicked have robbed me: but I have not forgotten thy law.

62 At midnight I will riſe to give thanks unto thee: becauſe of thy righteous judgments.

63 I am a companion of all them that fear thee, and of them that keep thy precepts.

64 The earth, O LORD, is full of thy mercy: teach me thy ſtatutes.

TETH.

65 Thou haſt dealt well with thy ſervant, O LORD, according unto thy word.

66 Teach me good judgment, and knowledge: for I have believed thy commandments.

67 Before I was afflicted, I went aſtray: but now have I kept thy word.

68 Thou art good, and doeſt good; teach me thy ſtatutes.

Ver. 56. This I had.] This ſweet compoſure of mind and chearfulneſs of ſpirits.

Ver. 61. The bands of the wicked have robbed me.] The Septuagint and Vulgate read, The cords of the wicked have entangled me.

69 The proud have forged a lie againſt me: but I will keep thy precepts with my whole heart.

70 Their heart is as fat as greaſe, but I delight in thy law.

71 It is good for me that I have been afflicted: that I might learn thy ſtatutes.

72 The law of thy mouth is better unto me, than thouſands of gold and ſilver.

JOD.

73 Thy hands have made me and faſhioned me: give me underſtanding, that I may learn thy commandments.

74 They that fear thee, will be glad when they ſee me: becauſe I have hoped in thy word.

75 I know, O LORD, that thy judgments are right, and that thou in faithfulneſs haſt afflicted me.

76 Let, I pray thee, thy merciful kindneſs be for my comfort, according to thy word unto thy ſervant.

77 Let thy tender mercies come unto me, that I may live: for thy law is my delight.

78 Let the proud be aſhamed, for they dealt perverſly with me without a cauſe; but I will meditate in thy precepts.

79 Let thoſe that fear thee, turn unto me, and thoſe that have known thy teſtimonies.

80 Let my heart be ſound in thy ſtatutes; that I be not aſhamed.

CAPH.

81 My ſoul fainteth for thy ſalvation: but I hope in thy word.

82 Mine eyes fail for thy word, ſaying, When wilt thou comfort me?

83 For I am become like a bottle in the ſmoke: yet do I not forget thy ſtatutes.

84 How many are the days of thy ſervant? when wilt thou execute judgment on them that perſecute me?

85 The proud have digged pits for me, which are not after thy law.

86 All thy commandments are faithful: they perſecute me wrongfully; help thou me.

87 They had almoſt conſumed me upon earth: but I forſook not thy precepts.

88 Quicken me after thy loving kindneſs, ſo ſhall I keep the teſtimony of thy mouth.

LAMED.

89 For ever, O LORD, thy word is ſettled in heaven.

90 Thy faithfulneſs is unto all generations: thou haſt eſtabliſhed the earth, and it abideth.

91 They continue this day according to thine ordinances: for all are thy ſervants.

92 Unleſs thy law had been my delights, I ſhould then have periſhed in mine affliction.

93 I will never forget thy precepts: for with them thou haſt quickened me.

94 I am thine, ſave me: for I have ſought thy precepts.

95 The wicked have waited for me to deſtroy me: but I will conſider thy teſtimonies.

96 I have ſeen an end of all perfection; but thy commandment is exceeding broad.

MEM.

Ver. 70. Their heart is as fat as greaſe.] This paſſage is rightly tranſlated in the Greek, Latin, and Syriac, Their heart is curdled like milk, i. e. grown ſour and diſagreeable. It is very improperly rendered in the Liturgy, as fat as brawn; becauſe ſwine's fleſh, not being eaten among the Jews, they could have no knowledge of brawn.

Ver. 83. I am become like a bottle in the ſmoke.] That is, my ſkin is ſhrivelled up, like a bottle that has long hung in the ſmoke. Their bottles uſed to be made of leather.

Ver. 84. How many are the days, &c.] That is, How long muſt I groan under my diſtreſs and afflictions?

Ver. 88. Quicken me.] Raiſe me from this forlorn ſtate, wherein I lie, like a man dead and helpleſs.

Ver. 91. They continue.] That is, heaven and earth, ver. 89 and 90.

Ver. 96. An end of all perfection] The Chaldee renders it, Of all things, for which I have been ſollicitous, and which I expected. Poſſibly the pſalmiſt inſinuated, that the full time appointed for his afflictions was expired, agreeably to the divine decree, which illuſtrated the truth of his law, beyond what he could conceive.

MEM.

97 O how love I thy law! it is my meditation all the day.

98 Thou through thy commandments haſt made me wiſer than mine enemies: for they are ever with me.

99 I have more underſtanding than all my teachers: for thy teſtimonies are my meditation.

100 I underſtand more than the ancients: becauſe I keep thy precepts.

101 I have refrained my feet from every evil way: that I might keep thy word.

102 I have not departed from thy judgments: for thou haſt taught me.

103 How ſweet are thy words unto my taſte! yea, ſweeter than hony to my mouth.

104 Through thy precepts I get underſtanding: therefore I hate every falſe way.

NUN.

105 Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.

106 I have ſworn, and I will perform it, that I will keep thy righteous judgments.

107 I am afflicted very much: quicken me, O LORD, according unto thy word.

108 Accept, I beſeech thee, the free-will-offerings of my mouth, O LORD, and teach me thy judgments.

109 My ſoul is continually in my hand: yet do I not forget thy law.

110 The wicked have laid a ſnare for me: yet I erred not from thy precepts.

111 Thy teſtimonies have I taken as an heritage for ever: for they are the rejoicing of my heart.

112 I have inclined mine heart to perform thy ſtatutes alway, even unto the end.

SAMECH.

113 I hate vain thoughts: but thy law do I love.

114 Thou art my hiding-place, and my ſhield: I hope in thy word.

115 Depart from me, ye evil doers; for I will keep the commandments of my God.

116 Uphold me according unto thy word, that I may live: and let me not be aſhamed of my hope.

117 Hold thou me up, and I ſhall be ſafe: and I will have reſpect unto thy ſtatutes continually.

118 Thou haſt trodden down all them that err from thy ſtatutes: for their deceit is falſhood.

119 Thou putteſt away all the wicked of the earth like droſs: therefore I love thy teſtimonies.

120 My fleſh trembleth for fear of thee, and I am afraid of thy judgments.

AIN.

121 I have done judgment and juſtice: leave me not to mine oppreſſors.

122 Be ſurety for thy ſervant for good: let not the proud oppreſs me.

123 Mine eyes fail for thy ſalvation, and for the word of thy righteouſneſs.

124 Deal with thy ſervant according unto thy mercy, and teach me thy ſtatutes.

125 I am thy ſervant, give me underſtanding, that I may know thy teſtimonies.

126 It is time for thee, LORD, to work: for they have made void thy law.

127 Therefore I love thy commandments above gold, yea, above fine gold.

128 Therefore I eſteem all thy precepts concerning all things to be right; and I hate every falſe way.

PE.

Ver. 109. My ſoul is continually in my hand.] A phraſe, ſignifying to be expoſed to great danger, becauſe, what a man holds in his hand, may be eaſily ſnatched out.

Ver. 123. Mine eyes fail, &c.] In looking for and expecting deliverance.

Ver. 126. It is time for thee, Lord, to work, &c.] The Chaldee reads, It is time for performing thy will. Syriac and Arabic, It is time for worſhipping; or, this is the time in which God ought to be worſhipped.

PE.

129 Thy teſtimonies are wonderful: therefore doth my ſoul keep them.

130 The entrance of thy words giveth light: it giveth underſtanding unto the ſimple.

131 I opened my mouth, and panted: for I longed for thy commandments.

132 Look thou upon me, and be merciful unto me, as thou uſeſt to do unto thoſe that love thy name.

133 Order my ſteps in thy word: and let not any iniquity have dominion over me.

134 Deliver me from the oppreſſion of man: ſo will I keep thy precepts.

135 Make thy face to ſhine upon thy ſervant: and teach me thy ſtatutes.

136 Rivers of waters run down mine eyes: becauſe they keep not thy law.

TSADDI.

137 Righteous art thou, O LORD, and upright are thy judgments.

138 Thy teſtimonies that thou haſt commanded, are righteous, and very faithful.

139 My zeal hath conſumed me: becauſe mine enemies have forgotten thy words.

140 Thy word is very pure: therefore thy ſervant loveth it.

141 I am ſmall and deſpiſed: yet do not I forget thy precepts.

142 Thy righteouſneſs is an everlaſting righteouſneſs, and thy law is the truth.

143 Trouble and anguiſh have taken hold on me: yet thy commandments are my delights.

144 The righteouſneſs of thy teſtimonies is everlaſting: give me underſtanding, and I ſhall live.

KOPH.

145 I cried with my whole heart, hear me, O LORD: I will keep thy ſtatutes.

146 I cried unto thee, ſave me, and I ſhall keep thy teſtimonies.

147 I prevented the dawning of the morning, and cried: I hoped in thy word.

148 Mine eyes prevent the night-watches, that I might meditate in thy word.

149 Hear my voice according unto thy loving kindneſs: O LORD, quicken me according to thy judgment.

150 They draw nigh that follow after miſchief: they are far from thy law.

151 Thou art near, O LORD: and all thy commandments are truth.

152 Concerning thy teſtimonies, I have known of old, that thou haſt founded them for ever.

RESH.

153 Conſider mine affliction, and deliver me: for I do not forget thy law.

154 Plead my cauſe, and deliver me: quicken me according to thy word.

155 Salvation is far from the wicked: for they ſeek not thy ſtatutes.

156 Great are thy tender mercies, O LORD: quicken me according to thy judgments.

157 Many are my perſecutors, and mine enemies: yet do I not decline from thy teſtimonies.

158 I beheld the tranſgreſſors, and was grieved: becauſe they kept not thy word.

159 Conſider how I love thy precepts: quicken me, O LORD, according to thy loving kindneſs.

Ver. 163. Lying.] The Septuagint and Vulgate read, I hate and abhor Iniquity.

Ver. 164. Seven times.] Frequently, inceſſantly, or conſtantly ; a definitive inſtead of an indefinite number is here uſed, according to the Hebrew idiom.

NOTES on Pſalm CXX.

This pſalm, the Engliſh argument informs us, was written by David, when the calumnies of Doeg forced him to fly into the deſerts for ſafety, and even to go into the country of the Arabians, here expreſſed by the tents of Kedar. The title of this, and the fourteen following pſalms, hath embarraſſed all the commentators. Some underſtand, by a ſong of degrees and ſteps, a ſong or pſalm ſung by the Levites on the ſteps of the temple ; and Ezekiel xl. is produced to confirm this opinion : ſome think, they obtained this title on account of the excellence of their compoſition : others think, the words degrees or ſteps, ſignify aſcent ; and that theſe pſalms were ſo called, becauſe made uſe of by the Jews in their aſcent to Jeruſalem, after the Babyloniſh captivity.

Ver. 4. Coals of juniper.] Theſe, Jerom aſſerts to be the hotteſt of any.

Ver. 5. Wo is me, that I ſojourn in Meſech.] The word Meſech does not imply a place, but a ſpace of time, and ſhould be rendered, Wo is me, that I ſojourn ſo long in the tents of Kedar.

NOTES on Pſalm CXXI.

This appears to have been written by David, when he fled from Jeruſalem, in order to avoid the army of his rebellious ſon. It will appear much more intelligible, if, like ſeveral others, we ſuppoſe it to have been ſung alternately by the kings and prieſts : David takes the firſt part.

Ver. 1. Unto the hills.] Particularly mount Sion, on which the tabernacle was placed, wherein the ark was ; the ſymbol of God's preſence.

4 Our ſoul is exceedingly filled with the ſcorning of thoſe that are at eaſe, and with the contempt of the proud.

PSAL.

Ver. 5. Thy ſhade upon thy right hand.] In thoſe hot countries, ſhady places were not only refreſhing, but likewiſe ſalutary, and neceſſary for the preſervation of life. The Lord is thy ſhade, i. e. thy comfort in dangers, thy protection and defence.

Ver. 6. Nor the moon by night.] The word, in the Liturgy, is burn; but this cannot be applicable to the moon. Macrobius obſerves, that the moſt copious dews fall in the moon-ſhine, which were, in theſe countries, very pernicious.

Notes on Pſalm CXXII.

David having ſettled the ark on mount Sion, and being in the country ſome time before one of their ſolemn feſtivals, heard the people inviting one another to join in their company, to viſit the dwelling-place of the God of Jacob, and pay him the tribute of praiſe and thankſgiving. This pleaſing incident inſpired the royal prophet, to compoſe this pſalm for their uſe on theſe ſolemn occaſions.

Ver. 3. As a city that is compact together.] Jeruſalem was the centre of union to all the tribes. The Liturgy reads, As a city that is at union with itſelf. The Syriac, Jeruſalem is fortified like a city which is ſurrounded with bulwarks, or a wall.

Ver. 4. Whither the tribes go up.] Exodus xxxiv. 23.

Ver. 5. Thrones of judgment.] There was the great Sanhedrim which diſpenſed law to the whole nation.

Note on Pſalm CXXIII.

This pſalm was doubtleſs written in a time of great diſtreſs, when ſome great and inſolent enemy threatened to level the walls of Jeruſalem with the duſt. See 2 Kings xix. 4. The Syriac title aſſerts, it was when Cyrus made a decree for the return of the Jews.

NOTE on Pſalm CXXIV.

This pſalm appears to have been written by David, after ſome remarkable victory, over a numerous hoſt of his enemies; perhaps the Philiſtines, when they ſpread themſelves in the valley of Rephaim. 2 Sam. v. 22. or the Ammonites and their aſſociates. 2 Sam. x. 6.

NOTES on Pſalm CXXV.

This pſalm was probably occaſioned by the arrival of Sennacherib's army againſt Jeruſalem. It tends to encourage the people under their great affliction, and to aſſure them, that God would not ſuffer Sennacherib, that rod of his anger, to chaſtiſe them long. The words, it is thought, were dictated by the prophet Iſaiah.

Ver. 3. The rod of the wicked.] The wicked Sennacherib ſhall not obtain the poſſeſſions of the righteous; nor ſhall he have any authority to tyrannize over them.

NOTES on Pſalm CXXVI.

It is generally allowed, that this pſalm was written by Ezra, on the return of the Jews from the Babyloniſh captivity. The Syriac title informs us, that it particularly relates to Haggai and Zechariah, who returned with the reſt of the captives.

Ver. 1. Like them that dream.] When the unexpected proclamation of Cyrus was publiſhed, for giving us liberty to return to our own land, we could hardly believe our ſenſes: the happineſs was ſo great, that we were fearful it was no more than a tranſient dream.

Ver. 4. Turn our captivity.] The turning our captivity, O Lord, is as grateful to us, as ſtreams or pools of water in the ſouth.

Ver. 5. They that ſow in tears, &c.] They who now plant themſelves here again, and lay the foundation of the temple with a mixture of ſadneſs and tears, (Ezra iii. 12.) ſhall ſoon have occaſion to rejoice.

Ver. 6. He that goeth forth and weepeth, &c.] Like the poor huſbandman, who, when corn is ſcarce and dear, throws the little ſeed he has, with a heavy heart, into the ground, but at harveſt returns from his field with ſongs of joy.

NOTES on Pſalm CXXVII.

The Hebrew particle, which, in the title, is tranſlated for, is thought to ſignify of, and conſequently that this pſalm was compoſed by Solomon; eſpecially as it ſeems a commentary on a pious maxim of his, which occurs, Prov. xvi. 9. and in many other places of that book.

Ver. 1. Except the Lord build the houſe, &c.]

> Without the gods, how ſhort a period ſtands
> The proudeſt monument of mortal hands!

> POPE's Homer.

Ver. 5. They ſhall ſpeak with their enemies in the gate.] The gates of cities were the places where the courts of juſtice were kept. The meaning is, that the ſight of a numerous offspring, ready to avenge the cauſe of their parent, would intimidate the litigious, and prevent any malicious law-ſuits, or accuſations againſt them: a numerous offspring was the reward offered by the Moſaic law to the righteous.

NOTES on Pſalm CXXVIII.

This pſalm is thought, by ſome, to have the ſame author with the former; and many are of opinion, that it was compoſed for, and uſed at a marriage; the Jews being accuſtomed, in their benedictions on theſe occaſions, to wiſh the parties all manner of happineſs; eſpecially a long and tranquil life. Here may be obſerved, a gradual riſe in the bleſſings promiſed.

Ver. 2. Thou ſhalt eat the labour of thine hands, &c.] See Eccleſ. ii. 24. and iii. 12, 13.

NOTES on Pſalm CXXIX.

This pſalm was compoſed, when ſome new calamity threatened them; either by Sennacherib, or, as others think, by thoſe nations who had combined to deſtroy the Jews, as ſoon as they returned from the Babyloniſh captivity; when they were taught by Ezra, or ſome other holy man, to recount what God had done for them ever ſince they were a people, and to denounce the divine vengeance againſt thoſe who now ſought their deſtruction.

Ver. 3. The plowers plowed upon my back.] They frequently ſcourged us very ſeverely. A ſtrong figure, to expreſs the indignities and hardſhips they endured.

4 The LORD is righteous: he hath cut aſunder the cords of the wicked.

5 Let them all be confounded and turned back that hate Zion.

6 Let them be as the graſs upon the houſe-tops, which withereth afore it groweth up:

7 Wherewith the mower filleth not his hand; nor he that bindeth ſheaves, his boſom.

NOTES on Pſalm CXXX.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed by David, during the time of his penitence, for the attrocious crime he committed with Bathſheba; and is the ſixth of the penitential pſalms.

NOTES on Pſalm CXXXI.

David is ſuppoſed to have compoſed this pſalm, in anſwer to the expreſſions, by which he was villified, as one that affected the throne in the days of Saul.

PSAL. CXXXIV.

An exhortation to bleſs God.

¶ A Song of degrees.

BEHOLD,

Ver. 6. Lo, we heard of it at Ephratah.] Theſe are the words of David, repeated by Solomon. By it, is meant the ark, and by Ephratah, Bethlehem, or Bethlehem-ephratah, a town about three miles diſtance from Jeruſalem. The ſenſe is, "When I was young, or a boy, I heard at "Bethlehem, that the ark was there."

We found it in the fields of the wood.] The Hebrew, BISHEDEI JAHAR; if the Hebrew word JAHAR, is taken for an appellative, it ſignifies a wood, according to our verſion; but if it be taken, as a proper name of a place, it ſignifies the town of Kirjath-jearim, which received its name, implying the town of the wood, from its ſituation. That the pſalmiſt might mean this place, is evident, from its being the reſidence of Abinadab. 1 Chronicles xiii. 6. The Chaldee renders it, In the field or plain of the wood Libanus.

Ver. 16. Her ſaints ſhall ſhout.] Our bleſſed Lord ſeems to allude to this paſſage. John v. 35.

Ver. 17. I have prepared a lamp.] See 1 Kings xi. 36. and xv. 4.

NOTES on Pſalm CXXXIII.

The conteſt between the tribes (after Abſalom's and Sheba's rebellion was ended) being not yet laid, David, as it ſhould ſeem, wrote this pſalm to compoſe it. It contains an exhortation to unity, beginning in the prince, and diffuſed through the people, illuſtrated by two images, the moſt apt and beautiful that ever were imagined.

Ver. 2. It is like the precious ointment, &c.] This ointment, by the preſcription of the law of Moſes, was to be compoſed of ſeveral rich ſpices: and as that was delightful to the natural ſenſe, ſo it was to the moral; to find among brethren of various capacities, tempers, and conditions, ſtrict friendſhip, and indiſſoluble union.

Ver. 3. As the dew of Hermon, &c.] Unity among brethren, beginning from the king, is like the dew of heaven, which falling firſt upon the higher ſummit of Hermon (refreſhing and enriching wherever it falls) naturally deſcends to Sion, a little lower; and thence even to the humble valleys.

There the Lord commanded.] It ſhould be tranſlated, There God promiſed the bleſſing.

NOTES on Pſalm CXXXIV.

NOTE on Pſalm CXXXVI.

This pſalm, like the preceding one, is a commemoration of the goodneſs of the Lord, eſpecially of the wonderful works he had done for Iſrael. The form of acknowledgment, for his mercy endureth for ever, ſo often repeated in this pſalm, was preſcribed by David, to be uſed continually in the divine ſervice. 1 Chron. xvi. 41. and accordingly followed by Solomon, when he dedicated the temple. 2 Chron. vii. 3, 6. and by Jehoſhaphat, when, by the encouragement of a prophet, he went out againſt a prodigious army, at the head of a ſmall number of forces. 2 Chron. xx. 21.

NOTES on Pſalm CXXXVII.

This pathetic pſalm, was occaſioned by the inſults which were offered the Jewiſh captives in Babylon: it is therefore ſurpriſing, that the Syriac, Arabic, Vulgate, Septuagint, and Ethiopic, ſhould aſcribe it to David, and and to Jeremiah, who were never there.

Notes on Pſalm CXXXVIII.

In this pſalm, David acknowledges the goodneſs of God, in advancing him from a low and afflicted condition to the throne of Iſrael.

Ver. 1. The gods.] The Hebrew word ELOHIM, ſignifies alſo princes, rulers, judges, and other great perſonages.

Ver. 2. Thou haſt magnified thy word above all thy name.] This verſion is obſcure, and indeed ſcarcely ſenſe. The Hebrew is, Becauſe thou haſt magnified thy name above all things.

Notes on Pſalm CXXXIX.

This pſalm was written by David, when he was accuſed of having evil deſigns againſt Saul; and therefore he preſented his appeal to God himſelf, who well knew the falſity of ſuch calumnies. The ſentiments contained in it, are more noble, elevated, and ſublime, than any we meet with in the moſt celebrated compoſitions of Rome or Greece.

Ver. 2. My down-ſitting, and mine up-riſing.] That is, all my actions, whether public or private.

Ver. 4. There is not a word in my tongue, &c.] Thou, O Lord, well knoweſt what I am going to ſpeak, before my words proceed out of my mouth.

12 Yea, the darkneſs hideth not from thee; but the night ſhineth as the day: the darkneſs and the light are both alike to thee.

13 For thou haſt poſſeſſed my reins: thou haſt covered me in my mothers womb.

14 I will praiſe thee, for I am fearfully and wonderfully made; marvellous are thy works, and that my ſoul knoweth right well.

15 My ſubſtance was not hid from thee, when I was made in ſecret; and curiouſly wrought in the loweſt parts of the earth.

16 Thine eyes did ſee my ſubſtance yet being imperfect, and in thy book all my members were written, which in continuance were faſhioned, when as yet there was none of them.

17 How precious alſo are thy thoughts unto me, O God! how great is the ſum of them!

18 If I ſhould count them, they are more in number than the ſand: when I awake, I am ſtill with thee.

19 Surely thou wilt ſlay the wicked, O God: depart from me therefore, ye bloody men.

20 For they ſpeak againſt thee wickedly, and thine enemies take thy name in vain.

21 Do not I hate them, O LORD, that hate thee? and am not I grieved with thoſe that riſe up againſt thee?

22 I hate them with perfect hatred: I count them mine enemies.

Ver. 8. If I aſcend up into heaven.] If I aſcend ſo high from the earth, that from thence I cannot diſcern the moſt diminitive and contracted orbs of light.

If I make my bed in hell.] If I could plunge myſelf into the moſt obſcure and unknown manſions of the dead, and the worlds inviſible, where even imagination loſes itſelf in darkneſs, &c.

Ver. 10. Let burning coals fall upon them.] This is ſpoken in alluſion to the dreadful puniſhment of the inhabitants of Sodom and Gomorrah.

Notes on Pſalm CXLI.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed by David, juſt before his flight to Achiſh king of Gath. As he was no ſtranger to the temptations which would ſurround him in the idolatrous country to which he was going, he requeſts ſuch a degree of prudential caution from God, as might preſerve him from any danger which might threaten him in his aſylum. That it was compoſed in the evening before his flight, appears, from his deſiring, ver. 2. That it might be accepted as an evening oblation.

Ver. 5. Let the righteous ſmite me, it ſhall be a kindneſs, &c.] Some imagining, that this ſentence refers to David's anointing, whereby his deſignation to the throne was manifeſt, render the words thus: “ Let the juſt man be upbraiding me with my goodneſs; and let the anointing “ my head be urged againſt me, it ſhall not break my “ head; for hitherto—yea, my prayer is againſt their “ wickedneſs.” The meaning of the pſalmiſt is, according to this tranſlation, “ Though my friends, thoſe advocates for ſtrict juſtice, upbraid me with my exceſſive “ piety and goodneſs, and the anointing my head, thy “ deſignation of me to the throne be urged againſt me “ as a reaſon to induce me to take away the life of “ Saul, yet I truſt in thy mercy, it ſhall not break my “ head, or bring me to deſtruction; for hitherto thou “ haſt preſerved me.” The Septuagint and Vulgate render it, “ Let the righteous correct me, and reprove me “ in kindneſs; but let not the oil of a wicked man fatten my head.” Hence it is evident, that inſtead of ROSH, a head, they read RASHA, wicked; and inſtead of JANI, break, they read JANIPH, fatten: but, according to the preſent printed text, in the Hebrew, the words may be thus rendered and explained: “ Let the juſt “ bruiſe or ſmite me, (with his reproofs) and it ſhall be “ (eſteemed a kindneſs; and let him reprove me, it ſhall be an excellent oil, which ſhall not break my head: for yet my prayer alſo ſhall be in their calamities.

The expreſſion, precious ointment, is an uſual phraſe, to denote ſomething extremely agreeable, as in Cant. iv. 14. Ezek. 27.

Ver. 6. When their judges are overthrown in ſtony places.] This may be rendered, " Their judges have been diſ" miſſed in rocky places, and have heard my words, that " they were ſweet." The ſenſe is, " Their princes have " been diſmiſſed by me in ſafety, when I had them ab" ſolutely in my power in the rocky deſarts, at which I " only expoſtulated with them in the mildeſt and gentleſt " manner."

Ver. 7. At the grave's mouth.] The Hebrew is LEPI SHEOL: now, as the Hebrew letters for SHEOL and Saul are the ſame, it is propoſed to read LEPI Saul, at the mouth of Saul. According to this reading, the verſe may be rendered, " Like as when one cutteth and cleaveth, (ſo) " have our bones been ſcattered on the earth, at the " mouth or command of Saul."

3 LORD, what is man, that thou takeſt knowledge of him? or the ſon of man, that thou makeſt account of him?

4 Man is like to vanity: his days are as a ſhadow that paſſeth away.

5 Bow thy heavens, O LORD, and come down: touch the mountains, and they ſhall ſmoke.

6 Caſt forth lightning, and ſcatter them: ſhoot out thine arrows, and deſtroy them.

7 Send thine hand from above, rid me, and deliver me out of great waters; from the hand of ſtrange children:

NOTES on Pſalm CXLIV.

This pſalm was written by David, after having obtained ſome ſignal victory; perhaps after thoſe two victories over the Philiſtines, mentioned 2 Sam. v. if not before them; for he ſtill mentions more oppoſers who were unſubdued, ver. 7 and 11.

Ver. 9. A pſaltery, and an inſtrument of ten ſtrings.] The particle and is not in the Hebrew; and the Septuagint and Vulgate read, Upon a pſaltery of ten ſtrings.

NOTES on Pſalm CXLV.

This pſalm is compoſed with great art, each verſe, in the original, beginning a new letter of the alphabet; but the NUN or N is wanting, probably becauſe the copy, from whence the collector took it, was imperfect in that place, and he would not preſume to ſupply the defect himſelf: but however that be, this compoſition was always eſteemed ſo excellent, that the title of the whole book of Pſalms was taken from it, which is wholly ſpent in praiſing God, with ſuch admirable devotion, that the ancient Hebrews uſed to ſay, "He could not fail of being an inhabitant of the heavenly Canaan, who repeated this pſalm three times a day."

Ver. 13. Throughout all generations.] Between the 13th and 14th verſes, a verſe is wanting, which is ſupplied by the Septuagint, Vulgate, Syriac, Arabic, and Ethiopic tranſlations, which ſhews, that theſe verſions were made from copies of the Hebrew that were not herein defective; the tranſlation of the verſe wanting is this, The Lord is faithful in all his words, and righteous in all his works.

Before Christ

19 He will fulfil the deſire of them that fear him: he alſo will hear their cry, and will ſave them.

Notes on Pſalm CXLVI.

This pſalm, and the four following, begin and end in the Hebrew, with the word Hallelujah, praiſe the Lord, which was generally made uſe of to elevate the minds of the ſingers to the higheſt degrees of joy and rapture. It was, probably, the production of ſome pious perſon after the Babyloniſh captivity, who had been taught by experience, that the promiſes of princes were not always to be depended on. The Syriac title aſſerts, that it was uſed by Zechariah and Haggai; to whoſe times and circumſtances it was indeed accommodated.

Ver. 4. His thoughts.] The Septuagint reads, His devices and contrivances.

Ver. 7. The Lord looſeth the priſoners.] The Septuagint and Vulgate reads Thoſe who are bound or fettered, inſtead of priſoners. This expreſſion, in Luke xiii. 16. is applied to one who was poſſeſſed by Satan, and afflicted with ſome grievous diſeaſe.

Ver. 8. Them that are bowed down.] By theſe are meant paralytics, as appears from Luke xiii. 11. From theſe expreſſions, which are ſo ſimilar to thoſe of the evangeliſt, it is apparent, that theſe verſes were prophetical of the miraculous cures of our bleſſed Saviour.

Notes on Pſalm CXLVII.

This ſeems to have been written by Nehemiah, when he had finiſhed the walls, and ſet up the gates of Jeruſalem. The Syriac aſcribes it to Haggai and Zechariah, and aſſerts, that it treats of Zerobabel, Joſhua the high-prieſt, and Ezra, who ſollicited the re-building of Jeruſalem.

who maketh graſs to grow upon the mountains.

9 He giveth to the beaſt his food, and to the young ravens which cry.

10 He delighteth not in the ſtrength of the horſe: he taketh not pleaſure in the legs of a man.

11 The LORD taketh pleaſure in them that fear him, in thoſe that hope in his mercy.

12 Praiſe the LORD, O Jeruſalem: praiſe thy God, O Zion.

13 For he hath ſtrengthened the bars of thy gates: he hath bleſſed thy children within thee.

14 He maketh peace in thy borders, and filleth thee with the fineſt of the wheat.

15 He ſendeth forth his commandment upon earth: his word runneth very ſwiftly.

16 He giveth ſnow like wool: he ſcattereth the hoar froſt like aſhes.

17 He caſteth forth his ice like morſels: who can ſtand before his cold?

18 He ſendeth out his word, and melteth them: he cauſeth his wind to blow, and the waters flow.

19 He ſheweth his word unto Jacob, his ſtatutes and his judgments unto Iſrael.

20 He hath not dealt ſo with any nation: and as for his judgments, they have not known them. Praiſe ye the LORD.

PSAL. CXLVIII.

1 The pſalmiſt exhorteth the celeſtial, 7 the terreſtrial, 11 and the rational creatures to praiſe God.

PRaiſe ye the LORD. Praiſe ye the LORD from the heavens: praiſe him in the heights.

2 Praiſe ye him, all his angels: praiſe ye him, all his hoſts.

3 Praiſe ye him, ſun and moon: praiſe him, all ye ſtars of light.

4 Praiſe him, ye heavens of heavens, and ye waters that be above the heavens.

5 Let them praiſe the name of the LORD: for he commanded, and they were created.

6 He hath alſo ſtabliſhed them for ever and ever: he hath made a decree which ſhall not paſs.

7 Praiſe the LORD from the earth, ye dragons and all deeps.

8 Fire and hail, ſnow and vapour, ſtormy wind fulfilling his word.

9 Mountains and all hills, fruitful trees and all cedars.

10 Beaſts and all cattle, creeping things, and flying fowl.

11 Kings of the earth, and all people; princes and all judges of the earth.

12 Both young men and maidens, old men and children.

13 Let them praiſe the name of the LORD: for his name alone is excellent, his glory is above the earth and heaven.

Ver. 9. And to the young ravens, &c.] The paternal providence of the Diety, is conſpicuous in no inſtance more, than in the tender regard he takes to thoſe of the irrational creation, whoſe parents can make but a ſlender proviſion for them; and in that light the young ravens are mentioned here.

Ver. 16. He ſcattereth the hoar froſt like aſhes.] When wood is burning in the open air, ſome of the aſhes, being light, are uſually carried up along with the flame and ſmoke, and after floating a while in the air, fall down again in a ſoft and gentle manner: the particles of hoar froſt deſcend in much the ſame ſtill, ſilent, and almoſt imperceptible manner.

NOTES on Pſalm CXLVIII.

It ſeems probable that this pſalm was compoſed by David when God had given him reſt from all his enemies round about; which filled his heart with ſuch love for his maker, that in a tranſport of admiration, he wrote this rapturous ſong: in which, being conſcious of the narrow limits of his own praiſes, he calls upon all creatures in heaven and earth to join in one ſymphony to the great Lord of all.

Ver. 4. Ye waters that be above the heavens.] The vapours being greatly rarified, riſe far above that air or ſky which is nigh the earth.

Ver. 7. Ye dragons, and all deeps.] All creatures inhabiting this lower world.

Notes on Pſalm CXLIX.

This pſalm appears to have been written by David, after having gained ſome ſignal victory, and ſubdued thoſe kingdoms which till his time ſupported themſelves againſt all the efforts made by the Iſraelites, notwithſtanding their countries were part of the land promiſed by God to Abraham. Gen. xv. 18.

Ver. 3. Let them praiſe his name in the dance.] This act of devotion, however ludicrous it may appear to us, has always been looked upon with reverence by the Eaſterns. See Exod. xv. 20. 2 Sam. vi. 14.

Ver. 8. To bind their kings with chains.] Verified in Adonibezek. Judg. i. 7.

Notes on Pſalm CL.

This pſalm, like the former, ſeems to have been compoſed by David after ſome remarkable victory. Though it might well be uſed on any joyous occcaſion.

Ver. 3. Praiſe him with the ſound of the trumpet, &c.] The muſical inſtruments here mentioned are unknown to us at preſent; and notwithſtanding ſome have pretended to deſcribe them, yet authors ſo greatly differ in their accounts, that we may ſafely conclude them to be unknown.

In the Hebrew and Chaldee this is the laſt pſalm; but the Vulgate, Septuagint, Syriac, Ethiopic, and Arabic, ſupply us with another, which for the ſake of the curious reader we here inſert. The title in the Septuagint is to this effect, "This pſalm, which was really compoſed by David, is one beyond the uſual number; it was written by the pſalmiſt after his engagement with Goliath."—1. I was ſmall, or the leaſt amongſt my brethren, and the youngeſt in my father's houſe. 2. My hands made an organ, and my fingers tuned the harp. 3. And who ſhall declare to my Lord? The Lord himſelf, even he himſelf heareth me. 4. He ſent out his angel, and took me from my father's ſheep, and anointed me with the oil of his anointment. 5. My brethren were great and many, and the Lord did not think well of them. 6. I went out to meet the ſtranger, and he curſed me by his idols or images. 7. But I, drawing out his ſword, cut off his head, and took away the reproach from the children of Iſrael. The difference in the Arabic is a little remarkable, for, between verſe 6 and 7, it reads, "And I caſt three ſtones "at him, which (pierced) into his forehead and, in the "ſtrength of the Lord, I caſt him proſtrate;" and mentioning the ſword, it reads, "I unſheathed the ſword "which he held in his hand." However, we may venture to pronounce this pſalm to be apocryphal.

The PROVERBS.

The ARGUMENT.

Solomon was not author of the whole book of Proverbs. The thirteenth chapter is intitled, the words of Agur the ſon of Jakeh: The laſt; the words of king Lemuel. In the twenty-fifth chapter, it is obſerved, that the following proverbs belong to Solomon: but were collected by perſons appointed by Hezekiah. So this collection is only a part of his proverbs, ſee 1 Kings iv. 32. It is concluded, from the different titles, that the firſt twenty four chapters are the genuine work of Solomon; the five next a collection of his proverbs by order of king Hezekiah; and that the two laſt were added, and belong to different and unknown authors. This book is a collection of wiſe and uſeful ſayings and obſervations; not put together in the way of a continued diſcourſe, but ſingly, without regard to order and method. It is a collection of divine precepts proper for every age, and every condition of life.

CHAP. I.

The uſe of the proverbs.

Before Chriſt 1000.

THE proverbs of Solomon the ſon of David, king of Iſrael;

2 To know wiſdom and inſtruction, to perceive the words of underſtanding;

3 To receive the inſtruction of wiſdom, juſtice, and judgment, and equity;

Before Chriſt 1000.

4 To give ſubtilty to the ſimple, to the young man knowledge and diſcretion.

5 A wiſe man will hear, and will increaſe learning: a man of underſtanding ſhall attain unto wiſe counſels:

6 To underſtand a proverb, and the interpretation; the words of the wiſe, and their dark ſayings.

Equity.

Before Chriſt 1000.

7 ¶ The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge: but fools deſpiſe wiſdom and inſtruction.

8 My ſon, hear the inſtruction of thy father, and forſake not the law of thy mother:

9 For they ſhall be an ornament of grace unto thy head, and chains about thy neck.

10 ¶ My ſon, if ſinners entice thee, conſent thou not.

11 If they ſay, Come with us, let us lay wait for blood, let us lurk privily for the innocent without cauſe:

12 Let us ſwallow them up alive as the grave, and whole, as thoſe that go down into the pit:

13 We ſhall find all precious ſubſtance, we ſhall fill our houſes with ſpoil:

14 Caſt in thy lot among us, let us all have one purſe:

15 My ſon, walk not thou in the way with them; refrain thy foot from their path.

16 For their feet run to evil, and make haſte to ſhed blood.

17 Surely in vain the net is ſpread in the ſight of any bird.

18 And they lay wait for their own blood, they lurk privily for their own lives.

19 So are the ways of every one that is greedy of gain: which taketh away the life of the owners thereof.

20 ¶ Wiſdom crieth without, ſhe uttereth her voice in the ſtreets:

21 She crieth in the chief place of concourſe, in the openings of the gates: in the city ſhe uttereth her words, ſaying,

Before Chriſt 1000.

22 How long, ye ſimple ones, will ye love ſimplicity? and the ſcorners delight in their ſcorning, and fools hate knowledge?

23 Turn you at my reproof: behold, I will pour out my ſpirit unto you, I will make known my words unto you.

24 ¶ Becauſe I have called, and ye refuſed, I have ſtretched out my hand, and no man regarded;

25 But ye have ſet at nought all my counſel, and would none of my reproof:

26 I alſo will laugh at your calamity, I will mock when your fear cometh;

27 When your fear cometh as deſolation, and your deſtruction cometh as a whirlwind; when diſtreſs and anguiſh cometh upon you.

28 Then ſhall they call upon me, but I will not anſwer; they ſhall ſeek me early, but they ſhall not find me:

29 For that they hated knowledge, and did not chooſe the fear of the Lord.

30 They would none of my counſel: they deſpiſed all my reproof.

31 Therefore ſhall they eat of the fruit of their own way, and be filled with their own devices.

32 For the turning away of the ſimple ſhall ſlay them, and the proſperity of fools ſhall deſtroy them.

33 But whoſo hearkeneth unto me, ſhall dwell ſafely, and ſhall be quiet from fear of evil.

Ver. 6. Their dark ſayings.] Much of the eaſtern wiſdom, conſiſted in the interpretation of ænigmas, &c.

Ver. 16. For their feet run, &c.] In the Septuagint and Arabic, this verſe is omitted, but is preſerved in the Syriac and Chaldee.

Ver. 20. Wiſdom crieth without.] By wiſdom, is here meant the eternal wiſdom, whoſe excellent counſels we cannot but be as well acquainted with, as we are with what is proclaimed in the open ſtreets; for we hear them in the plain dictates of our own conſciences, in the laws of God, in the mouths of his prophets and miniſters, in the admonitions and examples of good men, and in the courſe of his providence and wiſe government. This is a noble proſopopæia of religion, and what, if it had been found in a claſſic author, would have been extolled to the ſkies.

Ver. 32. The turning away of the ſimple ſhall ſlay them.] The Septuagint reads, Becauſe they have abuſed ſimple or innocent men, they ſhall be ſlain.

CHAP. II.

1 Wiſdom promiſeth godlineſs to her children, 10 and ſafety from evil company, 20 and direction in good ways.

MY ſon, if thou wilt receive my words, and hide my commandments with thee;

2 So that thou incline thine ear unto wiſdom, and apply thine heart to underſtanding:

3 Yea, if thou crieſt after knowledge, and lifteſt up the voice for underſtanding:

4 If thou ſeekeſt her as ſilver, and ſearcheſt for her, as for hid treaſures:

5 Then ſhalt thou underſtand the fear of the LORD; and find the knowledge of God.

6 For the LORD giveth wiſdom: out of his mouth cometh knowledge and underſtanding.

7 He layeth up ſound wiſdom for the righteous: he is a buckler to them that walk uprightly.

8 He keepeth the paths of judgment, and preſerveth the way of his ſaints.

9 Then ſhalt thou underſtand righteouſneſs, and judgment, and equity; yea, every good path.

10 ¶ When wiſdom entereth into thine heart, and knowledge is pleaſant unto thy ſoul;

11 Diſcretion ſhall preſerve thee, underſtanding ſhall keep thee:

12 To deliver thee from the way of the evil man, from the man that ſpeaketh froward things.

13 Who leave the paths of uprightneſs, to walk in the ways of darkneſs:

14 Who rejoice to do evil, and delight in the frowardneſs of the wicked.

15 Whoſe ways are crooked, and they froward in their paths.

16 To deliver thee from the ſtrange woman, even from the ſtranger which flattereth with her words:

17 Which forſaketh the guide of her youth, and forgetteth the covenant of her God.

18 For her houſe inclineth unto death, and her paths unto the dead.

19 None that go unto her, return again, neither take they hold of the paths of life.

20 That thou mayeſt walk in the way of good men, and keep the paths of the righteous.

21 For the upright ſhall dwell in the land, and the perfect ſhall remain in it.

22 But the wicked ſhall be cut off from the earth, and the tranſgreſſors ſhall be rooted out of it.

Before Christ 1000.

CHAP. III.

1 An exhortation to obedience, 5 to faith, 7 to mortification, 9 to devotion, 11 and to patience.

MY ſon, forget not my law; but let thine heart keep my commandments:

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 4. If thou ſeekeſt her as ſilver, and ſearcheſt, &c.] This is a proverbial ſaying, borrowed from the working of the mines; the former part of the verſe expreſſing great eagerneſs and indefatigable diligence; the latter, invincible reſolution and conſtant perſeverance, notwithſtanding thoſe difficulties which occur to diſcourage our labour.

Ver. 16. To deliver thee from the ſtrange woman.] It was uſual for women, when they became proſtitutes, to quit their own home and friends, and to go into a foreign country in queſt of a livelihood, where they would be no ſhame to their relations. Hence it is, that at the time of the Judges, and king Solomon, a proſtitute in Iſrael was generally diſtinguiſhed by the name of the ſtrange woman. Thus Jephtha (Judg. xi. 1) is called the ſon of an harlot; and in the following verſe, the ſon of a ſtrange woman, as terms equivalent, the one to the other.

Ver. 17. Which forſaketh the guide of her youth, &c.] By this expreſſion, it ſeems as if the wiſe man did not mean a foreigner, but a woman of his own nation, by the phraſe of a ſtrange woman; and that he uſed this term as ſynonimous to the word proſtitute.

Ver. 18. Her houſe inclineth unto death, &c.] Immature death was one of the ſanctions of the Jewiſh law, which is here alluded to.

Before Chriſt 1000.

2 For length of days, and long life, and peace ſhall they add to thee.

3 Let not mercy and truth forſake thee: bind them about thy neck, write them upon the table of thine heart.

4 So ſhalt thou find favour, and good underſtanding in the ſight of God and man.

5 ¶ Truſt in the LORD with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own underſtanding.

6 In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he ſhall direct thy paths.

7 ¶ Be not wiſe in thine own eyes: fear the LORD, and depart from evil.

8 It ſhall be health to thy navel, and marrow to thy bones.

9 Honour the LORD with thy ſubſtance, and with the firſt-fruits of all thine increaſe.

10 So ſhall thy barns be filled with plenty, and thy preſſes ſhall burſt out with new wine.

11 ¶ My ſon, deſpiſe not the chaſtening of the LORD: neither be weary of his correction.

12 For whom the LORD loveth, he correcteth, even as a father the ſon, in whom he delighteth.

13 ¶ Happy is the man that findeth wiſdom, and the man that getteth underſtanding.

14 For the merchandiſe of it is better than the merchandiſe of ſilver, and the gain thereof than fine gold.

15 She is more precious than rubies: and all the things thou canſt deſire, are not to be compared unto her.

Before Chriſt 1000.

16 Length of days is in her right hand: and in her left hand riches and honour.

17 Her ways are ways of pleaſantneſs, and all her paths are peace.

18 She is a tree of life to them that lay hold upon her; and happy is every one that retaineth her.

19 The LORD by wiſdom hath founded the earth; by underſtanding hath he eſtabliſhed the heavens.

20 By his knowledge the depths are broken up, and the clouds drop down the dew.

21 ¶ My ſon, let not them depart from thine eyes: keep ſound wiſdom, and diſcretion.

22 So ſhall they be life unto thy ſoul, and grace to thy neck.

24 When thou lieſt down thou ſhalt not be afraid: yea, thou ſhalt lie down, and thy ſleep ſhall be ſweet.

25 Be not afraid of ſudden fear, neither of the deſolation of the wicked, when it cometh.

Ver. 18. She is a tree of life, &c.] This is in alluſion to the tree of life in paradiſe, which had the virtue of preſerving, not only from death, but alſo from diſeaſe. Under this allegory, the wiſe man repreſents the peculiar rewards promiſed by Moſes to the religious.

CHAP. IV.

1 Solomon, to perſuade obedience, 3 ſheweth what inſtruction he had of his parents, 5 to ſtudy wiſdom, 14 and to ſhun the path of the wicked.

Hear, ye children, the inſtruction of a father, and attend to know underſtanding.

2 For I give you good doctrine, forſake you not my law.

3 For I was my fathers ſon, tender and only beloved in the ſight of my mother.

4 He taught me alſo, and ſaid unto me, Let thine heart retain my words: keep my commandments and live.

5 Get wiſdom, get underſtanding: forget it not, neither decline from the words of my mouth.

Before Chriſt 1000.

6 Forſake her not, and ſhe ſhall preſerve thee: love her, and ſhe ſhall keep thee.

7 Wiſdom is the principal thing, therefore get wiſdom: and with all thy getting, get underſtanding.

8 Exalt her, and ſhe ſhall promote thee: ſhe ſhall bring thee to honour, when thou doſt embrace her.

9 She ſhall give to thine head an ornament of grace: a crown of glory ſhall ſhe deliver to thee.

10 Hear, O my ſon, and receive my ſayings: and the years of thy life ſhall be many.

11 I have taught thee in the way of wiſdom: I have led thee in right paths.

12. When thou goeſt, thy ſteps ſhall not be ſtraitened, and when thou runneſt, thou ſhalt not ſtumble.

13 Take faſt hold of inſtruction, let her not go; keep her, for ſhe is thy life.

14 ¶ Enter not into the path of the wicked, and go not in the way of evil men.

15 Avoid it, paſs not by it, turn from it, and paſs away.

16. For they ſleep not except they have done miſchief: and their ſleep is taken away unleſs they cauſe ſome to fall.

Ver. 30. If he have done thee no harm.] The Septuagint and Arabic read, Leſt he ſhould do thee ſome harm. The Syriac omits this clauſe.

Ver. 32. His ſecret is with the righteous.] The righteous know the ſecret of his providence, in raiſing wicked oppreſſors ſo high, that they may have the more dreadful fall.

Ver. 34. Surely he ſcorneth the ſcorners.] The Septuagint reads, The Lord reſiſteth the proud, but giveth grace to the lowly. Thus St. Peter cites the words, 1 Peter v. 5.

Notes on Chap. IV.

Ver. 1. The inſtruction of a father.] The inſtructions, which out of a parental affection, I bring from God to you.

Ver. 3. For I was my fathers ſon, tender, &c.] The Septuagint reads, For I was an obedient ſon to my father.

Ver. 5. Get wiſdom, get underſtanding: forget it not.] Theſe words are omitted in the Vatican edition of the Septuagint, but are preſerved in the Alexandrian.

Ver. 15. Avoid it, paſs not by it, turn from it, and paſs away.] With ſuch vehement importunity, does the royal moraliſt deter his pupils from the path of the wicked. How ſtrongly is the counſel urged, by being ſo frequently repeated; in ſuch a remarkable diverſity of conciſe and abrupt, conſequently of forcible and preſſing admonitions.

19 The way of the wicked is as darkneſs: they know not at what they ſtumble.

20 ¶ My ſon, attend to my words, incline thine ear unto my ſayings.

21 Let them not depart from thine eyes: keep them in the midſt of thine heart.

22 For they are life unto thoſe that find them, and health to all their fleſh.

23 ¶ Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the iſſues of life.

24 Put away from thee a froward mouth, and perverſe lips put far from thee.

25 Let thine eyes look right on, and let thine eye-lids look ſtraight before thee.

26 Ponder the path of thy feet, and let all thy ways be eſtabliſhed.

27 Turn not to the right hand nor to the left: remove thy foot from evil.

CHAP. V.

1 Solomon exhorteth to the ſtudy of wiſdom: 3 He ſheweth the miſchief of whoredom and riot: 15 He exhorteth to contentedneſs, liberality, and chaſtity.

MY ſon, attend unto my wiſdom, and bow thine ear to my underſtanding.

2 That thou mayeſt regard diſcretion, and that thy lips may keep knowledge.

3 ¶ For the lips of a ſtrange woman drop as an hony-comb, and her mouth is ſmoother than oil.

4 But her end is bitter as wormwood, ſharp as a two-edged ſword.

Before Chriſt 1000.

5 Her feet go down to death: her ſteps take hold on hell.

6 Leſt thou ſhouldeſt ponder the path of life, her ways are moveable, that thou canſt not know them.

7 Hear me now therefore, O ye children, and depart not from the words of my mouth.

8 Remove thy way far from her, and come not nigh the door of her houſe:

9 Leſt thou give thine honour unto others, and thy years unto the cruel.

10 Leſt ſtrangers be filled with thy wealth, and thy labours be in the houſe of a ſtranger.

11 And thou mourn at the laſt, when thy fleſh and thy body are conſumed,

12 And ſay, How have I hated inſtruction, and my heart deſpiſed reproof?

13 And have not obeyed the voice of my teachers, nor inclined mine ear to them that inſtructed me?

14 I was almoſt in all evil, in the midſt of the congregation and aſſembly.

15 ¶ Drink waters out of thine own ciſtern; and running waters out of thine own well.

16 Let thy fountains be diſperſed abroad, and rivers of waters in the ſtreets.

17 Let them be only thine own, and not ſtrangers with thee.

NOTES on Chap. V.

Ver. 2, 3. That thy lips, &c.] The Septuagint reads, "The underſtanding of my lips commands thee; have "nothing to do with a ſtrange woman, for honey diſ"tilleth from the lips of a woman that is a fornicator, "which may, for a time, fatten thy cheeks." As youth is remarkably prone to harlots, the wiſe man here adds another caution to that he had before given againſt this vice; and with repeated intreaties, begs the attention of the gay and thoughtleſs to ſo weighty an argument, which he here proſecutes more at large, and preſſes with remarkable eloquence, and very powerful reaſons.

Ver. 4. Sharp as a two-edged ſword.] Like a ſword that cuts on both ſides, ſhe wounds both ſoul and body.

Ver. 6. Leſt thou ſhouldeſt ponder the path of life, &c.] The Septuagint reads, "She entereth not the ways of life; "her paths are ſlippery, and not eaſily to be traced." The Arabic reads, Her ways are dangerous, and therefore not to be known or underſtood.

Ver. 15. Drink waters out of thine own ciſtern.] That is, keep cloſe to the connubial vow, and preſerve it inviolate. This figure ſhews the extreme delicacy of the writer.

Ver. 16. Let thy fountains be diſperſed, &c.] The context ſeems to require the negative particle; for, from verſe 15 to the 20th, Solomon, in figurative expreſſions, adviſes his ſon to confine himſelf to his own wife. The Greek verſion (Vatican edition) reads right, "Let "not thy waters be diſperſed from thine own fountains; "let thy waters run in thine own ſtreets (or channels)" Origen, Clement of Alexandria, and Aquila's verſion, have alſo the negative particle.

Before Chriſt 1000.

18 Let thy fountain be bleſſed: and rejoice with the wife of thy youth.

19 Let her be as the loving hind, and pleaſant roe, let her breaſts ſatisfy thee at all times, and be thou raviſht always with her love.

20 And why wilt thou, my ſon, be raviſht with a ſtrange woman, and embrace the boſom of a ſtranger?

21 For the ways of man are before the eyes of the LORD, and he pondereth all his goings.

22 ¶ His own iniquities ſhall take the wicked himſelf, and he ſhall be holden with the cords of his ſins.

23 He ſhall die without inſtruction, and in the greatneſs of his folly he ſhall go aſtray.

CHAP. VI.

1 Againſt ſuretiſhip, 6 idleneſs, 12 and miſchievouſneſs. 16 Seven things hateful to God. 20 The bleſſings of obedience. 25 The miſchiefs of whoredom.

Before Chriſt 1000.

MY ſon, if thou be ſurety for thy friend, if thou haſt ſtricken thy hand with a ſtranger,

2 Thou art ſnared with the words of thy mouth, thou art taken with the words of thy mouth.

3 Do this now, my ſon, and deliver thyſelf, when thou art come into the hand of thy friend: go, humble thyſelf, and make ſure thy friend.

4 Give not ſleep to thine eyes, nor ſlumber to thine eye-lids.

5 Deliver thyſelf as a roe from the hand of the hunter, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler.

6 ¶ Go to the ant, thou ſluggard, conſider her ways, and be wiſe:

7 Which having no guide, overſeer, or ruler,

8 Provideth her meat in the ſummer, and gathereth her food in the harveſt.

9 How long wilt thou ſleep, O ſluggard? when wilt thou ariſe out of thy ſleep?

Ver. 18. Let thy fountain be bleſſed] The Septuagint reads, Let thy fountain be peculiar to thyſelf. What is meant by the word fountain, is explained in the words following.

Ver. 19. The loving hind, and pleaſant roe.] The hind and roe are taken notice of by authors that write of animals (particularly Oppian) to be loving creatures, which anciently the greateſt perſonages kept in their palaces, and diverted themſelves with them. The ſame appears from ſome beautiful lines in Virgil, Cervus erat forma, &c. Æneid 7. 483.

Ver. 21. The ways of a man are before the eyes of the Lord.] If the many calamities I have mentioned, will not deter thee from thy evil courſes, remember that the eye of God beholds all thy actions, weighs them in the balance of juſtice, and will exactly puniſh or reward thee according to thy works.

NOTES on Chap. VI.

Ver. 1. If thou haſt ſtricken thy hand with a ſtranger.] The Septuagint reads, "Thou haſt ſtricken thine hand "to an enemy;" meaning, thou haſt made thy friend thine enemy, by becoming ſurety for him, who will, perhaps, inſiſt on your diſcharging the debt. The ſtriking of hands was the common rite or cuſtom of becoming ſurety among the Jews. The word if is not in the Hebrew.

Ver. 3. When thou art come into the hand of thy friend, &c.] The Septuagint reads, "For thou art come into "the hands of evil men upon thy friend's account; be "not careleſs or remiſs, but earneſt or importunate with "thy friend, to get thyſelf diſcharged." None of the verſions have humble thyſelf.

Ver. 6, 7, 8. Go to the ant, &c.] Obſerve the providential care of the ant, who, during the ſummer, and the plenty of harveſt, lays up a ſufficient ſtock of proviſions to ſupport her in the winter. Obſerve how carefully ſhe depoſits her grain in cells, which ſhe hath digged for it in the earth, that it be neither injured by the chilling winds, nor ſtolen by other creatures, who range the fields in ſearch of food: and ſurely, ſo ſtriking an inſtance of labour, induſtry, and conſummate policy, exhibited by one of the inſect race, muſt make thee aſhamed of thy indolence, and animate thee to imitate her providential care. The ſimilitude of the providential care of the ant, is confirmed by the example of one of the beſt claſſic writers among the Romans, and by the Abbe de la Pluches, in Spect. de la Nat. tho' modern naturaliſts have treated it as a vulgar error.——The LXX. add, to the end of this deſcription, that of the bee, in the following words: "Or go to the bee, and ſee what a work-woman ſhe is, "and what a curious work ſhe maketh; of whoſe la"bours, both kings and private perſons make uſe of for "their health. She is loved and praiſed by all; and "though ſhe be of a weak body, is valued and extolled "for her wiſdom." This ſeems to be interpolated by ſome tranſcriber, to heighten the illuſtration that precedes it, or to obviate the objection hinted at above.

Before Chriſt 1000.

10 Yet a little ſleep, a little ſlumber, a little folding of the hands to ſleep.

11 So ſhall thy poverty come as one that travelleth, and thy want as an armed man.

12 ¶ A naughty perſon, a wicked man walketh with a froward mouth.

13 He winketh with his eyes, he ſpeaketh with his feet, he teacheth with his fingers.

14 Frowardneſs is in his heart, he deviſeth miſchief continually, he ſoweth diſcord.

15 Therefore ſhall his calamity come ſuddenly; ſuddenly ſhall he be broken without remedy.

16 ¶ Theſe ſix things doth the LORD hate; yea, ſeven are an abomination unto him:

17 A proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that ſhed innocent blood,

18 An heart that deviſeth wicked imaginations, feet that be ſwift in running to miſchief,

19 A falſe witneſs that ſpeaketh lies, and him that ſoweth diſcord among brethren.

20 ¶ My ſon, keep thy fathers commandment, and forſake not the law of thy mother.

21 Bind them continually upon thine heart, and tie them about thy neck.

22 When thou goeſt, it ſhall lead thee; when thou ſleepeſt, it ſhall keep thee; and when thou awakeſt, it ſhall talk with thee.

Before Chriſt 1000.

23 For the commandment is a lamp; and the law is light; and reproofs of inſtruction are the way of life:

24 To keep thee from the evil woman, from the flattery of the tongue of a ſtrange woman.

25 Luſt not after her beauty in thine heart; neither let her take thee with her eye-lids.

26 For by means of a whoriſh woman, a man is brought to a piece of bread: and the adultereſs will hunt for the precious life.

27 Can a man take fire in his boſom, and his clothes not be burnt?

28 Can one go upon hot coals, and his feet not be burnt?

29 So he that goeth in to his neighbours wife: whoſoever toucheth her, ſhall not be innocent.

30 Men do not deſpiſe a thief, if he ſteal to ſatisfy his ſoul when he is hungry:

31 But if he be found, he ſhall reſtore ſeven-fold, he ſhall give all the ſubſtance of his houſe.

32 But whoſo committeth adultery with a woman, lacketh underſtanding: he that doeth it, deſtroyeth his own ſoul.

33 A wound and diſhonour ſhall he get, and his reproach ſhall not be wiped away.

34 For jealouſy is the rage of a man: therefore he will not ſpare in the day of vengeance.

35 He will not regard any ranſom; neither will he reſt content, though thou giveſt many gifts.

CHAP.

Ver. 11. Thy want as an armed man.] Whom thou canſt not reſiſt. 'Tis probable, the Septuagint, inſtead of Magen, read Maggid, for they tranſlate the word here, and in chap. xxiv. 34. a poſtman or courier.—" Thy want ſhall " overtake thee ſpeedily, as a poſt, a courier, or meſ" ſenger."

Ver. 25. With her eye-lids.] The females in the eaſt had a particular art in painting and beautifying their eye lids. Philoſtratus, in his epiſtles, frequently ſpeaks of the nets of the eyes.

Ver. 30. Men do not deſpiſe a thief.] The Hebrew may be rendered, " Theft is not overlooked, though the per" ſon ſteal to ſatisfy his hunger."

Ver. 31. He ſhall reſtore ſeven-fold.] The Hebrew word, which we here render ſeven fold, does not properly ſignify any determinate number; but only ſuch as is perfect and complete in its kind And it may be remembered, that, according to the law of Moſes, a thief was not to reſtore ſeven-fold, but much leſs. See Exodus xxii. 1, 4.

CHAP. VII.

1 Solomon perſuadeth to a ſincere and kind familiarity with wiſdom. 6 In an example of his own experience, he ſheweth, 10 the cunning of an whore, 22 and the deſperate ſimplicity of a young wanton.

MY ſon, keep my words, and lay up my commandments with thee.

2 Keep my commandments and live: and my law as the apple of thine eye.

3 Bind them upon thy fingers, write them upon the table of thine heart.

4 Say unto wiſdom, Thou art my ſiſter; and call underſtanding thy kinſwoman:

5 That they may keep thee from the ſtrange woman, from the ſtranger which flattereth with her words.

6 ¶ For at the window of my houſe I looked through my caſement,

7 And beheld among the ſimple ones, I diſcerned among the youths, a young man void of underſtanding,

8 Paſſing through the ſtreet near her corner, and he went the way to her houſe,

9 In the twilight in the evening, in the black and dark night:

10 And behold, there met him a woman with the attire of an harlot, and ſubtil of heart.

11 (She is loud and ſtubborn, her feet abide not in her houſe.

12 Now is ſhe without, now in the ſtreets, and lieth in wait at every corner)

13 So ſhe caught him, and kiſſed him, and with an impudent face ſaid unto him,

14 I have peace-offerings with me; this day have I payed my vows.

15 Therefore came I forth to meet thee, diligently to ſeek thy face, and I have found thee.

17 I have preſumed my bed with myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon.

18 Come, let us take our fill of love until the morning, let us ſolace ourſelves with loves.

19 For the good man is not at home, he is gone a long journey;

20 He hath taken a bag of money with him, and will come home at the day appointed.

21 With her much fair ſpeech ſhe cauſed him to yield, with the flattering of her lips ſhe forced him.

22 He goeth after her ſtraightway, as an ox goeth to the ſlaughter, or as a fool to the correction of the ſtocks:

23 Till a dart ſtrike through his liver, as a bird haſteth to the ſnare, and knoweth not that it is for his life.

24 ¶ Hearken unto me now therefore, O ye children, and attend to the words of my mouth.

25 Let not thine heart decline to her ways, go not aſtray in her paths.

26 For ſhe hath caſt down many wounded: yea, many ſtrong men have been ſlain by her.

Ver. 22. As a fool to the correction of the ſtocks.] The word ECES, does not properly ſignify the ſtocks or fetters, but a tinkling ornament which the women wore about their feet. Iſaiah iii. 16. Symmachus renders it, Skipping upon fooliſh chains.

Ver. 26. She hath caſt down many wounded.] Mr. Kennicot thinks, this verſe ſhould be rendered, "For ſhe hath "caſt down many warriors, and the moſt valiant men "have been ſlain by her." Dr. Hammond thus paraphraſes it, "The moſt valiant heroes, the moſt puiſſant "ſoldiers, that never have yielded, but ſtood undaunted "againſt all other aſſaults, have generally been vanquiſh"ed, and frequently deſtroyed by the allurements of "women."

NOTES on Chap. IX.

Ver. 1. Wiſdom hath builded, &c.] Agreeable to the Egyptian hieroglyphics, the wiſe man here deſcribes wiſdom, as inviting mankind to partake of a ſumptuous entertainment. See the like parable or figure, Matt. xxii. Whoever would, from every circumſtance in this deſcription, deduce a ſeparate concluſion, will find himſelf in a great error, and quite ignorant of the nature of parabolical writings: for parables may be compared to hiſtory-paintings, which are intended to convey a general idea, that is to be gathered from the collective body of images; not from any particular figure. The minute circumſtances are to be conſidered only as heightenings of the piece; but the concluſion, or general maxim, is to be drawn from the ſcope and aſſemblage of the whole.

Seven pillars.] By the number ſeven, is underſtood any perfect number.

Ver. 4. Whoſo is ſimple.] That is, innocent.

Ver. 5. Eat of my bread.] Attend to my precepts.

Ver. 7. He that reproveth, &c.] The reader is to ſuppoſe this to be the ſpeech of wiſdom, upon finding her gracious invitation rejected.

Ver. 12. If thou be wiſe, &c.] I earneſtly invite thee to imbibe my doctrines; not for mine own ſake, but thine; for thou alone wilt reap the fruit of being truly virtuous, or ſuffer the puniſhment which God will ſurely inflict on all profane ſcoffers at religion and goodneſs. The Septuagint adds to this verſe, "He who truſteth in "lies, feedeth the winds; ſuch a-one will purſue the "birds in their flight; for he has left the ways of his "vineyard, and has wandered in the paths of his own "farm; he wandereth through a deſert without water, "and a land deſtined to drought; he gathereth with his "hands what is unfruitful." This interpolation is retained in the Syriac and Arabic.

CHAP. X.

From this chapter to the five and twentieth, are ſundry obſervations of moral virtues, and their contrary vices.

THE proverbs of Solomon. A wiſe ſon maketh a glad father; but a fooliſh ſon is the heavineſs of his mother.

2 Treaſures of wickedneſs profit nothing: but righteouſneſs delivereth from death.

3 The LORD will not ſuffer the ſoul of the righteous to famiſh: but he caſteth away the ſubſtance of the wicked.

4 He becometh poor that dealeth with a ſlack hand: but the hand of the diligent maketh rich.

5 He that gathereth in ſummer is a wiſe ſon: but he that ſleepeth in harveſt, is a ſon that cauſeth ſhame.

6 Bleſſings are upon the head of the juſt: but violence covereth the mouth of the wicked.

7 The memory of the juſt is bleſſed: but the name of the wicked ſhall rot.

8 The wiſe in heart will receive commandments: but a prating fool ſhall fall.

9 He that walketh uprightly, walketh ſurely: but he that perverteth his ways ſhall be known.

10 He that winketh with the eye cauſeth ſorrow: but a prating fool ſhall fall.

11 The mouth of a righteous man is a well of life: but violence covereth the mouth of the wicked.

12 Hatred ſtirreth up ſtrifes: but love covereth all ſins.

13 In the lips of him that hath underſtanding, wiſdom is found: but a rod is for the back of him that is void of underſtanding.

14 Wiſe men lay up knowledge: but the mouth of the fooliſh is near deſtruction.

15 The rich mans wealth is his ſtrong city: the deſtruction of the poor is their poverty.

16 The labour of the righteous tendeth to life: the fruit of the wicked to ſin.

17 He is in the way of life that keepeth inſtruction: but he that refuſeth reproof, erreth.

18 He that hideth hatred with lying lips, and he that uttereth a ſlander, is a fool.

19 In the multitude of words there wanteth not ſin: but he that refraineth his lips, is wiſe.

Ver. 17. Stolen waters.] This expreſſion denotes unlawful pleaſures.

NOTES on Chap. X.

Ver. 1. The proverbs of Solomon.] Thoſe which preceded were general exhortations to wiſdom and piety; whereas the following are peculiar precepts, of the nature of paradoxes, and oppoſing each other.

Ver. 6. Violence covereth the mouth of the wicked.] Their own iniquity ſhall violently overwhelm thoſe to their utter confuſion, who wickedly defraud and oppreſs their neighbours.

Ver. 9. He that perverteth his ways.] A fraudulent perſon, who endeavours to conceal his deſigns.

Ver. 10. He that winketh with the eye.] The laſt hemiſtic of this verſe is, by the careleſsneſs of the tranſcriber, repeated from ver. 8. In the Greek, Syriac, and Arabic verſions, we find the firſt hemiſtic beautifully illuſtrated by an antitheſis in the ſecond, thus: "He that winketh "with the eye cauſeth ſorrow; but he that reproveth "worketh ſafety." Maxims worthy of Solomon! When a man connives at his friends failings, the offender is encouraged to ſin on, and heap up matter for very ſorrowful reflections afterwards; but the man who, with an honeſt freedom, prudently reproves him, moſt effectually contrives his honour and ſafety.

Ver. 18. He that hideth hatred with lying lips.] It ſhould be rendered, hath lying lips, to make the verſion conſiſt of two parts, and not of one only, as in the preſent tranſlation; for each verſe in the Proverbs, conſiſts of two diſtinct propoſitions, both relating to the ſame thing; and theſe are generally oppoſed to each other.

Before Chriſt 1000.

21 The lips of the righteous feed many: but fools die for want of wiſdom.

22 The bleſſing of the Lord, it maketh rich, and he addeth no ſorrow with it.

23 It is as ſport to a fool to do miſchief: but a man of underſtanding hath wiſdom.

24 The fear of the wicked, it ſhall come upon him: but the deſire of the righteous ſhall be granted.

25 As the whirlwind paſſeth, ſo is the wicked no more: but the righteous is an everlaſting foundation.

26 As vinegar to the teeth, and as ſmoke to the eyes, ſo is the ſluggard to them that ſend him.

27 The fear of the Lord prolongeth days: but the years of the wicked ſhall be ſhortened.

28 The hope of the righteous ſhall be gladneſs: but the expectation of the wicked ſhall periſh.

29 The way of the Lord is ſtrength to the upright: but deſtruction ſhall be to the workers of iniquity.

30 The righteous ſhall never be removed: but the wicked ſhall not inhabit the earth.

31 The mouth of the juſt bringeth forth wiſdom: but the froward tongue ſhall be cut out.

32 The lips of the righteous know what is acceptable; but the mouth of the wicked ſpeaketh frowardneſs.

CHAP XI.

A Falſe balance is abomination to the Lord: but a juſt weight is his delight.

2 When pride cometh, then cometh ſhame: but with the lowly is wiſdom.

Before Chriſt 1000.

3 The integrity of the upright ſhall guide them: but the perverſeneſs of tranſgreſſors ſhall deſtroy them.

4 Riches profit not in the day of wrath: but righteouſneſs delivereth from death.

5 The righteouſneſs of the perfect ſhall direct his way: but the wicked ſhall fall by his own wickedneſs.

6 The righteouſneſs of the upright ſhall deliver them: but tranſgreſſors ſhall be taken in their own naughtineſs.

7 When a wicked man dieth, his expectation ſhall periſh: and the hope of unjuſt men periſheth.

8 The righteous is delivered out of trouble, and the wicked cometh in his ſtead.

9 An hypocrite with his mouth deſtroyeth his neighbour: but through knowledge ſhall the juſt be delivered.

10 When it goeth well with the righteous, the city rejoiceth: and when the wicked periſh, there is ſhouting.

11 By the bleſſing of the upright the city is exalted: but it is overthrown by the mouth of the wicked.

12 He that is void of wiſdom, deſpiſeth his neighbour: but a man of underſtanding holdeth his peace.

13 A tale-bearer revealeth ſecrets: but he that is of a faithful ſpirit concealeth the matter.

14 Where no counſel is, the people fall: but in the multitude of counſellors there is ſafety.

15 He that is ſurety for a ſtranger, ſhall ſmart for it: and he that hateth ſuretiſhip, is ſure.

Ver. 26. So is the ſluggard to them that ſend him.] To them that ſend him on a meſſage that requires haſte, and he ſtays unneceſſarily by the way.

Notes on Chap. XI.

Ver. 1. A juſt weight.] The Hebrew ſignifies a juſt ſtone; for the weights were anciently made of ſtones. Every ſpecies of injuſtice is included under this precept.

Ver. 7. When a wicked man dieth, &c.] The Septuagint reads, When a good man dies, his hope does not periſh; but the expectation of the wicked periſheth.

Before Chriſt 1000.

16 A gracious woman retaineth honour: and ſtrong men retain riches.

17 The merciful man doeth good to his own ſoul: but he that is cruel, troubleth his own fleſh.

18 The wicked worketh a deceitful work: but to him that ſoweth righteouſneſs, ſhall be a ſure reward.

19 As righteouſneſs tendeth to life: ſo he that purſueth evil, purſueth it to his own death.

20 They that are of a froward heart are abomination to the LORD: but ſuch as are upright in their way, are his delight.

21 Though hand join in hand, the wicked ſhall not be unpuniſhed: but the ſeed of the righteous ſhall be delivered.

22 As a jewel of gold in a ſwines ſnout, ſo is a fair woman which is without diſcretion.

23 The deſire of the righteous is only good: but the expectation of the wicked is wrath.

24 There is that ſcattereth, and yet increaſeth; and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty.

25 The liberal ſoul ſhall be made fat: and he that watereth ſhall be watered alſo himſelf.

26 He that withholdeth corn, the people ſhall curſe him: but bleſſing ſhall be upon the head of him that ſelleth it.

27 He that diligently ſeeketh good, procureth favour: but he that ſeeketh miſchief, it ſhall come unto him.

28 He that truſteth in his riches, ſhall fall: but the righteous ſhall flouriſh as a branch.

29 He that troubleth his own houſe, ſhall inherit the wind: and the fool ſhall be ſervant to the wiſe of heart.

Before Chriſt 1000.

30 The fruit of the righteous is a tree of life; and he that winneth ſouls, is wiſe.

31 Behold, the righteous ſhall be recompenſed in the earth: much more the wicked and the ſinner.

CHAP. XII.

WHoſo loveth inſtruction, loveth knowledge: but he that hateth reproof, is brutiſh.

2 A good man obtaineth favour of the LORD: but a man of wicked devices will he condemn.

3 A man ſhall not be eſtabliſhed by wickedneſs: but the root of the righteous ſhall not be moved.

4 A virtuous woman is a crown to her huſband: but ſhe that maketh aſhamed is as rottenneſs in his bones.

5 The thoughts of the righteous are right: but the counſels of the wicked are deceit.

6 The words of the wicked are to lie in wait for blood: but the mouth of the upright ſhall deliver them.

7 The wicked are overthrown, and are not: but the houſe of the righteous ſhall ſtand.

8 A man ſhall be commended according to his wiſdom: but he that is of a perverſe heart ſhall be deſpiſed.

9 He that is deſpiſed and hath a ſervant, is better than he that honoureth himſelf, and lacketh bread.

10 A righteous man regardeth the life of

Ver. 22. As a jewel of gold, &c.] The eaſtern nations, like the modern Indians, uſed to wear a jewel in their noſes (Job xlii. 11.) which cuſtom is here alluded to.

Ver. 30. The fruit of the righteous, &c.] The benefit ſociety receives from a juſt and charitable man, may be compared to the fruit of the tree of life, which keeps the ſons of men from miſery: but he is the far greater benefactor, who communicates wiſdom ſo ſeaſonably, that he draws ſouls to the love of virtue.

Ver. 31. Behold the righteous, &c.] This alludes to the ſanctions of the Jewiſh law, and the equal providence. The Septuagint, Syriac, and Arabic, read this verſe in the ſenſe it is alluded to. 1 Pet iv. 18.

of his beaſt: but the tender mercies of the wicked are cruel.

11 He that tilleth his land, ſhall be ſatisfied with bread: but he that followeth vain perſons, is void of underſtanding.

12 The wicked deſireth the net of evil men: but the root of the righteous yieldeth fruit.

13 The wicked is ſnared by the tranſgreſſion of his lips: but the juſt ſhall come out of trouble.

14 A man ſhall be ſatisfied with good by the fruit of his mouth, and the recompence of a mans hands ſhall be rendered unto him.

15 The way of a fool is right in his own eyes: but he that hearkeneth unto counſel is wiſe.

16 A fools wrath is preſently known: but a prudent man covereth ſhame.

17 He that ſpeaketh truth, ſheweth forth righteouſneſs; but a falſe witneſs deceit.

18 There is that ſpeaketh like the piercings of a ſword: but the tongue of the wiſe is health.

19 The lip of truth ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever: but a lying tongue is but for a moment.

20 Deceit is in the heart of them that imagine evil: but to the counſellors of peace, is joy.

21 There ſhall no evil happen to the juſt: but the wicked ſhall be filled with miſchief.

Before Chriſt 1000.

22 Lying lips are abomination to the LORD: but they that deal truly are his delight.

23 A prudent man concealeth knowledge: but the heart of fools proclaimeth fooliſhneſs.

24 The hand of the diligent ſhall bear rule: but the ſlothful ſhall be under tribute.

25 Heavineſs in the heart of man maketh it ſtoop: but a good word maketh it glad.

26 The righteous is more excellent than his neighbour: but the way of the wicked ſeduceth them.

27 The ſlothful man roaſteth not that which he took in hunting: but the ſubſtance of a diligent man is precious.

28 In the way of righteouſneſs is life, and in the path-way thereof there is no death.

CHAP. XIII.

A Wiſe ſon heareth his fathers inſtruction: but a ſcorner heareth not rebuke.

2 A man ſhall eat good by the fruit of his mouth: but the ſoul of the tranſgreſſors ſhall eat violence.

3 He that keepeth his mouth, keepeth his life: but he that openeth wide his lips, ſhall have deſtruction.

4 The ſoul of the ſluggard deſireth, and hath nothing: but the ſoul of the diligent ſhall be made fat.

5 A righteous man hateth lying: but

Ver. 11. Is void of underſtanding.] The Septuagint adds, "He that taketh pleaſure in taverns, ſhall leave diſgrace "in his own fortreſſes."

Ver. 12. The wicked deſireth the net, &c.] The margin has fortreſs inſtead of net, and ſo reads MATZOD inſtead of METZOD. The Septuagint reads, "The deſires of the "wicked are evil; but the roots of the pious are in ſtrong "fortreſſes."

Ver. 13. The wicked is ſnared by the tranſgreſſion of his lips.] The wicked enſnares himſelf, by that deceitful talk wherewith he deſigned to have enſnared others.

Ver. 28. In the path-way thereof there is no death.] Here the antitheſis ſeems wanting. The Septuagint reads, "—— is life; but the way of revengeful men tends to "death."

Ver. 2. A man ſhall eat good by the fruit of his mouth, &c.] He that ſpeaks well of others, or gives them faithful counſel, ſhall reap the benefit thereof himſelf; but calumniators ſhall ſuffer puniſhment. 8 The ranſom of a mans life are his riches: but the poor heareth not rebuke.

9 The light of the righteous rejoiceth: but the lamp of the wicked ſhall be put out.

10 Only by pride cometh contention: but with the well adviſed is wiſdom.

11 Wealth gotten by vanity, ſhall be diminiſhed: but he that gathereth by labour, ſhall increaſe.

Ver. 15. The way of tranſgreſſors is hard.] The Vulgate reads, "There is a whirlpool in the way of the ſcorners." The Septuagint reads the whole verſe thus: "Good underſtanding giveth favour; for to know the "law, is the property of a good underſtanding; but the "way of ſcorners ends in deſtruction."

Ver. 23. Much food is in the tillage of the poor.] A poor man commonly manages, and makes the moſt of a few acres. The Septuagint reads, "The juſt ſhall dwell in "riches many years; but the unrighteous ſhall periſh in "a ſhort time.

Ver. 8. Is to underſtand his way.] The Septuagint reads, "Will direct his way; but the folly of imprudent men "will miſtake it."

Ver. 9. Fools make a mock at ſin, &c.] The Hebrew ſignifies, Every fool will palliate ſin; but among the righteous is benevolence. By which is implied, that though wicked men will palliate or excuſe one another's ſins, yet this inſtance of their fidelity to each other, was not worthy of the name of friendſhip; for that could only ſubſiſt among the good.

Ver. 14. Shall be ſatisfied from himſelf.] This is not the ſenſe of the Hebrew. The Septuagint reads, "The "boaſter, or raſh perſon, ſhall be ſatisfied with his own "ways; but the good man with his own thoughts."

Ver. 24. The crown of the wiſe is their riches, &c.] The Septuagint reads, "Wiſdom is the crown of the "wiſe; but the converſation of the wicked is bad."

Ver. 32. In his death.] By death, is here underſtood the moſt grievous calamities which can endanger life.

Before Chriſt 1000.

34 Righteouſneſs exalteth a nation: but ſin is a reproach to any people.

35 The kings favour is toward a wiſe ſervant: but his wrath is againſt him that cauſeth ſhame.

CHAP. XV.

A Soft anſwer turneth away wrath: but grievous words ſtir up anger.

2 The tongue of the wiſe uſeth knowledge aright: but the mouth of fools poureth out fooliſhneſs.

3 The eyes of the LORD are in every place, beholding the evil and the good.

4 A wholſome tongue is a tree of life: but perverſeneſs therein is a breach in the ſpirit.

8 The ſacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the LORD: but the prayer of the upright is his delight.

9 The way of the wicked is an abomination unto the LORD: but he loveth him that followeth after righteouſneſs.

10 Correction is grievous unto him that forſaketh the way: and he that hateth reproof ſhall die.

Before Chriſt 1000.

11 Hell and deſtruction are before the LORD: how much more then the hearts of the children of men?

12 A ſcorner loveth not one that reproveth him: neither will he go unto the wiſe.

13 A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance: but by ſorrow of the heart, the ſpirit is broken.

14 The heart of him that hath underſtanding, ſeeketh knowledge: but the mouth of fools feedeth on fooliſhneſs.

15 All the days of the afflicted are evil: but he that is of a merry heart hath a continual feaſt.

19 The way of the ſlothful man is as an hedge of thorns: but the way of the righteous is made plain.

20 A wiſe ſon maketh a glad father: But a fooliſh man deſpiſeth his mother.

21 Folly is joy to him that is deſtitute of wiſdom: but a man of underſtanding walketh uprightly.

22 Without counſel, purpoſes are diſappointed: but in the multitude of counſellors they are eſtabliſhed.

23 A man hath joy by the anſwer of his mouth: and a word ſpoken in due ſeaſon, how good is it?

Ver. 33. That which is in the midſt of fools, &c.] The negative particle ſeems wanting here. The Syriac and Arabic verſions have it, and the Greek reads, "That "which is in the heart of fools is not thoroughly known."

Ver. 34. Righteouſneſs exalteth a nation, &c.] The original may be rendered, "Righteouſneſs exalteth a na"tion; but mercy is the expiation of the people."

NOTES on Pſalm XV.

Ver. 6. In the houſe of the righteous, &c.] The common companions of the good are peace and contentment, be their circumſtances ever ſo narrow; whereas the moſt opulent fortune cannot purchaſe either, without a proper fear and reverence of God.

Ver. 8. The ſacrifice of the wicked, &c.] An outward profeſſion and practice of religion while we continue, in a courſe of life directly oppoſite to it, is moſt diſagreeable in the ſight of God; but the prayers of the juſt, whoſe conduct is regulated by his divine precepts, are highly acceptable, and never go unregarded.

28 The heart of the righteous ſtudieth to anſwer: but the mouth of the wicked poureth out evil things.

30 The light of the eyes rejoiceth the heart: and a good report maketh the bones fat.

31 The ear that heareth the reproof of life, abideth among the wiſe.

32 He that refuſeth inſtruction, deſpiſeth his own ſoul: but he that heareth reproof, getteth underſtanding.

CHAP. XVI.

THE preparations of the heart in man, and the anſwer of the tongue is from the LORD.

Before Chriſt 1000.

2 All the ways of a man are clean in his own eyes: but the LORD weigheth the ſpirits.

3 Commit thy works unto the LORD, and thy thoughts ſhall be eſtabliſhed.

4 The LORD hath made all things for himſelf: yea, even the wicked for the day of evil.

5 Every one that is proud in heart, is an abomination to the LORD: though hand join in hand, he ſhall not be unpuniſhed.

6 By mercy and truth iniquity is purged; and by the fear of the LORD, men depart from evil.

7 When a mans ways pleaſe the LORD, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him.

8 Better is a little with righteouſneſs, than great revenues without right.

9 A mans heart deviſeth his way: but the LORD directeth his ſteps.

10 A divine ſentence is in the lips of the king: his mouth tranſgreſſeth not in judgment.

11 A juſt weight and balance are the LORDS: all the weights of the bag are his work.

12 It is an abomination to kings to commit wickedneſs: for the throne is eſtabliſhed by righteouſneſs.

Ver. 25. The Lord will deſtroy, &c.] Thoſe who, from a ridiculous conceit of themſelves, are above giving attention to the holy ſcriptures, ſhall too late have a fatal occaſion of lamenting their arrogance; but if we take this expreſſion in a natural, as well as in a divine ſenſe, we ſhall find, that thoſe who, from their ſituations or connections in this world, take an opportunity of afflicting the diſtreſſed, commit an action highly offenſive in the eye of God, which ſhall meet with the moſt ſevere puniſhment.

Ver. 30. The light of the eyes, &c.] A figurative expreſſion for a proper ſenſe of our duty, which inculcates the practice of religion and virtue, and lays the foundation, as well for temporal happineſs, as eternal felicity.

NOTES on Chap. XVI.

Ver. 2. All the ways of a man, &c.] Self-love and vanity, of which all men have ſome ſhare, too often incline us to think well of ourſelves, and favourably of our actions; but the all-ſeeing eye of God can eaſily diſcover and determine the juſtice of our motives.

Ver. 4. The Lord hath made all things, &c.] In the creation of the world, Almighty God, undoubtedly deſigned every human creature for felicity; but left us at our free wills, the better to judge of our deſerts and obedience; life is placed on the one hand, and death on the other, and he hath given us the free liberty of our choice; the divine goodneſs was, poſſibly, never more ſtrongly manifeſted, than in providing a place of puniſhment for the wicked, ſince thoſe, whom the love of God could not bring to a ſenſe of their duty, may be compelled to forſake their errors from a ſenſe of fear; but if they ſtill continue in their wicked courſes, the indignation of an offended God will condemn them to eternal death, for their obſtinacy in refuſing everlaſting life.

Before Chriſt 1000.

13 Righteous lips are the delight of kings: and they love him that ſpeaketh right.

14 The wrath of a king is as meſſengers of death, but a wiſe man will pacify it.

15 In the light of the kings countenance is life, and his favour is as a cloud of the latter rain.

16 How much better is it to get wiſdom, than gold? and to get underſtanding, rather to be choſen than ſilver?

17 The high-way of the upright is to depart from evil: he that keepeth his way, preſerveth his ſoul.

18 Pride goeth before deſtruction: and an haughty ſpirit before a fall.

19 Better is it to be of an humble ſpirit with the lowly, than to divide the ſpoil with the proud.

20 He that handleth a matter wiſely, ſhall find good: and whoſo truſteth in the LORD, happy is he.

21 The wiſe in heart ſhall be called prudent, and the ſweetneſs of the lips increaſeth learning.

22 Underſtanding is a well-ſpring of life unto him that hath it: but the inſtruction of fools is folly.

23 The heart of the wiſe teacheth his mouth, and addeth learning to his lips.

24 Pleaſant words are as an hony-comb, ſweet to the ſoul, and health to the bones.

25 There is a way that ſeemeth right unto a man: but the end thereof are the ways of death.

26 He that laboureth, laboureth for himſelf; for his mouth craveth it of him.

27 An ungodly man diggeth up evil: and in his lips there is as a burning fire.

Before Chriſt 1000.

28 A froward man ſoweth ſtrife, and a whiſperer ſeparateth chief friends.

29 A violent man enticeth his neighbour, and leadeth him into the way that is not good.

30 He ſhutteth his eyes to deviſe froward things: moving his lips he bringeth evil to paſs.

31 The hoary head is a crown of glory, if it be found in the way of righteouſneſs.

32 He that is ſlow to anger, is better than the mighty: and he that ruleth his ſpirit, than he that taketh a city.

33 The lot is caſt into the lap: but the whole diſpoſing thereof is of the LORD.

CHAP. XVII.

BEtter is a dry morſel, and quietneſs therewith, than a houſe full of ſacrifices with ſtrife.

2 A wiſe ſervant ſhall have rule over a ſon that cauſeth ſhame: and ſhall have part of the inheritance among the brethren.

3 The fining-pot is for the ſilver, and the furnace for gold: but the LORD trieth the hearts.

4 A wicked doer giveth heed to falſe lips: and a liar giveth ear to a naughty tongue.

5 Whoſo mocketh the poor, reproacheth his maker: and he that is glad at calamities, ſhall not be unpuniſhed.

6 Childrens children are the crown of old men; and the glory of children are their fathers.

7 Excellent ſpeech becometh not a fool: much leſs do lying lips a prince.

Ver. 33. The lot is caſt, &c.] Notwithſtanding the affairs of human life are generally left to our own determination; yet, without the permiſſion of God, we cannot carry them into execution; the moſt minute circumſtance cannot eſcape his all-ſeeing eye unobſerved; therefore thoſe things, which we cannot immediately account for, and generally attribute to the mere effect of chance, (a word without any idea) are alone the conſequence of the appointment and direction of Almighty God, whoſe intentions we never can preſume to penetrate or diſcloſe.

10 A reproof entereth more into a wiſe man, than an hundred ſtripes into a fool.

11 An evil man ſeeketh only rebellion: therefore a cruel meſſenger ſhall be ſent againſt him.

12 Let a bear robbed of her whelps meet a man, rather than a fool in his folly.

13 Whoſo rewardeth evil for good, evil ſhall not depart from his houſe.

14 The beginning of ſtrife is as when one letteth out water: therefore leave off contention, before it be meddled with.

15 He that juſtifieth the wicked, and he that condemneth the juſt, even they both are abomination to the LORD.

16 Wherefore is there a price in the hand of a fool to get wiſdom, ſeeing he hath no heart to it?

17 A friend loveth at all times, and a brother is born for adverſity.

18 A man void of underſtanding ſtriketh hands, and becometh ſurety in the preſence of his friend.

21 He that begetteth a fool, doeth it to his ſorrow: and the father of a fool hath no joy.

22 A merry heart doeth good like a medicine: but a broken ſpirit drieth the bones.

23 A wicked man taketh a gift out of the boſom to pervert the ways of judgment.

24 Wiſdom is before him that hath underſtanding; but the eyes of a fool are in the ends of the earth.

25 A fooliſh ſon is a grief to his father, and bitterneſs to her that bare him.

26 Alſo to puniſh the juſt is not good, nor to ſtrike princes for equity.

27 He that hath knowledge ſpareth his words: and a man of underſtanding is of an excellent ſpirit.

perſon may frequently be guilty of indiſcretions, which would be unpardonable in one of ſuperior abilities, whoſe ſtation in life ſupplied him with every opportunity of improvement.

Ver. 21. He that begetteth, &c.] No ſituation in life is more to be pitied than the father of a diſobedient or ſtubborn child; the hope which he entertained in his infancy, is totally deſtroyed by the folly or wickedneſs of his conduct; and inſtead of being a comfort to his friends, and a credit to himſelf, he is the firſt to deſtroy his own peace of mind, and blaſt the ſatisfaction which the tenderneſs of his relations had vainly hoped to find in his virtue and goodneſs.

Ver. 28. Even a fool, &c.] Silence may make a man paſs for what he is not, a man of ſenſe; whereas a fondneſs for hearing himſelf talk, will quickly proclaim him what he is, a fool: therefore a man, unimproved by education, or poliſhed by converſation, ſhould, at all times, rather chooſe to liſten, than to ſpeak.

NOTES on Chap. XVIII.

Ver. 1, 2. Through deſire a man, &c.] Some commentators ſeem to think the meaning of theſe two verſes very difficult; Dr. Nelſon, in his Univerſal Bible, gives the tranſlation of the Chaldee interpreter, and the opinion of the learned De Dieu, to ſupport what a common underſtanding muſt inſtantly diſcover in a ſlight peruſal; "That a vain man, from a high notion of his own abilities, affects a ſingularity of opinion, and a contempt for the underſtanding of every body elſe; in order to raiſe an important idea of his own, he lays claim to the knowledge of all the ſciences, without knowing, perhaps, any thing more than their names; and this behaviour does not ariſe from a good-natured motive of giving inſtruction to others, but of acquiring a mighty reputation to himſelf."

A man that is ignorant, and eſpecially without that ſpiritual wiſdom which is here to be underſtood, cannot be ſafe in his purſuits; he haſteth with his feet, i. e. runs inconſiderately on, and ſees not the way before him, till he falls into ſome ambuſh of iniquity; for temptations are never more likely to prevail, than with an ignorant perſon, who, like poor idiots, catch at the brambles which attract their ſight,

Ver. 20. There is a treaſure, &c.] This may poſſibly ſignify, the prodigality of fools, who ſquander away the good things which wiſe men are careful to preſerve.

Ver. 22. A wiſe man ſcaleth, &c.] The virtue of the mind is of greater force, and far more prevalent than the ſtrength of the body.

Ver. 28. The man that heareth, &c.] The Hebrew may be tranſlated, "A falſe witneſs ſhall periſh; but an obe-"dient or good man will be careful of what he ſpeaks.

NOTES on Chap. XXII.

Ver. 2. The rich and poor meet together.] That is, they are mutually uſeful to each other.

Ver. 6. Train up a child, &c.] Be early in giving proper inſtructions to a child, and betimes ſeaſon his mind with the precepts of virtue, before he hath received any other impreſſions; for then, in all probability, he will never forſake the path of goodneſs, but continue to walk in it all the days of his life. The Septuagint renders it by a word which ſignifies to catechiſe.

Ver. 8. The rod of his anger ſhall fail.] At the end of this verſe, the Septuagint hath this ſentence, "God "bleſſeth (or loveth) a chearful giver;" which St. Paul cites, 2 Cor. ix. 7.

Ver. 11. He that loveth pureneſs of heart, &c.] It may mean, that purity of heart alone gives favour in the ſight of God; though eloquence of ſpeech, and gracefulneſs of addreſs, may be ſufficient to recommend a man to the favour of his prince. The Septuagint and Arabic read, The Lord loveth pure hearts, and all thoſe who are free from ſin are acceptable to him.

Before Christ 1000.

for the grace of his lips, the king ſhall be his friend.

14 The mouth of ſtrange women is a deep pit: he that is abhorred of the LORD ſhall fall therein.

15 Fooliſhneſs is bound in the heart of a child, but the rod of correction ſhall drive it far from him.

16 He that oppreſſeth the poor to increaſe his riches, and he that giveth to the rich ſhall ſurely come to want.

17 Bow down thine ear, and hear the words of the wiſe, and apply thine heart unto my knowledge.

18 For it is a pleaſant thing if thou keep them within thee; they ſhall withal be fitted in thy lips.

19 That thy truſt may be in the LORD, I have made known to thee this day, even to thee.

20 Have not I written to thee excellent things in counſels and knowledge?

21 That I might make thee know the certainty of the words of truth; that thou mighteſt anſwer the words of truth to them that ſend unto thee?

22 Rob not the poor, becauſe he is poor: neither oppreſs the afflicted in the gate.

25 Leſt thou learn his ways, and get a ſnare to thy ſoul.

26 Be not thou one of them that ſtrike hands, or of them that are ſureties for debts.

27 If thou haſt nothing to pay, why ſhould he take away thy bed from under thee?

28 Remove not the ancient land-mark, which thy fathers have ſet.

29 Seeſt thou a man diligent in his buſineſs? he ſhall ſtand before kings, he ſhall not ſtand before mean men.

CHAP. XXIII.

WHen thou ſitteſt to eat with a ruler, conſider diligently what is before thee.

2 And put a knife to thy throat, if thou be a man given to appetite.

3 Be not deſirous of his dainties: for they are deceitful meat.

4 Labour not to be rich: ceaſe from thine own wiſdom.

5 Wilt thou ſet thine eyes upon that which is not? for riches certainly make themſelves wings, they fly away as an eagle toward heaven.

6 Eat thou not the bread of him that

Ver. 13. The ſlothful man, &c.] He never wants pretences to excuſe himſelf from labour.

Ver. 20. Excellent things.] The word thus rendered, ſignifies threefold, and is ſo rendered in the Vulgate, Septuagint, Syriac, Chaldee, Arabic, and by St. Jerom and Ambroſe. The Jews diſtinguiſh philoſophy into three branches, morality, phyſic, and divinity. Solomon wrote in all theſe branches, as appears from 1 Kings iv. but moſt of his writings are loſt.

Ver. 22. In the gate] Where the tribunals or courts of juſtice were held, viz. at the gates of cities.

Ver. 28. Remove not the ancient land-mark.] Be content with thine own eſtate, and do not endeavour to enlarge it, by invading the poſſeſſions of other men.

NOTES on Chap. XXIII.

Ver. 2. Put a knife to thy throat, &c.] Some interpret the paſſage thus: if thou doſt not curb thy appetite, it will expoſe thee to as certain danger as if a knife were at thy throat.

Ver. 4. Labour not to be rich, &c.] Do not weary thyſelf with laborious toil to amaſs a large eſtate; nor depend on thy own prudent management for the ſucceſs of thy honeſt endeavours, but on the bleſſing of God.

Ver. 5. Wilt thou ſet thine eyes, &c.] He expreſſes it in ſuch a manner, as if a rich man ſet brooding over an eſtate, till it was fledged, and had gotten itſelf wings to flee away.

Before Chriſt 1000. hath an evil eye, neither deſire thou his dainty meats.

9 Speak not in the ears of a fool; for he will deſpiſe the wiſdom of thy words.

10 Remove not the old land-mark; and enter not into the fields of the fatherleſs.

11 For their redeemer is mighty; he ſhall plead their cauſe with thee.

12 Apply thine heart unto inſtruction, and thine ears to the words of knowledge.

13 Withhold not correction from the child: for if thou beateſt him with the rod, he ſhall not die.

14 Thou ſhalt beat him with the rod, and ſhalt deliver his ſoul from hell.

15 My ſon, if thine heart be wiſe, my heart ſhall rejoice, even mine.

16 Yea, my reins ſhall rejoice, when thy lips ſpeak right things.

17 Let not thine heart envy ſinners: but be thou in the fear of the LORD all the day long.

18 For ſurely there is an end, and thine expectation ſhall not be cut off.

19 Hear thou, my ſon, and be wiſe, and guide thine heart in the way.

24 The father of the righteous ſhall greatly rejoice: and he that begetteth a wiſe child, ſhall have joy of him.

30 They that tarry long at the wine, they that go to ſeek mixt wine.

31 Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his colour in the cup, when it moveth itſelf aright.

32 At the laſt it biteth like a ſerpent, and ſtingeth like an adder.

33 Thine eyes ſhall behold ſtrange women, and thine heart ſhall utter perverſe things.

NOTES on Chap. XXIV.

Ver. 5. A wiſe man is ſtrong, &c.] The Septuagint reads, A wiſe man is better than a ſtrong man; and a man of knowledge than a ſtrong labourer.

Ver. 10. If thou faint in the day of adverſity, thy ſtrength is ſmall.] We have but little reſolution in ourſelves, or hope in the goodneſs of God, if the difficulties of this life entirely depreſs the mind.

Ver. 11, 12. If thou forbear, &c.] We ought to read this in the imperative mood, as the Septuagint; "Deliver them that are drawn unto death, and keep them "back that are ready to be ſlain;" i. e. exert thine whole power to deliver innocent perſons, who, by falſe accuſations, are dragged to execution, or in preſent danger of loſing their lives.

Ver. 16. A juſt man falleth.] That is, into trouble and affliction, and not into wilful ſin.

Ver. 22. Who knoweth the ruin of them both.] It is evident that Shonim (them that are given to change) ſhould be read in the ſecond paſſage, as well as the firſt; by which means the metre will be reſtored, and the Engliſh will be, "For ſuddenly ſhall their calamity riſe; and "the deſtruction of changers who knoweth?" i. e. who can tell the manifold miſeries and miſchiefs, which men of factious ſpirits bring upon themſelves and others?

Ver. 23. Theſe things alſo belong to the wiſe.] A wiſe magiſtrate will not conſider the rank or dignity of the offender, but the nature of the offence; though he may ſhew ſome favour to thoſe of a lower life, who, poſſibly may be hurried on by neceſſity or ignorance to the commiſſion of a crime, highly unpardonable in a man, who does not labour under a want of education, or narrowneſs of circumſtances.

Before Chriſt 1000. 26 Every man ſhall kiſs his lips that giveth a right anſwer.

27 Prepare thy work without, and make it fit for thyſelf in the field; and afterwards build thine houſe.

28 Be not a witneſs againſt thy neighbour without cauſe: and deceive not with thy lips.

29 Say not, I will do ſo to him as he hath done to me: I will render to the man according to his work.

30 I went by the field of the ſlothful, and by the vineyard of the man void of underſtanding:

31 And lo, it was all grown over with thorns, and nettles had covered the face thereof, and the ſtone-wall thereof was broken down.

32 Then I ſaw, and conſidered it well: I looked upon it, and received inſtruction;

Ver. 2. A thing.] That is to ſay, his decrees or nature.

Ver. 7, 8. Whom thine eyes have ſeen.] The Vulgate, by taking ſome ſentences from the Hebrew, and others from the Septuagint, has rendered the meaning more intelligible than it is in them ſeparately; "Do not haſtily "produce in a quarrel all that thine eyes have ſeen, leſt "afterwards thou be not able to recal it, when thou haſt "diſgraced thy friend."

Ver. 11. Like apples of gold in pictures of ſilver.] It ought to be rendered, "A word fitly ſpoken, or a diſcourſe "well-timed, is like oranges in a flowered baſket;" or, a baſket of fillegre work.

Before Chriſt 700.

28 He that hath no rule over his own ſpirit, is like a city that is broken down, and without walls.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 Obſervations about fools, 13 about ſluggards, 17 and about contentious buſy-bodies.

AS ſnow in ſummer, and as rain in harveſt; ſo honour is not ſeemly for a fool.

2 As the bird by wandering, as the ſwallow by flying, ſo the curſe cauſeleſs ſhall not come.

3 A whip for the horſe, a bridle for the aſs, and a rod for the fools back.

4 Anſwer not a fool according to his folly, leſt thou alſo be like unto him.

5 Anſwer a fool according to his folly, leſt he be wiſe in his own conceit.

6 He that ſendeth a meſſage by the hand of a fool, cutteth off the feet, and drinketh damage.

7 The legs of the lame are not equal: ſo is a parable in the mouth of fools.

8 As he that bindeth a ſtone in a ſling: ſo is he that giveth honour to a fool.

Ver. 20. As vinegar upon nitre.] The nitre here ſpoken of, is very different from what we now call ſo. It was a fixed alkali, plainly of the nature of thoſe ſalts made from vegetables, yet capable of a regular chryſtallization, which thoſe ſalts are not.

Ver. 22. Thou ſhalt heap coals of fire upon his head.] Perhaps the wiſe man may here allude to a cuſtom ſtill in uſe among the Arabians, of curing pains in the head, and other parts of the body, by actual fire on the part.

Ver. 23. The north-wind driveth away rain, &c.] Bringeth forth rain. In Judea, the north-wind blowing from the Mediterranean, generally brings rain. The frowns of an angry man will naturally provoke people to give a looſe to their tongues, when they are out of his ſight and hearing.

Notes on Chap. XXVI.

Ver. 4, 5. Anſwer not a fool according to his folly, &c.] The reaſon is, leſt he (the anſwerer) ſhould be like unto him; and verſe 5. Anſwer a fool, &c. The reaſon is, leſt he (the fool) be wiſe in his own conceit.

The cauſe aſſigned for forbidding to anſwer, therefore, plainly inſinuates, that the defender of religion ſhould not imitate the inſulter of it in his modes of diſputation, which may be compriſed in ſophiſtry, buffoonery, and ſcurrility. The cauſe aſſigned, of directing to anſwer, as plainly intimates, that the ſage ſhould addreſs himſelf to confute the fool upon his own falſe principles, by ſhewing, that they lead to concluſions very wide from, very oppoſite to, thoſe impieties which he would deduce from them.

Ver. 6. Cutteth off the feet.] Shall be ſure to ſuffer damage.

10 The great God that formed all things, both rewardeth the fool, and rewardeth tranſgreſſors.

11 As a dog returneth to his vomit; ſo a fool returneth to his folly.

12 Seeſt thou a man wiſe in his own conceit? there is more hope of a fool than of him.

13 The ſlothful man ſaith, There is a lion in the way, a lion is in the ſtreets.

15 The ſlothful hideth his hand in his boſom, it grieveth him to bring it again to his mouth.

16 The ſluggard is wiſer in his own conceit, than ſeven men that can render a reaſon.

17 He that paſſeth by, and meddleth with ſtrife belonging not to him, is like one that taketh a dog by the ears.

18 As a mad man who caſteth firebrands, arrows, and death:

19 So is the man that deceiveth his neighbour, and ſaith, Am not I in ſport?

20 Where no wood is, there the fire goeth out: ſo where there is no tale-bearer, the ſtrife ceaſeth.

21 As coals are to burning coals, and wood to fire; ſo is a contentious man to kindle ſtrife.

22 The words of a tale-bearer are as wounds, and they go down into the innermoſt parts of the belly.

23 Burning lips, and a wicked heart, are like a potſherd covered with ſilver droſs.

24 He that hateth, diſſembleth with his lips, and layeth up deceit within him.

Before Christ 700.

25 When he ſpeaketh fair, believe him not: for there are ſeven abominations in his heart.

26 Whoſe hatred is covered by deceit, his wickedneſs ſhall be ſhewed before the whole congregation.

3 A ſtone is heavy, and the ſand weighty: but a fools wrath is heavier than them both.

4 Wrath is cruel, and anger is outragious; but who is able to ſtand before envy?

5 Open rebuke is better than ſecret love.

6 Faithful are the wounds of a friend; but the kiſſes of an enemy are deceitful.

7 The full ſoul lotheth an hony-comb; but to the hungry ſoul every bitter thing is ſweet.

8 As a bird that wandereth from her neſt:

Mercury's heap, &c. Theſe heaps of ſtones were formed by a ſuperſtitious cuſtom, which obliged every paſſenger to throw a ſtone upon them. They are mentioned by Homer, Strabo, and the Sybilline verſes. This practice was obſerved by the Indians, Arabs, and Americans, and there are ſeveral of theſe heaps ſtill remaining in Wales and Ireland.

Ver. 23. Burning lips, &c.] He who ſtudies to conceal his malicious intentions under the veil of flattering ſpeeches, is like a potſherd, which may glitter at a diſtance, though covered only with the ſcum of ſilver. The Septuagint reads, "Smooth lips diſguiſing a wicked heart."

Ver. 14. He that bleſſeth, &c.] It ſignifies, that he who is too haſty to commend his friend, does him rather a diſſervice than a kindneſs.

Ver. 15. Are alike.] For both drive him out of the houſe.

Ver. 16. Hideth the wind.] It is as eaſy to prevent the wind from being heard, or fragrant perfume from being ſmelt, as to hinder a contentious woman from ſcolding.

Ver. 19. The heart of man to man.] The Hebrew reads, The heart the man; meaning, that a man may know what character he deſerves, as well by looking into his own heart, as he can tell what ſort of a face he has by looking in the water.

Ver. 21. So is a man to his praiſe.] This is ſcarce intelligible; but the ſenſe is, that the mind of a man is as eaſily diſcovered and tried by praiſe and encomiums, as gold or ſilver by fire. The Septuagint reads, "And a "man is tried by the mouth of thoſe that praiſe him."

Ver. 25, 26 The hay appeareth, &c.] This is rather an advice or exhortation, to make a proper uſe of the ſummer, than a deſcription of it; accordingly the LXX. interpret it; "Take care of the graſs of thy meadow, "and thou ſhalt mow hay; and gather the fodder of the "up-lands, that thou mayeſt have ſheep for thy cloath-"ing, &c."

NOTES on Chap. XXVIII.

Ver. 2. Many are the princes thereof.] It ſeems to mean, that the corruption of a ſtate is productive of rebellions; or, that by this means, the throne is often transferred from one family to another.

3 A poor man that oppreſſeth the poor, is like a ſweeping rain which leaveth no food.

4 They that forſake the law, praiſe the wicked: but ſuch as keep the law, contend with them.

5 Evil men underſtand not judgment: but they that ſeek the Lord, underſtand all things.

6 Better is the poor that walketh in his uprightneſs, than he that is perverſe in his ways, though he be rich.

7 Whoſo keepeth the law, is a wiſe ſon: but he that is a companion of riotous men, ſhameth his father.

8 He that by uſury and unjuſt gain increaſeth his ſubſtance, he ſhall gather it for him that will pity the poor.

9 He that turneth away his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer ſhall be abomination.

10 Whoſo cauſeth the righteous to go aſtray in an evil way, he ſhall fall himſelf into his own pit: but the upright ſhall have good things in poſſeſſion.

11 The rich man is wiſe in his own conceit: but the poor that hath underſtanding ſearcheth him out.

12 When righteous men do rejoice, there is great glory: but when the wicked riſe, a man is hidden.

13 He that covereth his ſins ſhall not proſper: but whoſo confeſſeth and forſaketh them ſhall have mercy.

14 Happy is the man that feareth alway: but he that hardeneth his heart ſhall fall into miſchief.

15 As a roaring lion, and a ranging bear; ſo is a wicked ruler over the poor people.

16 The prince that wanteth underſtanding, is alſo a great oppreſſor: but he that hateth covetouſneſs, ſhall prolong his days.

17 A man that doeth violence to the blood of any perſon, ſhall flee to the pit, let no man ſtay him.

18 Whoſo walketh uprightly ſhall be ſaved; but he that is perverſe in his ways, ſhall fall at once.

19 He that tilleth his land, ſhall have plenty of bread: but he that followeth after vain perſons, ſhall have poverty enough.

20 A faithful man ſhall abound with bleſſings: but he that maketh haſte to be rich, ſhall not be innocent.

21 To have reſpect of perſons, is not good: for, for a piece of bread that man will tranſgreſs.

22 He that haſteth to be rich, hath an evil eye, and conſidereth not that poverty ſhall come upon him.

23 He that rebuketh a man, afterwards ſhall find more favour than he that flattereth with the tongue.

24 Whoſo robbeth his father or his mother, and ſaith, It is no tranſgreſſion; the ſame is the companion of a deſtroyer.

25 He that is of a proud heart, ſtirreth up ſtrife: but he that putteth his truſt in the Lord, ſhall be made fat.

26 He that truſteth in his own heart, is a fool; but whoſo walketh wiſely, he ſhall be delivered.

27 He that giveth unto the poor, ſhall not lack: but he that hideth his eyes, ſhall have many a curſe.

28 When the wicked riſe, men hide themſelves: but when they periſh, the righteous increaſe.

Ver. 3. A poor man that oppreſſeth the poor, &c.] There is none ſo wicked and intolerable as a needy fellow, who has got into power, but loſt all ſenſe of the miſeries of the poor, whom he harraſſes and deſtroys without pity; like a violent rain, which, inſtead of refreſhing the corn, beats it down, and lays it flat.

Ver. 16. That wanteth underſtanding.] The Septuagint reads, "That is ſtraightened in his revenues."

Ver. 17. Let no man ſtay him.] No one will pity him, or ſhew him his danger.

NOTES on Chap. XXX.

Ver. 1. The words of Agur.] This chapter contains a fragment of ſome wiſe ſentences, delivered by one whoſe name was Agur. They ſeem to be anſwers to ſeveral queſtions propoſed by his ſcholars, Ithiel, and Ucal, who came to him as to an oracle, to obtain a ſolution of their doubts, aſking him in the firſt place, who is the wiſeſt man? To which he replies as in ver. 2. He that is ſenſible of his own ignorance. Agur then enlarges on this ſubject, wiſhing his ſcholars to be ſenſible of the imperfection of all human knowledge, by conſidering how very little we know of the works of God, which none can underſtand, but he alone who performed them. And thence adviſes them to make it their principal ſtudy to underſtand what belonged to their own duty, which is the moſt valuable part of knowledge; and at the ſame time to be content with what God had thought proper to reveal, and not pretend to be wiſer than he thought requiſite to make us.

22 For a ſervant when he reigneth, and a fool when he is filled with meat,

23 For an odious woman when ſhe is married, and an handmaid that is heir to her miſtreſs.

24 There be four things which are little upon the earth, but they are exceeding wiſe:

Ver. 1. The words of king Lemuel, &c.] By Lemuel, ſome underſtand Solomon, pretending that he had eight names. But ſeeing theſe proverbs follow the collection made by the command of Hezekiah, is it not more probable that they were collected by his mother Abiah, the daughter of Zachariah, a perſon illuſtrious for his wiſdom, and taught him as the precepts of his father?

Ver. 6. Give ſtrong drink to him that is ready to periſh.] It was a cuſtom among the Jews to give condemned perſons, juſt before execution, wine mixed with myrrh, to make them leſs ſenſible of their pain. 12 She will do him good, and not evil, all the days of her life.

13 She ſeeketh wool, and flax, and worketh willingly with her hands.

14 She is like the merchants ſhips, ſhe bringeth her food from afar.

15 She riſeth alſo while it is yet night, and giveth meat to her houſhold, and a portion to her maidens.

16 She conſidereth a field, and buyeth it: with the fruit of her hands ſhe planteth a vineyard.

17 She girdeth her loins with ſtrength, and ſtrengtheneth her arms.

18 She perceiveth that her merchandiſe is good: her candle goeth not out by night.

19 She layeth her hands to the ſpindle, and her hands hold the diſtaff.

20 She ſtretcheth out her hand to the poor; yea, ſhe reacheth forth her hands to the needy.

21 She is not afraid of the ſnow for her houſhold: for all her houſhold are clothed with ſcarlet.

Before Chriſt 700.

22 She maketh herſelf coverings of tapeſtry, her clothing is ſilk and purple.

23 Her huſband is known in the gates, when he ſitteth among the elders of the land.

24 She maketh fine linnen, and ſelleth it, and delivereth girdles unto the merchant.

25 Strength and honour are her clothing, and ſhe ſhall rejoice in time to come.

26 She openeth her mouth with wiſdom, and in her tongue is the law of kindneſs.

27 She looketh well to the ways of her houſhold, and eateth not the bread of idleneſs.

28 Her children ariſe up, and call her bleſſed; her huſband alſo, and he praiſeth her:

29 Many daughters have done virtuouſly, but thou excelleſt them all.

30 Favour is deceitful, and beauty is vain: but a woman that feareth the LORD, ſhe ſhall be praiſed.

31 Give her of the fruit of her hands, and let her own works praiſe her in the gates.

Ver. 10. Who can find a virtuous woman?] From this verſe, to the end of the chapter, is a ſhort poem, conſiſting of a ſort of Jambic verſes, each of which begins with a new letter of the alphabet; the tenth with ALEPH, the eleventh with BETH, &c. to the end. This was conſidered among the ancients as an elegant ſpecies of compoſition, and at the ſame time as a great help to the memory. Several of the pſalms are compoſed in this manner. The judicious Dr. Pearce underſtands this expreſſion, a virtuous woman, in the ſame light as the LXX. who render it Gune Andreia, a manly woman; i. e. a woman poſſeſſed of all thoſe qualities which more uſually belong to a man, and which, when exerted by him, make his character to be an excellent one.

Ver. 17. She girdeth her loins with ſtrength.] The Septuagint reads, "She girdeth herſelf tight about the waiſt, "and ſets her arms to work."

Ver. 21. She is not afraid of the ſnow, &c.] The Hebrew word SHENIM is plural, and likewiſe comes from a root, which ſignifies to repeat or double; it is often rendered by the LXX. two-fold or double; and the Vulgate reads, in this place, double garments. Scarlet is no greater a defence, nor keeps a perſon warmer than any other colour.

Ver. 30. Favour is deceitful.] The Septuagint reads, Dalliances are deceitful.

ECCLESIASTES,

Or the PREACHER.

The ARGUMENT.

The word Eccleſiaſtes is Greek, and ſignifies a preacher or public orator. This book contains a philoſophical enquiry into the chief good, or ſummum bonum, the ſubject of diſpute among the ancient ſages. It is an admirable picture of the vanity of human life, with its pleaſures and purſuits, when ſeparated from the fear of God. The Hebrew title is Coheleth, i. e. a collection; hence it appears, that it is a collection of various ſentiments relative to the chief good, compiled by Solomon; for there was no other ſon of David (as he here ſtiles himſelf,) who was King over Iſrael that could claim the title of Preacher, but himſelf, who was famed for his wiſdom.

Ver. 1. The words of the preacher.] This book the Chaldee repreſents, as being occaſioned by the prophetic view which Solomon had of the diviſion of the kingdom in the reign of Jeroboam, the deſtruction of the temple, and the deſolation of the kingdom.

returneth again according to his circuits.

7 All the rivers run into the ſea, yet the ſea is not full: unto the place from whence the rivers come, thither they return again.

8 All things are full of labour, man cannot utter it: the eye is not ſatisfied with ſeeing, nor the ear filled with hearing.

9 The thing that hath been, it is that which ſhall be; and that which is done, is that which ſhall be done: and there is no new thing under the ſun.

10 Is there any thing whereof it may be ſaid, See, this is new? it hath been already of old time, which was before us.

11 There is no remembrance of former things; neither ſhall there be any remembrance of things that are to come, with thoſe that ſhall come after.

12 ¶ I the preacher was king over Iſrael in Jeruſalem.

13 And I gave my heart to ſeek and ſearch out by wiſdom, concerning all things that are done under heaven: this ſore travel hath God given to the ſons of man, to be exerciſed therewith.

14 I have ſeen all the works that are done under the ſun, and behold, all is vanity and vexation of ſpirit.

15 That which is crooked cannot be made ſtraight: and that which is wanting, cannot be numbered.

Before Christ 977.

16 I communed with mine own heart, ſaying, Lo, I am come to great eſtate, and have gotten more wiſdom than all they that have been before me in Jeruſalem: yea, my heart had great experience of wiſdom and knowledge.

17 And I gave my heart to know wiſdom, and to know madneſs and folly: I perceived that this alſo is vexation of ſpirit.

18 For in much wiſdom is much grief: and he that increaſeth knowledge, increaſeth ſorrow.

CHAP. II.

1 The vanity of human courſes in the works of pleaſure. 12 Though the wiſe be better than the fool, yet both have one event.

I Said in mine heart, Go to now, I will prove thee with mirth, therefore enjoy pleaſure: and behold, this alſo is vanity.

2 I ſaid of laughter, It is mad: and of mirth, What doeth it?

3 I ſought in mine heart to give myſelf unto wine (yet acquainting mine heart with wiſdom) and to lay hold on folly, till I might ſee what was that good for the ſons of men, which they ſhould do under the heaven, all the days of their life.

4 I

Ver. 2. Vanity of vanities, &c.] This is the ſubject of the preacher's diſcourſe; to ſhew how ridiculous it is to place our happineſs in the frail and inconſtant things we enjoy in this tranſitory life; and may be conſidered as the text to the ſermon. The original Hebrew word is much ſtronger than our word vanity, and implies, that the thing ſpoken of is ſo trivial, that it is below, or leſs than nothing.

Ver. 4. For ever.] That is, for a very long time.

Ver. 10. Is there any thing, &c.] This argument is uſed to reprove the inſatiable curioſity of mankind after novelty.

Ver. 13. All things.] The wiſe man's reſearches were extended to every branch of knowledge, to phyſics, ethics, hiſtory, and every other art and ſcience, that contributes to the embelliſhment and preſervation of ſocial life.

Ver. 15. That which is crooked cannot be made ſtraight, &c.] The defects in wordly enjoyments are inevitable and incorrigible.

Ver. 17, 18. I gave my heart to know wiſdom, &c.] To comprehend not only the greateſt, but the meaneſt matters, to mark the actions and occupations of mad men and fools, as well as the motions of wiſer perſons; and it was an afflicting thing to obſerve how little moſt perſons differed from lunatics and diſtracted men. Madneſs and folly may refer alſo to the idle ſpeculations, wherein men of parts and wit ſometimes not only employ, but applaud themſelves.

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 2. I ſaid of laughter, &c.] That is, of frantic and diſſolute mirth.

Ver. 3. To give myſelf unto wine, &c.] The Hebrew ſignifies to tempt, or ſeduce with wine. Inſtead of wiſdom, we ſhould render craft or cunning. The preacher intimates, that he was at firſt remarkable for his temperance and and ſobriety, that he was obliged to make uſe of great ſubtilty and artifice to bring himſelf over to the contrary vices.

Before Chriſt 977.

4 I made me great works, I builded me houſes, I planted me vineyards.

5 I made me gardens and orchards, and I planted trees in them of all kind of fruits.

6 I made me pools of water, to water therewith the wood that bringeth forth trees.

7 I got me ſervants and maidens, and had ſervants born in my houſe; alſo I had great poſſeſſions of great and ſmall cattle, above all that were in Jeruſalem before me.

8 I gathered me alſo ſilver and gold, and the peculiar treaſure of kings and of the provinces: I gat me men-ſingers and women-ſingers, and the delights of the ſons of men, as muſical inſtruments, and that of all ſorts.

9 So I was great, and increaſed more than all that were before me in Jeruſalem; alſo my wiſdom remained with me.

10 And whatſoever mine eyes deſired, I kept not from them, I withheld not my heart from any joy: for my heart rejoiced in all my labour, and this was my portion of all my labour.

11 Then I looked on all the works that my hands had wrought, and on the labour that I had laboured to do: and behold, all was vanity, and vexation of ſpirit, and there was no profit under the ſun.

12 And I turned myſelf to behold wiſdom, and madneſs, and folly: for what can the man do, that cometh after the king? even that which hath been already done.

13 Then I ſaw that wiſdom excelleth folly, as far as light excelleth darkneſs.

14 The wiſe mans eyes are in his head, but the fool walketh in darkneſs: and I myſelf perceived alſo, that one event happeneth to them all.

15 Then ſaid I in my heart, As it happeneth to the fool, ſo it happeneth even to me; and why was I then more wiſe? Then I ſaid in my heart, that this alſo is vanity.

16 For there is no remembrance of the wiſe more than of the fool for ever; ſeeing that which now is, in the days to come ſhall all be forgotten: and how dieth the wiſe man? as the fool.

17 Therefore I hated life, becauſe the work that is wrought under the ſun, is grievous unto me: for all is vanity and vexation of ſpirit.

18 ¶ Yea, I hated all my labour which I had taken under the ſun: becauſe I ſhould leave it unto the man that ſhall be after me.

19 And who knoweth whether he ſhall be a wiſe man or a fool? yet ſhall he have rule over all my labour wherein I have laboured, and wherein I have ſhewed myſelf wiſe under the ſun. This is alſo vanity.

20 Therefore I went about to cauſe my heart to deſpair of all the labour which I took under the ſun.

21 For there is a man whoſe labour is in wiſdom, and in knowledge, and in equity: yet to a man that hath not laboured therein, ſhall he leave it for his portion. This alſo is vanity, and a great evil.

22 For what hath man of all his labour, and of the vexation of his heart wherein he hath laboured under the ſun?

23 For all his days are ſorrows, and his travel grief; yea, his heart taketh not reſt in the night. This is alſo vanity.

24 ¶ There

Our tranſlation takes it for muſical inſtruments of ſuch remarkable ſweeetneſs, that they left no part of the human ſoul untouched, nor room for any other pleaſure.

Ver. 13. Wiſdom excelleth folly, &c.] Virtue and religion is as much more excellent, and more profitable to men than wickedneſs, as one thing can be preferable to another.

Before Christ 977. 24 ¶ There is nothing better for a man, than that he ſhould eat and drink, and that he ſhould make his ſoul enjoy good in his labour. This alſo I ſaw, that it was from the hand of God.

25 For who can eat, or who elſe can haſten hereunto more than I?

26 For God giveth to a man that is good in his ſight, wiſdom, and knowledge, and joy: but to the ſinner he giveth travel, to gather and to heap up, that he may give to him that is good before God. This alſo is vanity and vexation of ſpirit.

CHAP. III.

1 By the neceſſary change of times, vanity is added to human travel. 11 There is an excellency in Gods works: 16 But as for man, God ſhall judge his works there, and here he ſhall be like a beaſt.

TO every thing there is a ſeaſon, and a time to every purpoſe under the heaven:

2 A time to be born, and a time to die: a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted:

3 A time to kill, and a time to heal: a time to break down, and a time to build up:

4 A time to weep, and a time to laugh: a time to mourn, and a time to dance:

5 A time to caſt away ſtones, and a time to gather ſtones together: a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing:

Before Christ 977. 6 A time to get, and a time to looſe: a time to keep, and a time to caſt away.

7 A time to rent, and a time to ſew: a time to keep ſilence, and a time to ſpeak:

8 A time to love, and a time to hate: a time of war, and a time of peace.

9 What profit hath he that worketh, in that wherein he laboureth?

10 I have ſeen the travel which God hath given to the ſons of men, to be exerciſed in it.

11 He hath made every thing beautiful in his time: alſo he hath ſet the world in their heart, ſo that no man can find out the work that God maketh from the beginning to the end.

12 I know that there is no good in them, but for a man to rejoice, and to do good in his life.

13 And alſo that every man ſhould eat and drink, and enjoy the good of all his labour, it is the gift of God.

14 I know that whatſoever God doeth, it ſhall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it: and God doeth it, that men ſhould fear before him.

15 That which hath been, is now; and that which is to be, hath already been, and

On this principle, ſeveral other contradictory paſſages to the ſame purpoſe, muſt needs be interpreted. Warb.

NOTES on Chap. III.

Ver. 1. To every thing there is a ſeaſon.] Solomon, having reſumed his perſonated character, ſeeks for happineſs, but finds nothing but vanity in the conſtitution of things, and in the inconſtancy of men's will, to which one muſt conform his affections of joy or grief.

Ver. 5. A time to caſt away ſtones.] In public rejoicings, as upon occaſions of victory, they ſet up great heaps of ſtones in the fields for trophies, which in time of ſadneſs or adverſity they caſt away again. See ſome ſuch like thing. Joſh. viii. 29. 2 Sam. xviii. 17.

Ver. 7. To rent.] This refers to a ceremony uſed in great and ſudden griefs, in which they rent their garments.

Ver. 11. He hath ſet the world in their heart.] It ſeems to ſignify, that he hath endowed men with ſo much natural light, as that they can apprehend the various chances of life, to judge of them, and govern themſelves accordingly.

So that no man can find out, &c.] But they muſt not preſume to judge of the ways of providence by imperfect views, or hope to comprehend them from the beginning to the end; but may reſt ſatisfied, that every thing is beautiful in his ſeaſon, or its proper place, and the whole ſcheme together admirably perfect and harmonious.

16 ¶ And moreover, I ſaw under the ſun the place of judgment, that wickedneſs was there; and the place of righteouſneſs, that iniquity was there.

17 I ſaid in mine heart, God ſhall judge the righteous and the wicked: for there is a time there, for every purpoſe, and for every work.

18 I ſaid in my heart concerning the eſtate of the ſons of men, that God might manifeſt them, and that they might ſee that they themſelves are beaſts.

19 For that which befalleth the ſons of men, befalleth beaſts, even one thing befalleth them: as the one dieth, ſo dieth the other, yea, they have all one breath, ſo that a man hath no preeminence above a beaſt: for all is vanity.

20 All go unto one place, all are of the duſt, and all turn to duſt again.

21 Who knoweth the ſpirit of man that goeth upward, and the ſpirit of the beaſt that goeth downward to the earth?

22 Wherefore I perceive that there is nothing better, than that a man ſhould rejoice in his own works; for that is his portion: for who ſhall bring him to ſee what ſhall be after him?

CHAP IV.

1 Vanity is increaſed unto men by oppreſſion, 4 by envy, 5 by idleneſs, 7 by covetouſneſs, 9 by ſolitarineſs, 13 by wilfulneſs.

Before Christ 977. SO I returned, and conſidered all the oppreſſions that are done under the ſun: and behold, the tears of ſuch as were oppreſſed, and they had no comforter; and on the ſide of their oppreſſors there was power, but they had no comforter.

2 Wherefore I praiſed the dead which are already dead, more than the living which are yet alive.

3 Yea, better is he than both they, which hath not yet been, who hath not ſeen the evil work that is done under the ſun.

4 ¶ Again, I conſidered all travel, and every right work, that for this a man is envied of his neighbour. This is alſo vanity, and vexation of ſpirit.

5 The fool foldeth his hands together, and eateth his own fleſh.

6 Better is an handful with quietneſs, than both the hands full, with travel and vexation of ſpirit.

7 ¶ Then I returned, and I ſaw vanity under the ſun.

8 There is one alone, and there is not a ſecond; yea, he hath neither child nor brother: yet is there no end of all his labour, neither is his eye ſatisfied with riches, neither ſaith he, For whom do I labour, and bereave my ſoul of good? This is alſo vanity, yea, it is a ſore travel.

9 ¶ Two are better than one: becauſe they

Ver. 18. I ſaid in my heart, &c.] I thought within myſelf, that the reaſon why God is pleaſed to ſuffer ſo much injuſtice to prevail in the world, was to humble men in their own conceits, and to let them ſee, that they were no better in their nature than brute beaſts.

Ver. 21. Who knoweth the ſpirit of man, &c.] The Hebrew may be rendered, "Who knoweth whether the "ſpirit of the ſons of Adam aſcendeth upwards?" i. e. Whether it be permanent like the heavenly bodies; or, "Whether the ſpirit of beaſts deſcend downwards," or under the earth; i. e. Whether they periſh like bodies which are depoſited under the earth.

Ver. 22. There is nothing better, than that a man ſhould rejoice, &c.] Than to make a chearful uſe of God's bleſſings, in the ſweet and honeſt fruitions of his labours; ſeeing this is all the fruit and alleviation of all his painful labours, which the earth can afford him.

For who ſhall bring him, &c.] This not only implies, that the author had no idea of the reſurrection of the body; but that he reaſoned like the Phariſees, who, for want of an adequate idea of the divine omnipotence, argued againſt a future ſtate and a reſurrection.

they have a good reward for their labour.

10 For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but wo to him that is alone when he falleth; for he hath not another to help him up.

11 Again, if two lie together, then they have heat: but how can one be warm alone?

12 And if one prevail againſt him, two ſhall withſtand him; and a threefold cord is not quickly broken.

13 ¶ Better is a poor and a wiſe child, than an old and fooliſh king, who will no more be admoniſhed.

14 For out of priſon he cometh to reign, whereas alſo he that is born in his kingdom becometh poor.

15 I conſidered all the living which walk under the ſun, with the ſecond child that ſhall ſtand up in his ſtead.

16 There is no end of all the people, even of all that have been before them: they alſo that come after, ſhall not rejoice in him. Surely, this alſo is vanity, and vexation of ſpirit.

CHAP. V.

1 Vanities in divine ſervice, 8 in murmuring againſt oppreſſion, 9 and in riches. 18 Joy in riches is the gift of God.

Keep thy foot when thou goeſt to the houſe of God, and be more ready to hear, than to give the ſacrifice of fools: for they conſider not that they do evil.

Before Chriſt. 977.

2 Be not raſh with thy mouth, and let not thine heart be haſty to utter any thing before God: for God is in heaven, and thou upon earth: therefore let thy words be few.

3 For a dream cometh through the multitude of buſineſs, and a fools voice is known by multitude of words.

4 When thou voweſt a vow unto God, defer not to pay it: for he hath no pleaſure in fools; pay that which thou haſt vowed.

5 Better is it that thou ſhouldeſt not vow, than that thou ſhouldeſt vow and not pay.

6 Suffer not thy mouth to cauſe thy fleſh to ſin, neither ſay thou before the angel, that it was an error: wherefore ſhould God be angry at thy voice, and deſtroy the work of thine hands?

7 For in the multitude of dreams and many words, there are alſo divers vanities: but fear thou God.

8 ¶ If thou ſeeſt the oppreſſion of the poor, and violent perverting of judgment and juſtice in a province, marvel not at the matter: for he that is higher than the higheſt, regardeth, and there be higher than they.

9 ¶ Moreover, the profit of the earth is for

Ver. 9. They have a good reward for their labour.] Two perſons may undertake any buſineſs with greater probability of ſucceſs than one, and expect to be recompenſed for their labour.

Ver. 15, 16. I conſidered all the living, &c.] I obſerved, that all men under the ſun, would accompany the young ſucceſſor, who was to come in his father's ſtead; ſo that there was an infinite number of people of thoſe going before, and of thoſe following him; and yet they ſhall not rejoice in him.

Notes on Chap. V.

Ver. 1. Keep thy foot, &c.] The manner of expreſſing honour and veneration in the eaſtern countries, was by uncovering the feet. It means, that we ought to be very careful to approach the temple of the Lord with the utmoſt reverence, both of body and mind.

Be more ready to hear, &c.] This is ſpoken in oppoſition to the worſhip of pagans, which abounded in repetitions. See Matt. vi. 7.

Ver. 6. Neither ſay thou before the angel, &c.] Think not to be abſolved from the obligations thou layeſt on thyſelf, as if they were of a trifling nature; for the avenging angel is always preſent to all your actions, and will puniſh you according to your demerit.

Ver. 7. In the multitude of dreams, &c.] For, as there are many vain fancies in the multitude of dreams, ſo there are many dangerous vanities in the multitude of haſty vows; therefore, to prevent being guilty of this crime, poſſeſs thy ſoul with an awful ſenſe of God's majeſty.

Before Chriſt 977.

for all: the king himſelf is ſerved by the field.

10 He that loveth ſilver, ſhall not be ſatisfied with ſilver; nor he that loveth abundance, with increaſe: this is alſo vanity.

11 When goods increaſe, they are increaſed that eat them: and what good is there to the owners thereof, ſaving the beholding of them with their eyes?

12 The ſleep of a labouring man is ſweet, whether he eat little or much: but the abundance of the rich will not ſuffer him to ſleep.

13 There is a ſore evil which I have ſeen under the ſun, namely, riches kept for the owners thereof to their hurt.

14 But thoſe riches periſh by evil travel: and he begetteth a ſon, and there is nothing in his hand.

15 As he came forth of his mothers womb, naked ſhall he return to go as he came, and ſhall take nothing of his labour, which he may carry away in his hand.

16 And this alſo is a ſore evil, that in all points as he came, ſo ſhall he go: and what profit hath he that hath laboured for the wind?

17 All his days alſo he eateth in darkneſs, and he hath much ſorrow, and wrath with his ſickneſs.

18 ¶ Behold, that which I have ſeen: it is good and comely for one to eat and to drink, and to enjoy the good of all his labour that he taketh under the ſun, all the days of his life, which God giveth him: for it is his portion.

19 Every man alſo to whom God hath given riches and wealth, and hath given him power to eat thereof, and to take his portion, and to rejoice in his labour; this is the gift of God.

Before Chriſt 977.

20 For he ſhall not much remember the days of his life: becauſe God anſwereth him in the joy of his heart.

CHAP. VI.

1 The vanity of riches without uſe, 3 of children, 6 and old age without riches. 9 The vanity of ſight, and wandering deſires. 11 The concluſion of vanities.

THere is an evil which I have ſeen under the ſun, and it is common among men:

2 A man to whom God hath given riches, wealth, and honour, ſo that he wanteth nothing for his ſoul of all that he deſireth, yet God giveth him not power to eat thereof, but a ſtranger eateth it: this is vanity, and it is an evil diſeaſe.

3 ¶ If a man beget an hundred children, and live many years, ſo that the days of his years be many, and his ſoul be not filled with good, and alſo that he have no burial, I ſay, that an untimely birth is better than he.

4 For he cometh in with vanity, and departeth in darkneſs, and his name ſhall be covered with darkneſs.

5 Moreover, he hath not ſeen the ſun, nor known any thing: this hath more reſt than the other.

6 ¶ Yea, though he live a thouſand years twice told, yet hath he ſeen no good: do not all go to one place?

7 All the labour of man is for his mouth, and yet the appetite is not filled.

8 For what hath the wiſe more than the fool? what hath the poor, that knoweth to walk before the living?

9 ¶ Better is the ſight of the eyes, than

Ver. 20. He ſhall not much remember, &c.] That is, he does not perceive or take notice how the days paſs, which ſhorten his life.

NOTES on Chap. VI.

Ver. 8. What hath the poor that knoweth to walk, &c.] What advantage has the modeſt man that knows how to behave himſelf? Caſtalio.

Ver. 9. Better is the ſight of the eyes, &c.] It is much better to enjoy what a man hath at preſent, than to live upon the hopes of that which his ravenous deſires continually purſue; but even this is but tranſient enjoyment, which death quickly deprives us of.

Before Chriſt 977. than the wandering of the deſire: this is alſo vanity and vexation of ſpirit.

10 That which hath been, is named already, and it is known that it is man: neither may he contend with him that is mightier than he.

11 ¶ Seeing there be many things that increaſe vanity, what is man the better?

12 For who knoweth what is good for man in this life, all the days of his vain life which he ſpendeth as a ſhadow? for who can tell a man what ſhall be after him under the ſun?

CHAP. VII.

1 Remedies againſt vanity, are a good name, 2 mortification, 7 patience, 11 wiſdom. 23 The difficulty of wiſdom.

A Good name is better than precious ointment; and the day of death, than the day of ones birth.

2 ¶ It is better to go to the houſe of mourning, than to go to the houſe of feaſting: for that is the end of all men, and the living will lay it to his heart.

3 Sorrow is better than laughter: for by the ſadneſs of the countenance the heart is made better.

4 The heart of the wiſe is in the houſe of mourning; but the heart of fools is in the houſe of mirth.

Before Chriſt 977. 5 It is better to hear the rebuke of the wiſe, than for a man to hear the ſong of fools.

6 For as the crackling of thorns under a pot, ſo is the laughter of the fool: this alſo is vanity.

7 ¶ Surely oppreſſion maketh a wiſe man mad, and a gift deſtroyeth the heart.

8 Better is the end of a thing, than the beginning thereof: and the patient in ſpirit is better than the proud in ſpirit.

9 Be not haſty in thy ſpirit to be angry: for anger reſteth in the boſom of fools.

10 Say not thou what is the cauſe that the former days were better than theſe? for thou doſt not enquire wiſely concerning this.

11 ¶ Wiſdom is good with an inheritance: and by it there is profit to them that ſee the ſun.

12 For wiſdom is a defence, and money is a defence: but the excellency of knowledge is, that wiſdom giveth life to them that have it.

13 Conſider the work of God: for who can make that ſtraight which he hath made crooked?

14 In the day of proſperity be joyful, but

Ver. 12. Who knoweth what is good for man, &c.] Who can tell, if a man ſhould obtain all that he deſires, whether it would not have been better for him to have been diſappointed?

NOTES on Chap. VII.

Ver. 1. A good name is better than precious ointment.] They uſed ointment in embalming the dead bodies, to preſerve them from noiſomeneſs and corruption; but a good name preſerves the memory of a man, and makes it grateful to poſterity.

Ver. 2. It is better to go into the houſe of mourning, &c.] Every perſon who is deſirous of being happy, ſhould embrace all opportunities of viſiting places, where the objects that preſent themſelves, put us in mind of the ſhortneſs of human life; as nothing animates us more powerfully to a religious life, than a frequent remembrance of our own mortality.

Ver. 3. Sorrow is better than laughter, &c.] Affliction is the beſt ſchool for inſtruction; and misfortunes often bring us to a practice of our duty, which a continued ſeries of adverſity could never be able to effect.

Ver. 12. Wiſdom giveth life to them that have it.] "Wiſdom is a tree of life to them that lay hold of her." Prov. iii. 18. This alludes, no doubt, to that tree of life in paradiſe; whence Adam was excluded, leſt he ſhould eat, and live for ever.

but in the day of adverſity conſider: God alſo hath ſet the one over againſt the other, to the end that man ſhould find nothing after him.

15 All things have I ſeen in the days of my vanity: there is a juſt man that periſheth in his righteouſneſs, and there is a wicked man that prolongeth his life in his wickedneſs.

16 Be not righteous over-much, neither make thyſelf over-wiſe: why ſhouldeſt thou deſtroy thyſelf?

17 Be not over-much wicked, neither be thou fooliſh: why ſhouldeſt thou die before thy time?

18 It is good that thou ſhouldeſt take hold of this, yea alſo, from this withdraw not thine hand: for he that feareth God, ſhall come forth of them all.

19 Wiſdom ſtrengtheneth the wiſe, more than ten mighty men which are in the city.

20 For there is not a juſt man upon earth that doeth good, and ſinneth not.

21 Alſo take no heed unto all words that are ſpoken; leſt thou hear thy ſervant curſe thee.

22 For oftentimes alſo thine own heart knoweth, that thou thyſelf likewiſe haſt curſed others.

23 ¶ All this have I proved by wiſdom: I ſaid I will be wiſe, but it was far from me.

Before Chriſt 700.

24 That which is far off, and exceeding deep, who can find it out?

25 I applied mine heart to know, and to ſearch, and to ſeek out wiſdom, and the reaſon of things, and to know the wickedneſs of folly, even of fooliſhneſs and madneſs:

26 And I find more bitter than death, the woman whoſe heart is ſnares and nets, and her hands as bands: whoſo pleaſeth God ſhall eſcape from her, but the ſinner ſhall be taken by her.

27 Behold, this have I found (ſaith the preacher) counting one by one, to find out the account:

28 Which yet my ſoul ſeeketh, but I find not: one man among a thouſand have I found, but a woman among all thoſe have I not found.

29 Lo, this only have I found, that God hath made man upright; but they have ſought out many inventions.

Ver. 16. Be not righteous overmuch, &c.] Do not affect the appearance of too much ſanctity, nor with unneceſſary ceremonies reduce thyſelf to diſtreſs; for ſuch behaviour is not more pleaſing to God, than a public ſhew of profaneneſs and immorality, to avoid the reputation of a hypocrite.

NOTES on Chap. VIII.

Ver. 1. Who is as the wiſe man? and who knoweth, &c.] Solomon, in this verſe, further obſerves, that the wiſdom which will render us happy in this world, ſhould not make us moroſe and ſupercilious, ſevere and rigorous, but kind and benign, gentle, and eaſy: for the more we know, the more humble we ought to be, and by the chearful and pleaſant appearance of our countenance, invite others to a familiarity with us.

to ſhine, and the boldneſs of his face ſhall be changed.

2 I counſel thee to keep the kings commandment, and that in regard of the oath of God.

3 Be not haſty to go out of his ſight: ſtand not in an evil thing, for he doeth whatſoever pleaſeth him.

4 Where the word of a king is, there is power: and who may ſay unto him, What doeſt thou?

5 Whoſo keepeth the commandment ſhall feel no evil thing: and a wiſe mans heart diſcerneth both time and judgment.

6 ¶ Becauſe to every purpoſe there is time, and judgment; therefore the miſery of man is great upon him.

7 For he knoweth not that which ſhall be: for who can tell him when it ſhall be?

8 There is no man that hath power over the ſpirit to retain the ſpirit; neither hath he power in the day of death: and there is no diſcharge in that war, neither ſhall wickedneſs deliver thoſe that are given to it.

9 All this have I ſeen, and applied my heart unto every work that is done under the ſun: there is a time wherein one man ruleth over another to his own hurt.

10 And ſo I ſaw the wicked buried, who had come and gone from the place of the holy, and they were forgotten in the city where they had ſo done: this is alſo vanity.

Before Christ 700.

14 There is a vanity which is done upon the earth, that there be juſt men unto whom it happeneth according to the work of the wicked: again, there be wicked men to whom it happeneth according to the work of the righteous: I ſaid, that this alſo is vanity:

An obedience to the divine will, inſpires him with a deſire to perform his duty here, and a continual hope of enjoying an everlaſting reward hereafter.

Ver. 8. Over the ſpirit.] By the ſpirit, is meant the anger of the king.

Neither hath he power in the day of death.] That is, if he be ſentenced to die, he muſt inevitably ſuffer.

There is no diſcharge in that war.] If any one has made war againſt the king, every one muſt fight without diſcharge.

Wickedneſs.] That is, rebellion.

Ver. 10. They were forgotten in the city, &c.] The Septuagint reads, "They went and were praiſed in the city "for what they had done."

Ver. 11, 12. Becauſe ſentence, &c.] Becauſe God has not immediately inflicted the puniſhment he has denounced againſt the wicked, upon the commiſſion of their crimes, they become hardened in their offences, and unmindful of his word. But the time will come, wherein the ſervants of God, notwithſtanding the afflictions they may labour under in this world, ſhall be amply recompenſed; and the ſinner ſhall then too late perceive the conſequence of his enormities, and fatally lament his former contempt of religion and virtue.

Before Chriſt 700.

17 Then I beheld all the work of God, that a man cannot find out the work that is done under the ſun: becauſe though a man labour to ſeek it out, yet he ſhall not find it; yea, further, though a wiſe man think to know it, yet ſhall he not be able to find it.

CHAP. IX.

1 Like things happen to good and bad.
4 There is a neceſſity of death unto men.
7 Comfort is all their portion in this life.
11 Gods providence ruleth over all.

FOR all this I conſidered in my heart even to declare all this, that the righteous, and the wiſe, and their works are in the hand of God: no man knoweth either love or hatred, by all that is before them.

2 All things come alike to all, there is one event to the righteous, and to the wicked; to the good, and to the clean, and to the unclean; to him that ſacrificeth, and to him that ſacrificeth not: as is the good, ſo is the ſinner; and he that ſweareth, as he that feareth an oath.

3 This is an evil among all things that are done under the ſun, that there is one event unto all: yea, alſo the heart of the ſons of men is full of evil, and madneſs is in their heart while they live, and after that they go to the dead.

4 ¶ For to him that is joined to all the living, there is hope: for a living dog is better than a dead lion.

5 For the living know that they ſhall die: but the dead know not any thing, neither have they any more a reward, for the memory of them is forgotten.

Before Chriſt 700.

6 Alſo their love, and their hatred, and their envy is now periſhed: neither have they any more a portion for ever in any thing that is done under the ſun.

7 ¶ Go thy way, eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with a merry heart; for God now accepteth thy works.

8 Let thy garments be always white; and let thy head lack no ointment.

9 Live joyfully with the wife whom thou loveſt, all the days of the life of thy vanity, which he hath given thee under the ſun, all the days of thy vanity: for that is thy portion in this life, and in thy labour which thou takeſt under the ſun.

10 Whatſoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wiſdom in the grave whither thou goeſt.

11 ¶ I returned, and ſaw under the ſun, that the race is not to the ſwift, nor the battel to the ſtrong, neither yet bread to the wiſe, nor yet riches to men of underſtanding, nor yet favour to men of ſkill, but time and chance happeneth to them all.

12 For man alſo knoweth not his time, as the fiſhes that are taken in an evil net, and as the birds that are caught in the ſnare; ſo are the ſons of men ſnared in an evil time, when it falleth ſuddenly upon them.

13 ¶ This wiſdom have I ſeen alſo under the ſun, and it ſeemed great unto me:

14 There was a little city, and few men within it; and there came a great king againſt

NOTES on Chap. IX.

Ver. 1. No man knoweth either love or hatred, &c.] The diſtribution of things, is ſo ſeemingly unequal, that it is difficult to determine, whether they are indications of the love or hatred of God.

Ver. 7. Accepteth.] Rather, as it may be rendered, proſpereth.

Ver. 8. Let thy garments be always white.] White garments were worn on occaſions of mirth and feſtivity.

Ver. 10. Whatſoever thy hand findeth to do; &c.] Remember to act with vigour, and improve every moment, in doing all the good in thy power; for now is the time of action, both with regard to the employments of the body, and thoſe of the mind; now is the ſeaſon for ſtudying the principles of wiſdom and virtue, for which thou wilt have no opportunity in the place whether thou art going.

Ver. 11. The race is not to the ſwift, &c.] That is, the events of things do not always anſwer to the probabilities of ſecond cauſes.

Before Christ 700.

againſt it, and beſieged it, and built great bulwarks againſt it:

15 Now there was found in it a poor wiſe man, and he by his wiſdom delivered the city; yet no man remembered that ſame poor man.

16 Then ſaid I, Wiſdom is better than ſtrength: nevertheleſs, the poor mans wiſdom is deſpiſed, and his words are not heard.

17 The words of wiſe men are heard in quiet, more than the cry of him that ruleth among fools.

18 Wiſdom is better than weapons of war: but one ſinner deſtroyeth much good.

CHAP. X.

1 Obſervations of wiſdom and folly, 16 of riot, 18 ſlothfulneſs, 19 and money.

DEad flies cauſe the ointment of the apothecary to ſend forth a ſtinking ſavour: ſo doth a little folly him that is in reputation for wiſdom and honour.

2 A wiſe mans heart is at his right hand; but a fools heart is at his left.

3 Yea alſo when he that is a fool walketh by the way, his wiſdom faileth him, and he ſaith to every one that he is a fool.

4 If the ſpirit of the ruler riſe up againſt thee, leave not thy place, for yielding pacifieth great offences.

Before Christ 700.

5 There is an evil which I have ſeen under the ſun, as an error which proceedeth from the ruler.

6 Folly is ſet in great dignity, and the rich ſit in low place.

7 I have ſeen ſervants upon horſes, and princes walking as ſervants upon the earth.

8 He that diggeth a pit, ſhall fall into it; and whoſo breaketh an hedge, a ſerpent ſhall bite him.

9 Whoſo removeth ſtones, ſhall be hurt therewith: and he that cleaveth wood, ſhall be endangered thereby.

10 If the iron be blunt, and he do not whet the edge, then muſt he put to more ſtrength: but wiſdom is profitable to direct.

11 Surely, the ſerpent will bite without enchantment, and a babbler is no better.

12 The words of a wiſe mans mouth are gracious: but the lips of a fool will ſwallow up himſelf.

13 The beginning of the words of his mouth is fooliſhneſs: and the end of his talk is miſchievous madneſs.

14 A fool alſo is full of words: a man cannot tell what ſhall be; and what ſhall be after him, who can tell him?

15 The labour of the fooliſh wearieth every

Ver. 17. The words of wiſe men are heard in quiet, &c.] The modeſt ſpeeches of a wiſe man, delivered without noiſe, will be more regarded than the moſt clamorous and imperious language of a powerful fool.

NOTES on Chap. X.

Ver. 2. A wiſe mans heart is at his right hand, &c.] A wiſe man's judgment never fails him, even in the greateſt difficulties, ſo that he manages all his affairs with dexterity; whereas a fool miſtakes in planning and executing his intentions: or, the right-hand may ſignify the path of virtue, religion, and life; and the left that of vice and death.

Ver. 4. If the ſpirit of the ruler, &c.] The Septuagint and Vulgate read, "If the ſpirit of him who hath power "ſhall aſcend upon thee;" i. e. If thou ſhalt be in great favour with the prince, leave not thy place; preſerve thy former moderation, or be not ſo elated, as to forget thy former condition; for yielding pacifieth great offences. The word rendered yielding, ſignifies a private condition; and if that ſenſe be retained, the words may be rendered, a private condition is leaſt expoſed to give offence.

Ver. 8. Whoſo breaketh an hedge, &c.] This may be allegorically applied to thoſe who contemn the traditions of the wiſe.

Ver. 9. Whoſo removeth ſtones.] That is, incroaches upon his neighbour's lands.

He that cleaveth wood, &c.] That is, cuts down trees which are the property of another. The puniſhment annexed to theſe violations of private property, allude to the ſanctions of the law.

Ver. 10. If the iron be blunt, &c.] This is a ſimile which the wiſe man makes uſe of, to illuſtrate the neceſſity of cultivating our minds.

Ver. 11. The ſerpent will bite without enchantment.] This alludes to the ancient practice of charming ſerpents with muſic.

Ver. 15. The labour of the fooliſh, &c.] Of thoſe who fatigue themſelves in difficult reſearches, while they are not capable of knowing things as obvious and plain as the high-road which leads into a city.

Before Chriſt 977. every one of them, becauſe he knoweth not how to go to the city.

16 ¶ Wo to thee, O land, when thy king is a child, and thy princes eat in the morning.

17 Bleſſed art thou, O land, when thy king is the ſon of nobles, and thy princes eat in due ſeaſon, for ſtrength and not for drunkenneſs.

18 ¶ By much ſlothfulneſs the building decayeth, and through idleneſs of the hands the houſe droppeth through.

19 ¶ A feaſt is made for laughter, and wine maketh mery: but money anſwereth all things.

20 ¶ Curſe not the king, no not in thy thought, and curſe not the rich in thy bed-chamber: for a bird of the air ſhall carry the voice, and that which hath wings ſhall tell the matter.

CHAP. XI.

1 Directions for charity. 7 Death in life, 9 and the day of judgment in the days of youth are to be thought on.

CAſt thy bread upon the waters: for thou ſhalt find it after many days.

2 Give a portion to ſeven, and alſo to eight; for thou knoweſt not what evil ſhall be upon the earth.

3 If the clouds be full of rain, they empty themſelves upon the earth: and if the tree fall toward the ſouth, or toward the north; in the place where the tree falleth, there it ſhall be. Before Chriſt 977.

4 He that obſerveth the wind, ſhall not ſow; and he that regardeth the clouds, ſhall not reap.

5 As thou knoweſt not what is the way of the ſpirit, nor how the bones do grow in the womb of her that is with child: even ſo thou knoweſt not the works of God who maketh all.

6 In the morning ſow thy ſeed, and in the evening withhold not thine hand: for thou knoweſt not whether ſhall proſper, either this or that, whether they both ſhall be alike good.

7 ¶ Truly the light is ſweet, and a pleaſant thing it is for the eyes to behold the ſun.

8 But if a man live many years, and rejoice in them all; yet let him remember the days of darkneſs, for they ſhall be many. All that cometh is vanity.

9 ¶ Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth, and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth, and walk in the ways of thy heart, and in the ſight of thine eyes: but know thou, that for all theſe things God will bring thee into judgment.

10 Therefore remove ſorrow from thy heart, and put away evil from thy fleſh: for childhood and youth are vanity.

Ver. 16. When thy princes eat in the morning.] Indulge themſelves in unſeaſonable luxury and exceſs, inſtead of attending to the buſineſs of ſtate.

NOTES on Chap. XI.

Ver. 1. Caſt thy bread upon the waters, &c.] Waters are frequently uſed in ſcripture for affliction or diſtreſs, and to caſt bread upon the waters, implies the relief of the poor by the kind offices of charity. What thou thus beſtoweſt, thou ſhalt find it after many days. God will reward thee for thy beneficence. The word tranſlated bread, ſignifies alſo wheat; and what is rendered waters, ground, that is moiſt, or lies near the waters; ſo that it may be rendered, "Caſt thy ſeed into moiſt ground, and in time "thou ſhalt find it again."

Ver. 3. If the clouds be full of rain, &c.] As the rain falls promiſcuouſly upon the earth, and as the wood cutter cares not which way the tree falls; ſo he who does acts of charity and humanity, ought to perform them without partiality.

Ver. 5. The way of the ſpirit.] It ſhould be tranſlated, "The way of the wind." See John iii. 8.

Ver. 9. Rejoice, O young man, &c.] This ſeems to be ſpoken ironically. Do ſo, indulge thyſelf in youthful vanities; but beware leſt, in giving an innocent and lawful indulgence to thy youth, thou doſt tranſgreſs the bounds of virtue and piety; for know, that God will certainly puniſh thy offences, either in thy own perſon, or in thy poſterity.

Before Chriſt 977.

CHAP. XII.

1 The Creator is to be remembered in due time. 8 The preachers care to edify. 13 The fear of God is the chief antidote of vanity.

REmember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou ſhalt ſay, I have no pleaſure in them;

2 While the ſun, or the light, or the moon, or the ſtars be not darkened, nor the clouds return after the rain:

3 In the day when the keepers of the houſe ſhall tremble, and the ſtrong men ſhall bow themſelves, and the grinders ceaſe becauſe they are few, and thoſe that look out of the windows be darkened,

4 And the doors ſhall be ſhut in the ſtreets, when the ſound of the grinding is low, and he ſhall riſe up at the voice of the bird, and all the daughters of muſick ſhall be brought low;

Before Chriſt 977.

5 Alſo when they ſhall be afraid of that which is high, and fears ſhall be in the way, and the almond-tree ſhall flouriſh, and the graſhopper ſhall be a burden, and deſire ſhall fail: becauſe man goeth to his long home, and the mourners go about the ſtreets:

6 Or ever the ſilver cord be looſed, or the golden bowl be broken, or the pitcher be broken at the fountain, or the wheel broken at the ciſtern.

7 Then ſhall the duſt return to the earth as it was: and the ſpirit ſhall return unto God who gave it.

8 ¶ Vanity of vanities, ſaith the preacher; all is vanity.

9 And

NOTES on Chap. XII.

Ver. 1. Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth.] He ſpeaks of old age, adviſing thoſe who are young, to be religious while they are ſo, and not to defer the ſervice of God, and the care of their ſouls, in hopes of a long life.

While the evil days come not.] That is, before they come.

Ver. 2. While the ſun—or the moon, or the ſtars, &c.] That is, before the faculties and powers of the mind, the underſtanding, the judgment, the fancy, the memory, be dimmed and obſcured.

Nor the clouds return after rain.] That is, ſorrow ſucceeds ſorrow.

Ver. 3. When the keepers of the houſe ſhall tremble.] That is, the arms and hands which are appointed for the guard and defence of the body, become feeble and paralytic.

And the ſtrong men ſhall bow themſelves.] The back, thighs, and legs, in which the ſtrength of man chiefly conſiſts, ſhall bend and ſtoop.

The grinders.] The teeth.

Thoſe that look out of the windows.] The eyes.

Ver. 4. The doors ſhall be ſhut.] The lips ſhall be cloſed by reaſon of the falling of the teeth, and the voice become weak and feeble.

He ſhall riſe at the voice of the bird.] Early in the morning, even at cock-crow, for want of reſt at night.

All the daughters of muſic.] The ears ſhall be dull of hearing.

Ver. 5. They ſhall be afraid of that which is high.] Any hillock or riſing ground, at which they may ſtumble; or any eminence from which they may fall.

The almond-tree ſhall flouriſh.] The head ſhall grow hoary, like the bloſſoms of the white flowering almond-tree.

The graſhopper ſhall be a burden.] The whole body being dried, ſhrunk, and withered, like a graſhopper, ſhall be troubleſome and uneaſy to itſelf.

Deſire ſhall fail.] All ſorts of appetites.

The mourners go about the ſtreets.] This is in alluſion to the ceremony then in practice, for mourners to go about the ſtreets in honour of the dead.

Ver. 6. Or ever the ſilver cord be looſed.] By the ſilver cord is meant, either the ſpinal marrow, which conſumes when the back is bowed by age; or elſe the nerves, which are ſaid to be looſened, when they can no longer perform their office of conveying ſenſation to the ſoul.

The golden bowl.] Some, by this, underſtand the membrane which incloſes the brain, which may be ſaid to be broken, when its natural tone or elaſticity is deſtroyed. The Chaldee renders it, The vertex or top of the head.

Or the pitcher be broken at the fountain.] The large arteries and veins near the heart, which convey the blood to and fro from the principal organ of life, may juſtly be termed the fountain of motion, in which animal life conſiſts. Some think the bladder is here intended, which, in old age, with difficulty keeps his contents. The Chaldee renders it, " The gall upon the liver."

Or the wheel broken at the ciſtern.] This ſignifies the laſt approach of death. There are various interpretations of this metaphor; but the beſt ſeems to be that which ſuppoſes, that by the wheel, is meant the great artery annexed to the left ventricle of the heart; and by the ciſtern, the left ventricle itſelf. Others take it to mean the alvus, or its diſcharges, which are leſs certain or conſtant in old age, than at any other time.

Before Chriſt 977.

9 And moreover, becauſe the preacher was wiſe, he ſtill taught the people knowledge; yea, he gave good heed, and ſought out, and ſet in order many proverbs.

10 The preacher ſought to find out acceptable words, and that which was written was upright, even words of truth.

11 The words of the wiſe are as goads, and as nails faſtened by the maſters of aſſemblies, which are given from one ſhepherd.

Before Chriſt 977.

12 And further, by theſe, my ſon, be admoniſhed: of making many books there is no end, and much ſtudy is a wearineſs of the fleſh.

13 ¶ Let us hear the concluſion of the whole matter, Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man.

14 For God ſhall bring every work into judgment, with every ſecret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil.

Ver. 11. As goads.] To excite the minds of the ſlothful to acts of virtue, as the goad does the ſlow ox when he draws the plough.

As nails faſtened by the maſters of aſſemblies.] The Hebrew ſignifies, "The authors of collections." The word ſhepherd means a king or ruler. The words of the wiſe are not only as goads to ſpur us forward to all good duties, they go yet deeper, (ſays biſhop Hall's paraphraſe) they are as nails driven up to the head by gracious teachers, ſo as they cannot eaſily be pulled out.

Ver. 14. For God ſhall bring every work into judgment, &c.] We muſt of neceſſity underſtand him here of a future judgment, unleſs we will make him contradict himſelf, and render the whole ſcope and deſign of the book unintelligible.

The End of the Book of ECCLESIASTES.

THE Song of SOLOMON.

The ARGUMENT.

The ſubject of this poem is the amours of Solomon with ſome beautiful perſon; it expreſſes the moſt fervent affection, and breathes nothing but the chaſtity of wedded love. The form is dramatic. The perſons of the drama are, Solomon, his bride, the virgins, the companions of the bride, and the youths, the friends of the bridegroom, ſee John. iii. 29. Judg. xiv. 11. Pſalm xlv. 14. Matt. xxv. 1, and ix. 15. Some have denied that Solomon writ this poem by divine inſpiration. The generality however are of the contrary opinion, and underſtand it in a figurative or allegorical ſenſe, and typical of the union of Chriſt and his church, under the form of a paſtoral poem. In truth it ſeems to be a real amour, and to have its foundation in fact; and yet deſigned (as tradition has handed down) to be a vehicle of religious truths. See the like figures Iſaiah liv. 5. Jer. iii. 1. Ezek. xvi, and xxiii. Epheſ. v. 23. Rev. xix. 7. &c. The Jews were not permitted to read this ſong till they were thirty years old.

NOTES on Chap. I.

It is proper to remark, that the nuptial ceremony among the Jews, continued for the ſpace of ſeven days. Gen. xxix. 27. Judges xiv. 15, 17. and ſo this divine poem or paſtoral, is propoſed to be divided into ſeven parts. The firſt day's eclogue contains chap. i. to chap. ii. 6. the ſecond, chap. ii. 7. to verſe 17. the third, chap. iii. to verſe 1. the fourth, chap. v. 2. to chap. vi. 9. the fifth, chap. vi. 10. to vii. 11. the ſixth, chap. vii. 11. to viii. 3. the ſeventh, chap. viii. 4. to the end. This diviſion

Before Chriſt 1014.

6 Look not upon me, becauſe I am black, becauſe the ſun hath looked upon me: my mothers children were angry with me, they made me the keeper of the vineyards, but mine own vineyard have I not kept.

7 Tell me, O thou whom my ſoul loveth, where thou feedeſt, where thou makeſt thy flock to reſt at noon: for why ſhould I be as one that turneth aſide by the flocks of thy companions?

Before Chriſt 1014.

8 ¶ If thou know not, O thou faireſt among women, go thy way forth by the foot-ſteps of the flock, and feed thy kids beſide the ſhepherds tents.

9 I have compared thee, O my love, to a company of horſes in Pharaohs chariots.

diviſion was made by the learned Boſſuet, bp. of Meaux: but there is another method of dividing them. The firſt day, from chap. i. to chap. ii. 8. the ſecond, chap. vi. 8. to chap. iii. 6. the third, chap. iii. 6. to iv. 8. the fourth, chap. iv. 8. to v. 2. the fifth, chap. v. 2. to vi. 11. the ſixth, chap. vi. 11. to viii. 5. the ſeventh, chap. viii. 5. to the end. This laſt diviſion was propoſed, with no little judgment, by an anonymous author.

Ver. 1. The ſong of ſongs, which is Solomons.] The expreſſion, ſong of ſongs, is an Hebraiſm, and ſignifies the moſt excellent ſong, as the holy of holies is the moſt holy, and the king of kings, the greateſt king: as the Hebrews have no degrees of compariſon, they uſe a repetition of the word.

Ver. 2. Let him kiſs me, &c.] In order to underſtand this firſt day's eclogue, we may ſuppoſe the bride to have been brought home the preceding evening to Solomon's palace, and lodged in his badorim or ſeraglio. In the morning, finding herſelf with the bride-maids, the bridegroom being withdrawn to his rural amuſements, ſhe breaks out in the moſt rapturous expreſſions of love and tenderneſs, and with the agreeable delirium of a love-ſtricken mind, addreſſes herſelf to the object of her affection, as if he were preſent. The paſſions, in their paroxiſms, are a temporary madneſs, which put men upon ſaying and doing a multitude of things, as if the objects themſelves were preſent to our ſenſes, when only the ideas of them are, in a very ſtrong manner, impreſſed on the imagination. Should the nice reader imagine the warmth of expreſſion, and the images made uſe of by the bride, inconſiſtent with female delicacy, he ſhould reflect on the difference between the Eaſtern and European manners. The women there have no other company but that of their own ſex, and therefore become not only the more talkative, but likewiſe the more licentious for that very reaſon. No wonder then, that things are repreſented under very bold figures by the writers of thoſe countries, and that the women are repreſented, as breathing their warmeſt wiſhes without reſtraint.—This is thought to repreſent the church, the virgin daughter of Sion, wiſhing, in the moſt paſſionate ſtrain, for ſome token of the love of her great bridegroom, the Prince of Peace.

Ver. 3. The ſavour of thy good ointments, &c.] Ointments were uſed in thoſe hot countries to cloſe up the pores, and fragrant ointments were uſed on nuptial and other feſtival occaſions. Hence the odour of ſweet ointments became a common metaphor, to expreſs the extenſive acceptableneſs of a good name; in which ſenſe it is here uſed, and is applicable to Chriſt, the ſpouſe of the church, who was without all ſpot or blemiſh.

Ver. 4. Draw me.] This is in alluſion to the ſport, wherein a perſon, who is foremoſt, carries a cord, which being held by thoſe behind him, draws them after him as he quickens his pace.

Hath brought me into his chambers.] The eaſtern nations as formerly, ſo now, have retirements, where the women live ſeparate and unſeen by all other men, but the great perſon to whoſe pleaſure they are dedicated.

The upright love thee.] This interpretation is better, "Thou art altogether lovely."

Ver. 5. I am black—as the tents of Kedar.] The tents of the wild Arabs, called in ſcripture Kedarenes, are, to this day, of a very dark or black colour, being made of the ſhaggy hair of their black goats. This alludes to the diſtreſſed condition of the church, which, tho' rendered ungrateful by the rage of perſecution, was intrinſically beautiful.

Ver. 6. They made me the keeper of the vineyards.] She ſeems to mean, that ſhe was put to the moſt ſervile employments, in which ſhe could not preſerve her beauty, becauſe ſhe was like one, who being ſent to watch another's vineyard, could not look after his own.

Ver. 7. Tell me, O thou, &c.] A fine apoſtrophe! This deſcribes the longings of the church after her chief ſhepherd, Chriſt.

To reſt at noon.] The ſhepherds and their flocks, in thoſe hot countries, uſed to retire to ſhelter while the ſun was in his meridian.

As one that turneth aſide, &c.] If we only tranſpoſe a letter in the original, the word will ſignify a wanderer or harlot; but that the former is the ſenſe of the Hebrew, we have the concurrent teſtimony of the verſion of Aquila, Jerom, the Vulgate, Ethiopic, Syriac, and Chaldee.

Ver. 8. If thou know not, &c.] This is the reply of the virgins, and breaths all the ſimplicity of paſtoral life.

Ver. 9. I have compared thee, O my love.] Here the bridegroom ſpeaks, who meets the bride and her virgin companions in ſearch of him.

To a company of horſes in Pharaohs chariots.] Egypt was famous, at this time, for its horſes and war-chariots. The Hebrew word rendered a companion of horſes, ſignifies a mare; and if we conſider the beauty of theſe animals, and how much they were valued in thoſe eaſtern countries, this compariſon will not appear coarſe or indelicate.

Before Chriſt 1014.

10 Thy cheeks are comely with rows of jewels, thy neck with chains of gold.

11 We will make thee borders of gold with ſtuds of ſilver.

12 ¶ While the king ſitteth at his table, my ſpikenard ſendeth forth the ſmell thereof.

13 A bundle of myrrh is my well-beloved unto me; he ſhall lie all night betwixt my breaſts.

14 My beloved is unto me, as a cluſter of camphire in the vineyards of En-gedi.

15 Behold, thou art fair, my love; behold, thou art fair, thou haſt doves eyes.

16 Behold, thou art fair, my beloved, yea, pleaſant: alſo our bed is green.

Ver. 10. Thy cheeks are comely, &c.] This verſe is happily explained, by the dreſs ſtill uſed by the Arabian ladies. The women of quality, who have a great many pearls, put them about their necks, and upon their caps. They have likewiſe gold chains going about their necks, and hanging down upon their breaſts with ſtrings of coloured gauze, which they tie, and faſten a maſſy gold or ſilver bonnet with: this gauze is bordered with zechins, and other pieces of gold money that hang about the forehead, and both cheeks. The ordinary women wear ſmall ſilver coin, which they often cover their whole forehead-piece with, like fiſh-ſcales; and this is one of the principal ornaments for the face. D'Arvieux's travels.

Ver. 11. We will make thee borders.] Here the virgins ſpeak.

Ver. 13. A bundle of myrrh—he ſhall lay all night, &c.] The orientals were accuſtomed to tie up bundles of myrrh, and put them into their boſoms, to exhilarate their ſpirits, and probably to prevent barrenneſs.

Ver. 14. A cluſter of camphire in the vineyards of En-gedi.] Rather of cypreſs-flowers, which produces its flowers in cluſters, famous for their aromatic ſmell. The vineyards of En gedi were not ſo much planted with vines, as aromatic ſhrubs, which the Jews cultivated, for the ſake of their gums and balſams, and being managed as vines, the nurſeries were thence called vineyards.

Ver. 15. Behold—thou haſt dove's eyes.] This is ſpoken by the bridegroom. The eyes of the Syrian doves were large and beautiful, remarkable for their fulneſs and fire, and alſo for the chaſtneſs of their looks; witneſs the pigeon called the carrier.

Ver. 16. Our bed is green.] Rather flowery. This is the ſpeech of the ſpouſe.

Ver. 17. Our rafters of fir.] The Hebrew may be rendered, Our cielings of cypreſs. The Hebrew BRULIM, are a peculiar kind of trees, which might be called after the original, BRULINE trees. They, in form, reſemble the cypreſs, and the cedar in ſmell.

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 1. I am the roſe of Sharon.] The Vulgate, Septuagint, Ethiopic, and Arabic read, "I am a flower of the "field;" and this is preferable to our verſion, becauſe the bride, who is the ſpeaker, inſtead of extolling the charms of her perſon, modeſtly repreſents her beauty as nothing extraordinary.

Ver. 2. As the lily, &c.] The bridegroom's reply: be it ſo; that my love is a lily in the vallies, yet ſhe is as much ſuperior to the maidens about her, as the lily to the dull flowers of the briar or bramble.

Ver. 3. As the apple-tree.] Rather the citron-tree.

Sons.] Youths, rather.

Ver. 4. He brought me, &c.] It may be rendered in the imperative, or rather optative mood, O bring me, &c.

His banner over me was love.] The Hebrew may be rendered, "His banner againſt me was love;" that is, he attacks me under the banner of love; the wars or conqueſts of lovers being a common expreſſion; or, as Houbigant, "He hath brought me into the houſe of wine, "and hath magnified or enlarged his love towards me."

Ver. 5. With flagons.] The Arabic reads, with verdant herbs.

Apples.] Citrons.

Ver. 7. I charge you, &c.] This was addreſſed to the chorus of virgins. The eaſtern women were no leſs fond of the animals mentioned in the text, than modern females are of their lap-dogs. It is natural to charge or adjure a perſon by that which is moſt dear or valued. It means, that ſhe wiſhed their roes and hinds might die, if they diſturbed the ſleep of her beloved, or awaked him by their talkativeneſs.

Ver. 8. The voice of my beloved, &c.] Here the ſecond day's eclogue begins, and belongs wholly to the ſpouſe, and is addreſſed by her in a continued narration, after the Grecian manner, to the chorus. This is intitled the ſecond day's eclogue, tho' only the former part appears to have a relation to the incidents of the ſecond day: the ſecond part reciting the adventures of the night following; and the whole may be ſuppoſed to have been related to the virgins early on the morning of the third day.

Ver. 9. Like a roe.] Swiftneſs of foot was eſteemed a great accompliſhment among the ancients. See 2 Sam. ii. 18.

He ſtandeth behind our wall.] The eaſtern buildings generally ſurround a ſquare inner court: the bridegroom is deſcribed as entering the outward apartments, and gradually ſeen as he made his approach, firſt behind the wall, then looking thro' the windows; and laſtly, putting his head through the lattice-work, which probably was on the top of the houſe: and theſe latticed windows or balconies, were left open only during the celebration of ſome feſtival: this is a circumſtance, tho' not adverted to by the critics, which amounts to an oblique proof of the poem's being compoſed on a nuptial ceremony.

Ver. 10. Riſe up, my love, &c.] A beautiful paſtoral deſcription! The ſpiritual meaning—That diſmal time is now paſt, when error, ignorance, and wickedneſs, like floods in the winter ſeaſon, deluged the world; thoſe uncomfortable days are over, when thou couldeſt ſee and enjoy but little of me. All the tokens of a new world appear, and invite thee to partake of the pleaſures produced by the nearer approaches of the Son of righteouſneſs, who cauſes ſuch abundant bleſſings to ſpring up, that even the heavenly hoſt ſing for joy, and excite mankind to join in the univerſal concert of praiſe and thankſgiving.

Ver. 14. Thou art in the clefts—in the ſecret places of the ſtairs.] It would be more intelligible, if we rendered, O my dove, through the clefts of the rocks, through the ſecret places of the ſtairs, &c. This alludes to the bride's being above in her chamber.

Ver. 15. Take us the foxes, &c.] Foxes abound in Judea, and theſe creatures are ſaid to be fond of grapes, making great havock in vineyards. Hence the hunters did not ſcruple to eat their fleſh in autumn, being then grown fat with feeding on them. The myſtic ſenſe of this verſe may be this—A fox is uſed in the New Teſtament, to ſignify a perſecutor; a vineyard is the ſymbol which ſtands for the church; the tender grapes may be ſuppoſed to be the converts made in its infancy, who were expoſed to great dangers, and perhaps not firmly eſtabliſhed in the faith; the defending theſe ſhoots from perſecutions, was the only means of preventing the total decline of the church; and this is what was meant by the bridegroom, when he calls upon his friends to take the foxes.

Ver. 17. Until the day break.] We ſhould read, until the day breathe or blow freſh. In thoſe hot countries, the dawn of the day is attended with a fine refreſhing breeze.

The mountains of Bether.] This was perhaps a ſtrong town in the country of Bethron. 2 Sam. ii. 29. not far from Trachonitis, probably the ſame which Hadrian beſieged, in the ſeventeenth year of his reign, and named Badr by Abugiafar, in his hiſtory of the Saracens.

4 It was but a little that I paſſed from them, but I found him whom my ſoul loveth: I held him, and would not let him go, until I had brought him into my mothers houſe, and into the chamber of her that conceived me.

5 I charge you, O ye daughters of Jeruſalem, by the roes, and by the hinds of the field, that ye ſtir not up, nor awake my love, till he pleaſe.

ſearched for him, who, from the deſcriptions given of him by the prophets, is become the beloved of my ſoul, the Meſſiah. But though I have ſought him with the moſt anxious attention, and examined all the ſacred volumes for information; yet all I can find, are predictions and ſhadows of him, which aſſure me he will come, but are inſufficient to convey an adequate idea of him.

Ver. 3. The watchmen.] By the watchmen, perhaps, are meant, the eunuchs appointed to watch over the females.

The city.] By this, perhaps, is meant only a range of pavilions, appropriated to the uſe of the maſter of the ſeraglio. In the myſtic ſenſe, the watchmen are the prophets, and the city, the whole Jewiſh or Chriſtian church.

Ver. 4. Into my mothers houſe.] This houſe of the bride's mother, ſeems to have been ſome pavilion, or temporary habitation, aſſigned her within this incloſure, during the time of the nuptial ſolemnity.

Ver. 6. Who is this that cometh, &c.] Rather, What is this? Here begins the third day's eclogue, which opens with the introduction of the bridal bed or pavilion, and concludes with the ceremony of taking off the bride's veil. The virgins, and perhaps the ſpouſe herſelf, ſaw ſomewhat at a diſtance, ſupported on pillars, and ſurrounded with a cloud of incenſe, according to the eaſtern's cuſtom, who uſe ſtrong fumigations by way of perfumes, to receive their princes in their journies with them, by way of honour, and eſpecially the intended conſort of their prince, in her way from foreign countries; and probably make uſe of them to drive away thoſe inſects, whoſe bite is troubleſome in hot countries. The virgins or ſpouſe, therefore aſks, What is this that cometh from towards the wilderneſs? The ſpiritual meaning aſcribed to this paſſage is, that it is a viſion of multitudes of people, gathering to Chriſt from the moſt deſolate places, appearing like the pillars of ſmoke which ariſe from the altar of burnt-offerings; no leſs acceptable to God, than the ſweet odours that aſcend from the altar of incenſe in the holy place.

Ver. 7. Behold his bed, &c.] The anſwer of ſome other of the virgins, who now perceived it more diſtinctly. This piece was perhaps intended as a preſent to the bride, agreeable to a like cuſtom in ancient Greece. On the third day after marriage, the bride and her relations preſented gifts in thoſe countries to the bridegroom; and he and his friends in their turn made preſents to the bride. Theſe preſents conſiſted of golden veſſels, beds, couches, &c.

Ver. 9. King Solomon made—a chariot.] The ſpeech this of ſome other virgins. This ſeems to ſignify rather a bridal bed, drawn or carried about in ſtate like Palanquins. Probably Solomon is repreſented as coming in it verſe 11. in the higheſt nuptial ſplendor.

Ver. 10. The midſt thereof being paved with love, &c.] The ſenſe may be, The middle thereof is wrought in needlework or embroidery, by the daughters of Jeruſalem, and preſented to the king as a token of their love, affection, and regard for him.

Ver. 11. Go forth, &c,] This dialogue having paſſed in the bride's apartment, ſhe now ſeems to ſend them forth to meet the bridegroom, who drew near with his retinue.

With the crown, &c.] It was the cuſtom with ſeveral nations to put crowns or garlands on the heads of the new married couple. The Miſchna tells us, that the like cuſtom prevailed among the Jews; and here it ſeems to intimate, that this ceremony was performed by one of the parents. Theſe nuptial crowns were not only chaplets of leaves and flowers, but occaſionally, among the Hebrews, conſiſted likewiſe of gold and ſilver, according to the rank and condition of the parties.

BEhold, thou art fair, my love, behold, thou art fair, thou haſt doves eyes within thy locks: thy hair is as a flock of goats, that appear from mount Gilead.

2 Thy teeth are like a flock of ſheep that are even ſhorn, which came up from the waſhing: whereof every one bear twins, and none is barren among them.

3 Thy lips are like a thread of ſcarlet, and thy ſpeech is comely: thy temples are like a piece of a pomegranate within thy locks. Before Chriſt 1014.

4 Thy neck is like the tower of David builded for an armoury, whereon there hang a thouſand bucklers, all ſhields of mighty men.

5 Thy two breaſts are like two young roes that are twins, which feed among the lilies.

6 Until the day break, and the ſhadows flee away, I will get me to the mountain of myrrh, and to the hill of frankincenſe.

Notes on Chap. IV.

Ver. 1. Thou haſt doves eyes within thy locks.] Alluding perhaps to the manner of wearing the hair in the eaſtern countries, where it reaches almoſt as far as the eyes. But it may be better to render, behind thy veil; for the Septuagint and Syriac render it veil, and then the paſſage will allude to the bridegroom's removing the veil of the bride. The veils of the eaſtern females were perforated with holes for the eyes, which might appear ſo charmingly through thoſe apertures as to captivate the heart. The bride appearing for the firſt time without her veil, in the preſence of the perſon with whom ſhe was entering into the moſt endearing connections, it might well be expected that conſciouſneſs of beauty, and exquiſite ſenſibility, mixing with virgin baſhfulneſs, would improve the native luſtre of her eyes, and convey to them all that brightneſs and ſparkling for which thoſe of the eaſtern doves were remarkable.

As a flock of goats that appear from mount Gilead.] Grotius ſays, that the Hebrew galaſh rendered appear ſignifies to riſe betimes in the Arabic, and therefore his opinion is, that the head of the fair Solomith is compared to the beautiful mountain Gilead, and her treſſes to the goats which brouſe on that mountain. As the hair of the eaſtern goats were ſoft, ſleek, and of a dark colour, ſuch as that of the bride may be ſuppoſed to have been, it is imagined that the treſſes of her beautiful head are compared to the numerous herds of goats, which covered the flowery mountain of Gilead from top to bottom.

Ver. 2. Thy teeth are like a flock of ſheep, &c.] He praiſes the ſoundneſs, whiteneſs, and perfectneſs of her ſet of teeth. Even ſhorn, that is, of an equal ſize: bearing twins, exactly paired and matched: none is barren, the whole ſet is entire, and none are wanting.

Ver. 3. Thy lips are like a thread of ſcarlet.] That is, thin, and admirably red.

Thy temples are like a piece of pomegranate,] The original may be rendered in the following manner. "As the flower of the pomegranate, ſo are thy cheeks without a veil." i. e. when the veil is laid aſide, thy cheeks appear of that lively colour which glows in the bloſſom of the pomegranate. Taylor in his Hebrew concordance ſays, a ſection of the pomegranate gives a fine reſemblance of a beautiful cheek. Perhaps too here may be an alluſion to the bride's modeſty. The bridegroom may mean, that upon removal of his bride's veil, her cheeks glowed as red with bluſhes as the boſom or flower of the pomegranate. It is no wonder that the eaſtern ladies, who were educated with ſuch great reſerve, on their appearing among men for the firſt time, ſhould have the blood mount into the face in briſker floods than ordinary.

Ver. 4. Like the tower of David builded for an armoury, &c.] Inſtead of for an armoury, ſome render "Built with battlements, or running up into ſpires." Her long, erect, and graceful neck, formed according to the moſt exact proportion and ſymmetry, and adorned with gold and precious ſtones, is elegantly compared to ſome tower in Sion, remarkable for the loftineſs of its ſituation, and elegance; not leſs admired for its architecture, than its furniture, which conſiſted of armour placed in the moſt regular figures.

Ver. 5. Thy two breaſts are like two young roes, &c.] Inſtead of breaſts we ſhould read according to the Hebrew paps; the original likewiſe is literally two twin fawns of the roe. The roe is an animal of a reddiſh colour, it abounds in Judea, and is of ſuch exquiſite beauty, that it has its Hebrew name Tzebi, ſignifying beauty, from thence the paps are compared to twins becauſe they are generally ſuppoſed to bear a ſtrong reſemblance to each other. While the fawns of the roe are browſing among, or between the white lilies, only the little round convexity of their backs is to be ſeen, and to this the compariſon ſeems particularly to refer, In Syria the lilies grow common in the fields, and are remarkable for their ſnowy whiteneſs.

Ver. 6. I will get me to the mountain of myrrh, &c.] Theſe were the moſt valuable perfumes of the eaſt. The bridegroom therefore concludes his compliments to the bride, by comparing her to an entire heap of thoſe precious eſſences.

Ver. 8. Come with me from Lebanon, &c.] Here begins the fourth day's eclogue, commenced by the bridegroom. He informs the bride, that ſhe is under his protection. The ſummits of the mountains mentioned in the text were infeſted with wild beaſts, whence he invites her to his arms as a place of ſafety, and encourages her to look down in ſecurity amidſt the dangers ſhe was apprehenſive of. Here is a modeſt and tacit commendation of courage, which generally makes its way into the boſoms of the more timorous ſex, and is moſt commonly able to captivate and ſecure their affections.

Ver. 9. My ſiſter.] This is a term of endearment.

With one of thine eyes.] With a ſingle glance of thine eyes.

With one chain of thy neck.] Metaphorically, "With "one (graceful) turn of thy neck." What effect the graceful turn of a fine neck muſt have on a lover's heart, one of the moſt elegant and polite writers of Rome has informed us. The Vulgate reads, "With one curl or "ringlet of thy neck."

Ver. 11. The ſmell of thy garments is like the ſmell, &c.] The garments uſed to be perfumed on nuptial occaſions. Lebanon abounded in odoriferous trees.

Ver. 12. A garden incloſed, &c.] Here the bridegroom makes a public declaration, that he had received the bride pure and inviolate: this the law required, Deut. xxii. 15. Among the modern Jews, the bridegroom, before conſummation, makes a prayer, in which is this petition, "Suffer not a ſtranger to enter into the ſealed fountain, "that the ſervant of our loves may keep the ſeed of ho-"lineſs and purity, and may not be barren."

Ver. 13. Thy plants.] He carries on the metaphor of a garden incloſed, and compares her virtues and accompliſhments to all the choiceſt productions of an eaſtern paradiſe. Inſtead of plants, we may render it productions.

Camphire.] Cypreſs.

Ver. 14. Aloes.] That is, The wood of aloes, which dried, is of an agreeable ſmell. See note on pſalm xlv. 8.

Ver. 16. Awake, O north wind, &c.] The bride ſpeaks, and wiſhes that this garden, as he was pleaſed to term it, and for which he had expreſſed ſo much fondneſs, might be ſo breathed on by the kindly gales, as to produce every thing that might contribute to his delight. The north and ſouth winds are the only two deſirable winds in this country; the former cloſes up the pores of the trees, and prevents their effluvia from ſpending themſelves too much; the latter, ſucceeding in due ſeaſon, relaxes them again, and makes the aromatic gums drop freely.— The myſtical ſenſe is thought to be, an addreſs for the inſpirations of the holy ſpirit to breathe perpetually upon the church, and to fill the world with the ſweet odour of the knowledge of Chriſt.

NOTES on Chap. V.

Ver. 1. I have eaten my hony-comb, &c.] "I have eaten "my pure wood-honey with my honey of the palm." Wood-honey is that which, in hot weather, burſts the comb, and runs down the hollow trees or rocks, where, in Judea, the bees made great ſtore of honey. By one of theſe words, perhaps, may be meant juice, or aromatic gums, diſtilled from trees, agreeable to the bride's wiſh in the laſt verſe of the preceding chapter.

CHAP.

Eat, O my friends, &c.] This invitation is probably metaphorical, inviting his friends to feaſt on the ſight of their happineſs, and ſympathize with their joys.

Ver. 2. I ſleep, but my heart waketh, &c.] Here the fifth day's eclogue commences, which opens with a ſpeech of the bride, wherein ſhe recounts an adventure, or more probably a dream, to the virgins her attendants.

Ver. 4. By the hole of the door.] It was uſual with the ancients, to ſecure their doors by a croſs-bar or bolt, which was faſtened by night with a little button or pin. In the upper part of the door was left a round hole, thro' which any perſon might thruſt in his arm, and remove the bar, unleſs this additional ſecurity was added.

Ver. 5. My hands dropped with myrrh.] Precious, running, unadulterated myrrh, which the bride, to ſhew her eſteem, had prepared to anoint his head with, after his being expoſed to the inclemency of the night.

Ver. 7. They took away my veil.] That is, in order to diſcover who ſhe was. That the eunuchs are authorized to treat the females after this manner, is confirmed from the beſt accounts of Perſia.

Ver. 11. His head is as the moſt fine gold, &c.] Black hair was in great eſteem in the eaſtern countries, yet they tinged it with a vegetable called henna, which was probably the cypreſs, and which gave it a yellowiſh or golden tincture. Gold-duſt itſelf being ſometimes uſed for that purpoſe.

Ver. 12. His eyes are as the eyes of doves, &c.] Beautiful eyes are here compared to large flocks of milk white doves, ſitting round pools of water: a grand and elegant figure in perſpective, like that chap. vii. 4.

Ver. 14. His hands are as gold-rings.] This may be rendered, "His hands are as golden cylinders ſet in chryſolites, &c." It was cuſtomary with the eaſterns to tinge not only their hair, but alſo their faces, arms, hands, &c.

His belly is as bright ivory, &c.] His belly covered with a purple veſt, is thus elegantly repreſented.

Ver. 15. His legs are as pillars of marble.] That kind of marble is ſignified, which is variegated with different figures, and traverſed with veins, repreſenting his legs finely variegated with veins, which grow the more conſpicuous in proportion to the thinneſs of the ſkin.

Sockets.] The ſoles of his feet.

His countenance is as Lebanon, &c.] This is intended to convey an idea of the tallneſs of his ſtature.

2 My beloved is gone down into his garden, to the beds of ſpices, to feed in the gardens, and to gather lilies.

3 I am my beloveds, and my beloved is mine: he feedeth among the lilies.

4 ¶ Thou art beautiful, O my love, as Tirzah, comely as Jeruſalem, terrible as an army with banners.

5 Turn away thine eyes from me, for they have overcome me: thy hair is as a flock of goats that appear from Gilead.

6 Thy teeth are as a flock of ſheep which go up from the waſhing, whereof every one beareth twins, and there is not one barren among them.

7 As a piece of pomegranate are thy temples within thy locks.

8 There are threeſcore queens, and fourſcore concubines, and virgins without number.

9 My dove, my undefiled is but one; ſhe is the only one of her mother, ſhe is the choice one of her that bare her: the daughters ſaw her, and bleſſed her; yea, the queens and the concubines, and they praiſed her.

10 ¶ Who is ſhe that looketh forth as the morning, fair as the moon, clear as the ſun, and terrible as an army with banners?

11 I went down into the garden of nuts to ſee the fruits of the valley, and to ſee whether the vine flouriſhed, and the pomegranates budded.

12 Or ever I was aware, my ſoul made me like the chariots of Ammi-nadib.

13 Return, return, O Shulamite, return, return, that we may look upon thee: what will ye ſee in the Shulamite? as it were the company of two armies.

NOTES on Chap. VI.

Ver. 1. Whither is thy beloved, &c.] This is the reply of the virgins to the bride, This verſe, both in the Hebrew, Syriac, Vulgate, Arabic, Septuagint, and Ethiopic, is included in the former chapter.

Ver. 2. My boloved is gone, &c.] The bride anſwers, who recollects where the bridegroom might poſſibly be.

Ver. 4. Thou art beautiful—as Tirzah.] The ſpeech of the bridegroom, who meets the bride going in ſearch of him. Tirzah was a beautiful ſituation in the tribe of Ephraim. Jeruſalem was eſteemed the moſt charming place in Paleſtine.

Terrible.] This may ſignify dazzling.

Ver. 8. There are threeſcore queens, &c.] From this paſſage we may infer, that Solomon compoſed this poem in the beginning of his reign, before he had run into the exceſſes mentioned 1 Kings 11. 1. It means that though he had ſo many females in his ſeraglio, yet ſhe who is the heroine of this poem, was the only miſtreſs of his affections.

Ver. 11. The garden of nuts, &c.] This plant delighting in a cold climate was without doubt, valued as a rare and curious exotic in Paleſtine. Here begins the ſixth day's eclogue, and is ſuppoſed to contain the ceremony of putting the bride and bridegroom to bed. The ſolemnity was anciently performed under a tent or pavilion named Hhuppa, the bride chamber. This tent was placed in the garden of nuts, it being uſual with the Jews to celebrate their marriages in the ſummer months in bowers and arbours. The fine bed mentioned chap, iii. 7. was brought hither for this purpoſe, if not the pavilion itſelf. After the words the pomegranate budded, the LXX read, "That "I might there grant thee my breaſts, or my love." This is the ſpeech of the bride.

Ver. 13. O Shulamite.] The Hebrew SHULAMITH, is evidently formed from SHELOMOH, Solomon, as Charlotte from Charles. Here the virgins ſpeak.

What will ye ſee, &c.] This queſtion is ſuppoſed to be made by the bride, and the words, As it were the company of two armies, to be the reply of the virgins. The word rendered company, ſignifies a ruſhing together, after the manner of dancers, and may imply the joy, exultation, and feſtivity of the two choruſſes of virgins and men on this occaſion. Le Clerc aſſigns the whole paſſage to the ſpouſe, and reads, "What will ye ſee in that Shula-"mite, ye who are, as it were, the company of two ar-"mies?" and imagines it alludes to 1 Sam. viii. 7.

HOW beautiful are thy feet with ſhoes, O princes daughter! the joints of thy thighs are like jewels, the work of the hands of a cunning workman.

2 Thy navel is like a round goblet, which wanteth not liquor: thy belly is like an heap of wheat, ſet about with lilies.

3 Thy two breaſts are like two young roes that are twins.

4 Thy neck is as a tower of ivory, thine eyes like the fiſh-pools in Heſhbon, by the gate of Bath-rabbim: thy noſe is as the tower of Lebanon, which looketh toward Damaſcus.

5 Thine head upon thee is like Carmel, and the hair of thine head like purple; the king is held in the galleries.

6 How fair and how pleaſant art thou, O love, for delights!

7 This thy ſtature is like to a palm-tree, and thy breaſts to cluſters of grapes.

Before Chriſt 1014.

8 I ſaid, I will go up to the palm-tree, I will take hold of the boughs thereof: now alſo thy breaſts ſhall be as cluſters of the vine, and the ſmell of thy noſe like apples;

10 ¶ I am my beloveds, and his deſire is towards me.

11 Come, my beloved, let us go forth into the field: let us lodge in the villages.

12 Let us get up early to the vineyards, let us ſee if the vine flouriſh, whether the tender grape appear, and the pomegranates bud forth: there will I give thee my loves.

NOTES on Chap. VII.

Ver. 1. How beautiful are thy feet, &c.] Here we muſt ſuppoſe, that the virgins are now withdrawn into the pavilion, and ſpeak theſe words as they are undreſſing her. They admire her very ſhoes, or rather ſandals, (by whoſe ſhape the beauty of the foot was diſcerned) which uſed to be ſet with gems. Judith's ſandals are mentioned, as part of the finery with which ſhe adorned herſelf to deceive Holofernes, chap. x. 4. and with theſe ſhe is ſaid to have raviſhed his eyes, xvi. 9. This may ſeem to allude to the firſt preachers of the goſpel.

Ver. 2. Thy navel, &c.] Some think this to be deſcriptive of the figures wrought on the bride's garments, or that it inſinuates, that ſhe would not be barren. Perhaps it may allude to the perfumes, which were profuſely laviſhed upon theſe parts, either as an article of luxury, or a preſervative of health.

Thy belly is an heap of wheat, &c.] It was cuſtomary in Paleſtine, after their corn had been beaten out and fanned, to lay it in heaps, and put lilies round them.

Ver. 3. Two young roes.] See note on chap. iv. 5.

Ver. 4. Thine eyes like the fiſh-pools in Heſhbon.] That is, in their undiſturbed ſerenity, or unobſcured brightneſs.

The gate of Bath-rabbim.] This was one of the gates of Heſhbon.

Thy noſe is as the tower of Lebanon.] This reſemblance conſiſts only in the beauty and ſymmetry of proportion.

Ver. 5. Thine head like Carmel.] The head is compared to Carmel not only on account of its eminence, but becauſe it was well covered with wood, as the head itſelf was with thick hair.

The hair of thine head like purple, &c.] This may allude to the practice of tinging their hair, which was black towards the roots, and lightly tinged with the henna of a gold colour towards the extremities. Or the word rendered purple may probably ſignify the Murex, or purple-fiſh itſelf. The beautiful ſpiral ſhell of this fiſh, might be aptly compared to the fine treſſes of an eaſtern bride, wound up in a pyramidal form, and plaited round with ribbands. The latter ſentence may be rendered, either "The king is crowned with an upright or erect turban; or, as in the Engliſh verſion, "The king waiteth in the galleries or anti-chamber. Houbigant reads, "The treſſes of thy hair are like the royal purple, which hangs in feſtoons from the ceilings."

Ver. 6. How fair, &c.] The ſpeech of the bridegroom.

Ver. 7. Like a palm-tree.] That is, tall and ſtraight.

Ver. 9. The roof of thy mouth, &c.] With a few emendations, this may ſignify, "Thy ſpeech is as the choiceſt wine, ſweetly entering into my palate, flowing down ſmoothly through my lips and teeth."

Of thoſe that are aſleep.] We may read, Of the elders or aged.

Ver. 10. His deſire is towards me.] This ſpeech of the bride, breathes all the coy reſerve, affected delays, and modeſt excuſes of a baſhful virgin.

Ver. 13. The mandrakes give a ſmell, &c.] It was a generally received opinion in the eaſt, that mandrakes were of great efficacy to procure love, and therefore were made uſe of in love potions. It is evident the writer meant this our gates are all manner of pleaſant fruits, new and old which I have laid up for thee, O my beloved.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The love of the church to Chriſt. 6 The vehemency of love. 8 The calling of the Gentiles. 14 The church prayeth for Chriſts coming.

O That thou wert as my brother that ſucked the breaſts of my mother! when I ſhould find thee without, I would kiſs thee, yea, I ſhould not be deſpiſed.

2 I would lead thee, and bring thee into my mothers houſe, who would inſtruct me: I would cauſe thee to drink of ſpiced wine of the juice of my pomegranate.

3 His left hand ſhould be under my head, and his right hand ſhould embrace me.

4 I charge you, O daughters of Jeruſalem, that ye ſtir not up, nor awake my love until he pleaſe.

5 (Who is this that cometh up from the wilderneſs, leaning upon her beloved?) I raiſed thee up under the apple-tree: there thy mother brought thee forth, there ſhe brought thee forth that bare thee.

Before Chriſt 1014.

6 ¶ Set me as a ſeal upon thine heart, as a ſeal upon thine arm: for love is ſtrong as death, jealouſy is cruel as the grave: the coals thereof are coals of fire, which hath a moſt vehement flame.

7 Many waters cannot quench love, neither can the floods drown it: if a man would give all the ſubſtance of his houſe for love, it would utterly be contemned.

8 ¶ We have a little ſiſter, and ſhe hath no breaſts: what ſhall we do for our ſiſter in the day when ſhe ſhall be ſpoken for?

9 If ſhe be a wall, we will build upon her a palace of ſilver: and if ſhe be a door, we will encloſe her with boards of cedar.

10 I am a wall, and my breaſts like towers: then was I in his eyes, as one that found favour.

plant, from the word uſed to expreſs the ſmell, which ſignifies a ſtrong or rank ſmell, and is agreeable to that of the common mandrake.

At our gates, &c.] It might be rendered in our boards, the gates of Judea being perhaps the repoſitories of fruits. But it has been thought that this alludes to the cuſtom of decking the gates of new-married perſons with feſtoons of flowers.

NOTES on Chap. VIII.

Ver. 1. O that thou wert as my brother.] I could then ſhew thee in public marks of my love, but now I am aſhamed to do it.

Ver. 2. Who would inſtruct me.] Literally, "Thou ſhouldeſt be conſtantly with me."

I would cauſe thee to drink of ſpiced wine.] The Jews uſed to mix aromatic drugs with their wine; and it was a nuptial rite for the bride and bridegroom to drink out of the ſame cup.

Ver. 5. Who is this that cometh, &c.] The chorus of virgins aſk, Who is this, &c.

I raiſed thee up, &c.] It may be rendered I excited, or ſtirred thee up to love. Inſtead of brought thee forth, we ſhould tranſlate pledged, or ſolemnly contracted thee. It means that the bride's mother had yielded to his ſuit beneath ſome tree, and there promiſed him her daughters conſent.

Ver. 6. Set me as a ſeal, &c.] A proverbial expreſſion. Never forget me. The bride ſpeaks here, and adds, that this requeſt flowed from the intenſeneſs of her love, which was an affection as irreſiſtable as death, eſpecially when heightened by jealouſy, or a fear of loſing the beloved object.

The coals thereof, &c.] It might be tranſlated the darts or arrows thereof, are of a moſt vehement, &c. and implies, that love ſhoots into the heart, wounds it, and burns there; nay inflames it vehemently by the wounds it gives. The metaphor is taken from an arrow ſhot out of a bow, which by the ſwiftneſs of its motion takes fire; or it may allude to the fiery arrows made uſe of in thoſe days. Accordingly the LXX render, The feathers or wings thereof are wings of fire.

Ver. 9. If ſhe be a wall, &c.] Inſtead of a palace of ſilver, we may read, two ſilver towers: The meaning is, we will take care of her in proportion as ſhe is capable of profiting by our bounty, like as men are wont to build on good foundations. The orientals delight in parables and compariſons. The bride's anſwer ſhews that her huſband alludes to her ſiſters growth. Some indeed imagine that the ſenſe is, that they would marry her to a deſerving huſband, which is elegantly deſcribed by the two images in the text; as it is cuſtomary to build towers on a wall, and to faſten a door by putting it cloſe.

pers: every one for the fruit thereof was to bring a thouſand pieces of ſilver.

12 My vineyard which is mine, is before me: thou, O Solomon, muſt have a thouſand, and thoſe that keep the fruit thereof, two hundred.

13 Thou that dwelleſt in the gardens, the companions hearken to thy voice: cauſe me to hear it.

Before Chriſt 1014.

14 ¶ Make haſte, my beloved, and be thou like to a roe, or to a young hart upon the mountains of ſpices.

Ver. 11. A thouſand pieces of ſilver.] Shekels valued at about Two Shillings and four-pence farthing.

Ver. 12. My vineyard, &c.] Though it was cuſtomary among the Jews for the huſband to endow his ſpouſe with a ſum of money at their marriage, yet the bride alſo brought a portion to her huſband. Tobit x. 10. From their being mentioned together we are to ſuppoſe, that the bride's vineyard lay contiguous to that of Solomon at Baal-hamon, which, according to Aben-Ezra, was a place near Jeruſalem, where abundance of people had vineyards. That a vineyard might be a deſirable acquiſition we may learn from the ſtory of Naboth and Ahab.
